OTHER HOOSIER SOLDIERS.

Wherever a Hoosier regiment may be, it is prominent and popular. The 158th was sent east, and is now at Camp Alger, across in Virginia, near Washington. A few notes on them and their camp may be of interest.

A good deal of the rivalry between the regiments of various states is in evidence at Camp Alger. The Hoosiers have a good deal to tell of their neighbors from Kansas. It will be remembered that the governor of that state refused to recognize the National Guard, and sent raw recruits on to Chickamauga and Washington. The men came in boxcars and almost entirely without equipment. They go straggling over the drill grounds like flocks of sheep, and resemble Coxey's famous cavalcade in their evolutions, rather than United States troops. Many of the officers and men are possessed of the Pefferian type of beard, and it is distressing, say the Indiana men, to see the Kansans stepping on one another's whiskers. For all this some of these raw-boned Kansans look like they might have considerable fight in them, and are likely to give a good account of themselves when they have been given time for drill and equipment. The Indiana regiment is now completely equipped, and the derby hat soldiers, that are an amusing feature of some of the drill grounds, are no longer to be seen in Colonel Barnett's command.

Probably the heaviest officer recruited in the Spanish war is Wilbur Starr, the young captain of the Greencastle company, who weighs something like 290 pounds, but for all that moves about in drill as actively as any member of his company. As a member of the Depauw quartette, the young captain is known to thousands of Indiana people who have heard him sing with that organization. So popular is Captain Starr with his company that the young men signed a paper while at Camp Mount, by which they agreed to go home in a body if the captain was rejected by the surgeons. As a result, when Captain Starr stated to the examining surgeon that he weighed over 190 pounds, the doctor let it go at that, and the Greencastle company went to the front. His tent has become a loafing place to such an extent that it is called "Y. M. C. A. No. 2," the reference being to the loafing tents provided by the Y. M. C. A., where crowds of the young recruits are always gathered, writing letters, reading papers and playing games. Captain Starr leads the singing at the religious meetings, and with Dr. Harry K. Langdon of the medical corps, is talking of bringing a piano to camp.

The Indiana regiment, by the way, is at the head of the class on the question of music. The band, which is said to have committed atrocities worse than those of General Weyler in early days of its organization, has improved under the instruction of Director Schurt, until it showed up at the presidential review as the best musical organization at Camp Alger. One of the Vincennes cadets insists that the band should have preserved its original ensemble effect, that it would have repulsed the Spaniards by one rendition of "On the Banks of the Wabash," without the firing of a shot.

WEB WORMS

Either these or some other similar pest, seem to be getting ready for a raid on our maple trees. In passing down South Jackson street Wednesday, we noticed some white bunches, adhering to the maple branches, and cut one off and examined it. Each little white ball was a cup in which sat, half exposed, a short fat, black worm. We do not know exactly how they manage, but have no doubt they get there some way. The web, now a cup shaped ball, can be pulled out several inches and made to include quite a large space, and it would then look a good deal like the white webs that covered our trees several years ago, when so much damage was done to our shade trees. It would be a good plan for everybody to spray his trees, with some sort of poison, now while the worms are exposed, for all the upper half of their bodies are naked. At all events the leaves could be made poison so as to kill them when they feed on them. It will pay to attend to this matter at once, as these worms are on many trees, perhaps on all.

FROM SAMOA

APIA, SAMOA ISLANDS.

EDITOR COURIER:—Under the waving palms I pen these lines for the benefit of your far away readers. The Samoan Islands consist of nine large islands and several small ones. They lay in latitude 13 south and longitude 175 west, hence near where the day begins and ends. While it is Sunday here it is Monday just over in Fee Jee. This island, Upola is 45 miles long and about 20 broad and contains the majority of the white population of the group. The largest island Sawaii is only four miles distant and is as yet unexplored. No one has yet penetrated more than six miles inland. The jungle is as dense that it is necessary to hew your way every step you advance inland. This group contains 35,000 inhabitants of which only a few hundred are white and are mostly engaged in trade. Quite a few have gone into the plantation business and there is at present about 12,000 acres in cultivation around the town of Apia, most of which is in cocoanuts but there are also extensive coffee and cocoa plantations, but coffee does not seem to be a success. A bug destroys the kernel and the cocoanut or copray as the dried cocoanut is called is too cheap to be renumerative. But the cacao or chocolate grows to perfection and promises to be a great success. The soil is very fertile, even the mountain slope are covered with the richest black soil. There are no snakes or wild animals on the islands. The only pests to humanity are mosquitoes and ants and some house flies The average daily temperature runs from 80 to 90 in the shade and the rainfall in the months of December, January, February and March is excessive and during the remainder of the year quite light. The average annual amount of rainfall is 106 inches. Dust is unknown. The natives are the largest and most powerful race known. They are of a brown color, are courteous and polite toward strangers kind and harmless as children, but excessively lazy. They lounge about and smoke cigarettes and feast on taro and bananas and roast pig and fowl. Many do not do a stroke of work and they do not need to as nature will produce everything essential to their happiness without labor. No money is needed, as clothing is not necessary, and food is to be had for the picking it up. A white man can live here without work, but cannot make money without some capital to begin with. I would not advise anyone to come here to get rich, but for a sleepy dreamy life, this is the proper place. White people from the north find the heat here quite opressive and many who come to settle leave on the next steamer on account of the high temperature Do not on any account come to work for wages as the wages are very small and most of the work is performed by blacks brought from the Solomon Islands, who consider $5 per month quite sufficient Very few white people do any work. The Islands are considered very healthy for males but is not advisable to bring white women here on account of troubles peculiar to their sex, which prevails in these Islands. This country suits me but for the sake of my family I may not stay at this place. So good by until I write again.

Yours truly,
JOSEPH A. SHADE.

Democratic Congressional Convention

Notice is hereby given that upon Saturday, the 25th day of June, 1898, at the hour of two o'clock p. m., in the city of Fort Wayne, the Democratic Congressional Convention for the 12th Congressional District of the State of Indiana will convene for the purpose of nominating a candidate for representative in Congress from said 12th Congressional District, to be voted for at the general election to be held in November, 1898. In said Convention the representation will be as follows: Allen County, fifty votes; DeKalb County, eighteen votes; Lagrange County, eight votes, Noble County, fifteen votes; Steuben County, eight votes, Whitley County, twelve votes. This representation is based upon two hundred votes and a fraction over one hundred cast for John B. Stoll in the election of 1896.

THOS R. MARSHALL,
District Chairman.

LETTERS TO THE BOYS.

People ask how we will get letters to the boys in Co. K if they leave the United States to go some where, say to Cuba, or Porto Rico. Letters should be directed as before, to the individual, at Tampa, Florida, and the authorities there will keep track of the place to which the regiment has gone, and forward the mail to them by first chance. And the boys may be kept moving from day to day, to different points, but the letters will be kept following them as well as possible. So write to the boys as usual, "Co. K 157th Ind., Tampa, Florida."

Hair Hints

It is much easier to keep the hair when you have it than it is to restore it when it's lost. If your hair is "coming out" it needs instant attention. The use of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR will promptly stop the hair from falling, and stimulate it to new growth.

"Some years ago my hair began to fall out and I became quite bald. I was advised to try and had used it but a short time when my hair ceased to fall out and a new and vigorous growth made its appearance. My hair is now abundant and glossy."

Ayer's Hair Vigor

Wednesday's Daily.

—Nevin Pommert is helping at Wilson's shoe store now.

—Ben. Martz, a well known and highly respected citizen of Fairfield, died Monday.

—Miss Lona Albright of Mooresville is visiting the families of J. W. Smith and John Baird.

—Dr. Baxter came home this morning from his visit in Harrison county. His wife and her mother, remain there for a time.

—H. W. Maggianis and son were callers this forenoon He is now living over by Newville. Of course he sticks to the old COURIER.

—Harry Martin was a caller at this office this forenoon. He says that since the recent trial, he has learned still more evidence that will go to prove his innocence when the trial comes up again, if it ever does.

Thursday's Daily.

—We have some good second hand Binders for sale, cheap. Culbertson & Boland. 19tf

—James Griswold is having his house nicely painted. Mr. Steves is doing the work.

—Fort Wayne, or rather Robison Park has a big base ball day, June 21. Special rates are given.

—Mabel and Vera Zervis returned from Waterloo this forenoon. They had been visiting relatives there.

—Miss Katie Richards will go to Waterloo today where she will be the guest of her aunt and uncle Mr. and Mrs. Tarring Swarts.

—Cal. VanAuken returned from Angola this morning, where he had been attending to some of the city sewerage plans. He is city engineer of that town, and has been for some time.

—B. F. Billiter publisher of the Farmers Guide of Huntington, Ind., arrived over the L. S. & M. S. last evening and will visit a few days with Cal Husselman at Echo Farm.

—D. D. Metcalf was a caller at our office Wednesday. He is among our earliest DeKalb acquaintances and was a subscriber when we published the "Air Line" in Waterloo in 1870, twenty eight years ago.

—Report reached here this morning that Lad Williamson is dead, having died early this morning. It was known yesterday that he was seriously ill, but as he was naturally a strong and robust boy, little was thought of it.

—S. E. Parker, Sharon, Wis., writes: —"I have tried DeWitt's Witch Hazel for itching piles and it always stops them in two minutes. I consider DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve the greatest pile cure on the market." H. B. McCord.

—Ruthie Borst, J. A. Potter and the Editor of this paper are just of an age, with Wm. Carr only one day off. Ruthie got a nice birthday present Tuesday, a fine lawn swing, and we presume the others were well remembered.

Friday's Daily.

—For McCormick machines, see Culbertson & Boland. 19tf

—Mrs. S. M. High, of Jackson street, drove up town today to do some trading.

—Mrs. John G. Ashley and little daughter returned to her home at New Haven this forenoon after a visit with the relatives here.

—Frank Hogue brings word that his sister, Miss Lydia Hogue is steadily regaining her health. She is at present in Angola under treatment by Dr. Wood.

—James Farmer went over to Pierceton today. He is going to superintend the putting in of an electric light plant there. C. L. Olds, of Fort Wayne, is the contractor.

—Mrs. Hugh Nelson of Hicksville is here visiting her son Mr. Lybarger, the photographer. He will return to Hicksville with her tomorrow to remain there over Sunday.

—Mr. and Mrs. John Zimmerman have returned from Bluffton, where they attended the wedding of her brother, Quin Altenberg. The fortunate girl was Miss Mary Montgomery, of that place. They will reside in Toledo.

The first California plums and apricots we have seen this season are at Garrett's. The are beauties. With these, and abundant oranges lemons, pineapples etc, etc, and our own home berries, his window is a tempting display.

—The Gun Club held their second shoot this afternoon. The shooting began at 2:05 and was finished at 3:55 being 50 minutes for 11 person to fire 25 shots apiece, or 275 in all, being at the rate of 5½ shots a minute. See the score.

—S. P. Jones, Milesburg, Pa., writes —"I have used DeWitt's Little Early Risers ever since they were introduced here and must say I have never used any pills in my family during forty years of house keeping that gave such satisfactory results as a laxative or cathartic." H. B. McCord.

—Strawberries were sold to families at 5 cents yesterday in crates of sixteen quarts and they are of good size and quality. As this is in the first week the home-grown berries have been on the market, it is a thing heretofore unknown. What will they sell at by the close of the season, say, two weeks from now?

—The DeKalb boys always lead especially in good works. The COURIER rejoices at the good news in this clipping from a Delphos, Ohio, paper of recent date. "Mr. John D. Lahnum will speak at the South Franklin street Christian church Wednesday evening, at 7:30. Subject, The Duties of the Christian Life. All are invited to attend and partake of the feast."

Saturday's Daily.

—Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bush were in town this afternoon.

—E. T. Cochran, Sam Culver and John Keeran are the workmen now putting up Cook Ford's addition.

—Sixty cents is the fare for the round trip to Fort Wayne, June 21, when the big ball game comes off.

—Robert Coe is home for his summer vacation. He is a student at the Indiana State University at Bloomington.

—Telphone bells rang in the claps of thunder this afternoon. A man talking at a phone was killed by lightning at Elkhart last week.

—Uncle Anthony Zonker, of Fairfield made us a brief call today. Though well along in years he is about as active as ever and keeps things humming along as usual.

—A. B. Walsworth passed through Auburn this morning, enroute to Brimfield with a wagon load of Shropshire sheep, 8 ewes and 7 lambs, for which he receives $300.00.

—John A. Schaab, of Paulding, is here visiting his brothers and other friends. He is a full fledged farmer now having retired from the stave business to a good farm of the flat, rich lands, that go to make up most of his section of the state, and which are now cleared up and drained.

—At South Bend last week, West, the convicted bank robber, broke out of the new $60,000 jail and is now at large. He had just been sentenced to fourteen years in the penitentiary. His wife was allowed to see him and he was given many privileges by the sheriff, who is being roundly criticised by everybody.

—Margaret Ford says the commencement exercises at Westminster were good in all the various departments. But the school, as a separate institution will cease, and it will be merged with another similar institution, the Coates College of Terre Haute. The location will be continued at Fort Wayne, however.

—Hugh Nelson drove over from Hicksville today and joined Mrs. Nelson here in a visit with Mrs. N's. son, Mr. Lybarger. Here, also they were joined by Mr. Nelson's daughter, Mrs. Walter Able of Concord, and the latter's daughter, Mrs. Phillip Carper who lives east of here. Mrs. Carper brought along her little son, and they had a family group taken to show four generations. As Mr. Nelson is a young looking, well preserved man, and the baby is a little beauty, we don't see why the group should not be a handsome one.

—Read our letter from T. C. Mays, who owned and published the COURIER many years, from Jan. 1, 1871, to July 1, 1878. He is now located at Little Rock, and connected with the "Cotton Belt," a paper published by and in the interest of the "Cotton Belt Railroad." Mr. Mays' letter, is to correct a false impression growing out of the untimely death of Mr. Gilbert, son-in-law to Cooper Altenberg. It will be remembered by COURIER readers, that we gave an account of Miss Altenberg's wedding at the time and spoke of their bright prospects for a happy wedded life. The sad circumstances of his death are correctly given by Mr. Mays and will set at rest the rumors that have been painful to those already bowed in grief.

FROM THE BOYS IN BLUE

I am sitting in my tent, thinking of rambles to and fro,
And I'm drifted back in fancy to the years of long ago;
To those happy days of childhoood, when I loved to hear of battle;
When the soldiers told of victory and the heavy musket rattle.
Oh, those days are passed and gone forever,
And tonight I hear the call to sever
From friends—the call to war is plain,
And the boys in blue are ready to meet the host of Spain.
They have come from the north, the south, the east, the west;
Come as brothers not to fight for selfish gain;
But to free the Cuban toilers from the tyrant rule of Spain.
Yes, though the Cubans' lie by Spaniards crushed,
Devoid of hope yet full of manly trust
They will beat the brutish Spaniard
And the fullest freedom again
For the boys in blue are forming to defeat the host of Spain.
A mighty hand the sword shall wield,
A mighty hand the standard wave
Till from the trumpet's mouth is pealed
The blast of Cuban freedom o'er the Spaniards in his grave.
Now when the war is over and the battles fought and won,
The boys in blue will not all go home
For fall they will, as fall they must;
But beneath them hosts of Spaniards will be lying in the dust.

DEAR MA:—

I am here, 200 miles from Cuba and I am feeling the best I have since I left Indianapolis, the sea breeze just agrees with me. I suppose you all wonder how I feel since I know I have to land in Cuba, or some place near there. Well I can say I have a feeling that I want to do it and then it will be over, if I live to see it over, and I hope I will but if I don't I can't. It's bad enough here, a fellow has his life in his hand all the time, but I do the best I can. I sleep with Maj. Kuhlman and I am treated so nice by him and his staff. I never get a cross word, from any of them, and if the Maj. gets home and I don't, always remember he treated me so well, and go and see his wife. Capt. Lahnum is so good to me too, and his wife always says something about me when she writes. I think sometimes if it wasn't for the people that remember me I would't care if I lived or not. Well I think we will go to Cuba inside of ten days, sure, and when we do we will get to use our guns I think. I expect when we get into a fight I will think, but will do as I am ordered We left Ringgold, Ga., at 8 o'clock, Wednesday night and got here Friday noon. It was a tiresome trip, nothing to see but negroes. Tell the folks I talked with a Cuban and he seemed to be a good fellow. He explained how he could use his knife and he was very handy too. He could strike three times as quick as a common person could. Tell Frank that I see the southern negroes by the thousand, as he used to tell about. Mean, I never saw the like. Well I must close, write as soon as you can. Your Son, ROY.

THE NEW WAY.

WOMEN used to think "female diseases" could only be treated after "local examinations" by physicians. Dread of such treatment kept thousands of modest women silent about their suffering. The introduction of Wine of Cardui has now demonstrated that nine-tenths of all the cases of menstrual disorders do not require a physician's attention at all. The simple, pure taken in the privacy of a woman's own home insures quick relief and speedy cure. Women need not hesitate now. Wine of Cardui requires no humiliating examinations for its adoption. It cures any disease that comes under the head of "female troubles"—disordered menses, falling of the womb, "whites," change of life. It makes women beautiful by making them well. It keeps them young by keeping them healthy. $1.00 at the drug store.

For advice in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, the Ladies' Advisory Department, The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

W. I. ADDISON, M.D., Cary, Miss., says: "I use Wine of Cardui extensively in my practice and find it a most excellent preparation for female troubles."

LATEST WAR NEWS.

Thursday's Daily.

After the fights at Guantanamo, Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights, between the U. S. marines and the Spaniards, there was a lull till Tuesday morning, when our men and a force of Cuban insurgents marched out about five miles and attacked the Spanish camp and drove them off. The insurgents lost two men and we had one wounded. It is not known how many the Spaniards lost.

Havana has been getting food sent by parties in Mexico to the Isle of Pines, south of Cuba, and then taken over in small boats and taken across by land.

The big army on sea will in a day or two relieve the small force of marines holding Guantanamo.

The soldiers sent to Dewey have been reported as almost there.

There are said to be forty-nine recruiting officers in various parts of Indiana, today, getting men to fill up companies already mustered in under the first call, or to be mustered in under the second call.

Friday's Daily.

The invading army has been seen go past the Dry Tortugas near Key West. It is now supposed that our government has been telling about delays in starting this expedition just to deceive the Spaniards and throw them off their guard. Not a bad plan, but it would pay to hurry up a little.

It appears we have knocked to pieces the Spanish forts at several other points near by Guantanamo, where the fighting has been done lately. We want to keep a large territory clear so there shall be no danger of a surprise when we come to land.

Last night about 3,000 horses and mules at the camp at Tampa, took fright at something and stampeded. They were so frightened they paid no attention to where they were going but ran over and trampled everything in their way. The soldiers tried to stop them by firing shots over them and then at them. But it did no good. Many soldiers were trampled on and it is feared some were killed.

Cervera cables from inside Santiago harbor that one big shell fired by the Yankees into the air and over a hill, struck squarely on one of the largest of his iron-clad cruisers. But the armor was so thick that little or no harm was done.

The native Cubans who are helping us to hold Guantanamo till our army can get there, have won great praise by their fighting qualities.

One Spanish soldier at Guantanamo came in and surrendered. He said there were thousands who would come and do the same only they are afraid we would kill them. He said they were in great need of food and water.

Saturday's Daily.

The President will soon issue a proclamation as to the government of the Phillipine Islands and other islands that we may get hold of. The tariff laws already in force under Spanish rule will be followed as nearly as possible, except that oppressive and unjust dues will be changed. A revenue collector for Manila has already been chosen.

The second call is likely to give Indiana another regiment after all. It is a queer condition of things, to see a nation at war, and all the time unhappy because her government will not call for as many men as are anxious to go and fight. No draft is needed this time.

It is now believed we are not taking Santiago for the purpose of getting a place from which to operate against Havana, but for the simple purpose of destroying the Spanish fleet. If this fleet, which is now known to be all in there, can be destroyed, it will be difficult for Spain to get another fleet as big, and her power at sea will be destroyed. We can then take our time to finish the war, if Spain does not give up.

Our second fleet with soldiers started for Manila from SanFrancisco, Thursday. Still another one is being prepared and will start in a few days. This will give Dewey an army large enough to make him safe.

Now comes another rumor that the "Cadiz" fleet is coming. At first it was said to be coming straight over here, as it has been said for several weeks and had over twenty ships. Then it was said to be going east into the Mediterranean. But the fleet that passed Gibraltar going through the straits, was counted, and there were ten in all. If they go east, it means Manila.

The Santiago expedition it is belived will be landed tomorrow.

Insurgents are closing in on Manila and may capture it before our troops get there. The Spanish defenders are about exhausted.

Dewey has sent a correct list of the fleet he destroyed. They are: Two protected cruisers, five unprotected cruisers, one transport and one serving vessel, both armed. He captured one gunboat and one transport. Other nations are sending warships there to protect their interest.

OLD SETTLERS.

The early morning was so cold that the old settlers and others came in slowly and late. But by eleven o'clock they were ready to organize. Judge McClellan the president, being dead and O. C Clark, the vice-president too sick to attend, Hon. Free Kelley was chosen to preside. A song was the first in order and then the prayer by Rev. T. M. Guild. D. Z. Hoffman secretary read the minutes of the last meeting which were adopted. A committee of five was chosen to select officers for next year. They were J. E Rose, R G, Daniels, W. L. Blair, Wellington Farrington and one whose name escaped us.

They then adjourned to meet at 2 p. m.

AFTERNOON.

At 2 p. m. the meeting was called to order by Mr. Kelley and prayer offered by Rev. W. L. Meese. Then came the first regular address, that by Rev. W. Hoyt of the Baptist church here. He was followed by Hon. Free Kelley and he by Mr. Sam Haines of Richland, the man who cleared the the trees off the beautiful grounds in which he was speaking. He was followed by Gen. Blair and by G. I. Patterson, the last named calling on the old settlers from Richland to come on the stage and let the present generation see them. We go to press before we can get all the proceedings.

RIGHT IN IT.

That's where Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is. The greatest remedy for the stomach that was ever put together. Absolutely vegtable with the exception of the Pepsin. Are you constipated? Then try Syrup Pepsin. Have you indigestion or sick headache? Then use Syrup Pepsin. Spend 10c for a trial bottle and you will be convinced. Large sizes 50c and $1 00. A true family remedy. At F. E. Davenports.

JUSTICES' COURTS

The courts of our local justices have been pretty lively for a few days. Day before yesterday, Tuesday, another case from Garrett was before Squire Walter. A young man of that place had been arrested, on the affidavit of Mr Klink for using profane and obscene language in the presence of ladies. Prosecutor Pomeroy took him in hand, and when he came to face the music, he weakened, plead guilty and was fined $5 and the usual trimmings. Now when he feels like making a nuisance of himself, he will probably go out behind the barn and swear at the cattle.

Another case came up yesterday, this time in Justice Walborn's court. A man from up in Fairfield somewhere, whose name we did not learn, had an old grudge against Mrs. Ella Shatto. Last fall, it appears he wanted to borrow Mr. Shatto's gun, and was refused. It appears he held this up against her, and recently when she called to visit his mother, he ordered her out of the house, took hold of her and jerked her about. He was arrested for assault and battery, and he also, plead guilty He was fined $1 which with various items of costs amounted to about $14 86. It would have been cheaper if he had tackled a man and got whipped.

For Their Boyhood Homes

Yesterday two of our best known Auburn pioneers started on a trip back to the home of their boyhood days. They were Dr. Ford and Phillip Fluke They go to attend the Ford reunion which is held somewhere in that section each year. They went from here to Ashland, and the reunion is held at Savannah Lake, on the farm where Dr. Ford was raised, his people moving to it when he was about eight years old. It goes without saying, they will have a nice time. Mr. Fluke's first wife being a sister of Dr. Ford, makes him eligible to attend all these meetings. After the visit there, Dr. Ford will go to Harrison county and visit in that locality, including the old home farm where he was born. They will be gone a week or two and we trust will have an enjoyable visit.

THE HAWAIIAN QUESTION

It is well known that a year ago this paper was not favorable to the annexation of the Sandwich Islands. We were opposed to the manner in which it was being pushed, than even to the thing itself. There was and still is no doubt but the movement was being pushed by a set of local politicians and men of wealth, who had axes to grind. It was and is yet true that the great bulk of people are opposed to it, or at least do not care for it. And then too, the first steps taken were decidedly illegal and without justice to the then queen or her subjects. But now, right or her wrong, the queen is out of the way and what little government there is, is in hands of those who forced her out. She has no show for regaining the throne that was torn from her, and it is now, simply a question, whether these important islands shall remain in the hands of the usurpers who now are in power, or whether they shall pass into the control of some already established nation. And if it goes into the hands of some other nation, as in the nature of things it soon must, we are not willing it shall be taken by any other nation than the United States. The time to take the islands, if we do take them, is now, before any internation complications arise. Now if ever, they are free to select the nation into whose hands they wish to fall And now if ever the United States, is in a shape to take them without getting into any foreign complications. And now, if ever, the United States has use for them. A year ago, we had no use for them, unless it might be for a coaling station. But we had already bought of them, and therefore owned by a title all nations respect, the title by purchase, of a fairly good harbor, for coaling purposes, Pearl Harbor But now, we need not only a coaling station but a stopping place for our vessels, especially for vessels of war, a port from which we cannot be order out, in case of war, as we were in April ordered but of Hong Kong. And while it was a piece of good fortune to us and to Dewey, that he was ordered away, it may not happen that way again in a thousand years.

Another reason we had for not wishing to annex Hawaii, was that urged by Speaker Reed, and by nearly every American statesman from Washington to McKinley. And that is, that our policy as a nation has always been to confine ourselves to the main land of America and not to seek foreign possessions. Up to the present time, this policy was the proper one. But now, we believe a change of policy is coming. It is already on us. We are engaged in a war with a distant nation, and in order to cripple her, we must take some of her distant islands possessions. The minute we do this, our old-time foreign policy is blown to the winds. For if we take these islands, we shall undoubtedly keep some of them. If we keep the smallest of them, then we have left the main land, and our possessions are to a certain extent mixed with those of distant nations. If, as now appears certain, we are to be complicated with lands and nations off our continent, let us begin it in a peaceful way. Let us annex the Hawaiian Islands Let us do it at once. If we stop at those islands now, with the ships and troops going to help Dewey, there are nations who are liable to object. And in the common acception of international law, they have a right to object. Let us own these islands, and then we can stop there with anything we use or own, and no nation has a right to interfere. So we frankly admit that we have changed our opinion on this question. We are glad to see that congress also is likely to change and from having a majority against annexation, is pretty certain now to have a majority in favor of it.

IT IS STRANGE

that some people who say they never read patent medicine advertisements will be found lugging home every now and then a bottle of some favorite remedy of theirs, We don't bother you with much reading but just ask you to try a 10c trial bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for constipation, indigestion and stomach troubles. 50c and $1,00 sizes. DAN WEBSTER'S DEATH.

We learn from the Magnet that "Dan" the colored man so long employed by W. G. Croxton and whose sudden death we recently published in a special from that place, had an interesting history. He was born a slave in Tennessee, but at the close of the war came north with Col. Carpenter of Warsaw. He later lived with Congressman Billy Williams, and then a few years with Mr. Croxton's brother Capt. Jack Croxton at Goshen, but for a number of years now he had been with Mr. Croxton at Angola. His death was very sudden and he was greatly mourned for in all his long residence in Angola; he had made an excellent record as a citizen. He was buried from the Croxton home and in the family vault, the pall bearers being four colored citizens of that place. His true name is believed to have been Bludsoe, the name of his old master but on coming north he called himself Daniel Webster. He had many interesting incidents of slave days that he could tell when he felt like talking of old times.

COMMISIONERS' WORK.

Several days had to be taken up in hearing and examining the reports of treasurer, clerk and sheriff and going through the auditor's books to examine the receipts and disbursements, as required by law.

Another liquor license was granted. It was to J. P. Frederick.

J. W. Henderson, trustee of Concord township presented a petition to permit him to build a new school house in Spencerville. He showed he had put up notices to that effect. May 8, in the postoffice at Concord, in the postoffice at Spencerville and in Erick's store and at St. Joe in the Big four and in Barney's store. The old building is unsafe. He has now $1000 in special school fund, will have $400 more in December, but this will all be needed for current expenses. So he asks the right to go in debt $5000, to be raised and paid in five yearly payments of $1000 each. This was granted.

LATEST WAR NEWS.

A Hurried Move On Porto Rico.

President McKinley Insists That the Expedition Leave

By the End of the Week, if Possible----General Miles May Command.

A Batch of Miscellaneous Telegraph News from All Parts of the World.

Porto Rico Next.

The President has given Secretary Alger and Gen. Miles most urgent orders to exhaust every resource of the War Department and the army in getting Gen. Coppinger's Porto Rican expedition aboard ship and away at the earliest possible moment. He wants the transports to sail from Fernandina by next Saturday if this feat can be accomplished, and he has given his subordinates to understand plainly that he thinks it ought to be with the practically unlimited resources of men, money and supplies at their command. Gen. Miles may command the expedition.

Another Revolutionary Uprising Quelled.

Cape Haytien special: Another revolutionary uprising in Port au Prince has been quelled after a fierce battle. The revolt broke out Friday night and the streets were quickly filled with rioters. Troops were called from the armories at the beginning of the outbreak and their appearance was the signal for a battle. Before the revolutionists broke and ran under the fire of the soldiers, two men had been shot. Many arrests were made.

Heavy Wisconsin Tobacco Sale.

Viroqua (Wis.) special: The largest individual sale of tobacco in Wisconsin for years has just been made. L. P. Sulter and F. J. Collman, representing Sulter Brothers of Chicago and Philadelphia, purchased the entire 1897 packing of M. H. Bakkedal of Westby and Soldiers Grove, amounting to over 3,300 cases. The purchase was a cash deal above $80,000.

The Torch for Caimanera.

The Cuban scouts report that the inhabitants of Caimanera have strewn the streets with straw oil with the intention of destroying the city and fleeing to the hills. It is also stated that the Spanish gunboat at Caimanera has been loaded with inflammables and will be burned with the city.

Disastrous Fire.

While 200 men were at work in the tin shop of Armour & Co.'s packing establishment at the Union Stock Yards, Chicago, hurrying work on war supplies, fire, which started in the boiler room adjoining, destroyed the three-story brick building. The loss is estimated at $100,000.

Maledictions for America.

Havana special: At an insular Cabinet meeting Senor Galvey finished a speech with these words:

"May the heavenly vault sink and bury all the United States in an abyss before the sole of an American invader shall tread this Spanish soil."

Ten Buildings Burned.

At Grove City, Penn., ten buildings were destroyed by fire, among them the principal structures of the town. A number of people had narrow escapes from being burned. The origin of the fire is unknown. The loss will probably reach $50,000.

The Cadiz Squadron.

The Gibraltar correspondent of the London Telegraph says: "Admiral Camara's squadron has arrived at Cartagena. The destination of the fleet is not known, but it is believed it will be used to deceive the Americans."

Kansas Man Kills His Wife.

Mrs. John P. Sawyer was shot and killed at Moline, Kan., by her husband, who mistook her for a burglar. Mrs. Sawyer had arisen and stepped onto the rear porch. Sawyer, who is prominent, may lose his mind.

Famous Painter Is Dead.

London special: Sir Edward Burne-Jones, the painter, is dead, aged 65 years. He was knighted in 1894.

Aground Off Weymouth.

London special: The Union line steamship Briton, from Table Bay, for Southampton, with more than 1,000 passengers on board, is aground on Shambles, off Weymouth. The sea is calm and the vessel is not in any danger. Her passengers are safe aboard her.

A New Cabinet.

President Faure has invited M. Ribot to form a new French cabinet. It is probable that he will accept the undertaking, which will not prove difficult under present circumstances.

Tornado in Texas.

A tornado descended on Riddleville, Texas, and three people were killed outright. A boy's skull was crushed and he fatally injured. Several other people were injured by the tornado, many limbs being broken. Much damage is reported and small houses were demolished.

Granite Plant Burned.

The most disastrous fire ever known in Barre, Vt., occurred the other night, when Mackie, Hussey & Co.'s granite plant was totally destroyed. It was the second largest granite plant in New England, the loss being $100,000. The fire is supposed to be the work of an incendiary.

JOHN BECKER LYNCHED.

Murderer of a Girl Meets Death at Hands of a Mob.

At Great Bend, Kan., in the public square a murderer was lynched the other evening by a mob of probably 500 persons. The victim was John Becker, a white man, 50 years of age, who, on April 8, killed Myrtle Huffmeister, the 16-year-old daughter of William Huffmeister, a farmer, living near there. Becker was taken from the jail at Hutchinson to Great Bend for preliminary examination. In the early part of the evening the mob was swarming around the jail. Evidently believing that he could outwit the lynchers by flight, the sheriff rushed Becker from the jail to his buggy, but he had no sooner done so than he and his men and the prisoner were surrounded. Seizing the murderer, they bore him to the public square. There a rope was drawn around Becker's neck, and after he had been beaten almost to insensibility the rope was thrown over a limb of a big tree and he was drawn up.

KILLED IN A CLOUDBURST.

Artificial Lake's Dam Swept Away and Houses Carried Off in Kansas.

A cloudburst in the vicinity of Chelsea Park, a suburban pleasure resort about three miles southwest of Kansas City, Kan., is believed to have caused the death of at least five persons, and possibly more. An artificial lake had been made in the park by the building of a dam across Jersey Creek. The flood of water carried away this dam and a torrent poured out over the lowlands along the creek. Half a dozen houses standing near Jersey Creek were carried away. Mrs. Greenlee, living in 13th street, near the creek, was drowned, being swept away with her house. Robert Koknote, his wife and their two children are missing, and are believed to have perished. Their house was near that of Mrs. Greenlee. Three other persons are reported to have been drowned, but their names are unknown.

MINERS FEAR PIRATES.

Klondikers Afraid to Trust Their Gold on Unescorted Steamers.

The first boat from Dawson is expected at San Francisco about July 4. But it is not likely that many miners will trust their gold on a vessel unless she is escorted by a government steamer. There is a very general impression around Dawson that pirates have banded together to attack a gold-carrying vessel on the high seas and loot her. Mr. Stanley, of Seattle, has two sons at Dawson who have $600,000 in gold dust and they are firm in their statements that they will not trust their gold on any unescorted vessel. The pirates are supposed to be from sound country. Ship captains from sound ports have heard nothing definite regarding the existence of pirates, but they say miners are sure of a plot and that unless vessels are protected no gold will be brought down from Yukon.

Shore Signals for the Navy.

How to signal from the land to a ship at sea has always been a difficult question. All devices fall short of requirements when it is necessary to carry on a conversation between the land and ships. One Ardois has now perfected a device by which this signaling can be accomplished. The invention is known as the Boughton telephotos. One of them is now being set up to add to the already nearly perfect system of defense at Sandy Hook. It consists of an arrangement of lights on a high tower. By means of it the signal officer will be able to sit in his little cabin at the top of the tower and by the use of a keyboard, not differing materially from that of a typewriter, carry on a conversation with a vessel far out at sea. The tower is about sixty feet high and is open, except for two cabins built in it, one three-quarters of the way up and the other on top. The upper cabin is slit by a narrow window the whole breadth of the side exposed to the sea. From this the lookout may sweep with his glasses the whole expanse of ocean from Far Rockaway to Scotland Lightship. Red and white are the only colors used in signaling, and the code is easily indicated on the cover by placing underneath the letters of the alphabet a number of red and white circles, corresponding to the number of red and white lights shown, to indicate the same letter outside. Thus, under the letter O there would be, say, three red circles and one white. On the outside of the tower are a number of arms stretching out at right angles to it. On these arms the electric lights are arranged all with red or white globes and of sufficient size to be seen miles out at sea. The mechanism by which the lights are operated from the keys is a secret.

Regulars and Volunteers Clash.

A serious riot occurred in the notorious town of Phoebus, one mile from Old Point Comfort, Va., between the Maryland volunteers encamped there and the regulars from Fortress Monroe. At one time more than 800 men were fighting in the street and the civil authorities were powerless to quell the disturbance. The troops had just been paid off and some of the more unruly spirits among them were bent on trouble. The regulars and volunteers clashed and the riot was precipitated before any one realized what had happened. The civil authorities asked for aid, and Col. Lane of the First Maryland regiment sent two details under Lieuts. Roman and Riley, while the officer of the day at Fort Monroe took a company of regulars over to quell the riot. The troops deployed at Phoebus and closed in on the rioters, capturing seventy-five prisoners, regulars and volunteers. These were marched back to the fort and imprisoned.

England Obtains Mirs Bay.

It is reported from Shanghai that the Chinese Government has signed an agreement ceding to England a strip of the mainland opposite Hong Kong, negotiations for which have been in progress for some time. As the new boundary includes Kowloon and Mirs Bay, it may be necessary for American dispatch boats to find a new base in Chinese waters, in order not to offend against the English neutrality laws.

Leaps Into the Mississippi.

At St. Paul, Paul J. Tustin of San Francisco was out riding with Charles A. Davis of the Forepaugh-Sells circus and other friends, and when on the Wabasha street bridge a wager was made that he would not dive into the Mississippi river, 100 feet below. Tustin immediately mounted the railing and leaped, turning a somersault and striking feet first. He swam ashore and was entirely uninjured.

French Cabinet Resigns.

When the French ministers reassembled the other day Meline handed President Faure the resignation of the whole cabinet, which the President accepted, while requesting the ministers to continue the direction of affairs until their successors are named.

Senator Aldrich Re-elected.

United States Senator Nelson W. Aldrich was re-elected by the Rhode Island Legislature on the first ballot. The vote on joint ballot is as follows: Aldrich, 96; Benjamin Andrews, 3; L. E. Garvin, 1.

To Prison for Ten Years.

Thomas Collins, a Bessemer, Ala., liquor merchant, was sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary for killing Contractor J. L. Howell last December.

Fatal Collision at Sea.

Six lives were lost in a collision between the North German Lloyd liner Ems and the British schooner Gypsum Princess off the Nantucket south shoal lightship in a dense fog. The Ems was bound for New York from Genoa, Naples and Gibraltar. Those lost were: David Merriam, captain of the schooner; his wife, his son Edgar, who was his first mate; a daughter, 14 years old, and another son, 5 years old, and Sandford Murray, the cook. Six of the Gypsum Princess' crew were rescued by the Ems. The schooner was cut into halves by the liner, and sank three minutes after the prow had entered her port side amidships. Two big rents were made in the starboard bow of the Ems on the water line. Both opened the way for the seas to the forepeak, which was quickly flooded. Pumps were manned, and the work of keeping free the compartment adjoining the forepeak was continued until the Ems reached port. Captain Harrassowits of the Ems believes the collision would have been avoided but for the similarity of the signals on the Nantucket south shoal ship and those sounded on the Gypsum Princess. He and the officers on the bridge with him mistook the ship's signals for those on the lightship. The thirty-four cabin and 301 steerage passengers on the Ems were thrown into a panic. It required a long time to assure them that they were in no danger. The Gypsum Princess was valued at $30,000 and her cargo at $3,000. She was built at Parrsboro, N. S., in 1892, and was owned by J. B. King & Co. of that place.

SCHOONER AND CARGO BURN.

Crew of the Shenandoah at Norfolk Forced to Desert the Vessel.

The British schooner Shenandoah, Captain Gibson, bound from Norfolk, Va., to Berbice, British Guiana, with 126,000 staves and heading, was burned to the water's edge while anchored in Hampton roads, the cargo being a total loss. The fire was first discovered by the anchor watch, who at once reported to the captain. All hands turned out, and did everything possible to save the vessel, but were compelled to abandon her in haste. The only articles saved were the schooner's papers. Soon after leaving the vessel her masts went by the board and the hull was wrapped in flames from stem to stern. The loss is partly covered by insurance. Captain Gibson says he has no idea how the fire started.

JAPANESE FOR PERU.

Subject of the Mikado Wanted by the South American Country.

H. Furnkama, secretary of the Japanese legation at the City of Mexico, is on his way to San Francisco, whence he will sail for Peru, where he goes on official business. The object of his visit to South America is to examine a colonization scheme recently laid before the Mikado by the Peruvian Government. The South American country is anxious to import large numbers of Japanese to be employed as farm laborers in Peru, and the secretary of the Japanese legation at the Mexican capital has been instructed to carefully investigate the agricultural conditions of Peru and report to his Government. If he reports favorably the laborers will be sent.

Decision Against Trust Companies.

In the Missouri Supreme Court, sitting en banc, an opinion by Judge Burgess was rendered granting the petition of Attorney General Crow for a writ granting the petition of ouster against the St. Louis trust companies, which are doing a general banking business, contrary to their charters and the State banking law. The decision does not prohibit the trust companies from receiving deposits, but compels them to pay interest thereon.

Exposition in Winnipeg.

In a report to the State Department at Washington, United States Consul Graham at Winnipeg says that the Winnipeg Industrial Exposition Association will hold its eighth annual exposition at Winnipeg from July 11 to 18 next, and urges a liberal patronage by manufacturers and dealers of the United States as the best means of bringing American goods to the favorable notice of the people of the dominion.

Rebel Leader Captured.

Information has reached the State Department at Washington that the revolution which has prevailed in Venezuela for the past six months ended by the defeat and capture of Hernandez, its leader. The people celebrated the termination of the revolution by public demonstrations. As a result President Andrade remains more firmly than ever seated in the executive office in Caracas.

SUMMARY OF THE WAR TAXES.

Classified List of Licenses, Excise and Special Stamp Taxes of the New Law.

THE new war revenue bill has become a law. President McKinley made it such by affixing his signature Monday afternoon, and as originally provided the act went into effect on the day succeeding its passage. Few branches of industry and commercial life are exempted from the operation of the law. Business men will therefore find the following classified summary of the provisions of the bill not only convenient, but invaluable, for constant reference:

Annual License Taxes.

BANKERS.

On capital and surplus, $50 on $250,000 capital; $2 on each additional $1,000.

BROKERS.

Yearly license tax, $50 and stamp tax of 5 cents on each $100 of face value on bonds, stocks, shares, etc., and 2 cents on each $100 of face value on each note or memorandum of sale.

COMMERCIAL BROKERS.

Yearly license tax of $20.

CUSTOM HOUSE BROKERS.

Yearly license tax of $10.

INSURANCE AGENTS.

Yearly license tax of $12 and stamp taxes on life policies of 10 cents on each $100; marine, inland, fire, casualty, fidelity and guarantee insurance, one-half of 1 cent on each $1 premium charged.

MANUFACTURERS OF MIXED FLOUR.

Four cents on each barrel and an annual license tax of $12.

PROPRIETORS OF PUBLIC SHOWS.

Theaters, museums, concert halls, circuses, $100. All other public entertainments, $10. Bowling alleys, billiard rooms, $5 for each alley or table.

This provision regarding theaters and concert halls applies to cities of over 25,000.

PAWNBROKERS.

Yearly license tax of $20.

General Taxes.

BREWERS.

On beer, lager, ale, porter and all fermented liquors, $2 per barrel of 31 gallons, less 7½ per cent. on stamps purchased for such tax.

CIGARMAKERS.

Three dollars and 60 cents on each 1,000 cigars weighing more than three pounds; $1 per 1,000 weighing less than three pounds, and an annual tax on sales at the rate of $6 on 100,000 cigars; $12 on 200,000 cigars; $24 on more than 200,000 cigars.

CIGARETTE MAKERS.

Three dollars and 60 cents on every 1,000 cigarettes weighing more than three pounds; $1.50 on every 1,000 weighing less than three pounds.

IMPORTERS OF TEA.

Ten cents a pound on all teas.

SUGAR AND PETROLEUM REFINERS.

One-quarter of 1 per cent. on annual gross receipts in excess of $250,000.

TOBACCO MANUFACTURERS.

Twelve cents per pound on all tobacco and snuff and an annual tax, based on yearly sales at the rate of $6 on 50,000 pounds or less; $12 on more than 50,000 pounds; $24 on 100,000 pounds.

Special Stamp Taxes.

BROKERS.

Two cents on each note or memorandum of sale and $50 annual license tax.

PARLOR AND SLEEPING CARS.

One cent on every ticket sold for seat or berth.

"SCHEDULE B," MANUFACTURERS.

(a) Of medicinal, proprietary articles and preparations; (b) all articles made under patented right or trademark (except food products and commercial fertilizers); (c) perfumery, cosmetics, etc., must pay stamp taxes at the rate of ¼ of 1 cent on 5 cent articles, ½ of 1 cent on 10 cent articles, ⅝ of a cent between 10 and 15 cent articles; ⅝ of a cent on 25 cent articles and ⅝ of a cent for each additional 25 cents retail price.

NOTE.—Dealers in above enumerated articles must stamp goods in stock at these rates when sold at retail.

(d) Chewing gum, 4 cents on each package of a retail value of $1; (e) mixed flour, 4 cents on each barrel and an annual license tax of $12.

Miscellaneous Stamp Taxes.

In addition to stamp taxes already enumerated, the following are imposed:

Penalties.

Violation of the act by evasion of the stamp act on proprietary and patented articles is punishable by a fine of $500 or six months' imprisonment. Evasion of the stamp tax on documents, papers, etc., is punishable by a fine of $100. Forging or counterfeiting stamps is punishable by a fine of $1,000, or confinement at hard labor for five years.

GREAT WHEAT CROP PROMISED.

Larger Acreage and Finer Condition than for Many Years.

Preliminary returns of the spring wheat acreage, with the two Dakotas in particular subject to revision, indicate a total area seeded of 16,800,000 acres, which, added to the area in winter wheat, 26,200,000 acres, makes a total of wheat acreage of 43,000,000, or rather more than 3,500,000 acres greater than last year. There is an increase of 8 per cent in Minnesota, 22 in Iowa, 10 in Nebraska, 11 in North Dakota, 8 in South Dakota, 5 in Oregon and 20 in Washington.

The average condition of winter wheat is 90.8, as compared with 78.5 at the corresponding date last year, and 81.6, the average for the last ten years. The principal averages are as follows:

New York	98	Michigan	97
Pennsylvania	96	Indiana	95
Maryland	98	Missouri	96
Tennessee	93	Kansas	104
Kentucky	99	California	83
Ohio	87

The average condition of spring wheat is the almost, if not entirely, unprecedented one of 100.9, as compared with 89.6 on June 1, 1897, and 92.5, the average for the last ten years. Nearly all the States of principal production report a condition exceeding that indicative of a full normal crop, North Dakota reporting 104, South Dakota 103, Nebraska 105, Iowa 102, Minnesota 100, Oregon 101 and Washington 97.

GREAT INCREASE OF EXPORTS.

Fiscal Year 1898 Helps Farmer More than Any Previous One.

The farmers of the United States are drawing upon other parts of the world for more money in the fiscal year which ends with this month than in any preceding year in the history of the country. Even the high-water mark of 1892, when our exports of agricultural products amounted to $799,328,282, will be surpassed by the record of the year which closes with this month. The preliminary reports of May exportations which have reached the bureau of statistics made it quite apparent that the agricultural exports of the year will be considerably in excess of $800,000,000, the total for the year being likely to reach $835,000,000.

Compared with the last fiscal year, the increase in exports of agricultural products will be fully $150,000,000. In breadstuffs alone the exports of the year will amount to nearly $1,000,000 for each business day, and will be more than $100,000,000 in excess of last year's exports. Of wheat the value of the exports for 1898 will be more than double those of 1897, while the increase in flour will be nearly 50 per cent, and of corn nearly 50 per cent in value. Provisions—in which term are included beef and hog and dairy products—show also a marked increase, the total exports of provisions for the year being likely to reach $180,000,000 in value.

RUSSIA TO BUILD GREAT CANAL

Will Connect Black and Baltic Seas and Cost $97,000,000.

The current issue of the publication by the office of naval intelligence presents a detailed account of an immense canal about to be undertaken by Russia, which will connect the Black and Baltic seas, and will enable her to concentrate her fleets at either end in less than seven days. The canal's entire length will be 1,080 miles, but by using the rivers the artificial construction will extend only 125 miles. The cost of the entire construction is estimated at $97,000,000.

Fought a Duel in France.

Count Boniface de Castellane, who married Miss Anna Gould, of New York, engaged in a duel in Paris with M. Henri Turot, of the Petite Republique Française. Three rounds were fought with swords and M. Turot was wounded in each round, twice slightly and the third time severely, in the right forearm, thus ending the duel.

LEITER DEAL FAILS.

END OF THE GREAT WHEAT CAMPAIGN.

Daring Speculator Stayed in Too Long and Is Forced to Liquidate—Big Demand for Margins Swamp Him—History of the Famous Deal.

Panic in the Pit.

Chicago special:

Joseph Leiter, whose gigantic operations in wheat have made his name famous throughout the commercial world, and whose winnings in the pit have been estimated at $5,000,000 in assured profits, has in all probability met with reverses which will fall little short of a Waterloo. Leiter's famous wheat deal ended Monday most unexpectedly in a complete collapse. His futures were sold out in Chicago and Minneapolis at a loss, and his cash wheat turned over to the banks as trustees. It was rumored that he was embarrassed, and he did not deny it, but said it was only temporary, he hoped.

Prices in the Northwest were panicky, dropping 22 to 23 cents. In Chicago there was great excitement, with declines of 11 cents on June and July and 4⅝ cents on September. In about a month declines have been as striking as were the advances early in May. The top prices in the leading markets, compared with the low point Monday, made an important showing, as follows:

Chicago	$1.85	$ .85
New York	1.91	.81½
Minneapolis	1.60	.89⅝
Duluth	1.80	.90
St. Louis	1.40	.71
Liverpool	1.64	1.22

The effect on the market when the news of the collapse came was that June wheat fell off 10 cents, July 11 cents, September 2⅞ cents and December 3⅞ cents. A rally followed the decline on the announcement that no assignment would take place and that the cash wheat would not be slaughtered.

Leiter's great grain deal, beginning April 2, 1897, has totally collapsed. He has surrendered to his creditors 16,000,000 bushels of wheat. His estimated loss is $5,000,000. On wheat owned May 31 Mr. Leiter might have realized a profit of $4,500,000. Since then the market has declined, and, financial support which he had hitherto received being withdrawn, he retired on the best terms possible. His creditors are financial institutions in Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth and New York City. These concerns lent money on his wheat at 80 cents or less a bushel. They are amply protected. Accurate figures as to Mr. Leiter's holdings when he decided to liquidate are difficult to secure. The best estimates indicate that he has 12,000,000 bushels of wheat in Duluth and Minneapolis, 2,000,000 bushels en route to Europe, 2,000,000 bushels in or en route to New York. Mr. Leiter will not make an assignment, and court proceedings for the settlement of his grain account will not be necessary.

Greatest Deal in History.

In the history of grain speculation from the days of the Romans to the plunging of Keene in New York no speculative handling of a cereal has attracted so much attention from press and public as the transactions of Joseph Leiter. In the market for nearly four months before the public was aware that he was a trader, Mr. Leiter finally avowed his connection with the enormous cash grain purchases of certain commission houses.

April 2, 1897, Broker French entered the arena with instructions from Col. Leiter to buy 100,000 bushels of May wheat at 70⅝ cents. The representative of the great operator filled the order. Just as fast as the market declined the Leiter orders made their appearance. The cheapest batch of wheat that Leiter bought was a lot at 64¾ cents—500,000 bushels—June 18, 1897. This was for September delivery. Some saw in these transactions the beginning of an era in the history of the local Board of Trade. They were right. The deal carried the price of wheat from 64¾ cents in June, 1897, to $1.85 in May of this year. At one time an interest of $35,000,000 was involved. Over 25,000,000 bushels of cash wheat is said to have been merchandised. Leiter's grasp of affairs and his hand on the wheel of progress, the brokers executed these immense orders, running as high as 1,000,000 bushels. They bought for cash, sold for cash and accepted the consequent profit or loss stoically.

In sharp contrast to all previous great deals on the Chicago market Mr. Leiter met the varying emergencies of a year with cash until Monday morning. His failure to do so then is attributed to a number of causes, most prominent of which is the statement that after a careful review of the situation L. Z. Leiter deemed it advisable that his son should liquidate, so advised, and the advice was accepted.

BUYING WAR BONDS.

SMALL INVESTORS SUBSCRIBE TO THE POPULAR LOAN.

Results of First Applications Indicate that Small Investors Will Take Entire Issue of $200,000,000—Regarded as First-class Securities.

Loan Is a Success.

The Government has taken every possible step to make the new bond issue in every sense a popular loan. While the great banking syndicates of this country and Europe are ready and willing to subscribe for the entire bond issue, the Treasury Department has decided that individual subscriptions will receive attention first and that the smallest amounts asked for will be allotted before the larger ones. This means that any private citizen who desires to invest a little money in the new government bonds will be accommodated before the millionaires and the banking institutions may purchase these desirable securities.

Small investors regard the new bonds as first-class securities, and unless all present indications are misleading the entire issue will be placed before the larger banking institutions will be permitted to subscribe. The people want the bonds and are not a whit backward about asking for them. The sub-treasury, the banks, postoffice stations and express offices in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, St. Louis, Cincinnati and other large cities, as well as many of the smaller ones, were besieged the first day with requests for information and for the application blanks prescribing the form in which subscriptions must be made. Conservative estimates place the first day's "small subscription" totals at $3,000,000.

In Chicago the day's subscription reached $685,860. Experts say more than $10,000,000 will be subscribed in small sums in New York alone.

These bonds bear interest at 3 per cent, payable quarterly. The denominations of the coupon bonds are $20, $100, $500 and $1,000; of registered bonds, $20, $100, $500, $1,000, $5,000 and $10,000. In terms they are precisely like all other United States bonds outstanding—that is, they are payable in coin.

Secretary Gage's letter of instructions reveals the precautions taken by the administration and the Treasury Department to make this a popular loan in the strictest sense—to insure the small investors getting the bonds if they want them. Until 3 o'clock p. m. July 14, no subscription will be honored that calls for more than $500. All others will be pigeonholed. If the subscriptions for $500 or less exhaust the entire issue of $200,000,000 the others will stay pigeon-holed. Whatever of the total issue, if any remain, will be allotted after July 14, and again the small banks and the man of money. The allotment of what remains will commence with the smallest subscriber—that is, the man who wants $600 or $1,000 worth of bonds will have his application honored before that of the man who asks for $1,200 or $2,000, and so on. It is therefore practically impossible for the banks and wealthy men who would bid for blocks of $100,000 or $1,000,000 to get any of these bonds if the people of modest means take advantage of this month of time. Marshaling of "dummies" by the banks, which some have appeared to fear, is out of the question, since two "dummies" would be needed for every $1,000 of bonds, and to get a block of $100,000 the bond seekers would need a whole regiment of "dummies."

The bonds are all to be sold to the people at a fixed price or at par value. This is another safeguard for the popular feature of the loan. No fear is entertained of a too rapid absorption of the nation's currency by the bond purchasers. It is figured that most of the money to be put into bonds will be idle capital. When the small investors have had their fill, if there be anything left for the big bidders and banks, they will be permitted to receive their allotments in installments of 20 per cent at intervals of forty days to guard against rapid absorption of the currency. If the national banks were able to get hold of large blocks, there might be an inflation of the currency by an issue of national bank notes against the new bonds, but this is not a real danger on account of the restrictions against the banks already noticed.

Government Out a Million.

A well-known banking house made a proposition to the Secretary of the Treasury to subscribe for $100,000,000 of the new bonds at 101. Under the law the bonds must be sold at par and allotted to the subscribers for the smaller amounts first, hence the offer could not be entertained. Subscriptions for $20 bonds or multiples of that amount up to $500 will be awarded as fast as received.

A GOOD WOMAN.

Busy at her work all day,
Never asks a cent of pay,
Thinks it ought to be that way;
Thank the Lord for Susan!

Singin', when she want to sing,
Like the robins in the spring;
Scoldin' some, like everything:
Thank the Lord for Susan!

Always ready, day or night;
Always willin'—she's a sight.
When it comes to doin' right:
Thank the Lord for Susan!

Me and seven children's what
She looks after, well or not,
And she's "Mother" to the lot:
Thank the Lord for Susan!

Goes to church on Sundays, too,
'Long with all she's got to do;
It's her that's goin' to pull me through:
Thank the Lord for Susan!

In her hair is streaks of gray,
And the crows' feet's come to stay;
But I like her best that way:
Thank the Lord for Susan!

Made of consecrated clay,
She gits better every day:
Thank the Lord for Susan!

A STRANGE COURTSHIP.

The day was closing in and the girl at the window could no longer see to read. She looked, instead, into the neighboring garden, bounded by low hedges and wind-bowed firtrees sharply outlined against a glowing crimson sky. And on the same background the small head made a charming silhouette; the rounded cheeks and dainty pointed chin, the low straight brow and little self-willed nose, and above all the soft halo of fluffy hair. The thin, rasping voice of a mother roused the girl from the thoughts which had saddened her large dark eyes. A list of domestic cares was enumerated, and then the girl's mother approached the window and endeavored to claim the fugitive attention of her daughter by subjects nearer home.

"Maisie," she began, hesitatingly, "I want to speak to you again about—" (the girl knew the particular tone of voice, and broke in quickly with: "Oh! mother, please not that!") "My dear girl, it's positively ridiculous the way you always interrupt and refuse to listen to reason," and, with a whine, "it makes my position exceedingly awkward and unpleasant. What am I to do with you? Do you realize your age, Maisie? Nearly 24. Why, your sisters were all married before they were your age, and Connie had two children.

"At present," the mother went on, relentlessly, "I am besieged on all sides by men who wish to marry you, for you are a pretty girl, Maisie—prettier than any of your sisters, and more like your dear grandmother, who was quite a belle in her time—but in a few years nobody will look at you, your chances of happiness and of making a good match will be over forever. Percival Sutton"—(Ah! I knew that was coming," sighed the girl)—"said he would come to tea this evening, and he is very anxious to speak to you. To-night you really must give him his answer, and I can only say that if you send him away with a refusal I will take no more trouble about you. He is the best match in the county; young, rich, intelligent, heir to a baronetcy—and remember, none of your sisters are titled—indeed, you cannot do better."

After a pause she went on, "I want to know what stands in your way of doing as the others had sense enough to do—of setting my mind at rest about you, and of taking up a position in life as the wife of a good man."

"You mean of a rich man!" the girl said languidly, folding her hands, and again turning her eyes to the garden.

A tall man, with bowed head and hands clapsed behind him, was walking restlessly over the little lawn, a few inches of freshly fallen snow deadening the sound of his quick footsteps, and the girl watched with unconscious fascination the dark shadowy prints left in the flat whiteness. The tall stranger, with the grave face and athletic, though now stooping form, had never shown the slightest desire to make friends; indeed, had seemed determined to avoid any chance or risk of doing so. Years ago, when the girl's mother had called upon the lonely new comer, she had found him at home, and he only acknowledged the visit by a polite note of thanks explaining that he never made or received calls, and lived a life of study and unbroken solitude. To-night, as her mother talked, and the girl's attention wandered to the growing number of blue-gray footprints in the snow, an unusual circumstance arrested her thoughts and drew her still farther from the sordid and wearisome conversation. A servant came out of the house and handed to the man an orange-colored envelope, which he did not open till he was again alone. Then he disappeared.

The girl returned to consciousness with a slight start, and became dimly aware of a question in her mother's face and voice. She risked, at random, the first answer that occurred to her: "Oh, yes, if you like, mother!" The reply was evidently appropriate. A smile diffused the hard, weary features of the elder woman; the very silk of her gown seemed to squeak sudden approval.

"My dear good child, this is sweet of you! That poor young man will be so happy." Whereupon the dear good child was enveloped in a black silk embrace and covered with impulsive kisses.

"And you will tell him so yourself, dearie; or shall I see him alone first? I expect you will both feel a little shy and constrained."

"I should like you to see him by yourself, mother," said the girl, rising and wondering with complete disinterest what would be the outcome of her mental aberration and wandering response.

"And I may tell him—"said the mother, eagerly.

"Anything you like," her daughter answered as she disappeared.

The servant entered with a tea tray, made up the fire, and lowered the blinds. The girl passed swiftly through the hall, wrapping a soft gray cloak about her as she went, and then, opening a side door and closing it quietly behind her, she slipped out into the snow-covered garden. In the low hedge which divided it from the neighboring patch there was a broken space large enough to squeeze through, and a moment later she was skimming across the very lawn where she had just seen the owner's footsteps multiplying in the snow. As she had expected, he had left his garden door open, and through this she made her way into the hall, and thence into the only room from which as yet a light emerged. A cozy fire and red-shaded lamp showed her a charming study, lined from floor to ceiling with books, and in a deep arm-chair before the fire she beheld her three years' neighbor, the owner of this delightful little sanctum.

On the threshold she stood still with astonishment. From what she had seen of his face she had not thought him remarkable in appearance—this man was without doubt singularly handsome. She had believed the bowed form belonged to a man of 50 at least, whereas this man could not have been more, and was probably less than 35. A vague sense of vexation filled her, and she wished she had not yielded to the ridiculous impulse which had brought her hither. Then, in a moment, a revulsion of feeling made her glad, with a great throb of gladness, that she had obeyed the dictates of her folly. He looked up from the fire, gazed at her abstractedly for half a second, and when he spoke his voice showed no surprise.

"Come in and shut the door," was his greeting; "I have been wanting you."

"You are alone, as usual?" she asked, drawing nearer.

"I am always alone. Why in the world did you come?"

"You had a telegram just now, in the garden," she explained; "I feared it might be bad news."

He gave a little hard, mirthless laugh. "Bad news has long ceased to be possible in my life," he said coldly. "Was that why you came?"

"Yes."

"Reason enough to keep most people away," he remarked dryly. They looked at each other and were silent. At last she asked: "Why do you walk round and round your lawn every evening?"

He shrugged his shoulders. "Force of habit, I suppose; it is the way I think."

Then, hastily changing the subject, he inquired: "What will your mother say when you tell her where you have been?"

"I don't think it will occur to her to ask. Her thoughts are taken up at the present moment"—she glanced at the clock—"in accepting an offer of marriage on my behalf. She is an admirable woman; I am her sixth daughter, and when she shall have disposed of me we shall have all been married before the age of 24."

The girl was gazing at him steadily and without flinching; vaguely she found herself wondering if there had ever been a time in her life when she had not known him—when, in fact, this stranger had not been her first and greatest thought, the supreme interest which completely filled the emptiness of her world. So had love come to her unsought, and as yet she knew it not by that name. When she spoke her voice was low and appealing: "Well, it can matter little how one works out one's destiny if in the end all will infallibly turn out well. For instance, I shall marry this man of my mother's choice, and perhaps for a few years we shall be miserable together; but at last death will free one of us, and then life's object will become clear and I will view it with the impartiality of my last hour, from the standpoint of age, experience or resignation, as a charming picture in a circular frame, and shall smile to see how well the colors blended." She laughed hopelessly.

"Poor little girl!" he muttered, rising, and, leaning against the mantelpiece, he looked down at her with yearning, dreamy eyes. "Shall I tell you the riddle of my life?" he asked. She assented.

"Ten years ago I married the girl my father chose for me—an heiress, the only child of rich and indulgent parents. We did not love each other—a punishment which I doubtless deserved. Less than a year after our marriage I first noticed a strange expression in my wife's face, which day by day became more apparent, and then she began to talk strangely and say senseless things. Vainly I strove to fight the fear which was fast growing to certainty, till at last the violence of a mad woman left me in doubt no longer as to the terrible thing which had come upon me. I discovered then that her grandmother had died in an asylum, and that a brother, whose very existence had been hidden from me, had shot himself while temporarily insane. I won't describe to you the horror of the next few months, when the best brain doctors in London pronounced her case hopelessly incurable, and when I had done all I could to restore the balance of her disordered mind, without avail. I did not want to send the poor thing away; but the matter was taken out of my hands. When I was recovering from a knife wound in my left temple—you see I am destined to carry a reminder of her to my grave—the doctors insisted on removing her to an asylum, and there I have been obliged to leave her ever since."

The girl had drawn nearer to him; his story had been a shock to her, but her thoughts were not of herself. "How dreadful!" she said, "and how lonely you must often be. Why have you never let me know you all these years?"

"I—I dared not!"—he turned away. He did not see the glory of love and suffering that shone in her soft dark eyes. Maybe he heard both in her voice, for there stole into his eyes the light of happiness.

"It was unkind of you," she said; "I might have been better than nothing."

She crept close to him, and shyly put her hands in one of his; he bent over them, holding them to his brow. "Little girl, you don't understand," he said softly. "Better than nothing!—it was just because you were better than everything that I could not say to you 'Come!' Every day since I first came here I think I would have given my soul to see you come in at that door as you did to-night. And so the years passed. I was often lonely, but it satisfied me to know that you were near. It amused me to wonder what we should say to each other if ever we met."

"Yet," said the girl, "I wonder that you can hold such happy theories about life! Do you really believe that your riddle will be solved?"

"I think," he answered gravely, "it was solved by the telegram you saw me open in the garden; it brought me the news of my poor wife's death—and you came to save me from the horror of my thoughts."

The girl would have drawn away her hands, but he detained them; she swayed a little, and he supported her with his arm. "I must go back," she said faintly. He folded her cloak about her tenderly. "I am going to take you home," he said.

Habits of Snakes.

An eminent writer on birds and reptiles declares that the notion frequently entertained that snakes fascinate their prey is utterly exploded. It would be somewhat interesting if this gentleman would tell us what power it is that snakes exert over birds which draws them against their will within easy distance of the reptile's jaws. The writer of this paragraph has seen birds fluttering in the air above the heads of snakes, apparently unable to resist the influence that attracted them. Whether it be fascination or some other force, it unquestionably existed, although every one may not have observed it. Snakes never bite. To bite would be impossible, from the formation of their jaws. They strike from above, fastening their fangs into their prey, after which they dispatch it, ordinarily by swallowing. Many varieties of snakes have the power to conceal their young in their mouths. The tiny snakes play about the mother's head, and upon the slightest alarm she opens her mouth, and they immediately vanish, reappearing when the cause for alarm seems to have been removed. Whether the mother snake has the faculty of communicating their danger to them is not known; in all probability she has. There are certain fish that open their mouths and engulf their small brood when danger threatens. The Sole Survivor.

Your true sailor is a prosaic animal; he tells no varnished story, and the most pathetic narratives of casualities and life-loss at sea are those which are never written. Some years ago the captain of a British vessel descried in mid-ocean a bark, dismasted and apparently abandoned. He did as 99 per cent. of British officers would, lowered a boat and proceeded to investigate. Arrived at the bark, he found it difficult to approach on account of the tangle of broken spars and rigging which drifted alongside. On the deck there was not the slightest sign of human occupancy. The boats had gone, the wheel was smashed, and the deck house carried away flush with the deck. In the forecastle, however, sick in his bunk, was an English sailor, who told an almost an incredible tale. In effect it was that a week previous all hands were summoned on deck to take in sail, and so prepare for an approaching squall. The sailor was too sick for this service, so kept his berth. And it was well he did, for of all the company on deck, not a single man survived. A huge sea came along, swept the bark from bow to stern, and carried overboard every living soul, except the sick Englishman.—London Syren.

Famous Flag in Chicago.

George C. Mages, who sent the pennant of the battleship Maine to Chicago a few weeks ago, returned yesterday from his trip to Cuba with another historic emblem. It is the flag that covered part of the graves of 161 American sailors on the occasion of the memorial service at Havana, March 4.

The service was proposed by Mr. Mages, and was participated in by forty tourists from the United States. The Cubans in Havana promise to make it an annual memorial celebration for the dead sailors of the Maine.

Mr. Mages has exhibited the flag in several places of historic interest. It has been raised and cheered on some of the Southern battlefields on its way back to Chicago, and its owner says he hopes to see it yet raised with the pennant of the Maine over the ruins of old Morro Castle.

Two Cuban seamstresses sewed the Stars and Stripes together for the tourists who made the arrangements for the memorial service.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Getting Even.

Senator Hoar says that his father charged Sanford Adame, the Concord pump-maker, five dollars for a little legal advice that he had asked for, and as Adams was leaving said to him: "By the way, there is a little trouble with my pump. It does not seem to draw water. Will you just look at it?" So Mr. Adams went around the corner of the shed, moved the handle of the pump and put his hand down and fixed a little spigot which was in the side which had got loose, and the pump worked perfectly. Judge Hoar said, "Thank you, sir." To which Adams replied, "It will be $5, Mr. Hoar," and the Judge gave him back the same bill he had just taken.—New York World.

Slave Markets in Finland.

A regular slave mart still exists in many country districts of Finland. Once a year such paupers, lunatics and aged people of each parish as cannot support themselves are put up at public auction and consigned to those families or farmers who will board them at the lowest price offered by the parish authorities. The helpless creatures are made to work as much as possible by their owner, who have the right to chastise them.

THE OLD AND THE NEW FIGHTERS

IT IS a far cry from the old wooden frigate Constitution to the great iron-clad Oregon, a shot from one of whose thirteen-inch guns, well aimed, would easily persuade the old-timer she had missed her calling and had better "heave to." And John Paul Jones, whose victory over the Serapis in revolutionary times has made his name familiar to every American schoolboy, would be quite as much passe on board "Fighting Bob" Evans' Iowa as the Bon Homme Richard, his flagship, would be in Rear Admiral Sampson's squadron.

Time makes thrusts that the best of naval commanders cannot parry, and the most that any man can hope to do is to keep up with the times. From the great, unwieldy wooden frigates and schooners of the revolutionary period, with their nine and twelve pound guns, and from 500 to 1,000 tons displacement, our navy has progressed to the type of the Iowa, the Indiana and the Oregon, whose mammoth steel hulks displace 11,000 tons of water and whose terrible rifle-bored guns throw metal projectiles weighing 1,000 pounds.

This remarkable evolution in naval warfare was not the result of accident. It followed in obedience to the theory that nations, as individuals, must "fight the devil with fire;" yea, with his own fire, be it ever so fierce and destructive. Moreover, naval warfare has, as a rule, kept pace with improvements in the arts. With respect to size and strength, the navies of the world have generally taken rank according as their necessities required and the enforcement of their claims, meritorious or otherwise, demanded.

JOHN PAUL JONES.

England, with a territory upon all of which the sun never sets at one time, has the most formidable navy in the world, and the rest of the world agrees that she needs it. America, whose acres are contiguous and whose foreign policy has been preservative rather than aggressive, has heretofore been satisfied with the fifth navy of the world, trusting to her noninterference and the great bodies of salt water to her east and west as a defense. The apparent incompatability between the great commercial interests of the United States and the poverty of her national defenses has long been the marvel of Europe, and a great many thinking people of our own country have doubted the policy of trusting too implicitly in natural resources and natural defenses.

Comparisons are not always odious, but they are usually difficult To compare the navy of colonial times with the navy of to-day is like comparing tallow candles with arc lights, stage coaches with modern railway palaces and Fanuell hall with the Chicago Auditorium or Masonic Temple; it is comparing wood with steel, sailing tackle with twin-screw motors and primitive gun powder with "brown prismatic," dynamite and nitroglycerin.

Ships of a Past Century.

It might be noted that in October, 1776, the colonies owned twenty-six vessels, manning 536 guns; that the frigate of the revolution was generally forty feet long, propelled by oars and sails, carrying two small guns and a supply of small ordnance; that in 1798 the navy department was formally organized; that in 1806 Congress authorized the construction of 257 wooden war vessels, but finding the scheme too expensive and the first vessels too unwieldly abandoned the enterprise; that the Bon Homme Richard, commanded by Paul Jones, carried twenty-eight twelve-pounders on her gun deck, fourteen nine-pounders on her quarter deck and forecastle and a total armament of forty-two guns, but these facts and figures give little insight into the real situation of the early days and afford no criterion whatever for comparison with Rear Admiral Sampson's fleet in the West Indies.

A review of the early history of the American navy does not require, therefore, that the student go back farther than the beginning of the present century, when steam was first applied to the propulsion of vessels. Passing by the discussion as to whether Fulton was in fact the first man who applied steam as a motor for ships, suffice it to say that in 1814 he proposed to build a "floating battery" for the defense of New York harbor, a vessel to be propelled by steam, with a central paddle-wheel, to carry twenty guns, with a speed of four knots an hour. According to this plan the vessel was to carry two submarine guns, one at each bow, so as to strike the enemy below the water line. Provision was also made for throwing a large quantity of water on the enemy at close quarters.

The ship was launched, as proposed, in November, 1814, and in June of the following year the machinery was in place. She was called the Demologos, and after the death of her inventor was rechristened the Fulton. The Fulton was used as a receiving-ship at the Norfolk navy yard until 1829. Steam vessels soon came to be of great importance in the coasting trade of both Europe and America, and in 1819 a steamer of 350 tons called the Savannah made the passage from New York to Liverpool in twenty-six days, but she was heavily sparred and depended largely on her sails.

In 1840 vessels with screw propellers came into vogue. Captain John Ericsson made a proposition to the English government to apply the screw device to war vessels, but his scheme was scouted as visionary. In 1843 Ericsson came to New York and built the Princeton, which was the first screw man-of-war ever constructed. The Princeton proving a success in every particular, England built the Duke of Wellington, which outranked the Princeton, the latter being adjudged unseaworthy in 1849.

The Crimean war demonstrated the usefulness of the screw propeller, although it was several years after that the naval authorities of the world were willing to trust to a full-powered screw, unaided by sails. About this time the Great Eastern, also called the "Wonder ship," was built. She was constructed of iron and wood, was 692 feet long and carried 12,000 tons of coal. She plied between England and Australia and, although not a man-of-war, properly speaking, was a formidable vessel.

The day of the wooden wheels came to a close, however, when in 1860 the French built the first sea-going ironclad, which was christened La Gloire. She was originally intended to carry ninety guns, but was cut down and plated with several inches of iron. She was provided with full steam power, with auxiliary sails and carried forty guns. Not to be outdone, England, ever jealous of her mistressship of the sea, constructed the Royal Oak and later the Warrior, the latter being faster than any wooden vessel afloat and vastly superior to La Gloire. France replied with the Solferino, remarkable for her ram bow and for the fact that up to that time she was the only ironclad carrying guns on two decks protected by armor. The Minotaur war vessels were then introduced by England, but they were too unwieldy for service and were abandoned.

This see-saw competition was going on when the rebellion broke out in the United States and we found ourselves without a single ironclad vessel and practically without a navy. At the outset, the Federal government made a vigorous attempt to get control of the Mississippi and Missouri rivers, which, it was thought, would become theaters in the war. Accordingly, a contract was awarded to James B. Eads, of St. Louis, for the construction of several ironclad steamers suitable for river navigation.

In October, 1861, forty-five days after laying the keel the St. Louis was launched. This was the first ironclad owned by the United States. The unfortunate abandonment of the Norfolk navy yard, however, had given to the insurgent forces possession of several vessels, notably the fine steam frigate, Merrimac, a vessel built like the Wabash. The Confederates were busy transforming this vessel into a broadside casemated ironclad, with a sloping roof calculated to cause the enemy's shot to glance without injuring the vessel, when the Monitor type of ironclad came into being. Captain Ericsson had been given contracts for the construction of two broadside ironclads and one vessel of special design.

OLD AND NEW WARSHIPS.

The Monitor, which later defeated the Merrimac, was of "special design," and it was this same Monitor and her successors during the civil war that revolutionized the naval warfare of Europe. The Monitor was slightingly characterized "a cheese box on a raft," but it proved to be the strongest cheese that ever was placed in a naval sandwich. The turret system, which was the essential feature of the original monitor, is familiar, and does not require description here. The broadside system was said by contemporary critics to excel the turret system for ocean service, but the value of the "cheese box," ironclad for close fighting in shallow water was never disputed. Some of our monitors, such as the Miantonomah, were constructed of wood, and the voyage of the Miantonomah to Europe and of the Monadnock to San Francisco via Cape Horn showed that these vessels could go to sea as well as fight in shallow waters.

Of the two broadsides constructed by Captain Ericsson, one was a failure, and the other, New Ironsides, a decided success. After passing through the siege of Charleston and doing excellent service she was laid up in ordinary at League Island and afterward destroyed by fire. England converted one of her liners into a monitor of the turret shape and called her the Captain. She was constructed according to a plan proposed by Captain Coles, but went down at sea with 500 on board, thus showing the incompatability of sailing power with a low free board. As compared with the English and French ironclads, the American vessels drew less water, but were more effective than the foreigners in shallow water. After the civil war Russia went wild over ironclads and built a large number of the naval cheese boxes.

So much for the early navy of the colonies and civil war period. At the close of 1783 we had practically no navy at all; in 1874 we had five first-rate war vessels, carrying forty-five guns, with 3,000 tons displacement, thirty-one second-rate vessels carrying twenty guns with 2,200 tons displacement, twenty-four third-rate vessels carrying eight guns with 800 tons displacement and five fifth-rate vessels carrying four guns with 400 tons displacement. Our total strength was forty-eight ironclads and twenty-six other vessels. Many of these, however, were unseaworthy and the term "ironclad" was used more on account of courtesy than respect for the facts.

At present we have in the regular navy eleven first-class battle-ships of 112,896 tons displacement, two armored cruisers of 17,471 tons displacement, twenty coast and harbor defense vessels with 53,759 tons displacement, and protected cruisers and gunboats of 86,000 tons displacement. We have thirteen protected cruisers, twenty gunboats and light protected cruisers, one dispatch boat, and twenty-two torpedo-boat destroyers. The battle-ships Indiana, Massachusetts and Oregon have each a displacement of 10,300 tons, a belt armor of eighteen inches steel and turret armor of seventeen inches. The following table shows the armament carried by our armored vessels:

Caliber.	Weight of shot, lbs.	No. guns.	Total wgt. fired.
Thirteen inches	1,000	12	13,200
Twelve inches	850	12	7,800
Ten inches	500	18	9,000
Eight inches	250	46	11,500
Six inches	100	18	1,800
Five inches	50	12	600
Four inches	33	28	924
Totals	...	146	44,834

Our united armored ships can throw one and one-half pounds of metal for every pound that Spain can give us in return, although the dons have 160 guns. If our armored force were reduced to an average we would have a ship of 6,750 tons, with ten-inch belt, 11.5-inch turret, ten guns of eight-inch caliber, throwing a projectile weighing 300 pounds, while Spain would have a battleship of 7,456 tons, with 9.6-inch belt, 9.7-inch turret, thirteen guns of seven-inch caliber, throwing a projectile weighing 180 pounds.

The guns of eight-inch caliber and over are used to attack the belt of a ship in order to disable the machinery and turrets in which the big guns of the enemy are mounted, while the small-bore rapid-firing guns are used to sweep the decks and very often to find the range of the enemy. In sea fighting the small guns are used first, the big guns keeping silence until a range of 1,000 yards or thereabouts is reached.

Early naval warfare, in which sailing vessels were used, had to deal practically with guns alone, and the measure of strength was the weight of metal fired in one broadside. To-day the designer has to reckon with shell power, ram power, torpedo power and power of resistance. The modern battleship is therefore a compromise. Thus, roughly speaking, the weight allowed for armor determines the defensive power of a vessel, the weight of batteries, ammunition and torpedoes the offensive power, while the weight of coal and machinery determines the speed and endurance of a vessel—the distance a vessel can go without recoaling.

Notwithstanding the American navy is rapidly taking rank with the navies of the world, it is interesting to note that we have 3,000 miles of sea coast, excluding Alaska, and a tonnage of licensed, registered and enrolled American vessels aggregating 4,428,000 tons, which is far more than the total mercantile tonnage of Russia, Germany, Italy, Japan and Spain. It might also be mentioned that we have more property on shore assailable from the water than any other nation, that we have more property afloat than any other nation and that with the exception of Great Britain we have more merchant ships afloat on the oceans and great lakes than the five greatest naval powers of the world combined.

LATEST WAR NEWS.

Monday's Daily.

There is a rumor in Europe that Spain has sold the Philippines to Germany. That would be a bright piece of business. Spain can't show a very good title in those islands just now.

A prominent and wealthy Chinaman at Clevelan, wants to raised a regiment of Chinamen to fight Spain in the Philippines. He thinks they could convert the Spaniards into friends.

—Joseph F. Evans, of SanFrancisco, is to be the collector of customs at Manila. He will have the distinction of being the first U. S. customs officer outside the United States.

Gen. Garcia of the Cuban army has about 7,000 troops with him, and as we a few days ago sent him 8,000 rifles and a big lot of ammunition he can arm that many more. He is to assist in surrounding Santiago.

There is a desire on the part of the authorities to get the expedition to Porto Rico in motion as soon as possi-

There is a report that Manila has been surrendered, but this is not confirmed.

We have captured a small schooner with five Spaniards on board near the shore east of Santiago.

Indiana has its second call out by the governor. It is for one full regiment and two extra companies.

Our troops have reached Santiago, but had a delay in landing till the shores could be cleared of Spaniards.

Tuesday's Daily.

Sifting out the different and sometimes conflicting reports, it appears reasonably certain that the fleet with the troops reached Santiago yesterday, on it is not so certain as to their having landed. If, as reported, the Spaniards are there in force, the landing will be slow and cautious. But a part may be landed today.

The Spaniards for some reason, refuse to exchange Lieut. Hobson and his men, who sand the ship in the mouth of Santiago harbor.

At Guantanamo where the marines have been on land, defending their camp for a week or more, help has been sent them, and they are now strong enough to be safe.

The Cuban insurgents have drawn lines around Santiago in a way to prevent the Spaniards getting out.

Garcia one of the insurgent leaders, has met Admiral Sampson, is informs the latter, he is ready to co-operate with the Americans,and thinks the war will be brought to an early close.

It is not believed that the native insurgent have captured Manila as had been reported. They are not probably strong enough at present to take it and hold it in safety.

The report that Gen. Blanco, the Captain-general of Cuba was shot and wounded by an assassin Sunday is believed to be true. If so, the man who did it wanted revenge for the arrest of his brother.

Rebels at Manila have formed a new government and elected a president. They will not object to an American protectorate.

Wednesday's Daily.

—Blanco the Captain general of Cuba sent us word word that he would not exchangs Lieut. Hobson and his seven men, for any Spaniards in our hands. His words were: "I will not exchange them. They are my prisoners and I will do as I please with them. If you want them, come and take the city." He will probably be accommodated.

Our troops who had arrived near the shore the day previous, began landing at Guantanamo yesterday. The Spaniards fired on them. The troops at Santiago are not yet landed, but remain on the ships.

In the various skirmishes the Cuban soldiers have suffered heavily for being accustomed to fighting in the bushes they have exposed themshlves freely. They are being cared for by our surgeons the same as our own men,

The "Cadiz fleet" that has been reported as starting both east and west is now said to have returned to that port They seem to have come to a wise conclusion, that it would not be safe to send it to Cuba where we have a fleet twice as strong. If we should destroy that fleet, and we are certain now to detroy that at Santiago, then Spain would have no navy left. But then, in such a case, she would not need a navy.

COURT

The court began on the ditch case between Moore and Boyd on Monday. This has been up several times before, the trouble being that Moore objected to having the Boyd drain discharge its water onto his land, as it flooded a large part of a forty, so that he could raise nothing on it. It also appears that if another ditch, the Baughman, was made larger or had more fall. it might carry off the water, so that the water from the Boyd drain would do but little harm. Moore testified that his land should be worth about $30 an acre, but if overflowed would not be worth more than $10. The general run of testimony was for or against this view. There were many witnesses including experts who could say whether the Baughman ditch could carry away all the water or not.

Rose & Rose and J. E. Pomeroy were for Moore, while Baxter of Auburn and Barr of Kendallville were for Boyd. The case is still on.

Pioneers Dead.

The following summary is the list of pioneers who have died within the past year, as read by the biographer, J. E. Rose, at the meeting June 16. They are furnished us by the kindness of the present biographer, M. B. Willis. It is hoped that care will be taken to report to him all future biographies, so all may be honored with at least a brief mention:

John Brown, born in Knox county, Ohio, Feb. 3, 1821; died Feb. 10, 1898; aged 77 years, 7 days.

Sarah (Treash) Miser, born Aug. 10, 1837; died Jan. 25, 1898; aged 60 years, 5 months, 15 days.

Joseph G. Raub, born May 25, 1837; died Feb, 16, 1898; aged 60 years, 8 months, 21 days.

James Cather, born Aug. 20, 1819; died Apr. 2, 1898; aged 78 years, 7 months, 12 days.

Orin Keep, born July 4, 1821; died Aug. 23, 1897; aged 76 years; 1 month, 19 days.

Mary A Watson, born Mar. 15, 1824; died Aug. 27, 1897; aged 73 years, 5 months, 12 days.

Charlotte Latson, born Oct. 31, 1820; died Aug. 26, 1897; aged 76 years, 9 months, 25 days.

Prudence McNabb; aged 86 years, 7 months. 28 days.

Isaac Helwig, born June 24, 1832; died Mar. 27, 1898; aged 65 years, 9 months, 3 days.

Burton Brown, born Aug. 23, 1832; died Sept. 30, 1897; aged 65 years, 1 month, 7 days.

Leander S. Goodwin, born Aug. 23, 1846; died March 8, 1898; aged 52 years, 6 months, 6 days.

Susana Easterday, born Mar. 30, 1820; died Feb. 8, 1898; aged 77 years, 10 months, 8 days.

Rebecca Helts, Born Dec. 15, 1818; died May 21, 1898; aged 79 years, 5 months, 6 days.

Philip Lung, born Aug. 15, 1819; died Oct. 23, 1897; aged 78 years, 2 months, 8 days.

Bennett Hixon, born Apr. 16, 1842; died July 7, 1897; aged 55 years, 2 months, 21 days.

Mariam (Mead) Haynes, born Jan. 1, 1822; died April 7, 1898; aged 76 years, 3 months, 7 days.

Should Be Careful.

Complaint comes to this office from people living near the Wabash track east of town, that the Wabash trains are not careful enough as to whistling at crossings, but seem to have a weakness for exhausting steam at those places, or any place where a team is to be seen. One man was helping to move a house the other day, and they were close by a crossing when one of the west bound forenoon trains came by. He says they did not whistle, but to make the matter worse began to blow off steam, frightening the horses and nearly causing a runaway. When young Loveland's rig was struck a short time ago, it is claimed they did not whistle. The trainmen should remember that the are working against the interest of their company, for such a course may pile up a lot of damage suits.

IN OLD KAINTUCK

A Hoosier From Auburn Sees Many New Things and Gets New Ideas

H. C. Shull was down in Kentucky recently, returning a week ago, and brought back when he returned, George Craig and family. They were living on their farm there, but not getting along well. Mr. Shull had some funny ex; e ie c t own there, as he does every time he goes. As he is administrator of the estate and affairs of the late William Craig, who left some property in Kentucky, has been called there several times. He found conditions greatly different from conditions here. The country is hilly and rocks come near the surface, or crop out in the hills as they do in Southern Indiana. There is much good farming land, however, in spite of the amount wasted by the rough country, and on such land excellent crops are raised And so rich is it, that for many years they can raise the same crop in succession, a thing our farmers are not in the habit of doing. He visited Mammoth cave, and while on his way across country to that place he passed through Osceola in Green county, and stopped to talk awhile with the citizens. In speaking about Auburn, he mentioned the fact that one of our factories made fifty buggies a day with ease This they hardly believed though the facts are that one of them the Kiblinger Co. has a record of sixty a day for a short time. The Zimmerman Co. and the Eckhart Co follow close in the procession. The local correspondent at that place for the Greensburg Record, sent the following item to that paper.

H. C. Shull, of Auburn, Ind., passed through here last Sunday on his way to Mammoth Cave. He said his little town was a flourishing little place and had three buggy factories in it. One of them turnes out 50 a day. He says Kentucky is the finest sheep country in the world.

He also talked with them about the uses of ice. That product costs the people there two dollars a hundred,and consequently they use salt meats in the warm season. They could not see how our Auburn butchers can afford to use ice when it takes from a ton to two tons to fill the big refrigerator till he explained that it was worth here in such quantities only about 20 cents a hundred, There were also many other things different down there. The roads though sometimes over rough ground are generally solid and made on rock. In one place they passed through between hills by driving some distance along in the bed of the stream, the rocky bottom making a good road. Of course, in times of high water, people have to stay at home. They have but very few bridges and cross the streams at fords. This is very cheap and so their taxes are low. But how long would our people here, cross our little streams without a bridge? Here, with 12 miles of the little St. Joe in our county, we have over it, six good bridge costing on an average $8000 each. And over the smaller streams in the county, we have near a hundred other bridges which cost us from $100 to $800 each. More than half the expense of some of our bridges is in the stone for abutments, which we have to bring here several hundred miles. In Kentucky they could get stone for nothing. Mr. Shull was well pleased with the hearty hospitality of the people, and enjoyed greatly, the wonders of their caves. A new one, greater than the Mammoth cave is now beieg opened up to visitors. A funny thing about his visit was being taken for "Col. Hunter" a prominent man down there who it appears gets after the "Moonshiners" now and then. As Mr. Shull came through with Geo. Craig and another man, the people thought he was Col. Hunter, with two captured moonshiners. He had a good deal of a laugh over it.

FOUND THE BALE

A few days ago the COURIER advertised that a bundle of binder twine had been found in the road between here and Garrett. Saturday a member of the firm of E. T. Hoover & Co. Garrett dealers in in General merchandise, came in and said they had lost it. It was James McClellan east of the Creek who had found the bale. Hoover's team had been over here to get their twine, they having bought in connection with McDowell & Carter. They had a big wagon and put on 2500 pounds of the twine and started home. There was such a lot of it, that they did not miss the bale that rolled off. It pays to advertise in the COURIER, Mr. Hoover does not take it, but everybody reads it, as is proved by this incident.

NOTICE OF FINAL SETTLEMENT OF ESTATE.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of Stephen K Enzor deceased to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 12th day of July 1898 and show cause, if any, why my Final settlement accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested, are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness, my name, this 20th day of June 1898.

HARRISON ENZOR,
Adm'n strator

Monday's Daily.

—Culbertson & Boland have received a car load of binder twine.

—Henry Doetz of Fairfield Center was a caller at this office Saturday.

—Mrs. A. C. Gruhlke and a friend drove here from Waterloo yesterday.

—Miss Jennie Showalter, of Waterloo, spent Sunday with her cousin Blanche Shilling.

—For reliable insurance at lowest rates, See J. N. Wilson, Successor to B. M. Hastings.

—Of all the things Mexico bought from outside nations last year the United States furnished a half.

—Mrs. Ed Ross has thanks of everyone in the COURIER office, for a bouquet of the choicest roses, honeysuckles etc.

—Mr. Pierson, Station agent at New Era and his wife were in town Sunday, and were guests of Mr. and Mrs. DeLapp

—Dr. Baxter is paying special attention to Diseases of Children also Diseases of the Liver, Stomach and Nervous system. tf

—WANTED:—Black Walnut logs for timber. Highest cash prices paid for same. Address, Lesh, Sanders & Egbert Co., Goshen, Ind. 8

—See the new 1898, right hand cut, McCormick Binder and Big 4 Mowers at Culbertson & Boland's cheap hardware Store, Auburn, Ind.

—When you want to buy Hardware or Farm Machinery cheap, don't fail to call at Culbertson & Boland's cheap hardware store, Auburn, Ind.

—Hon. Henry C. Stanley of Noble county died at his home in Green township, He had been prominent in business and politics for many years.

—Thursday night, a man coming on a wheel from Elkhart to Goshen, was stopped at the edge of the latter city by three tramps and robbed of $18.

—There was more McCormick Binders and Mowers sold in 1897 in DeKalb County than all other machines combined. Culbertson & Boland sell them. 19tf —A man in Columbia City put his arm around a woman the other day, and she screamed, then he ran away. Only the first of these things ever happens in Auburn.

—As cosy and home-like a place as is in town is James McClellan's on East Seventh. He built up this home after leaving the farm and made it for comfort as well as for looks.

—Bob Moore, of LaFayette, Ind., says that for constipation he has found DeWitt's Little Early Risers to be perfect. They never gripe. Try them for stomach and liver troubles. H. B. McCord.

—When you want to buy a Binder, Mower, Wagon, Buggy, Plow, Harrows, Cultivator or any other tool used on the farm don't fail to see Culbertson & Boland, cheap hardware merchants, Auburn, Ind.

—S. P. Imhoff has newly painted his residence on East Ninth-st. He and Cory Shugers see which can keep things the neatest. By the way, Gas Addition is keeping right up with the procession.

—The longest head of timotny grass we ever saw, was brought in by Stephen Lutz Saturday. It measures over ten inches and was not grown on the richest ground on the farm either, but on solid up land soil.

—M. B. Masters is having as nice a lot of small fruits for young trees and bushes as are in town, in a year or two he will be ahead. And as a gardener he is a success for he finds time aside from his shop work to do a good deal of outside work.

—The Heel Factory at Columbia City has secured a contract from a big Philadelphia firm to furnish 75,000 heels to be used in making shoes for our soldiers. This eastern firm should first ask whether our soldiers are likely "to take to their heels."

—The Chief Burgess of Milesburg, Pa. says DeWitt's Little Early Risers are the best pills he ever used in his family during forty years of house keeping. They cure constipation, sick headache and stomach and liver troubles. Small in size but great in results. H. B. McCord.

—The patriotic ladies of Auburn sent to the boys in the army Saturday, 100 "housewives," not the real article of course, but the handy devices for keeping pins, needles, thread etc, with which the boys can repair any little ravages the service may make in their clothing. They also have a lot more nearly ready.

—People who want to see Auburn at its best, should be here Saturday evening, although any fair evening will do as a sample. But on Saturday, the hands in various factories are paid and then they and their wives lay in their supplies for the next week, buy other needed articles, and then if ever indulge in such luxuries as they think they can afford. All evening the streets are crowded, the stores are full, the clerks busy and the proprietors happy. All along the stores on Main and Seventh it reminds one of a small scale of State-st, Chicago.

—Mrs. Benjamin Martz, as will be seen by a notice we publish has been appointed to administrix of the estate of her late husband, a very suitable appointment. Mr. Martz was quite well-to-do and at the time of his death they lived on the farm formerly owned by his father, the late John G. Martz. His brother David, now lives where he used to at the Center. Mr. Martz will be greatly missed by the people in his part of the country, especially by the people of his church, the German Lutheran, among whom he was very prominent.

Wednesday's Daily.

—A. J. McIntyre and family go to Chicago Thursday to visit a few days with the family of C. M. Merica.

—The Lake Shore Railway is offering half rates July 2, 3 and 4 account 4th July. Ask the ticket agent about it. 24-26

—Dr. Calvin Fentz of Deedsville Miami Co., arrived in Auburn Saturday, and went out into Richland to visit his people.

—Jacob Souders, of Leo, was a caller today. He comes here regularly when his subscription expires whether he has other business or not.

—J. W. McKay and wife starts home to Lima, Ohio, tomorrow after a visit with the friends here. They always find a warm welcome in Auburn.

—Cook Ford yesterday weighed the first load of new hay brought to Auburn this year. It was brought in by Sam Gibson for Kutzner's livery stable.

—Rev. W. P. Pierce, now of Goshen, is in town for a day or so. He has been very successful in his work at that place being able to report fifty accessions to the church there.

—Quite a crowd collected at the southeast corner of the public square this afternoon, where a big swarm of bees had settled on the blackwalnut tree there. After considerable fussing they were got into a barrel and will make a good catch for some one.

—Among those who went from here today noon to attend the C. E Convention at Angola, were, Mrs. Clara McClellan, Mrs. Cory Shugers, Mrs. John Kruger, Mrs Kutzner, Kitty Bishop, Lizzie Pfefferl, Bertha Blaney, Lila Baker, Ed Sellling and a number of others whose names have escaped us.

—After teaching seven years in the Garrett Public Schools, our friend Geo. E. Cox has resigned his position and intends attending the Indiana Law School at Indianapolis next year. On account of work previously done, he has been admitted to the Senior year. The School Board of Garrett, shows their appreciation of the work he has done by tendering him his position for another year. We believe Mr Cox has the material in him for a successful career and our best wishes go with him to his new field.

—Carey Boyer had quite an accident yesterday afternoon, where he was working at the Eckhart factory. He was cutting straw board into strips on a cutter used for that purpose, and as he went to push the piece up to the knife to cut the last strip, he got his fingers too close, and the knife sliced off a corner of the second finger on the right hand and a small piece off the first finger. Dr. Baxter dressed his wounds and pronounced them not serious. We are glad he got off so easy, for he is a worthy lad working at his first job.

Wednesday's Daily.

—Beuret has sent out quite a lot of farm machinery lately.

—Money to Loan on good security.

—LOST:—Saturday evening between Mrs. Leas' store and home a black velvet belt and silver buckle engraved M. A. L. The finder will be rewarded upon the return of the same to Mrs. Leas.

—George Bishop received a letter from the signal service headquarters at Indianapolis notifying him that he would be received as a member of that corps, if he would come and pass examination.

—Will Clark, who is in the twentieth regulars, visited the boys of Company K, at Port Tampa, a few days ago. He had come from Mobile on a transport. Of course the Auburn boys were glad to meet him.

—D. N. Myers will keep on sale at his feed barn in Auburn, a full line of the leading makes of Buggies, Surreys, Road Wagons, etc. Call and examine his stock when you want to buy He can and will suit you.

—Claude Link is home from the east where he had been to spend a season in study and preparation for West Point. We have not learned how long these preparatory studies last, but it is always hard work to get started in that school, and hard work to hold one's place after being once started.

—Mrs. John Pipher, living in Wilmington township, died quite suddenly Monday evening. She had just come into the house after doing the milking, when she suddenly took sick and in a few minutes was dead.

—Father Brammer, whose death is noted in another item was one of the most prominent of the catholic priests at Fort Wayne. The large Library Hall there and an important school there are the result of his labor.

—Charles Knapp moved his family from Kendallville yesterday and occupies the G. A. Porter, property, now owned by Phil Myers. The COURIER welcomes Mr. and Mrs. Knapp as citizens of the livest town in Northern Indiana.

—Sick headache, biliousness, constipation and all liver and stomach troubles can be quickly cured by using those famous little pills known as DeWitt's Little Early Risers. They are pleasant to take and never gripe. H. B. McCord.

—The editor of the Evans City, Pa., Globe, writes, "One Minute Cough Cure is rightly named. It cured my children after all other remedies failed." It cures coughs, colds and all throat and lung troubles. H. B. McCord.

—The Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Ry., will sell special excursion tickets to beautiful Lake Chautauqua on July 8th at low rates good until August 7th. If you want an enjoyable vacation at small cost now is your chance. A. J. Smith, Gen. Pass. Agt., Cleveland, O. will send you a beautiful book free about the Chautauqua resorts on your request. 26

—A movement has been instituted, to provide a fund for the relief, of the members of Co. K 157th, Ind. Vol., and such of their families as may need assistance during the continuance of the war. The Woman's Relief Corps, will give a grand entertainment at the Henry Opera House next Wednesday night June 24th, consisting of war scenes and war songs, together with the many wonderful pictures shown by the genuine Edison Vitascope, and Illustrated Popular Song, by Prof. Mason of Chicago. Further particulars will appear from day to day, and as the object is a most worthy one, we have no doubt our citizens will respond liberally.

—Geo. Everett was invited out to dine with the family of J. D. Williamson yesterday. He says if the boys at the front could see what a dinner he had, they would stare. He has many invitations of this sort, and there are callers almost hourly. Yesterday Phil Noel of Butler township was here to hear from his son; as was also Isaac Ochs of Ligonier who came to talk about his son, Jacob who is in Co. K. Dr. Matheny, Henry Wolf, and many others have called. The wives of the boys at Tampa called the first evening he was here as well as the next morning. There are many anxious hearts at home always when war calls soldiers to the field.

Reading The News.

(Washington Star)

Oh, bring the atlas, mother,
The big one bound in red;
Likewise a magnifying glass
So show the letters spread
Across the tinted page, mother,
Where criss-cross lines confuse,
For I'm going to read the news mother;
I'm going to read the news.

And pray do not neglect, mother,
To get a gazetteer
And a Spanish dictionary;
There words are sadly queer.
It's a fearful undertaking,
And it's giving me the blues,
But I'm going to read the news mother,
I'm going to read the news.

GEORGE EVERETT AT HOME.

George W. Everett formerly of the COURIER office, but now a member of Co. K at Port Tampa came home today, reaching here over the Lake Shore on the noon train. He came to recruit for Co. K, as will be done for all the companies. Adjutant Harry Scott, came along but stopped over at Fort Wayne. He will probably go through here this evening, and will be here more or less this week. Scott is the recruiting officer for his battalion and Mr. Everett for Co. K. In this way, there were fifteen men sent, one for each battalion and a private for each company. They stopped awhile in Indianapolis to see the governor and adjutant-general and get instructions. Mr. Everett took dinner at his old boarding place at Mrs. Richards, then came up to the COURIER office. He got a good recruit before he reached the office, Claude Refner, being the first.

An ice cream and banana social will be held on the lawn at the Brethren church at Auburn Junction Saturday evening June 25. All are cordially invited.

CARNIVAL NOTES

The directors met this morning to see about getting attractions and making up program. They are talking about having one afternoon for general masking, as at the Mardi Gras. They expect to have a pageant one afternoon and one evening, and on a grander scale than before, but entirely different. There will be a Vaudeville Show forenoon and afternoon, with a larger number of actors. The secretary will soon beigin to collect and hopes to have all collected at an early date.

Near A Fatal Accident

It was a close call while Miss Lillie Vann was in getting the gasolene heater ready to heat the irons to do some pressing this morning at the Yesbera tailoring department of the store. The gasolene became ignited and extended to a cup of containing some of the fluid, which she held in her hand also setting her clothes on fire. Nothing but her presence of mind averted what might have been a very bad, if not a fatal accident. Miss Lilly was very lucky by getting off with a slight burn on one hand.

RECRUITING

As noted yesterday recruiting began the moment Mr. Everett landed in Auburn. He had one volunteer before he reached his headquarters at the COURIER office. He soon met others, and there were a number of names handed to him, of those who lived outside of town and had left their names with parties here, so they could be called in when an opportunity to enlist might occur. After supper, Mr. Everett worked his way slowly to the COURIER office, for everbody wanted to talk him. But when he reached the office several young men were waiting for him. He spent the evening explaining the conditions to them, and discussing matters of that sort. By bed time he had nineteen names, and there had been several who called, but whose case he could not consider, as they would not likely stand the examination. His orders are strict to take only those who as far as he can see, are up to the standard. This morning two young men were waiting his arrival, and as they filled the bill in fine shape, their names went down on his list. It must be gratifying to him to see how interested everybody is in his success and how enthusiastically they receive him. It is believed that when instructions reach here, the examinations will be made by resident physicians.

When the recruiting officers reached Fort Wayne Sundey, Hon. R. C. Bell sent them a ten dollar bill with which to buy a good dinner. So the boys did not eat the hardtack in their haversacks, though they brought a good stock along with them.

Private Huyck is the recruiting officer for Co. I. at Waterloo. He is a son of John Huyck of Franklin and a nephew of Dr. Darby at Waterloo.

KILLED BY MARINES.

ONE HUNDRED SPANIARDS SLAIN IN A BATTLE.

Cubans Co-Operate with United States Forces and the Common Enemy Is Completely Routed—Eighteen Spanish Prisoners Captured.

Rout of the Dons.

A special cable from Mole St. Nicholas describes Tuesday's battle at Camp McCalla, Guantanamo bay. It says that more than 100 Spaniards lie dead as the result of the engagement. Their fine equipment of Mauser rifles—rifles that have picked off marines at long distances—are stacked in the American camp. Two Cubans were killed in the fight and one American, Private Walker of Company D, was slightly wounded in the ankle. When the marines returned to camp after the battle they brought with them eighteen Spanish prisoners, including a lieutenant, something more than 100 rifles and about 10,000 rounds of ammunition.

The Americans, weary of jungle warfare, went into the enemy's hiding place and inflicted disastrous punishment. Capt. Elliott, Lieut. Lucas and Lieut. Bannon of Company C, with ninety marines and fifteen Cubans, composed one of the parties. Capt. Spicer, Lieut. Neville and Lieut. Shaw of Company D, with ninety marines and fifteen Cubans, made up the second party. Lieut. Mahoney and Lieut. Magill of Company E, with fifty marines and ten Cubans, formed the third party, while the fourth comprised Lieut. Ingate of Company F and fifty marines and a Cuban guide.

Thus it will be seen a scouting party of 300 officers and men, weakened by subdivision into four bands, ventured to drive a much superior force of Spaniards from cover. The primary object of the expedition was the destruction of the tank which supplied the Spanish with water. This was successfully accomplished. The Americans also captured a heliograph with which the Spaniards signaled information to the main army. The Americans and Cubans charged the headquarters of the Spaniards in a valley, drove out the dons with bullet and bayonet, hemmed them in and cut off their retreat, and as they showed no intention of surrendering the Dolphin dropped shells in their midst, causing great havoc and killing scores. A few stragglers managed to escape, but the marines were too tired to pursue them. The American victory was complete.

ALL IN SANTIAGO BAY.

Lieutenant Blue Sees Cervera's Whole Squadron.

Admiral Sampson has again assured the Navy Department that the Spanish fleet is all in Santiago harbor. He leaves no doubt about the presence of all the ships. None escaped to account for the "spook" ships that have been sighted in different parts of the West Indies. The Spanish Government has sent out many false advices to the effect that only a part of the fleet is in Santiago harbor. Sampson denies these reports. He is now certain that he has the whole fleet securely caged and that it cannot escape. "Lieut. Blue has made a detour of the harbor of Santiago," said Admiral Sampson in his bulletin to the Navy Department; "he reports the Spanish fleet all there." It is the first official information based on investigation by United States officers. Sampson has seen one or two of the ships. Some of his smaller boats had ventured into the mouth of the harbor and identified three of them. But Lieut. Blue went ashore, made a complete detour of the harbor, and positively identified all the Spanish ships.

GONE TO MANILA.

Second Division of Army of Occupation Sails Away.

Between 3,000 and 4,000 more of Uncle Sam's soldiers sailed out into the west Wednesday afternoon to swell the army of occupation in the land won from the dons by Dewey. Four big transports, the China, Colon, Zealandia and Senator, weighed anchor at San Francisco shortly after 1 o'clock, and, wafted by the cheers of 100,000 people along the water front, of thousands in escort craft that followed almost to the open sea; with bands playing and flags waving, steamed into the Pacific for the long voyage to Manila. The last the boys in blue heard of California was the cheers of San Francisco's people, the roar of their whistles, and of bombs and rockets. The last they saw of San Francisco was the farewell flutter of handkerchiefs and flags that bade them godspeed.

Enlisted Homesteaders Protected.

Congress passed a bill for the protection of homestead settlers who enter the military or naval service of the United States in time of war. The bill provides that the service in the war with Spain shall be considered as residence and work upon the land, and that by enlistment the claim shall not be forfeited.

BIRDSEYE VIEW OF GUANTANAMO.

RUIN BY SHELLS.

Vesuvius Fires Gun Cotton Missiles at a Santiago Fort.

Historical will become the work of destruction done by the United States dynamite cruiser Vesuvius shortly before 12 o'clock Saturday night. Under orders from Admiral Sampson the Vesuvius let fly three shells, each containing 200 pounds of gun cotton, at a fort standing on a headland on the western side of the entrance to Santiago harbor, and each of the projectiles did frightful execution. There was no flash, no smoke. There was no noise at first. The pneumatic guns on the little cruiser did their work silently. It was only when they felt the shock that the men on the other warships knew the Vesuvius was in action.

A few seconds after the first gun was fired there was a frightful convulsion on the land. On the hill, where the Spanish guns had withstood the missile of the ordinary ships of war, tons of rock and soil leaped high in the air. The land was smitten as by an earthquake. Terrible echoes rolled around and around through the shaken hills and mountains. Sampson's ships, far out to sea, trembled with the awful shock. Dust rose to the clouds and hid the scene of destruction. Then came a long silence; next another frightful upheaval, and followed by a third so quickly that the results of the two mingled in midair. The Vesuvius had tested herself. She was found perfect as a destroyer. She proved that no fortification can withstand her terrible missiles.

Just what damage she did could not be told from the sea. Whatever was within hundreds of feet of the point of impact must have gone to destruction. This was the first test of a dynamite cruiser in actual warfare, and naval officers are highly gratified with the results.

DISORDER AT CHICKAMAUGA.

Alleged that Lawlessness of Every Description Is Prevalent.

Gov. Atkinson, of Georgia, has been advised by the authorities of Walker County, wherein is located the Chickamauga Park reservation, that they are powerless to cope with the terrible condition of lawlessness now existing there. Gambling dens and "blind tigers" have their own way, and it is impossible to bring the guilty parties to justice. If a soldier is caught in wrong-doing and an effort made to effect his arrest, his comrades come to his assistance. The report avers that the outrages perpetrated there are beyond description. The Governor has commenced a thorough investigation, and if the truth of his information is confirmed he will communicate with President McKinley and the War Department, and demand that officers be compelled to keep order. It is said that Gen. Brooke has volunteered to detail a regiment for this duty if it can be consistently accomplished.

"WRITING HOME TO MOTHER."
A familiar scene at Chickamauga.

BUSHWHACKING WAR DREADED.

Fighting at Guantanamo Results in an Unpleasant Discovery.

The action at Guantanamo shows that the Spanish are not afraid to charge boldly upon the United States troops, and the prospects of a bushwhacking warfare disclosed by the Spanish movements are anything but agreeable to the persons who have been hoping for a short campaign. A good deal of surprise is expressed at the failure of the report to mention any substantial aid received from the insurgents by the United States marines camped on Crest hill. Re-enforcements were sent from our own ships, but it does not appear in the reports that the marines had help from the men best calculated from their experience in jungle fighting to be of service in an encounter with Spanish guerrilas.

BLANCO SUDDENLY OPENS FIRE.

Officers Believe His Resources Are Fast Dwindling.

At noon on Monday the batteries at San Diego and Morro Castle opened a terrific fire on the American blockading fleet off Havana. The fire was begun without reason, as no ships were within easy range. A Government report says that over 200 shots were fired, and it is believed that Blanco invited attack by opening fire, knowing that his resources are fast dwindling, and he wants to fight while he is able. This view was shared by Commodore Watson, who would not permit his ships to answer. Not a vessel was touched, and the nearest shot exploded 300 yards from the Hawk.

Whigham Says Havana Is Not Starving at Present.

Mr. Whigham, the English newspaper correspondent who was recently arrested in Havana, and later expelled from Cuba by Captain General Blanco, says the garrison of Havana numbers 50,000 men, including volunteers. Recruits are coming into the city daily. There is no prospect of starvation, he thinks, for some time. Meat sells for only 30 cents per pound. Flour is scarce, but there is plenty of corn meal and rice. The supply of coal may fail within a month, which would leave the city in darkness. There are now 15,000 tons in sight, and it is reported that 60,000 tons may be available. The temper of the troops is excellent, and their health is good. Large numbers of Cubans are already veering to the support of Spain. The former insurgent leader Masso-Parra has raised 1,000 men to help the Spanish. The defenses of the town have been greatly strengthened since the war began. Two hundred guns have been mounted in shore batteries, including six 12-inch rifles. According to Mr. Whigham, Havana is now practically impregnable, provided the Spaniards make a good fight. Two lines of defense have been completed inland within the last two months. It is believed that the capture of the city will demand 75,000 American troops.

HOBSON COMMENDED.

Admiral Sampson Tells of Gallant Work Done By Merrimac's Crew.

The Navy Department posted the following bulletin giving an official report from Sampson upon the heroism of Lieut. Hobson and his men in sinking the Merrimac in Santiago channel:

"U. S. Flagship New York, off Santiago, June 3.—Permit me to call your special attention to Assistant Naval Constructor Hobson. As stated in a telegram before coming here, I decided make the harbor entrance secure against the possibility of egress of the Spanish ships by obstructing the narrow part of the entrance by sinking a collier at that point. Upon calling upon Hobson for his professional opinion as to a sure method of sinking a ship, he manifested the most lively interest in the problem. After several days of consideration he presented a solution which he considered would insure the immediate sinking of a ship when she reached the desired point in the channel. This plan we prepared for execution when we reached Santiago. The plan contemplated a crew of only seven men and Hobson, who begged it might be intrusted to him. Nothing could have been more gallantly executed.

"The chief of staff of Admiral Cervera came out under a flag of truce with a letter from the admiral extolling the bravery of the crew in an unusual manner. I cannot myself too earnestly express my appreciation of the conduct of Hobson and his gallant crew. I venture to say that a more brave and daring thing has not been done since the Cushing blew up the Albemarle. Referring to the inspiring letter you addressed to the officers at the beginning of the war, I am sure you will offer a suitable professional reward to Hobson and his companions.

"W. T. SAMPSON."

SMASHED BY SHELLS.

Brick Fort and Earthworks at Caimanera Are Demolished.

The brick fort and earthworks at Caimanera, at the end of the railroad leading to the city of Guantanamo, were demolished Wednesday by the bombardment of the battleship Texas, the cruiser Marblehead and the auxiliary gunboat Suwanee. The bombardment lasted one hour and thirty minutes. The Texas steamed slowly up the channel leading to the fortifications, followed closely by the Marblehead. The Texas fired two shots as range-finders, both falling short and to the right. The Marblehead stood off to the west side of the channel and opened with her five-inch guns on the fort, knocking down part of the wall. The Texas then threw in some 12-inch shells, tearing down the wall of the fort and throwing the bricks and mortar thirty feet in the air. After badly damaging the fort the Marblehead stood further in to shell the earthworks and barracks at the west end of the harbor. She knocked them into the air, and when the Spaniards fled from the fort they were shelled by the St. Paul and driven into the bushes. The Spaniards fired only five shots, which did no damage.

Raided the Strawberries.

Some of Uncle Sam's regulars, passing through Ohio the other day, raided forty crates of strawberries which were on a station platform awaiting shipment. They offered to pay the owner for them; he was a man who wore the gray from '61 to '65, but he refused, and said: "I only wish there had been 100 instead of forty crates for the blue-coats—God bless 'em!"

HOUSE FOR HAWAII.

CONGRESSMEN ADOPT ANNEXATION RESOLUTION.

Eighteen Democrats Join in Making Up the 209 Yeas, While Three Republicans Are in 91 Nays—Roll Call on Party Lines.

Favor an Island State.

Washington special:

The Hawaiian debate, which continued in the House without interruption from Saturday until Wednesday, was one of the most notable in this Congress, Hawaiian annexation being considered of great commercial and strategic importance by its advocates, and being looked upon by its opponents as involving a radical departure from the long established policy of the country and likely to be followed by the inauguration of a pronounced policy of colonization, the abandonment of the Monroe doctrine and participation in international wrangles. More than half a hundred members participated in the debate.

From a party standpoint the result was awaited with the keenest interest. The Republicans presented practically unanimous support to the resolutions, only three Republican members voting in opposition. In the Democratic ranks the division upon the question was more marked, eighteen voting for annexation.

Debate continued seven hours Wednesday. Notable speeches were made by Messrs. Berry (Dem., Ky.), W. A. Smith (Rep., Mich.) and Hepburn (Rep., Pa.) for, and by Messrs. Johnson (Rep., Ind.) and Williams (Dem., Miss.) against the pending measure.

The resolutions relate in a preamble the offer of the Hawaiian Republic to cede all of its sovereignty and absolute title to the Government and crown lands, and then by resolution accept the cession and declare the islands annexed. The resolutions provide for a commission of five, at least two of whom shall be resident Hawaiians, to recommend to Congress such legislation as they may deem advisable.

The public debt of Hawaii, not to exceed $4,000,000, is assumed. Chinese immigration is prohibited. All treaties with other powers are declared null. It is provided that, until Congress shall provide for the government of the islands, all civil, judicial and military powers now exercised by the officers of the existing government shall be exercised in such manner as the President shall direct, and he is given power to appoint persons to put into effect a provisional government for the islands.

AS TO IMPORTS AND EXPORTS.

Comparative Statement for the Month of May Is Made Public.

The comparative statement of the imports and exports of the United States for the month of May, issued by the bureau of statistics, shows:

Merchandise—Exports, domestic, $108,694,733; increase as compared with May, 1897, about $32,400,000; imports, $53,258,847, of which about 48 per cent is free of duty; decrease, about $26,000,000.

Gold—Exports, $109,157; decrease, about $9,300,000; imports, $13,119,383; increase, about $12,500,000.

Silver—Exports, $4,184,432; decrease, about $150,000; imports, $488,568; decrease, $250,000.

For the eleven months of the present fiscal year there was an increase in the amount of domestic merchandise exported as compared with the same period last year of $157,138,821, and a decrease of $42,732,983 in the imports of domestic merchandise. There was also a decrease in the exports of gold amounting to $17,539,644, and an increase of $31,228,775 in the amount of gold imported. The amount of silver exported decreased by over $5,000,000, and there was an increase of $62,583 in the silver imports.

Nicaragua Canal Feasible.

Rear Admiral John G. Walker, president of the Nicaragua Canal Commission, before the Senate committee on the Nicaragua canal, stated that, while the commission had not yet completed its work, from the examinations already made the plan for a canal along the proposed route was entirely feasible. He estimated the canal could be built for $125,000,000, and thought by modifying the present plans the necessity for one or more dams could be avoided.

Knights of Honor Bar Women.

The Supreme lodge, Knights of Honor, in session at Washington, by a vote of 64 to 23, decided not to admit women to membership in the order. The ground taken was that an organization numbering 100,000 had been built up, and it would be unsafe to risk any fundamental change. The visiting Knights and their wives were given a reception by President McKinley.

Pauncefote to Be Retained.

Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British ambassador, has been advised by the British foreign office that he will be retained at Washington for another year. Representations were made recently by the administration, through Ambassador Hay in London, that the recall of Sir Julian at this time would be unwise.

Chicago Pays War Taxes.

The first day's war tax, in detail, as paid in Chicago, is as follows:

Beer	$61,051.57	Cigarettes	1.50
Cigars	1,961.00
Snuff	40.00	Total	$63,054.07
Tobacco	1.50

POLITICS OF THE DAY

THE SENATORS AND SILVER.

Some of the silver Senators are easily satisfied, as they showed when they voted at the last moment for the war revenue bill as it came from the conference committee with the proviso for the coinage of the seigniorage stricken out and an authorization for the coining of a million and a half of silver dollars a month put in place thereof. This concession to the silver men amounts to very little indeed, for the mints have been turning out a million of dollars of the white metal every month under existing law, and the addition of a half million more a month, or six millions of them in the course of a year, is so small a matter as to scarcely be worth mentioning in connection with so important a measure as this bill, which provides for the collection of additional taxes to the amount of probably $150,000,000 a year, and for the increase of the interest-bearing public debt by the issuance of $400,000,000 more of bonds. Had the silver Senators stood by each other earnestly they could have undoubtedly secured better terms from the gold majority in the House. It was probably their desire not to delay action on the bill, but to put the Government in command at once of all the money it needs for the prosecution of the war that prompted them to vote as they did.—New York News.

Right Kind of Men.

Quay's success in buying and bulldozing the Pennsylvania Republican convention and thus securing the nomination of his candidate for Governor may prove the defeat of his party in the Keystone State. It is alleged that if the Democrats nominate the right man for Governor they will be able to elect him. This condition of affairs is not peculiar to Pennsylvania. All over the country facts are making it evident that this year presents a great opportunity for the Democratic party. The people are disgusted with the hypocrisy and dishonesty of the Republicans, and are ready to deprive them of the power which they have abused. But, as in Pennsylvania, Democratic success requires that the right kind of men be nominated by the Democrats. However, Democratic success with the wrong kind of men for candidates would be worse than defeat, for the effect of electing incompetent or unsound men this fall would be to imperil the chances of victory in the campaign of 1900. This paper has urged care in the selection of Democratic candidates for Congress, because such care will insure future victories. Let wise and loyal Democrats be chosen, and let the cranks and the men of one idea remain in the harmless seclusion of private life.—Chicago Dispatch.

Wanamaker Is Right.

"In order for us to have good times the people must not only have money, but they must also spend it freely. The two things are reciprocal. It is the market that keeps the factories and the stores going and pays the wages." This is what John Wanamaker said recently. Mr. Wanamaker is one of the few rich men in this country with a glimmer of economic sense. The average editorial idiot is advising the people to save their money. They must be saving it; they certainly are not spending much of it. Nothing will so quickly breed hard times as an epidemic of economy. There is a circulating medium of but $23 per capita, and probably $15 of this is in the banks or otherwise idle. If the people save the remaining $8—which is not much to save—what becomes of our circulation medium? And yet the people are urged to save their money. You might as well ask a man to save his breath or dam up the circulation of his blood. Under our laughable system of society the spendthrift is a benefactor and the prudent is an enemy to the public welfare.

A New Definition.

The word "plutocrat" does not necessarily mean a rich man. It is a strange fact that a vast majority of plutocrats are poor men—financially as well as morally poor—while many wealthy people are the most genuine of Democrats. A plutocrat is one who looks upon wealth as a warrant of respectability, and with the right of industrial and political authority, and of government of, by and for the rich. The toadies to wealth, the caterers to monopoly government, and the blind, unthinking partisan who votes and works for the party with a record adverse to the popular interest is the meanest, most contemptible and most dangerous plutocrat, though not worth a dollar.—Kansas Standard.

Raising Money for the War.

If ordinary common sense, instead of the desire to favor certain contributors to the Republican campaign fund of 1896, were animating the majority in Congress the war revenue bill would have been constructed on the lines suggested by the Democratic minority, instead of on those advocated by the agents of confederated corporations. The Democratic plan provided ample revenue for the expenses of the war without unduly taxing any portion of the community. It authorized a new issue of treasury notes—greenbacks so called—to an amount that could be absorbed by the business of the country with benefit to all excepting, perhaps, the professional money lenders. It provided for the coinage of a certain quantity of silver now lying idle in the vaults of the Government, and it levied taxes impartially on those best able to pay them. The Republican plan, on the other hand, is to increase the bonded debt of the nation enormously and to save all the big corporations and trusts that came up with liberal contributions two years ago to encompass the defeat of William J. Bryan for the presidency of the United States.

Coal Miners Starving.

There are reconcentrados in the United States. There are Weylers and Blancos, exercising their despotic power in the land of the free and the home of the brave. Hazelton miners are starving and have petitioned Congress to vote money for their aid. Will not Senator Thurston, whose heart was touched by the sufferings of the Cuban reconcentrados, visit Hazelton? Will not the Republican President, who wanted to send bread to the starving people of Cuba, send a few crumbs to the victims of the coal trust Weylers of Pennsylvania? Sheriff Martin and his men taught the Hazelton miners that to strike meant death. That the rifles of the sheriff's guard would blow the remnants of life out of the emaciated bodies of starving strikers. Men who have faced the deadly rifles carried by the hired assassins of the coal barons, and who have appealed to the courts of justice, only to be denied it, are not likely to demand their rights. The danger is too great. Therefore these poor wretches are now begging Congress for assistance. Miserable as their lives are, still they want to preserve them, and rather than starve, and in preference to being murdered, they make mendicants of themselves. Truly this is a land of liberty! A land where the trusts are protected and the people starved.—Chicago Dispatch.

Coining the Seigniorage.

"Silver sentiment is dead," shouts a Chicago administration organ one day, and the next day it mourns over the fact that the House makes a "concession" to silver in the matter of coining the seigniorage. If silver sentiment is dead, why is the House making a "concession" to it? What is the House afraid of? Ghosts? It is evident that the Government needs money. There is $42,000,000 worth of silver in the treasury, but that must not be coined, says the gold-advocating press. "Bonds are what we want. Gold bonds are preferred, but as we can't get them we will take coin bonds." But why bonds instead of the good money lying in the vaults of the treasury? Because bonds bear interest. Bonds make bankers rich. Bonds force the people to pay tribute to the plutocrat, and coining the bullion into money does not put any tax on the people to be paid into the hands of bondholders. Nevertheless the seigniorage is to be coined, and all because the members of the House of Representatives are afraid of ghosts.—Chicago Dispatch.

Reign of Trusts.

With absolute unanimity the Republican Senators have voted to tax the people and not to tax the trusts. Solid as a Roman phalanx the Republicans presented an unbroken front to the Democratic attempt at reaching the hoarded millions of the plutocrats. Taxes on the necessities of life were favored by the Republicans. The poor man's luxuries were gladly placed on the tax list by these patriotic and noble minded gentlemen; when a tax on corporations was suggested a howl of indignant protest was raised and the proposition was promptly voted down. When the Republicans could not argue they descended to ridicule, and pretended to see something extremely funny in the idea of taxing trusts. That is just the way the aristocrats treated the demands of the people before the French revolution inaugurated a reign of terror. There will be no reign of terror in the United States, but, thanks to the intelligence of the common people, there will cease to exist the reign of trust.—Exchange.

To Authorize Income Tax.

Representative Barlow, of California, has introduced a joint resolution to amend the Constitution by adding as the close of the first clause of section 8, article 1, after the words of "United States," the following: "But nothing in this clause, or in this constitution, shall be so construed or interpreted as to destroy or abridge in any way the right of Congress, whenever in its discretion it may be deemed necessary for the public good, to levy a tax on incomes in excess of $2,000 per annum, and Congress is expressly empowered to levy such a tax, fixing either a common rate for all or a graded scale, according to the amount of income, as in its discretion may seem best for the welfare of the nation."

The One Exception.

President Steyn, of the Orange Free State, is probably the only living ruler of a country who has publicly denounced the capitalist class. He warned his hearers against capitalists, who were sucking the lifeblood from the veins of the working men. Capitalists in the sister republic (the Transvaal), when they could not get their way, shut down the mines. This was simply taking the bread out of the mouths of the working men. Looking north there was a great Imperialist (no doubt meaning Cecil Rhodes), under the guise of philanthropy, calling the working men into the country to slave for him, for he had a monopoly in the country.—Justice.

Labor's Vain Appeal.

Labor is whining around in Congress with a lot of petitions to its masters to give it a crumb of legislation. The votes of the workers made this Republican Congress, yet their pitiable appeals are contemptuously ignored. When smooth and wise labor catches onto its power it will not go to Congress with either a petition or a demand. Congress will listen with both ears to the tenor of labor's wishes. Now it bows to capital, simply because capital, working through the ignorance of the enfranchised, makes Congressmen and legislation.—Coming Nation.

The Judge Is King.

The government by injunction is the most absolute despotism and the most flagrant usurpation known to organized society. The power of the Federal judges, as construed by themselves, is greater than the Constitution or the fundamental rights of men. It suspends the freedom of speech and of the press. It destroys individual liberty. It exceeds in pretension and in performance the exploded doctrine of the divine right of kings. No greater menace to our liberties could be devised than the Federal judge's arbitrary assumption of omnipotence and infallibility.—Ohio News.

FIFTY YEARS OLD

Why let your neighbors know it?

And why give them a chance to guess you are even five or ten years more?

Better give them good reasons for guessing the other way. It is very easy; for nothing tells of age so quickly as gray hair.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

is a youth-renewer.

It hides the age under a luxuriant growth of hair the color of youth.

It never fails to restore color to gray hair. It will stop the hair from coming out also.

It feeds the hair bulbs. Thin hair becomes thick hair, and short hair becomes long hair.

It cleanses the scalp; removes all dandruff, and prevents its formation.

We have a book on the Hair which we will gladly send you.

If you do not obtain all the benefits you expected from the use of the Vigor, write the doctor about it. Probably there is some difficulty with your general system which may be easily removed. Address, Dr. J. C. Ayer, Lowell, Mass.

Streets of Manila Are Modern.

The streets of Manila are so modern as to be quite out of keeping with the general appearance of the town. They are perfectly straight, macadamized, and provided with ample granite walks. Of these the Escolta and the Rosario are the best. In both there are excellent shops, kept principally by Chinese merchants, most of whom come from Amoy. Tin-roofed houses line each side of the thoroughfare.

THE ILLS OF WOMEN

And How Mrs. Pinkham Helps Overcome Them.

Mrs. MARY BOFLINGER, 1101 Marianna St., Chicago, Ill., to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I have been troubled for the past two years with falling of the womb, leucorrhœa, pains over my body, sick headaches, backache, nervousness and weakness. I tried doctors and various remedies without relief. After taking two bottles of your Vegetable Compound, the relief I obtained was truly wonderful. I have now taken several more bottles of your famous medicine, and can say that I am entirely cured."

Mrs. HENRY DOBB, No. 806 Findley St., Cincinnati, Ohio, to Mrs. Pinkham:

"For a long time I suffered with chronic inflammation of the womb, pain in abdomen and bearing-down feeling. Was very nervous at times, and so weak I was hardly able to do anything. Was subject to headaches, also troubled with leucorrhœa. After doctoring for many months with different physicians, and getting no relief, I had given up all hope of being well again when I read of the great good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was doing. I decided immediately to give it a trial. The result was simply past belief. After taking four bottles of Vegetable Compound and using three packages of Sanative Wash I can say I feel like a new woman. I deem it my duty to announce the fact to my fellow sufferers that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable remedies have entirely cured me of all my pains and suffering. I have her alone to thank for my recovery, for which I am grateful. May heaven bless her for the good work she is doing for our sex."

ESTIMATING HIS VALUE.

The Retaining Fee that a Stranger Gave a Young Lawyer.

Judge Bobbs is one of those men who have attained a standing in their profession that permits them to admit faults in their earlier career without impairing their present standing as able lawyers.

"I once had an experience while coming west on a train from New York that I'll never forget," tells the Judge. "After three other gentlemen and myself had played whist for a couple of hours, we fell to discussing numerous subjects of current interest. One of our number seemed to be absorbed in his own meditations and contributed but little to the conversation. Finally, as pertinent to a subject under consideration, he propounded a somewhat complex problem in law and turned to me for an answer, for I had not neglected to make known my calling.

"Not being able to furnish him with a solution, I foolishly sought to cover my ignorance by a resort to dignity and a pretended regard for professional ethics. 'This is not the time or place for transacting legal business,' said I. 'The question you submit is a very important one'—I went on, with the solemnity of an owl and about the same degree of wisdom. 'I would be glad to give you the benefit of my opinion and advice at my office and after receiving a retainer.' With that I handed him my card, on which appeared the fact that I was an attorney and counselor-at-law, notary public, member of a sure-thing collection agency, real estate operator, Circuit Court commissioner, and life insurance man.

"He looked at the thing in an amused way, reached into his pocket, handed me a half dollar with the remark that he had nothing smaller, and repeated his law question. While I was arranging to thrash him one of the other men whispered to me that it was Rufus Choate. I sneaked into the smoker, pulled my cap over my face, and never removed it till I reached the home depot."—Detroit Free Press.

A FATALITY AVOIDED

From the Democrat, Goshen, Ind.

When neuralgia is accompanied by a dull, heavy pain near the heart, frequently becoming intense, it generally terminates fatally. Mrs. Nancy Flynn, who lives near Goshen, Ind., survived such an attack and her advice is worth heeding.

"In the fall of '92," she said, "I began to have trouble with my heart. There was a sharp pain in my breast, which became rapidly worse. The doctor was puzzled and put me under the influence of opiates. These sharp attacks followed one another at intervals and I became weak and had a haggard look. I was constantly in pain, seldom slept and had no appetite.

"At the end of two years I was confined to my couch most of the time and the doctors agreed that my death was only a matter of a short time.

A Serious Time.

"One day I noticed in a newspaper an item about a woman having been cured of neuralgia of the heart by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and I concluded to try them. When I had finished one box I noticed an improvement in my condition, and when I had taken twelve boxes I was completely cured. 'Those pills have done for you what we could not do,' said one of my physicians; 'they have saved your life.' That was two years ago and my heart has not troubled me since. I believe I owe my life to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and I take pleasure in telling others about them."

Among the many forms of neuralgia are headache, nervousness, paralysis, apoplexy and locomotor ataxia. Some of these were considered incurable until Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People were formulated. To-day thousands testify to having been cured of such diseases by these pills. Doctors frequently prescribe them and all druggists sell them.

The Beautiful Women of Toledo.

As we clattered along the roughly cobbled streets which led to the Zocodover, or market-place, women came to the windows to have a peep at the strangers who arrived with such unseemly haste. They are very beautiful, the women of Toledo, tall and willowy, and as dark as night, and as mysterious. Too late we saw that every iron reja through which the dark eye of the Semitic maidens flashed down upon us was surmounted by the sacred symbol, and that all are orthodox Christians in Toledo to-day. While the creeds have vanished, the physical characteristics have not; and we met on every side faces which tell the story of the vanished races more interestingly than even the deserted synagogues and the silent mosques.—Century.

The session of the House on Saturday was devoted to debate upon the Hawaiian resolutions. The Senate amendments to the bill organizing the naval hospital corps was concurred in.

In the House on Monday the annexation of Hawaii to the United States was under discussion. Mr. Newlands (silverite, Nev.) introduced the debate with a speech in support of his resolution for annexation. For nearly two hours the Senate had under discussion the resolution of Mr. Lodge (Mass.), directing the Claims Committee to make an inquiry as to the disposition of the money appropriated by Congress to pay the claim of the book concern of the Methodist Episcopal Church South. A heated colloquy between Mr. Chandler (N. H.) and Mr. Pasco was the feature of the discussion. A bill granting to the Cripple Creek Railroad Company of Colorado a right of way through the Pike's Peak timber land reserve was passed. An act authorizing the appointment of a nonpartisan commission to collate information and to consider and recommend legislation to meet the problems presented by labor, agriculture and capital was passed.

The Hawaiian debate proceeded in the House on Tuesday. Mr. Grosvenor (Rep., O.) made the principal speech of the day. At the session of the Senate the resolution of Mr. Lodge (Mass.), directing that an inquiry be made into the disposition made of the Methodist Book Concern claim, which was paid recently by Congress, was adopted without division. In the course of the debate upon it Mr. Morgan (Ala.) charged that the resolution was insincere and had been drawn for political effect. This statement Mr. Lodge denied vigorously, saying his only purpose in offering the resolution was that all the facts concerning the matter should be laid before the people. The measure to incorporate the International American Bank was under discussion for three hours, the debate eliciting some interesting facts concerning the foreign trade of this country. Final action was not taken on the bill. A bill to authorize a retired list for enlisted men and appointed petty officers of the United States navy was passed.

By a vote of 209 to 91 the House of Representatives Wednesday afternoon adopted the Newlands resolutions, providing for the annexation of Hawaii. The debate, which had continued without interruption since Saturday, had been one of the most notable of this Congress, the proposed annexation being considered of great commercial and strategic importance by its advocates, and being looked upon by its opponents as involving a radical departure from the long-established policy of the country and likely to be followed by the inauguration of a pronounced policy of colonization, the abandonment of the Monroe doctrine and participation in international wrangles. More than half a hundred members participated in the debate. The Senate resumed consideration of the International American bank bill. An amendment was accepted by the committee and adopted extending the privileges of the measure to all citizens of the United States instead of restricting them to those mentioned in the bill. When the Senate adjourned consideration of the bill had not been concluded.

In the House on Thursday Mr. Dingley (Rep., Me.) called up the bill supplemental to the war revenue measure, designed to supply some omissions and to strengthen the means of carrying out the revenue act. It exempts from taxation mutual, casualty, fidelity and guaranty companies conducted not for profit. After explanation by Mr. Dingley the bill was passed. The House passed a bill authorizing the construction of a bridge across Niagara river at Grand Island, and then went into committee of the whole to consider the general deficiency bill. In the general debate upon the bill Mr. Wilson (Dem., S. C.) delivered a speech in support of the Lodge immigration bill, and Mr. Carmack (Dem., Tenn.) spoke upon the probability of the war ending in the inauguration of a policy of territorial aggression. The bill was not disposed of when the House adjourned. After devoting an hour to the discussion of the bill restoring the annuities to the Sisseton and Wahpeton bands of Sioux Indians the Senate resumed the consideration of the bill to incorporate the International American Bank. A test on an amendment clearly indicated that a majority of the Senate favored the measure. The message clerk of the House of Representatives delivered to the Senate the Hawaiian annexation resolution presented by the House the evening before.

The Foreign Relations Committee, through Mr. Davis, the chairman, on Friday reported favorably to the Senate the Newlands resolutions for the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands. The bill to incorporate the International American Bank, in accordance with the recommendation of the Pan-American congress, which has occupied a greater part of the Senate's time during the week was passed by a vote of 26 to 23. The conference report on the bankruptcy bill was presented and read, but no action was taken. The general deficiency bill occupied the attention of the House.

Ant Knowledge.

The president of the Agassiz Association, H. H. Ballard, recently caught an ant near its hill, shut it up in a box, carried it 150 feet away and set it free in the middle of a sandy road. What followed he thus describes: "It seemed at first bewildered. Then it climbed to the top of a ridge of sand, erected its body as high as possible, waved its antennae for several seconds, and then started in a straight line for home."

Too Much for Him.

"Sad about Joe Smith's insanity, poor fellow."

"What ailed him?"

"Well—he was janitor in a bank, and broke down his constitution trying to keep it warm enough for thin clerks and cool enough for the fat ones."

Cloves for the World.

The two little islands of Zanzibar and Pemba furnish four-fifths of the cloves consumed by the world.

Flying Machines.

If a flying machine had power to vary its inclinations, when once launched into the mean velocity of the wind it could take advantage of the varying velocity and direction of the wind. Failing with the slower wind, it would accumulate the energy which it would have to expend in rising with the higher and thus become capable of indefinite sustainment or advance. It would require, however, an even more intimate knowledge and quick perception of the currents of the air than a mariner possesses as to sea currents.

INDIANA INCIDENTS.

RECORD OF EVENTS OF THE PAST WEEK.

Appellate Court Ruling Affects Many Mortgages—Damage by Lightning at Rushville Stock Farm—Received a Poisoned Orange.

Makes Many Mortgages Void.

A recent decision of the State Appellate Court, holding that a mortgage given to a corporation is void if the acknowledgment is made before an officer who is also an officer of the corporation, has created consternation among Indiana capitalists who have loaned money on mortgages so attested. Many of the larger corporations, such as trust companies, manufacturers and railroads, have had one or more of their officers take out commissions as notaries public on account of the convenience of having acknowledgment so made, and many mortgages held by them are attested by their officers as notaries. Under the court's ruling these mortgages are not good against other mortgages properly attested.

Men and Horses Killed.

Lightning struck a barn at the Flash stock farm at Rushville during a storm. Passing through the first floor of the barn, the bolt killed Ernest Sage, a groom; fatally injured Richard Hanna of New York and Thomas Bodine of Rushville, and knocked down and stunned the manager of the stables, George Weeks. Emma Macy, a fast trotting mare owned by Brann & Vance of Rushville, was killed. Woodford C., a trotting stallion, record 2:27, and Roan Dick, trial mark 2:06, both owned at Rushville, were so badly injured as to make their recovery doubtful. The dead groom was 24 years old and the son of Dr. Sage of Hartford City.

Indicted in Faith-Cure Case.

The Grand Jury at Marion found indictments against William Johnson, the Rev. George R. Archer and the latter's wife upon the charge of manslaughter. All are prisoners in the county jail. They are believers in the faith cure for disease. Mrs. Johnson, the wife of one of the prisoners, died, it is claimed, for want of medical attention. An inquest was held, and Coroner Kimball's verdict was that Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Archer were responsible for her death. This caused warrants to be issued for their arrest, and they were confined in jail to await the finding of the Grand Jury.

Poison in an Orange.

Mrs. Nora Woelfe of Terre Haute found an orange on her table with a note, saying it was exceptionally good and that it was for her alone. She noticed the orange was soft inside while the rind was fresh. Dr. Padget made an analysis of the juice, from an opening at the blossom side, and found cocaine had been injected into the fruit. The doctor tasted the juice and for a time his power of articulation was impaired. Mrs. Woelfe secured a divorce not long ago after a heated lawsuit, but she does not know of anyone who would try to poison her.

Within Our Borders.

At Brazil, Mrs. William Cristy died of fright.

An electric railway from Terre Haute to Brazil is projected.

W. J. Elmore, a Chicagoan, about 60 years old, was struck by a train and killed at Chesterton.

At Terre Haute, S. J. Slade was sentenced to from two to five years in the penitentiary for bigamy.

A distinct earthquake shock was felt at Evansville. It was perceptible in the taller buildings of the city.

Allen Hensell, 25 years old, was drowned while bathing in the Ohio River at Evansville. The body was not recovered.

Benjamin Badgley, who recently enlisted in the war from near Shelbyville, was drowned by falling from a boat at Tampa, Fla.

At Shelbyville, Jerry Woodruff, white, who was assisting officers to arrest James Jackson, colored, was killed by Frank Van Meter, colored.

There were so many protests that the plan of the Standard Oil Company to make Anderson the headquarters for the gas belt has been reconsidered.

The Rev. R. G. Hammond, a Methodist minister of Whitestown, has been suspended from the ministry by the ecclesiastical court of northwest conference.

The dwelling of William Doner, a Somerset farmer, was struck by lightning, which killed a little daughter of Mr. Doner's. A boy in the same room was badly injured and will die.

Emma A. Henry, wife of William B. Henry, for years a prominent merchant of Lebanon, has sued for divorce and $10,000 alimony. The complaint includes some sensational allegations.

The Globe Life and Accident Insurance Company of Indianapolis has been placed in the hands of a receiver by Judge Harvey of the Superior Court on complaint of Melita Allen, who charges gross mismanagement of its affairs and says it is insolvent.

At Lebanon, Coroner Armstrong completed his inquiry into the death of Seth Nease, killed by his stepfather, Fred Homaear. The evidence apparently shows the shooting to have been deliberately planned and executed without provocation. During the examination Mrs. Homaear threatened to kill her husband in case he was acquitted.

It is learned William Hanley, the young man of Chester township who was sent to Longcliff asylum, became deranged through the work of an anonymous letter writer. He was infatuated with a young woman, who received a vile communication with young Hanley's signature attached, and soon afterward he received a letter of the same character bearing the name of the girl. The breaking off of the intimacy so preyed upon his mind that he became violently deranged. His condition is believed to be hopeless.

The funeral of Charles Wamsley, who died last February, has just been held at Huntertown. Six months ago Wamsley, a train dispatcher of the Southern Pacific Railroad in Texas, was sandbagged and robbed in Chicago and died from the injuries. His body was cremated.

W. C. McCurdy and Arthur Dickson, well-known citizens of Zionsville, were arrested recently on a Federal grand jury indictment charged with manufacturing oleomargarine. The case was called for trial, when it was found both defendants had enlisted in the army and gone to the front to fight for their country.

Philip Gearhart of the Amish neighborhood, near Kokomo, was killed by lightning, and a son of Louis Kring was fatally injured. At the same time lightning struck a tree under which a picnic party was sheltering and one child was fatally hurt.

The Indianapolis Sentinel notes that a complete organization of tin-plate workers of Indiana has begun, in view of the approaching wage controversies. There are about 3,000 skilled workers in the Indiana plants. The plants, six in number, are located at Anderson, Montpelier, Gas City, Atlanta, Middletown and Elwood, the last named being the firts one built in this country, and at present the largest.

Sailors and Their Grievances.

Violence is always objectionable, and pointedly so, when exerted upon an unfortunate liver, stomach or bowels by dosing with purgatives which weaken the intestines. Use Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.

The Button Craze.

A woman I know, says a writer in the Washington Post, has a brother in camp at Chickamauga, and fired by the older women's stories of how we used to send comfort boxes to the soldiers more than thirty years ago she wrote to her brother, asking him what he and his comrades stood most in need of. His answer came the other day. It was brief, but full of meaning to every officer who has suffered from the modern girl's brass button craze.

"Dear sister," it ran; "send me safety pins. I've just met fifteen new girls."

TAKES AN OUTING

A Huntington Editor Fattens on DeKalb County Hospitality.

(The Farmer's Guide.)

The doctor felt THE GUIDE man's pulse, examined his tongue and financial standing and prescribed a roust about in rural weather. This is why Cal Husselman's kind urgent invitation to come up into the land of milk and honey, strawberries and cream was accepted. These would be better than blue mass pills and castor oil and other low priced medicines. I have been up here three days and the hectic flush has left my cheek; the sun and other good things have painted a different hue; the aforesaid cream and berries have made glad the "waist" places and given a tailor- made fit to my store clothes.

I am lying under the wide-spreading branches of the mammouth sweet locust and the summer wind is floating waves with my pompadour like the waves in Sampson's pennant. The bees are buzzing overhead, the roses are casting a sweet perfume, the fruit is bending the limbs, the woodpecker is beating a tattoo on the corner of the barn, the engine in the dairy room is "churning" ice cream, the man in the corn says, "Git up, Nell," the big White Java rooster is crowing, "Cock-a-doodle-Dewey," and Teddy is crying, "Mamma, numy-num, numy-num."

Everything and everybody up here is busy and if a "patient" has but a spark of energy left it will be kindled into a flame by catching the spirit pervading this busy farm. If THE GUIDE is better than usual this week while the "man" is away credit Echo Farm and the office "devil" with accomplishment.

Yesterday we returned from the lakes of Steuben county where we enticed the finny members to partake of angle worms we tried to down We stopped at the fine fruit farm of Prof. L. D. Creel north of Angola, and where we dug cellars in the chip pile in search of worms and pleasure. I could tell a fish story now, but I'm lying under Mr. Husselman's shade tree and mustn't do it. Flashing spangles! My nerves tingle yet from the shock of the onsets. Aye, days of rapture, glory and fun! Can I contentedly leave these delights for the walled sanctum? I long to aid in carrying out the plans made to revisit the hospitable professor and his family and again feel the joy that can come only to the country man.

At Echo Farm the latch string dangles on the outside and the atrophied anatomy of The Guide man has a standing invitation to pull it. This is a performance in which he is becoming an adept.

The crop prospects in DeKalb and Steuben are quite promising. The farms are generally in good repair and well tilled. The north portion of Steuben county is very hilly, the highest point in the state being in this county. The soil is sandy but fertile and does not wash. A hill on John Stroh's farm, we would estimate, is two hundred feet above the lake and, although it is in corn and is being cultivated, does not gully by the hardest rains. This is characteristic of a large portion of the county. The hills, valleys, green fields and woodlands make a grand and beautiful picture.

OLD SETTLER NOTES.

The speeches were all good and in good taste. Though all or nearly all were by pioneers, they had the snap and fire of early days.

The band delighted the audience, of course and Mrs. Shull's singing was unusually fine. There were plenty of seats, plenty of shade and a clean grass lawn, and everything calculated to make the occasion pleasant. It was noticed that the grounds were dotted with many family groups enjoying lunch, though many preferred to go to restaurants and hotels. But there were many faces, once familiar at these gatherings, that were absent now. They had passed "over the dark river" during the past year.

THE

LATEST WAR NEWS.

Sampson has pulled up a lot of submarine mines in the harbor at Guantanamo, making it safe now for ships to enter.

Landing of our troops began at a point near Santiago yesterday, Wednesday, morning. There was little resistance for our ships had pretended to attack another place a short distance away. Our losses so far are slight. We expect to get forces ashore in such a way as to attack the Spaniards from several different points.

It now appears that the reason the Spaniards will not let Hobson be exchanged, is that he saw too much, before they got him inside the walls. He probably knows how many ships they have, and the probable strength of their forts and army, and where they are located. It would not pay to let such a man loose till after the battle is fought.

Going over, Roosevelt's "rough riders" of his cowboy regiment, many of them got sick on the voyage.

It appears that the big expedition did not make very fast time going over, as there were so many ships, both cruisers and transports it was hard to keep together. There must have been about sixty in all when they assembled with Sampson's and Schley's fleets off Santiago. They left Tampa at 8 a. m. June 14; passed Key West next morning, June 15; passed Salt Keys June 16; Cape Coco 10 a. m. June 17; sighted the north coast of the Province of Santiago June 17 in afternoon; passed Lobos Key June 18. Rounded the east end of Cuba at 10 a. m. of Sunday last, June 19. There they turned west reaching Santiago about noon on Monday June 20.

As it has been but about two months since the war began, it can be seen that we have accomplished a good deal. Important events are probably going on in Cuba today. As we now have use of a cable, we can get the news the next day.

Col. Allen, who has chief control of the cable at Santiago is from South Bend, Ind. He has been in the regular army for some years.

Friday's Daily.

There is a mass of news from Cuba, but the substance is that Shafter's entire army is landed and have driven the Spaniards back with little or no loss. A battle may have taken place yesterday or today. It must come

THE WAR BONDS.

The secretary of the treasury invites subscriptions from the people of the United States for the $200 millions of 3 per cent war bonds, now authorized by congress. They will be on sale from now up to 3 p. m. of the 14th day of July, at par. The coupon bonds are in sizes, $20, $100, $500, and $1000. The registered bonds are $20. $100, $500, $1,000, $5,000 and $10,000. All will be dated Aug. 1, 1898, and payable in coin at the pleasure of the government, after ten years and due in twenty years, or Aug. 1, 1918. The first come will be the first served, as it is believed more subscriptions will be taken than the 200 millions. But in order to prevent taking too much money out of circulation too suddenly, only one-fifth will be issued first than another ten days later, and so on. Thus if a man takes $1,000 he will get $200 at a time, and ten days later another $200. All kinds of national money is used to buy these bonds, and as certificates of deposit issued by the U. S. treasurer can be used to buy bonds, it means that silver as well as gold, treasury notes, gold and silver certificates and national bank bills may be utilized to purchase bonds. Postoffice money orders are good, or currency may be sent by registered letter or mail. A blank form for these remittances has been prepared and can be had at banks or at the subtreasury. ACTION NEEDED.

Not Stimulated Action, but Sustaining, Nourishing and Fixed Action as Generated by

Dr. WHEELER'S NERVE VITALIZER

To be healthy, strong nervous action must be well supplied to the organs. There is no activity in the body except by and through the nerves. The heart, liver, kidneys and everything are inactive from lack of nerve power. Poisons remain in the body because there is no nerve power to expel them. Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer cures by its action on the nerves; it is at once food and medicine for them. It sustains and nourishes by its soothing effect; produces refreshing sleep, which enables them to recuperate. It regulates so that no waste occurs; it cures the cause, goes to the root and restores health. C. N. Pace, Roseville, Ohio, tells in the following words what it did for him:

"I was prostrated about a year ago and kept growing worse under treatment of my physician until I could not sleep or hold a small object safely. I was reduced to 110 pounds and to a state of absolute hopelessness. I commenced using Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer. Improvement was noticable from first dose, was able to sleep, regained muscular control, nervousness abated; I continued to improve, and from the use of seven bottles I am today in perfect health, weighing 152 pounds, a gain of 42 pounds in a few weeks."

When his nerves were restored to healthy action, his food made good, rich blood; the blood made flesh, strength and health.

Hats for the Dude—we'd like to see him crushed,
Hats for men in Auburn, and men in Butler too,
Hats for men in Garrett and also Waterloo,
Hats for all Corunna, hats for all St. Joe,
Hats for those two common chaps, John Doe and Richard Roe,
Hats for all the County, both town and Country too,
Hats for All The World including Yankee Doodle do."

A CLEVER TRICK

It certainly looks like it, but there is really no trick about it. Anybody can try it who has Lame Back and Weak Kidneys, Malaria or nervous troubles. We mean he can cure himself right away by taking Electric Bitters. This medicine tones up the whole system, acts as a stimulant to Liver and Kidneys, is a blood purifier and nerve tonic. It cures Constipation, Headache, Fainting Spells, Sleeplessness and Melancholy. It is purely vegetable, a mild laxative and restores the system to its natural vigor. Try Electric Bitters and and be convinced that they are a miracle worker. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50 cent bottle at H. B. McCord's Drugstore. 3

HAD A FIRE

Butler came near having a bad fire this morning, It started from explosion of a gasolene stove in the room across from Stiefel drugstore. There was a hot fight for a time, and all the inside was burned out but the shell was saved. It is a wonder the whole range of wooden buildings was not destroyed. The water works alone helped them to save it.

SUMMER CATARRH

Catarrh of the bowels, because it is most prevalent in the summer months, is called summer catarrh.

Itsurprises many that bowel trouble is catarrhal. Dr. Hartman's books make this plain. Write to the Pe-ru-na Medicine Co., Columbus, O., for them. They tell all about catarrh and how Pe-ru-na cures it wherever located.

"I had chronic diarrhœa for fifteen years," writes Mr. T. E. Miller, Grand Prairie, Tex. "I tried many medicines and doctors in vain. At last Pe-ru-na was recommended, and it relieved and cured me at once."

Mr. John Harting, 638 Main St., Cincinnati, O., writes: "My wife and myself took your Pe-ru-na for chronic diarrhœa and it cured us. No doctor or medicine we tried before helped us."

Mr. Edward Wormack, Ledbetter, Tex., writes: "Pe-ru-na for bowel troubles is unequalled by anything in my experience. I owe my life to Pe-ru-na, and shall always recommend it to those suffering as I was."

Mr. John Edgarton, 1020 Third Ave., Altoona, Pa., says: "I suffered from dysentery for three years I took Pe-ru-na and am now well."

AT NEWVILLE.

Supt. Coe reports a grand meeting at Newville last evening for the joint commencement of Stafford and Newville townships. The graduates did nobly and the patrons of the school, who attended in great numbers, were greatly pleased to hear the various exercises and speeches. They had not before realized how well their children could do. And the music by Roger Houlton's orchestra was fine. These country commencements have been growing in favor since first inaugurated and very justly so, we think. They are surely an instrument of great good in our school work.

Thursday's Daily.

—J. N. Smurl of Steuben county was here among the old settlers today.

—Mrs. Mary Boyer returned last evening from a ten days visit with the family of O. C. Dickinson at Hilledale.

—Mrs Hague, mother of Isaac Hague was here at the old settlers' meeting today. She is in fair health for a person who is about 84.

—Mrs. Priscilla Barclay came home yesterday from a visit with friends about Cedar Creek. She was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Mary Hixon, who will be her guest a few days, and meet with the old settlers.

—Win your battles against disease by acting promptly. One Minute Cough Cure produces immediate results. When taken early it prevents consumption. And in later stages it furnishes prompt relief. H. B. McCord.

—Mrs. B. D. Thomas, of Garrett, is in town the guest of Mrs. Judge Penfield. She brings word that her son, Herschell, is back from his vacation, having spent some time in Washington City, for a rest. He is a telegraph operator for the B. & O., at Garrett.

—If you wish to read a fine descriptive article, see Mr. Shade's Samoa letter today. He and his family are now back in this country as will be seen by his letter. Whether he got home in time to see his mother alive, we do not know.

—The Picker Brothers and Lawrence Brothers have been down in Allen county several days putting in a cellar for Joseph Kloepfenstein. They came home yesterday, and with them B. F. Sponhower who has been helping them. A week from next Monday, they go back to that section to do brick work on a brick-veneered dwelling, —Mrs. Swineford and Mrs. Barns start for the west tomorrow on the early B. & O. train. They stop first at Omaha, and will visit friends there briefly and will be the guests a day or two of the Woman's Clubs there, and of the Exposition managers. Then they go on to Denver to attend the National meeting of the Federation of Woman's Clubs, to which they are delegates from the L. L. C. of Auburn. On the return, Mrs Barns will stop a short time with Mrs. Lizzie Gordon and Pearl Kelley at Omaha, returning home in about three weeks.

Friday's Daily.

—Frank Hogue came in from the north today.

—Mrs. Zent is visiting relatives in Indianapolis.

—For McCormick machines, see Culbertson & Boland. 19tf

—Willard Fee of Smithfield was in Auburn this forenoon.

—Ab. Kelley of Waterloo came down on the forenoon train.

—Marion Willis sold an Ideal bicycle to James McDowell, a few days ago.

Alex. Provines sr was in town today but is in very poor health. He has been ill for about six months, but thinks he is improving now.

—Elkhart county commissioners allow only $15 a day to attorneys they are called on to employ in state and similar cases. And that looks pretty high.

—One of our latest new subscribers is Mrs. Ellen McClellan, as hard a working lady as lives in Auburn and she pays her subscription in advance. That shows good business.

Thousands of persons have been cured of piles by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It heals promptly and cures eczema and all skin diseases. It gives immediate relief. H. B. McCord.

—S. Bensiger and daughter of Wilmington and Geo. Newcomer and wife of Franklin were among the hosts of people at the old settlers' meeting Thursday. The two ladies called at the new COURIER office.

—George W. Russell of Piqua, Ohio, returns to his home today. He has been visiting the relatives, here and in this vicinity, including the families of L. Bowers and Ed. Weeks here and Mr. Baughman in the country.

—David Martz and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Benj. Martz and her son, and Wm. Tritch, all of near Fairfield Center were here today. We presume they were on business connected with the estate of Mr. Martz, who died recently.

—Mrs. Walsworth, and her sister, Mrs. Davis of Spencerville went on the early Wabash train to Blakeslee, Ohio where they will visit another sister, Mrs. Reuben Bailey. Mrs. Davis has been visiting the relatives here for a time.

—Joseph Henderson has been working at the Eagle Milles for over a week. His home if in Spencerville. He is a brother of Wm. Henderson of Concord and the late James M. Henderson of Jackson, and also of Mrs. Peter High of this place.

—Mrs. Swineford and Mrs. Barns started on their westward trip at 5 o'clock this morning, going over the B. & O. They were accompanied by Mrs. Brad Harris as far as Chicago, where she goes to visit friends. That was for several years her home, though they now live in Providence, Rhode Island. She has been visiting the relatives here for some weeks.

It's Trying to the patience to keep on taking medicine that does not cure. But it is trying that leads to success. If you are suffering from eczema, boils, eruptions, etc., you will begin your cure the day you begin trying Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Saturday's Daily.

—Love may never die, but it gets awfully sick at times.

—No American cat can equal the Chinese tomtom for noise.

—Miss Lena Groscop is suffering with an attack of chickenpox.

—J. R. Boren was in today and advanced his subscription up to '99.

—Mrs. Groscop and son Calvin have been visiting relatives in Garrett this week.

—We have some good second hand Binders for sale, cheap Culbertson & Boland. 19tf

—A girl seldom objects to young man stealing something from under her very nose.

—J. W. Baxter and Cal. VanAuken were up at Hamilton yesterday. It was something in regard to the accident in which Mr Chappell and boy lost their lives.

—E. C. Blanks, of Lewisville, Texas, writes that one box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve was worth $50.00 to him. It cured his piles of ten years standing. He advises others to try it. It also cures eczema, skin diseases and obstinate sores. H. B. McCord.

—Our citizens will be pleased to learn that the efforts that have been put forth by our worthy Opera House management have resulted in securing an engagement with the renowned musical artists Mr. and Mrs. Eugene E. Davis and their company. That our city should be able to get such talent speaks well indeed for he tastes of the community. The concert will be given about July 19th. The company has no superior of its kind.

—Here are some figures of special interest just now; From San Francisco to the Philippine islands it is 6,500 miles; from San Francisco to Hong Kong, 6,880 miles; from Key West to Havana, 90 miles; from Havana to Puerto Rico, 1,040 miles; from Puerto Rico, to the Cape Verde islands, 2,370 miles; from New York to Puerto Rico, 1,200 miles: from New York to Cadiz, Spain, 2,120 miles; from Cadiz to Canary islands, 780 miles; from Canary Islands to Puerto Rico, 2,900 miles, from New York to Havana, 1,215.

—The Spaniards, it seems, have a lively sense of humor, after all. The Nacional of Madrid, just before the battle of Manila, remarked with double-leaded editorial earnestness: "The miserable Yankees will content themselves with a small demonstration on the coast of the Philippines, but will not dare to strike." It also adds concerning the war in general: "If our own arms do not triumph, of which it is almost impossible to conceive, it will be easy to make a military alliance with Great Britain and easily take from the United States, Florida, California and other territory which the Yankees have usurped." That would be too easy.

—The Laporte Argus has this remarkable story to tell: Christain F. Bartlett died at Elkhart March 3d '94, and his remains were brought to Oak Ridge cemetery for burial. Two weeks ago it was discovered that an error had been made and the body buried on the wrong lot. The remains were exhumed to be transferred. When the casket was opened, instead of finding a handful of clay, the body was perfectly preserved. It had turned to stone. The face was as white and smooth as marble and as perfect in every feature. It required the combined efforts of five men to raise the petrified body from the earth. Efforts were made to keep the matter from the public, as it is feared the stone body might be stolen.

—We had a pleasant call today from G. W. McClellan, of Huntington, Ind, who had been up here a few days visiting friends, including the family of Wm. Dawson of Richland. He says his city is prospering though their efforts to get gas have not, so far been successful. The Radical wing of the U. B. church has established a prosperous college there and also their general printing establishment. There is also there a large plant for making boots and shoes for men and boys which with other factories makes their manufacturing interests extensive. And as Huntington is the only town in the county, it has many advantages. They have to bore only about about 1400 feet there in their trials for gas and oil as the limestone bed rock comes to within about a foot of the surface. That seems a little odd to us, who have about a 500 feet of dirt before we strike even the slate rock.

MILLIONS GIVEN AWAY

It is certainly gratifying to the public to know of one concern in the land who are not afraid to be generous to the needy and suffering. The proprietors of Dr. King New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs, and Colds, have given away over ten million trial bottles of this great medicine; and have the satisfaction of knowing it has absolutely cured thousands of hopeless cases. Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness and all diseases of the throat, Chest and Lungs are surely cured by it. Call on H. B. McCord Druggist, and get a trial bottle free. Regular size 50 cents and $1. Every bottle guaranteed, or price refunded. 3

For Mothers!

THE discomforts and dangers of child-birth can be almost entirely avoided. Wine of Cardui relieves expectant mothers. It gives tone to the generative organs, and puts them in condition to do their work perfectly. That makes pregnancy less painful, shortens labor and hastens recovery after child-birth. It helps a woman bear strong healthy children.

Mc ELREE'S Wine of Cardui

has also brought happiness to thousands of homes barren for years. A few doses often brings joy to loving hearts that long for a darling baby. No woman should neglect to try it for this trouble. It cures nine cases out of ten. All druggists sell Wine of Cardui. $1.00 per bottle.

For advice in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, the "Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

Mrs. LOUISA HALE, of Jefferson, Ga., says: "When I first took Wine of Cardui we had been married three years, but could not have any children. Nine months later I had a fine girl baby."

SUPPLEMENT TO

The Auburn Courier.

Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, June 23, 1898.

Democratic Congressional Convention

Notice is hereby given that upon Saturday, the 25th day of June, 1898, at the hour of two o'clock p. m., in the city of Fort Wayne, the Democratic Congressional Convention for the 12th Congressional District of the State of Indiana will convene for the purpose of nominating a candidate for representative in Congress from said 12th Congressional District. to be voted for at the general election to be held in November, 1898. In said Convention the representation will be as follows: Allen County, fifty votes; DeKalb County, eighteen votes; Lagrange County, eight votes, Noble County, fifteen votes: Steuben County, eight votes, Whitley County, twelve votes. This representation is based upon two hundred votes and a fraction over one hundred cast for John B. Stoll in the election of 1896.

THOS R MARSHALL,
District Chairman.

Should Be Careful.

Complaint comes to this office from people living near the Wabash track east of town, that the Wabash trains are not careful enough as to whistling at crossings, but seem to have a weakness for exhausting steam at those places, or any place where a team is to be seen. One man was helping to move a house the other day, and they were close by a crossing when one of the west bound forenoon trains came by. He says they did not whistle, but to make the matter worse began to blow off steam, frightening the horses and nearly causing a runaway. When young Loveland's rig was struck a short time ago, it is claimed they did not whistle. The trainmen should remember that they are working against the interest of their company, for such a course may pile up a lot of damage suits.

BUTLER.

Our population has been augmented by two or three families from Hicksville, engaged in renovating feathers.

Another addition has come in a full blooded son of Ham, just from Africa's sunny clime.

Our churches are fairly well filled these warm Sabbaths. A large number of the heads of our christian families commendably send their wives and daughters to swell the otherwise small attendadce.

The weddings last week were the topics of interest, one being attended by so large a number that the open air became the place of entertainment.

J. A. Campbell is nursing a sore eye and having considerable trouble with it.

But a small number of Butler people attended the old settlers meeting at Auburn. The address did not call forth any great amount of praise. The committee evidently got the right man in the wrong place. His subject was evidently foreign to him.

The Silver Dawn continues to viciously apply his little hatchet on the democratic-populist ticket. He is leaving some ugly scars but the ticket may pull through for all of that.

The Butler K. of P.'s turned out in large numbers to attend the decoration services at St. Joe, last Sunday.

The maturing crops in the vicinity of Butler promise an abundant harvest and like reports come from all quarters.

Last Saturday morning about six o'clock the ominous fire whistle awakened the tardy sleepers from their morning nap, and in a few minutes the street was alive with people. The fire had caught in the Inman block, caused by the eplosion of a gasoline stove in the rooms occupied by Cal Chambers as a restaurant. In five minutes the rooms, as well as the barber shop adjoining, were emptied of their belongings. The fire company was on the grounds in an incredibly short time and a few barrels of water well directed squelched the little blaze. The building was not very valuable and the loss was trifling, but covered by insurance.

THE PICKLE INDUSTRY.

(Laporte Argus.)

Mr. Burroughs informs THE ARGUS that the acreage of cucumbers cultivated in this locality this year promises to be fully up to the average. It is expected that not less than 50,000 bushels will be delivered at the factory in this city and they will bring about fifty cents a bushel to the farmers. It appears to be much the most profitable crop the small farmer raises, and this is especially true where there are children in a family to be used in the somewhat back breaking work of picking

The factory here will probaly pay out not less than $25,000 to the farmers of the locality for cucumbers this season and besides this from thirty to fifty people are employed about the factory. We doubt if the people here properly realize the value of this plant to this community. It is especially helpful to the very class of people that need help most, the small farmer whe has a family to support.

S Clark, Mrs. Dave Thomas, Mrs. France Powell, Mrs. John Harris, Mrs. Steel, Mrs. Hazinaw, Mrs. Wyland. The oldest person present was grandma Link, over ninety years of age. A better dinner never was set down to by a king than was served at the party by the good people that brought it in.

ONE THAT WAS THERE.

BAD ACCIDENT

Joe Miller, who lives east of Auburn fell on the upturnnd edge of newly sharpened broadax this afternoon. Dr. Hines says the wound is very bad but not fatal.

CORUNNA.

Mrs. Ida Cane and daughter, Katie, of Ashley, were the guests of her sister, Mrs. David Shaffer, over Sunday.

Mrs. Zwilling has returned home from a weeks visit with friends in Michigan.

Mr M. J. Thomas left Monday for Indianapolis, to attend the Democratic State Convention.

James Aldrich, a former resident of this place but now of Montcalm county. Michigan, is visiting relatives in this vicinity.

Friends of John Dunfee and Charley Harper are in receipt of letters from them dated at Tampa, Florida, and their many acquaintences will be glad to know that they are in good health and thoroughly enjoy being soldier boys.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Jenners, of Auburn, were the guests of Miss Minnie Finch. Sunday.

John Stonebraker and K. A. Johnson drove to Auburn, Monday.

Harve Knauer and wife were the guests of the latter's mother, Mrs J. Grevious, near Waterloo, Sunday.

Mabel Calkins, of Auburn, spent Sunday at this place the guest of her grandmother, Mrs. Topping.

Master Fred Miller, of Albion, is the guest in the family of James Finch.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Cochran, of Auburn, enjoyed a short visit with Mr. and Mrs. Shook, Sunday.

The L. A. S. of the M. E. church will meet with Mrs. Haller, Thursday rfternoon.

George Miles and wife are entertaining friends from Chicago.

W. H. Daily, wife and daughter Lunette, spent Monday, at Auburn.

Children's day exercises were held Sunday night at the M. E. church by the Sunday school. The program consisted of appropriate songs and recitations and was rendered in an interesting manner to a very large audience.

Justice's Court.

There was a case in 'Squire Walter's court yesterday afternoon. in which a girl by the name of McKinley brings suit for a bastardy against John Swauk. It was decided that Swauk was the right man and he had to give $400 bonds to appear at next term of court.

LATEST WAR NEWS.

Sampson has pulled up a lot of submarine mines in the harbor at Guantanamo, making it safe now for ships to enter.

Landing of our troops began at a point near Santiago yesterday, Wednesday, morning. There was little resistance for our ships had pretended to attack another place a short distance away. Our losses so far are slight. We expect to get forces ashore in such a way as to attack the Spaniards from several points.

It now appears that the reason the Spaniards will not let Hobson be exchanged, is that he saw too much, before they got him inside the walls. He probably knows how many ships they have, and the probable strength of their forts and army, and where they are located. It would not pay to let such a man loose till after the battle is fought.

Going over, Roosevelt's "rough riders" of his cowboy regiment, many of them got sick on the voyage.

It appears that the big expedition did not make very fast time going over, as there were so many ships, both cruisers and transports it was hard to keep together. There must have been about sixty in all when they assembled with Sampson's and Schley's fleets off Santiago. They left Tampa at 8 a. m. June 14; passed Key West next morning, June 15; passed Salt Keys June 16; Cape Coco 10 a. m. June 17; sighted the north coast of the Province of Santiago June 17 in afternoon; passed Lobos Key June 18. Rounded the east end of Cuba at 10 a. m. of Sunday last, June 19. There they turned west reaching Santiago about noon on Monday June 20.

As it has been but about two months since the war began, it can be seen that we have accomplished a good deal.

Important events are probably going on in Cuba today. As we now have use of a cable, we can get the news the next day.

Col. Allen, who has chief control of the cable at Santiago is from South Bend, Ind. He has been in the regular army for some years.

Friday's Daily.

There is a mass of news from Cuba, but the substance is that Shafter's entire army is landed and have driven the Spaniards back with little or no loss. A battle may have taken place yesterday or today. It must occur soon. The Cubans are on hand doing their full share.

Saturday's Daily.

The first important battle on land has been fought near Santiago. Yesterday morning a cavalry force of about 1000 men including a part of Roosvelt's cowboys, attacked a larger force of Spaniards and defeated them. We lost thirteen killed and about fifty wounded. It is believed the Spaniards lost more, but as the fight was in thick woods, we do not know how much they lost.

Spanish parliament has ended its session, which began in May. When they went home martial law was declared. It is believed Spain will soon want peace.

Our army is last advancing on Santiago. The American flag already flies at these points in Cuba.

As soon as transports arrive 18,000 men under Gen. Miles will reeinforce our men at Santiago. Upon his arrival, Gen. Miles will take command of all the forces.

If Spain sends the Cadez fleet through the Suez canal, our squadron may steam at once for the coast of Spain, where our big battle ships could destroy the commerce and bombard some of the principal ports. The work would probably fall to Sampson.

Made Him a Citizen

As mentioned in the COURIER Uncle Sam asks the soldier boys many questions, among them being who is their nearest relative or friend, to whom the officers may send word in case the man is sick, wounded or killed. One young man from near St. Joe, George Walters, was an orphan, and had no relatives, and not even a guardian. More than that he was of foreign birth So he found it difficult to enlist. Finally, it was decided to appoint a guardian for him, and also give naturalization papers. Henry Maxwell, of Concord, township, where he had worked a good deal, became his guardian. And then Blanch Shilling filled out some naturalization papers for him which he signed, and then he swore allegiance to his new Uncle Samuel, with an earnestness which impressed all beholders. That boy will be all right. Clerk Long threw in his fees, and Judge Rohy furnished some friendly opinions and Walters went out with a buoyant step to join his fellow soldiers and fight for Cuba. The Spaniards can never defeat a nation whose sons are anxious to risk their lives in her defense.

IT IS STRANGE

that some people who say they never read patent medicine advertisements will be found lugging home every now and then a bottle of some favorite remedy of theirs. We don't bother you with much reading but just ask you to try a 10c trial bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for constipation, indigestion and stomach troubles. 50c and $1,00 sizes. At F. E. Davenport.

Examining The Boys.

Adjutant Harry Scott came down from Angola yesterday afternoon, having received word from Mr. Everett here, that he had secured at least the required 26 names on his recruiting list. On his arrival, the work of examination at once began. Dr. Baxter examined them in his office, though they were first weighed at Hebel's store. The rule is they must weigh at least 120 pounds and must be not below 5 feet 4 inches tall. As each applicant comes in to the examining room proper, from the waiting room, the clerk, (in this case Milo Husselman,) fills his name into a blank description list, stating the regiment and company, then his name, grade of rank, age in years and months, height in feet and inches, complexion, color of eyes and hair, state county and place of birth, occupation, date and place of enrollment, and by whom and for how long, (3 years in this case,) residence, and whether married or single. He also must give the name of "wife, relative, guardian or friend who is to be notified in case of emergency," and address of same, and previous naval or military service. He must strip and be measured about the chest, noting the difference in inches between "expiration" and "inspiration." His eyes, teeth, feet, heart and ears are tested or examined, and also in regard to any diseases he may have or has had. If all is satisfactory the examining surgeon certifies to that effect. The recruit, then, if of age, can take and subscribe to the oath. If under 21, he must get written consent of parent or guardian. The descriptive lists are filed with adjutant-general. If a recruit is accepted, he is furnished transportation to the place of rendezvous. In case of the Angola recruits, Adjutant Scott, gave each $3 00 for subsistence, and furnished them transportation.

EVENING.

After seven o'clock, the examinations were resumed. D. M. Link failed to pass, as his eyes were thought defective. Later on, Fred Kruse, proved a little too short, though evidently perfect otherwise. Then Clarence Long, whom the boys call McGinty, tried it. He was all right but had a bad case of ingrowing nail on one toe. As soldiers must depend largely on their feet, he was rejected. Roy Myers was soon after rejected, as he was too small in the chest. At about 9 o'clock the men present having been examined, they adjourned till this morning, when the others could be taken. Many of these had to come in from St. Joe and other points in the country or outlying towns.

A GREAT DEAL

of unnecessary expenditure of time and money may be saved if you will only keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in the house. Nine-tenths of all ordinary sickness is from the stomach; keep that organ in proper condition and all will be well. Syrup Pepsin is a specific. Trial size bottles 10c, large sizes 50c and $1.00, of F. E. Davenport.

Liver Trouble

When the yellow flag of quarantine is hoisted over a dwelling it means disease and danger. So when the yellow flag flies in the face—when the cheek is sallow and the clear white of the eye is dyed saffron—there is danger. It is liver trouble. The liver is one of the most important organs of the body. On the proper discharge of its functions depend human health and happiness. When the liver fails of its duty, poisons at once begin to generate, and other organs of the body become involved. Never neglect the liver if you value health. If you are suffering from liver trouble, begin at once the use of AYER'S PILLS and you will find prompt relief and permanent cure.

"I was so weakened by liver trouble that I could scarcely lift my head. While in this condition I began the use of Ayer's Pills, and finding almost immediate benefit, continued their use until I was cured of my complaint."

Robinson Renominated.

As noted in the COURIER Saturday, Hon. James M. Robinson was renominated that day, by acclamation. It was a very harmonious and enthusastic company that composed the delegates and spectators that met in the city hall at Fort Wayne that day, June 25. At 2 p. m. They were called to order by the chairman of the congressional district, Hon. T. R. Marshall, who in a neat, but brief speech alluded to the objects of the meeting and of the conditions under which they met, Hon. C. M. Brown, of DeKalb was made chairman of the meeting and spoke a short time, giving in brief the situation now confronting the democratic party, spoke his admiration of its principles and foreshadowed a coming victory. He was often applauded. Then W. K Sheffer, of the Angola Herald was made secretary. When nominations were declared in order, Hon. Walpole G. Colerick name a stirring and able speech nominating Mr. Robinson. This was received with cheers, as were also many other strong points he made. The nomination received several seconds, and amid calls from every part of the room, it was made by acclamation and cheers. He was called for but Judge Ed. O'Rourke asked to make his report on resolutions of which he had been made chairman. He was billed at that hour to make a speech at the raising of the big flag at the Bass Foundry, and so could not wait. He read the resolutions, which were adopted. Then after he left the stand Mr. Robison was again called, and made a powerful and eloquent speech. He treated of the present national questions, on politics, on the war and on the work of congress, especially its more recent phases. He was loudly cheered all the way through, and when an extra good point was scored, Janitor DeHaven, who has charge of the City Hall, would give one of his peculiar and long drawn foghorn cheers that would set the house into ecstacies of delight. And when the meeting closed he was called on for another "toot" for luck. The feeling of all present was that Mr. Robinson had proved to be the right man in the right place and at the right time. We believe his majority will be greater than before.

RIGHT IN IT.

That's where Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is. The greatest remedy for the stomach that was ever put together. Absolutely vegtable with the exception of the Pepsin. Are you constipated? Then try Syrup Pepsin. Have you indigestion or sick headache? Then use Syrup Pepsin. Spend 10c for a trial bottle and you will be convinced. Large sizes 50c and $1 00. A true family remedy. At F. E. Davenports.

DREYFUS IN CAPTIVITY.

A Report That He Is Not Badly Treated on Devil's Island.

The Paris correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph writes: According to a report circulated here, and coming from a German source, it would appear that Dreyfus is not so badly off in Devil's Island as was supposed. The story is told that a Dutch vessel slowly passing near the ex-captain's place of captivity was boarded by some French marines or penitentiary officials who asked for the loan of the ship's cook for a few hours. The reason given was that the man who did the cooking in the convict settlement had broken his arm and was in the hospital. The captain of the Dutch steamer accordingly sent a sailor named Weinheber to Devil's Island to act as cook for a while. During his very brief sojourn on the island Weinheber is said to have seen Dreyfus and to have had an opportunity of observing how the ex-captain was treated. According to the Dutchman, the prisoner rose every morning between six and seven o'clock, had a cup of chocolate, a bath, and, if the weather permitted, a walk. While taking the bath the prisoner's wrists were tied around with a cord, one end of which was held by a warder. This was to prevent any attempt to commit suicide. After the bath the ex-captain breakfasted on bread and butter, an egg and a bottle of beer. This meal being over, he read books on military topics and wrote letters and his memoirs, the epistles being always sent to his friends through the military governor of Cayenne. Dreyfus is also allowed to play cards with his warders, but not for money, as he is not allowed to retain possession of a sou. At two o'clock in the afternoon the prisoner receives bread, roast meat, vegetables, dessert and beer. At six in the evening he has supper, cold ham, with more bread and beer. Weinheber being allowed to draw near the prisoner, Dreyfus shook him by the hand and said: "Greet the outside world for me when you return to it." The Dutchman further states that the ex-captain is not in an iron cage, but has the whole range of the island, under the eyes of the warders. If this narrative be true, the friends of Dreyfus will have some consolation in knowing that he enjoys a little freedom, and that he is well fed.

BIG FLAG

At Ft. Wayne Saturday they had a big flag raising at the Bass Foundry. The employes bought and fitted up a flag and pole. The flag was 40 feet by 26, a regular monster and a beauty. The writer hereof in company with W. H. Leas, came down from the top of the reservoir just as the flag went up, the guns fired, and then the whistles set up such a jangle that set the town wild and nearly set people crazy. Judge Ed. O'Rourke and Mr. Bass, both made patriotic speeches, the employes cheered and all Fort Wayne came out on the streets to find what caused the rejoicing. An interesting incident was the appearance among the crowd, of Congressman Robinson who had come up from the convention that had just renominated him. He was called on, and spoke briefly, saying among other things that is was nineteen years ago, that he had called at this very established and asked for a job but failed to get it. And then everyone laughed and cheered, for "Jim" used to be a working man himself.

Wanted To Be A Soldier

Quite an affecting scene occurred Friday a short time before the twenty six recruits left for Port Tampa. A certain volunteer had passed the examination and was preparing to leave, when his mother and sister, living out of the city, arrived and entered a protest. There was some question as to whether or not the son was of age. If a minor his mother had to give her consent. Amid their tears they appeared before an attorney and discussed the matter. The sister clung to the young man, implored him to remain. Crying like a child the mother finally gave her consent. The would-be-soldier said he would run away and join the army from some other town and work for Uncle Sam if he had to walk to Tampa. He went with the boys.

OLD MAN OF THE MOUNTAIN.

Infallible Weather Prophet—Indians Say "He" Never Fails.

This is bound to be a clear year. Scarcely any rain is to fall during the next twelve-month. At least that is what the "old man of the mountain" says and the Indians say that he never fails as a weather prophet, says the San Francisco Chronicle. The old man of the mountain is a species of sagebrush, so called on account of the soft gray top that forms on it in the fall of the years. In some parts of the state it is simply called "old man" and in others "maidenhair sage." Its scientific name is Artemisia Californiana. For countless moons many of the Indian tribes of the state have looked upon this plant as the greatest weather prophet that ever existed. Will the season be wet or dry? Ask the old man. This is easy to do, but you must know a little of his language before you can tell what he says. The old man speaks with his roots. When there is to be plenty of rain his roots are short and when there is to be little rain his roots are long. The old man knows there will be no water from above, so he goes below for it. How does a senseless plant know there is to be no rain? By the same unknown force that causes seed pods to be thick before a long, cold winter, while they are thin when the winter is to be mild. All over the hillsides of Marin county can be found specimens of old man and its roots are longer now than they have ever been known to be before. At the beginning of a rainy season the roots of a plant twelve inches high are about six inches long. This year the same plant will be found to have roots as much as eighteen inches long.

LATEST WAR NEWS.

Picket Lines Within Hailing Distance at Santiago.

American and Spanish Armies Less Than Four Miles Apart.

A Decisive Battle Must Be Fought This Week.

Many More Men Hastening to Reinforce Our Army in Cuba.

Santiago Plainly in Sight.

A dispatch, dated on board the Dandy off Jurugua, Saturday, via Kingston, says: The troops of the United States and Spain are almost face to face, less than four miles apart. The picket lines at certain points are within hailing distance of the enemy. It seems certain that the battle of Santiago must come within a week. The troops are all ashore here and at Baiquiri, with the exception of a few scattered companies that have gone forward. The supplies are sufficient to enable the army to sustain a week's campaign at both landing points.

Washington special: Gen. Shafter has half as many troops as will be at his disposal in about a week. The General's hard task is still before him. That little engagement Friday would not have been reported during the Civil War.

Shafter has about 15,000 men. Four thousand more are en route from Newport News on the cruisers Yale and Harvard. Five thousand more, the remainder of the First division at Camp Alger, will get away from that point before the end of the week. Troops from Tampa are also to go to Shafter's aid. How many are to go from there cannot be stated. The understanding is that two brigades are under orders—the command of Brigadier General Snyder of the Third division, First army corps. That means about 7,500 officers and men.

Panic in a Big Circus Tent.

Forepaugh and Sells Brothers' circus tent was blown to ribbons in a gale at Sioux City, Iowa. Hundreds of people were imprisoned under the tangle of canvas, poles and ropes. There was a mad stampede for the entrances and between that and the lorashing timbers many people were hurt. A thorough search was at once made of the ruins by the police, when the dead body of Adolph Halversen was found. The number of injured will probably reach twenty or thirty, of whom not more than four or five are seriously injured. The animals in the menagerie were in their cages ready for the train and none were lost. There was a stampede among the horses, however, which for a time threatened serious results. The loss to the circus people was heavy.

Cuban Soldiers in Rags.

The Cubans under Gen. Demetrius Castello, who entered Baiquiri after the Spaniards had deserted the town, were clothed in rags, many of them two-thirds naked. Some had no trousers, and only tattered shirts, while the majority of them were bare-footed. They were mostly negroes, some boys only 15 years old. The guns they carried were of many models, ranging from flint-locks to Mausers and Remingtons. All, however, were armed with machetes. The officers rode donkeys and scrub horses.

Torpedo-Boat and 130 Men Destroyed by Typhoon.

St. Petersburg special: The Novoe Vremya has received information that in the recent typhoon at Port Arthur, a Chinese torpedo boat destroyer lying in the inner harbor was driven ashore and 130 of her crew drowned. The Russian cruiser Vladimir Monomach sailed out of the harbor as the typhoon approached, but the Russian ironclad Sissoi Veliky remained and was badly damaged.

Thousands Witness a Lynching.

Double Springs (Tenn.) special: Chas. Washington, colored, who recently assaulted Mrs. Ward, near Mine Lick, Putnam County, was lynched at Mine Lick. He was captured near Dayton and lodged in jail at Cookeville, but was taken from prison by a mob and hanged. The negro said he had escaped from the New Jersey Penitentiary, after serving only a short time. He confessed his guilt. The lynching was witnessed by 3,000 people.

Money Spent for Flags.

According to an estimate made by John Wanamaker, the people of the United States have within the last twenty days expended over $2,000,000 in the purchase of national flags, and the demand is still going on at an increasing rate.

Young Husband's Quadruple Crime.

At Fulton, N. Y., William Cooper, aged 30 years, shot and killed his father-in-law, Cornelius Smedley, seriously wounded his mother-in-law, fired two shots at his wife, and then committed suicide.

Labor Troubles in Spain.

The situation in the mining regions of Catalonia, Spain, is most serious. There are 17,000 people out of employment and more factories are expected to close shortly. A renewal of rioting is expected, but the authorities are doing everything possible to prevent this.

Two Banks Consolidate.

Kansas City business circles were surprised by the announcement that the Citizens' National Bank, the oldest national bank in Kansas City, has been absorbed by the Union National. The merged bank, it is said, was not doing a profitable business.

TRIES TO POISON THE FAMILY.

Negro Employed by Judge Jackson Attempts Wholesale Murder.

At Parkersburg, W. Va., an attempt was made to poison the family of United States Judge John J. Jackson by a negro, Harris Moore, who was in the employ of the family. Miss Lily Jackson, the judge's daughter, missed a diamond pin, and sent for Detective Mehen. Mehen immediately suspected Moore, and soon found where he had changed $20 in gold for a pair of shoes. The negro learned that he was watched. It is believed he intended to poison the family, either for revenge or to distract attention from the theft. He advised another servant not to partake of chicken prepared for the noonday meal. This servant warned the family. It was found that the negro had used rat poison on the meat. Moore was locked up.

AVENGED MURDER OF PARENTS.

Kentucky Soldier Is Said to Have Shot Sixteen Whitecappers.

There is a most remarkable character in the First Kentucky regiment, at Chickamauga, and the story has just come to light. He is known among his comrades as "Mad Bill Wilson." He is a crack pistol shot, and is said to have killed sixteen men to avenge the murder of his father and mother. The story is a long and very sad one. After catching seven of the band of white cappers who committed the deed he lined them up and shot one after the other. He afterward followed the rest of the band up and killed them. Two years ago he was sent to the Lexington insane asylum and spent a year there, after which he was discharged. He is married now and has several children. The story is vouched for by the colonel commanding the regiment.

CLOTHING CRASH IN CLEVELAND.

E. R. Hull & Dutton in a Receiver's Hands, with $300,000 Liabilities.

The clothing establishment of E. R. Hull & Dutton, at 126 to 136 Ontario street, Cleveland, Ohio, has been placed in the hands of an assignee. Mortgages aggregating $144,000 were filed with the county recorder. Frank Ginn has been appointed assignee. It is understood that the liabilities of the firm are about $300,000 and the assets about $500,000. The firm's attorney says no creditors were pressing, but there were no ready assets to meet obligations that would mature shortly. The firm does not ask a settlement with its creditors, only an extension of time, when it will pay its debts. It is believed an arrangement will be made permitting the firm to continue business.

Horrible Discovery at Buffalo.

A murder, patterned after the Guldensuppe killing, was disclosed by the finding of a trunk in a creek near the Lehigh Valley freighthouse, at Tifft farm, Buffalo, N. Y. Freight-handlers saw the trunk floating, and went after it. The water around it was streaked with blood. The trunk was towed ashore, and Coroner Tucker opened it. Inside were pieces of a human body, which had been cut up exactly as Guldensuppe's was, except that the arms had not been touched. The head had been removed close to the shoulders. The legs had been cut off at the knees. The clothing had not been removed from the body, and there was evidence that the dissection had been done hurriedly. In the right breast was a deep knife wound, sufficient to cause death. In the trunk was a carving knife, which fitted the wound to a nicety, a loaded revolver, a rope and the carpenter's saw which had been used in the amputations. The victim was a good-looking Italian, about 30 years old. The body was identified as that of Phillippo Forestipo of 42 Fly street, an employe of the New York Central freighthouse. Then the police started out to find the motive and the murderer. They learned that the trunk had been bought at Stumm's trunk store, in Seneca street, the day before, by an Italian, who carried it away on his shoulder. At the house where Forestino lived it was said that he had started for work as usual in the morning. The whole story of the murder was developed by the police within twenty-four hours. Mrs. Antonio Barone, with whom Forestino was infatuated, had invited him to her house in Olga place that morning. A little after 9 o'clock Forestino climbed the stairs to the Barone apartments. An hour later sounds of a fight were heard in Barone's rooms. In the afternoon Barone brought a trunk to the house. At midnight he brought a wagon to the house, loaded the trunk into it and drove away. He dropped the trunk in the river three miles away. The Barones were arrested as they were arranging for a hasty flight from the city.

Stronger than Dynamite.

For several months experiments have been going on at Robbins' brickyard, on the shore of New York bay, just below Keyport, N. J., with a new high explosive. The experiments have been made under the supervision of C. Walter Volney, who, it is understood, is working in the employ of Elizabeth and New York capitalists. A gun has been used for the experiments which makes it possible to use the new explosive with perfect safety. Much secrecy has surrounded the operations and only meager particulars regarding the new gun and the new explosive have leaked out. It is understood that the experiments have been successful. It is stated that the explosive has far greater explosive power than dynamite, and that when every detail has been perfected all facts will be made known to the Government, and the gun and explosive will be offered to Uncle Sam. The gun has a three-inch bore. The projectile is a foot and a half in length, and weighs about sixteen pounds. It is stated that the piece would be most useful for mounting upon the vessels of smaller class. The gun is a breechloader, and but two men are needed to work it. In firing the piece a fuse is attached to the projectile, which, after the distance which the projectile is needed to be thrown is judged, is adjusted in such manner that when the object is struck the projectile will explode. Persons who claim to know the details say that there is no warship afloat that could not be sunk by one projectile from the gun.

Big Fire in Park City Utah.

The ideal mining camp of Park City, Utah, is a mass of unsightly ruins. Main street, from the point where the fire originated to the Union Pacific depot, is ruined. Park avenue has sustained losses that cannot be computed with any degree of accuracy. The Chinese quarter is completely wiped out and not a dwelling remains on Raw C. hill. The fire originated in the Freeman House or American Hotel.

Street Railway Wreck at Akron.

An Akron, Ohio, street railway car returning to the city from Silver Lake jumped the track between Cuyahoga Falls and the lake, and plunged over an embankment. There were about fifteen passengers on the car, and several were injured.

Texas Wheat Crop Injured.

Seventeen days of excessive rain has cut short the wheat crop of north Texas and the Indian Territory at least 30 per cent. Fully $5,000,000 has been lost on wheat by these rains, but the corn and cotton crops are in fine condition.

School Would Obstruct His View.

Greenwich Village, Long Island, is after E. C. Benedict. In 1892 he promised to pay $10,000 to erect a gymnasium. It is now 1898, and the money is still unpaid. Mr. Benedict is a Wall street banker, a millionaire, and a large property owner in the village. His offer of a $10,000 gymnasium to Greenwich was not a spontaneous outburst of benevolence. It was made for value received. This value was the cutting down of the roof of the public school of the village so it would not obstruct the view from his house. The school was built by Henry O. Havemeyer in 1892 at a cost of $200,000. It promised to be one of the most beautiful buildings in the State, and is so to-day, barring the chopped-off roof. Mr. Benedict then lived in "The Maples," near by. He was proud of the view of the sound from his house, but one day he woke up to the fact that the beautiful high-pointed roof of the school would cut off a slice of the view. He sought the School Board and asked it to leave off the roof. "But then we can't have our gymnasium on the top floor," was the reply. "I'll give you $10,000 for a gymnasium," Mr. Benedict said, "and you can build it on a separate plat on the school grounds." The offer was accepted and a squatty roof was put on the school. It was only ten feet high, instead of being twenty-seven and a half. Then the School Board waited for the $10,000. They are waiting yet, but they are tired of it, and the district committee has been instructed to call on Mr. Benedict and collect the money without delay. It is not believed that the millionaire will pay. Litigation may result.

SERIOUS FIRE IN LOUISVILLE.

Property Burned Valued at $300,000—Phoenix Hotel Scorched.

The entire strength of the Louisville, Ky., fire department was summoned to combat a fire in the wholesale tobacco district, which for a time threatened to do enormous damage. In twenty minutes the walls of Smead & Co.'s iron foundry were tottering and in an hour property to the value of $250,000 had gone up in smoke. Smead & Co. occupied the buildings extending from Main to Market street between Eighth and Ninth streets. Their loss is $300,000. The Phoenix Hotel, a block east in Market street, caught from the sparks and was partially destroyed.

INSANE FROM A FRIGHT.

Ohio Young Woman Seriously Startled by Encountering Two Men.

Miss Mila McGrew, aged 20, the daughter of J. F. McGrew of Johnstown, Ohio, is insane from fright. The other night she was walking along a dark street with her mother when the unexpected sight of two men standing by the curb caused Miss McGrew to faint. When she was restored to consciousness several hours afterward her mind was unbalanced. Since then she has been violent at times, fearing someone would do her injury. The men did and said nothing to frighten the women. Miss McGrew will probably recover.

Robbery Is Suspected.

The Wells-Fargo and the United States Express companies are trying to locate $1,000 in silver belonging to the Government, shipped by them to the Silver City National Bank at Silver City, N. M. The money was sent from the United States sub-treasury in St. Louis. When last heard from was when it was receipted for at Kansas City. An investigation is being made. It is believed the money has been stolen.

Five Killed at a Crossing.

Fielding Profitt, aged 38, his wife and two daughters, Lulu and Myrtle, aged 18 and 13, respectively, and a babe 1 year old, were all instantly killed at a crossing of the Chicago Great Western near Faucett, Mo. They attempted to drive over the crossing as a passenger train approached and were caught. Profitt owned a section of land and was very wealthy.

Hanging in Missouri.

John Thomaschuets was hanged in the St. Louis city jail. He was strangled to death. The crime for which he died was the shooting of his sweetheart, Annie Rausch, aged 18, April 6, 1897. He wanted her to marry him, but because of her refusal he committed the crime.

Fire at Ellis, Kan.

INDIANA DEMOCRATS.

STATE CONVENTION MEETS AT INDIANAPOLIS.

Platform Adopted Declares the War with Spain Is Just, and Reaffirms the Declarations Made at Chicago on the Tariff and Money Questions.

Hoosier Democrats Convene.

For Secretary of State—S. M. Ralston.
For Auditor of State—John W. Minor.
For State Treasurer—Hugh Dougherty.
For Attorney General—John S. McNutt.
For Clerk of Supreme Court—Henry Warrum.
For Superintendent of Public Instruction—W. B. Sinclair.

Indianapolis special:

The Democrats of Indiana met in State convention at 10:30 a. m. Wednesday, in Tomlinson's Hall, Indianapolis. The convention was made up of 1,528 delegates. United States Senator David Turpie presided and S. M. Bristow of Blackford County was elected secretary. There were only two contests before the Committee on Credentials and they were quickly disposed of. State Chairman Martin called the convention to order. The rules provided that all resolutions should go to the commitee without debate and that the first nomination should be for

TOMLINSON HALL.

Secretary of State. Senator Turpie, on assuming the gavel, was received with cheers. He spoke in part as follows:

Since the 21st of April last, we have been engaged in a foreign war. The first thing needed for war purposes is an adequate supply of revenue, and at the very beginning of our labors we were informed by the Secretary of the Treasury that from and after July 1, 1898, Congress must provide therefor. Our present revenue law, commonly called the Dingley bill, is a very peaceful, quiet, exceedingly pacific spoliation of the earnings of labor, and the products of land for the benefit of the clustered groups of monopolies who dictated its rates and schedules.

The war revenue bill passed contained many things worthy of approval, such as the inheritance tax, the coinage of the silver in the treasury, the taxes levied against the sleeping car companies and against the Standard Oil Company and the Sugar Trust. The bill contained many things grossly wrong; among these the bond issue, but it carried supplies to the army and navy engaged at the front against the public enemy—supplies were necessary. The unwise and vicious methods resorted to by the Republican party to provide revenue we can, and shall, change and reform. All the political signs of the times indicate that we shall elect, in November next, a House of Representatives in favor of a measure that shall bring adequate revenue for all the purposes of war and peace, in favor of a supply of currency that shall add no interest or principal to our national bonded debt, in favor of a coinage law that shall make no discrimination against either gold or silver as standard money of the United States. The policy of the administration, in respect to the independence of the Cuban republic, is yet unannounced. Why should we not have the declared and plighted assurance that Cuba libre is to be as a result of our campaign one of the new nations of the earth? In my judgment, as a strictly war measure, this would give re-enforcement to the fleets and armies, to the prestige and power of our country in all quarters of the world. Concerning the disposal of our military acquisitions and of the subjects incident to the close of the war now pending, they may well be remitted to the future to which they belong.

The controlling minds in the party spent many hours over the war plank of the platform. Some insisted that the platform follow the suggestion of W. J. Bryan and declare against the policy of acquiring any new territory, but the majority in the conference held to the view that it would be bad politics to declare for any policy that did not mean the cessation of Spanish rule in the Western hemisphere. The platform as originally written declared against the annexation of Hawaii, but when Senator Turpie explained that annexation would be an accomplished fact in a short time after the adjournment of the convention the paragraph was stricken out. The platform reaffirms the declarations of the Chicago convention of 1896 on the money and tariff questions.

The platform which was adopted affirms that the present war with Spain is just and righteous, and recalls with pride the persistent support of the cause by Democratic Senators and Representatives, congratulates the country on the universally patriotic uprising which has swept away the last vestige of sectionalism, and rejoices in the heroic deeds of Dewey, Bagley and Hobson. It favors such a permanent strengthening of the navy of the United States and coast defenses as shall insure adequate protection against foreign aggression; liberal pensions are advocated for the survivors of the civil and present war; the construction and control of the Nicaragua Canal by this Government when its feasibility shall be determined is favored, but a loan of the national credit to any private corporation for that purpose is opposed. On the financial question the platform affirms with emphasis loyalty to the Chicago platform in favor of free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver. The platform declares against the declared purpose of the present Secretary of the Treasury to apply the gold standard policy more thoroughly.

The platform was read by Samuel E. Morss, chairman of the committee, and adopted, the main features being as follows:

We, the Democracy of Indiana, in convention assembled, now, as always, loyal to our country and our flag, affirm that the cause for which the United States is engaged in war with Spain is just and righteous. We recall with pride the early, espousal and united and persistent support of this cause by the Senators and Representatives of the Democratic party in Congress. We congratulate the country on the universal patriotic uprising which has swept away the last vestige of sectionalism, and revealed us to the world as a united people. We rejoice in the heroic deeds of Dewey, Bagley, Hobson and their brave comrades, which have added new luster to the American name.

We demand, now, as heretofore, the most vigorous prosecution of the war until it shall have ended in vindication of the national honor, the absolute relinquishment by Spain of possession or control of any part of the Western hemisphere, and the formal acknowledgment by that kingdom of the independence of the Cuban republic. We favor the prompt recognition by the United States of such independence as a war measure, and as an act of justice to a brave people struggling for freedom.

We urge the immediate increase of the volunteer forces of our army and navy to any extent necessary to assure speedy and decisive results, and the appropriation of all the funds requisite for the adequate equipment and support and for the comfort of our gallant soldiers and sailors in armed conflict against the public enemy. The supreme duty of the hour is to relieve the perishing victims of Spanish cruelty and secure the complete triumph of the national arms. When this shall have been accomplished the justice and wisdom of the American people may be safely trusted to deal with all questions which may grow out of existing complications, in such a way as best to promote the objects for which this republic was founded.

We favor such a permanent strengthening of the navy of the United States and such improvements of our system of coast defenses as shall insure adequate protection of the country against foreign aggression.

We are in favor of the construction and control of the Nicaragua Canal by this Government, when its feasibility shall have been determined; but we are opposed to a loan of the national credit to any private corporation for that purpose.

We affirm and emphasize the platform adopted by the national Democratic convention of 1896 at Chicago. We are in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver at the existing ratio of 16 to 1, without the aid or consent of any other nation.

We are unalterably opposed to the single gold standard, and we specially protest against the declared purpose of the present Republican Secretary of the Treasury of applying that policy more thoroughly. We believe that the practice of the treasury in paying treasury notes in gold only, in violation of law, and in surrendering the option of the government, reserved by the statute, to pay in gold or silver, is chiefly responsible for the great money depression now, and for so long a period, existing in this country, is destructive of business enterprise, dangerous to the public credit and the prosperity of the people, and a serious menace to the national honor.

We insist that the wealth of the country should bear its just share of the public burdens. For that reason we approve the inheritance tax recently adopted through the efforts of the Democrats in Congress, and we favor the principle and policy of an income tax. The demonetization of silver and the judicial demand of the power to tax incomes have materially impaired our resources for war purposes. We favor the re-imposition of an income tax, so that the question of its validity may be reviewed by the Supreme Court.

We earnestly reassert the Democratic doctrine that all tariff taxes shall be laid for revenue as their sole object and purpose, and we do at this time especially denounce and condemn the high prohibitory rates of the present Republican tariff, commonly called the Dingley bill, under the operation of which trusts and combinations have multiplied, the cost of the necessaries of life has been increased and the wages of labor have not been advanced, and which has entailed upon the country a deficit of many millions to be made up only by additional taxation in time of war, thus imposing, instead of a benefit, an onerous burden upon the people of the United States.

We reaffirm and emphasize our repeated declaration in favor of the election of United States Senators by the people.

Mr. Bryan was thus indorsed:

We express our undiminished confidence in William Jennings Bryan, our perless leader in the national campaign of 1896, and we note with much gratification his patriotic course in leading to the defense of his country a regiment of citizen soldiers.

Samuel M. Ralston of Lebanon was nominated for Secretary of State by acclamation. John W. Minor of Marion was nominated on the fifth ballot for State Auditor. Hugh Dougherty of Bluffton was nominated for Treasurer of State on the second ballot. John S. McNutt of Terre Haute had no opposition for Attorney General and was nominated by acclamation. For clerk of the Supreme Court Henry Warrum of Marion was nominated on the third ballot. For Superintendent of Public Instruction W. B. Sinclair of Starke was nominated on the first ballot.

James S. Guthrie of Brown was nominated for State statistician. For State geologist Edward Barrett of Hendricks was named. Leonard J. Hackney of Shelby was nominated for judge of the Supreme Court from the second district, James McCabe of Williamsport from the third district and T. E. Howard of South Bend from the fifth district. For judges of the Appellate Court the following were nominated by acclamation: First district, Edwin Taylor, Evansville; second, Carl J. Kollmeyer, Bartholomew; third, Edgar A. Brown, Marion; fourth, William S. Given, Madison; fifth, Johann Kopelke, Lake. The convention at 9 o'clock gave three cheers for Admiral Dewey and adjourned.

Limbless from Birth.

A strange sight was witnessed in the Southwestern Police Court. An elderly man, armless and legless, was carried into the witness box by a policeman, who held him as though he were a baby, while he made an application to the magistrate for an extension of time under an ejectment order from the court. Mr. Marsham asked him how he came to be so afflicted, to which the helpless man replied that he was born so. He got his living by making beaded ornaments with his mouth. His worship allowed him a few additional day to find fresh accommodations.—London Mail.

FIERCE LAND FIGHT.

Spaniards Ambush and Kill Thirteen Cavalrymen.

FIFTY ARE WOUNDED.

Engagement Results in a Victory for the Invading Troopers.

Spanish Force of 2,000 Men Is Put to Rout by 1,000 of Uncle Sam's Soldiers—Army Is Driven Back Into the City with Heavy Loss, Fourteen Being Found Dead by the Victors.

Thirteen Americans were killed in an engagement Friday morning with a Spanish force which ambushed them. Four troops of the First cavalry, four troops of the Tenth cavalry and eight troops of Roosevelt's rough riders, less than a thousand men in all, dismounted and attacked 2,000 Spanish soldiers in the thickets within five miles of Santiago de Cuba. They heard the Spaniards felling trees a short distance in front, and they were ordered to advance upon the enemy.

The country thereabouts is covered with high grass and chaparral, and in this a strong force of the Spaniards were hiding. As the Americans moved forward they were met by a withering fire. Col. Wood and Lieut. Col. Roosevelt led the charge with great bravery. They scorned to hide themselves in the grass or underbrush, as the enemy did, and ultimately they drove the enemy back toward Santiago, inflicting heavy losses upon them, but with a loss to themselves of thirteen men killed and at least fifty wounded. A number of Cubans took part in the day's fighting and forty of them were killed.

The fight lasted an hour. The Spaniards opened fire from the thick brush and had every advantage of numbers and position, but the troops drove them back from the start, stormed the blockhouse around which they made the final stand and sent them scattering over the mountains. The cavalrymen were afterward re-enforced by Seventh, Twelfth and Seventeenth infantry, part of the Ninth cavalry, the Second Massachusetts and the Seventy-first New York.

Fourteen dead Spaniards were found in the bush after the fight, but their loss was doubtless far in excess of that.

TROOPS FACE OSHKOSH MOB.

Striking Woodworkers Are Dispersed by Wisconsin Soldiers.

The woodworkers' strike at Oshkosh, Wis., resulted in rioting. The trouble is said to have been started by a watchman at the Morgan plant pointing a revolver at some of the women doing picket duty. The strikers set upon the watchman and would have killed him but for police interference. John Pable, another workman, was pounded and cut until his condition is critical. C. H. Paxton, manager of the McMillan Lumber Company, was egged and narrowly escaped a dose of vitriol. Thursday evening the mob, 1,000 strong, started for McMillan's mill. Warning had been sent ahead, and the gates to the yard were closed. Five hydrants were opened and the hose turned on the crowd, but it broke in the gates and took possession. Police and deputies were of no avail. All of the non-unionists received severe beatings. Ed Casey, an engineer, was struck in the face with a stone. He retaliated by hitting the thrower, James Morris, over the head with a wrench, inflicting fatal injuries.

Gov. Scofield ordered the militia at Milwaukee to go to Oshkosh and restore order. The arrival of the troops added to the tension, but prevented another outbreak on the part of the striking woodworkers. The strikers marched to the factory of the Paine Lumber Company at 3 o'clock Friday morning, but when they reached the grounds soldiers stood ready to receive them and the crowd dispersed. Thursday's fighting resulted in nine non-union men being disabled.

WIND WRECKS A SHOW TENT.

One Man Killed and Many Injured at Sioux City, Iowa.

At Sioux City, Iowa, Forepaugh & Sells Bros.' circus tent was blown down during the performance Friday night. Adolph Halverson was killed and twenty or thirty persons injured. As the tent lifted and the poles began to fall the spectators rushed for the entrance. The fall of the canvas stopped the panic. A stampede of horses threatened great damage, but was finally checked. The wild animals were in their cages ready for shipment and none escaped. The loss to the circus people was heavy.

RING OUT, YE BELLS!

Ring out, ring out, ye merry bells,
And let the deep mouthed cannon roar!
Each patriotic bosom swells!
The glorious Fourth is here once more!
When night descends what joys are his!
The blazing rocket cleaves the skies.
Hark! Hear the roman candles fizz!
Behold the red and blue lights rise!
Now, whiz! z-z-zip! bang! torpedoes crash
And split the fretted ear of night.
Firecrackers jump, toy pistols flash,
'Mid exclamations of delight.
Now blaze the barrels smeared with tar,
Slow matches pass from hand to hand,
And salve and sticking plaster are
At druggists' stores in great demand.

FIRST VOLUNTEER FROM COMPTON.

EXTRY—full account of 'nother great victory over the Span-yards!"

News traveled quickly from Chicago to Compton—quiet little country village on a short-cut railroad branch as it was.

The most exciting yet of exciting, rumor-haunted, war-bubbling June had come down on the noon train, in the shape of extra editions with glaring headlines announcing "our boys" at it, hot and heavy, along the coast of Cuba!

"Gettin' warm, I tell you!" commented old Si Slocum, his veteran eye glowing as it had not done since the sixties, when he took a glorious part at Antietam.

"Mean real, genywine business at last, I guess!" nodded his "war partner," Seth Paine, who had left one arm on that same honored battlefield.

"Yes, and we must just whoop 'er up this Fourth!" suggested young Abel Evans.

He was superintending the unloading of a box of fishing and hunting traps from the express car, but he took time to glance over the outspread paper the two old men had bought.

Si Slocum looked up with a dry "hum!" Seth mumbled something about "'Spose so!"

Then, as young Evans lit his cigar and lazily ordered the box put in his trap, and sauntered toward it as if life was a regular play-day, Cuba a dim myth, the forces struggling there story-book unrealities, old Si dropped his hand on his knee with a slap that resounded like a pistol snap.

"Drat 'im, says I!"

"Makes my blood bile!" asserted Seth, who, from sharing his comrade's bed and board and hardships so long, had come to almost share his thoughts.

"Fourth of July!"

"As of a little powder and cheap bunting—and it'll be cheap that he buys—would count for rale old prime, choice patriotism!"

"In such a time as this!"

"Humph!"

"Bah!"

Adrian Morse, checking off freight received, lingered to listen half-amusedly to this animated colloquy.

IT WAS ADRIAN MORSE, AND HE CARRIED A "REAL" GUN.

He was interested in Abel Evans because Abel seconded his opinion in a certain vital regard—that there was only one girl in Compton worth looking at—pretty, winsome Nettie Slocum, the old veteran's granddaughter.

"Jest come into all his father's money," said Si, "and when the relief corps went up to his place for a contribution, did he shell out? A dollar. Jerusha Ann! I give two, and that's nigh a quarter of my pension. Fourth of July—whoop 'er up! Him? Abel Evans! Huh! Must have run across a job lot of powder somewhere! If I was in his shoes, I'd show my patriotism in a real way, I would. Drat my stiff leg!"

"And my one arm," murmured sympathetic Seth. "They wouldn't take me, nohow!"

Young Morse read the drift of the snappy conversation, and it set him thinking.

First, because Mr. Slocum was pretty Nettie's relative, next because, happening around at pretty Nettie's house that evening, pretty Nettie voiced some sentiments as to the duty of able-bodied Comptonians that sounded as if she had inherited some of the patriotic fire of her enthusiastic old grandsire.

She had two suitor callers, as she usually had, that night—and Abel Evans shifted uneasily under her wish that she was a young man, with the President's offer open to come and be a hero!

He went home pooh-poohing the idea of rushing into yellow fever, "when the country could hire lots of poor recruits to do it!" and calculated he would dazzle pretty Nettie on the Fourth of July with a "patriotic" demonstration that would make her admire a real home hero.

As to Adrian—Nettie's word was law. He heard, and he understood.

So, while his rival was trimming up the home lawn for a big Fourth of July "blowout," Adrian was quietly, perseveringly making his arrangements to do his duty, hoping, linked to it, would be his lady love's distinctive approbation.

On June 30 Adrian resigned his position with the railroad company.

July 1, 2, 3 he was not seen in Compton.

Pretty Nettie wondered, and grew serious.

Abel Evans went on with his "blowout" preparations, believing that his superior wealth, good looks and patriotism had driven a dangerous rival from the field.

That Fourth of July was a great day for Compton—all the village, old and young, was invited to the patriotic fete on the Evans green, and most everybody came.

It was a greater day for Abel—in his own estimation—he was master of ceremonies, king bee, and so puffed up with a sense of his vast importance that he wore his flag badge on one coat lappel as if it was a G. A. R. special honor ribbon.

Nettie was there—there were too many friendly acquaintances present not to attract her. Still, she missed a familiar face, and looked constantly and anxiously for it.

There were refreshments and speeches. Abel Evans attempted a bewildering oration on "Home Duty as a Patriot," and growling old Si Slocum spelled it with a little p.

Then the urchins had their fun—loading and firing a great brass cannon Evans had bought for the occasion, the boom of which beat anything ever heard in Compton before.

UNCLE SAM TOUCHES OFF A FEW ROCKETS.

"Grandfather," asked Nettie's young brother of old Si, "I suppose a dozen of those enormous cannon would just blow the Spaniards clean out of the water?"

"Them popguns!" snorted Seth derisively.

"Do they have bigger?"

"Bigger! Why, that's a mere musket to the monsters they use down along Santiago and sech."

"You don't say so! How I would like to see a real gun that was going to knock out the Spanish in Cuba!"

"Rifles'd help, if I had two arms!" growled old Seth, deep down in his throat.

"Here's one that may," insinuated an unobtrusive voice.

"I swear!"

"Rigimentals!"

"Going to Cuby?"

"Hurrah!"

It was Adrian Morse, and he carried a "real" gun, that was going to shoot real "Spanyards!"

He looked pretty proud at the fiery, ardent commendation of old Seth and Si over his showing the true mettle.

He blushed like a peony as pretty Nettie came up, and a single look from her bright eyes told him that he had won on one battlefield, at least—that of love.

"What's all this crowd—accident? Some one hurt?" floundered patriotic Abel Evans, coming towards the throng now surrounding his rival.

"Mebbe you'll be," muttered old Si, winking solemnly to Seth.

Evans saw pretty Nettie clinging fondly, proudly to an army-blue costume.

"Why," he puffed, growing flustered,

"It's Morse," remarked Seth.

"He's jined," added Si.

"And, if I don't miss my guess," serenely chuckled his veteran comrade, "thar'll be another 'jinin' soon as Compton's first volunteer helps capture Cuby!"

THE DECLARATION.

How Brave Dolly Madison Saved It from Destruction.

It was just as she was in the act of hurrying away, that Dolly Madison was seized with an inspiration that will ever cause her name to live in the heart of every true American. She stopped to think, What if the White House should be burned? Did it contain anything of value to the Government that she had neglected? The Declaration of Independence? In a flash she called to mind this most precious of all documents. Carefully treasured in a case apart from the other papers it had been overlooked in the worriment and confusion. It must be saved at all hazards! Without a moment's hesitation she turned and rushed back into the house. "Stop! for heaven's sake, stop!" cried her friends, vainly endeavoring to intercept her. Disregarding their commands, regardless of her danger, the brave woman sped to the room containing the treasure for which she was willing to sacrifice her life. Without attempting to open the glazed door of the case she shattered the glass with her clenched hand, snatched the priceless parchment, and, waving it exultantly above her head, hurried to the door, where she entered her carriage and was rapidly driven away in the direction of Georgetown.—Ladies' Home Journal.

The Fourth Abroad.

Very few strictly national holidays are much observed outside of the countries which have created them, and our own Fourth of July is unique in this respect, for not only do the Americans who happen to be traveling abroad when Independence day arrives celebrate it with enthusiasm in all parts of the earth, but potentates and princes from India to Norway co-operate with them in these patriotic endeavors until nowadays these foreign festivities are almost a matter of course.

Where Liberty Was Born.

House in which the Declaration of Independence was written.

The Love of Country.

There are not wanting those who sneer at love of country as narrow and provincial. But we think it will be found, as a rule, that the man who has no love for his own country and his own people, as distinguished from all the world, does not entertain very much regard for humanity in general. True patriotism—not the spurious kind that says: "Thou shalt love thy neighbor and hate thine enemy," but that which upholds, defends and makes much of home and country—promotes rather than diminishes world-wide sympathies. There are no more devoted patriots than the consecrated American missionaries who spend their lives in service for foreign lands. Our young people should be instructed to associate their celebration of Independence day with love of country, and to learn lessons of patriotism from those who on this day pledged their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor to wrest the nation from a foreign yoke. The independence thus nobly won is a precious inheritance, they should be taught, because it has permitted the development on American soil of institutions which have blessed not us alone, but all the world besides.

They Both Went Off.

Investigation.

Consternation.

Independence Day.

Thunder out,
Oh, guns and shout!
Rhyme and chime, O ringing, swinging bells!
in exultation;
Cry "Rejoice!"
With lifted voice,
For this morn was born of old a mighty nation.

Sing and spring
Ono! axing wing,
Rocket-fires, beyond the spires, above the clanging steeple;
Never earth
Saw the birth
Of so peerless, fearless, glad and free a people.

A Delicate Remonstrance.

"When I get to be a man," said the boy who has a good memory for phrases, "I'm going to strive to cultivate an unselfish nature."

"That's right," replied his father. "How are you going about it?"

"Well, in the first place, if I have any little boys I'll let them shoot their own fireworks instead of telling them they must let me do it for fear they will hurt themselves."—Washington Star.

Unfulfilled.

Tommy waked with joy unbounded
On the Fourth day of July;
He to make the most confounded
Noise in town was going to try.

Ah, how circumstances hinder
What we plan with so much glee!
Little Tommy was a cinder
Ere the grass from dew was free.

Environment.

The individual is the foundation of the state. The individual, whatever his natural tendencies, is largely molded by his environments, and these conditions are intensified as conditions continue through succeeding generations. This principle, not less than others, had much to do with the character of the Declaration of Independence and of the struggle of which it formed a part.

The Boy's Resolve.

Breathes there a boy with soul so dead
Who never to himself hath said
Away along in May,
"I'll save my cash that I may buy
Some crackers loud and rockets high
To wake the echoes in the sky
On Independence day?"

YOUNG AMERICA AFTER THE FOURTH.

BATTLE OF THE ALAMO.

It Was One of the Most Thrilling Fights in American History.

HE battle of the Alamo, Texas, was one of the most thrilling fights in American history, says a correspondent. The Mexican bombardment of the place had lasted eight days and nights, almost without cessation.

On the evening of the eighth day—it was March 3, 1836—about two hours before sunset, it suddenly ceased.

Col. Barrett Travers, taking advantage of the lull, immediately collected his little army of patriots in single file, and delivered to them one of the most stirring and portentous addresses of history. Among other things he said:

"Our fate is sealed. Within a few days—perhaps a few hours—we shall be in eternity. * * * Our business is not to make fruitless efforts to save our lives, but to choose the manner of our death. * * * Let us resolve to withstand our enemies to the last, and at each advance to kill as many of them as possible. Kill them as they scale our walls! Kill them as they leap within! Kill them as they raise their weapons and as they use them! Kill them as they kill our companions, and continue to kill them as long as one of us remains alive!

"But I leave every man to his choice. Should any man prefer to surrender or attempt to escape, he is at liberty to do so. My own choice is to stay in the fort as long as breath shall remain in my body and die fighting! This will I do even if you leave me alone! Do as you think best, but no man can die with me without affording me comfort in the hour of death!"

STORMING OF THE ALAMO.

Col. Travers then drew his sword, and with the point traced a line upon the ground a few feet in front of his men; then, resuming his position, he said:

"I now want every man who is determined to stay and die with me to form upon that line."

With one exception this order was immediately obeyed. Every sick man who could walk arose and tottered to his place. Col. Bowie, who was dying of typhoid fever, asked that his cot might be carried to the line. The one exception, a man named Rose, could not muster sufficient courage to reach the mark. He was allowed to attempt to escape and by a miracle succeeded in getting through the Mexican forces. When it was all over he was the only man of the garrison who was alive.

It was not until the morning of March 6 that the storming of the Alamo took place. It was not a battle, but a slaughter. The 4,000 Mexicans swarmed over the walls, and the little handful of Texans within killed, and killed—and died. Col. Bowie, sitting on his cot with his back to the wall, with death already written on his face, and with a strength that seemed supernatural, slew the enemy with his sword until they heaped about him so heavily that he could no longer strike. He fell, his body pierced in a dozen places. At the end of his cot was his nurse, an old Mexican woman, old even then, who caught the stricken soldier and supported his head on her arm.

And then, when the fighting had ceased, there were 2,000 dead Mexicans and the 200 dead Texans heaped together in the ancient church. With bloody hands the surviving Mexicans sorted out the Texans and carried them into the plaza, where they piled them up, with rails between, and so burned them. Surely no more acceptable incense than that altar smoke ever ascended to heaven!

The Alamo Church is shaped like a cross, and it was upon this crucifix that the martyrs died.

THE PLIMSOLL MARK.

What It Is and What It Has Done for the Merchant Sailor.

The death recently in London of Samuel Plimsoll, popularly known as the "sailors' friend," removed a man who earned the gratitude of merchant seamen through many acts of kindness and justice. The most famous of his labors for the sailor was the establishment of the Plimsoll Mark. The Plimsoll mark may be found on 99 of every 100 merchantmen to-day. It is a circle, crossed in the center by a horizontal line. Before the law establishing this load line there were no restrictions on private merchant vessels as to the amount of load. Owners were restricted only by their fears for the safety of their vessels, and many a ship was so overloaded, meeting heavy weather, she sank with all on board. To correct this evil Mr. Plimsoll had worked out by experienced ship-loaders a system of tables showing how many tons a vessel of a certain displacement could safely carry, and by an act of Parliament this rule was applied to every merchant vessel under the British flag, and on the outside of each vessel's hull the Plimsoll mark was painted. It did not matter how much more room there was for cargo; when the ship was loaded so that she sank to the Plimsoll line no more cargo could be taken on penalty of a heavy fine, and no seaman was required to sail on a vessel whose Plimsoll mark did not show above the water.

SAMUEL PLIMSOLL.

The legislation which provided this safeguard for the lives of seamen was opposed strenuously by ship owners, by shippers, and even by marine insurance companies, and, strange as it may seem, was a fruitful subject for derision by Jack in the forecastle, but as the wisdom of the precaution has been justified by years, prejudice has vanished and the Plimsoll mark has been adopted by most civilized nations.

Vanity of Dummy Shoes.

It is said that a coquettish trick prevails among the women at the seaside and watering-place hotels in Europe. They have extra sets of tiny boots and shoes made, not for wear, but to be left outside their bedroom doors. It seems that foreigners, particularly Frenchmen, are in the habit of scrutinizing closely the ladies' boots in the corridors of hotels. The furnishing of such tiny sets is a recognized part of the boot and shoe trade in Paris. It is also said that similar sets of very small boots, and shoes, and slippers are sold by the big shoe houses of Paris to be placed on exhibition with the bride's trousseau. The French bootmakers say that the Madrid ladies have the smallest feet, the Peruvian and Chilian ladies next. Ladies from the United States are also remarkable for their small feet. Russian ladies have heavy, splay feet. In Northern Europe the best-shaped feet are those of the women of Sweden. In Paris, the Jewesses are noted for their small feet, and are very particular about their chaussure. German women have large, flat feet, and English women are noted on the Continent for awkwardly made boots and shoes. Dona Bertha, wife of Don Carlos, the Pretender, wears a five-and-a-half. Lady Malet, wife of the ambassador, has a phenomenally small foot.—Saturday Evening Post.

WANTS TO BE QUEEN.

An Eastern Princess Lays Claim to the Throne of Greece.

There is a movement on foot in Russia to recognize the rights of Eugenie Christoforo, Princess Palaeologne-Nicepharae-Comnenae. With a name like that one would not think she would want to be recognized, but she does. She claims the throne of Greece, and it is said that she only waits on the backing of Russia to assert her claims. She has joined the orthodox Russian church at the Czar's request, and this is thought to be one of the steps to the throne.

EUGENIE CHRISTOFORO.

She represents the most ancient and noble of all the royal families of Europe—the line of the Emperor of Byzantium, or Constantinople. As a representative of this line the Princess unites in herself the claims of all the dynasties which from the time of Constantine the Great till the fall of the Constantines occupied the throne of the eastern Caesars. Through the marriage of Eudosia Jacita with Eufarheno Katakalone Ambusto, son of the Emperor Nicephorus Katagalone Ambusto Botiniates, the Princess traces her line back to Constantine.

The Princess' pedigree is proved by the records and archives of Constantinople now in Rome and by the archives of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem, at Malta, and the chancery at Malta attests their authenticity. She was born at Malta under British rule and has spent much time in England. Her father, Prince Theodore Christoforo, was candidate for the Greek throne in 1863, but the powers gave the job to George, the Dane. She says George has no more right to the throne than has a Hottentot, but George has the throne just the same.

A man is never entirely satisfied with his sons-in-law, and a woman's daughters-in-law never suit her.

Saturday's session of the House was devoted chiefly to eulogies upon the life and character of former Senator Harris of Tennessee. Prior to hearing eulogies some consideration was given to a conference report upon the District of Columbia appropriation bill. The Senate was not in session.

Discussion by the Senate of the question of Hawaiian annexation was begun on Monday in open session. The principal speech of the first day was made by Senator Morrill of Vermont, in opposition to annexation. The taking of a test vote (45 to 15) showed the opponents of annexation to be in a hopeless minority. The House passed the general deficiency bill, carrying $224,000,000. The bill occasioned little debate, and it passed practically as reported to the House from the Committee on Appropriations. The remainder of the day was given to District of Columbia business.

The resolution for the annexation of Hawaii was laid before the Senate almost immediately after it convened on Tuesday. Speeches opposing annexation were made by Mr. Mitchell of Wisconsin and Mr. White of California. After passing several bills of minor importance the House, in committee of the whole, considered, without disposing of it, a bill to refer to the court of claims certain claims of persons for property taken or destroyed by the confederate invasions into the southern counties of Pennsylvania. The bill brought on a long debate.

Opponents of the annexation of Hawaii again occupied the attention of the Senate on Wednesday. Mr. White (Dem., Cal.) resumed his speech begun the day before, but, after speaking two hours, yielded the floor to Mr. Pettigrew (S. D.), who discussed the resolutions for an hour and a half. Mr. White had not concluded his speech, Mr. Pettigrew taking up the argument against the resolutions merely to afford him an opportunity to rest. Mr. Pettigrew maintained that the territory of the United States was already large enough, and he believed it his duty to resist the acquisition of any territory inhabited by a people far inferior to ours or so located as to require a navy to defend it.

Discussion in the Senate of the Hawaiian annexation question was interrupted on Thursday by Mr. Rawlins of Utah with a speech in which he criticised vigorously the provision embodied in the conference report on the Indian appropriation bill which acknowledges the right of Indians to lease mineral lands on their reservations. At 1 o'clock the Hawaiian resolution was called up and Mr. Pettigrew of South Dakota resumed his speech in opposition, addressing the Senate for about two hours. Mr. Pettigrew, on account of fatigue, yielded the floor to Mr. McEnery (Dem., La.), who presented a constitutional argument against annexation. At the session of the House further agreements upon the sundry civil bill were reported from the committee on conference and adopted, and further conference upon the remaining points in difference was requested. A large number of bills of minor importance were passed and sixty-three pension and relief measures were disposed of, pursuant to the recommendations reached several days before in committee of the whole. The House adjourned until Monday.

The conference report on the bankruptcy bill was reported to Congress Friday afternoon and was immediately agreed to in the Senate. The bill as agreed to is a compromise between the provisions of the bills passed by the Senate and House respectively. The Senate bill was known as the Nelson bill and that of the House as the Henderson bill. The latter was far more liberal to the debtor than the former. The compromise leans to the House side of the question. The Hawaiian annexation resolutions were under discussion in the Senate. The speakers were Mr. McEnery (Dem., La.), who concluded his address begun on Thursday, and Mr. Turley (Dem., Tenn.), who presented a constitutional argument against the resolutions.

Peculiar Ending of a Trial.

At LaPorte, the second trial of James Mullaney of Chicago, chief of detectives of the Lake Shore Railroad, on the charge of killing Officer Christiansen of South Bend in May, 1897, ended in a peculiar manner. The jury rendered a verdict of guilty of manslaughter. Upon being polled all the jurymen agreed that the verdict was according to their best judgment and belief, except C. P. Smith, who said he had consented to the verdict in order to reach an agreement, but did not sanction it. Judge Biddle thereupon declared the verdict void and sent the jury to its room for further deliberation. In five minutes the body reported that it could not agree and were discharged, and another trial will be the result.

Farmers Wreck a Machine.

Last fall a stranger who secured one of the American Strawboard Company's balers in Anderson went into Hendricks County and, representing himself as an agent for the corporation, bought up all of the straw in sight on time and baled and shipped it. He then disappeared, leaving the baler behind. The farmers waited for their money, but it never came. A week ago they dynamited the machine, but it was not completely destroyed, and the American company ordered it shipped to Anderson. The company has received notice that the farmers held a mass meeting and as a result reduced the machine to ashes.

The returns of the assessors in Hendricks County show a gain of $188,530 in the assessed valuation of personal property.

Luther Benson, the Indianapolis temperance lecturer, died suddenly at Rushville, where he had gone to deliver a lecture.

One hundred street laborers went on a strike at Evansville. They demanded $1.50 a day. They have been receiving $1.

Edmon Buchert, 17-year-old son of Joseph Buchert of Weisburg, was drowned in the Railway pond at Milan while in bathing.

A stock company is being organized at Hartford City to erect a factory for the manufacture of air brakes. Judge Wilson of Fort Wayne is at the head of the enterprise.

Frank Abney, a Fortville farmer, aged about 55, left the dinner table the other day and went to his barn, where he was found dead. No marks were found on his person and he is supposed to have died of heart disease.

A proposed trip to the Paris exposition in 1900, which was to have been made by a club of gentlemen of New Albany, has been abandoned on account of the unfriendly attitude of the French people toward the United States in the present controversy with Spain.

After waiting a year for Coates College at Terre Haute, the institution for the higher education of women founded by Mrs. Coates of Greencastle, to reopen its doors, W. R. McKeen, its benefactor for several years, has been told that there is no hope, and he will sell the property for city lots.

An organization of the spiritualist lyceums or Sunday schools of Indiana has just been effected. The officers are: State conductor, John Loth of Muncie; assistant State conductor, H. J. Leonard of Alexandria; secretary, Mrs. L. E. Andrews of Indianapolis; treasurer, T. W. Smith of Anderson.

Three houses and a business block burned in Yorktown the other night. The fire started in John Ratliff's residence and it, with a business house, was destroyed. The fire next attacked the residence of Dr. F. M. Keltner and the home of James Schaeffer, both being destroyed. Ratliff's loss is $3,000. Keltner will lose $1,500 and Schaeffer the same.

AUBURN WEEKLY COURIER.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY.....JUNE 30, 1898.

LATEST WAR NEWS.

Monday's Daily.

Since the sharp engagement between cavalry near Santiago last week our forces have pushed slowly forward through the brush, till now in sight of the Spaniards, and a general battle may occur at any moment. From the high grounds we can see Santiago and its defenses plainly, seven miles away.

In the battle of Sevilla, we lost twenty-two killed and about seventy-five wounded. Thirty-nine Spanish bodies have been found, but it is believed they lost more.

Food is scarce in Santiago, and they are even eating horse flesh. But the city is not only defended by strong entrenchments but these are protected by reveral lines of barbed wire fence.

We have started a third fleet to the Philippines with troops.

A second fleet with troops is to leave Tampa in a few days. It is believed the 157th will go this time. We expect to double Shafter's army so he can take Santiago, and then send a strong force to Porto Rico.

The Spanish fleet going to Manila has reached Port Said, at the east end of the Mediterranean, the place where ships enter the Suez canal. He will stay there awhile and wait for orders.

The Americans at Sevilla were under command of Gen. Joe Wheeler, the noted leader of cavalry in the rebel army. He is at present a member of Congress from Georgia but it is supposed a new member will have to be elected in his place.

Tuesday's Daily.

All recruiting officers and all mustering officers of the 157th together with all recruits, have been ordered back to Tampa. This indicates that they are getting ready to go over to Cuba.

Admiral Dewey expects to attack Manila this week, when the troops arrive.

It appears to be the plan now to take a fleet across the Atlantic, and shell the cities of Spain. This does not look like the wise thing to do. If we shell defenseless towns, we will gain the ill will of European nations and may get into trouble. If we shell any towns it should be those that are fortified. And even then is would likely not pay. We have shelled a dozen different towns on Cuba and Porto Rico and have not captured one of them. We have not yet captured Manila. Let us first finish upsome of these jobs before we attempt any new ones.

Twenty-seven regiments now at Chickamauga have been ordered south to go to Cuba.

Our army at Santiago, have got closer to the city and are planting cannon on the high grounds, as fast as they can be brought from the ships. Food is scarce in our camp owing to the difficulty in bringing it from the ships, over rough roads and through the woods. But such artillery as can be got in place is mounted on the hills.

Martial law may be proclaimed in Havana, as there is a good deal of discontent there.

Wednesday's Daily.

Both armies at Santiago are being re-enforced. Among those who have orders to cross to Cuba are our boys of the 157th. Our army has advanced a mite or so nearer the city, but find the defenses likely to be strong. Our officers have examined the ground to within a short distance of the Spanish works. A battle may happen any day.

Good Word For DeKalb

Robert P. Barr, who sat as judge in the case against Koons yesterday was reared to manhood over in Noble county near Avilla, and in his boyhood days worked for several farmers on this side of the county line, among them being Ed, Kelham and O. C. Clark. He was then familiar with all that part of the county. He told us yesterday, that in a recent trip over the county he was surprised at the great improvements we have made, and especially in the matter of draining and cleaning up our low grounds. He said the result of this has been to been to put DeKalb in the first rank as an agricultural county He says the change is astonishing. Everywhere he saw evidence of this in the fine fields, neatly kept, the heavy crops now growing and in every indication of progress and thrift. He grew enthusiastic as he repeated, that the state could not show another like this. Coming as this did from one of the leading members of the bar of Noble county, our people have cause to be flattered and especially because, we have all been aware for some time, that we were taking rank just as he has stated.

Monitor Plant sold

Today, as indicated by notices in recent issues of the COURIER, the big Monitor Windmill plant at Auburn Junction was sold at receiver's sale, by the receiver, M. E. Griswold. It brought $2,500 and was bought by James Provines and Reuben Lockwood. These gentlemen were the chief stockholders of the old company The sale includes everything, the grounds, buildings, machinery, lumber and all materials, office fixtures, accounts, etc, etc. The property is worth a great deal more of course, but we presume it was more or less involved in the original troubles. We believe they will go on and run the plant, and hope to see them do well at it. The plant is a good one and the location splendid, being close to the Junction of the three roads so they can ship goods in six directions without much drayage.

COURT.

Court began again this morning with the jury on hand to try one case, after we believe they will be sent home till next week.

The first case was that brought by A. C. Trentman against John Koons, and his bondsman, W. H. Leas. Koons used to be a constable at Waterloo and Leas was his on bond. Trentman claims that Koons collected some money for him and did not turn over the money. Koons says he turned over all money he collected and has the receipts to show for it. W. H. Leas and P. V. Hoffman are attorneys for Koons and D. M. Link and Wm. X. X. McDonald for Trentman. Robert Barr is acting as Judge.

FROM COMPANY K

PORT TAMPA, FLA., June 20, 1898.

DEAR MOTHER:—I got the letter last night that you wrote the 14th and was glad to get it for I was looking for it all day.

I am well and feel as good as I ever did at home. I just came from mess and then is retreat, it is something like dress parade only much nicer I think. Of all the militia tactics I think guard mount is the nicest although there are other opinions of that.

I wish the Auburn people could see the 157th Ind., all in heavy marching order it would make them think Indiana boys was as good looking lot of fellows as they could find any place and I know they are; they are in good spirits and willing to go where they are called. Company K would, I am sure. They all lookout for themselves. They have straw covered with sacking to sleep on and five men in a tent, that makes it very comfortable. I have a box and two boards made in a cot in the side of Maj. Kuhlman's tent, the boards are not soft by any means, but I never lay awake long enough to know that. But when I get home I will be glad to get in a good bed once more.

I read in the paper that grandma had come home. I hope she keeps well through the hot weather. I wish you would tell me when you write how you sent my kodak, and tell Frank to write. Well I must close for this time. Write soon.

Your Son,
ROY MCDOWELL.

HARRY LEWIS DEAD

A feeling of sadness came over the people of Auburn this morning, as the news went about that Harry Lewis was dead. Sunday, he had appeared to have taken a cold, and soon grew worse, being seized with heart failure. And from this he never recovered, but passed away last evening at 9:30. Our people have known for a long time, that he was sufferer, and that his recovery was extremely doubtful. But he himself has always been cheerful and hopeful. The writer met him a week or two ago, and asked him ,how he was feeling. "I am feeling better" he said with a look of determination on his wan, pale face. One could not help admiring the strength of a will that could thus face what all could see was certain death. It is now the bereaved parents of whom we must think. Their cup of sorrow is indeed a bitter one, and calls forth the deepest sympathies of all our people. He was their only child, a model boy, and the light of a happy home.

JUSTICE'S COURT

Yesterday both the justice courts had business. Joe Pfefferl was called before squire Walter, by Prosecutor Pomeroy, on a charge of selling liquor to minors. It appears that several people have been sending their children to Pfefferl's place to get beer for use at their tables, giving the children a written order for it. It seems however that the law does not permit this. Then to make matters worse, some boys forged their father's or mother's name to such orders, got the beer and went to the creek bottom and had a high time. Hence the arrest, which resulted in a fine of $20 and costs.

The same day, a case was brought before squire Walborn against Frederick, the saloon man at the south end. He had sold to minors in very much the same way that Joe did. But he also had to pay $20 and costs.

Dog Story.

Here is a good story of a dog, which has the further merit of being true—An Irish retriever, which had been taught to bring his master's slippers when required, was one day expelled from the drawing room when visitors were calling, as he was making himself rather troublesome. The dog, feeling himself in disgrace, in order to propitiate his master, went to every bedroom in the house and collected all the slippers and old shoes he could find, which he deposited outside the drawing room door. Imagine the feelings of the lady of the house, when the door was opened for the departing visitors, and this scene was revealed to view.

More Lucrative.

Depositor—What has become of your old cashier? Banker—Oh, he couldn't live on the salary we paid him. Depositor—Did he go into something else? Banker—Yes; into the bank's funds.

Uncertain.

The Father—What are your prospects, young man? The Suitor—A—er—that's what I'm trying to find out.—Puck.

After the War.

Monday's Daily.

—Culbertson & Boland have received a car load of binder twine.

—Parties at Laporte have subscribed for $25,500 of the new bonds.

—The new stamp taxes and similar internal revenue war taxes go into effect July 1.

—For reliable insurance at lowest rates, See J. N. Wilson, Successor to B. M. Hastings.

—Adjutant Scott went to Fort Wayne today to join the recruiting officer already there, and examine and muster in the men.

—Dr. Baxter is paying special attention to Diseases of Children also Diseases of the Liver, Stomach and Nervous system. tf

—Harry Stafford is home for a short visit and rest. He is located at Welker, Ohio, where he is operator and station agent.

—Cory Shugers has the finest peach tree full of fruit we know of. In fact he has several, and though young, they are of good varieties.

—WANTED:—Black Walnut logs for timber. Highest cash prices paid for same. Address, Lesh, Sanders & Egbert Co., Goshen, Ind. 8

—Supt. Coe says a large number of applicants attended the teachers' examination Saturday, and that the list of questions was unusually difficult.

—See the new 1898, right hand cut, McCormick Binder and Big 4 Mowers at Culbertson & Boland's cheap hardware Store, Auburn, Ind.

—When you want to buy Hardware or Farm Machinery cheap, don't fail to call at Culbertson & Boland's cheap hardware store, Auburn, Ind.

—A musical entertainment will be given at St. Michael Hall at Summit, Ind., June 29 & 30. An admission of 25 cents will be charged including an ice cream social.

—Bob Moore, of LaFayette, Ind., says that for constipation he has found DeWitt's Little Early Risers to be perfect. They never gripe. Try them for stomach and liver troubles. H. B. McCord.

—The ripening wheat has been lodged and tangled a good deal by the heavy storms Saturday night and Sunday morning. It will bother some about cutting as it had grown pretty tall this year.

—When you want to buy a Binder, Mower, Wagon, Buggy, Plow, Harrows, Cultivator or any other tool used on the farm don't fail to see Culbertson & Boland, cheap hardware merchants, Auburn, Ind.

—James McClellan, on east Seventst is raising a nice crop of plums without spraying. They are in the inclosure where he keeps his chickens. But this plan does not save his peaches, which are also in the chicken yard. The leaves withered up and they and the fruit also, fell off.

—The Hudson Banner has reached our table. It is the new paqer established by R. H. Weamer, lately of Auburn, and is a bright and valuable paper, with plenty of interesting matter and good advertising patronage. If the Hudson people want a paper that will do them good, they should keep up this patronage so liberally begun.

Tuesday's Daily.

COURT

We left the court and jury at work on the case against Koons, in our report yesterday. A. C. Trentman had claimed that Koons had not paid over to him, certain collections made, by Koons as constable in collecting Trentman's claims by W. H. Leas. On the trial it developed that Leas and Koons could show Trentman's receipt for everthing, and when the evidence of plaintiff was all in, Judge Barr told them they had no case, and so they dismised it.

The case in regard to the Jones farm in Franklin has been set over till October term.

NOTICE.

All who have subscribed to pay for the iron fence around the old cemetery are urged to pay up at the earliest possible time. The bill for the goods is now here and the fence itself may be here any day. Let us be ready to meet it.
C. F. BARTELS.

THE AUDITOR'S REPORT

We should have called attention to the annual report last week, but had neither time nor space. We do so now, and ask our readers to study it over carefully. It is in may ways the most complete and satisfactory annual report ever made in this county.

In the first place it is the most complete. It was made ready in time and therefore contained some things it would not have had if the work of preparation had been delayed. We allude to several funds that now report "no balance on hand," which means that every dollar of that fund has been turned over to the proper person, the trustee for instance, and is not reported as lying on hand in the treasurer's office. See "Tuition fund," "Special school fund," "Road fund" etc, etc.

OFFICERS' FUNDS.

In the Clerk's fund, we find he had received during the year $3416.91. From this money, his salary of $2,400 was paid leaving a balance of that fund on hand, of $1016.91.

In the Recorder's fund, we find he collected $2355,25 and taking out his salary $1500, there is left $855.25.

In the sheriff's fund, there was collected $3570.15, and after paying his salary and the fees still claimed for the office, $3030.48, there is left $539.67.

In the Auditor's fund, the fees collected are $263.80, and all this remains on hand, as he is paid out of the county fund.

The Treasurer collects no fees that can apply on his salary.

The amount of balances left on hand in the Clerk's, Recorder's, and Sheriff's, offices is $2411.83. This will eventually be applied to reduce the debt of the county, but at present remains as a balance in the treasury, there being no law to dispose of it otherwise.

COUNTY DEBT.

The orders outstanding are seen to be 42358.21. Take from this the amounts on hand and the balances due the county from the bondsmen of the defaulting officers, we find that the net debt of the county is $23302.71. Had there been a law by which the $2411.83 still in the fund for county officers, could be turned over to the county, the net debt would be reduced to $20890.88.

But leaving the debt as reported, at $23302.71, we can see, that if no extraordinary thing happens to the county, like the loss of an expensive bridge, that by the time the treasurer makes a call for orders in December, he will call them up to within five or six months, and by next spring, when the annual report of the auditor is made the debt will be practically wiped out.

We said this is an excellent report and speaks well for the work of the auditor's office, the work being done by Mr. Boland and Geo. Ralston. It also shows well for the commissioners. They have worked faithfully and carefully to keep down expenses and keep up the condition of the county and all its interests. Nothing has been neglected. Bridges etc, were never in better shape, and they have built six or seven of these within the past year, one a very expensive one in Auburn. They have kept up repairs as well as were needed, on all the public buildings and in all these, have carefully tried to get good bargains.

WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY.

More Successful Experiments Over Land and Sea.

The experiments made with Signor Marconi's wireless system of telegraphy between Bournemouth and Alum Bay have, according to Mr. Jameson Davis, the managing director of the Wireless Telegraph Company, been of a perfectly satisfactory characters, and wireless telegraphy is now established as a commercial undertaking. Mr. Davis informed a representative of the Daily Mail that the distance between the points named is nearly fifteen miles, and that atmospheric conditions have no adverse effect on the accuracy with which communications are made. "Some time ago,' continued Mr. Davis, "we conducted experiments between Salisbury and Bath, a distance of thirty-four miles, and signals were successfully exchanged. We also tried the system at sea, chartering a steamer, which proceeded from Alum Bay to Swanage and back, and during the whole time was kept in communication with the operator at the former place." Mr. Davis then showed the Daily Mail representative the actual paper ribbons on which the Morse signals were received during the voyage referred to, and added that with Signor Marconi's apparatus ships at sea can readily communicate with each other. In order to establish communication btween two points it is necessary to have a vertical wire at some height in the air at each point. The wire may be either attached to a pole, or hung from a cliff or high building. The electrical apparatus is operated by a Morse key, which divides the electro-magnetic waves into long and short signals that constitute the dashes and dots of the Morse alphabet. "The greater the distance between the points,' said Mr. Davis, the greater the height to which the wires at each end must be raised. But it is not necessary to increase the height in ratio to the distance. Our experience is that if to establish communication between points sixteen miles apart it is necessary to have a height of say, 120 feet, by doubling the height you get communication between points sixty-four miles apart." Communication has been carried on between places several miles apart without using any vertical wire at all, and Mr. Davis asserts that by using a lance to elevate the wire a horse soldier could hold telegraphic conversation with the main body some considerable distance away. The necessary apparatus weighs less than fourteen pounds. Mr. Davis stated further that the system would shortly be in actual use in this country, though at present he was unable to make any statements as to the contracts arranged. It appears that it has already been adopted by the naval authorities of at least one of the European powers.—London Daily Mail.

ARMY NOW IN CUBA.

Our Troops Land and Advance on Beleaguered City.

SIEGE OF SANTIAGO.

Heavy Guns Placed So as to Force Fall of Cervera's Stronghold.

American Army of Invasion Arrives Off Santiago—Marines Show Great Enthusiasm When the Troopships Are Sighted—Admiral Sampson Confers with Gen. Garcia on Board the Flagship—Attempt to Assassinate Blanco in Havana.

Washington special:

The gratifying news comes that troops at last have landed upon Cuban soil and active army operations have begun, the previous occupation by the marines near Guantanamo having been made only for the establishment of a naval base and cable station. From this time on stirring news may be expected. Over two months have elapsed since war was declared, but the army may now be said to have taken the field for the first time, which will shortly leave Sampson and Schley free to operate in other directions.

The troops landed at two points, to the east and west of the harbor entrance, meeting with, according to the official dispatch, "little, if any, resistance," it evidently being the plan for the two divisions to move forward and attack the Spaniards on the flanks, while the insurgents under Garcia and Rabi advance upon their rear. The landing took place under cover of a vigorous bombardment by the fleet. The debarkation began within twenty-four hours after the fleet of transports arrived and at 1 o'clock Thursday morning the War Department was advised by cable that all the troops were ashore.

Advices received Monday afternoon announced the arrival off Santiago of the first division of the American army of invasion, under command of Major General William R. Shafter. No attempt was made during the day, according to the report, to land the American troops. General Shafter, soon after his arrival had a conference with Admiral Sampson. They discussed at length the information obtained by Admiral Sampson's scouts as to the most available landing places in the vicinity of Santiago, and sent further scouting parties along the coast, who inspected the points considered by Admiral Sampson to be most advantageous. Tremendous enthusiasm was awakened among the men with Admiral Sampson's fleet by the arrival of the troops. They gave cheer after cheer, and their enthusiasm met with a hearty response from the troopships.

GEN. WM. R. SHAFTER.

Repeated delays in the departure of the army from Tampa had made the men with the fleet impatient and they awaited the coming of their allies with great eagerness. For more than ten days they had had practically nothing to do aside from preventing the escape of Admiral Cervera's fleet from the harbor. Officers and men, the fleet having done all damage possible preparatory to landing the troops, were anxious for more active warfare. From an early hour on Sunday morning every vessel in Admiral Sampson's fleet was on the lookout for the transports. The admiral had been advised from Washington that the troopships probably would join his fleet some time during the day.

General Garcia and his personal staff were picked up at General Rabi's camp, eighteen miles west of Santiago, and brought to the flagship Sunday afternoon by the gunboat Vixen. There the grizzled and wounded patriot had a long consultation with Admiral Sampson regarding the operations for the investment of Santiago and the co-operation of the American and Cuban troops. General Garcia is very enthusiastic. He says the Spaniards are starving and cannot hold out long, and that the war in the island will end in a few months. It is estimated that over 300 Spaniards have been killed or wounded since the landing of marines. The Spaniards seem satisfied that they cannot dislodge the Americans and have withdrawn. The upper bay will be occupied immediately. Lieutenant Delehanty, with an expedition, has been at work removing mines from the river connecting the upper and lower bays. When this is clear the ships will move up the channel and take the town of Caimanera, whose forts were demolished by the Texas.

An American telegraph office has been opened in an American camp on Cuban soil. The advantage which Madrid had of direct communication with Cuba is enjoyed now by Washington. The American officers at Camp McCalla on Guantanamo Bay can telegraph the news hour by hour if there is any to send and if they are inclined to send it.

CHAPEL NEAR FORTRESS SAN JUAN—PIERCED BY A 13-INCH SHELL

HAS APPROPRIATED $371,000,000.

Provisions Made for War Expenses Up to the Present Time.

Representative Cannon, chairman of the House Committee on Appropriations, explained in presenting the $224,000,000 emergency deficiency bill that with the $218,000,000 for expenses carried in that measure the provisions made for conducting the war, including the appropriations made for the next fiscal year, had reached the total of $371,000,000. The bill passed by the House contains all the estimates of the War and Navy Departments of emergency expenses likely to arise during the remainder of the calendar year. Should greater expenditures be required than are anticipated, and the funds not be made available by existing law, Congress will be called in extraordinary session. It is believed, however, that precaution has been taken by the two departments to secure sufficient funds to meet practically all contingencies, and that the cost of the war to the first of next year will not exceed $350,000,000.

SANTIAGO AGAIN UNDER FIRE.

Fortifications Crushed and the Vizcaya Struck by a Shell.

Rear Admiral Sampson's fleet bombarded the batteries at Santiago de Cuba for the third time at daylight Thursday morning. For hours the ships pounded the batteries at the right and left of the entrance, only sparing El Morro, where Lieut. Hobson and his companions of the Merrimac are in prison. The western batteries, against which the main assault was directed, were badly wrecked. One gun was utterly destroyed. In others many guns were dismounted. At first the Spaniards replied passionately and wildly, but impotently. Then most of the guns were deserted. Not a ship was struck nor a man injured on the American side. It is believed that the enemy's loss of life was heavy. It is reported from Madrid that "a shell from an American warship, falling from a great elevation, struck the Vizcaya, which, owing to its excellent armor, was not damaged."

As a preliminary to the hammering given the batteries, the dynamite cruiser Vesuvius at midnight was given another chance. Three 250-pound charges of gun cotton were sent over the fortifications at the entrance. The design was to drop them in the bay, around the angle, back of the eminence on which El Morro is situated, where it was known that the Spanish torpedo boat destroyers were lying. Two charges went true, as no reports were heard—a peculiarity of the explosion of gun cotton in water. The third charge exploded with terrific violence on Cayo Smith. The destruction and death at the western batteries must have been appalling.

TWO MONTHS OF WAR.

Washington Officials Think They Have Reason to Be Satisfied.

Two months ago war broke out between the United States and Spain, according to the proclamation of the President and the declaration of Congress. The end of that period finds nearly 16,000 United States troops lying off Santiago preparing to land; it finds cable communication established between the Government at Washington and the advance guard of the expedition in Cuba, and it finds Cuban territory in the possession of United States marines, backed by a naval squadron, and nearly all of the commercial ports of Cuba blockaded. This is all, apart from Dewey's great victory at Manila and from the splendid results achieved in organizing several armies now in camps. Therefore those in charge assert that they have a right to look back with pride over what has been accomplished in the short space of two months, working in a large part with raw material in both the army and the navy.

DO DUTY AS PICKETS.

Forty Auxiliary Warships Are Guarding the Coast.

The Navy Department has now completed its arrangement of the Atlantic and gulf coasts patrol, and stretching from Eatsport, Me., around to New Orleans. There are no less than forty auxiliary naval craft, including swift yachts, reconstructed single-turret monitors, relics of the civil war, tugboats, ferryboats, and not a few large and well-armed merchantmen. These forty ships are disposed at the several large coast and gulf cities, while 100 miles or more seaward an outer picket line is maintained by four of the larger and more effective warships of the San Francisco class. One of these outer pickets is maintained as far north as Nova Scotia, and the southerly picket is off the eastern coast of northern Georgia.

SAMPSON'S WORK AT SAN JUAN.
A corner of Morro Castle as it appeared after the bombardment.

Gen. Blanco Makes a Threat.

Captain General Blanco cables Madrid that he sent a gunboat from Havana to inform the commander of the American boat Maple that the Spanish Government will not agree to exchange the Merrimac prisoners and to warn all vessels coming to parley for their exchange or for any other purpose not to approach within six miles of Havana, or they will be fired upon.

Hatred of Americans.

In Spanish Government circles the more conservative officials think the war won by the United States, but are afraid to make public this fact for fear of civil strife. The Spanish are very bitter toward the Americans. Wherever the word America appears on any of the public buildings or hotels the Government has issued orders to have it erased.

Augusti Said to Have Quit.

News was received that Captain General Augusti of Manila had resigned because a council of war favored immediate surrender to Admiral Dewey. He was succeeded as commander of the army by Gen. Basillo Davilo. Augusti's wife and daughters have been captured by the insurgents.

Meron Disclaims Knowledge.

Senor Don Martin Garcia Meron, the Argentine minister to this country, denies all knowledge of the authorship of certain correspondence recently published in the Nation, a leading newspaper of Buenos Ayres, which made gross accusations and reflections upon the American Government.

Consul Dent Protests.

Consul Dent has entered protest at Kingston against Jamaica being used as a Spanish base of supplies, several vessels having loaded there with supplies thought to be intended for blockaded Cuban ports.

PLAN PRISON FOR SPANIARDS.

Those Captured in War Will Be Taken to Fort McPherson.

A serious problem, the solution of which has been determined upon by the authorities, is that of the disposition of the vast number of prisoners which must fall into American hands whenever Santiago capitulates. This number is variously estimated all the way from 25,000 to 50,000 men. It has been definitely decided that they cannot be permitted to remain in Cuba, and it will, therefore, be necessary to provide a large number of transports to bring them to this country, where they may be more readily fed and guarded. This will require a much larger fleet of transports than that which carried Gen. Shafter's army. It has been decided to make Fort McPherson, Ga., a permanent military prison.

OPPOSES RELIEF EXPEDITION.

General Miles Says Military Is Needed for Other Purposes.

There is decided opposition in the War Department to an expedition for the relief of the reconcentrados. Gen. Miles does not lend his support to the proposition, and he is said to have urged against the project at a White House conference. If supplies must be sent to the starving Cubans, it is Gen. Miles' recommendation that steamers be chartered for the transportation of material and the work of distribution be intrusted to the foreign consuls in Cuba. This is a mission, he holds, which could be discharged in all propriety by the representatives of neutral governments in the districts where succor is needed. War Department officials are united in the opinion that this is not an opportune period for using the military in any such humanitarian pursuit.

WAR BULLETINS.

Germany, it is declared, will not interfere in Manila.

The cruiser Newark may be the flagship of a new flying squadron.

Col. Torrey's troops of cowboy cavalrymen will probably go to Porto Rico.

Spanish ministers declare their country will not agree to an exchange of prisoners.

James Hobson, a brother of the hero of the Merrimac, is a candidate for West Point.

It was again announced at Madrid that the Spanish reserve squadron had sailed from Cadiz.

There have been seven deaths among the soldiers at Camp Alger at Falls Church, Va.

The officers in command of the Porto Rican expedition will be Gens. Coppinger, Lee and Keifer.

The Queen Regent of Spain has offered to abdicate, if such a step will allay popular discontent.

Illinois troops in camp at Jacksonville took a prominent part in the dedication of a Confederate monument.

Auxiliary cruisers Harvard and Yale will be used as troop transports for the Porto Rican expedition.

Correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette, London, who visited Cuba, says stories of starvation are unfounded.

Gen. Miles says Garcia has agreed to co-operate with the American forces in the operations against Santiago.

The new fortifications at Cardenas have been bombarded by American warships and the Spanish severely punished.

Fresh calls for men for the army are constantly being made in Spain, and reenforcements are being hastened to various points.

The American collier Ravensdale, owned by a Philadelphia firm, is suspected of delivering a cargo of coal to the enemy's warships.

Brig. Gen. Garretson is trying to move a brigade of Illinois and Ohio troops from Camp Alger to Fernandina for the Porto Rico expedition.

Miss Jean Evans and Miss Helen Taylor, daughters of the captains of the battleships Iowa and Indiana, have applied for positions in the naval nurse corps.

In Rome, it is admitted that the Philippines are lost to Spain, and the Spanish Government is advised to submit with resignation to that accomplished result.

Owing to the lack of transports the third military expedition to the Philippines is not likely to leave San Francisco until next month.

ADMIRAL CAMARA.
Commander of the Spanish Fleet at Cadiz.

A committee of the Army and Navy League left Chicago to visit the various camps and ascertain the needs of the soldiers which can be supplied by their friends at home.

Ex-Gov. Roswell P. Flower sent $1,000 each to the Second, Eighth and Sixty-ninth regiments of New York, because they were suffering for the lack of food and suitable clothing.

The false reports regarding the general war situation issued by the Spanish officials has stirred the people of Spain up to the point of revolution since the Government has been compelled to admit half the truth.

WRECK AND RUIN.

Bombardment of Santiago Thursday Spreads Destruction.

A careful inspection of the fortifications along the crest of the hills defending Santiago harbor by the Associated Press dispatch boat after the bombardment Thursday morning showed that the American gunners spread wreck and ruin everywhere. Some of the batteries were demolished beyond repair. The vultures which circled on level wings over the hills as thick as swallows around a chimney for hours after the firing ceased furnished grewsome evidence of the fatality among the Spanish soldiers. Hundreds of troops could be seen from the ships digging in mounds of earth piled up by the explosions of the projectiles from the heavy guns for bodies, while their heads were fanned by the wings of the black scavengers of the battlefield. There were two spots, one on the east and the other on the west of the harbor entrance, which were denuded of the foliage. The hilltops seem literally blown away. These marked the places where the 200-pound charges of gun cotton blown by the Vesuvius landed.

There was evident demoralization among the Spanish troops during the bombardment. Officers could be seen with drawn swords driving the men to the guns, but even then they could not be forced to stay so long as our guns were directed at them. The fifteen minutes' night work of the Vesuvius had shattered their nerves. The aim of our gunners was superb, and not only were the coast forts annihilated, but the batteries on Cayo Smith, up the harbor, were destroyed. Had all the ships used smokeless powder, as did the New Orleans, there would remain no signs of guns or fortifications to indicate that there had ever been any defenses there.

CAPTAIN H. C. TAYLOR.
Commander of the Battleship Indiana.

The Spaniards were evidently surprised while strengthening their fortifications. The first shot of the New York landed full and fair on the top of the hills to the east, where the gunners were already at work erecting new pieces. The earth seemed to rise in a cloud, and when the twelve-inch shells of the Iowa and the thirteen-inch batteries of the Oregon landed squarely and fairly, a great cheer went up from the ships. There were no casualties in the fleet, although the ships held a fixed position, as if inviting the Spaniards to fire upon them. The half-stripped ships' gunners never worked with more enthusiasm. In thirty-eight minutes the order was given to cease firing, and the message went to each ship from the admiral, "Well done," and the officers and men turned in for breakfast. Every detail of the engagement had been executed to the letter, from the opening of fire by the New York to the last shot from the Iowa.

ATTEMPTS BLANCO'S LIFE.

Havana Volunteer Wounds the Spanish Captain General.

Mail advices have been received in Washington of a recent attempt in Havana to assassinate Captain General Blanco, which was made by Mariano Salva, a young member of the volunteer army. The attempted killing of the Spanish captain general took place as he was leaving the palace to accompany some officers of his staff on an inspection of the earthworks on the outskirts of the city. Salva sent a rifle bullet into the calf of General Blanco's left leg.

The volunteer is a member of the guard on duty around the palace. His younger brother, also a volunteer, was arrested recently on a charge of conspiring with the enemies of Spain against the established government. The younger Salva was tried by a court martial, condemned and executed. Salva submitted willingly to arrest, believing he had killed General Blanco and avenged the death of his brother.

CAPTAIN-GENERAL BLANCO.

AUGUSTI GIVES UP.

Notifies Spain He Is Behind Walls of Manila.

The State Department has received information, which is thought trustworthy, that soon the Stars and Stripes will be floating over Manila. Secretary Long is in possession of information which justifies him in informing the President that Admiral Dewey would be in control of the Philippines capital in a few days.

An official dispatch to Madrid from Manila indicates that the situation there is worse. Augusti wires that he has retired within the walls of Manila. If Captain General Augusti is obliged to take refuge in the citadel he will be entirely cut off from communication with the outside.

BIG ARMY FOR CUBA.

War Council Decides 170,000 Men Will Be Needed.

A third call for 75,000 volunteers will result from the council of war at the White House Monday. The operations in Cuba planned by the President and his advisers will find use for 170,000 men—the number for which Gen. Miles asked. Havana, with its garrison of 65,000 Spanish soldiers behind the fortifications, will require 100,000 American besiegers. For the capture of Cienfuegos, Matanzas, Sagua, Bahia Honda, Cardenas and Mariel the rest of the troops are needed. The call may be expected in ten days.

Many Dons Desert.

There are about 16,000 Spaniards on the Cuban coast between Matanzas and Cardenas. The Spanish volunteers and soldiers of late have been deserting in considerable numbers from the forces around Matanzas and joining the Cubans. The Cuban force in this neighborhood numbers about 2,000. They have arms, but lack food and ammunition.

FIRED THE FIRST SHOT.

Gunner Charles Cavanaugh Opened the Battle at Manila.

Gunner Charles Cavanaugh, the man who fired the first shot in the great naval battle of Manila Bay, is a native of Harvey County, Kansas. He is a gunner on the Olympia, Admiral Dewey's flagship, and has charge of one of the 8-inch guns. When the battle commenced the Olympia signaled the other ships to begin firing, both by "wigwagging" and by firing the first shot herself. Charles Cavanaugh had the honor of firing that first shot. A letter was received from Cavanaugh by Charles Barber, a cousin, in which he said the fire of the Spanish fleet was at all times very wild, and that to the American sailors it was simply an exciting target practice. Gunner Cavanaugh is just 21 years old, and has been in the American navy nearly two years. He enlisted in November, 1896, and was drilled in the recruiting ship Independence. The following March he was sent across the Pacific in the mail steamer Peru, and after his arrival in Japan April 15 he was transferred to the flagship Olympia. He learned the tricks aboard ship very quickly, and was transferred to the Yorktown and back to the Olympia. His promotion was rapid, and he soon was placed in charge of one of the big guns.

CHARLES CAVANAUGH.

BULLETS IN '61.

But Cheers of Welcome for the Bay State Troops in 1898.

The reception accorded recently in Baltimore, Md., to the Sixth Massachusetts Regiment, en route to Falls Church, Va., to fight the Spaniards, was in striking contrast to that given the same regiment in the same city April 19, 1861, when the New England troops were on the way to Washington to defend the capital against a Confederate attack.

ATTACK UPON THE SIXTH MASSACHUSETTS IN BALTIMORE.
Street between Gay and Bowley's wharf, April 19, 1861, where a mob of 10,000 assailed the troops.

In '61 the troops were savagely attacked and blood flowed freely. Recently the troops were received with every demonstration of joy and patriotic fervor. Truly has time healed the wounds of the civil war. In '61 the Sixth Massachusetts Regiment, after leaving the President street railway station were proceeding along Pratt street, between Gay street and Bowley's wharf near Calvert street, when stone throwing and pistol firing by those opposed to the passage of the troops was commenced with great vigor. A large pile of cobblestones was piled up on the side of the street here and these were used to drive back the soldiers. There were thirty killed in the mob and more than 100 wounded. Five of the soldiers were killed and twenty-four were injured.

Among those who welcomed the Bay State soldiers last month were fifteen of the men who stoned them in '61. They made up in enthusiastic welcome for the dark event of thirty-seven years ago.

Duck Eggs in an Albumen Factory.

Near Chingkiang, China, is a great albumen factory, for the utilization of the duck eggs which are produced in that region in enormous quantities, flocks of 4,000 and 5,000 ducks being by no means uncommon. The eggs are broken at the rate of from 40,000 to 60,000 per day by women, who separate the white from the yolk, the former being carefully cleaned and dried until they resemble fish glue, when they are packed in 400-pound cases lined with zinc. The yolks are passed through sieves into twenty-five gallon receptacles, mixed with a salt and borax solution, packed in 500-pound barrels, and used in Europe for preparing and dressing articles of superior quality. The albumen finds a ready market in England, France and Germany for dyes for the best cotton goods.—Philadelphia Press.

Liverpool and Slave Trade.

The great wealth of the merchants of London and Bristol enabled them to enjoy a practical monopoly of the African slave trade for a long period prior to Liverpool having any share in it, says Gomer Williams' "History of the Liverpool Privateers." Liverpool adventurers with a small capital were unable to equip vessels and purchase goods specially adapted to the African market and of no use outside of that market, nor could they afford to await the uncertain results of round voyages, sometimes prolonged to more than a year and subject to terrible dangers unknown to any other description of trading adventures. Early in the eighteenth century, however, a successful rivalship with Bristol in exporting provisions, coarse checks and silk handkerchiefs of Manchester make to the West Indies and the continent of America eventually enabled the merchants of Liverpool to participate in the more lucrative slave traffic.

While Liverpool obtained from this competition a sudden accession to her commerce which filled her warehouses with sugar, rum and other West India produce, the trade of Bristol to the West Indies declined. The checks of Manchester, carried in Liverpool ships, ousted from that market the German, French and Scotch osnaburgs exported from Bristol.

The Morse Handwriting.

Thomas Bailey Aldrich once received a letter from his friend, Professor E. S. Morse, and, finding the handwriting absolutely illegible, he sent the following reply: "My Dear Mr. Morse: It was very pleasant to receive a letter from you the other day. Perhaps I should have found it pleasanter if I had been able to decipher it. I don't think I mastered anything beyond the date, which I knew, and the signature, which I guessed at. There is a singular and perpetual charm in a letter of yours—it never grows old, it never loses its novelty. One can say to one's self every morning: 'Here's a letter of Morse's; I haven't read it yet; I think I shall take another shy at it to-day, and maybe I'll be able, in the course of a few years, to make out what he means by those t's that look like w's and those i's that haven't any eyebrows.' Other letters are read and thrown away and forgotten, but yours are kept forever—unread. One of them will last a reasonable man a lifetime. Admiringly yours, Thomas Bailey Aldrich."

Poets in Parliament.

The father of English poetry—Chaucer—was elected a member of the House of Commons in 1386. In 1621 Waller was at the age of 17 elected member for Agmondesham, in Bucks. He was several times re-elected and in 1639, as a member of the Long Parliament, delivered his famous speech against the levying of the ship tax. Andrew Marvell was, in 1658, elected member for Hull, the place of his birth. Addison entered Parliament in 1706; he had previously been Under-Secretary, and afterward was Secretary of State. Richard Glover represented Weymouth in Parliament for many years subsequent to 1761. Richard Brinsley Sheridan sat in the House, and his speeches as a member were greater than his poems; and at the same time George Canning, author of the "Needy Knife-Grinder," sat as a member of the House of Commons. Contemporary with Canning was Lord Macaulay, whose rival in debate, William Mackworth Praed, also sat in the House. Monkton Milnes (afterward Lord Houghton) became a member of Parliament in 1837, though better known as the writer of "Strangers Yet" and "The Brookside."

Danish Kings.

How many historical students have observed that Denmark's kings for 384 years have all been named Christian or Frederick? This is not the result of accident. It is the law. The present King is Christian IX. He will be succeeded by Frederick VIII., who in turn will be succeeded by Christian X. It is the law of Denmark that Christian must be succeeded by Frederick and Frederick by Christian. To attain this, and without the changing of names, in case of death or other reason, every Danish Prince, no matter what other names he may receive, always includes Christian and Frederick. In some German royal families it is also the custom to name all the male children after the head of the house. Thus it transpires that the house of Reuss has its King Henry LXIX.

Ready for the Next.

A certain eminent judge who was recently re-elected, when he was asked about the facility with which he turned from one case to another, replied that he had learned that from what he saw at a baptism of colored people when he was a boy. The weather was very cold, so that to immerse the candidates they were obliged to cut away the ice. It befell that when one of the female converts was dipped back in the water, the cold made her squirm about, and in a moment she had slipped from the preacher's hands and was down the stream under the ice. The preacher, however, was not disconcerted. Looking up with perfect calmness at the crowd on the bank, he said: "Brethren, this sister hath departed—hand me down another."—Argonaut.

Naming Ships of the Navy.

The naming of vessels of the United States navy is regulated by law. Vessels of the first-class are required to be named after States, those of the second after rivers, those of the third after the principal cities and towns, and those of the fourth as the President may direct.

Carp Out of Water.

Some fish exhibit great power of endurance when deprived of power of access to their native elements. In Holland carp are kept alive for three weeks or a month, the fish being placed in wet moss and kept in a cold spot.

An Unwilling Pallbearer.

A Frenchman who has not yet fully mastered the intricacies of the English language went to a friend the other day for information and advice. "Can you tell me," he said, "vat heem ees—vat you call?—pole bear? Vat ees a pole bear, eh?"

"A polar bear?"

"Yes. Vat does heem do?"

"Oh, it just sits on the ice and eats fish."

"Comment! And I shall do that? Nevaire! Nevaire! Not at all!"

"What do you mean?"

"Vell, a man in de boarding-house vere I leeve he die, and they shall say to me vill I be a polar bear for heem. Seet on de ice and eat fish! I will not do eet! Not even for a dead man! Not at all!"

MRS. LUCY GOODWIN

Suffered four years with female troubles. She now writes to Mrs. Pinkham of her complete recovery. Read her letter:

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I wish you to publish what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, Sanative Wash and Liver Pills have done for me.

I suffered for four years with womb trouble. My doctor said I had falling of the womb. I also suffered with nervous prostration, faint, all-gone feelings, palpitation of the heart, bearing-down sensation and painful menstruation. I could not stand but a few minutes at a time.

When I commenced taking your medicine I could not sit up half a day, but before I had used half a bottle I was up and helped about my work.

I have taken three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used one package of Sanative Wash, and am cured of all my troubles. I feel like a new woman. I can do all kinds of housework and feel stronger than I ever did in my life. I now weigh 131½ pounds. Before using your medicine I weighed only 108 pounds.

Surely it is the grandest medicine for weak woman that ever was, and my advice to all who are suffering from any female trouble is to try it at once and be well. Your medicine has proven a blessing to me, and I cannot praise it enough.—MRS. LUCY GOODWIN, Holly, W. Va.

Oh, come, my love, to your window now!
The moon is shining clear,
And the night wind softly fans my brow,
As I stand singing here.
I am picking away on my old guitar,
As I warble my little song,
But you know I'm a sufferer from catarrh,
So I mustn't stay too long.

Oh, come, my love! Look down on me
From your chamber window sweet!
There isn't a soul around to see,
There's nobody in the street.
Though across the way a complaining man
Is begging me to shut up,
And the fellow next door, as fast as he can
Is loosing his brindle pup.

Oh, come, my love, to your window, quick,
For soon I shall have to go.
I was almost hit just now by a brick
That I saw your father throw!
I love you, dear, and my love I sing
In the most melodious way,
But it's dangerous here and to life I cling,
And, so, oh, my love, good-day!

On the Edge of the Flood.

As the railroad on which I first ran a locomotive has a tidewater terminus, it is equipped with floats, or great barge-like boats, with tracks laid on their decks, which receive freight cars for transportation by water to connecting roads. That the switch engines may be enabled to put the cars on and take them off the floats, there are regular "slips" and "bridges" such as you see in a ferry house. The lower end of the brige is fastened to the dock by great hinges, while the other end floats on air-tight boxes. This lets the sea end rise and fall with the tides, so that the yard tracks, which run down the bridge will always connect with those on the float.

Occasionally, through somebody's blunder, a car would drop off the bridge, overboard, and once in a great while an engine. Then there was something to talk about for a few days; there would be an investigation by the superintendent; somebody would be discharged; the wreckers would have employment, and matters would settle down again until something else happened.

I had been promoted only a little while—yet long enough to learn that more skill was required in handling a locomotive than I had supposed—when, on reporting for duty one night at six o'clock, I found my partner down on the bridge with the engine.

As I stepped into the cab to relieve him, he asked:

"Did you ever work on this bridge?"

"No," said I.

"Well, look out for yourself. It's the worst place in the whole yard."

"Why, what's the matter with it?"

"Matter enough. You'll find out before morning."

I could get nothing out of him but this unsatisfactory and rather disquieting reply, before he picked up his dinner pail, pulled on his coat and left the cab.

He had been running a locomotive a year longer than I had, but as I had worked on the railroad longer than he had, I would not gratify his sense of superiority by asking for further information. I did not like him very well, for that matter, and if he chose to be mysterious I was unwilling to disturb his reserve. I thought that I could find out what the trouble was with the bridge myself. Then I should not be beholden to anybody.

A young engineer has many disagreeable things with which to contend. He feels the necessity of maintaining his dignity, yet everybody knows just how long he has been running, all hands, from the conductor to the fireman, feel called upon to proffer him much unnecessary, and usually very irritating advice. However, as nobody "knows it all" the young engineer soon learns to keep his new-found dignity within bounds, to listen to much counsel, and to appropriate such as he considers valuable.

My partner's fireman started off on a long, irrelevant harangue, under the impression that he was imparting valuable information to me, but my own fireman appearing, he, too, finally took himself off.

As it was a short winter's day it was already dark when I took charge of the engine. We were loading a float at the time, and as "forewarned is forearmed," you may be sure I kept a sharp lookout for switches, signals and moving cars.

The crew make no allowance for the fact that a man is green. On the contrary, they are inclined to be slack and careless for that very reason, thinking that in case of accident it will be easy to place the blame on the green engineer. I got that float loaded properly, but the mental strain put a slight tension on my nerves, which I would not have acknowledged for worlds.

The conductor told me I might as well stay right where I was; for, he said, a float with empty cars was in the river, waiting to come in as soon as the loaded one should get out; then we would pull the "empties" off and reload her.

That was where I failed to assert myself when I should have done so. The engine lay quite close to the river end of the bridge, and as the tide was low the grade was pretty steep. I ought to have replied: "I guess I'll pull up off the bridge, anyway."

And I ought to have done it, too. But I did not. The conductor was an old hand at float work, so I took it for granted that he advised the usual method, and I did not like to say or do anything to cause remark.

The fireman and I lit our pipes, rested our heels on the boiler butt and settled ourselves to take it easy until the float arrived. The loaded float had pulled out of the slip, the yard crew had gone over to the yardmaster's office half a mile away, and we two were alone on the bridge with the engine.

We were chatting pleasantly, and listening to the lapping of the water about the piles in the slip, when the fireman suddenly cried in a startled voice:

"Look out! She's backing up! We'll be in the river!"

I had carelessly left the reverse lever in the back motion. As unconcernedly as possible—my dignity being at stake—I told him not to get rattled. I dropped the lever ahead, closed the cylinder cocks, and gave her a little steam. She stopped at once, and we resumed our conversation, I, meanwhile, keeping a sharp watch through the fireman's window on the side of the bridge to see if she moved again, for my mind was not quite easy.

She had a leaky throttle, as nearly all locomotives have. There was a heavy frost, and the slight backward movement had landed her on a frosty spot on the rails. The cylinder cocks being closed, the leaky throttle allowed the steam to accumulate in the cylinders until its pressure was sufficient to overcome the adhesion to the slippery rails. Then, of course, her feet went from under her, and "Whir-r-r!" she slipped.

The throttle flew wide open. I shut her off instantly, but when she stopped slipping, she began to roll slowly back again. I applied the steam brake, but it had no effect. The fireman yelled: "Your brake's froze!" and jumped off and disappeared.

The locomotive had no tender—only a small coal box being on top of the boiler. Glancing hurriedly out the back window, I saw that the coal box already appeared to overhang the cold, black water of the river.

It was less than four feet from the coal box to the rear driving wheels. If they went off the end of the bridge she was a "goner," and so was my situation and all hopes of running a locomotive for years to come, even if I was lucky enough to escape drowning. Certainly I was in trouble.

I was tempted to follow the fireman's example, and let engine and employment take care of themselves; but it was an awkward cab to get out of. The first thing I had done in the cab that evening was to button my side curtain securely down to keep out the cold. I feared I should not have time to climb down from my high seat, cross to the fireman's side and jump before she went over.

To jump from my window out upon the icy and steeply inclined surface of the bridge would be equivalent to jumping overboard, and the engine would be sure to fall on me.

I could see the tug's lights out in the stream, and I heartily wished the float in the slip.

No sand had been supplied to the yard engines for years. In fact, the sand boxes had been knocked off this old trap in some previous rough encounter, and as I had carelessly allowed the brake to freeze up, the throttle was my sole reliance.

I had no time, either, to experiment with it in an effort to get a grip on the rails, for I could see that the engine was moving steadily, although slowly, back.

These observations all passed through my mind in an instant.

I seized the throttle lever with both hands, and while I invoked a left-handed blessing on the draughtsman who devised that side valve throttle, I tried anxiously, nervously, with the perspiration beading my forehead, to open it easily.

It would not budge. The engine was still moving, slowly indeed, but with the persistence of fate, back toward the end of the bridge.

In desperation I gave a strong jerk back; out it came—of course wide open. Now the wheels flew round like buzz-saws, scattering a shower of sparks from the rails. I felt rather than saw that the backward movement was checked, but I could not be sure of this.

The tug now had the float nearly entered in the slip. If I could keep her from slipping until it made connection with the bridge I should be saved; but glancing at the steam gauge I was horrified to observe that she had barely forty pounds of pressure.

I had pumped her full of cold water to prevent her blowing off, and the fire box door was wide open for the same purpose. At the rate that I was using steam, and with the furnace door open, the pressure would last only a very short time. I could see the pointer on the gauge walking back steadily.

Desiring to save steam, I worked the throttle carefully in until the engine almost came to a standstill.

Then, fearing that with the rapidly decreasing pressure I should be unable to start again, I yanked it frantically out, repeating the operation.

The tug now had the float jammed crosswise in the slip.

To close the furnace door I must leave the throttle, descend in the dark by a short, perpendicular, slippery iron ladder of four rungs, and probably fall over the shovel or the hook. Where would the engine be by the time I could get back to the throttle? Why had that cowardly fireman deserted me? Why hadn't he brought help? Or why didn't the crew, hearing the noise I was making, come out to see what the matter was?

It seemed years since the fireman left.

I saw a flicker of light under a box car, then a lantern—several lanterns. The tug had whistled and the crew was coming. I glanced anxiously back. The float was stuck again. I wanted to yell to the crew to hurry up, but was ashamed to do so.

They had started when they heard the tug whistle, but had seen that the tide had jammed the float again, so they took their time and came down the bridge in a leisurely manner, smoking their pipes, swinging their lanterns, and talking and laughing as if they had not a care in the world.

My fireman was with them. My indignation toward him rose to the point of fury.

My steam was nearly gone, but, thank heaven! the float was moving again, and was coming steadily ahead. At last—the most grateful sound I ever heard—she bumped cumbrously into the bridge.

I closed the throttle just as the conductor—a big, overgrown booby—came abreast of the cab, and leering up to where I stood, a breathless, perspiring, nervous wreck, he asked:

"What you trying to do, engineer—saw the stop-block off?"

I climbed weakly down to the bridge and found that before leaving the crew had fastened across the rails an old tie that was used as a stop-block when the engine had to stop there for any length of time.

The engine had stood a foot or two ahead of it, and as I was slipping her furiously when she sagged back against it, I hadn't been able to feel her make the contact.

Two deep grooves in the old tie showed where the flanges of the drivers had cut into it, as I frantically slipped her for ten or fifteen minutes. Even now the thought of that experience nearly overcomes me.—Herbert

NAVAL FLAG SIGNALS.

A Key by Which Landlubbers May Interpret Sea Signals.

An admiral's flag is square, with four stars in a diamond on a blue ground; a vice admiral's has three stars, forming half a diamond. Rear admirals have three flags, according to rank, viz: Blue, with two white stars in the center of the field, one above the other; red, with two white stars; white, with two blue stars. Commodores have also three flags—blue, red, white, swallow tail, bearing one star in center of field.

The secretary of the navy floats a blue square flag—a foul anchor surrounded by four white stars. This flag came into use in 1860.

When the President comes on board a United States vessel a blue square flag containing the arms of the United States is hoisted at the main, honored with a salute of twenty-one guns, and remains aloft while the President stays aboard. The vice president is received with the American ensign at the fore.

A flag of truce is a white flag displayed to an enemy to indicate a desire for parley or consultation.

The red flag is the mark of danger, and shows a vessel to be receiving or discharging powder.

The black is the symbol of piracy.

The yellow flag belongs to the quarantine service, and when displayed is a sign of contagious disease.

A convoy flag is white, triangular in shape, bordered with red, and is worn by men of war when convoying merchant vessels.

A pilot flag is the jack, bordered with red, hoisted at the fore.

A compass flag is a square flag divided into four squares or cantons—blue, yellow, white, red—hoisted over the numeral flags of the signal code representing the points of the compass.

A dispatch flag is a white square flag with five blue crosses, generally known as the five of clubs; hoisted forward denotes important and urgent special service, which must not be interfered with by any officer junior to the one by whom it was dispatched.

A church pennant is a white pennant without swallow tails, charged with a blue Latin cross, hoisted at the peak during divine service, over the ensign.

The cornet is a square flag divided into four equal parts of alternate red and white, and when hoisted anywhere without other flags is a peremptory order for all absent boats and officers to return on board without delay. It is also a signal for sailing, and has long been used in the navy for that purpose.

To strike the flag is to lower the national colors. A flag at half mast means a death has occurred, and hoisted union side down is a signal of distress. Dipping the colors is lowering the ensign some distance, and then hoisting it again to salute a vessel or fort.

In the Days of Old.

The fashionable folk of Edward IV.'s court rose with the lark, dispatched their dinner at 11 o'clock, and shortly after 8 were wrapped in slumber. In the Northumberland House Book for 1512, it is set forth that the family rose at 6 in the morning, breakfasted at 7, dined at 10, and supped at 4 in the afternoon. The gates were all shut at 9, and no further ingress or egress permitted. In 1570, at the University of Oxford, it was usual to dine at 11 o'clock, and sup at 5 in the afternoon. The dinner hour, which was once as early at 10 o'clock, has gradually got later and later, until now it would be thought very eccentric in the fashionable world to sit down to table earlier than half-past six o'clock, while others extend it to 9 or 10.—Chicago Times-Herald.

GET A WHOLE LOT FOR NOTHING.

The man who always wants something for nothing made a discovery in a Diamond street restaurant. A waiter upset a glass on the marble-topped lunch counter, breaking the edge of the glass. The waiter carelessly tossed it under the counter and got another with a smooth edge for the customer he was serving.

"What do you do with glasses thus slightly damaged?" asked the customer of the restaurant proprietor, relating the circumstance.

"Oh, we give them away; have to get rid of them; can't endanger the lips of customers by serving them in nicked glasses. But why are you interested?"

"Why, I thought if you would give me a few of the old glasses my wife might use them for jellies."

"Give me your address and I'll send you some," volunteered the restaurant keeper.

The man for a longing for articles without price went away gleefully, calculating mentally on how much he had saved on jelly glasses. Two days later, when he went home from business, he found thirteen barrels in his back yard. His wife said she supposed he had sent them and she paid the man $4.75 for delivering them. When opened, the barrels were found to contain broken glassware and china of all sorts. None of it could be used, not even for jelly glasses. An ash hauler charged $2 for taking away the rubbish. The man who wants things for nothing has withdrawn his patronage from a particular restaurant in Diamond street.—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

The Value of Nickel.

Nickel is a modern metal. It was not in use nor known of till 1715. It has now largely taken the place of silver in plated ware, and as an alloy with steel it is superior to any other metal, for it is not only non-corrodible itself, but it transfers the same quality to steel; even when combined as low as five per cent. prevents oxidation.

Atlantic Fogs.

The captain of an Atlantic liner, after many calculations, has come to the conclusion that the general size of a fog in the Atlantic is about thirty miles in diameter.

HIGH-TONED HOTEL RULES.

With Several References to the Art and Art of Shooting.

In a little mining town up in Montana there is a hotel in which there is posted a notice to guests which reads as follows:

"Guests of this hotel will please bear in mind that we will not be responsible for either their lives or their property. There are places convenient where valuables may be deposited for safe keeping, and where life and accident insurance policies may be secured.

"Guests are requested to use proper care and caution when shooting at each other in the dining-room, as a reckless discharging of firearms is liable to result in the unnecessary killing of innocent and unsuspecting parties.

"Guests will be expected to pay for whatever tableware they break in throwing at one another. This rule will be insisted on.

"If guests have any complaint to make regarding the conduct of waiters, they will please not come to us about it. The waiters carry pistols, and are supposed to know how to use them, and they will settle all their own difficulties.

"Guests must not put their feet on the tables, especially if ladies are present. The act may be harmless enough, but there are fastidious people who object to it, and we are here to cater to the highest and most refined class of society.

"Guests who are not willing to sleep in the same bed with another guest need not stop at this hotel. We do not care for the patronage of people who want the earth, with the moon thrown in, for $1.

"This hotel positively will not bear the part of the funeral expenses of people who get killed while stopping here—not even of those we are forced to shoot in the interest of society and good order.

"Guests wishing to attract the attention of a waiter are requested to call or whistle for him. This is better than shooting him through the ear or nose, and, besides, it will save funeral expenses.

"The public will bear in mind that this is no cheap house, but that it is a first-class, high-toned hotel. Therefore guests are expected to conduct themselves in a gentlemanly, well-bred manner. This will be strictly insisted on, even if it be necessary to resort to the use of our guns."—Harper's Bazar.

A NAVAL HERO'S STORY.

From the Times-Herald, Chicago, Ill.

Late in 1861, when President Lincoln issued a call for volunteers, L. J. Clark, of Warren, Trumbull Co., Ohio, was among the first to respond. It was at the terrific bombardment of the Vicksburg forts that the hero of this story fell with a shattered arm from a charge of shrapnel.

After painful months in the hospital, he recovered sufficiently to be sent to his home at Warren, Ohio. Another call for troops fired his patriotic zeal and Clark soon enlisted in Company H of the 7th Ohio Volunteers. He was in many engagements. Being wounded in a skirmish near Richmond, he was sent to the hospital and thence home.

A Wounded Hero.

Soon afterward he began the study and then the practice of veterinary surgery. Seeking a wider field than the Ohio village afforded, he went to Chicago, where he now has a wide practice, is a member of Hatch Post, G. A. R. and lives at 4935 Ashland avenue. Several years ago Dr. Clark's old wounds began to trouble him. He grew weak and emaciated, and his friends despaired of his life. He finally recovered sufficiently to be out, but was a mere shadow, weighing only 90 pounds. The best medical attendance failed to restore his lost strength and vigor. "A friend gave me a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," said Dr. Clark, "and they helped me so much that I bought a half-dozen boxes and took them. I soon regained my strength, now weigh 190 pounds and, except for injuries that can never be remedied, am as well as ever. "I consider Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People the best remedy to build up a run-down system, and heartily recommend them to everyone in need of such aid."

AN OLD ENGINEER.

Run an Engine on the New York Central Forty-Three Years Ago—Cured by

Dr. WHEELER'S NERVE VITALIZER

GREENVILLE, MICH.—E. A. Smith, engineer for F. N. Wright & Co., this city, ran a locomotive on the N. Y. C. & H. R. Ry., 43 years ago. He can tell many amusing incidents of the rail in the early days; but prefers to speak of his recent experience with rheumatism, and relief secured from use of Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer. Mr. Smith is well advanced in years and his trouble had been so serious and of long standing that it became constitutional. He doctored and took all the different kinds of medicine suggested for the trouble, without any benefit. Recently he was advised to take Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer; a nerve preparation which has been received with much favor in Montcalm County, and which has performed many remarkable cures. The effect of its use was highly satisfactory, not only in relieving his rheumatic pains, but also in correcting symptoms of kidney trouble which existed. It certainly is to be hoped that a knowledge of Mr. Smith's experience may lead other sufferers to use this valuable preparation.

Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer has many virtues not possessed by any other form of treatment. It is entirely free from morphine, opium, cocaine, and the stimulating drug, kola, which is so persistently advertised. Such drugs are ruinous and should be avoided as pernicious.

FROM COMPANY K.

PORT TAMPA, FLA., June 18, '98.

G. A. GARRETT,
Auburn Ind.

DEAR BROTHER:—I now have the opportunity to answer your kind and welcome letter and let you know how we are getting along and what the condition of affairs are in camp at Port Tampa.

We are camped on the site of an old swamp covered with palmettos and roots which has been burned over, and with the black dirt and char it is impossible for us to keep clean. The water supply is very good, but the quality of the water is miserable, and lemonade stands are thick all around the camp. The health of the boys in company K has been exceedingly good since we have been in camp here, and very few respond to the morning sick call; and these only for trifling ailments.

Very little discontents are shown, although some of the boys are becoming somewhat discouraged about remaining in camp so long The order came Tuesday June 6, to turn in all knapsacks and articles which would not be carried along on the trip, pup tents were issued and we were instructed to roll in our blanket, underwear, shirts and such articles as we wished to carry; and with haversacks and canteen be ready to move at a moments notice. With this kind of an order we expected to move that night and the most of us slept with our clothes on, but Wednesday morning dawned and still no orders for moving came. The loading proceeded as rapidly as possible all day long, night came and still no further orders, and instead of leaving on our clothes as we did the night previous, we undressed and turned into our banks as usual.

Next day (Thursday) the horses were unloaded from the vessels, owing to the extrme heat, which was considered dangerous, and we are still here, but expecting to go aboard soon.

On Wednesday afternoon (June 7th) an order was issued to detail a lieutenant from each battalion and a private from each company to go back home and enlist new recruits enough to bring tne number for each company up to 106 men.

Geo. Everett was the private detailed to enlist recruits for Company K,

The detail had their baggage all packed and were waiting to board the train, when the orders countermanded. This was quite a disappointment as you may know they all had planned such a pleasant trip back home, but yesterday afternoon the orders were issued again and at 5 p. m. they boarded the train. Their departure had a tendency to make the boys wish for home, but this was soon forgotten.

The transports with the first division of invading troops left this harbor last Monday (June 13) for Key West where the convoy of battleships joined them, and I suppose by this time they have almost reached their destination, Santiago.

The battleship Indiana headed the naval convoy fleet which accompanied the transport ships.

During the last three weeks the railroads running into Port Tampa have probably carried more freight and passengers than any one year of their history, thousands of tons of freight have been swiftly unloaded and carried aboard the steamers, this freight consists of guns. light artillery, mules horses and every imaginable kind of stores and equipments which may be needed by an army

There has been a great improvement in our mess within the past week, and now fresh meat is served once a day and some times twice, also light biscuit for breafast every morning but previous to this week our rations were very poor,

We have a beautiful place to bathe in the bay which is only a short distance from our camp. This I know is enjoyed by all of us. Many pretty shells are found along the shore. If you would like to have some of them, I will be only too glad to send them to you.

Well brother it is now 9:30 p. m., and the bugle has sounded Taps. that means all lights out, so I will have to stop writing until morning.

It is now Sunday afternoon and I will resume my pleasant task.

This morning after breakfast I was feeling very good, and thought I would like to take a stroll and see some of the country, so I got one of my comrades, (August Balke,) and we walked about three miles east of our camp, to a summer resort by the name of Bellis Point. There is a street car line runs out from Tampa City. It is a beautiful place to spend a day. They have a pavillion there, something like the one at Robison Park, bicycle race track and bath house.

We went through a number of nice orange groves, and you will find tied on the first page of this letter a grape fruit blossom which was given me by a man that has charge of one of the groves. The oranges are all green, and some are still in blossom. It is quite a sight to see them.

On our way back to camp we stopped at a farm house and had all the nice ripe watermelon we wanted to eat. Well I will have to close, as I want to write Edna a letter this evening yet.

From your True Brother,
ROY GARRETT.

IN HYMEN'S SILKEN BONDS

At 11 a. m. yesterday occurred the wedding of Mr. Charles LaDue to Miss Lenore Long, daughter of Clerk Long.

The wedding was at the residence of the bride's parents, Rev. T. M. Guild the officiating minister. After a sumptuous wedding feast, the newly wedded couple were taken in a carriage to Waterloo, and there they took the afternoon fast train on the Lake Shore. They go to Niagara Falls and Buffalo and stay a couple of days, then to Poughkeepsie, New York, which is Mr LaDue's home. They stay there and at New York City about three weeks and then continue their tour, taking in Boston, then Baltimore then Washington and finally return over the B. & O. taking such a train as will permit them to view the magnificent scenery in the daytime. On their return they will make their home in Auburn. Mr. and Mrs. LaDue are worthy, popular young people and have a bright future before them. And for the consummation of their hopes for a happy future, the COURIER, and people of Auburn generally, join in hearty amens.

Picturesque and Historic Scenery.

On account of the N. E. A. Convention at Washington, on July 3rd to 6th, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell round trip tickets to Washington at one fare, plus $2.00. Full information at nearest B. & O. Ticket Agent or address B. N. Austin, G. P. A., Chicago. 25-26

THE BOYS ARE OFF.

The twenty-six recruits for Co. K, got off last evening on the B. & O. going at 8 to Deshler and then over the C. H. & D. to Cincinnati, which place they reached this morning, and today if nothing has happened to them, they are whirling across Kentucky and Tennessee.

They did not get transportation in time to go south on the Lake Shore, and finally got it over the B. & O. We understand the Wabash and Lake Shore road put in a bid at $22.42 for each man from here to Port Tampa City, the and B. & O. put in their bid at $21.45 and got the job This would make the total for the 26 men and one recruiting officer, $579.15.

When they were ready to start at 7 p. m. for the Junction, Recruiting Officer Everett had them drawn up in line in the street in front of the Hollister House and called the roll. while they were waiting for the Mustering officer, Adjutant Scott, to pay them their grab money, the minutes were occupied in handshakings and farewells. But the boys were cheerful, and were anxious to go. Soon Adjutant Scott appeared with a cigar box of silver dollars, and as each man's name was called, he stepped up to the officer and received three dollars. This was for food during the trip of 48 hours, for they expect to reach the end of their journey some time Sunday night.

Then the word was given to march, and led by Mr. Everett, they went briskly down the street to the Junction, followed by farewells and good wishes from all Mr. Everett takes them through, while Adjutant Scott will go to Fort Wayne and muster in the recruits there, and then we suppose will go south also.

Mr. Everett should be complimented on the rapid and thorough work done. He reached here Monday noon, and Thursday he had about thirty names, and the mustering officer came down and began work. Friday noon this was finished and the men ready to start. Mr. Scott is a rapid and business-like officer, and was ably assisted in clerical work by Milo Husselman. Dr. Baxter took his first lessons in the work of the war by examining the men for physical defects. When they reach camp Co. K will have 106 men, all good, strong, young fellows. We published their names yesterday.

Sprott & Knapp were the successful bidders for the transportation of the recruits, they being the uptown agents for the B. & O.

YELLOW JAUNDCE CURED.

Suffering humanity should be supplied with every means possible for its relief. It is with pleasure we publish the following: "This is to certify that I was a terrible sufferer from Yellow Jaundice for over six months, and was treated by some of the best physicians in our city and all to no avail. Dr. Bell our druggist recommended Electric Bitters; and after taking two bottles, I was entirely cured. I now take great pleasure in recommending them to any person suffering from this terrible malady. I am gratefully yours, M. A. Hogarty, Lexington, Ky," Sold by H. B. McCord druggist.

THE MOORE-BOYD CASE

The case of Moore vs Boyd is over. It began Monday afternoon, and closed Thursday evening, being fought over inch by inch, for the attorneys were able, and the interest in the case very great. We have already given Moore's side of the case and alluded to the other side. John Boyd and others wanted to construct a tile drain that would go through Moore's land. Moore objected claiming it would flood his land, as the Baughman drain, a large open ditch would not carry off the water that would be added by the proposed Boyd drain. So he remonstrated. They have had several pulls at this before, and other trouble growing out of it. This time, after starting the case, Judge Roby made them narrow the case down to a question of damages and benefits. If the testimony should show that the damages were greater than the benefits, the ditch would be killed. If it showed the benefits greater than the damages, then the ditch would be constructed, at least as far as this court is concerned, for the case had originally been before the commissioners. After hearing evidence fully on both sides, and the arguments of the attorneys, the jury retired at about four o'clock yesterday afternoon. In about an hour, they had agreed. It was to the effect, that there were no damages, but that Moore was benefited $30. This means that they, thought the ditch should be constructed Moore gave notice that he would appeal it to the supreme court.

LIVELY RUNAWAY

Wednesday, Mrs John Weimer northeast of Auburn, sarted to go to a funeral at Dillon's Chapel. Her two daughters, Maggie and Bertha were in the buggy with her. When near John Boyd's, the horse started at something and began going at a lively rate, when they pulled it up so suddenly that the rig ran against its heels and it ran away. Maggie was driving, and had presence of mind to run the horse to the fence. The wheel struck a fence brace, and the rig stopped so suddenly, all were thrown out. Mrs. Weimer sprang to the horse's head and caught it and held it. The two girls were somewhat bruised, but not seriously. The dash and shafts of the buggy were wrenched some, but the wheel which had struck the fence brace squarely was not injured in the least. It might do no harm to say it was an Eckhart buggy. and Mr. Weimer says they don't break for trifles.

Woman's Mysterious Ills.

Explanation of their nature by Dr. Hartman, who tells how to cure them.

YOUNG women are constantly puzzled about their health. Indeed female troubles puzzle all women. Older women have experience, but few possess knowledge of the subject. The periodical suffering is painful. It is accompanied by many varying sensations that distress. How much of this is necessary is a matter of guesswork. The whole question is shrouded in professional mystery.

Dr. Hartman's book for women, called "Health and Beauty," treats these matters with delicacy, and at the same time with clearness. Write to the Pe-ru-na Medicine Company, Columbus, O., for it: it is mailed free. It is a practical printed talk to women. Dr. Hartman defines women's diseases as catarrh and tells how Pe-ru-na cures them.

Mrs. C. C. Naeve, 386 Morrison St., Portland, Ore., writes as follows:

Pe-ru-na Medicine Co., Columbus, O.

DEAR SIRS:—"I began to take Pe-ru-na when I lived in Columbus, O., in 1887, and have used it and the Man-a-lin ever since whenever I needed medicine. I have never found an equal to Pe-ru-na for regulating the menses, and before I began to take it I was never regular and always had more or less pain. I had tried many different medicines before I saw Pe-ru-na but without success."

There is nothing mysterious about the action of Pe-ru-na. It is not a "cure-all," but it cures catarrh wherever located, and there may be catarrh in any organ of the body, as all are lined with mucous membrane.

Mrs. M. C. Mehl, 504 Walnut St., Columbia, Pa., says: "I have been troubled with catarrh and a soreness in my bowels for several years. I tried everything that was recommended. I tried Pe-ru-na and am happy to say that I am now entirely well."

Dr. Hartman's advice may be had without charge by any woman who will write for it. His book on Chronic Catarrh is also mailed free. It explains the danger of local treatment. All druggists sell Pe-ru-na.

WEDDING BELLS.

(Chicago, Ohio, Times)

STAMETS—SANDERS.

Wednesday June 15, at eight p. m. at the United Brethren church, Miss Rosmond Mildred Sanders, daughter of Mrs. John Miller, and Dr. Zeanith H. Stamets, of Auburn, Indiana, were united in marriage, Rev William V. Davis performing the ceremony.

The chosen colors for the happy occasion were pink and white, and every where—at the church, the home, the tables, etc., these colors were very much in evidence. The church had been handsomely decorated with evergreen, smilax, potted plants, pink and white roses and carnations, including an arch of evergreen dotted with roses and carnations, from the center of which was suspended two S's. The bridal party entered the church and proceeded to the altar to the music of Mendelssohn's wedding march rendered in a very pleasing manner by Mr. J. Kent Southard. The bride was attended by her sister Miss Blanche Sanders. Mr. Bernard Sanders, a cousin of the bride, was the groom's best man. Misses Dora Cole and Nora Burdge were the ushers. During the ceremony Mr. Southard played very softly "Call Me Thine Own."

The bride was handsomely gowned in white taffeta silk with trimmings of mousseline de sole and chiffon ribbon. She carried an exquisite bouquet of bridal roses. The bridesmaid was attired in a very neat gown of white organdie and carried pink roses. The groom and best man wore the conventional black.

The church was crowded to its utmost capacity with invited guests. After the ceremony a reception was tendered the happy couple at the bride's home. Here the decorations were very pretty also, the house being beautifully arranged. The colors—pink and white, were quite conspicuous, especially at the tables.

The wedding gifts were numerous and handsome, including the useful and ornamental, among them being silver, china and cut glass, furniture, table linen, fancy linen work, etc., all of which attested the high esteem in which the bride is held by her many friends.

The bride is one of Chicago Junction's most popular Christian young ladies. She has been an active member of the United Brethren church, and her place for a number of years has been in the choir, where she has rendered much help at all services The groom is one of the leading physicians of Auburn, Indiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Stamets left last night on train No. 47 for a brief bridal trip to Detroit, and on their return will go to Auburn where they will commence housekeeping in convenient rooms adjacent to Dr. Stamet's present office.

The TIMES joines with many friends in good wishes for the bride and groom.

DISCOVERED BY A WOMAN.

Another great discovery has been made, and that too, by a lady in this country. "Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly, and could not sleep. She finally discovered a way to recovery, by purchasing of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and was so much relieved on taking first dose, that she slept all night; and with two bottles, has been absolutely cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz." Thus writes W. C. Hamnick & Co., of Shelby, N. C. Trial bottles free at H. B. McCord's drugstore. Regular size 0c and $1. Every bottle guaranteed. 4

STATE CONVENTION

A Popular Ticket Nominated and A Good Platform Adopted

The democratic state convention met at Indianapolis yesterday, and began, work at 10 a. m. Closing at 9 p. m. National colors were every where, and pictures of Dewey, Samson and Hobson were on the walls, as well, those of Bryan, Turpie, Matthews, Shively Gresham, Taggart, Kern and James H. Rice. The number of delegates was 1528. Turpie presided and made an able speech, giving prominence to the insults we have had to stand from Spain for years. He also spoke of the Dingley bill and the refusal of congress to provide for an income tax law, and their failure to tax corportation, etc.

There were few subjects he did not touch and make plainer. The platform was one carefully drawn and has many excellent features. It favors liberal pensions, an inheritance tax, an income tax, a tariff laid only for revenue and not protection, election of U. S. Senators by the people, indorses Turpie and Bryan and also the Chicago platform. It comes out strong for a law providing for primary elections, just what the COURIER has always advocated. We are glad to see our party take the first step for it. It also compliments the democratic legislatures that passed the tax laws, the election laws and the Salary Laws, and calls attention to the fact the salary law is now putting money into the county treasury that formerly went to swell the pay of the officer. The nominations made are as follows:

THE STATE TICKET.

Secretary of State—Samuel M Ralston, Boone county.

Auditor of State—John W. Minor, Marion.

Treasurer of State—Hugh Dougherty, Wells.

Attorney General—John McNutt, Vigo.

Clerk of the Supreme Court—Henry Warrum, Marion.

Superintendent of Pubic Instruction—W. B. Sinclair, Starke.

State Statistician—James S. Guthrie, Brown.

State Geologist—Edward Barrett, Hendricks.

Judges of the Supreme Court—Second district, Leonard J. Hackney, Shelby. Third district—Jame McCabe, Warren; fifth district, Timothy E. Howard, St. Joseph.

—Judges of Appellate Court—First trict, Edwin Taylor, Vanderbug, Second district, C. G. Kollmyer, Bartholomew. Third district, Edgar Brown, Marion. Fourth district G. W. Diven, Madison Fifth district, Johannes Kopelke, Lake.

Thursday's Daily.

—Chris Curie of St. Joe was here today to get word from his son in Co. K.

—We have some good second hand Binders for sale, cheap. Culbertson & Boland, 19tf —Reinold Blum at Garrett, is in such poor health, he will go to California for a time.

—Mr. Wash Askew is visiting in the family of her uncle, ex-sheriff Phil. Plum at Waterloo.

—Supt. Coe attended commencement exercises at Franklin Center on Monday. Tonight he will be at Fairfield Center, for one held there, and tomorrow night at Corunna for the Richland commencement.

—Win your battles against disease by acting promptly. One Minute Cough Cure produces immediate results. When taken early it prevents consumption. And in later stages it furnishes prompt relief. H. B. McCord.

—Supt. Coe returned this morning from attending the meeting of county superintendents at Indianapolis. These gatherings are held annually and are a valuable part of our school work. They call in the superintendents from all over the state, and these interchange ideas and discuss plans. It is a business meeting, not a picnic.

—The editor of this paper has received a quaint and curious invitation to attend the ball at the festivities of the Milwaukee semi-centennial celebration. While thanking the managers for so kindly remembering us, we must decline to hop with them. Somehow for some reason we do not care to explain, our dancing legs have got out from under us. But we hope those better provided will have a good time.

—Yesterday we spoke of the good things Mr. Everett is getting to put under his belt while at home. But it seems that some of the boys at Port Tampa City have a chance also. Cook Ford has a letter from Mr. Wheelock, in which it is stated that the latter with Capt Lahnum of Co. K and Capt. Greene of Co. L of Ligonier got leave to go up to Tampa where Mr. Wheelock's father keeps a hotel. He says they had a grand dinner of all the good things that region affords. Not many privates have the good fortune to be sent to the front to a town where father keeps a hotel.

Friday's Daily.

—For McCormick machines, see Culbertson & Boland, 19tf

—A letter from Mrs. Barns leaves her and Mrs. Swineford nicely located at Denver and enjoying the National Convention of Woman's Clubs.

—Albert Buchanan has bought the A. C. Wilson property on South Van Buren-st, and they expect to move here, from their farm. Auburn will gain two good citizens.

Thousands of persons have been cured of piles by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It heals promptly and cures eczema and all skin diseases. It gives immediate relief. H. B. McCord.

—J. B. Swartz of Collingwood and E. W. Cox of Portland came through from Angola yesterday afternoon on their wheels. They are students at the Angola College and were going home, for a few days vacation.

Saturday's Daily.

Supt. Aug. Bartles came in from the north this morning.

—John Shugers returned home by the Lake Shore, this morning.

—Mrs. Wm. Leedy and her two little girls are here from Fort Wayne. They will remain about two weeks.

—Mrs. Geo. Shugers and Frank Shugers' little boy came down from Coldwater, today, for a visit with their friends here.

—The Board of Equalization is still in session. This board is regularly composed of five men and sits for abont twenty days.

—On and after July 1st, in accordance with the war revenue law, a one cent stamp is required by law on each telegram sent. Purchased by sender. Stamps will be kept at telegraph offices for this purpose.

—W. H. McIntyre and Walter Hartman will visit the Milwaukee Carnival to be held next week. This grand semi-centennial will afford an opportunity of getting suggestions for our noted Carnival, to be held Sept. 7 to 9.

—H. G. Proylnes is in the city this afternoon. His college at Angola is closed for the summer. He is 1st Lieutenant of the college militia composed of 150 men, 15 of whom are ministers. Their roster is in the hands of the Governor.

—E. C. Blanks, of Lewisville, Texas, writes that one box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve was worth $50.00 to him. It cured his piles of ten years standing. He advises others to try it. It also cures eczema, skin diseases and obstinate sores. H. B. McCord.

At The Opera House.

The play at the Opera House last evening was fairly well patronized. The main body of the house was nearly full, and there were some holding tickets who did not come. The galleries were empty and the boys and young people who generally go to that part of the house missed an enjoyable evening. The first on the program, was the the music by the orchestra, which was excellent and greatly enjoyed. Then came about thirty little girls in white with a drill. It was very nice and at times very funny, when some little tot who could not keep her little head straight would get lost and go trotting around looking for her place in the ranks. Then followed the play, which represented the Senate of the United States as it might supposed to be, if it were wholly composed of strong minded women. It was very entertaining and they all did their parts so perfectly that criticism would be impossible. And we venture to say that some of them did better than senators. The COURIER, on behalf of Auburn, thanks the S. H. G. for a pleasant evening's entertainment.

MONTHLY SUFFERING.

Thousands of women are troubled at monthly intervals with pains in the head, back, breasts, shoulders, sides hips and limbs. But they need not suffer.

These pains are symptoms of dangerous derangements that can be corrected. The menstrual function should operate painlessly.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

makes menstruation painless, and regular. It puts the delicate menstrual organs in condition to do their work properly. And that stops all this pain. Why will any woman suffer month after month when Wine of Cardui will relieve her? It costs $1.00 at the drug store. Why don't you get a bottle to-day?

For advice, in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, "The Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

MRS. ROZENA LEWIS, of Gonzales, Texas, says: "I was troubled at monthly intervals with terrible pains in my head and back, but have been entirely relieved by Wine of Cardui."

COURT NOTES.

Friday's Daily.

Today is divorce day, and quite a number of cases are to be considered. This morning began the case between Murray Smith and his wife. She wants to get a divorce, and swears he is lazy and "has not enough push about him." Their case had to lie over after partly done, as some others had the track.

Saturday's Daily.

We spoke yesterday about the Murray Smith case which had to wait till Mrs. Strong got a divorce. It apperrs that Strong was also no good, that he had gone west and found a woman he liked better and had a picture taken with his hand resting lovingly on the shoulder of the aforesaid No. 2. No. 1 says she objected to this picture as soon as she saw it, for he sent it back to friends here. It appeared to the court that she was right in her estimate of Mr. Strong, and he gave her a divorce.

Then work was resumed on the Murray A. Smith case. Smith's wife had been on the stand in the forenoon and he was put on the stand in the afternoon. It appears that when old Andrew Smith died, he left a will under which the three brothers, George, Manford and Murray, were given a part of the old home farm. Murray got a life lease of 55 acres, but it seemed he did not get along well and hardly made a living. Then came tronble between him and his wife, who it appears had a small farm of her owa over on the state line. Finally Murray needed money to pay taxes that had gone two years delinquent, so started out to borrow the money. He came up to Auburn, and his brothers also met him here and a contract was entered into by which the latter was to rent Murray's farm and pay for the use of it $100 a year, not in cash, but in such things as Murray would need, such as food, clothing, etc. Then they got ready to move over onto the wife's land, and after making all arrangements to suit himself he asked her if she wanted to go along. She told him they had tried to make a living on that little farm once and could not do it, and see did not want to go again. Witness was closely questioned and admitted they had quarreled a good deal and that she had assaulted him now and then. Once they quarreled in bed, though he did not say it was because she wanted him to get up and build the fire. But she gave him a black eye which he carried with him a number of days, not having any other suitable place to carry it, and not being ready to leave it behind.

J. Wyatt testified that she said she would leave Murray if he did not get that place back. After one or two more witnesses the court adjourned to meet this morning at 8:30.

Ready to Muster In.

(Goshen Democrat.)

Recruiting officer Larimer of Co. C, 157th. Reg. Indiana volunteers now has his full quota of twenty-six recruits and tomorrow morning they will be mustered in by Lieutenant J. T. Dunbar, of North Manchester. They will leave for Tampa in a special car attached to the 9:09 Big Four train Wednesday morning. At North Manchester they will be joined by recruits from that place. The Waterloo and Ligonier recruits will pass through here tomorrow morning on the plug at 6:30 and leave at 9:09 for Tampa.

J. N. CLOSING ON WAR.

The "Only Philosopher" Implores President McKinley To Let Reason Rule.

The Post is in receipt of the following letter with accompanying dispatch, showing the position of J. N. upon the grave question which today absorbs all others.

BUTLER, INDANA.

To whom it may concern:

This is to certify that this date the great and only philosopher, my friend J. N. has forwarded by telegraph the attached message.

GEORGE BUTLER, Operator.

The message reads as follows:

BUTLER, IND., April 21, 1898.

To Wm. McKinley, president, Washington, D. C:

For God's sake have armistice. Let reason control the people. With full name partly sacrificed.

For Truth and Philosophy.

As our friend J. N. is the only person who stood neutral in the late war between the north and south, and the only one looking at the conflict between Spain and the United States from a philosophical view, we wish to see how many of our exchanges can reproduce the above dispatch and mail a copy to his house address, McCutchenville, Wyandotte county, O. All for the cause of truth which is J. N.'s idol. —Columbia City, (Ind.) Post.

In our issue of tomorrow we will publish an article from the Decatur, (Ill.) Republican on his willingness to be shot in front of the capitol at Washington, in order to bring about a reconciliation between Spain and the United States. — Springfield, (Ill.) Monitor.

For Congress.

The COURIER heartily joins the Fort Wayne Journal in its remarks on our congressman and the work of the late congressional convention. We said at the time that Mr. Robinson is the right man in the right place and at the right time. Here is what the Journal says:

The democracy of the Twelfth district has indorsed the course of the Hon. J. M. Robinson by tendering him the nomination for a second term by a hearty and unanimous vote.

Mr. Robinson's opportunities for usefulness in national legislation have been limited by the fact that he served in a body overwhelmingly republican. but he made himself heard and felt, an unusual thing for a first term congressman to do.

No man ever went to congress from Indiana who has kept in touch with the people as closely as Mr. Robinson has, and so far as it was possible for him he has responded to their wishes.

A second term in congress will insure the people greater usefulness, since it is likely to find Mr. Robinson on more influential committees, more thoroughly familiar with the avenues that lead to legislation, and with these opportunities, coupled with his great capacity for work, the democratic candidate is sure to make a creditable record.

In thorough harmony with the party standing squarely upon its platforms, Mr. Robinson goes before the people strong in a righteous cause representing as he does the common people.

Two Useful Receipes.

The editor has for some days hesitated to publish these two "receipts" for fear people would think they were "original." Here they are, though:

Corn omelet is made like this: Three eggs, beaten very light, add salt, pepper, and one teaspoonful of milk, and pour into a well buttered frying pan, when it begins to thicken, sprinkle over it three tablespoonsful of corn, from which all the moisture has been pressed. When fully set, fold and serve on a hot dish.

Here is the way to make nice cottage cheese: A quart of thick, sour milk, one teaspoonful of butter, a saltspoonful of salt, and a teaspoonful of cream. Scald the milk until the curd separates, then strain through a cloth, letting it drain until quite dry. Mix with the butter, cream and salt, in a smooth paste, and make into balls.

HOW TO LOOK GOOD

Good looks are really more than skin deep, depending entirely on a healthy condition of all the vital organs. If the liver is inactive, you have a bilious look; if your stomach is disordered, you have a dyspeptic look; if your kidneys are affected, you have a pinched look. Secure good health, and you will surely have good looks. "Electric Bitters" is a good Alterative and Tonic. The Health of the Hair is indicated by its condition. When the natural secretions decrease; when the hair becomes dry, splits at the ends and comes out in combing; when the gloss disappears and the hair becomes gray or faded, the ill health of the hair is indicated. The success of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR is due to the fact that it restores the hair-producing organs to their natural vigor. It encourages and promotes the secretions of the hair follicles, and thus gray or faded hair regains its original color, new growth begins, and lost lustre is restored.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for fifteen years. It causes the hair to keep its natural color and is a positive cure for baldness." — T. B. WEYANT, Weyant, Pa.

LATEST WAR NEWS.

Thursday's Daily.

We now have 21,000 men landed at Santiago, including the Cuban insurgents who have joined us.

We expect to prevent the heavy reinforcements now coming from Manzanillo, from joining the Spanish army at Santiago. And Shafter may not wait till he gets more. He thinks he can take the city with what he now has.

Gen. Merritt has sailed from San Francisco for Manila, and a fourth fleet with troops will soon follow him. But the city may be taken before he gets there.

Spaniards are destroying the roads over which our forces must pass in approaching Santiago.

The Spanish fleet at the Suez Canal, may turn back, as they are not likely to be allowed to buy coal.

The armies are slowly drawing nearer to each other.

The reason the "Rough riders" and other cavalry fought on foot when they were ambushed the other day, is their horse had been left behind, at Tampa.

Friday's Daily.

Wyoming has sent into the army, more men according than any other state. About ten per cent of her able bodied men are now in the service.

European nations appear to concede that we have a right to carry the war into Spain and shell her cities, if we choose.

It is believed that the rumor is true, that Spain has bought of Chili, the big warship, O'Higgins, one of the best in the world.

Capt. Sigsbee has at last had a chance to do some fighting. He was attacked by two Spanish ships, and crippled one of them so badly that she had to be towed out of reach of his guns. If he could have a ship as good as the Maine, he would make a fine showing

The Philippine rebels have captured the family of the governor general Argusti.

Spain is still talking of sending out another fleet

There are again, rumors of heavy cannonading at sea between Cuba and Hayti, and many believe two warships had a fight. There is also a rumor that another battle has taken place on land, near Santiago.

Gen. Shafter says he will not wait for more men, but will attack the defenses at Santiago as soon as he can get ready.

It appears our boys have not yet left Tampa, also that Porto Rico will not be attacked very soon.

Saturday's Daily.

Aguinido, the leader of the rebels in the Philippine Islands has issued a stringent order to his half savage army, that they must follow the humane methods of civilized nations. They must treat prisoners well, and especially respect the lives and comfort of all foreigners and of all hospitals. And so far it appears they have obeyed him fully.

The extensive system of mines in the Potomac river below the city of Washington came near all being blown up Thursday. The lighting struck the wires during a hard thunderstorm, and exploded three of them. Huge columns of water were thrown into the air, but as no one happened near, no lives were lost.

A Spanish supply ship ran aground the other day on coast of Porto Rico. She had a big load of supplies for the Spanish soldiers and great efforts were made to get it, but they failed as a small American warship came along and kept firing on her.

Montijo, the unfortunate admiral who ran against Dewey at Manila is to be court martialed for his bad luck. But the Spaniards are praising the commading officer at Manila, though he is likely to have the same luck that Montijo had, when we get to him.

As noted yesterday there were rumors that fighting was going on It turns out there was an advance, and fighting began before noon, on both land and sea. Shafter's men moved forward and took a position nearer the city and on the north of it. Then the Spanish fleet shelled them. At the same time Sampson's fleet opened fire from the sea and shelled the forts near the entrance and sent shells farther over. The chances are that fighting does not stop till we get the city.

It is said that Gen. Shafter looked ahead and had each of his men provided with a shears to cut wire with. So when the Spanish works are attacked those seven lines of barbed wire fence around them, will not bother the Yankees half a minute.

Shafter has a big balloon tied to a rope several hundred feet long, and the men in this can look on Santiago and see everthing. It beats hunting around in the bushes to find where the Spaniards are.

THE VERY LATEST news from the battle at Santiago yesterday, is that we carried the enemy's works we were after, but with considerable loss, mostly in wounded, but the total is certainly over 400 Wild rumors are afloat today, that we have been driven back with heavy losses. But this is not believed. If we held the position we took we are quite close up to the town. Another rumor is that the Spanish have retreated into the city. The battle probably continued today.

Camp Notes

The 157th has many able letter writers. We clip a few things we find:

A match game of the base ball is playen nearly every afternoon. This noon C is matched against D. Last evening an athletic carnival was held, consisting of wrestling and boxing matches, contortion acts, etc. Harvey Yoder, of C. wrestled with West, exchampion of Indiana, and it was only through a misconstruction of rules that he lost the decision.

There was no drill Friday afternoon and the boys were informed that a brigade review would take place the next morning. The troops were reviewed by Gen. Hall and made a very favorable appearance. It was fortunate that the clouds hid the sun, as it was very hot at that. Brig-Gen. Hall was the colonel commanding the Fourth Regiment at Fort Sheridan during the famous court martial of Private Hammond vs Capt. Lovering, when he gained considerable notoriety by his decisions in the case.

Supplies for the Army

To give an idea of the immense amount of material needed to put a big army into the field we quote from a report made this week. It says:

From the New York army supply depot, since the war began, 92,992 lightweight unlined blouses and 99,030 lightweight kersey trousers have been shipped to the army in the field. Four thousand canvas uniforms have already been sent to General Shafter, and 20,000 more will be shipped on Monday.

This does not take into account the underclothing, shoes, hats and caps that have been sent to the army. The New York depot has shipped to the front 30,000 pairs of shoes and in the neighborhood of 200,000 sets of under wear and an equal number of pairs of socks.

As for campaign hats, they have gone out of here by the carload. To-day four experts on woolen cloths were at work a good part of the day in examining 120 samples of overcoatings submitted by forty bidders at the opening on Wednesday. Contracts for 50,000 overcoats will be let.

Thrifty Klondikers

(Angola Herald)

The highest price probably ever received for Lagrange mill feed was a short time ago when seventy pounds, or a bag full, sold for $70.00, says the Lagrange Democrat. This sale was by Will Immis at Lake Bennett, Alaska, whither he went from this town about six months ago with provisions to sell. This particular bag of feed cost him 70 cents and if our fellow townman has disposed of all his produce at the same per centage of profit there will be no nesessity for him to spend any time digging gold out of the frozen earth.

GEN. LAWTON

The Gen. Lawton whose division commenced the battle yesterday at the north of Santiago, is an Allen county man. He was born at or near New Haven and enlisted in the famous old Ninth Ind. with Milroy in the spring of 1861. They served nine months and on being mustered out that fall, were reorganized most of them going into the three-year enlistment under the same name, and some going into new regiments Lawton went into the 30th as lietenant. The next spring he was a captain. In the fall of 1864 he was mane lieutenant-colonel. At the close of the war he was brevetted a colonel. After being at home two years he was given a place in the regular army as second-lietenant in a colored regiment. He was later assigned to the Cavalry and for seme years fought Indians. When this war began he was a lieutenant-colonel, but was made a brigadier general and given command of a division. Indiana men seem to make good soldiers.

GREAT BATTLE.

The American Army Under Gen. Shafter and Sampson's Fleet Make a Combined Attack on Santiago.

The Gallant Gen. Lawton Leads the Assault.

A Batch of Miscellaneous Teleraph News from All Parts of the World.

Santiago Assaulted by Land and Sea.

A general assault on the city of Santiago de Cuba by land and sea forces of the United States began at 7 o'clock Friday morning.

Gen. Lawton advanced and took possession of Cabona, a suburb of Santiago. Morro Castle and the other forts at the entrance of the harbor were bombarded by our fleet.

The Vesuvius used her dynamite guns with good effect. The Spanish fleet in the harbor fired on the American troops who were very close to the city.

Hard fighting along the American line was in progress at 11 o'clock. Nine wounded Cubans have been brought in.

Washington special: A dispatch was read in the Cabinet meeting from Col. Allen, in charge of the signal station at Playa de Este. He said that the fight was growing furious in all directions. At the time he sent the telegram eight Americans and nine Cubans had been wounded. The Spaniards were shelling the Americans as they advanced and Admiral Sampson's fleet was hotly engaged.

Must Stop Coaling.

The Spanish ship at Port Said began coaling from their own colliers, which arrived from Spain. The Egyptian Government has notified them that they cannot allow this, that they must stop forthwith, and that they must also leave Port Said, as the twenty-four hour limit has been greatly exceeded. The Spaniards then stated that their ships wanted repairs and began discharging coal and other material in order to repair.

Salisbury Gives Warning to Germany.

London special: It is said that there is no doubt the Marquis of Salisbury's speech Thursday night was intended as a hint to the powers that Great Britan is in sympathy with the United States, and it is intimated that it was called forth by Germany's alleged attitude in the Philippine question.

Whole Train Rolled Over an Embankment.

A west-bound passenger train on the Wabash road was wrecked a mile west of Burlington Junction, Mo. The locomotive jumped the track and the mail, baggage, smoking and chair cars followed, rolling down an embankment. A score of passengers were hurt, several of them seriously.

Carolines in Revolt.

Vancouver (B. C.) special: Mail advices from Hong Kong say that it is reported that the revolt against Spanish rule has extended to the Caroline Islands. The Spanish have only a small garrison there, and as they are unable to send relief it is likely that the rebels will soon have control.

The Boat Upset.

Isador Hoffman, aged 23 years, and Frank A. Day started to row across the river at Toledo, Ohio, in a skiff, when the boat upset and Hoffman was drowned. Day was rescued after a terrible struggle.

President Honored by Yale.

New Haven (Conn.) special: The honorary degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred by Yale University upon William McKinley, President of the United States.

Ex-Queen Lil's Plans.

Ex-Queen Lilluokalani, of the Sandwich Islands, is now at the Ebbitt House in Washington, D. C., preparing to return to her native country. She will leave soon, and, after a flying trip across the states, she will sail from Vancouver for Honolulu.

Negro Ravisher Taken from Jail and Lynched.

Henry Williams, colored, was taken from jail at Mason, Mo., and lynched. Williams had attempted to outrage a white girl.

Death in a Railway Wreck.

Four troopers were killed and others injured in a railway accident which occurred at Tupelo, Miss. Colonel Torrey's regiment of rough riders from Cheyenne, Wyo., had reached that place and the first section had stopped to take water when the second section dashed into it.

Killed by His Daughter's Suitor.

At Kansas City, Mo., Mike Nuccio, an Italian, quarreled with William Ewing, a painter, over Ewing's daughter, for whose hand Nuccio was a suitor, and shot and killed Ewing. Nuccio was arrested. Ewing and his family moved there from Ironton, Mo., three months ago.

TRY TO BLOW UP A MAGAZINE.

Supposed Attempt by Enemies of the Country Frustrated at Portsmouth, Va.

An attempt was made by seven unknown men to blow up the Government magazine at Portsmouth, Va., at 2:30 o'clock on a recent morning, but fortunately the marine guard who has been stationed on the reservation since the beginning of hostilities discovered the intruders in time. The first intimation that something was wrong came from a clump of woods close by the sentry line, whence the men issued and made their way toward the powder house. The faithful sentry was not to be caught napping. The challenge was given and when no reply came the guard, who had been aroused, opened a volley. The intruders scrambled back to the woods, and although the place for several miles around was scoured by the entire guard not a man was to be seen.

TRADE CONDITIONS ARE QUIET.

Lull is Due to the Advanced Stage of the Season.

Bradstreet's says: "Reflection of the advanced stage of the season is found in a perceptible quieting down of distributive trade in many parts of the country, and accompanying this have been announcements of the fixing of periods of annual shut-downs in many industrial lines. Cereal exports are naturally enough smaller than in recent weeks, but are still heavily in excess of preceding years. Wheat shipments for the week aggregate 3,799,470 bushels, as against 4,396,000 bushels last week. Corn exports show a very slight falling off, aggregating for the week 3,902,521 bushels, against 4,109,000 bushels last week."

PASSED COUNTERFEIT SILVER.

St. Louis Police Arrest Harry Watson of Peoria After a Chase.

Harry Watson, claiming Peoria, Ill., as his home, was arrested the other day at St. Louis, Mo., charged with passing counterfeit silver dollars. He was captured after an exciting chase, in which several shots were fired. Policemen who made the arrest declare the prisoner had attempted to swindle a score of persons with his bogus coin. They also believe that Watson is an accomplice of W. L. Wilcox, alias Jack Williams, now in the custody of Federal authorities, suspected of victimizing scores of people with gold bricks and fraudulent mine schemes.

Carry Off a Freak.

An ossified man, who has been on exhibition at a Sixteenth street store in Omaha, Neb., was stolen the other day by two thieves. The animated bone offered vigorous protest in his weak voice and used sulphurous language, but the robbers shouldered him as they would a gun and left the place by a rear door while the proprietor was sweltering in the sun in front making a strong "spiel" as to the great show inside. The calls of the ossified woman attracted the attention of the proprietor and he went inside and found her standing against the wall like a cane where the thieves had left her. The marble statue-like semblance of her former partner the proprietor saw at a glance was gone. The woman said the robbers had intended taking her, but concluded not to. One of the men, she said, as he left slapped her face, almost breaking his hand, and knocked her against the wall. The two ossified beings were almost solid bone. Their arms lie flat to their sides and their limbs and trunk are rigid. They cannot move a muscle of their body. The only organs they have control of are their eyes and mouth. The police were notified of the theft. The stolen freak was placed in a wagon, covered with straw and driven away.

Fatal and Expensive Fire.

Two firemen were killed and eight others injured by a fire which broke out in the works of Thomas Potter's Sons & Co., manufacturers of oilcloth and linoleum, Second and Venango streets, Philadelphia. Injuries and fatalities were caused by falling walls. The plant of Potter's Sons covers an extensive area and comprises thirty-one buildings of various sizes. The burning building, and to which the fire was confined, was in the center of the group of buildings. It was used as the print works, and large quantities of oilcloth, benzine and linoleum and much inflammable material were in the building. A number of explosions occurred during the fire. The western wall fell and carried with it a fireman's ladder with a number of firemen. The loss is estimated at $400,000.

Miners Want More Pay.

The Missouri State convention of coal miners adjourned after a two days' session at Sedalia. Owing to the increased price of products the miners resolved that they are entitled to an advance in mining rates, and will make a demand for the same. They went on record as opposed to inaugurating a strike, but believe their request for increased wages will be acceded to without friction between employers and employes. Resolutions were passed favoring eight hours per day, and also a strong union between Missouri and Kansas miners.

Heart Broken, He Enlists.

Dr. Michael Downes of St. Louis, Mo., had a lucrative practice and until a few weeks ago the doctor, his wife and little daughter were looked upon as the possessors of a model home. But jealousy crept in and Mrs. Downes secured a divorce, the doctor allowing the case to go by default. Only informing a few intimate friends, he enlisted as a private in Company F, First Missouri infantry. To a brother physician he sent this message: "I am broken hearted and have gone to war. Remember me."

Young Woman Dies in Flames.

Miss Anne Forester of Cleveland committed suicide in a most tragic manner at Oakdale, a suburb, where she was visiting. She went into a barn, and saturating the interior of the building with coal oil, applied a match and knelt down in the midst of the flames, praying that her life might be taken away. She could not be rescued and died in terrible agony.

Royal Lives Imperiled.

A special dispatch from Vienna says it is reported there that Count and Countess Zuanoff, said to be, respectively chamberlain of the Czar and lady in waiting on the Czarina, have been arrested and charged with an attempt to poison their majesties.

Murder in a Public Park.

George W. Horton, an ex-member of the city police force, killed Jane Nicholson, a divorced woman, in a public park at Washington, D. C., in the presence of fully one hundred people, by slashing her throat with a sharp knife. Horton was arrested.

Big Fire at Millville, N. J.

The most disastrous fire Millville, N. J., has ever had occurred the other day when the opera house and half a block of stores in the center of the city were totally destroyed. Loss, $60,000.

Forced to Learn Spanish.

The superintendent of public instruction of New Mexico has decided that under the statutes the teaching of the Spanish language in the public schools of the territory is compulsory.

A Globe-Trotter's Return.

The small sloop Spray, Captain Joshua Slocum, rigged with a jury mast and carrying the American flag, arrived at Newport, R. I., and attracted much attention, particularly in view of the fact that this was the first American port the tiny craft had touched at since she left Boston April 24, 1895. Since that time the captain has sailed his boat across the Atlantic and Pacific twice, and has visited ports in many countries. Captain Slocum had intended on the home run to make New York, but while off Fire Island he encountered a severe thunderstorm and was obliged to put before the wind and he then decided to make for Newport. His boat is filled with curiosities brought from the many countries he has visited. He says that the American flag has made him a welcome visitor at every port he visited. He left Cape Town March 20, going to St. Helena, where he met and had an interesting brush with Lord Brassey's yacht, the Hesperus. While in the Transvaal, at Pretoria, in company with President Kruger, he first learned of the blowing up of the battleship Maine at Havana. Off the coast of Brazil, near the mouth of the Amazon, he was passed by the United States battleship Oregon, and was signaled to know if he had seen any Spanish vessels. He first learned of the war when he arrived at Grenada.

INDIANS ATTEMPT A MURDER.

Natives of Alaska Try to Kill Jack Dalton, a Noted Guide.

J. D. Barry, special correspondent of the San Francisco Chronicle, who has been in Alaska for several months, has returned. He says that June 17 the Chilkat Indians attempted to assassinate Jack Dalton, the noted Alaskan pathfinder. Two shots were fired. The second bullet struck Dalton over the heart, but was deflected by a purse filled with coins. Dalton and six companions chased the Indians, who were joined by a large number of their tribe. The Indians said "Come on," but the white men retired. A warrant has been issued at Juneau charging "Jim," leader of the tribe, with attempted murder. Trouble is expected. The assassination was carefully planned. The Indians hold Dalton responsible for the influx of gold seekers.

Killed in a Cyclone.

A cyclone struck the little city of Marietta, Ohio, resulting in the loss of several lives and doing great damage to property. The principal loss of life occurred on the river where a party of excursionists aboard the steamer William Duffie were being conveyed to Buckeye Park. Four hundred persons were on the boat when the wind careened her over. Thirty were thrown into the water. In Marietta several business houses were blown down and many private dwellings were wrecked.

Citizens Chase Burglars.

Burglars were discovered ransacking several business places in Cridersville, Ohio. The citizens organized a posse and opened fire. Thirty shots were exchanged and the thieves retreated. They left a trail of blood and one of them, supposed to be wounded, left a pair of shoes at the roadside. They were followed to Lima, where all trace was lost.

To Raise the Flash Point.

The English House of Commons petroleum committee has resolved to raise the flash point from 73 to 100 degrees. This is the outcome of the newspaper campaign directed against American petroleum, which, it is charged, is responsible for numerous fatalities due to explosions of lamps.

Soldier Killed by Lightning.

Fred Nichols, private in Company C of the Second New York regiment, in camp at Tampa, Fla., was struck by lightning and instantly killed, while fourteen others of the same company and regiment were severely shocked, but the chances are largely in favor of their ultimate recovery.

Woman Tourist Missing.

Mrs. James Gaylor, a wealthy woman of Ridgewood, N. J., descended, in company with other tourists, to the bottom of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, in Arizona. The next day she started up the trail leading out of the canyon. She has not been heard of since.

Ora is Reported Lost.

The steamer Amur, from Skaguay, brings a report which had reached the coast that the stern wheeler Ora had been lost between Lake Bennett and Lake Lindeman while on her first trip to Dawson. It is said that no lives were lost.

Loss Reaches Millions.

A disastrous fire has occurred at Riason, Russia, situated 110 miles by rail southeast of Moscow. Much of the town, which has a population of over 30,000, has been destroyed, and the loss is estimated to be several million rubles.

Shaken by Earthquake.

Two sharp earthquake shocks were felt at Rieti, Italy. The worst one lasted nine seconds and a number of buildings were damaged. The Carbineer barracks were rendered uninhabitable and the whole population was panic-stricken.

Washington Mill Burned.

The Bellingham Bay Improvement Company mill burned at New Whatcom Wash. Loss estimated at $400,000.

Niagara Falls Hotel Burns.

The historic Clifton House, on the Canadian side, at Niagara Falls, was totally destroyed by fire.

TO BOMBARD SPAIN.

New Fleet Formed and Ordered Across Atlantic.

WATSON IN COMMAND.

Coast Cities Will Be Laid Low by Shells from Our Warships.

Fortifications at Cadiz and Other Strongholds to Be Bombarded and an Effort Made Completely to Destroy Spain's Navy—Fleet Expected to Reach the Spanish Coast Before the Middle of July—Decisive Action to Follow Without Delay.

Washington special:

The war is to be carried into Spain. A squadron of American fighting ships will turn its prows from the Antilles in a few days and steam for Europe. Two or three weeks hence they may be searing the coast of the peninsula from Cadiz to Barcelona. Or they may be engaged in wiping out the fighting remnant of the Spanish navy, now in the Suez Canal, ostensibly on the way to the Philippines, 6,000 miles away. To the world at large this expedition will inject a picturesque feature into the combat. But the United States is not seeking dramatic effects. This country purposes carrying the horrors of war home to the Spaniards so forcibly and so clearly that they must beg for mercy. A squadron fit for the work in hand has been selected, and its composition promises to add new laurels to the American navy. It will include the pick of the battle ships, the Iowa and the Oregon. They will be supported by four fast cruisers, commerce destroyers of fine type, and three capacious merchantmen will carry food for their engines.

FIGHTING JOE WHEELER.
He Commands the Cavalry Engaged in Fighting Near Santiago.

The Navy Department on Monday gave out the announcement that Commodore Watson had been directed at once to join Admiral Sampson off Santiago with his flagship Newark and there organize a squadron of armored battleships and cruisers for the purpose of striking at the Spanish ports. This movement is no doubt the direct result of the sailing of Admiral Camara's expedition, ostensibly for Manila by way of the Suez Canal. This movement, if carried out, leaves the Spanish coast practically at the mercy of a strong squadron of battleships such as it is believed Sampson and Schley will be able to spare from the fleet on the south coast of Cuba. Besides the Newark, which has just been overhauled and placed in excellent fighting condition, Watson's squadron will include the battleships Oregon and Iowa and the cruisers Yosemite, Yankee and Dixie, accompanied by several colliers. The expedition will probably strike the Canaries en route, unless Camara's squadron should return, in which case an effort may be made to meet it before it shall pass the Straits of Gibraltar, folowing up with the bombardment of Barcelona and other Mediterranean ports.

The instructions of Commodore Watson are that he shall proceed to Tangier, Morocco, with his fleet, and if the Cadiz fleet commanded by Camara has returned to Spain, he shall capture or destroy it, and also destroy fortifications of Spanish ports where necessary. If the Cadiz fleet proceeds to the Philippines, Commodore Watson will bombard Cadiz, Barcelona and other cities on the Mediterranean sea, destroy naval stores, and follow Camara through the Suez canals to the Philippines.

Some of the naval authorities expressed the opinion that the Canary Islands will be the first point of attact.

There is no intention of weakening the Havana blockade by the withdrawal of Commodore Watson with his flagship. To prevent this Secretary Long has ordered Commodore Howell to proceed immediately to the American fleet off Havana to take command of the post vacated by Commodore Watson. Commodore Howell is at present in command of the coast patrol fleet and he will take the entire fleet with him, that is all of the larger vessels, to re-enforce the blockade of the Cuban coast.

Several times since the war broke out rumors that a fleet would be dispatched to Spain have been circulated, but the project had not matured; it required the Spanish movement toward the Philippines by Camara's squadron to decide the Navy Department to adopt this bold stroke. The first announcement was received with incredulity. There was a suspicion that the story was being floated to deceive the Spanish Government. However, when later the detail of the vessels selected to constutute Commodore Watson's eastern squadron was announced and official orders were given to provision the fleet for four months it became apparent to the last doubter that the Government was in earnest in this purpose to dispatch the fleet to Europe.

NEW EASTERN SQUADRON, WHICH WILL BOMBARD SPANISH COAST CITIES.

PANIC IN HAVANA.

Reign of Terror in the City Controlled by General Blanco.

The most authentic and reliable news yet obtained of the true condition of affairs in Havana was furnished to a representative of the Associated Press by a British subject, who arrived at Key West. He says a reign of terror exists at the Cuban capital. Captain General Blanco has issued a proclamation announcing that anyone daring to express an unfavorable opinion of, or suspected of being dissatisfied with the present policy of the Government, will be summarily shot without trial or investigation. This proclamation, it appears, caused dissatisfaction among members of the Orden Publico, or police force, who threatened to revolt. Some trouble was expected, as the Orden Publico is a numerous and well-armed body of men. The result is that the Orden Publico patrols the city and its members are themselves policed, Spanish infantry and artillery soldiers mounting guard over them at every corner. Famine, it seems, is imminent, and stories of the arrival of supplies at Havana by way of Batabano are pronounced to be untrue. The informant of the Associated Press thinks Havana cannot possibly hold out six weeks longer. The city is pronounced to be panic-stricken, its inhabitants expecting every moment to be bombarded by the American fleet, as they realize that Captain General Blanco's attitude releases the United States from the obligation of giving the customary bombardment notice.

THIRD EXPEDITION IS OFF.

Four Thousand Men Leave San Francisco on Four Steamers.

The third fleet to go to the aid of Dewey at Manila is now out on the broad Pacific, westward bound. It comprises 4,000 men under command of Gen. Arthur McArthur. The transports in the squadron are the steamers Indiana, City of Para, Ohio and Morgan City. Gen. McArthur has his headquarters on the first-named boat. Army officers in San Francisco are much perturbed regarding the movements of the Spanish squadron, which is reported to be bound for the Philippines via the Suez canal. It is said that the transports which left there will be rushed through to the islands at top speed in order to have as large a force as possible ready to receive the dons should Manila be the ultimate destination of the Cadiz fleet.

BIG FORCE OF CUBANS LANDED.

Garcia and 3,000 of His Men Are Put Ashore at Juragua.

Gen. Calixto Garcia, with 3,000 Cuban insurgents from the mountains west of Santiago de Cuba, was landed at Juragua Sunday. The Cuban troops were brought on board the American transports. Fully 5,000 insurgents, nearly the entire available fighting force of the insurgents in the southern part of Santiago de Cuba province, reports say, are concentrated at or near Juragua. Three-fourths of them are armed with modern rifles and have abundant supplies of ammunition. The soldiers are ragged almost to nakedness. Most of these men are thoroughly accustomed to the bushwhacking methods of the Spaniards, and are perfectly familiar with every trail in the vicinity of Santiago de Cuba.

ADVISES SPAIN TO SURRENDER.

Paris Temps Admires Pluck and Brains of the American Army.

The French military experts are beginning to do justice to the American troops. They never doubted their dash and pluck, but did not expect that a force consisting largely of volunteers would be able to drive superior numbers of Spanish regulars back upon Santiago. The Paris Temps pays a handsome tribute to the careful, business-like way the landing of the Americans was planned and carried out. The paper urges Spain not to prolong her resistance, which is doomed to defeat, for "every hour materially augments the hardship of the terms on which Spain will have to treat."

America's Need.

A London dispatch, quoting from an article in the London Spectator, says: "The Americans, with the position they assume in the world as protectors of two continents, need a fleet as large as that of France, and an army of 50,000 men so over-officered in all grades and so oversupplied with artillery, engineers and transports, that it can be expanded at a month's notice with trained reservists to 150,000 men."

Santiago People Starving.

A letter received in Kingston, Jamaica, from Santiago says the suffering there on account of the lack of food has greatly increased. Many families have appealed to the authorities for relief from the military stores, but help has been refused. All have been warned that the best thing to do is to leave the city as quickly as possible.

HONOR TO HEROES.

Special Messages by President McKinley Affecting Brave Men.

The President on Monday sent two special messages to Congress providing recognition for the services of Lieut. Hobson, the hero of the Merrimac; of Lieut. Newcomb and crew of the revenue cutter Hudson, which rescued the torpedo boat Winslow at Cardenas; Captain Hodgson of the dispatch boat Hugh McCulloch, which figured in the battle of Manila, and Naval Cadet Joseph Wright Powell, who held the steam launch under the bluffs at Santiago harbor, searching for the crew of the Merrimac. Authority is asked of the Senate for the transfer of Hobson from the construction corps to the line of the navy and the President announces that with authority given he will by and with the advice and consent of the Senate suitably advance Hobson in the line. The Hudson's crew are to be given a vote of thanks and medals of commendation. Captain Hodgson is to be suitably recognized. The President in mentioning Hobson cites the fact that the crew with him already have been promoted.

It has not yet been positively determined by the administration just what measure of reward shall be meted out to Constructor Hobson. He will be transferred to the line, but just what place in the line is to be given to him is not yet settled. It can be stated that he will not, as was at first proposed, be placed in the grade of lieutenant commanders. With a full realization of the merits of Hobson's achievement, the naval officials have concluded that so great advancement as that, amounting to a promotion of over 350 numbers, would be unwise, so it is likely that Hobson will take his place well up among the lieutenants of the naval service, which officials believe will make his reward fully equal to that bestowed upon Cushing for his daring feat.

The Navy Department, while not relaxing in any degree its efforts to secure Hobson's release from captivity at Santiago, has about concluded that nothing practicable can be effected in this direction until the town itself has been captured. The reasons assigned by the Spaniards for declining the exchange are admitted to be sound if the facts are as represented—namely, that Hobson has had opportunity to see so much of the Spanish defenses, their strength and weakness, that he could not safely be permitted to return to the American fleet at this time.

HURRY TO RE-ENFORCE SHAFTER.

Officials Say Miles Will Command the Next Expedition.

Preparations for hurrying re-enforcements to Gen. Shafter and for the Porto Rican expedition are progressing as fast as possible. Gen. Shafter's orders are to send back to Tampa as many of the transports with his expedition as he can spare. It was given out officially that Gen. Miles would command the next expedition to leave the United States. Just what this is to be, and where it is to go could not be ascertained. The re-enforcements to be sent to Shafter will be an expedition nearly as formidable as that which left Tampa two weeks ago. After Santiago has been reduced and captured by the Americans there will be an ample number to leave in the province to preserve order and hold the place, while the remainder may be used for the Porto Rican expedition.

THE PURITAN MAID.

Hangs her picture on the wall,
Where the sunbeams lightly fall;
O'er her seated at the wheel,
Softly, tenderly, they steal;
'Neath her cap so plain and white,
Shine her curls of golden light.

Face of rose leaf tinted hue,
Eyes like violets kissed by dew,
Gravely, shyly, gazing down,
Shaded by the lashes brown;
So they looked that fair spring day,
When one stole her heart away.

Loal the Stuart blood was he,
And of Roundhead lineage she,
Ere the years around her flew,
Shadows dimmed those eyes of blue;
Ere her baby girl could speak,
Death had claimed the mother meek.

Now she lies 'neath moss-decked stone,
All with lichen overgrown;
Still the letter you may see,
"Phyllis, Sixteen Fifty-three,"
There the sunbeams gently play
Round the grave of Phyllis Grey.

His Pleasant Interlude.

A War-Time Tale.

He rode up to the entrance of the house, and, stooping forward, rapped smartly at the door with the hilt of his sword. Then he settled himself in the saddle, whistled and looked around at the detail, blue-coated men of the Federal cavalry, sitting stolidly behind him.

He waited a few moments, and then dismounted, whistling still, his blue eyes smiling and dancing as though thirty miles over rough country, and coming on the heels of a harassing march, were but a mere bagatelle. Again he knocked, loudly, insistently. The corporal moved heavily in his hot saddle, and moistened his lips with his tongue.

In answer to the knocking the still brooding house suddenly became alive with stealthy footsteps and secretive sounds, cautious movements and discreet murmurings. The lieutenant settled his hat more jauntily and looked at his dusty boots and ragged uniform with a mournful air. Presently light footsteps came down the unseen stairs, and paused on the other side of the heavy door.

"Who is there?" The voice was so clear and sweet that the lieutenant forgot his boots and smiled again, and even the corporal paused in the act of flicking a fly from the neck of his horse.

A detail of the United States cavalry. We want rest and shelter." The lieutenant might have had hopes of something infinitely more pleasant than these common necessaries, for his voice was mellowed with a grateful deference.

"I am quite alone with my aunt," said the voice. "Shall we be safe in opening to you?"

"Madame," answered the lieutenant, swelling in his blue tunic, "we are soldiers but we are men."

The door was unbarred and thrown open. The lieutenant swept his cap from his head and bowed. He bowed with exaggerated homage, for the voice was possessed by a young girl every whit as sweet as its cadence.

"I will not say you are welcome," she said, "for you do not wear the uniform which opens our hearts." She spoke sadly, for the war had been terrible in its results for her and her friends. Everywhere the blue uniform was swarming over the Southern homesteads, into the Southern homes.

He shrugged his shoulders.

"One must wear one uniform or another," he answered. "I was born in the North. The matter is a mere accident. It may have been unfortunate for me."

"I think not," she replied, looking gravely at him, thinking of the sacrifices made and making.

"I am by no means sure," he smiled, thinking of other matters.

In another minute he went off, his cap thrust back, whistling a happy waltz refrain, to see to the housing of horses and men—horses coming first in his estimation, as befitted a cavalryman. Davis, the corporal, and the six other men of the detail swore hardly as they loosened girths in the disused stables, but the lieutenant went on whistling.

In the evening he sat with the girl and her aunt in the broad, cool dining room, smoking. He could have dispensed with the aunt, but, after all, she was silent, and knitted. Marjorie—he had discovered that her name was Marjorie, with a pleased sense of its appropriateness—was not silent and she did not knit. She sat by the low open window and talked.

He was very candid about his movements, boyish and flippant. The war had left him entirely without personal animosity against anyone.

"Why did you become a soldier?" Marjorie questioned, wonderingly, for her hatred of the Northerners was as the hatred of her kindred—very deep and very bitter.

"Oh, I don't know. Any fellow would in my position. I was a lawyer. I hated law. The war promised excitement and adventure. There you are."

"And you like it?" She looked at him narrowly. That this hateful war should be agreeable was a phase she had not yet studied.

"Yes. Why not? It gives movement. I love movement. It gives adventure. I adore adventure. It gives excitement. I worship excitement. No one can enjoy the perfection of living without the zest of an apparent chance of the other thing."

"Life and death, right and wrong, are mere matters of amusement to you?"

"Should they be anything else? I am quite willing to grant that I am fighting for a wrong cause. I have never studied the subject. I fight because I like it, and because I don't like the law."

The aunt, serious over her knitting, reproached him.

"You are bringing death and desolation on us."

He was apologetic at once.

"I'm awfully sorry. I never thought of it in that light. It has been a mere game with me—like marbles or—or billiards."

Marjorie looked at him again, but he was conscious that her attention was divided. It had been divided all the evening. There was anxiety in her eyes, even fear. He smiled to himself as he saw this, and blew fanciful clouds of smoke.

"I cannot be that. It has been the cause of my meeting with you—and with your aunt," he added, as an afterthought.

Both aunt and niece smiled, but their smiles were forced.

"You have a secret," he went on, suddenly looking out of the window. "Forgive me for speaking. I look so much of a fool that I am afraid you have not given me credit for discovering it. Some one is hiding here."

Aunt and niece started to their feet, with alarmed faces and protesting lips. He waved them courteously to their chairs.

"I have no wish to discover who he is. He may be your brother, Mistress Marjorie; he may be—again, forgive me—something nearer. I do not ask. I have no desire to know."

They sank back in their seats, staring at him with strained eyes.

"You will not——" the girl began, falteringly.

"Search for him? No, most assuredly not. I am quite happy here, smoking and—and seeing you. Another might disturb us. It is no duty of mine to be a spy. While I trespass on your hospitality I am quite deaf. I do not say that if I met him in the open, face to face, I should not attempt to kill him. I should. He would do the same to me. But now—this is a pleasant interlude."

She, the girl, looked at him with eloquent eyes.

"Sir," she said, "you are very good."

He smiled. "It will be well if I can hope that you will permit to us of the North some of the chivalry you claim for the South. I am a soldier; I am not a spy."

The aunt came forward. He saw with apprehension that her face was white with emotion, that she walked unsteadily, and that her eyes were misty.

"God bless you——" she began.

"My dear madam," he said lightly, "I am your guest. I am afraid my intrusion was a little brusque, and not altogether acceptable, but necessity gave me no choice. It is," he went on, with an easy change, "a very pleasant evening. For a week or so I think I might be very happy here, but it must be dull to pass the whole of one's life with only trees and fields and animals—a few human and many otherwise."

"That," said Marjorie, speaking for the sake of speaking, and with little thought, "is not complimentary."

His eyes darkened a little as he looked at her.

"Imagination might suggest a greater happiness, but knowledge, the knowledge of a few hours, demonstrates the futility of such a possibility."

She crimsoned quickly, shyly looking at him.

"You are gallant, sir," she smiled.

"Am I? It is rarely that the truth is gallant."

The aunt, rendered obtuse with the stress of her emotion, she broke in.

"Perhaps," said she, "some one waits and watches for you in the far North. If so, I pray that she may repay you for you kindness to us—to my niece and to me."

He smiled again, the setting sun caressing his hair into an answering gleam.

"Madam, I have met many in my life—a longer life, I think, than you imagine—but a week has wearied me of them all. I have never hoped for more than a week's brief pleasure, never even guessed its possibility, until today."

"That is sad," said the aunt.

"It has one great advantage. They may put me under the ground tomorrow, and there will be no heart left to ache."

"You talk lightly of death." Marjodie shivered as she spoke.

"It's a soldier's chance, and when one plays a game of chance one should reckon the risks."

"And you have reckoned?"

"This little expedition, which has given me the great pleasure of your acquaintance and of your aunt's, should demonstrate that. I am far in an enemy's country. The general who accepted my offer did not underrate the peril. He parted with me with a longer handshake than usual. It was quite eloquent. We are twenty miles in advance of the column."

He started then, for a slight noise arrested his attention. The two women did not hear it, and he was silent.

When the night was dark a man stole from the back of the house. He wore a uniform, and if the night had not been so dark the uniform would have been seen to have been gray. But, after all, if the night had not been dark there was no one to see it.

In the morning, early, before the dews were dry, the lieutenant bade the two women a gay farewell, and rode down the road with his men. The road lay open to the dawn before the house, and there was no screening hedge.

He laughed as he rode and waved his cap gayly. The corporal looked on in grave disapproval. Such frivolities were not in keeping with the grimness of war. The carbines were slung and the swords rested in their scabbards.

Suddenly the windows of the house were alive with rifles. Six men looked over the muzzles at the detail. Looking back at the two women, the lieutenant caught sight of the tense faces glaring over the gleaming barrels.

"Forward, lads, for your lives," he shouted.

The sudden start of the horses, the abrupt ringing of his voice, discomfited their aim. The bullets flew wide. All but one. The man who had stolen from the house in the dark had covered the lieutenant, and he smiled as the figure in blue swayed in his saddle.

"Get on, Davis!" the lieutenant cried. "I'm done for! Get on; the general must have the report."

The corporal hesitated as his lieutenant dropped, but the report was of consequence, and it was no use dying beside his officer. So he rode on with the detail.

When the woman knelt by his side, and Marjorie raised his head, the lieutenant opened his eyes.

"Don't tell him that I knew he was there," he said. "It might be unpleasant for him." He struggled with the faintness that came upon him. "It was a pleasant interlude," he added weakly, "but it is over now."

If they had told the man in the gray uniform it would not have been news.—To-day.

DYNAMITE GUN VESSEL VESUVIUS IN ACTION.

TARGET FOR ALL EYES.

The Dynamite Cruiser Vesuvius May Revolutionize Naval Warfare.

The naval authorities of the world are anxiously watching the dynamite cruiser Vesuvius, that tiny craft whose pneumatic guns did such terrible execution at Santiago. The Vesuvius is in a class by herself; there is no other vessel like her in the world. This is the first time in the history of warfare that high explosives have been used in pneumatic guns and the success that attended the trials of the Vesuvius at Santiago will in all probability revolutionize the construction of warships. With a greater range of fire, which it is believed by experts can and will be obtained by improvements in pneumatic guns, the Vesuvius, or a vessel carrying similar guns, would be more than a match for the best battleship afloat.

The Vesuvius was built by Cramps at Philadelphia in 1886 and was accepted by the government and placed in commission four years later. Its armament consists of three pneumatic guns, which are in the forward part of the vessel. The guns are built into the vessel, which acts as a movable gun carriage. Their muzzles are carried forward and project above the deck, near the bow, at an elevation of 18 degrees. They are made of thin cast iron, are 15 inches in diameter, and are 54 feet long. They are not rifled, the vanes upon the projectile being relied upon to give the desired axial rotation. The full-sized shells for the guns are 14¾ inches in diameter and about 7 feet long. A tail is fitted at the end of the shell with spiral vanes, which secures its alignment and rotation. They are designed to carry a charge of 150 to 200 pounds of dynamite or guncotton, and the effect of the latter charge the results at Santiago attest. Experts say that if one of these giant shells exploded within twenty feet of an armored vessel, a large section of the hull would disappear.

The shells are hurled from the guns by compressed air and so powerful is this force that they can be sent with accuracy a distance of two and a half miles. The air is compressed into reservoirs containing a large number of wrought iron tubes. Each shot that is fired at a mile range takes 150 pounds of air.

The guns are loaded and handled with ease. Under the rear of each gun are two "revolvers," each containing five chambers for the shells. When the gun is to be loaded the breech is unfastened and falls on a pivot at the extreme rear end. The opening in the gun comes directly in line with the lowest chamber in the "revolver." A hydraulic ram pushes the shell forward into the breech, which is at once swung upward, completing the continuity of the barrel. The "revolver" is thus turned forward one division so as to be ready to supply the next shell. Hydraulic power is used to execute all the maneuvers. The complete armament of each gun is ten projectiles.

When the gun is to be fired the air is admitted to the chamber by means of a valve. The distance that the shell will be thrown depends upon the amount of air admitted into the pneumatic tube, which is controlled by the valve. The firing can take place as rapidly as the shells can be loaded into the tubes.

The Vesuvius is particularly well adapted for blowing up mines by exploding dynamite shells in the mine fields. A shot from one of her guns, it is estimated, will set off every mine within a radius of fifty feet from the point where the shell explodes. The great weakness of the Vesuvius lies in its armor, which is but 3-16 of an inch thick and could easily be pierced by a shell. The impact would be liable to set off the dynamite on board the vessel and that would be the last of the Vesuvius and the nervy men who man her. The destroyer is designed principally for night attacks, stealing up under cover of the darkness, noiselessly discharging a few shells and then rushing back, at a high rate of speed, out of harm's way.

Cost of Spain's Sunday Amusements

That the Spanish people are in a national and moral decline cannot be wondered at when we learn what it costs Spain to educate its people by Sunday bull-fights. The following statistics have been compiled from Spanish sources:

"Guerrita is the king of the toreadores. He earned $61,200 during the season of 1897, from April 5 to Oct. 30. Next after him came Reverte, with $28,700; Mazzantini, with $26,000; Bombita, with $25,800; Algabeno, with $23,000; Fuentes, with $19,500; Minuto, with $15,000; and Villita, with $10,000. Premier Canovas' salary was $5,400 a year. There were during the season 438 performances, in which 1,218 bulls, worth $300,000, were killed. Over 6,000 horses perished in the fights. These figures include only high-class bull-fighting at the most important cities. In each of the smaller towns they have, every year, one or two fights in which the number of persons killed or crippled always exceeds that of the bulls fought."

LIEUTENANT VICTOR BLUE.

Went Ashore at Santiago, Traveled 72 Miles, and Spied Cervera's Fleet.

Lieutenant Victor Blue, whose bold tour of Santiago de Cuba Bay won for him high praise from Admiral Sampson, has taken his place beside Hobson, Rowan, Fremont and the other young men who have distinguished themselves in the war with Spain. Blue made a tour around the bay of seventy miles, and counted the four armored cruisers and the two torpedo boat destroyers of Cervera's famous armada. Young Blue had no lack of exciting adventures after Sampson's ships got into Cuban waters. He was in charge of the Suwanee (the transformed Mayflower) when hostilities began, and he accompanied the Gussie on her expedition. The Suwanee, backed up by the gunboat Newport, tried to entice the Spaniards into a fight, but they refused the bait. Blue's boat ran on a reef near Cape Francis, and would have made an easy prey for the Spaniards. She did not get away until after twelve hours had passed. Blue ran the gantlet of five Spanish gunboats, and reached the outposts of General Gomez, where he planted the American flag. On his return from his hazardous expedition around Santiago Bay he brought with him a copy of a Santiago newspaper. His daring trip into the very homes of the Spanish set at rest the fiction that the Cape Verde fleet was not bottled up in the little bay.

GROWING FAR FROM HOME.

Beautiful Tropical Plant Which Grows Off the Coast of England.

The breezy isles of Scilly, just off the Cornwall and Devonshire coast of England, are almost an eighth wonder of the world in regard to the remarkable way in which tropical plants flourish on them. In the spring London is buried under the daffodils and Arum lilies from these fragrant bits in the sea, and the flora of Australia, New Zealand, Algeria, Mexico and South Africa is lavishly represented in the northern islands. Tree ferns, the curious eucalyptus and groups of flowering dracaenas abound, but probably no foreign plant reaches a higher degree of perfection

Disproved the Slander.

There is a Mexican bull fighter—El Curita—whose enemies have made the statement against him that he had been beaten by a woman. He denied this and notified the local newspapers that the actual facts were that he had knocked the woman down four times with a chair. Moreover, he had been sentenced to jail, but his eight-day sentence had been commuted on the payment of a fine, which he construed as a vindication of his character.

"UNCLE REMUS."

Joel Chandler Harris Began Life as a Printers' "Devil."

Mr. Harris will always be known, first and foremost, as the author of the "Uncle Remus" tales. Few men make two literary hits in one lifetime. It was genius that induced this Southern newspaper writer to give the world the negro folk tales which he had heard as a boy about the wide, old-fashioned fireplace. It was literary instinct of a high order which enabled him to reproduce so perfectly the dialect of the Southern negro and at the same time make it clear to one who never lived in the South. Since "Uncle Remus" gave Harris a world-wide fame he has written many stories, all of which are marked by perfect simplicity and clearness of style and by admirable character-drawing. One long story he has essayed, but it was not a success. It will interest young writers to know that Mr. Harris' favorite book, when he was a boy, was "The Vicar of Wakefield," and that he read Goldsmith's story so often that even now he can repeat many pages of it. He began life as a printer's boy at 12 years of age, and it was at the printer's case, like Ben Franklin, that he first felt the impulse to put his thoughts into writing.

KING OF GUIDES.

Famous Old Swiss Who Piloted Many Travelers Over the Alps.

Of all the guides who have helped American travelers to love the Alps the chief, perhaps, was Christian Almer. He was the king of his tribe. He enjoyed his calling, and pursued it from boyhood with the zeal of an artist.

Until he was quite an old man the famous old Swiss was actively engaged in "guiding." His eye was keen, his foot sure, his judgment unerring and his delight in crossing the most difficult

Another Powerful Anaesthetic.

According to the British and Colonial Druggist a Russian chemist has discovered a most powerful anaesthetic. It is several thousand times more powerful than chloroform, volatilizes powerfully and acts, when freely mixed with air at great distances. Experiments are being made at St. Petersburg to see if it cannot be inclosed in bombs, which would have the extraordinary effect of anaestheticising instead of wounding the enemy.

WAR HISTORY OF A WEEK.

Tuesday.

Hunger is prevailing in Havana, and the rich are reported to be taking flight.

General Blanco is going to send four battalions of troops to the relief of the city.

Proposed to establish near Atlanta, Ga., a stockade to hold all prisoners captured during the war.

Orders issued to hold all persons captured on Spanish prize ships until further orders. They number 200.

Favorable report made by the House Military Committee on the bill to revive the grade of lieutenant general.

Reported that European governments are contemplating overtures to America and Spain in the direction of peace.

Shafter's army, now before Santiago, in conjunction with Garcia's 4,000 men in the vicinity, makes 20,000 troops menacing that city. A landing place has not been selected.

Wednesday.

Four picked crews removed seven submarine mines from Guantanamo harbor.

Efforts are making by Blanco to win the Cuban leaders to the cause of Spain.

Official report made that Mauser bullets caused the laceration of bodies of marines killed in Cuba.

Protests are published in the Madrid press against reports that the Queen Regent is to resign.

Admiral Sampson and Gen. Shafter officially report landing of troops at Baiquiri and laying of plans to attack Santiago front and rear.

Blanco says that Hobson is not exchanged for the reason that the lieutenant and his companions had an opportunity to see the defenses of Santiago harbor.

Thursday.

Sagasta said to have announced in the Spanish chamber that the fleet of Admiral Camara is bound for the Philippines.

Cable news direct from Cuba and by dispatch boats to Jamaica is that there has been sharp fighting on land near Baiquiri.

The auxiliary cruiser Yale sailed from Old Point Comfort with the first re-enforcements for Gen. Shafter's army at Santiago de Cuba.

Cables from Cuba by way of Madrid report that fierce fighting has taken place between the allied American and Cuban forces and the Spanish.

Splendid work has been done by Admiral Sampson's ships in bombarding the Spanish batteries near Santiago. The Texas is credited with the best work of the war. The Vesuvius has demonstrated the complete success of gun cotton shells.

Friday.

The sittings of the Cortes were suspended by royal decree.

Official assurances received that Germany intends to be strictly neutral in regard to the Philippines.

An additional army of 20,000 men is soon to be dispatched. There are doubts whether the destination is Porto Rico or Cuba.

Should Camara's fleet pass into the Suez canal an American squadron will start at once across the Atlantic and bombard Spanish sea ports.

First serious engagement by our troops in Cuba occurred five miles from Santiago. Less than 1,000 American cavalrymen dispersed 2,000 Spaniards. The American loss a dozen killed and nearly fifty wounded.

The warships under Admiral Sampson bombarded the forts of Santiago de Cuba again. The gunners found the range much better than on former occasions, and the execution wrought was serious. The loss of life on the Spanish side was considerable.

Saturday.

Two men suspected of being American spies arrested at Palmas, Island of Majorca.

Exciting debate in the Senate on the question of agreeing to a time at which a vote on Hawaiian annexation could be had.

A report published in Madrid that suggestions for peace negotiations had been made by the United States is denied at Washington.

The Spaniards have abandoned Morro Castle, the chief fortification at the entrance to the harbor of Santiago de Cuba, without a shot being fired. They have concentrated their forces in the city.

Sunday.

Fifteen regiments stationed at Chattanooga ordered to Cuba.

Advance of Shafter's army has forced its way to within four miles of the city of Santiago.

Camara's fleet is at Port Said, but no request to take on coal has yet been made to the Egyptian government.

Auxiliary cruiser Harvard sailed for Santiago with the Ninth Massachusetts regiment and two battalions of the Thirty-fourth Michigan.

Train carrying Colonel Torrey's rough riders to Tampa was in collision at Tupelo, Miss. Four soldiers and a colored porter killed and Colonel Torrey and several others wounded.

Monday.

Gen. Garcia and 5,000 Cubans were landed at Juragua.

The third expedition to the Philippines, 4,000 men, departed from San Francisco.

Up to June 23 the re-enforcements for Admiral Dewey had not arrived at Manila.

Reports to Madrid say the American fleet bombarded Aguadores for five hours Monday.

The opposing armies are within range of each other at Santiago de Cuba, but the Americans are not ready for battle owing to the non-arrival of field and machine guns.

The administration has issued orders for the formation of an eastern squadron, under Commodore Watson, which is directed to sail as soon as possible for the coast of Spain.

THE CHICAGO STRIKE

The strike of the stereotypers at Chicago, looks a little foolish out this way. They were getting 3.25 a day for eight hours, and asked to have this raised to $4 a day of seven hours and also to pay 75 cents an hour for all over time. Verily they were modest in their demands. But we are informed the matter will be fixed up, and Chicago papers will be issued tomorrow, July 6, as usual. The trouble could not have happened in a worse time, for now everybody wants to hear the news of our glorious victories.

OUR COUNTY TICKET.

Now during the busy season but little is said as to politics, though we suppose the men on the ticket talk quietly with the voters when there is a chance. This is the proper way, the honorable way. It is the only honorable way to secure votes. A man who has anything to recommend him to the voter is never afraid to approach him in this way. And if he is the right kind of a man he will make the right kind of an impression. We have just such men on our ticket this year, everyone of whom is a straightforward, honest and capable man. They need not be afraid to talk to any man, and they will not be. There will be no underhand means used for they are not that kind of men. The COURIER freely commends this ticket to the voters of the county. And something is wrong with a democrat who fails to support them. We do not know of any such, but should there be found one such, it is safe to ask him where he got his opinions. The COURIER believes we never had a better ticket, and that everyone of them deserves and will receive good support and be triumphantly elected.

The Way To Find Things

Dr. Calvin Fretz comes up every two weeks from his home at Deedsville, to treat his mother, who is in very poor health. Yesterday he came up as usual and was met at the train by his brother Henry, put his medicine case into the buggy and two started north going up Main street. In a short time they discovered the medicine case was gone, and came back to town to look for it. Not finding it they came into the COURIER office and made arrangements to have it advertised. Just as the COURIER'S advertising influence got started to working on the case, Supt. Coe, came in and told them where it had been found, Moral. It pays to advertise in the COURIER.

Today, Tuesday forenoon brought a similar experience. Wm Little telephoned to us to adverse a stray horse that had come to his feed barn. We at once wrote up the notice gave it to the printer who set it up, and the "pressure" began. In about half an hour Billy telephoned." All right. We have the owner. Stop the ad."

Island Park Assembly

The old and popular resort is being pushed to the front very vigorously. Tuesday, J. Frank Snyder and O. L. Hall, the former of Lagrange, the latter of Kendallville, came through our town distributing bills and pamphlets in the interest of the Assembly. Mr. Snyder is the secretary of the association, and any information desired may be had by addressing him. The sessions of the Assembly begin July 27, and close August 10. They expect a successful season. Last year was a good one and they expect this will be much better. The list of attractions is fine. There are noted lecturers, singers, good bands, military drills, G. A. R. & W. R. C. contests for banner, moving pictures, instructions in music, education, etc. Send for illustrated program.

BUTLER.

The Fourth passed off very quietly nearly all our people going away from home to pass the day.

Some of the wheat in the vicinity has been harvested and the present week will finish it. The crop is perhaps up to the average and of a good quality.

Mr. Wilcox is making substantial improvements on his residence on North Broadway.

Al Gengnagle occupies the Anna Bolan dwelling on North Broadway and James that formerly owned by Fred Oberlin on West North street.

There seems to be a decided falling off in the use of bicycles in this part of the country this year. One meets but very few wheelmen in driving between the towns. The cause is not so easy of explanation. Many of the young men have joined the army and the older riders are getting tired. The young ladies find a seat in a nice top buggy by the side of their best fellow, preferable to hard jaunts over doubtful roads on a wheel.

Frank Stump is putting up a new school house at Six Mile Corners, north of Butler for John Brown, trustee of Franklin.

Russell Young has the wall up for his new dwelling on the lot formerly occupied by David Fay, near the old M. E. church.

Rev. Frech of the M. E. church has taken a vacation, so there will be no services at his church for three weeks.

The Sabbath school last Sunday was but meagerly attended, so many having left town on excursions.

J. A. Campbell and wife visited with Aunt Betsey Imhoff east of town last Sunday afternoon.

Bernice Fralich, of South Chicago granddaughter of J. A. Campbell is reported very sick.

Wallace Gray of the west end has secured a Wabash section at Columbia City and will move his family there.

Florence Campbell is making a prolonged visit with Angola friends.

Will Snyder of Norwalk Ohio formerly of Butler is calling on Butler friends. His son Frank is in the 5th Ohio Infantry at Tampa.

J. A. Campbell visited Orland last week. This little prairie city, cut off from the world by twelve or fourteen miles of hilly, sandy roads, continues to hold its own after an isolated existence of more than fifty years. But few new buildings are erected, but the old ones are kept neatly painted and its wide streets about six times those of our own town are not overgrown with grass. The large well tilled farms about it after crops succeeding crops for more than fifty years continue in virgin fertility. The great fields of growing corn and wheat, up to the greatest average of production are a sight worth a thirty mile ride to see.

OBITUARY.

Died at the residence of her parents, in South Chicago, Ill. July 4, 1898. In the twelfth year of her age, Bernice Fralich, drughter of Thomas C. and Irene M. Fralick and granddaughter of J. A. Campbell's. The remains were brought to Butler Tuesday evening July 5, and interred in the Butler cemetery.

Bernice was among the best girls of her neighborhood a member of the M. E. church, League and Sunday school. Death came to her in the early morning of her life, but found her ready and willing to go to the home of her heavenly Father.

Spaniards Go Through.

Frank Hogue rode for some distance last week in the same car with a number of Spaniards, who had managed to get away from Cuba. They had gone from Havana to Mexico and then crossed into the United States, and were now working through to New York, from which port they expect to get home to Spain. Not being soldiers, they will not probably be disturbed, but will eventually reach home in safety. Mr. Hogue says they were people of considerable intelligence, though evidently not well posted as to the real questions of the present quarrel. They talked freely about the war, however, and seemed to realize that we had got the advantage of them, and though evidently hating us, they were wise enough to keep quiet till they got out of the country.

Got 95 Per Cent

Geo. McCord is a "bloomin' widder" at present, as his better half is visiting in the old state of "Penn's Woods." The other evening seven ladies came over to inspect his style of housekeeping. They went over the premises carefully and looked at everything, and were about to fix up a grade for his house keeping that would bring Mrs. McCord home with a whirl. But just then, they came on a big juicy watermelon in the cooler, and that changed things. He was marked up to 95 per cent at once, and it would have been 100 or 110 if they hadn't found a pair of old shoes out of place But McCord has a little alligator that he just then brought on the scene. There came seven yells in seven different keys, sharps and flats, and he was alone. The alligator broke up the party.

Clear Lake Drowning.

George Lanning is home from Clear Lake and reports a man drowned there yesterday. A man from near Metz, named Jesse Hanse came of age yesterday, and took a party of friends including brothers and sisters, to celebrate the event. They were on the east shore, and he was in the water pushing a boat in which were several who could not swim or row. Just as he gave the boat a push toward shore the recoil sent him back a few feet, so he stepped off in water thirty feet deep He could swim but when he rose, the party in the boats could not help him and he went down again. The body was recoved several hours after by catching a bunch of hooks into his bathing suit. Mr. Lanning says it was a sad scene.

Crockett's Coon Knew More

The Spaniards have not as much sense as Davy Crockett's coon. It is told, that Crockett was a dead shot, and when the animals found this out, they would not wait for him to shoot them to pieces, but would come in voluntarily. One day, so the story runs, Davy drew a bead on a fine raccoon that was up in a tall tree. The coon saw him and "whickered out," Stop Davy, Don't spoil my fur. I'll come down." So he saved himself a great fall, and Davy got 75 cents for his pelt. And the Spaniards ought to have surrendered to Dewey, and Sampson, and to Shafter, without waiting to be destroyed. But they are not as wise as coons.

SPANISH SQUADRON DESTROYED.

Admiral Cervera Makes a Bold Dash for Liberty Which Is Fruitless and He and 1,500 Spaniards are Captured — Glorious Victory.

(Fourth of July, Extra.)

We probably have the city of Santiago by this time. The hard fighting of Friday, at the north east of the town brought us close to the city, though with considerable losses. The Spanish on that part retreated, but the ships in the bay shelled us. Saturday morning the battle was resumed by the land forces of Americans from the south and of the line near the sea, all the way north to the city, several miles, and the fighting north-east of the city was continued. Also on Friday our ships began to fire at the forts at the mouth of the bay and as much farther as they could reach. Saturday they went for these forts in dead earnest and shelled them for nine hours. Several batteries were silenced; some were utterly destroyed and Morro Castle was badly damaged, and their flag shot down. At a little after seven in the evening our ships ceased firing. The Spanish forts did not reply much, though it is not known why, unless ammunition was scarce.

Sunday Gen. Shafter sent word that he had just asked the city to surrender and he believed it would be done.

It appears that Sampson must have worked his way into the bay of Santiago in some way, as there is a well authenticated report that he has destroyed the Spanish fleet which was lying several miles up the bay and not far from the city. It does not say how we got into the bay, but it would seem that we must have silenced all the forts. It appears that we either from land or water have torn the city up a good deal and the Spanish commander, Linares, is wounded. The losses are about 1000 killed and wounded on each side. Our army suffered not only from fighting on land, but from shells from Spanish ships.

Reinforcements will be sent to Santiago at once and will no doubt include the 157th Indiana.

LATEST:—Shafter has given them 24 hours to get the women and children out of the city before he shells it and knocks it to pieces. It will be "A Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight," he says.

FROM MANILA.

Troops of the first lot sent reached Manila last Thursday, and were landed on Friday. They had gone by way of the Ladrone Islands which they captured. It is believed we will at once demand the surrender of Manila.

Tuesday's Daily.

As noted in our extra yesterday the Spanish fleet is completely destroyed. At the time we sent this out it was not well known how it happened. The details are not yet all in, but in substance it is this:

At 9:30 Sunday forenoon some of our ships off the mouth of the bay noticed smoke that appeared to be moving in the narrow, crooked channel that led out of the bay, and between the hills to the open sea. In a few minutes a warship came in sight, and then came the others following single column Such a thing had not been expected and our vessels were scattered about. But they hurried up and opened fire. The Spaniards put on all steam and went west along the coast. The fight became general, One after another the Spanish ships were disabled, set on fire and began sinking. Boats were sent from our ships to help save the men and get them ashore. Then they were taken on board our ships as prisoners. Admiral Cervera was taken on board the Gloucester, now a warship, but formerly J. Pierrpont Morgan's pleasure yacht, Corsair. About 2000 prisoners were taken, and a few escaped when on shore. The fight lasted but an hour or so, except their best ship which was chased for a hour or so and finally captured, and run onto the beach to prevent her sinking. The loss on our fleet is very slight. The Spanish loss must have been great. It is believed they knew they would be captured, but wanted to go down in a blaze of glory rather than remain cooped up and captured at anchor in the harbor. In any case it was one of the most brilliant and daring acts ever recorded, and the brave men who did it, though enemies should have just praise for their heroism.

MANILA

Dewey's re-enforcements reached him Thursday and he will probably at once attack the city. He probably has it before now. The governor of the Ladrone Islands surrendered without fighting. He is the only sensible Spaniard who has been heard of in this war. These islands are not very valuable. The have one good sized town, and altogether about 10,000 inhabitants. They produce tropical fruits as they are only about twenty degrees north of the equator

With the Spanish fleet out of Santiago bay, our soldiers on land will not have to suffer from that source as they did Friday and Saturday. The Spanish re-enforcements have not yet reached the city and when they get there now will find themselves too late. The city at last accounts was completely hemmed in by our troops, as we have extended our lines around to the north till we reach the bay.

Wednesday's Daily.

Shafter did not begin to shell the city of Santiago when he said he would for things had greatly changed, and the goverment told him to wait till he and Admiral Sampson could confer. It will be remembered that when he issued this proclamation Sunday morning, he was close to the city, while on the other side of the town, in the harbor lay the Spanish fleet that had killed so many of his men. He would have the pleasure of shelling the ships as well as the town. But within two hours after he issued his proclamation, he found that the Spanish ships had escaped. Now they are destroyed and it is possible that Sampson may be able to silence the forts and get into the bay to help in the attack on the town. Or, what is better, perhaps the town may now see the good sense in a quiet surrender, for surely they must know their case is hopeless.

Yesterday some claimed that one of Cervera's ships, the Christobal Colon, got away. But the COURIER understood it correctly, and so stated. The Colon was chased about 60 miles to the westward, but made the mistake of keeping close to the inner bend of the shore, while Schley's flagship, the Brooklyn, cut across straight west and headed her off. Then he went for her and when the Spaniards, saw they would surely be sent to the bottom, they ran for the shore. The ship was beached, and they hauled down their flag and were taken on board the Brooklyn. The Colon, may possibly be saved

Commodore Schley is getting most of the praise as he was lucky enough to be near by when the Spaniards broke out of the harbor, and so had a chance to do most of the fighting. Sampson himself, with the New York happened to be several miles away to the eastward and so did not get to help much for by the time he overtook the ships in the running fight the most of the work was done.

The only man killed on our side was one on the Brooklyn, two others were wounded. Not a ship was hurt. It was as lucky as Dewey.

The happiest man in our fleet was Commander Wainright of Gloucester. He was an officer on the Maine when she was blown up, and was the one left in charge of the attempts to raise her, and to recover the bodies. But he never again set foot in Havana. On Sunday he had a chance to see six Spanish ships reduced to the condition of the lamented Maine. As the last one went down, he said, "Now, the Maine is avenged."

The Spanish Squadron is passing through Suez canal, and the British consul at Hong Kong has been friendly enough to notify Dewey.

Report over the wires this afternoon that Dewey had attacked Manila and the German cruisers had interfered, and that he turned on them and sunk them.

CAMP NOTES.

A man in the 157th writes to his father at South Bend:

I almost forgot to tell you that I have had the pleasure of meeting Spanish Butcher Gen. Weyler's half brother. He is a young man in the First Ohio Regiment and is a quartermaster. He says that all he wants is one shot at the butcher and he will guarantee that the Spaniards will be looking for a new general. He also says that it was his half-brother's fault that he had to leave home and he only awaits the chance to get even. The young man in question is a very nice looking fellow and one of the most trusted men in camp.

Trustees Hold.

The Indiana supreme court holds that the law is good, that gives trustees the extension of time on their terms. The law had extended their terms, from August 1899 to November 1900. They will keep their offices till the last named time, New trustees will be elected at the general November election of 1900 to succeed them. So there will be no new trustees elected this fall. The case was begun in Whitley Co. by Hon. T. R. Marshall in a case before Judge Adair, the latter holding the law to be good.

The Auburn City Mills.

The Auburn City Mills, known as the South End Mills, are undergoing repairs and will be open for business under the new management July 10.

Do Mules Have Seasickness.

"Do government mules get seasick?" This was the interesting and somewhat novel question propounded by Lieut.-Col. G. C. Smith, the head of the quartermaster's department in this city, yesterday, upon the receipt of a telegraphic order from Washington to immediately ship 120 mules to San Francisco to go with the reinforcements to be sent to Rear Admiral Dewey. The mules are on their way to the Pacific coast by this time. Upon arrival there they will be at once loaded onto a steamer bound for the Philippines. The trip across the Pacific ocean will take the mules nearly half way around the world, the ocean voyage alone being 7,500 miles in a straight line from San Francisco.

This being the case, Col. Smith naturally felt solicitous about the mules, and wanted to know whether they were likely to get seasick. For, though the quartermaster's department has been handling mules for many years, there was but one man in the place who could throw any light on the matter. He had it from a horse and mule trader that mules never become seasick, but horses do.—St. Louis Republic.

The Pest of the Canary.

Canary birds are often tormented with little pests that are hard to detect. The insects that make themselves most objectionable are little red mites. They come out to worry him at night, and leave him irritated all over, while they retreat to the cracks of the cage in the daytime. The insect powder does no good, because it is not long enough on the skin to kill them if they were there, which is doubtful; for they are nocturnal. Still, you may powder him well, especially under his wings, with pyrethrum powder; then wrap him in a handkerchief and hold him for a quarter of an hour until the powder has time to work. Then give him a clean new cage and have the old one either dipped in boiling water for several minutes or baked in the oven. Nothing short of this will destroy the horrors. To know if they cause the irritation, cover the cage at night with a white cloth, and if there are any about you will see them, like little red specks, in the morning.

A Deadly Ring.

A ring, studded with diamonds and pearls hangs suspended to a silken cord around the neck of a statue in one of the most frequented parks of Madrid. It is safer there than in the strongest room of the Bank of England. Thousands of people pass it every day, and admire its beauty, but the greatest thief in Spain hesitates even to touch it. It is believed to deal out death to whom it belongs. The ring was specially made for the late Alfonso XII., who gave it to his cousin Mercedes on the day of their betrothal. On the day of her death it passed into the possession of the king's grandmother, Queen Christina. Three months afterward she died. The king passed on the deadly band of gold to his sister, who died a month after she received it. The king then placed the jewel in his own casket of precious relics, and lived less than a year after he had done it.

The Beauty of Early Wild Flowers.

The insect, we may depend upon it, sees more than we do; a blossom of the blue-eyed grass (Sisyrinchium angustifolium) placed under the microscope reveals a fairylike palace of the daintiest beauty. Indeed, almost any flower tells the same story under the powerful glass; it simply seems to say: "You see, you hadn't an idea how beautiful and wonderful I am, otherwise you wouldn't make that startled exclamation as you view me under the glass." What a sight the microscope reveals—grottoes of burnished gold, pillars of spun glass, walls of lustrous, crystalline color, set with rubies, sapphires and pearls; pavements of amethyst and alabaster, arches of emeralds, and shrines of diamonds! What wonder that hungry insects flutter and buzz in bewilderment at the threshold of such a palace of sweets!"—F. Schuyler Matthews in the Chautauquan.

Afloat with Napoleon.

Two men living in St. Helena, who were born respectively in 1798 and 1802, are not the only persons now living who have seen Napoleon the Great. Thomas De Moleyns, who was for many years county court judge at Kilkenny, Ireland, who was called to the Irish bar in 1831, and appointed a queen's counsel in 1855, served in his early boyhood in the royal navy. Mr. De Moleyns was a midshipman on board the Bellerophon when Napoleon, on July 15, 1815, after "the hundred days," placed himself under the flag of his country, and was received on board the Bellerophon.

Told of Ruskin.

John Ruskin, the English art critic, once criticised in his fearless way a picture of a well-known painter, who was very much grieved at the effect. Later, on hearing of the sorrow he had caused, he wrote to the artist that he regretted that he could not speak more favorably of the picture, but hoped it would make no difference in their friendship. The artist, it is said, wrote in reply the following note: "Dear Ruskin: Next time I meet you I shall knock you down, but I hope it will make no difference in our friendship."

The Bishop Wanted to Know.

In preaching his extempore trial sermon before Bishop Tait and Dean Stanley, a candidate for priest's orders grew very nervous, and stammered: "I will divide my congregation into two—the converted and the unconverted." This proved too much for the bishop's sense of humor, and he exclaimed: "I think, sir, as there are only two of us, you had better say which is which."

FOR ALL WOMEN

Nine-tenths of all the pain and sickness from which women suffer is caused by weakness or derangement in the organs of menstruation. Nearly always when a woman is not well these organs are affected. But when they are strong and healthy a woman is very seldom sick.
McELREE'S Wine of Cardui
Is nature's provision for the regulation of the menstrual function. It cures all "female troubles." It is equally effective for the girl in her teens, the young wife with domestic and maternal cares, and the woman approaching the period known as the "Change of Life." They all need it. They are all benefitted by it.
For advice in case requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, the "Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.
THOS. J. COOPER, Tupelo, Miss., says "My sister suffered from very irregular and painful menstruation and delirium could not relieve her. Wine of Cardui entirely cured her and also helped my mother through the Change of Life."

—John Richards, one of the party of boys who occupied Judge Roby's cottage at Crooked Lake came home yesterday as he is working at the Eckhart factory and was needed. The others staid for a few days longer. The party all had a good time, and caught quite a number of fish. The Judge and Mrs Roby went up there today, with the rest of the family and will remain about two weeks.

—First Chicago papers reached here this morning on the 10.20 train Only the Inter Ocean came, and it was a small folio paper like the Auburn Dailies. It is believed that most of the other papers will be out by tomorrow. The reason for the small size is that they have refused to employ the striking stereotypers, and had not got a full force of new men yet. LATER:—All the other Chicago papers came this afternoon.

—We were greatly pleased Tuesday to receive a call from two old-time friends, J. Frank Snyder. formerly of the Lagrange Democrat, and O. L Hall a former Waterloo neighbor and business man. Both were here with the special car of the Island Park Assembly. Mr. Snyder is a minister now, when not engaged on the Assembly work, his training as a democratic editor eminently fitting him for this high service in which we are greatly pleased to say, he has succeeded. Mr. Hall has been at different points but latterly we believe has been on the road as salesman. He is now looking up a location.

HAVE CHARMED THE MUSICAL WORLD.

Henry's Opera House, Auburn, Ind.,

Tuesday Evening, July 19, 1898.

Still The Fight Goes On.

Dr. W. H. McClure, the eminent Specialist of Fort Wayne, who has made a special study of chronic diseases for the past twenty years, and has just returned from a tour through Scotland, France, Germany and England, and visited all the leading Medical institutions in order to gain more knowledge of chronic diseases. Dr. Virchow, one of the most celebrated doctors of the world said he believed that there was fully one half of the human family whose eyes were diseased by having them improperly fitted with glasses. He further says it has been demonstrated beyond a doubt that it causes a great many of the chronic diseases. I treat all chronic diseases successfully and fit the eyes to perfection. If your eyes are diseased, I will treat them successfully, fit them properly. All private diseases treated successfully. All examinations free. Office hours 8 to 12 a. m., 1 to 6 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m. I have two suits of rooms at the Hollister House, where I would be glad to see all.

Looking to the Future.

Washington Star: "Yes," said the man who had been looking at some apartments in the big building, "it's very nice. But I don't see how I can take the place." "What's the matter?" inquired the janitor. "I observe by your printed rules that you don't keep the elevator running all night. And I must say I don't like the idea of walking up and down five or six flights of stairs every time my wife wants to know whether a burglar is trying to get into the cellar."

Disappearance of American Birds.

According to statistics attained by Mr. W. H. Hornady from sportsmen and naturalists in all parts of the United States, there has been a decrease of no less than 46 per cent in the number of native birds during the last fifteen years. Among the alleged causes are killing by gunners, plume-hunting, egg-stealing, fire, and the spread of the quarrelsome English sparrows. Game and edible birds are becoming scarce, and in their stead song-birds are used for food.

Francois Coppee at Home.

Mr. Francois Coppee, the French poet and dramatist, is a bachelor, and devoted to his pet cats. A friend who visited him a few years ago avers that he found one cat in the ante-chamber of the poet's residence, two cats in the dining-room, four in the drawing-room and eight in his study.

HERO OF SANTIAGO.

FACTS ABOUT HOBSON'S LIFE AND HOME.

Brave Lieutenant Strongly Attached to His Aged Parents—Deep Religious Convictions—A Naval Enthusiast—A Proud Father and Mother.

Hobson and His Home.

The three striking characteristics in the make up of Lieut. Richmond P. Hobson, the hero of Santiago, are his deep religious convictions, his strong devotion and attachment to his parents and his intense patriotism. There are other features in the personality of the hero of the Merrimac that are of more than passing interest, but these three stand out in bold relief as the cardinal qualities of the man. When anybody springs from obscurity into fame we always like to know all about him before he became a hero. Were his parents rich or poor, where did he go to school, was he bright at books, did he pass as a good fellow among the boys and was he a favorite with the girls; all these and a thousand other things, we are anxious to know of the man who becomes a hero. The life of Lieut. Hobson ought to be of interest to everyone because it shows that to be great a man must be also good; also that steady, honest effort, backed up with plenty of zeal and enthusiasm, is bound to win. Hobson's father is a county judge residing in Greensboro, Ala. Their home is an old colonial mansion and the family is typical of the proud old Southerners. For years the now aged parents have dwelt in the old Greensboro mansion, but they cannot live there much longer unless something is done to satisfy the claims of a man who is threatening to close a mortgage on the property and turn the old couple out. But whatever sorrows may come to the parents now in their declining years, the satisfaction which comes from having given to the country such an illustrious son, will more than compensate for any financial reverses they may sustain.

Speaking of his son shortly after the exploit in Santiago bay, Judge Hobson said: "I knew that Rich would show his true colors when the opportunity was presented. Of course, my heart swells with pride for him and the homage that is paid him by the world makes me feel deeply grateful. From his earliest childhood Richmond showed an original and exceptionally strong mind. He had a head of his own, but was never stubborn or disobedient. At his books he was not what you would call a diligent student. In fact, his perception was so clear that he grasped an idea with less effort than the average person.

"He early showed an aptitude for mathematics," the judge continued, "and this afterward led him to become interested in the study of ships and their construction. When my son first entered the Naval Academy, as the result of winning an appointment through competitive examination, he at once became a naval enthusiast, and I felt convinced that he would some day, if not during my lifetime, rise to a high position. In fact, I predicted that he would become a commodore. It looks now as if my prophecy is to come true, and I pray that I will live to see it fulfilled."

THE HOBSON HOME AT GREENSBORO, ALA.

Mrs. Hobson, mother of the distinguished naval officer, could not speak of her son without tears welling in her eyes. She was at once overwhelmed with joy at the distinction he has won, and at the same time filled with anxiety and fear because of his imprisonment.

In character Lieut. Hobson seems to combine the estimable traits which his parents possess. He is courageous and honest like his father, and kind-hearted and deeply religious like his mother. Concerning his religious proclivities it is told of him that when he left home to enter the Naval Academy his mother gave him a prayer book and a Bible and told him to read them. This he did daily, and because he was not ashamed and did not hesitate to kneel by his bed at night and say his prayers, his fellows dubbed him "Parson." When he happened to have an accident that would have killed an ordinary man they revised his nickname, calling him "Parson Tough." But Hobson paid no heed and followed the injunction of his mother. It is said that he carries his little Bible and prayer book to this day.

From the Hobson family some interesting facts as to the ancestry of the daring lieutenant were learned. He comes from fighting stock. He is a direct descendant of Admiral Hobson, LIEUTENANT RICHMOND P. HOBSON.

Daring American Officer Who Commanded the Brave Crew that Sank the Merrimac in Santiago Harbor.

of the British navy, who in the 17th century first planted the English flag on the island of New Zealand. His great-grandfather, Col. John Williams, fought with Andrew Jackson against the British at New Orleans in 1815, and against the Spanish at Pensacola, and was rewarded for distinguished service by his election to the United States Senate from Tennessee. His great-great-grandfather, Maj. Joseph Williams, served in the revolutionary war, and at King's mountain and Cowpens fought bravely. These two latter were from his mother's side. His father was a gallant Confederate soldier, and was several times wounded and finally taken prisoner.

Hobson, when at home for brief periods, was fond of society, and was a graceful dancer. He was very popular with the girls. He is strikingly handsome and is the embodiment of grace and chivalry. It is told of him that he never had but one romance and it terminated disastrously to him. It is said that some years ago he fell desperately in love with an Alabama woman. At that time he was an instructor at the Naval Academy. In order that she might be near him it is related that he was instrumental in securing her a position as teacher in a school at Annapolis. But not a great while after reaching Maryland the young lady in question, who doubtless aspired to a higher position in life than that of wife to a then obscure naval officer, married another fellow.

Lieut. Hobson's devotion to duty has ever been one of his strongest traits. When attending the Southern University he never missed a meeting of his literary club, even though to attend meant to give up social pleasures. At Annapolis he became unpopular because when he was monitor he reported his classmates for breaches of discipline, thus breaking one of the traditions of the academy. This unpopularity was lived down, however, and when Hobson graduated from Annapolis he was a favorite in the class.

Transplanting Wild Flowers.

In digging the wild flowers, especially those having bulbous roots, be careful to go deep enough to get all of the roots. Leave as much soil clinging to the roots as possible, and after wrapping them in damp moss or grass, roll the plants up in paper to exclude the air. Gather a basketful of leaf mold from under the trees where no grass grows, the first inch of the ground being the best, and use this freely in making up the bed for the reception of the wild flowers. After planting them in their new quarters, water liberally and shade from the sun for a week or more. A rather shaded location should always be selected.—Woman's Home Companion.

SINKING THE MERRIMAC.

Greatest of Care Was Required in Properly Placing the Cable.

In sinking the Merrimac in the channel of Santiago de Cuba the work required a first-class naval officer who knew how to put a spring on the cable and let the current or tide carry out his wishes in regard to swinging his ship at a right angle to the channel previous to sinking her.

To put a line on a cable a line or chain is passed out of an aft chock, or port, led forward and bent on the chain attached to the anchor that is to be used.

HOW THE PLACING WAS DONE.

On letting go the anchor the cable is paid out forward and aft until enough cable has run out to hold the ship broadside to the tide. Then the cables are made fast and by paying out cable at either bow or stern, as may be required, the ship will swing by the action of the tide to any desired angle.—New York Herald.

Answers to Correspondents.

Scribbler—There is a number of so-called remedies for writer's cramp, but probably the most effective is a publisher's check.

Sylvia—We may be wrong, Sylvia, but, confidentially, between us and ourselves, we believe the best time to marry is on the 31st of February.

Young Father—No, papa, the Dingley bill will not increase the tacks on carpets. The pleasures of your midnight walks will not be interfered with.

Farmer—Our experience in fence-making has grown somewhat rusty, but we think the best way to make fence posts last is to make the fence first.

Miss Willing—The idea of a 16-year-old girl sending a "Bless-Our-Home" motto to a young man is absurd.

Jaggsley—No, there is no earthly reason why you shouldn't use a shoe horn to aid in putting on your hat, after loving a sherry cobbler not wisely but too well.

Died a Pauper.

Samuel Tetlow, who died a pauper recently in San Francisco, was one of the earlier settlers on the Pacific coast, and in the good old days of Frisco's babyhood was known as "Prince Prodigal," because of the facility with which he won and lost fortunes over the green baize. He built the old Bella Union Theater, having as a partner in its management William Skaneantlebury, whom he shot to death during a quarrel. Tetlow was sentenced to death, but "social" influence brought about his acquittal at a former trial. At one time he owned the property now known as Sutro Heights, which he sold to ex-Mayor Sutro for $30,000.

Relief for Tired Saleswomen.

Not only the saleswomen complain, but trained nurses often suffer from swollen feet, especially when they first go into hospitals. A powder which is much used in the German army for sifting into the shoes and stockings of the infantry soldiers might be of service. It consists of three parts of salicylic acid, ten parts of starch and eighty-seven parts of pulverized soapstone. This keeps the feet dry, prevents chafing and heals any sore spots. The soapstone alone, without the other ingredients, has also been found useful and soap alone will give relief when well rubbed over the sole of the stocking.

Utilizing the Pigs.

A coasting steamer was wrecked near Sydney, N. S. W. The captain tied lifelines to some pigs which formed part of the cargo. These on being thrown overboard quickly swam ashore, taking the lines with them. Communication being thus established, every person on board was rescued.

WON LAURELS AT MANILA.

But Fate Forbade that Captain Gridley Should Come Home.

Capt. Charles Vernon Gridley, who died in the Asiatic seas, presumably as a result of injuries received in the battle of Manila, was one of the heroes of the glorious battle fought on May 1. It was his ship, the Olympia, that led the line of battle and fired the first shots. The captain himself stood in the conning tower throughout the battle and Spanish missiles flew about him. It is surmised in Washington that he received some injury there which led to his death. He was in healthy condition before the fight and for several weeks afterward.

Capt. Gridley was born in Logansport, Ind., in 1845. The family moved to Hillsdale, Mich., from which State in 1860, at the age of a little over 17 years, he was appointed to the naval academy. When still a cadet at the academy he was appointed by the President as acting ensign, and served with signal distinction on board the United States ship Oneida at the famous battle of Mobile Bay in 1864. In 1872 Gridley was ordered to the United States steamer Michigan at Erie, Pa., and remained there until 1874, when he was ordered to the Monongahela, on the South Atlantic squadron. He has served at all the American foreign naval stations except the North Atlantic. He was ordered to duty as instructor in seamanship at the Naval Academy in 1877, where he remained three years, and was then ordered to the Trenton, the flagship of the European squadron, as executive officer, and served in that capacity until 1882, when he again came back to the Michigan at Erie, where he remained a short time, or until his promotion to commander, April 3, 1882. He was then ordered to the Boston navy yard, where he remained until April 3, 1887, and was then assigned to the command of the training ship Jamestown, and afterward to the command of the Portsmouth. On leaving the Portsmouth Gridley was made inspector of the Tenth Lighthouse District, which includes Lakes Erie and Ontario, and from there to the command of the Marion at the Asiatic station. When the cruise on the Marion was ended the commander was again ordered back to the Tenth Lighthouse District, where he remained until his promotion to captain, March 14, 1897. In July of last year he was ordered to the Olympia, the flagship of the Asiatic squadron. Erie is his home residence. His family consists of his widow, two daughters, Miss Katherine V. and Miss Ruth W., and one son, John P. V. Gridley.

WORLD'S BIGGEST WHEEL.

First Exhibited to the Public in Berlin by Inventor Karl Jatho.

Probably te biggest bicycle ever built was first exhibited to the public at the Sport Park Friedenau, near Berlin, by the inventor, Karl Jatho, of Hanover. The rear wheel stands over nine feet high and two seats are provided, one at each side of the large wheel. The front wheel is of the ordinary bicycle pattern, and by comparison the immense size of the larger wheel becomes evident. The inventor, Jatho, has quite a reputation as a wheelman, and is probably the best amateur fancy rider of Germany. Riding on his large wheel is not difficult as it might appear at a first glance, however. The center of gravity is placed somewhat below the axle of the large wheel, and therefore it is an easy matter to keep the wheel going steadily.

The wheel was brought into public view for the first time in a rather interesting manner. The inventor had been requested to attend the cycle corso arranged for a special occasion and promised to come with a startling feature. When he did come with his sister mounted on the novel wheel there was a general surprise; even his most intimate friends had no idea of the existence of the new conveyance, which he had built quietly in a large shed at the rear of his dwelling. The wheel has since been produced a few times at cycle festivals. It will not be possible for the occupants of the wheel to approach too near each other, for the big wheel is constantly between them, and it will certainly be more reliable than any other chaperon in keeping the proper distance while riding.

BIGGEST BICYCLE IN THE WORLD.

DRAWS A BIG SALARY.

President of Equitable Life Assurance Society Gets $100,000 a Year.

Henry B. Hyde, president of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of New York, draws the highest salary in the United States. The President of the country receives $50,000 a year for his services. Mr. Hyde is paid just double that sum annually for the work he does for the Equitable. He was born, one may say, in the insurance business. His father was the leading insurance man in New England, and the son absorbed a thorough knowledge of the business. He launched out for himself when he became the cashier of the Mutual Life of New York. He was in the employ of that company when he originated the idea of the Equitable. Hyde unfolded his scheme to President Winston of the Mutual, but the latter frowned it down, saying no man connected with the Mutual could be interested in any other company. Hyde promptly resigned and began the work of organizing the Equitable Life. It is owing to his great service that the company thinks $100,000 a year is a moderate compensation for him. It amounts to about 10 cents a year from each policy holder. He believes in insurance himself and carries about $200,000 on his life. He wastes no time, so far as his company goes. He thinks his pay warrants him in giving all his time in return, and this he does. He is very quiet in his tastes and is not very widely known in New York, so far as personal acquaintance is concerned.

HENRY B. HYDE.

LOOKING INTO A CANNON.

View Through the Muzzle of a 12 Inch Gun Which Is Forty Feet Long.

Did you ever look into the muzzle of a seventy-two-ton cannon? If not, here is your opportunity. Of course, the picture here shown can give no definite realization of the wonder and terror that come over you when you thrust your face into the gaping mouth of one of these steel monsters and look through it a distance of forty feet to the open breech. You can get a fair idea of the damage such a big gun can wreak, although you can't begin to imagine the shock and heat and noise which the discharge of such a gun creates.

This cannon has a recoiling force of 225 tons. The projectile leaves it with a velocity of 2,100 feet per second or 1,400 miles per hour. The force imparted to the projectile or cartridge, if properly applied, would lift a battleship bodily three feet in the air, and yet this great machine of death and destruction, weighing 145,000 pounds, is as accurate as a high-grade watch.

RAPID-FIRE GUNS.

What Distinguishes Them from the Slow-Fire Cannon.

Rapid fire guns are just now much talked about, but most people have only a vague idea of what they are. Probably the general idea is based on the Gatling gun. People who take the Gatling gun as a type of "rapid fire" suppose that all guns called by that name are merely machines for showering rifle balls. But this is a complete mistake. There are rapid fire guns with a diameter of six inches that throw shells weighing 100 pounds. The Engineering News explains the matter as follows:

The essential difference is in the method of loading. Instead of opening the breech and inserting the projectile and the powder separately, the latter is in a bunting bag, ammunition for rapid fire guns is now prepared as for small arms, the ball, powder and firing primer are united, the powder in a metallic case atached to the shot, and the primer in the center of the base of this case. There are a number of types of rapid fire guns, differing in the way this fixed ammunition is fed to the gun and fired. The six-pounder (2.24-inch caliber) rapid fire guns of the Hotchkiss, Driggs-Schroeder, Maxim, Nordenfeldt and Sponsel types can discharge 100 shots in 4 minutes 26 seconds, 4 minutes 35½ seconds, 4 minutes 41 seconds and 4 minutes 56½ seconds, respectively, or twenty to tweny-five shots per minute, with accuracy of aim. Without attempt at accuracy of aim the rate can be increased to thirty to thirty-five shots per minute. With five-inch rapid fire guns, or fifty-pounders, thirty-six shots have been fired in five minutes.

THE WHEEL IN WAR.

The bicycle as an aid in war is a much discussed subject. Here it is shown as used by the British soldier in carrying the wounded off the field. Every year a royal military tournament is held in London, and at the one held recently this ambulance was a feature. Four bicycles are used to each litter, one at each corner, but only two riders are required. Whether or not this idea would be of any use in Cuba with its sandy soil is a question.

POLITICS OF THE DAY

THE CHICAGO PLATFORM.

The Chicago platform forced to the front in this country a question which can never be forced into the background until it is settled. That is, whether the control of the currency, and of trade depending on it, shall be exercised by the people or by corporations, by the Government under just laws, or by alien plutocracy in alliance with our trusts and syndicated corporations. No single question in politics could be of more fundamental importance than this, but the issues raised by the platform itself are far broader, deeper and stronger than any question of the control of the currency can be. The platform is a stand for popular government, for civil liberty, for home rule, for true Americanism and all it represents, against coercive government and all it means. Shall we maintain the government of the fathers of the Constitutional Union of Washington and Jefferson, or, rejecting it, shall we accept the imperialism of Russia and of England? The plutocracy of London and Wall street, against whose domination in America the Chicago platform was adopted in protest, is the determined foe of democracy and of republican institutions. To recede from the platform would be to surrender the future of America to the enemies of American liberty and sovereignty. Democrats will never do it. They are ready to do for this new declaration of Americanism all that the Americans of 1776 did to give validity to the Declaration of Independence.

Japan's Gold Experiment.

While Republicans are trying to make the people of the United States believe that the gold standard is a good thing, Japan is learning a lesson of distress through adopting the creed of gold. Industrial conditions in the Flowery Kingdom have passed from bad to worse, and the year 1897 was marked by the greatest depression in manufacturing circles. In his report on Japan's industrial condition A. H. Hay, of the British legation at Tokio, says: "The cotton-spinning industry, on which such great hopes were based, has already suffered severely. At the end of the year many of the mills were financially in a precarious condition, and several small concerns in a state of bankruptcy." In commenting on this report the London Financial News remarks: "These are the mills whose prosperity not many months ago we were able to cite as indicating how comfortably a silver using country could compete with Lancashire. In the early part of last year the Japanese spinners were doing uncommonly well, and the belief that all the surplus yarn would find a ready market in China was being realized. The year's exports of yarn to China reached 40,366,389 pounds, against only 15,256,116 pounds in 1896. The future seemed roseate, but, in Mr. Lay's words, 'the adoption of a gold standard in October, together with the fall in silver and the enhanced cost of labor and fuel, doomed these expectations to disappointment.' Here we have cause and effect set alongside in a way that should impress the Indian Government, if it can for a moment emerge from its own narrow preoccupations so far as to look on currency and exchange as factors influencing the whole life and prosperity of a country, and not merely the settlement of a foreign debt charge." Japan is paying dearly for its desire to imitate the "most civilized nations" and placing itself on a gold standard. Foreign trade has fallen off, manufacturing has declined, and just at present a panic is threatening the country. Truly the gold standard is a good thing—to let alone.—Chicago Dispatch.

No More Sam-Randallism.

The letter in which Hon. William J. Stone, of Missouri, advised the eviction of Harrity, the Pennsylvania goldbug, from the Democratic National Committee, is a landmark in the history we are making as a country. For year after year, Samuel J. Randall, who was put to the front by the same element which put Harrity forward, prevented the Democratic party from acting on the tariff issue. Those who thought they could do with Harrity what they did with Randall, see now that they are dealing with new conditions and with different men.

In writing to Chairman Jones, Gov. Stone says that "many of the so-called gold Democrats in the party are in a state of mutiny, and are more disposed to co-operate with the Palmer-Buckner contingent, to undo what was accomplished at Chicago, than they are to co-operate with the true Democracy in upholding it." This is the vital point. It is so vital that had there been any other action than that actually taken; had the committee compromised with Harrity and thus opened the way for the Palmer-Buckner element to control the Democratic party, there would have been no party left. Now the party will trample down obstructionists and drive out traitors. There will be no weakening anywhere—least of all at Springfield, when Missouri Democrats meet to decide between the Chicago platform and its enemies.

Friend of Anglo-American Alliance.

It must be evident to all that the Republican party is wholly responsible for all that has so far been done in the way of an Anglo-American alliance so distasteful to the people of the country. As this same question is inseparable from the great financial issue, it is not strange to see the gold standard advocates willing to seal the culmination of their infamous policy by an alliance with the nation responsible for the whole monometallic system that is now cursing all mankind. In the campaign of 1896 we tried to make it plain that the Republican party was being aided by British money, and that if the Republican candidates were elected Great Britain would be prompt in collecting the indebtedness. We all know that ever since the day that McKinley took his seat British influences have been dominant at Washington. So the Republican party has sought to favor an alliance with our traditional foe. This is a glorious day for Democracy. The people more clearly understand the position of the Republican party. It has succumbed to the influence of the British gold. Its candidates of 1900 will have to face the American people on the record now being made.

No Compromise with Gold.

There should be no compromise made by Democrats which will place a gold advocate on a Democratic ticket. Approval of the gold standard is the main doctrine of the Republican faith and it is not good politics, nor is it good sense, for Democrats to help elect Republicans to office. Gold Democrats are assistant Republicans. They have no right to ask a true Democrat for his vote. They have no claim upon the suffrage of the Democratic party. If they want office they should ask it of their allies, the Republicans, and not the party they deserted in the time of need. Loyalty to silver is the test of Democracy. On the issue as to a currency based on gold and silver and a currency based on the money of the constitution the campaign of 1896 was fought. Over six and a half million votes were cast by Democrats in favor of bimetallism. As the Democrats fought in 1896 so will they fight in 1898. Only Democrats should be named on Democratic tickets, and men who defended the gold standard are not Democrats. Let there be no mistake about that. Keep gold Democrats off the tickets.—Chicago Dispatch.

Democrats Are Loyal.

Patriotism is characteristic of Democracy. Through the patriotism of the Democratic members of Congress all partisan advantages were ignored when the discussion of war measures was first begun at the capitol. The patriotic attitude has not been changed, although Republicans have constantly used war as a means by which to advance their party interests. In the platform adopted by the Democrats at the Indiana State convention the loyalty of the Democratic party to the country was confirmed and its support pledged to the Government in the war with Spain. All effort of Republicans to place the Democratic party in the opposition will fail. As a matter of fact the Democrats were the earliest and strongest advocates of war, and their views on this subject have suffered no reversal. When the Indiana convention approves the war and rejoices in the heroic deeds of Dewey and Hobson it echoes the sentiments of every Democrat in the land, and its action meets with hearty approval from Democrats everywhere.

Hanna's Friends.

"A man who charges the government three prices for something the government needs and must have," says the Baltimore American, "can hardly expect to have his name put down on the roll of American patriots." Perhaps not, but he will not be lonesome, all the same. There are nearly as many of him probably on the pay roll as there are of patriots on the army roll.—Charleston News and Courier.

Galling to the Germans.

We have always told the Germans that the narow Republican party has no use for the Germans except on election days. Every Republican paper from Maine to California is now falsely and maliciously making the statement that the German people are against us in this war. This must be galling to the Germans who have always supported the Republican party.—Exchange.

Makes the "Grafter" Envious.

Perhaps some of the imperialists have noted the item that during the four years that General Weyler was Governor General of the Philippines at a salary of $40,000 a year, he was able to add to his private bank account over $1,000,000.—Manchester (N. H.) Union.

Political Notes.

Why not whip Spain out of Havana and be done with it? What is the use of all this fooling?

We might have whipped Spain in six weeks if Hanna had been permitted by J. Pierpont Morgan.

If Hanna was half as anxious to take Havana as he has been to force a bond deal, Spain would surrender at once.

Republicans who voted for McKinley on his pledge to enforce the law against the trusts must be getting anxious by this time to see him begin.

When Hanna claims that he was indorsed by Oregon he forgets to add that he did not ask Oregon to wait for details of his bond grab before voting.

The more gold there is in the treasury, under the McKinley policy, the more money we have to borrow at interest to keep treasury gold out of circulation.

What has become of the man who said McKinley would finish poor old Spain in six weeks, bond deal or no bond deal? Has he pulled the hole in after him?

Remember the McKinley administration, which is now taking $200,000,000 out of business for bonds, has another $200,000,000 locked up in the treasury to make the bonds necessary.

Cuba must be freed—first from Spanish robbers, and then from the thieves of the sugar trust, who wish to subvert the Cuban republic and set up a carpet-bagging government of their own.

When the bond-grabbing banks take snuff the Hanna administration will sneeze. And thereupon the army and navy will be allowed to take Havana and end the war.

The people who are getting gold standard prices for cotton are not competing very strongly against the Rothschilds' syndicate for Mr. McKinley's gold basis bonds.

The tax imposed on options in the bond issue bill is offset by an equal tax on all sales of cash wheat, thus making the whole tax one on handling grain, to be deducted by the handlers from the profits of the producers. Instead of being a tax on gambling by the Leiters, it made a tax on production by the farmers.

Only Thirty and Gray

How is this?

A GUARDSMAN'S TROUBLE.

From the Detroit (Mich.) Journal.

The promptness with which the National Guard of the different States responded to President McKinley's call for troops at the beginning of the war with Spain made the whole country proud of its citizen soldiers. In Detroit there are few guardsmen more popular and efficient than Max R. Davies, first sergeant of Co. B. He has been a resident of Detroit for the past six years, and his home is at 416 Third avenue. For four years he was connected with the well-known wholesale drug house of Farrand, Williams & Clark, in the capacity of bookkeeper.

The First Sergeant.

"I have charged up many thousand orders for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," said Mr. Davies, "but never knew their worth until I used them for the cure of chronic dyspepsia. For two years I suffered and doctored for that aggravating trouble, but could only be helped temporarily.

"I think dyspepsia is one of the most stubborn of ailments, and there is scarcely a clerk or office man but what is more or less a victim. Some days I could eat anything, while at other times I would be starving. Those distressing pains would force me to quit work.

"I tried the hot-water treatment thoroughly, but it did not affect my case. I have tried many advertised remedies, but they would help only for a time. A friend of mine recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, but I did not think much of them.

"I finally was induced to try the pills and commenced using them. After taking a few doses I found much relief. I do not remember how many boxes of the pills I used, but I used them until the old trouble stopped. I know they will cure dyspepsia of the worst form and I am pleased to recommend them."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent post paid on receipt of price, 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

A Beautiful Present

FREE for a few months to all users of the celebrated ELASTIC STARCH, (Flat Iron Brand). To induce you to try this brand of starch, so that you may find out for yourself that all claims for its superiority and economy are true, the makers have had prepared, at great expense, a series of four exact reproductions of the $10,000 originals by Muville, which will be given you ABSOLUTELY FREE by your grocer on conditions named below. These Plaques are 40 inches in circumference, are free of any suggestion of advertising whatever, and will ornament the most elegant apartment. No manufacturing concern ever before gave away such valuable presents to its customers. They are not for sale at any price, and can be obtained only in the manner specified. The subjects are:

American Wild Ducks, American Pheasant, English Quail, English Snipe.

The birds are handsomely embossed and stand out natural as life. Each Plaque is bordered with a band of gold.

ELASTIC STARCH

has been the standard for 25 years.

TWENTY-TWO MILLION packages of this brand were sold last year. That's how good it is.

ASK YOUR DEALER to show you the plaques and tell you about Elastic Starch. Accept no substitute.

How To Get Them:

All purchasers of three 10 cent or six 5 cent packages of Elastic Starch (Flat Iron Brand), are entitled to receive from their grocer one of these beautiful Game Plaques free. The plaques will not be sent by mail. They can be obtained only from your grocer.

Every Grocer Keeps Elastic Starch.

Do not delay. This offer is for a short time only.

The conference report on the bankruptcy bill was reported to Congress Friday afternoon and was immediately agreed to in the Senate. The bill as agreed to is a compromise between the provisions of the bills passed by the Senate and House respectively. The Senate bill was known as the Nelson bill and that of the House as the Henderson bill. The latter was far more liberal to the debtor than the former. The compromise leans to the House side of the question. The Hawaiian annexation resolutions were under discussion in the Senate. The speakers were Mr. McEnery (Dem., La.), who concluded his address begun on Thursday, and Mr. Turley (Dem., Tenn.), who presented a constitutional argument against the resolutions.

Filibustering tactics were begun in the Senate Saturday afternoon on the Hawaiian resolution. Senator Morgan took to task the men who were defying public sentiment, and, as he said, misrepresenting their constituents and embarrassing the President. As a result Senator White made an insinuation that may result in a settlement outside of the Senate chamber. Mr. White said that Morgan's statements proceeded from "corruption or imbecility," and the latter intimated that he would require a personal explanation. The conference report on the sundry civil bill was presented. A long discussion followed on the proposition of the conference committee that the Senate recede from its amendment suspending President Cleveland's forest reservation order and restoring to the public domain for homestead entry the lands embraced therein. Finally the conference report (partial) was agreed to and a further conference ordered. The House was not in session.

Consideration of the Hawaiian annexation resolutions was resumed on Monday, and during the session Mr. Clay (Dem.) of Georgia, Mr. Roach (Dem.) of North Dakota, and Mr. Caffery (Dem.) of Louisiana, addressed the Senate in opposition to them. Mr. Caffery had not concluded his speech when the Senate adjourned. The House devoted the day's session to consideration of legislation affecting the District of Columbia. The messages of the President relative to Naval Constructor Hobson, the Hudson officers and crew at Cardenas and Capt. Hodgson, of the Hugh McCullough, at Manila, were not read until late. Few members were present, and the reading was not marked by any demonstration.

In the House on Tuesday the conference report upon the bankruptcy bill was adopted by a vote of 134 to 53. When the bankruptcy bill was disposed of Mr. Mahon (Rep., Pa.) asked unanimous consent for disagreement to the Senate amendments to the war claims or "omnibus" bill, and for granting the request of the Senate for a conference. Consent was given and the chair appointed as conferees Messrs. Mahon, Otjen and Richardson. Several bills affecting the army were passed, notably being those providing for the pay of volunteers from the date of enrollment for service, and providing for increases in the ordnance, engineer and quartermaster's departments. Almost the entire session of the Senate was occupied by Mr. Caffery (Dem., La.) in a continuation of his speech against the annexation of Hawaii. At 4 o'clock he had not concluded, but yielded the floor in order that the general deficiency bill might be considered. The bill was read and the committee amendments, so far as they have been offered, were agreed to.

A precedent that will be historic was established by the Senate at its session on Wednesday. For probably the first time in the history of the Senate a resolution was adopted tendering the thanks of Congress to common seamen, specifically naming them in the resolution. The resolutions recommended by the President were adopted, tendering the thanks of Congress to Naval Constructor Hobson and the other heroes of the Merrimac, and to Lieut. Frank H. Newcomb, commander of the revenue cutter Hudson, for his gallant rescue of the Winslow and her crew off Cardenas; and retiring on full pay Capt. Hodgson of the McCulloch for distinguished services at Manila. Consideration of the general deficiency bill was concluded and the measure was passed. An amendment of great importance was attached to the bill, practically by general consent. It relates to the settlement of claims of the Government against the Pacific railroads. The bill as passed carries about $227,000,000, the largest sum carried by any appropriation measure since the civil war. After the passage of the deficiency bill consideration of the Hawaiian annexation resolutions was resumed. The House after sending the Indian and sundry civil bills back to conference, consideration of bills from the Military Affairs Committee, under the rule adopted on Tuesday, proceeded. Notable among the measures passed were those providing for the enlistment of cooks in the army, providing for the appointment of military storekeepers for the army, providing for the protection of harbor defenses and fortifications against wanton and malicious injury, and giving the Secretary of War discretion to permit any church or religious sect to erect its house of worship upon the West Point military reservation.

This and That.

Never despair; but if you do, work on in despair.—Burke.

The shortest way to do many things is to do only one thing at a time.—Cecil.

A miser grows rich by seeming poor; an extravagant man grows poor by seeming rich.—Shenstone.

The greatest sea depth known to man is in the South Atlantic Ocean, midway between the island of Tristan da Cunha and the mouth of the Rio de la Plata, the bottom being here reached at a depth of 40,236 feet, or eight and three-quarters miles.

The most wonderful bridge in the world is one of solid agate in Arizona. It is a petrified tree, from three to four feet in diameter, spanning a chasm forty feet wide. More than 100 feet of its length is in sight, both ends being imbedded in the sandstone of the canyon.

A silk factory in which only women are employed has been opened in a suburb of London.

Referring to a paragraph about a beech tree twelve feet in height growing on the tower of an English church, the Albany Argus says: "One doesn't have to cross the ocean to see this more than duplicated. Growing out from the wall in one of the towers of a stone building in Genesee street, Utica, opposite the Butterfield House, the traveler may see another tree, which has reached a growth of about twenty-five feet."

SIGHTS OF VERSAILLES.

The Palace and Park Visited by Thousands Annually.

Out of the hundreds of thousands who visit Paris to see the sights it is safe to say that very few omit a visit to the hamlet of Marie Antoinette, in the grounds of the Little Trianon. The great palace and park of Versailles, that cost Louis XIV. such a large sum, the galleries hung with the masterpieces of David, Gerard, Delacroix, Ary Scheffer, Vernot and Delaroche; the richly furnished Grand Trianon built for Mme. De Maintenon, and the tasteful Petit Trianon, all fall in simple human interest before the group of thatched huts, where King Louis pretended he was a miller and Marie Antoinette churned and set her court ladies making cheese.

Some have declared the place seemed ill-kept, but a careful observer will see that the walks and lawns are almost too well swept to permit the illusion that the picturesque cottages are inhabited. The stillness is nearly oppressive, for even on the days when hundreds of visitors crowd the garden, the want of life and household noise in the little huts themselves stamps desertion upon the spot.

The Temple of Love, built of white marble, after the Greek style, has not suffered from the touch of time. It stands on a little island in an artificial stream and modern lovers may pose on its steps when the rustic bridges by which it is reached are open to the public. Altogether the hamlet is charming, a most fascinating spot in which to wander, and after being rushed through the Grand and Petit Trianon by the energetic guides it is a relief to find a place where one may linger indefinitely.

The "chateau" of this village has been supplied with a fresh thatch and could not have looked more picturesque when it was the background for dainty ladies dancing on the green in Watteau milkmaid and shepherdess costumes.

The Revelers.

Have you heard of the revels in Anna's eyes,
That last till her eyelids fall?
How one bright throng with another vies
In holding a brilliant ball?

The twinkles come from a myriad stars
As soon as her eyelids rise,
And all day long to inaudible bars
The little lights dance in her eyes;

And when in the evening she seeks her bed
And closes her fair blue eyes,
The lights speed home, and far over her head
They dance all night in the skies.

The Llama as a Marksman.

The llama of South America is an expert marksman, though it never uses its craft in the procurement of its food. Only when annoyed and angry does it give an exhibition of its wonderful skill in hitting the object aimed at. The llama's weapon is its mouth; its bullet is composed of saliva and chewed hay.

Blood-Cleaning.

House-cleaning is a duty in every well-regulated household. People don't wait until the filth becomes painfully apparent, but it stands to reason that in every day use more or less dust or dirt accumulate. It is so with the human blood. From the enormous variety of eatables taken into the stomach, a quantity of useless material is bound to accumulate in the blood and clog the free and wholesome flow in the vessels. Every person should from time to time have a "blood-cleaning" and the best cleanser and blood purifier is Cascarets Candy Cathartic. We recommend them to all our readers.

His Example.

Teacher—Give an example of going from the sublime to the ridiculous.

Inconveniences of War.

We can get along without most things hitherto imported from Spain, but we shall miss her corks. We have corks from Spain to the value of $130,659 a year. Sounds convivial, doesn't it? Wines make a pretty showing, there being any number of vintages, with sherry and malaga, of course, leading. Olive oil, too, in every sort of bottle. Licorice is the star importation. We seem to be insatiate licorice consumers. There are nuts, too, almonds and hazel nuts, macaroni, corn and sardines. We can worry along without these things, however—it's only the corks that will bother us, for a time, at least.

SINGULAR STATEMENT.

From Mrs. Rank to Mrs. Pinkham.

The following letter to Mrs. Pinkham from Mrs. M. RANK, No. 2,354 East Susquehanna Ave., Philadelphia, Pa., is a remarkable statement of relief from utter discouragement. She says:

"I never can find words with which to thank you for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me.

"Some years ago I had womb trouble and doctored for a long time, not seeing any improvement. At times I would feel well enough, and other times was miserable. So it went on until last October, I felt something terrible creeping over me, I knew not what, but kept getting worse. I can hardly explain my feelings at that time. I was so depressed in spirits that I did not wish to live, although I had everything to live for. Had hysteria, was very nervous; could not sleep and was not safe to be left alone.

"Indeed, I thought I would lose my mind. No one knows what I endured.

"I continued this way until the last of February, when I saw in a paper a testimonial of a lady whose case was similar to mine, and who had been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I determined to try it, and felt better after the first dose. I continued taking it, and to-day am a well woman, and can say from my heart, 'Thank God for such a medicine.'"

Mrs. Pinkham invites all suffering women to write to her at Lynn, Mass., for advice. All such letters are seen and answered by women only.

Does Baby Thrive?

If your baby is delicate and sickly and its food does not nourish it, put fifteen or twenty drops of Scott's Emulsion in its bottle three or four times a day and you will see a marked change.

We have had abundant proof that they will thrive on this emulsion when other food fails to nourish them.

It is the same with larger children that are delicate. Scott's Emulsion seems to be the element lacking in their food. Do not fail to try it if your children do not thrive. It is as useful for them in summer as in winter.

Ask your doctor if this is not true.

Brothers in Jail

(Avilla News)

Frank and William Kemery, two brothers who hail from DeKalb county, are in jail at Albion because they are unable to give bonds for their appearance at the October term of the Noble circuit court. Their trouble dates from last April, when they had an altercation with A. Nelson, the G. R. & I. foreman at LaOtto. The fracas occured on the depot platform at LaOtto, and Frank Kemrey drew a revolver and attemped to shoot Nelson. The lattes defended himself with a knife, and William Kemrey was quite badly used up. The last grand jury found an indictment against the Kemreys—Frank being charged with assault and battery and intent to commit murder, and William will answer a charge of simple assault and battery. Frank is unmarried and lived at St. Johns. He was arrested nearly two weeks ago by Sheriff Simon and is under $1,500 bonds. William has a wife and three children at Altona where he was gobbled up by the sheriff last Saturday. He is under $500 bonds.

MODERN HOLDUP

Elkhart Review

Two well know young men, who request that their names be withheld, were the object of an attempted holdup at the Yellow Creek bridge, south of town, about 12 o'clock last night. They were wheeling home from Goshen and unawares struck fence rails that had been placed across the path. They were thrown from their machines, and were getting up when they discovered two men bearing down on them with felonious intent. They redoubled their efforts, mounted with all haste, and speeded out of reach of the would-be-robbers."

WITHOUT A DOUBT.

Unquestionable Proof that Effect of LaGrippe is Cured by

Dr. WHEELER'S NERVE VITALIZER

The number of physical wrecks resulting from the La Grippe is truly alarming. The peculiarity of the disease asserts itself after the attack, by becoming seated in some of the nerve centers, usually the brain. The many remedies and methods of treatment by physicians have little if any benefit. Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer has proven to be a specific, it cures every case. A recent instance coming to our notice, is that of Joseph Lee, Entrican, Mich., who writes the following under date of Oct. 31st.

"I was prostrated from the effects of La Grippe; during the first six months I was treated constantly by two physicians without benefit. I then changed and was treated by another during the six months following with same result. I continued to grow worse until I could not sleep day or night; my mind was harassed by evil thoughts—I was frantic. In this condition I commenced using Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer; after taking one bottle I felt much better; I took two more and was restored to health. I heartily endorse Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer; for all forms of nervous disease." Signed Joseph Lee. Nerves are alike in all, you can be cured as Mr. Lee was.

If you have not fully recovered from La Grippe use this valuable medicine at once. Your case is the same as thousands of others cured by it. It cures every case.

THE DENVER MEETING

DENVER, COLORADO, June 27, 1896.

DEAR HUSBAND:—I suppose you wonder why I have not written oftener, but if you were here you would not wonder. Every hour is taken up with something of interest. When the convention is not in session, the city has some excursion, or some organization has a reception, so the time is so fully taken that we have scarcely any left to eat and sleep.

We are both well and enjoying it to the fullest extent. We walk eight blocks, long ones too, six times a day, eat heartily and sleep well. The days are warm when in the sun, but there is a delightful breeze all the time coming from off the snow clad mountains, which we can see very plainly from our room. We have a very pleasant room, large and airy, with a very congenial company of guests. We have delegates here from Illinois, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan and New Jersey. This morning we have been discussing the election of a new president which takes place this forenoon, and which promises to be a very exciting session. The corridors of the hotels and the opera house, where the sessions are held have for the last few days been filled with lobbyists, interviewing the delegates as to their individual preference or button holing us as to the state. This is a sample, "I see you are from Indiana" (we have a state badge as well as the biennial badge) How does your delegation feel toward our candidate? Can't you do something for her? We feel that Indiana ought to do something for her," and so on, following with very good reasons as to executive ability, good of the federation, location, etc.

I think Indiana women will make good politians when they have a chance, for when approached, as I have described, we smile our sweetest, and our chairman says very politely, "Thank you, we still take the matter under consideration," The lady goes away only to be followed by another who meets the same sweet smile and the same answer. It is all delightfully amusing to Mrs. Swineford and myself and we are enjoying it to the fullest extent. The Indiana delegation is very nicely located being in the front row in the center of the first gallery directly facing the president. We can see and hear everything. Our delegation has been complimented on always being present and remaining in their seats until the close of the session. So you see we are doing our share to reflect credit to our state. Mrs Swineford and I have only been absent one session, Saturday evening. We were so tired when get home from the trip to Idaho Springs, and Silver Plume that we could not go. However it was not an important session.

I do not know how I can ever describe the delightful trip to Silver Plume and return. It is over one hundred miles there and back, up Grand Canon to the foot of Gray's Peak. It is simply grand. We followed the banks of Clear Creek, sometimes on one side sometimes on the other, with great walls of solid rock on both sides of us and the roaring, rushing stream by our side. The side, of the mountains in some places were so high that we could only see the top by looking directly upward and there in the narrow streak of blue sky, we could see the moon. Idaho Springs is about halfway between Denver and Silver Plume, and the four women's clubs at that place gave the delegates a luncheon which was not only delicious but abundant. They seated 300 at a time, and had over four times full, so fed over 1200 ladies, only delegates having tickets. Well I must close now for we want to be on time and in our seats, to vote for the winning ticket, whichever that may be. It already reminds me very much of the Chicago convention at which W. J. Bryan was nominated. Mrs. Bryan is here as a delegate.

The convention closes with this evening's session. Tomorrow we go to Colorado Springs and Manitou. Wednesday I expect to start for Omaha.

With much love to all, I am

Yours as ever,

ALLICIA H. BARNS.

Bankers Puzzled

Mr. Garwood, cashier of the First National Bank says that at the meeting here of the bankers of the county on Wednesday, they found a very perplexing condition of thing confronting them. The new law levying war taxes, in the form of revenue stamps is a puzzler. Of course, we don't mean to say they cannot understand it but because of a lack of the stamps, they cannot obey its requirements. The law was made to go into effect so soon that there appears not to have been time enough to get the stamps ready. Unless a stock is received today, the bankers are wholly without stamps of that kind, and postage stamps will not do. But business will have to go right on just the same and if government does not like it, they must furnish the stamps. It is rather a nuisance, this stamp business any way, and it does not generally produce such a great amount of revenue after all.

Surprised The Pastor.

Some of the young people of the M. E, church sprung quite a surprise on Rev. Guild last evening. While he was up town quite a number met at the parsonage and when he returned they reminded him that it was his 44th birthday by putting him under the bed. The evening was spent in a social time and at a late hour refreshments were served. The young people always enjoy themseles at Rev. and Mrs. Guild's and they all wish there would be a birthday every week at the parsonage.

To Whom It May Concern.

AUBURN, IND., June 29th, 1896.

At a meeting of the representatives of the banks, of DeKalb county, Indiana, held at Auburn, Ind., on June 29th, 1896, the following action was taken relative to the operation of the New War Taxes relating to Banks and Bankers, to wit:

RESOLVED, First.—That the Revenue Stamp ordered by law to be affixed to each check, be so affixed, cancelled and paid for by the drawer of said check, before payment will be made thereon.

Second.—That a uniform charge on drafts drawn by said banks, be made as follows:

On $5.00 or less ..... 5 cents,
From $5.00 to $30.00 ..... 10 cents,
From $30.00 to $75.00 ..... 15 cents,
From $75.00 to $100.00 ..... 20 cents,

the stamps thereon to be furnished by the bank issuing such draft.

Third.—That upon all notes when the discount will amount to $1.00 or over, the stamp tax be paid by the borrower.

Fourth.—That upon all certificates of deposit the stamp tax thereon will be advanced by the bank issuing the same, said amount of tax to be deducted by said bank from the amount of such certificate if paid within ninety days from the issue thereof, said condition to be stamped upon the face of such certificate.

ST. JOE.

[The following was received too late for the weekly issue of June 30.]

Mr. Hida and wife, of Hicksville, visited with their son-in-law, Jack Dickerhoof, over Sunday.

Geo. Rex, of Newville, came down on Tuesday and took his daughter, Mrs Will DeLong, home with him.

Rev. Dunlap, pastor of the Lutheran church, and wife, returned from their vacation, Tuesday.

J. P. Bonnell, of Waterloo, made us a pleasant call Wednesday. He is out in the interest of life insurance.

Will Curle and staff of machine men are very busy these days.

The K. of P.'s of Butler, were at St. Joe, last Sunday, to assist our home Knights in their memorial services.

Dale, the eldest son of Clyde Woodcox, was visiting over sunday with his grand parents.

The Christian Endeavor society of the Lutheran church, will have an entertainment at their church, July 8.

A letter from B. A. Woodcox, at St. Louis sanitarium, says that he is somewhat improved since going there.

Mrs. B. A. Woodcox, went to St. Louis, Mich., last Monday, to remain with B. A. until his recovery.

G. W. Woodcox returned from the above place last Friday, where he had been attending his brother for one week. G. W. gives a glowing description of the curative qualities of the springs located at that place. He does not say that cemeteries are unknown there, but as far as he saw there were none at St. Louis. The sanitarium is presided over by the owner, W. P. Andrews and wife who look after the sick and see that patients have their proper baths and attendance. The hotel connected with the sanitarium is under the immediate supervision of James, or as he is known here, Jim Stafford, and a more genial and clever host and without him there would be something wanting. Among others besides Jim that we met there were Mrs. Randall Faurot, formerly of Newville, Ed Coburn and wife, of Coburntown, and W. E Altenberg, of Auburn.

PE-RU-NA'S VICTORY.

Dr. S. B. Hartman, Columbus, O.

DEAR SIR:—I feel like a new woman since using your Pe-ru-na.

Your medicine has helped me so much that I can work and never feel tired out. When I first began to use your medicine I couldn't sweep my own room, run the sewing machine or lift anything, not even a chair. It even hurt me to ride or walk any distance. Now I can do all this, and I believe more, and never feel the effects of it. I feel so proud of the way it has brought me out that I tell it far and near. I can heartily recommend your medicine to any woman suffering from female disease. I know from experience that your medicine will do just what you say it will. I thank you, Doctor, a thousand times for your treatment. I shall recommend your medicine wherever I go. I know what it has done for me and I know it will do the same for others. I feel that there are thousands of other women who would, after using your treatment, as I did, be thankful. I am so glad I got your treatment. This month is the first time in my life that I can remember of having my menses without pain. Why, I can't do anything but recommend Pe-ru-na.—Miss Emma L. Bolden, Wilberforce, O.

The Pe-ru-na Medicine Co., Columbus, O., will mail Dr. Hartman's special book for women, free on application, to women only. All druggists sell Pe-ru-na.

There Are Others.

The following is from a letter in the Ligonier Banner and is from a soldier at Camp Thomas, Chickamauga Park:

Our regiment is known in war circles as "The President's Own." Col. Day, commanding, is a brother of the secretary at Washington; our ranking major is Webb C. Hays, son of the dead president, and in fact all our commissioned officers, excepting Major Hayes, are old army officers and are men very close to the administration; hence, our non de plume. As volunteers we were the first regiment to be mustered into the United States service, the first volunteer regiment to be sent to Chickamauga, and the only regiment in the army equipped with the new Krag-Jorgenson carbines. Just now we are in the midst of hurried preparations for our removal to Tampa next Tuesday. At the "non-commission" school this afternoon the colonel stated that we would be hurried to Porto Rico within ten days, which is exceedingly good news to all the boys as every mother's son of us is spoiling for a chance to fight the Dons.

A GREAT DEAL

of unnecessary expenditure of time and money may be saved if you will only keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in the house. Nine-tenths of all ordinary sickness is from the stomach; keep that organ in proper condition and all will be well. Syrup Pepsin is a specific. Trial size bottles 10c, large sizes 50c and $1.00, of F. E. Davenport.

Agreed with Her

Soon after the war began, the matron of the orpnan's county home near Fort Wayne, gave the boys a talk on patriotism. She told them how wicked it was not to love one's country, and that all traitors ought to be punished. One lad suggested that traitors should be choked. Another said they should hanged. The matron thoughtlessly agreed in this, and soon forgot the matter. But the boys remembered it. A few days ago, one of the lads cheered for Spain, when his fellows caught him, put a rope about his neck and strung him up. But they had forgotten to tie his hands. So he caught the rope with his hands and held himself up, and kicked and yelled till help came and released him. And the boys begin to think the matron was not sincere in her talk on patriotism.

Thursday's Daily.

—Adam Heltz of New Era was here today, and made the COURIER a call.

—We have some good second hand Binders for sale, cheap. Culbertson & Boland. 19tf.

—Miss Dot Gibson of Angola is in town, the guest of relatives and friends.

—Milo Thomas, the Corunna hardware man was in town yesterday on business.

—Mrs. Os Allen and son Frank, of Hicksville, are here to attend the funeral of Harry Lewis.

—Charles Kelley, F. N. Beidler and Frank Fisher of Waterloo were here today on business matters.

—Wilson Trout a former Waterloo boy, is here visiting his brother Gene. His home in in New York City though he has recently spent some time in Denver for the benefit of his health.

—W. J. Frederick of Garrett was in town this forenoon and remembered this office in a brief visit. He has not yet located, but is in Evanston temporarly for the purpose of educating his children.

—The residence of Hon. A. A. Adams of Columbia City was burglarized one night this week. It is supposed a good deal of valuables were taken. The family were absent. Several other houses were entered the same night.

—Win your battles against disease by acting promptly. One Minute Cough Cure produces immediate results When taken early it prevents consumption. And in later stages it furnishes prompt relief. H. B. McCord.

—We are told that it is Dice who has been beating and abusing his wife for some time He seems to take every possible way to aggravate her, at all times. If he does half the things the neighbors say he does, he is a brute of the most aggravating kind.

—We have received from Hon. J. M. Robinson, Vol., Seven of the "Messages and Papers of the Presidents," a very desirable book, bringing, with the preceding numbers, these important state papers from 1789 to 1881 They are a valuable addition to any library, and Mr. Robinson has thanks for the favor.

—A man near Kendallville was cleaning out his well last week, and in attempting to get out a dead rat, a stone in the curbing fell and broke his leg, knocking him into the water. He was rescued with difficulty. DeKalb county uses driven wells and they don't have rats in them nor stones, nor do our people fall into them and get their legs broken, and get wet.

Friday's Daily.

—For McCormick machines, see Culbertson & Boland. 19tf

—Fred. Reiner has gone to Chicago to visit with his aunt, Mrs. Turner.

—Rev. J. D. Brosy and Mr. Bowers have returned from their visit in Missouri.

—A. L. Brick, of South Bend, has been nominated for congress by the republican. He is quite popular and is said to be a "regular brick."

Thousands of persons have been cured of piles by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It heals promptly and cures eczema and all skin diseases. It gives immediate relief. H. B. McCord.

—Ex-Trustee Martin Hook of Franklin was a caller today. He has never fully recovered from being run over by a machine several years ago, though he is still in fairly good shape.

—Rev. W. L. Meese has let the contract for putting down a well in Mrs. Saxton's woods near the fair ground. It is for the use of the Matrimonial Reunion, which is to be held there this year.

—Mrs. J. D. Campbell and daughter Morgia were over here yesterday making some purchases. Mrs. Campbell recently purchased the Charles Kelley farm adjoining Waterloo on the east, a very desirable piece of property.

—E. C. Blanks, of Lewisville, Texas, writes that one box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve was worth $50.00 to him. It cured his piles of ten years standing. He advises others to try it. It also cures eczema, skin diseases and obstinate sores. H. B. McCord.

—Kendallville parties are complaining that somebody has removed the little flags from the graves of dead veterans. They probably wanted the flags to display in this war. It is like robbing Peter to pay Paul. These flags should be allowed to stand till the storm and sun destroy them.

—Geo. Morr, our popular drayman is putting up a new brick block, at the Junction. The front first floor is to be occupied by his store, while the rear and over head will be his dwelling. It is the most pretentious building put up in that village, so far. Long & Brandon do the carpenter work.

—Frank Copper, who used to be B. & O. agent at Auburn Juction, is now traveling passenger agent for that line. He was at Hicksville a few days ago, and promised the people there, that the road would soon build them a new passenger station. Certainly it is needed badly enough. And while they have the men, tools and time in this part of the country, they might build a new one at the Junction.

—The North Manchester bloodhounds were called to Leesburg, this week to help track some thieves who had been stealing meat. It appears these dogs can do a good deal of snuffing around, but they never catch anyone. We have not heard of any cases where they ever caught a thief. Their great hold appears to have been to track slaves in the old days before the war, and the knack seems to have left them just after that.

—Fort Wayne has a society of Jewish ladies whose object is to aid the soldiers at the front. They send them such articles of comfort and luxury as they think a soldier really needs. The Journal says there are living in that city, twelve Jewish ladies who belonged to a similiar organization during the great civil war and they now belong to the present society.

—Rev. W. L. Meese went today to Paw Paw Lake, in southwest Michigan where his daughter, Mrs. Ira Eaton is spending the summer months at their cottage. He will be gone till about August 1, till which time his postoffice address will be Waterliet, Berrien Co. Mich. Then he will come to look after the reunion to be held here. We all wish him a pleasant visit. He will stop of at Ligonier a few days on his way out.

—Two burglars entered a man's house at Auburn, last week, and as they crept stealthily in the parlor they were confronted with a gorgeous new spring bonnet that the better half of the family had just invested in. The leader halted and pointing at the lovely affair, remarked: "Fooled again, the woman landed him first; poor devil, lets put a five dollar bill in his boots where she can't find it." They did so and silently stole away in the darkness. —Hicksville News.

—The Editor hereof was greatly pleased at a call today from F. P Blair, and wife of Laporte. They were in company with his father, Gen. Blair of Waterloo. Their son Harold and their little daughter, were also on this visit with them, but remained at Waterloo. They were on their way home from Garrett. Mr. Blair has a warm side for the COURIER, as in its earlier days he was associated for a time with us, in its management. Their many friends will be pleased to know that both are in excellent health.

—Mr. P. L. Bishop has sold the flouring mill south of the Wabash R. R., to Messrs Allison Smith and John Platter. Mr. Smith, who was formerly connected with the Orangeville Mills, and has been in the milling business all his life, is considered an expert miller and is well known among the milling trade. High grade work has been his study and specialty Mr. Platter is well known as a straight, forward business man, and if good work and square dealing will get the trade they will no doubt receive their share. We are informed by them that the mill will at once undergo a thorough overhauling, and when finished will be able to place before the public a high grade of flour which they will guarantee equal to any on the market

At the Opera House.

The Opera House was well filled last evening for everyone wanted to go and contribute something to the comfort of soldiers' wives and families. The entertainment was good and everyone took an interest in the performance, especially in the pictures. There were thrown on the screen, pictures of Capt. Lahnum, Maj Kuhlman, Col. Studebaker, Roy McDowell, Clarence Shoemaker, Capt. Dennison, of the Waterloo company, Gen. Gore and many others we did not succeed in getting. Then there were groups of the boys as seen at Camp Mount; views of headquarters, etc. Besides the pictures of our own boys, were those of leading soldiers and sailors, presidents, warships, etc., etc., and a number of moving pictures. Altogether it was an excellent show and we are glad the ladies did so well.

Beautiful Shells.

The boys at Tampa are making some fine collections of lovely sea shells. Roy Garrett sent home a box containing a fine assortment of them, including several varieties. There were also several sea beans, a very hard seed of a plant that grows in salt marshes and the edge of salt water. Cook Ford also received a box from Mr. Wheelock in which were a lovely napkin ring made by cutting off the sides of a beautiful shell in such a way that the remaining part of the shell forms the ring, with the pointed part of it for a sort of handle. It is very cute, but the prettiest is the souvenir spoons, two in number, made by fixing thin, spoon-shaped shells into a handle. Both these articles are engraved and illustrated and make a delicate and lovely article.

AN ENTERPRISING DRUGGIST.

There are few men more wide awake and enterprising than H. B McCord who spare no pains to secure the best of everything in their line for their many customers. They now have the valuable agency for Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. This is the wonderful remedy that is producing such a furor all over the country by its many startling cures. It absolutely cures Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness and all affections of the Throat, Chest and Lungs. Call at above drug store and get a trial bottle free or a regular size for 50 cents and $1.00. Guaranteed to cure or price refunded.

$500 Worth of Bones

(Waterloo Press)

Prof. Ward, of Rochester, N. Y., was in town this week and purchased of Laurel Spindler, the bones of the mastodon, an account of the unearthing of which was published in this paper some months since. The price paid was $500, cash. After being mounted the skeleton will be placed in the college, at Pittsburg, Pa. It is to be regretted that the skeleton could not have been placed in the museum in the State House at Indianapolis, as no doubt, it was the best specimen that will ever be found in the state.

Gift For Soldiers.

Goshen parties are sending about half a ton of tobacco, smoking and chewing, to the boys in camp. This queer gift, will no doubt be gladly received, but it reminds us a little of what one doting father gave to his son at parting, as the latter went to the front during the rebellion. The soldiers were in cars and could not get out. So the father ran along the train to a point where he could see his boy's head. He called the young man, and the latter leaned out of the window, when the father slipped into his hands, a fat, black, bottle of whisky, with his blessing. The train was already starting and father and son parted for a year or two. We have never heard the result.

LATEST WAR NEWS.

Thursday's Daily.

It appears that before making his dash for liberty, Cervera called his officers together and took a vote. He found a small majority in favor of the plan, while the minority preferred to stay rather than face what they saw was certain destruction. It is believed that if they had turned east instead of west they might have escaped, as only the New York was in that direction and they might have united and destroyed her.

The Spaniards now say they are willing to exchange Hobson and his men, but have not said on what terms.

A number of Spanish prisoners on board one of our transports, in some way got hold of some guns, and made a dash for liberty. A volley from the guards stopped them. Several were killed.

We are to make an effort to raise the sunken Spanish warships, or at least to save portions of them. At least some of the guns may be saved.

Skirmishing goes on pretty regularly at Santiago, but no heavy battles are reported now. The last heavy fighting is reported of Sunday, when the Spaniards made a rush out to our entrenchmens, hoping to drive us back. They were driven back with heavy loss, and we also lost several hundred men killed or wounded.

Friday's Daily.

The prisoners we have been taking from the Spaniards are to be brought to the United States and put into Fort Warren, a strong forress in Boston harbor.

Gen. Shafter has been very sick since the first hard fighting before Santiago. It is believed that exposure to the heavy rainstorm and fierce sun was more than he was able to bear. Gen. Miles, who is commander-in-chief starts tonight to go there and take his place. Shafter will probably be given a sick leave.

The Spanish fleet is working its way slowly to the east, going through the Suez canal. All ships go slow through the canal, especially heavy cruisers. Commodore Watson has been ordered to start east at once, with a picked fleet of our best ships including the famous Oregon that made the long trip from California around Cape Horn and joined our fleet off Cuba. It is believed that Watson's fleet, instead of stopping at Spain, will follow up the Spanish fleet and if possible overtake it before it reaches Manila. But the Spaniards have 4000 miles the start. If, however, we should overtake them it would add another remarkable chapter to the history of this war, which is already full of remarkable chapters.

People who can get nothing to eat in the city, are leaving Santiago by the thousand and coming out to have our men give them food.

Hobson and his companions are free. They were exchanged Wednesday, for three lieutenants and fourteen privates we had captured from the Spaniards.

Fresh reports come that Spain wants peace. Uncle Sam don't see the use in being in a hurry about it.

Four German, three British, two French one one Japanese warships, are now in the harbor at Manila.

Dewey did not fire on the German ships. It is supposed there was some notes passed between them, but no serious difficulty.

No attack on Manila yet, till more troops, now drawing near, reach there.

Big fight expected at Santiago tomorrow, Saturday.

Saturday's Daily.

Italy is going to send a few warships to Manila.

A regiment of troops will be sent to Hawaii to protect our interests there.

It is believed that both land and naval forces will attack Santiago today.

Floods by heavy rains have made military movements difficult at Manila as well as in Cuba. This is the season when such countries have a rainy season

The Spanish commander at Santiago wants to surrender, but Blanco, the captain-general at Havana is not willing. He may change his mind when the Yankees get closer to him.

We lost eleven small vessels, called lighters in a big storm as they approached Santiago night before last. They weae being towed to that place to help carry supplies from the big supply ship to the shore for Shafter's army.

Many believe that the order for the return of the Spanish fleet in the Suez canal. was made because Spain has concluded to ask for peace. For in case of peace. they need not be to the expense of going to Manila.

We are going to raise some of the Spanish warships we sank the other day. Several of them can be saved, some can not. We have already got a good deal of valuables from some of them including the fine silver service on the Colon.

Indiana now has 7,600 men in the army, besides the odd ones, already in the regular service.

At least one Auburn boy is getting his share of the war in Cuba. Will Clark is in the 20th regular infantry now with Shafter in the siege of Santiago. The 20th had lost in the different battles up to Tuesday July 5, 20 killed, 12 wounded, and 3 missing. The companies losing men, were: A, B, C, D, E, G, F, and H.

Hawaii is to be governed by a constitution framed by a commission of five members, two of whom must be residents of the islands. Until they can plan and get ready a system of government, the islands will continue under the management of President Dole, who has been in control now several years.

Re-enforcements have reached Santiago, and Miles himself with nearly 2000 men started yesterday.

It is believed Santiago has surrendered without fighting.

BILIOUSNESS

bosses many a body and burdens many a mind. You can't enjoy the food you like because you are bilious. You take all sorts of precautions, and yet the bilious attack leaps on you like a tiger from ambush. You know the feeling! The blood seeming on fire with a dull heat; the boring pains in the eyes; the head seeming to open and shut; the horrible nausea. You know the irritability which precedes and the languor that follows the attack. It's miserable, isn't it? Why not cure the trouble? There's a pill that will cure biliousness. Dr. J. C. AYER'S PILLS are an acknowledged specific for this derangement.

A. Swanger, Texarkana, Tex., writes: "For fifteen years I have used Ayer's Pills, and find them very effective in bilious complaints. I have yet to see the case where they have failed to cure."

If You are Bilious DO NOT FAIL TO Try AYER'S PILLS

THE LADRONES

Vivid Story of how we Got Them

John L. McCullcheon the eminent correspondent of the Chicago Record, who has been with Dewey from the first tells the story in detail, of how we captured the Ladrone Instands. He says, the United States cruiser Charleston, with the troopships City of Sydney, City of Pekin and Australia, arrived off Cavite at 5 o'clock June 30. They left Honolulu June 4, with sealed orders from Washington to capture the island of Guam, chief of the Ladrone islands and the seat of Spanish government.

The American cruiser and the transports arrived at Guam on the morning of June 20. They passed the unoccupied Fort Santiago and advanced opposite Fort Santa Cruz. The Charleston then fired twelve shots, but, receiving no response from the fort, it steamed on to Port Luisde Appa, where Agana, the capital of the Ladrone islands, is situated.

That afternoon the captain of the port and the health officer came aboard the Charleston and were informed to their astonishment that they were prisoners of war. They had not heard that war existed between the United Stated and Spain, and they had thought the firing by the Charleston was a salute of courtesy. They said Gov. Marina regretted that he had no powder for his cannon with which to return the salute. Those surprised Spaniards were thereupon sent ashore to request the governor of the islands to come on board the Charleston. In reply the governor sent his official interpreter and secretary to say to the Americans that the Spanish law forbade him to leave the shore during his term of office. However, he invited Capt. Glass of the Charleston to a conference on shore the next morning and guaranteed his safty. Capt. Glass sent Lieut. Braunersreuther to meet the governor and deliver an ultimatum demanding the surrender of the Ladrones, giving the governor thirty minutes in which to consider the matter. Lieut. Braunersreuther was accompanied by two companies of Oregon volunteers.

The governor surrendered gracefully within the allotted time. Thereupon forty-six marines from the Charleston landed and disarmed the 108 Spanish soldiers, confiscated their 116 rifles and 10,000 rounds of ammunition. The natives were allowed to retain their weapons. They all showed delight in renouncing Spanish authority, and tore off the Spanish regalia from their uniforms with many expressions of satisfaction.

An American who has resided in Guam for some years was installed as temporary governor of the Ladrone islands. The Spanish governor, two Spanish officers, fifty-four Spanish soldiers and a few natives were brought to Cavite as prisoners on board the City of Sydney.

Excitment of Coasting on Chilcoot Pass.

A LETTER FROM W. H. LINK.

The Spring Atmosphere About Lake Lindeman Burns the Face and the Skin Peels Off—The Morning Toilet is Like Pulling Teeth.

(Seattle Daily Times)

A friend of W. H. Link, who started for the gold fields at the time of the spring rush has just received a lengthy communication from him, from which The Times is permitted to extract the following items of general informotion:

Lake Lindeman, Alaska, May 28—We left Dyea April 14 and pitched our tent here on May 3. The trail was in fairly good condition from the summit to the mouth of the canyon; from that point here it was frightful and dangerous, but for a wonder no fatalities occured. From the 3rd until the 11th we were sledding our stuff from the summit here, making a round trip each day. That was the hardest work I had done up to the time I tackled whipsawing lumber. We had 7233 pounds of outfit. At the Scales came the real tug of war, as we determined to pack to the summit ourselves. As to the summit, imagine, if you please, a pair of stairs a thousand feet high, composed of snow and ice, roughly hewn out and much steeper than those in front of your house, some steps six inches high and others two feet, and you will have a pretty fair mental picture of the Chilcoot Pass. I made twenty-seven trips up it and carried from fifty to seventy-five pounds to each trip, which was considered a light load by the old timers. I made eight trips over one day and was nearly playd out at night. I may safely say that up to that time I had never done such hard work in my life. Many a tenderfoot took a look at the pass and sold out and returned. I heard many a man say that he would not go over the summit for all the gold in Alaska.

Oh, yes; I must tell you how we used to get back down to the Scales. We bought some heavy slucking and half-soled our pants and sat down and slid. And such sliding! We would go like the wind, the snow flying twenty feet over our heads. You could look at any time up to the top of the summit and see a little cloud of snow with a black speck in it moving rapidly toward the Scales. As it descended it would gain in velocity and become more dense until near the bottom, when the black speck in the center would shoot ahead and then you could discern that it was a man, though not until he had got through turning somersaults, etc. This mode of coasting was attended with considerable danger. Two were killed the week I worked there, although through good luck and skill we escaped with nothing more than a few minor scratches and cuts

From Dyea to Lindeman it looked as though a great army was on the march, and so there was, facing dangers as great as though they had enlisted to meet the Dons in battle array. Ever and anon we would meet a small cavalcade bearing in their midst the remains of a comrad who had fallen by the wayside in the greatest struggle for gold the world ever saw. There is no use denying the fact that there was danger from snowslides. There was indeed. There were many small slides, but the great disaster had taught us a lesson and we were all very cautious. At Crater Lake I saw one man caught by the slide. It rolled and tumbled him more than a hundred yards. It reminded me of a fly stuck in molasses and the molasses rnuning along an incline. Sometimes we would see a foot, then a hand and again his head. Of course we all ran to his assistance. I was one of the first to get to him. We lost no time in getting him out, and none too soon either, as he was nearly smothered. His nose was skinned and leg wrenched. I might add that his name was Solberg. from near Seattle.

At Crater Lake, the night of May 2, we made our beds in or on the snow. For about four weeks on the trail we always came in at night, wet to the skin, notwithstanding our former resolutions to not work during the inclement weather. One day on the summit a howling blizzard existed. The wind drove the hail and snow with such terrific force in my face as to nearly blind me; in fact, my vision was blurred and milky for twenty-four hours afterward, and my face felt as though it was skinned. In hauling supplies from the summit I worked from noon one day until 7 o'clock the next morning without rest. You may be sure I was tired and sleepy when I got in.

The atmosphere has a rather peculiar effect upon the complexion. At first it burns the skin to a dark brown, then the skin shrivels and comes off in great white flakes. Then the new skin will be burned, and again it will peal off; and so on until our faces become so sore that it is like pulling teeth to wash them. All this and such more we have passed through since leaving our dear old Washington and Seattle. It would take a week to write it all, so I will desist and write of the present and future.

"We have our boat nearly finished. The ice has not yet gone out of the lake, but it will in the next 10 days. There are 5000 people now here and more coming every day. The city is very cosmopolitan; every country is seemingly represented. I listened last evening to a Salvation Army meeting just in front of a dance hall and saloon. There are thousands of boats building and built."

Tormenting

"I suffered for years with tetter. On arising my hands were stiff and my fingers crooked. They would crack all over and the blood would run from them. The doctor ordered me to give up work. Then a friend said, 'Try AYER'S SARSAPARILLA.' I took in all eight bottles, which completely healed me."
Mrs. W. SLOAN, Royersford, Pa.

The Lever To Success.

J. M, Studebaker writes from California to the South Bend Times and comments on the financial success of James Oliver in a manner which we reproduce for the information of our young men:

"Young men say nowadays that there is not the chance for progress that there was when Mr. Oliver commenced his early struggles, and I want to say to them: "Young men, you are mistaken. You have before you greater and grander opportunities, today, to develop and become successful business men then your fathers had." What, you ask, is the first step to be taken to start you on the high road to prosperity? I will say: First, industry, integrity, honesty, honesty of purpose, and the resolve to do the best you can; second how to procure capital.

I would like to have you interview Mr. Oliver about this, but for fear you would not ask him, I will tell you. Self-sacrifice is the first absolute necessity; then economy in every way possible. It is necessary to study the meaning of judicious economy. For example, when God gives to you your first baby boy, don't start out and purchase a baby carriage that will cost you $25, on a salary of $1.50 to $2 per day, and then hire a nurse (at $1 per week) to show the baby and the baby carriage to your neighbors. Ask Mr. Oliver how much he paid for a baby carriage or rocker, in order to show his son Joseph to his neighbors, and how much his mother paid for his first dress, and also if she engaged a nurse to care for him."

Mr. Studebaker undoubtedly speaks from experience as well as observation and he covers the entire case when he says self-sacrifice and economy are the prime essentials to financial prosperity. It is next to impossible to accumulate property without unceasing attention to these two ideas.

Congress Adjourns.

Yesterday a concurrent resolution was introduced into the house of representatives and passed. making today at 2 p. m., the hour for the adjournment of both houses The senate had already passed the resolution. The session began the first Monday in December last and has been a very important one, covering as it has the first six month of our trouble with Spain. But there is now no more work for congress to do.

MARINE DISASTER.

The large French steamer, Bourgogne was sunk Monday morning in a dense fog, off Cape Sable, Newfoundland. She ran into an English merchant ship of smaller size but stronger built. The Bourgogne went down in less than half an hour and only about 200 of her 800 people were saved. The other ship was badly hurt, but after picking up those from the other ship, who were alive she was towed to Halifax by a passing steamer.

Will Build An Addition

The officers of the Presbyterian church held a meeting last evening at the close of the prayer meeting, and took under consideration the space needed for the organ. They decided to build an addition to the east, just large enough to accommodate the new organ which is a large one, but will put up no room for any other purpose. They will go to work at this soon and expect to have it completed by Aug. 1.

BOMBARDMENT

Of Santiago Begun at 4 O'clock Sunday Evening.

General Shafter Says He Has Received Ample Reinforcements.

Twenty Cannon, Fifty Siege Guns and Many Mortars Starts the Fighting.

A Batch of Miscellaneous Teleraph News from All Parts of the World.

Santiago Bombarded.

The bombardment of Santiago has begun. That was the information obtained Sunday evening shortly before 9 o'clock at the War Department. Almost immediately three bulletins were posted. The most important was from Gen. Shafter, which announced that Toral declined to surrender unconditionally and that the bombardment of the town began by the army and navy about 4 o'clock.

During the past week Shafter received reinforcements of both artillery and infantry. Randolph's battery of 24 guns is now in position before Santiago. Gen. Shafter has nearly 50 seige guns and a large number of 7-inch mortars, besides lighter artillery at his disposal. These guns taken in connection with the work that can be done by the fleet it is believed will carry terror and destruction to Santiago.

The belief of the best informed officials is that Toral will surrender when he finds it impossible to evacuate the city.

Shafter's dispatch shows he is engaged now in strengthening his position and will follow up his operations with a final assault upon the city.

Natural Gas for Detroit.

An Ottawa (Ont.) special says: The Government has decided that it will not prohibit the exportation of natural gas to Detroit from the Essex gas belt, in response to the protests of citizens of that territory. It will permit the construction of new conduits from Sandwich to Detroit, and has imposed such restrictions as to the quantity of the output and as to the prices charged local consumers as will remove the danger of the depletion of the fields.

Dreams of Death Come True.

Charles Hank, aged 20, enlisted in the army at Indianapolis, Ind., in May, and went to Cuba with the Sixteenth United States regulars. His mother and sisters have dreamed almost nightly that they saw him fall in battle and their fears have been confirmed by his name being reported among the missing since the battles before Santiago. The last letter received from him was just after the landing in Cuba.

Old Injury Causes Death.

Rev. N. Barker, a veteran of the Mexican War, died in Hood County, Texas, recently, from the effects of a wound received at the battle of Reseca del Rey. Recently the operation of removing an eye was performed. Behind the eyeball was found a flattened bullet which the old soldier had carried for half a century. He lived three days after the operation.

Chile's Ultimatum.

The Chilean Government has sent an ultimatum to Argentina, giving the latter, according to report, until August 15 in which to decide the boundary question between the two countries, which has been in dispute for a long time.

Serious Explosion.

A boiler explosion at the Edison Electric Light Works, Cincinnati, Ohio, caused the destruction of the entire plant by fire. The dynamos, which furnish power for the street lamps, were not injured.

Off for the Arctic.

The Arctic expedition headed by Walter Wellman, which left Tromsie, Norway, June 26 last, has sailed from Solembola for Franz Joseph Land, after taking on board eighty-three Siberian dogs.

Flags Torn Down.

At Tremont, Ohio, a few nights ago, the American flags displayed at the Postoffice and most of the private residences were torn down and mutilated. No one seems to know who did it.

Binding Twine Price Advances.

Peoria (Ill.) special: The product of the Peoria Binding Twine Factory has doubled in value since the opening of the war. From 5¼ cents the price has advanced to 12½ cents a pound, and there is the possibility of a famine before the harvest is over. This is due to the state of affairs at Manila.

Corning, Cal., Burned.

The entire business portion of Corning, Cal., was destroyed by fire. The fire was undoubtedly the work of an incendiary. The loss is estimated at $100,000.

Young Lovers Die Together.

The bodies of Arthur Jones of Emporia, Kan., and Mary Leishman of Scranton, Kan., were found in a grove one mile south of Emporia. Both deaths were the result of pistol shot wounds. It is believed to be a case of murder and suicide. Both were 16 years of age.

Dies on His Engine.

Two Illinois Central freight trains collided on a trestle near Paducah, Ky. Several cars were smashed up and the engineer of one of the trains, the only member of the two crews who had not jumped, was killed. Misunderstanding of orders caused the wreck.

COLLISION ON LAKE ERIE.

Big Whaleback Henry Cort Disables Passenger Steamer New York.

A disastrous collision took place on Lake Erie, three miles from Cleveland (Ohio) harbor. As a result the passenger steamer State of New York is badly damaged, nearly all her upper works on the port side having been swept away by the prow of the whaleback Henry Cort, bound in. The State of New York was bound for Toledo and carried about 200 passengers. The whaleback Henry Cort was due to arrive with a tow and the tug L. P. Smith left the mouth of the river, following the State of New York. Capt. Ed Dalk, of the tug, heard a crash. He proceeded to the steamer, finding her disabled. The whaleback had struck the passenger boat near the paddle box, which it demolished, and then swept away the upper works some distance aft. There was a wild rush of passengers to the deck, but the officers and crew acted with coolness and order was soon restored. No one was injured. Soon after the collision the big passenger steamer began to list badly. Two tugs were sent to the rescue and she was towed into the river. The cause of the collision has not been determined. The Henry Cort belongs to the Rockefeller fleet. She is said to have had burning her regulation lights. She is not damaged. The State of New York is owned by the Cleveland and Buffalo Transit Company.

TRAIN WRECKERS

Made a Careful Attempt at New Providence, N. Y.

Train wreckers attempted to wreck the east-bound Morristown accommodation. They dug holes at intervals on the curve between the New Providence, N. Y., station and the signal tower at the junction of the main line and the Passaic and Delaware branch, fastened the fishplates against the track, and braced them with railroad ties and pieces of lumber. Michael Brophy, the engineer of the accommodation, said that he had seen an object fitting on the track, and on account of the curve was slowing up. Seeing the obstruction, he attempted to stop his train, but was unable to bring it to a full stop until the engine had struck the first obstruction with considerable force, breaking the steel rails. There were only a few passengers on board the train, and these were badly shaken up, but no one was injured.

PULLMAN CUTS A WATERMELON.

Eighteen Millions in That Company's Stock to Be Divided Up.

The board of directors of the Pullman Palace Car Company has adopted resolutions for a quarterly dividend of $2 per share, payable on and after Aug. 15, and also a special dividend of $20 per share. The board recommends that the surplus assets of the company to the extent of $18,000,000 existing at the end of the current fiscal year should be distributed to the stockholders of the company, and that for such purpose the capital stock should be increased to the sum of $54,000,000, and that increase on stock should be issued to shareholders in the ratio of one share for each two held by them.

Highwaymen Got $10,000.

At Dallas, Texas, General Manager Thorn of the Texas and Pacific Railway makes the following statement about the train robbery on his road near Stanton: "Six robbers, all masked except the leader, flagged our No. 3, west-bound express at 10 o'clock the other night five miles west of Stanton on the Staked Plains, between the Colorado and Pecos rivers, one of the most desolate spots on the line. The robbers covered the engine crew with Winchesters, cut the express car loose, forced the trainmen to move it on to a sidetrack and then blew is up with dynamite. Nobody was hurt, but the car was wrecked, the sides and bottom being blown out. The robbers then blew up the through express safe, wrecking it and badly damaging its contents. What money was in the safe they took. Mounting horses, they rode away to the southeast. I have no way of knowing what the express company lost. The amount may have been large and it may have been small. The Pacific Express officials alone know the amount lost. This, however, is not the season of the year when railways make their heaviest money shipments. The Texas and Pacific Railroad Company has offered a reward of $250 for the capture of each robber. The Pacific Express Company will offer the same amount and the State of Texas will duplicate it." Officials of the Pacific Express Company decline to make public how much money the robbers secured, but they took all in the safe. Rumor places the amount all the way from $10,000 to $50,000.

Fatal Accident at Wedding.

A bridge crossing the Mohican river at Shelby, Ohio, fell with 1,000 people. Four were killed outright and 100 injured, some of them seriously. A public wedding was being celebrated on the bridge as one of the features of the Fourth of July celebration. Just as the ceremony had been completed the bridge went down with a crash, precipitating the people a distance of eighteen feet. The panic which ensued after the bridge fell was indescribable, and it was impossible to get anything like a correct list of the wounded.

Costly Blaze in Racine.

At Racine, Wis., the large tannery of the A. Platz Sons' Leather Company was nearly destroyed by fire. Finished stock valued at $60,000 is a total loss; unfinished stock valued at $15,000 partly destroyed; machinery and buildings valued at $40,000 nearly a total loss. There is an insurance on the total valuation of $80,000. During the fire Frederick Platz fell from a window and was badly injured.

Fatal Squall at Beverly, Mass.

The small excursion steamer Surf City, with about sixty passengers on board, while half way over from Salem Willows to her wharf at Beverly, Mass., a distance of about two miles, was struck by a terrific squall and capsized. Of those on board a large majority were rescued by boats from the Salem and Beverly shores. Six bodies have been recovered.

French Liner Goes Down.

La Bourgogne, a French line steamship which left New York for Havre was sunk after a collision with the British ship Cromartyshire in a dense fog about sixty miles south of the Sable islands. There were 716 persons on board when the collision occurred and of these 553 were lost. Fifty-three passengers and 110 members of the crew were rescued.

Populist National Convention.

The People's party paper of Atlanta, Ga., publishes an address from the national organization committee calling for a national convention at Cincinnati, Monday, Sept. 5, to nominate candidates for President and Vice President and outline a plan of campaign to cover the next two years in anticipation of the election of 1900.

Southern Pacific's Big Profits.

The financial report of the Southern Pacific company for the last fiscal year shows an increase in profits of $4,000,000 over the business of the preceding year.

Returns from Alaska.

Ex-Secretary John Sherman has arrived at Seattle from Alaska, and says his trip "was the most delightful I have had the pleasure of taking."

Trust Negotiations Move Slowly.

Efforts have been made during the past two months to create a cutlery trust. Leading manufacturers have held meetings in the Waldorf Hotel, New York, at which the details have been arranged. So quietly have the men worked that only meager information about the project has leaked out. J. H. Parks, a lawyer, who is said to have organized several trusts in which J. P. Morgan is interested, has had charge of the details. The responsible person behind Parks is J. H. Clauss of the Clauss Shears Company of Cleveland, Ohio. The trust would have been in operation before this if J. Wiss & Son and R. Heinrich's Sons of Newark, N. J., had proved as willing as firms in other sections. Wiss & Son make the finest grade of cutlery, the Heinrichs all the coarse, heavy grades. Together they employ about 500 men. When the trust project was first presented to these firms they asked time to consider it. While they were considering it fifteen rival firms indicated their willingness to join. When the details began to leak out the Wiss and Heinrich firms drew back. The plan, as it appeared to them, was the closing of their factories and other factories of less importance, and the location of a parent establishment in Cleveland. In other words, the Clauss plant was to be enlarged and improved, and around it was to revolve the active cutlery business of this country. Clauss was slated for president of the combine and Clauss' brother was slated for either secretary or treasurer. There was a trifle too much Clauss in the plan to suit the Jerseymen. They grew suspicious and continued to ask for time. Without the co-operation of these firms the trust could not hope for any great measure of success. Therefore the fifteen firms were compelled to wait on the pleasure of the two. Another effort is to be made. If the trust is formed more than 15,000 men will be thrown out of work. The firms that are considered too small to bother with will be crushed. The capital of the proposed trust is fixed at $2,000,000.

MINERS HOLD A CONGRESS.

They Would Have the Industry Represented in the Government.

At the international mining congress which met recently in Salt Lake City, Utah, there were representatives from thirty-four States. Secretary Johnson outlined some of the work before the convention, the chief of which was to take active steps toward securing a department of the national government to be known as the department of mines and mining, the secretary of which shall be a cabinet officer. The following officers were chosen: President, Col. B. F. Montgomery of Colorado; secretary, W. D. Johnson of Utah; first vice-president, J. H. Hawley of Idaho; second vice-president, Charles T. Lane of California; third vice-president, Emanuel Elguera of Peru. The following State vice-presidents were appointed: Utah, R. C. Chambers; Idaho, H. K. Thurber; Nevada, E. B. Boyle; Colorado, A. V. Bohn; Wyoming, A. S. Holmes; Georgia, H. D. Jocuist; Pennsylvania, R. A. Browning.

CIVIL SERVICE RULE CHANGES.

Conference on That Subject in Which the President Took Part.

Commissioners Harlow and Brewer, of the civil service commission, had a long conference at the White House with the President, Attorney General Griggs and Secretary Bliss in regard to a number of proposed changes in the civil service rules. It is understood that the heads of a number of the executive departments had recommended the extension of the rules so as to include certain specified places in the service and that other places be exempted. No definite decision was reached on all of the questions involved, but it is expected that a conclusion will have been arrived at within a few days, when the President will issue an order covering the cases under discussion.

Chicago Papers Stopped.

For four days no daily papers were published in Chicago, owing to a strike among the stereotypers. The stereotypers demanded a reduction in the hours of labor and an increase in wages. It was refused, and as a result the stereotypers refused to go to work. The following newspapers entirely suspended publication pending a settlement of the issue: Times-Herald, Record, Tribune, Chronicle, Inter Ocean, Evening Post, Daily News, Evening Journal and the Dispatch. A meeting of the publishers was held to arrange a plan of campaign and to provide for the resuming of publication at the earliest possible moment. The publishers acted together. They received a large number of applications from stereotypers in other cities. An immediate influx of stereotypers began. The intense interest in the battle of Santiago rendered the situation a peculiar one, and this fact was undoubtedly seized upon by the operatives. Something like 200 employes were directly involved.

SHIP SINKS AT SEA.

Awful Horror Caused by Collision in a Dense Fog.

OVER 600 DROWNED.

Disaster Occurred Off Sable Island on the Morning of July 4.

Steamship La Bourgogne of the French Transatlantic Line Goes to the Bottom of the Atlantic—Out of Over 800 Persons Aboard Only About 200 Were Saved, and but One Woman from the 300 on the Ill-fated Vessel Was Rescued.

Six hundred persons lost their lives the morning of July 4 as the result of a collision between La Bourgogne and the British ship Cromartyshire, and the French liner lies at the bottom of the sea, a great hole in her side. The ships met in a dense fog sixty miles south of Sable Island. It was 5 o'clock in the morning and the feeble rays of the newly risen sun were unable to even partially penetrate the thick white mist that covered the ocean like a garment. The Cromartyshire was towed into Halifax by the Allan line steamer Grecian. A ragged wound in her bow and the absence of two of her masts showed the violence of the impact with the sunken vessel.

There were on board La Bourgogne 191 first cabin passengers, 125 second cabin and 295 third class passengers (or steerage), making a total of 611 passengers, in addition to which there were 220 in the crew, making a grand total of 831 souls on board. The only woman saved out of 300 women on board was Mrs. La Casse, wife of a professor of languages of Plainfield, N. J. Among those saved were the purser, three engineers and thirty of the crew which manned the luckless liner. All the other officers of the ship were drowned. The Cromartyshire's crew got a terrible fright, but none was lost. Great service was done by those aboard in saving the remnant of the passengers and crew of La Bourgogne.

La Bourgogne is one of the best known of all the French liners. She belonged to the Compagnie Generale Transatlantique and has carried thousands of persons to Europe and back without a serious mishap. She left New York Saturday, July 3, bound for Havre.

Shortly before the vessels came together Mrs. Henderson, wife of the Cromartyshire's captain, detected a steamer's whistle blowing on the port side. The Cromartyshire was sounding her foghorn at intervals of one minute. Mrs. Henderson called the attention of her husband to the sounding of the whistle and a minute later the mate, who was on watch, also detected the sound. It came nearer and nearer. Suddenly the huge hull of an ocean steamer loomed up in the mist, going about seventeen knots an hour, and almost immediately there was a fearful crash.

Capt. Henderson, as soon as the collision occurred, ordered the boats to be lowered and the damage to be ascertained. As it was found that the Cromartyshire was in no immediate danger the Britisher put about. The vessel with which they had collided was at that time unknown. A few minutes later her whistle was heard and several rockets were sent up. Capt. Henderson replied in like manner, thinking the steamer was offering assistance, but in a few minutes all was quiet and those on board began to realize the awful results of the collision.

At 5:30 the fog lifted and two boats were seen approaching with only men on board. Later the weather cleared still more and men were to be seen in every direction clinging to wreckage and floating on life rafts. It was a terrible scene. No pen can picture the appalling sight revealed to the onlookers when the curtain of mist arose. The work of rescue was commenced without a moment's delay and over 200 persons were picked up and taken aboard the ship.

When the ships struck they were off Cape Sable. The passengers, with the sole exception of Prof. La Casse, were below decks. Without warning came the terrible shock. The struggles, swishing water and terrible screams of the drowning made the situation an awe-inspiring one, never to be forgotten. One man on the La Bourgogne, when she sunk, went out of his mind and jumped to a watery grave. Capt. Nunan, in command of the Allan line steamer Grecian, to whose courage the Cromartyshire owed its conduct to a place of safety, declares that La Bourgogne was less than five minutes from the time of the collision in going to the bottom.

"It was the most appalling and most sudden catastrophe it was ever my misfortune to witness," said Capt. Henderson, of the Cromartyshire. "There was a crash, the sound of which was indescribable, composed as it was of the rending apart of the stout oaken ribs of the French ship and the snapping asunder of her iron bolts. Many leaped overboard immediately after the meeting of the vessels, but our men were not among the number of those who lost their heads. La Bourgogne turned slowly around two or three times, then seemed to go under with the rapidity of a stone dropping into a pool of water. We were in some danger from the whirlpool which followed the disappearance of the transatlantic steamer, but managed to get out of reach of the vortex in time. It, however, engulfed scores of shrieking human beings, whom we could hardly see for the density of the fog, but whose cries of terror we could plainly hear."

WORK OF CONGRESS.

NATIONAL LEGISLATURE HAS BEEN BUSY WITH WAR.

Not for Twenty-five Years Have So Important Matters Been Considered—Appropriations that Aggregate Nearly $900,000,000 Were Made.

An Important Session.

The passing of the second session of the LVth Congress marks the close of the first war Congress in a quarter of a century. Associated with the first hostile conflict since 1812 with a nation of another continent, the annexation of Hawaii, and contemporaneous with a further movement for territorial expansion, the present Congress outranks almost any other that has ever assembled.

Hawaiian annexation, Spain and Cuba, war appropriations and war revenue legislation, organization of the vast volunteer army and expansion of the navy, and a new bankruptcy law were features of the session. Urgent deficiency bills carrying millions of dollars were rushed through with far less delay than marked the course of an ordinary measure of little importance. The total appropriations footed almost $900,000,000, and about $350,000,000 of this was for war purposes. It was the largest aggregate by any session since the civil war, and the general deficiency was the largest separate measure since the $750,000,000 single appropriation in 1863. The naval appropriation bill provided for three new battleships four monitors, sixteen torpedo boat destroyers, twelve torpedo boats and one gunboat. The urgent deficiency bills all carried provisions for aggressive work in the prosecution of the war. The general deficiency measure, enacted in the last days, carried a provision for refunding the indebtedness of the Pacific railroads to the Government.

Cuba and Hawaii were the important matters of debate and provoked the most widespread interest. There were a number of messages from President McKinley bearing on the Cuban situation, ranging from the submission of a report upon the Maine disaster and the consular reports, to the call for a declaration of war.

The first real war legislation was when Congress placed, without limitations, $50,000,000 in the President's hands as an emergency fund for national defense. On April 11 the President, in a message, left the Cuban issue in the hands of Congress. Resolutions were soon enacted and became law April 19 declaring that the people of Cuba ought to be and are free and independent and demanding that Spain relinquish its authority and withdraw its land and naval forces from Cuba and Cuban waters and directing the use of our land and naval forces to enforce the resolutions.

The declaration of war was passed by Congress and approved on April 25. Three days before the declaration of war, President McKinley approved the volunteer act. Under it all the soldiers in the volunteer army have been raised, embracing 125,000 men under the first and 75,000 under the second call.

One feature of the session was the enactment of the war revenue law. Its framers expected it to produce $150,000,000. Minor war legislation included the following: Organizing a volunteer army signal corps, organizing a volunteer brigade of engineers, creating two additional artillery regiments, adding 31,610 men; creating a United States auxiliary naval force, not exceeding 2,000 enlisted men and appropriating $3,000,000 therefor, keeping life-saving stations on the Atlantic and gulf coasts open during June and July for patrol purposes, authorizing assistance to Cubans and providing them with arms and supplies, allowing homestead settlers who volunteer to count their service in homestead requirements, resolutions of thanks to Dewey and his men, and the presentation of a sword to him and medals to his officers.

Other important legislation, aside from war, included prohibiting the killing of fur seals in the north Pacific and importation of sealskins into this country; prohibiting foreign vessels from carrying merchandise directly or indirectly between United States ports; an Alaskan homestead and right of way act, encouraging railway construction; appropriating $200,000 for the relief of the Yukon miners; creating a non-partisan industrial commission to investigate immigration, labor, manufacture and business. Late in the session a general bankruptcy law was enacted providing for voluntary and involuntary bankruptcy.

CATTLE ARE SCARCE.

Stock Owners Holding Their Animals for a Rise in Prices.

From all parts of the West come reports that cattle are scarce. This fact is leading a number of cattlemen to go long distances to make purchases, as it is generally conceded that there is money in feeding. From Mexico there comes a deficiency of nearly 50 per cent in the number shipped through Colorado to Nebraskan and Kansas feeders and the total receipts of New Mexico also fall far short of the customary. This falling off of cattle passing through Colorado is in accord with the gross figures for the United States, which are as follows: In April, 1897, 73,489 cattle passed across the Mexican border into the United States, and the same month this year showed 35,158. For the first four months of last year there were 160,649 received, and for the corresponding months this year there were 72,639, a less number than came in during April, 1897. The reason assigned for this year's shortage is that last year drained the Mexican frontier.

From Las Vegas, N. M., P. J. Towner, inspector for Colorado, Kansas and South Dakota, makes the following significant report, which speaks for itself. During the month of May he inspected 73,533 cattle, 8,935 sheep and 469 horses, making a total of 82,964 head, against 105,191 for the same period last year. These figures may be taken to mean that stock owners are holding to their animals in anticipation of a rise in prices, which it is predicted is certain in view of the war.

PEDAGOGUES AT WASHINGTON.

National Educational Association Opens Its Meeting.

The thirty-seventh annual meeting of the National Educational Association opened Thursday night at Convention Hall, Washington, D. C. President J. M. Greenwood of Kansas City was in the chair. The list of speakers included the most distinguished educators in the country. President Greenwood reviewed the work of the association for the past year. He said the organization now numbers 10,000 members and has a surplus capital of $60,000, with an annual income of $30,000 or more. John W. Ross, district commissioner, welcomed the delegates to Washington. Dr. William T. Harris, United States Commissioner of Education; President B. L. Whitman of the Columbian University, and Webster Davis, assistant secretary of the Department of the Interior, followed with brief addresses.

Delegations from all over the country were in the city. Every train brought car loads of pedagogues, and those who came did Washington from Capitol Hill to the White House.

HAWAII IS VOTED IN.

SENATE ADOPTS HOUSE RESOLUTIONS FOR ANNEXATION.

Vote Is Reached Sooner than Expected—Galleries Greet Result with Applause—Amendments Defeated by the Annexationists—Six Democrats Aid the Republicans.

Final Vote Stands 42 to 21.

The annexation of Hawaii was accomplished Wednesday so far as the legislative branch of the Government was concerned. Quite unexpectedly the resolutions providing for the annexation of the islands were brought to a vote in the Senate late in the afternoon, and they were passed by the decisive vote of 42 to 21.

Early in Wednesday's session of the Senate conferences of the leaders on both sides of the chamber were held and a tacit agreement was reached that a vote should be taken Thursday. The opponents of annexation had concluded their arguments, and as they had no desire to keep the Senate in session by purely dilatory tactics, they announced their willingness that a vote should be taken as soon as Mr. White, Mr. Pettigrew and Mr. Allen had finished their speeches. Neither Mr. White nor Mr. Pettigrew spoke at great length, but Mr. Allen did not conclude until 4:15.

It was evident instantly that a vote was at hand. The word was passed swiftly through the corridors and committee rooms and in a few minutes every Senator at the capitol was in his seat. The galleries filled rapidly and members of the House of Representatives, learning that a vote was to be taken, came hurriedly to the Senate side of the great marble pile to witness proceedings that will be historic.

CONGRESSMAN NEWLANDS.
Father of the Hawaiian Annexation Resolutions.

The test vote came on an amendment offered by Mr. White of California. It was offered with no expectation that it would be adopted, but merely to place the ideas and opinions of the opponents of annexation on record. It was rejected by a vote of 40 to 20, indicating that the annexationists were strongly in the majority. Amendment after amendment was offered, but the advocates of the resolutions stood solidly together, gaining rather than losing strength on the successive votes.

Finally, at 5:30 p. m., the resolutions themselves, in precisely the form in which they were received from the House of Representatives, were reported to the Senate and the roll-call began. Intense interest was manifested by every spectator. Not a sound was to be heard in the chamber except the call of the clerk and the responses of Senators. When the Vice-President announced the vote by which the resolutions were passed a tremendous wave of applause swept through the galleries, which the Vice-President made no effort to check. Those who had advocated the resolutions expressed their pleasure by shaking hands with one another, and on all sides evident relief was shown that the end had come. For a few minutes so much good-natured confusion existed that the dignity of the Senate was threatened, but Vice-President Hobart quietly reminded Senators that the session was not yet at an end.

Mr. Morrill of Vermont was the only Republican who voted against the resolutions, although Mr. Thurston of Nebraska and Mr. Spooner of Wisconsin were paired against them. Six Democrats—Mr. Gorman of Maryland, McLaurin of South Carolina, Money of Mississippi, Morgan of Alabama, Pettus of Alabama and Sullivan of Mississippi—voted in favor of annexation.

D. D. Barron, a miner employed at the plant of the Missouri Lead and Zinc Company, near Joplin, Mo., was struck by a part of the hoisting apparatus and knocked to the bottom of the shaft, 110 feet below. He was killed instantly.

Robert McMurray of San Francisco, who left Nevada City, Cal., on a fishing excursion, died at Graniteville, Cal., of cholera morbus. He was a prominent capitalist and mining man, and was State mining commissioner to the World's Fair at Chicago.

In the Senate on Saturday bills were passed as follows: Amendatory to the law regarding fraudulent affidavits in pension and bounty land cases; to pay the owners of the ship Achilles for expenses incurred in rendering service to the wrecked American ship Arabia. Mr. Pettigrew (S. D.) then resumed his speech upon the Hawaiian annexation resolutions. The Senate passed with amendment the House bill to increase the force of the ordnance department. Mr. Cockrell (Mo.), from Committee on Military Affairs, reported and the Senate passed the House bill fixing pay of volunteer soldiers from the date of enrollment for service. The bill was amended so as to include all officers. The Senate passed the House bill directing the enlistment of cooks in the regular and volunteer armies. Also a bill to change the times for holding courts in the eastern district of North Carolina. Also the House bill to amend the statutes relating to the bonds of vice-consuls and the quarterly returns of business by consular officers and the Senate bill amending the laws relating to American seamen for their protection and to promote commerce. The chief features of the latter are the elimination of all imprisonment provisions in the coastwise trade, including Mexican and West Indian, the reduction of penalties in the foreign trade; the improvement of the provision scales, and the reduction of allotments to one month.

In the Senate on Monday Allen of Nebraska began his speech in opposition to Hawaiian annexation. At noon Turpie read the declaration of independence. During the session a large number of pension bills were passed.

The debate upon the Hawaiian resolutions continued in the Senate on Tuesday. Three speeches were made. Mr. Hoar of Massachusetts in advocating annexation made a notable appeal against any policy of general territorial expansion as a sequence to the war. Mr. Lindsay of Kentucky opposed the resolutions, directing his attack principally against their constitutionality. Mr. White of California resumed his speech in opposition.

The annexation of Hawaii is now accomplished so far as the legislative branch of the Government is concerned. Quite unexpectedly the resolutions providing for the annexation of the islands were brought to a vote in the Senate late Wednesday afternoon, and they were passed by the decisive vote of 42 to 21. Many amendments were offered by opponents of the resolutions, but all were defeated. The House, after a debate of four hours, concurred in the Senate amendment to the general deficiency bill, authorizing the Secretary of the Interior, the Attorney General and the Secretary of the Treasury to settle, with the approval of the President, the indebtedness of the Central and Western Pacific roads to the Government. The amendment was concurred in by a vote of 96 to 86. An amendment was offered and adopted to the Pacific Railroad amendment providing that unless settlement was reached within one year the President should begin foreclosure proceedings to collect all money due the Government.

Both houses of Congress on Thursday passed a resolution fixing the time of sine die adjournment at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon. The routine proceedings in each branch follow: Senate—A bill conferring upon Adjutant General Corbin the rank, pay and allowance of a major general was passed. Mr. Pettus sharply criticised the measure and charged that Gen. Corbin had been rapidly promoted by reason of political favoritism. This charge brought several Senators to their feet, among whom were Messrs. Bate, Pasco and Bacon, all of whom testified to Gen. Corbin's distinguished ability and special fitness for the position he occupies. Mr. Sewall, Mr. Hale and Mr. Foraker paid high tributes to Gen. Corbin, warmly eulogizing him for the splendid record he has made both on the field of battle and in the position he now holds. There was no division on the vote by which the bill was passed. During the greater part of the session the Senate considered bills unobjected to on the general calendar, passing a large number of them. A bill to restore Major J. W. Wham, formerly paymaster in the United States army, to his full rank and pay in the army was unanimously passed. House—The day was given to consideration of local measures by unanimous consent. Few of importance were passed. After the resolutions providing for final adjournment were agreed to, there was a clamor characteristic of the closing days of a session, members in large numbers being almost constantly upon their feet, appealing for recognition and consideration of their local measures.

Congress adjourned sine die Friday. There was a patriotic demonstration in the House, but quiet ruled the closing hours of the Senate session. The House passed the bill to reimburse the States for expenses incurred in transporting, feeding, clothing and caring for soldiers in aid of organization of the volunteer army.

THE LITTLE ARMCHAIR.

Nobody sits in the little armchair,
It stands in a corner dim,
But a white-haired mother, gazing there,
And yearningly thinking of him,
Sees through the dusk of long ago
The bloom of her boy's sweet face,
As he rocks so merrily to and fro,
With a laugh that cheers the place.

Sometimes he holds a book in his hand,
Sometimes a pencil and slate:
And the lesson is hard to understand,
And the figures hard to mate:
But she sees the nod of the father's head,
So proud of his little son,
And she hears the word so often said,
"No fear for our little one."

They were wonderful days, the dear sweet days,
When a child with sunny hair
Was hers to scold, to kiss and to praise,
At her knee in the little chair,
She lost him back in her busy years,
When the great world caught the man,
And he strode away past hopes and fears
To his place in the battle's van.

But now and then in a wistful dream,
Like a picture out of date,
She sees a head with a golden gleam
Bent over a pencil and slate,
And she lives again the happy day,
The day of her young life's spring,
When the small arm-chair stood just in the way,
The center of everything.

MARGARET E. SANGSTER.

Siege of the Wallow.

A Brave Frontiersman's Deed.

The western "bad man" was in a reminiscent mood and he remarked that he knew of no parallel to the heroism of Amos Chapman.

"To fight Indians was bad enough," he continued, "but to be corralled by them in a buffalo wallow and held there by them, and water up to your neck—that is an inferno with the lid off.

"I knew Chapman quite well. He had been on the frontier a long time. He was from the East. He had hunted buffalo, traded with Indians, fought with them in 1868, and finally married a Cheyenne. He was not more than 30 years old, tough, sure shot, good interpreter, fearless rider, and as brave as a man could be.

"It was in September, 1874, that Gen. Miles' command was camped on the Red River, in the Texas Panhandle, where it had followed the retreating Indians, or rather the main body of them. Prairie Dog Dave and I were selected as the two scouts to carry despatches from Gen. Miles to Major Compton, whose command was located on McClelland Creek, about seventy-five miles to the north. Some of the despatches were really intended for Camp Supply, in the Indian Territory, still further north, but our instructions were simip to deliver them to Major Compton. Dave and I hoped to be sent on to Camp Supply with them, for we needed some new and warmer clothes, as it was beginning to be cold nights.

"We were not clad in buckskin and beads as scouts are usually pictured. Our clothing simply consisted of a pair of cheap overalls, calico shirts, soft hat and a pair of boots. We had lived in them all summer and thought it about time to change them. We reached Compton's camp without incident and cursed our luck when we received return despatches to Miles, while ours were turned over to Billy Dixon and Amos Chapman to take to Camp Supply. Later when we learned what they went through we took it all back.

"It was known that there was a marauding band of the red devils somewhere in the vicinity, but, like the Irishman's flea, it was a difficult matter to put a finger on them. They might be in one spot one day and fifty miles or more away the next. It was considered best to send a sergeant and five soldiers with the scout for greater security, and, as was customary, they took an unbeaten trail to their destination.

"Now, it happened that this roving band of reds, numbering fully 300 warriors, had been laying a five days' siege to Jack Callahan's twenty-five six-mule Government supply train in the sand hills of the Wachita river. The train was bringing supplies from Camp Supply down to Gen. Miles. It was surprised at this bad place for a fight, and was forced to go into corral. This is done by putting two wagons together in A shape, stringing the rest down the sides, and closing them up at the other end V way. The mules and horses are kept comparatively safe in the inclosure made by the wagons, while the teamsters and soldiers get what protection they can from behind the wheels or by digging rifle pits beneath the wagons. They can shoot with little danger of being hit. Such a corral can stand off an army of Indians until the water gives out. The Indians attacked the train for five days, killing one Lieutenant, two soldiers, and some of the animals. Their loss was heavy. Soldiers of Company K, Sixth Cavalry, Capt. Kingsbury, from Camp Supply, had appeared upon the scene driven off the Cheyennes, and relieved the besieged.

"Chapman and Dixon, with their little escort, had crossed the Wachita, some three or four miles below where the pack train had been held up, but, of course, knew nothing of its presence or that of the Indians. On a rolling prairie country such as they were in it is a difficult matter to see any great distance on account of the knolls and hollows. They were coming out of a small draw or canon, when suddenly they espied the savages, who were almost directly upon them. There was but one thing to do, and that was to get out upon the open prairie, where there would be a chance to fight. Temporary protection would be afforded by getting behind things in the canon, but it would only be a matter of a short time when they would be surrounded and shot at from all directions. As experienced men, they knew this. A dash was made for the prairie, and they reached it in a shower of shot. It is impossible to shoot well from the back of a rapidly moving horse.

"It was the plan to find a buffalo wallow, lie as flat as possible in it, and shoot until dead. Before such a place was found the scouts and soldiers dismounted, so as to shoot better and keep the Indians from getting too close before they could get into cover. A couple of dead Indians will stop one hundred live ones from coming too near. One soldier held the bridle reins of the horses while the rest of the men retreated behind them and shot at the advancing host. The Indians likewise dismounted, so that they could also shoot better and not be such good targets. It may seem strange that such a large body of Indians would not make just one charge and overwhelm the white men by force of numbers, but that is not the Indian way. They will not take a risk if they can help it. They will not trade anywhere near even with the white man when life is at stake.

"Before a buffalo wallow could be found the soldier holding the horses was shot and killed and the animals stampeded. Then there was a race for life to the nearest hole. Some thirty feet from one another soldier was shot, but not killed. He lay there and yelled in the agony of fear and pain.

"'Don't let them scalp me, boys! For God's sake don't let them get me!' he shrieked. The rest had safely got into the wallow.

"It was with this appeal ringing in his ears that Amos Chapman, without a word to his mates, but just a yell, 'I'm coming,' sprang up out of the wallow, his six-shooter in hand, ran to the wounded man, seized and sought to drag him back. The Indians fired a volley at him and made a rush toward him. I don't know how many shot were fired at Chapman, but the only place he was hit was below the left knee. The bone was shattered to splinters. Some of the bullets hit the dying soldier and hastened his end. Chapman's leg gave way under him like a piece of rubber, but he never weakened or let go. Reaching ahead with his good leg and the knee of the left, he dragged the soldier along with his left hand, piece by piece, firing his gun with his right.

"The men in the wallow kept up a fusillade and the Indians were held back. Painfully but persistently Chapman dragged himself and the man along. Sometimes he sought to rise hoping that the leg would hold, but it doubled under him. It did not take many minutes for all this to happen. Chapman and the wounded soldier reached the hole, where the latter died in a little while. Now, if that isn't an example of heroic bravery, then I don't know what is. One might criticise his judgment, but not his bravery. He could not and would not see that soldier slaughtered and scalped, and put his own life in peril to prevent it. Had he been killed the lives of all the others would have been placed in still greater jeopardy by the loss of a defender, but those things were not thought of. There was but one idea, and the instant it was conceived it was put into execution. Dixon would have done the same thing had not Chapman been quicker. When I think of such things to-day I believe that men like Chapman should have a monument. He got a cork leg from the government and a second lieutenant's pension when he retired.

"I cannot go into the details of the uneven fight that followed, for I was not there, and only know the story from what Dixon and Chapman afterward told me. The ordinary buffalo wallow, which is made by buffaloes rolling and wallowing around in the soft earth, is about a dozen feet in diameter and perhaps two or three feet deep. The men cut away the dirt from around the edge with their knives and threw the loose material up in front. This afforded greater protection, as only the head was exposed, and then only when firing, which had to be kept up.

"They stood off that big band of cowards all that day, and it must have been something awful. The shooting on the part of the Indians was almost continuous, for there were a lot of them, and they had plenty of ammunition, as they captured a lot of the horses. Three more of the soldiers were killed, the sergeant was shot twice, and, in fact, the only one to escape with a whole skin was Bill Dixon.

"Just to illustrate what curs Indians are, they just camped around that buffalo wallow, hiding behind their horses, shooting, while some of them yelled in English to Chapman to come out and fight. Just think, they wanted him to stand up and be shot at by the 300. They were anxious to kill him particularly, for he had married one of their squaws and was against them.

"That night there was a terrific rainstorm, which filled the wallow to the brim with water. The wounded men had to keep their heads above water so as not to drown, while they had to keep their guns and ammunition dry and be constantly on the watch for an attack. I need not dwell upon the horrors of that night and of the sufferings of these men, who rested their bodies upon those of the dead ones below, and sat through the long hours in the water, thick with the blood that oozed from their wounds and from the remains of their companions. It must have been a fearful experience.

"As Dixon was the only one uninjured, he crawled out of the wallow during the worst of the storm and started south toward Major Compton's command for help. He had no trouble in passing the Indians for they were intent upon protecting themselves from the downpour. Indians do not like water. Dixon traveled fully thirty miles on foot that night in the drenching rain, and as day broke he took refuge in a clump of wild plum bushes. During the forenoon he saw a body of horsemen in the distance, but it was some time before he assured himself that it was a body of soldiers out scouting. He fired his gun and attracted their attention.

"The party at once started back to the rescue, but some precaution had to be taken. Dixon, with remarkable instinct, brought them back to within a few rods of the wallow, but it was dusk and there was danger of being mistaken for Indians, who, by the way, had cleared out, for reasons known to themselves. It was some time before Chapman could be convinced that it was Dixon calling him and not the Indians who had tried to lure him out by talking English.

"All that day the men had been in torture, and still they were a long way from the hospital. Chapman rode seventy-five miles on horseback to Camp Supply, where the leg was amputated below the knee. He was out in a month, but always had to mount his horse afterward with his left leg, as the Indians do. He and Ben Clark escorted Dull Knife's band of Cheyennes down from the Dakotas to the Indian reservation in 1877. Chapman is living with the Indians now, and Billy Dixon has a ranch at the old 'Dobey Walls.'"—New York Sun.

LIVING ON MONKEY MEAT.

A Story Told by an American of Six Months in Oaxaca.

Living in Mexico is often a disastrous experience to the foreigner who is not acquainted with localities and customs. In the case of John Bascon and his companion, an Englishman, named Martin Hayes, their experience was such, but it was also interesting. In conversation with Mr. Bascon that gentleman stated the following to a reporter:

"Not long ago I came up from Guatemala with an Englishman named Martin Hayes, and we had three burros laden with goods. We prospected all along the line to Tonelado, and stopped one week with an Indian at Tehuantepec. While there we learned that in the district up to Tonelado there was plenty of gold, as another Englishman had passed through there with $8,000 which he had panned out at a certain point somewhere in the region of San Pablo, in Oaxaca. We traced the gold along the streams for sixty miles, and reached as far as San Miguel. We were very hungry by this time, having run short of provisions, and, going across the mountains, were told that we should be careful as banditti were numerous. Soon after two men met us not far from San Miguel, and they both had rifles. They ordered us to halt, but I pulled a revolver and took their guns away from them and marched them on in front of us. When we arrived at San Miguel one of them entered a complain before the Jese Politico charging us with holding them up, but the Jese knew the men too well to listen to their story, and the result is one of them is still in jail at that place.

"When we left San Miguel we secured a mozo to guide us to where the Englishman referred to found his gold, but when we got there the mozo would not stay, as it was known the Englishman had returned and died there. We found his skeleton, with the legs and arms eaten off, and the mozo, being fearful he would see the ghost of the dead, left us to ourselves. We went across a river and camped in the adjacent woods. Along the stream we prospected for gold, and in two weeks we found gold which went about twenty-five cents to the pan. We remained there about six months, and all that time we lived on monkey meat and green bananas, and both too, without salt. Just think of it! Nothing but monkeys, and occasionally a fowl or two, and not a tortilla or common hot cake. Well sir, my partner, Martin Hayes, of London, England, died four months after from the privations suffered during that time, and I don't suppose his wife and family ever heard of it. But we got some gold all right, and monkey meat would have been good enough for me if we had only had some salt."

Strange Freak of Nature.

From some of the newer countries, so-called on account of the lack of definite knowledge regarding them, reports of strange freaks and curiosities constantly appear and, as a rule, they are laughed at, but once in a while they turn out to be truth. It is this way with a strange freak of nature, called the bullrush caterpillar, which is indigenous to New Zealand. This report, which stated that at certain seasons a large black caterpillar would bury itself in the ground, and be converted into the root of a bulrush, was laughed at, like the rest, but now an English scientist, who recently gave an exhaustive investigation of the strange phenomenon, stated that in many respects the statements are strictly true. From this report it has been learned that the caterpillar grows to about three and one-half inches long and when about to assume the chrysalis state buries itself in the ground, and in doing so it is frequently infected by the spores of some fungus, which becomes involved in the scales in its neck. These the larvae is unable to expel, and the vegetation thus set up rapidly, extends throughout the whole body, replacing each animal cell thus destroyed by vegetable matter, and finally converting it into a comparatively dense vegetable structure, which retains every detail of the body, even to the legs, mandibles and minutest claw. From the neck, the portion first infected, there then shoots up a single stem, which grows to the height of eight or ten inches, resembling very closely the club-headed bulrush in miniature. It has no leaves, and if the first stem be broken off another rises in its place, though two stems never grow simultaneously from the same "caterpillar.

Fate of Beardsley Poster.

The late Aubrey Beardsley little suspected what the fate of one of his curious, weird pictures would be. According to a contemporary, one of these bizarre posters was purchased by an American in London for the modest sum of twenty-five cents, and sent to a friend in America as a specimen of the latest thing in English art. The friend's appreciation of English art was such that he used the poster for wrapping up some linen that was sent to a Chinese laundry kept by Sam Li. Sam's eyes brightened as he smoothed out the crumbled paper, and he fastened it on the laundry wall and invited his compatriots to come and look at it.

They came by twos and threes until the fame of the poster spread abroad; then they came in crowds. One of the visitors, Wan-fo-Li, director of the Chinese theater in Canton, bought it for $100 and soon made $400 by charging a small entrance fee for seeing the poster. Finally, a rich Chinaman of San Francisco bought it for $500 and to-day it decorates the palace of this millionaire, and before it burns, day and night, a lamp, as before some domestic divinity.—Chicago News.

FIGHT TO THE DEATH.

TWO KENTUCKY FAMILIES EXTERMINATING EACH OTHER.

The Bakers and Howards Have Been Settling an Old Quarrel by Shedding Each Other's Blood—State Troops Were Called to Subdue Them.

Mountain Feud.

The history of the Baker-Howard feud, which assumed such large and dangerous proportions as to cause State troops to be sent to Manchester, Ky., for the protection of the court, is one of the most interesting in the annals of mountain wars. The men engaged in this feud are descendants of the same pioneers. Their ancestors have lived there for more than 100 years. Many of the families have intermarried, until nearly everybody in Clay County is related by blood lines to everybody else.

A. B. HOWARD.

The Howards are members of the fighting Howards of Harlan County, who, led by Wilson Howard, killed about thirty of the Turner faction in Harlan and Bell Counties. Wilson was afterward legally hanged after he had boasted of killing ten men with his own hand. There is a Wilson Howard in the Clay County family, but he was so unfortunate as to fall early in the fight. Old man A. B. or "Bal" Howard, who is the leader of the faction that bears his name, is 52 years old and has tried to lead a correct life. He has been a member of the Christian Church for many years, is a Free Mason, and has served his county one term as Sheriff and two terms as Deputy Sheriff. While Sheriff he lost all his wealth and went into voluntary liquidation. He has tried hard to keep down the inherited fighting blood, but now that he has been drawn into the fight he is as anxious to win as any other mountain fighter. He recently said he could go into Harlan County and get 500 fighting men to come back and clean out the Bakers root and branch. When he made this declaration his eyes flashed fire, and although he is bent from suffering from the wounds the Bakers gave him in the fight when his son Wilson was killed, he straightened up and with head erect emphasized his words by stamping the ground.

BARRICADE OF THE HOWARD FACTION.

SHERIFF B. P. WHITE.

The trouble between the Bakers and the Howards came up last December over the purchase by Tom Baker of a judgment for $40 and costs that had been rendered against A. B. Howard. Howard's son, James B., now County Assessor, had bought a spring wagon and his father had gone on his note. Not paying for it, suit was brought and judgment rendered. Before Baker bought the judgment he had gone into partnership with A. B. Howard, through his sons Israel and Carter, who were made parties to the contract, in order that none of Howard's creditors could levy on his logs. Thus, when his own partner tried to get the better of him, as he considered it, old man Howard became very angry, and there were some sharp words between Tom Baker and the Howards. Howard refused point blank to pay the judgment and Baker levied on the logs, as the partnership papers had not been made out. Howard fought him in a magistrate's court, but through the influence of Baker's father a compromise was effected, and it looked as if there would be no further blood-letting.

Israel Howard and Tom Baker had had a little shooting scrape over the matter a few days before the compromise was made, and Tom received two slight flesh wounds, which soon healed. Several days after the compromise old man Howard found Tom Baker at the log pit taking out undivided logs. They quarreled and Baker drew a pistol and threatened to shoot Howard on the spot. Howard was unarmed and he soon talked Baker out of the notion of shooting. As Howard walked away, however, Baker threw an auger at him. This opened the breech between the Bakers and the Howards, and when a tide came about a week later old man Howard, his sons Israel and Carter and Burch Store went to the log pit and took the undivided raft out of the mouth of Crane creek, and Israel and Carter remained on it and floated it down the Kentucky river to Frankfort.

A. B. Howard and Burch Store started back home with the five horses that had been used in pulling out the logs. They overtook Israel and Harlan Shackleford and invited them to ride two of the horses. A little further on they came upon Wilson Howard and Will York, and they were invited to ride the remaining horse. The party was riding slowly through the deep mountain mud, little dreaming what was in store for them.

They were cracking jokes, and those who had been walking were congratulating themselves on having a chance to ride, although to one of them it proved a ride to death. When they reached the house of John Baker they say Baker's wife run to the large farm bell and ring it violently, although it was much too early in the morning for dinner.

They had scarcely passed Baker's house when a volley was fired at the cavalcade from ambush. Old man Howard was struck in the back, but he managed to stay on his young horse, which carried him out of range around a point in the road. The second volley struck Burch Store, killing him instantly, the bullets striking him in the neck and in the breast. The third volley came almost as Store fell from his horse, and Wilson Howard rolled off his horse with a bullet in his back that paralyzed his limbs. The other horsemen rode away as fast as possible. When they got out of sight Wilson Howard said Tom Baker and Charles Wooton came to them and fired an explosive bullet into the abdomen of the two wounded men. Wilson Howard died shortly after telling the story of the shooting.

When James B. Howard, who was in town, heard of the shooting he was almost crazy with excitement, and, although his friends begged him not to go to the scene of the killing, some six miles away, he got his horse and galloped toward the place. When nearly there he stopped at Murray's store, where persons were buying grave clothes for Store and Howard, and for the first time heard that his father was not dead, but he was told by the doctor who attended him that he could not get well. Rushing out of the store, intent on going to the side of his father and his dead brother, he met old man George Baker face to face. Without stopping to consider that he was in no danger from the old man who had tried so hard to make peace, and who never carried a pistol, young Howard leveled his gun at Baker and shot him dead. After staying a short time with relatives in Harlan County Howard gave himself up to a kinsman, so the latter could claim the reward of $250. The Bakers were charged with killing Wilson Howard and Burch Store, and with shooting old man Howard, but they were acquitted on the examining trial, on April 17. The next day Sid Baker, a son-in-law of A. B. Howard, and no kin to the other Bakers, met Charles Wooton on the road. After watching each other for several minutes, they both drew their weapons at the same time. A shooting followed in which Wooton was so badly shot in the back that he has never been able to walk, and the physician who attends him says that he will die before very long. June 2 Tom Baker met Will White on the road near White's house and shot him to death with an explosive bullet. Nobody has been punished for any of these crimes, and it was to make the guilty pay the penalty that Gov. Bradley called out troops.

CLAY COUNTY COURT HOUSE.

A SPANISH FIRE-EATER.

Remarkably Checkered Career of Emilio Castelar, Revolution.

Emilio Castelar, who brought down upon his head the wrath of the Spanish Senate by his letter in which he blamed Queen Christina for Spain's troubles, is the republican leader in the politics of the peninsula. Like all revolutionists, Castelar has had his ups and downs, and knows no fear. When the home troubles came with the American war Castelar patriotically refused to head 20,000 republicans who desired to take advantage of the foreign complication and overthrow the monarchy. Castelar is now 66 years old. He inherited his love of liberty from his father, who lived in England an exile under sentence of death for agitation, and who died destitute in 1839. The son was given a fine education and was for a time professor of philosophy in the University of Cadiz, the town of his birth and heart. He lost his place when he founded the newspaper La Democracia of Madrid. His conduct with this paper earned him the sentence of death, but he escaped to Switzerland and France. When Isabella II. was dethroned he returned to Spain and labored for a reublic. Restored to his professorship he resigned in 1875. King Amadeo resigned in 1873 and Castelar became minister of foreign affairs of the republic, and later in the same year was the executive head of the republican government. Castelar has been in and out of cortes for years, and divides public attention with Sagasta. He is a learned man, and is supposed to be far ahead of his country in his ideas of modern statesmanship. Since the outbreak of the present war he has manifested bitter animosity toward this country, and with tongue and pen has made savage attacks upon the people and the government of the United States.

SENOR CASTELAR.

Why the Paper Collapsed.

A few weeks ago Uncle Russell Sage set up a financial news plant for a young man who nailed a paragraphic lie that reflected on him. The newspaper looked prosperous, but while it was growing it was running behind a little. When Mr. Sage dropped in to look at the profit and loss account he found $30 on the wrong side of the ledger. The young man was puffing a Park row perfecto. "How much did that cigar cost?" asked Uncle Russell. It had been given to the young editor, but he told the old man that it was worth about 5 cents. "This is downright extravagance!" cried Mr. Sage, petulantly. "Five cents a day for 365 days would amount to $18.25. Do you know what that would amount to at compound interest in ten years—hey?" The editor confessed that he wasn't good at figures. "Well, stop the paper," said the disgusted millionaire. "I can't be beggared by running a business at a loss of $30 a week, in the control of a man who burns money, as the saying is, smoking 5-cent cigars. My friend Daniel Drew used to smoke stogies at 60 cents a hundred, but that was extravagance, too." And so the editor and the manipulator parted. This is the first instance on record of a promising journal going up in 5 cents' worth of cigar smoke.—New York letter in Pittsburg Dispatch.

Letters Delayed by Bees.

An unusual sight was witnessed at Cranbrook, in Kent, one summer afternoon. A swarm of bees settled on a pillar box at Frizley, and soon afterwards a second swarm located themselves inside the box, the whole colony following the queen through the aperture provided for letters. Every preparation was made for the capture of the swarm upon the arrival of the rural postman to clear the letters; but, owing to the awkward position of the winged visitors, it was found impossible to hive the bees until night, when they were smoked and safely housed. Owing to this unusual incident, the leters posted before the bees took possession of the pillar box were delayed for several hours.

Coral Flower Gardens.

No gardens on earth can match the gardens of the sea that encircle the northern part of Australia. As the tide ebbs in the azure of sunset, coral reefs peer out, symmetrically arranged in beds and intersected by emerald channels as if they were the colossal flower beds of some great sea king. Corals of all hues and tints can be seen fathoms deep in the channels. The coral polyps, although they build islands and help to extend continents, are most delicate organisms, and die on the least exposure, and leave behind them their skeletons, but even their skeletons are things of beauty.

WAR HISTORY OF A WEEK.

Saturday.

Fighting resumed at Santiago, but only in a desultory manner. The American troops held the ground occupied the day before.

Sunday.

Gen. Shafter demanded a surrender of the city under penalty of bombardment. The demand was refused.

Admiral Cervera's squadron made an effort to escape from Santiago harbor. Choosing a moment when the American squadron was lying ten miles off shore, the Spanish ships left the harbor, four cruisers sailing west and two torpedo destroyers east. The Oregon, Indiana, Iowa and Brooklyn, under Commodore Schley, pursued and destroyed the Vizcaya, Almirante Oquendo, Maria Teresa and Cristobal Colon, taking Admiral Cervera and 1,500 of his men prisoners. The converted cruiser Gloucester sank the torpedo boat destroyers Furor and Pluton. The Spanish loss in killed was 360. The American ships were uninjured in the battle and but one man was killed.

Monday.

At the urgent request of the foreign consuls, Gen. Shafter agreed to a truce until Tuesday noon, in order to give time for the removal of women and children from Santiago.

Wednesday.

Lieut. Hobson believed to now be free.

Resolutions annexing Hawaiian Islands to the United States adopted by the Senate.

Spanish warship Alfonso XII. is reported to have been destroyed while trying to run the blockade out of Havana.

Conference of Shafter and Sampson results in a decision to await army re-enforcements before bombarding Santiago.

Wisconsin and Massachusetts volunteers are en route to re-enforce Gen. Shafter and Illinois men are ready for the order to move.

Fifty Spanish prisoners on board the Harvard attempt to overpower the crew and escape. Six were killed and twelve wounded by the guards.

Leaders in Spain think the time is ripe to sue for peace, but the Government decides to continue war. The Pope is said to have been asked to seek peace.

Clara Barton of the Red Cross tells President McKinley wounded American soldiers lie on wet ground at Siboney, Cuba, because hospital accommodations are inadequate.

Thursday.

At El Caney 15,000 destitute persons have assembled, being refugees from Santiago.

Gen. Miles left Washington for Santiago to assume active command of military operations in Cuba.

United States naval attache in London informs President McKinley that Spain will sue for peace next week.

Clara Barton succors the starving refugees from Santiago and pays a high tribute to the American soldiers.

Lieut. Hobson and his companions are exchanged and received with great demonstrations of joy by the troops.

American troops under Gen. Anderson are comfortably quartered at Cavite and awaiting re-enforcements before attacking Manila.

Cruiser Philadelphia ordered to sail from Mare Island to raise the United States flag over Hawaii and receive the islands into the Union.

Commodore Watson's squadron ordered detached from Admiral Sampson's fleet and to start without delay for the Spanish coast. Probable that a chase will be made for Camara's fleet.

Friday.

Gen. Shafter's armistice with the Spaniards at Santiago extended until Saturday at noon.

Admiral Camara, with his fleet, which had passed through the Suez canal, ordered to return to Spain.

Col. Wood of the rough riders made a brigadier general, and Lieut. Col. Roosevelt promoted to the colonelcy of the regiment.

A Spanish privateer reported cruising in British Columbian waters, ready to prey on vessels returning from Alaska with treasure.

Officials at Washington expect that Spain will begin negotiations for peace in a few days. Important dispatches have been received with this end in view.

Military precautions taken in Spain to prevent expected outbreaks. Soldiers disgusted with condition of affairs, while republicans have issued a circular, headed "Prepare!" Reports that Spain would sue for peace caused an advance in Spanish bonds.

BOMB IN THE PALACE.

Attempt to Kill Queen Regent and King of Spain Failed.

Information has been received in Washington to the effect that an attempt was recently made to blow up the apartments of the Queen Regent of Spain at Madrid with dynamite. Several men were arrested for alleged complicity in the plot, and one of them, Alegandro Argorano, was confined in the fortress Monjuich, at Barcelona, and afterward executed. The others are still under arrest. Absolutely no official information has been given out concerning the attempted crime, and the press of the Spanish capital was kept in ignorance of it. It is believed, however, that the bomb was placed by adherents of Don Carlos, who wished to expedite his accession to the throne by the destruction either of the boy king, Alfonso, or his mother, the Queen Regent.

COURT.

The Boyer case did not begin Monday afternoon as we said it would, as another case that was expected to be a short one, was called up first but took all day. Then on Tuesday came up a venue case from Ft. Wayne, in which a man named Cox sues to recover his insurance of several companies. They worked at this till nine last evening, and started in again this morning to finish it, and the Boyer case is to follow.

DIVORCE CASES.

The case between Caroline and Murray Smith resulted in giving her a divorce and $100 alimony. The lease of Smith's land was set aside as far as she was concerned, giving her a lien on the land and a judgment of $123 against George and Manford Smith.

Ida C Strong has been divorced from Judd and given $25 a year, in four payments, October, January, April and July as long as the boy lives with her.

Martha Oberlin is divorced from Jeremiah, gets the three children and $300 alimony and her costs.

Geo. L. Jones was divorced from Sarah at his cost.

Jacob Fisher was divorced from Samantha.

In Charles vs Albena Dannels, she was given the divorce on a cross complaint at his cost.

In the divorce case of Margaret vs John Grise, the finding was for defendant.

Rudolph Battershell got a divorce from Lillian at his expense.

Lillian Levering got a divorce from Charles M. by paying the costs herself.

Samuel Holden was given a divorce from Mary, and also got the boy, while she got the girl.

Mary Ham asked a divorce from Jacob Ham, but he got the bill on a cross complaint, and the custody of the two children.

Fence Done

The new iron fence at the old cemetery is now all in place, and all done for it that can be done till there comes a big rain to help the ground the settle so the posts can be tamped again Mr. Bartels feels proud of the appearance of things down there, and suggests also, that now is a nice time for all who have not paid their subscriptions to do so.

MUST GO

Lieut. Carranza and Senor Du Bosc the two members of the Spanish embassy, that was in Washington till the war began, have been staying over in Canada at Montreal since they left There. The Canadian authorities have got hold of a letter written by Carranza which discloses the fact that both are engaged in keeping up a set of spies in the United States. International law will not permit them to enjoy the protection of a friendly nation while doing such work, and so the Canadian government has made them leave They feel greatly, but they had to go.

LATEST WAR NEWS.

Monday's Daily.

The bombardment of Santiago began soon after 4 p. m. Sunday, the time having been extended from noon to that hour. The Spanish commander had refused to surrender. Sampson's fleet cannot help much as the strong forts at the mouth of the harbor hold out, and what is worse, the narrow channel is full of mines. So the government has ordered the fleet not to try to get into the harbor. The ships can reach a part of the outer works, from the sea.

Spain says she will wait till she has at least one victory, before she gives up. She is likely to wait for some time.

Our three best ships, Indiana, Oregon and Iowa are to be among these sent over to Spain.

The Spanish commander in Santiago cables to Havana, that he has managed to get nearly everybody out of the city, except his soldiers, and that his men are living on nothing but rice, coffee, sugar and salt.

It appears that after all, no Spanish re-enforcements entered Santiago, though it had been repeatedly reported, and at one time Gen. Shafter believed it. Now, we have extended our lines clear around north of the city to the waters of the bay, and no aid can get in unless they come across the bay.

We have sunk a large ship loaded with provisions and amnunition that was trying to get into Havana.

Tuesday's Daily.

Samson says he can throw shells clear into the city of Santiago by getting close to the shore east of the mouth of the bay. But of couse he wastes a good deal of his shots.

Our lines of investment at Santiago, extend from near the sea, northward then around the north going west, for a total distance of 14 miles.

It is hoped we can get through the Santiago job soon, as there is great danger of sickness.

Gen. Miles will not take command, but leave it with Shafter if the health of Shafter remains good.

Cubans in Florida are being enlisted and formed into a regiment. They will go out with some reenforcements now getting ready.

There has been more or less firing at Santiago since Sunday afternoon, and it is probably kept up today but it is not belived we are hurting them much. We have refrained from making an assault, as it entails a heavy loss of life, and we believe we can get the city without that.

W. J. Bryan's regiment, the Third Nebraska has been called into the field. It goes to Jacksonville Florida to join the Army Corps of Gen. Lee.

The shelling of Santiago has not been pushed as it was believed they had a way to escape if we crowded them. So we are going slow till our army is strong enough to close up every gap. We want the men, as much as we do the city.

The Spanish sailors captured when their fleet was destroyed at Santiago have been taken to Portsmouth, N. H. and will be kept in barracks built for that purpose on Seavy Island there. Their officers were taken to Annapolis Md., and given good quarters at the Naval Academy grounds, in a fine row buildings known as the Goldsborough Row. All have been, and will be treated with the greatest attention.

Cervera has told the story of his capture. He says he knew it means defeat to come out of that harbor, but his home government ordered him several times to go out, and he obeyed, knowing what his fate would likely be. He is never tired of praising our commanders for their humanity to him and his unfortunate men.

Gen. Miles reached Shafter Monday noon, and now they have over 23,000 men.

There is a rumor that a flag of truce has been raised at Santiago, and that may mean surrender

Wednesday's Daily.

There is a report that Gen. Shafter several days ago would have been willing to accept a proposition to let the Spanish army go out of Santiago, with their side arms, but that McKinley would not agree to this. If Shafter was willing to do this, it is a most amazing thing. When was it ever heard that an army certain of complete victory gave its enemy such terms? It was never done. If Shafter was of this opinion, his sanity should be examined into. We can't believe it of him.

The Spanish ships that caught fire at Santiago had their magazines blown up, and it is noticed that the decks were blown upward, and but little damage done to the hull or the bottom, as was the case with the Maine, whose keel was bent upward. It confirms the belief that the Maine was blown up by the Spaniards.

The flags of truce we mentoned yesterday were used in an attempt by Shafter, to get the Spaniards to surrender and not waste their lives uselessly. Firing has been going on a part of the time, and many buildings destroyed.

A part of the Spaniards, a few hundred have got out, but we have them so close that we do not see how they can escape.

Camp Life At Tampa As A Recruit Sees.

PORT TAMPA, CITY, FLA., July 10.

DEAR EDITOR:—You recently changed my post office address from Angola to to New Era, and now will you please send my paper to the above address. As I came down with the Angola recruits, I shall have been here two weeks tomorrow.

The boys gave us a hearty greeting, let us in the tents and they put up their small ones which one half tent is issued to each soldier to carry with him.

We were a little awkward in the camp life at first but with the help and private instructions from the boys we were soon taught military courtesy and many other important things that go to make a military man.

Uncle Sam was not ready to equip us when we first came but he was not long in fitting us out with everything necessary so if crossing the pond should come upon us the companies can go with their full number, 109.

It is doubtful whether we will get over to Cuba, Porto Rico or elsewhere very soon as we have had so many orders that we put no dependence in them any more. Yesterday we moved over in a new higher camping ground which is across the railroad, about a mile from the old one.

We all are pleased with the new location though we have no trees to string our hammocks in which we were accustomed to sleep.

In moving over we all experienced a regiment march though the distance was short our loads got heavy, and we know now about how much to carry with us if we should be moved to the front, not any more than postively necessary. It did not take long to break up camp when all was ready for at one beat of the drum the whole white city of tents were down.

The rainy season has begun and it rains a shower nearly every day then clears off nearly all of the time.

Flies are a pest in the day time and mosquetoes at night. Mosquetose bar has been a good sale here of late.

Transportation boats are coming in and are being loaded. A train load of artillery has just passed through on its way to the docks.

Co. K is beside us and all are stirring. The boys in general are in good spirits and all are well with few exceptions but that can be expected among so many.

I leave these remarks to DeKalb friends and think if it is not necessary for us to cross the pond we will be home in a few months,

With many regards.

CALVIN W. HEITZ,

CORUNNA.

Government Seed Testing.

The act of Congree making appropriations for the Department of Agriculture for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1899, under the heading "Botanical Investigation and Experiments, Division of Botany," contains the following clause:

The Secretary of Agriculture is hereby authorized to purchase samples of seed in open market, test same and when found not up to standard he may, at his discretion, publish the results of these tests, together with the names of the seedsmen by whom the seeds were sold,

The purchase of seeds for the tests authorized under this act will begin July 1, 1898. It will be the aim of the Department of Agriculture in carrying out this law to put a stop to the sale of seed so poor as to make probable a positive injury and loss to the purchaser, thus giving protection on the one hand to the farmer and gardener and on the other hand to the honorable seedsman and seed dealer.

Further information, including a table of the standards of purity and germination and a list of the most injurious seeds likely to occur in commercial seed, may be obtained from the Department upon application.

—Geo. Lanning has bought a lot at Cold Springs, Hamilton, and will erect a cottage there soon.

FROM COMPANY K.

By the kindness of Mrs. T. N. Jones we present our readers a letter from her nephew C. E. Nichols now at Port Tampa City.

PORT TAMPA CITY, July 4, 1898.

UNCLE TOM:—As it is the 4th I will scribble a line to you just to remind you that I am still alive and well. Well we are at Port Tampa yet and I do not know when we will move but hope it will be soon.

Well Tom I hope you were enjoying yourself as I was sitting in the camp scribbling these few lines. Well as the war goes on so do we but not very fast. Well if all reports are true we will not be at Port Tampa long.

Well how is work up in that part since the war? I hope it is improving in price and quantity. When I get back I will make some think there is lots of it, For there is not bullets enough in Spain to kill me, do you think so? The whole regiment is like a lot of dogs to get to the front. Well we are not dogs but are callhd the Indiana Tigers as the heading of this sheet of writing paper will show, for we have taken the 1st prize in anything we go at.

Our first prize was to be the first mustered in.

Our second, the best drillers in the state.

Our third made the quickest time to pack, load and to car.

Our fourth the champion ball players in Port Tampa.

There you see we have a crack regiment. Well the war news are very still now as we have not heard anything of importance yet, Well I guess I will close for the present. Yours,

C. E. NICHOLS.

Those Pesky Stamps

The other day we spoke of the trouble bankers were having to get stamps to use in conformity to the new stamp act. Now we hear from the druggists and the cigar makers. A. O. Weaver, at his cigar factory, has not been able to get the new stamps required, nor can he hear from the revenue officers to whom he has sent drafts with his orders for stamps. In the meantime, orders for cigars are coming in as usual but he does not feel safe to send the goods out without the additional stamps, the change requiring $3.60 a thousand instead of $3 as before. And his customers do not feel safe to buy of him and retail them unless the proper stamp is on for the government is pretty particular and is in a shape to make a man a good of trouble.

FROM PUGET SOUND

The Great Island Sea of the Coast, As It Is Today

JUNCTION CITY, WASH. July 4, '98.

Eighteen long years ago when I first landed upon these, then distant shores, all was activity and bustle. The hum of the busy mills and the constant falling of timber in camps, the shrieking of the tug boats as that towed the lumber lader vessels, to the sea. It was then that many sails enlivened these beautiful waters and the evergreen hills were adorned with handsome cottages and a happy people here lived moved and had a being. At Port Discovery which was my old home before the bankers owned the United States, there was a prosperous population of three hundred souls. Today I visited the place again! What a change, what sorrowful change. The smoking furnaces are forever cold and dead, the camp fires are hushed, the busy feet tread the streets no more, the long row of stately houses are falling to ruin, brush and weeds grow by the windows and doors, and amongst all there is the silence of desolation and death. And as I walk these time-worn streets and behold all this departed glory feelings of deep emotion fill my being and tears of inexpressable sadness coursed down my cheeks. What had wrought all this unhappy change? The sun still shone, the rain drops still decended from the Heavens to nourish the soil, the flowers still bloom, and the grass grew as of yore, and the birds still sang in the trees as if to welcome me back to the old home I used to love so well, and as I sit me down in a moss grown crumbling doorway again I ask myself the question, What can be the cause of all this gloom? As I sit thus meditating I closed my eyes in a sort of reverie and the answer to question came pointed in burning letters: THE RULE OF THE MONEY POWER. That and that alone is the cause of all this desolation. Timber we yet have in great abundance. Port Discovery Bay is one of the finest land locked harbors extant. Every facility for manufacturing lumber is here. We have selected a pretty glen, a branch of main valley through which meanders a chrystal brook rippling and dancing to the sea, over beds of shining pebbles. In this quiet nook we will make our home. Land here is cheap good land can be bought for from $9 to $29 per acre and a climate which much resembles that of Southern England. The summers are delightful, winters mild with but little snow or frost. The soil will produce almost everything grown in the Northern states, and sanitary conditions are almost perfect. My best regards to the readers of the COURIER. Good by.

JOSEPH A. SHADE.

WE CAN'T SAY

We have often been asked why the 157th the best regiment of volunteers sent to the field, and among the very first and best drilled has not been pushed to front faster and sent over to Cuba. We can only reply that we cant say. We know of no reason whatever. The authorities at Washington may know but we don't. In fact there may be no reason, whatever. It may all be the result of accidental conditions. Or it may be that they are being kept back so as to send them to Porto Rico. It may be the authorities think they will not be needed in Cuba, as the Spaniards may give up soon. And so we might go on indefinitely, and then not give the true reason We believe all the men themselves would like to go to Cuba at once. For the sake of the honor we feel sure they would win, we would like to see them have the chance. And yet it is not all honor. There are dangers to face both in battle and hospital and some of these brave boys might not return, Were it not for these chances, we would be anxious to have them go. We heard one reason given for their not being called to Cuba. It was that Gen Coppinger, in whose army corps they they are, is a senior officer to Shafter, and that if he and his corps went to Cuba, he would take command. We presume our informant was correct in saying Coppinger was the senior of Shafter, but still it does not follow that he would take Shafter's place, because in this war especially our government has not followed this rule very closely. And again it is known that Gen Miles is on his way to Santiago, and as he is commander-in-chief, he can on arriving take charge over any corps commander and that would settle the Coppinger matter. Another person stated to us, that the reason the 157th did not go to Cuba was that its colonel did not want to go any further, that he is well fixed financially and does not need to go. But this is not probably correct. Other men wealthier than the Studebakers, and some who are vastly higher in social or political circles, like Roosevelt, have gone to the front and become excellent soldiers. Roosevelt, two months ago, was assistant secretary of the navy. Now, he is in the thickest of every fight at the front, leading his "rough riders" in the most desperate fights. No we can't think that Col Studebaker is standing in the way. Besides, to end the whole talk, our opinion is the 157th will go, and they may be on the way as we pen this article.

December and May

'Squire John Musser of, Franklin township was married here today to Alice Kaufman. The ceremony was performed by 'Squire Walter at the residence of John W. Baxter, whose family and that of Wm Baxter, of Chicago, and C. M. Brown were witnesses of the happy event. The unusual part of the affair is that Mr. Musser is about 80 and hi bride 21. May they live long and be happy,

Thought It Was Tramps

Henry Dice, who lives next west o H. C. Shull's is something of a wag, when the opportunity occurs. The other evening, his wife was at a neighbor's, helping to can cherries and it was nearly 11 p m. when she was done and came home. She unlocked the door, came in and took a scared look around the rooms, and saw chairs, etc. etc., strewed about in great confusion. The first thought was "tramps," and she hurried about, called the neighbors, took a hasty look up at the back windows in the second story, and felt sure it was the work of tramps for that window was left open. Some one asked if her husband was gone, and then she called up the stairway, when a smothered laugh gave the whole thing away Dice had gone to bed. He came home along in the evening, and finding the house locked, he put a ladder up at the back window in the second story, went below, strewed things around enough to give her a scare, then went to bed and waited developments, with the above result She had a good scare and he a good laugh.

Nearly Enough

Capt. I. B. Smith, of Pleasant Lake, was here Tuesday. He is progressing well with company. He has been at Lagrange and there recruited 14 men, and also got nine men at Butler, making his present total 90 men. A funny thing was encountered at Lagrange where some of the people objected to his coming over into that county to get men. This seems pretty thin. If a county wants a good showing in the army, it should furnish enterprising and patriotic citizens who would get up a company and take it to the front. As it is DeKalb and Steuben are fitting out companies and getting the credit. He expects to file his application within a few days, to join the regiment being organized by O. Z. Hubbell at Elkhart.

Saturday's Daily.

—A. L. Shultz, son of Curtis Shultz, of Franklin, was in town today, and called to see us in our new quarters. He says harvest is about over with many of the farmers up there, as weather has been such as to make it easy to get the wheat cutting done.

—The Chief Burgess of Milesburg, Pa. says DeWitt's Little Early Risers are the best pills he ever used in his family during forty years of house keeping. They cure constipation, sick headache and stomach and liver troubles. Small in size but great in results. H. B. McCord.

—Bro. Weamer of the Hudson Banner, ought to remove the name of Dr. Hughes from his list of DeKalb county officers. Our coroner moved to Lagrange county, about six months ago, and our "accidentally killed" have been greatly neglected and left out in the cold ever since.

—Ligonier Banner:—H. L. Magee general superintendent of the Wabash railroad, has had a singularly successful career. He began as a spike server to track layers thirty-five years ago when a boy; became successively a section hand, a flagman on the track, a section foreman, foreman of track layers, a division roadmaster, a division superintendent and then was appointed to his present important position.

—Michael G. Mulhall, the most noted statistician in the world, has recently revised his figurers representing the wealth of the leading nations in the world, with the following results:

United States	$81,750,000,000
Great Britian	59,030,000,000
France	47,950,000,000
Germany	40,260,000,000
Russia	32,125,000,000
Austria	22,560,000,000
Italy	15,800,000,000
Spain	11,300,000,000

The foregoing computations are based upon values showd by real estate records, buildings, merchandise, railways and the circulating medium of each nation. He notes the fact that while most European nations have attained their growth, the United States is apparently at threshold of an industrial developement which it has never dreamed of before. According to Mr. Mulhall the wealth of the United States in 1850 was $7,136,000,000; in 1860 $16,160,000,000; in 1870, $25,982,000,000; in 1880, $43,642,000,000; in 1888, $61,600,000,000; in 1898, $81,750,900,000. The increase of wealth during the past ten years is nearly half as much as the total in 1880. These are wonderful figures.

OBITUARY

William Bishop was born in Ashford, East Kent, England, April 5, 1827. And departed this life July 10, 1898, aged 71 years, 3 month and 5 days.

William Bishop left his mother country and embarked for America May 4, 1851, in the 24th year of his age and settled in Syracuse N. Y., and Sept 6, 1859, he was united in marriage to Miss Mary J. Keen.

To this union were born four children two sons and two daughters, of which all survive him with his faithful companion were present at his departure.

Mr. and Mrs. Bishop in the fall of 1865, came to DeKalb Co., Ind., and moved on the farm where he has since lived and where death called him from labor to reward. In his early days he united with the Church of England and has held to that faith since that time. He was highly esteemed by all who knew him, as a kind neighbor, estimable friend and loving father.

Mr. Bishop was an invalid over six years, and a part of the time helpless but he bore it all patiently till God said, enough come up higher.

Funeral took place July 12, at the Norris Chapel church, Rev. S. H. Yager officiating, which was largely attended. The remains were interred in Woodlawn cemetery.

FOUR DAYS FIGHTING

Results as Glorious as Ever Graced a Nation's Annals.

SMASHED BY SCHLEY.

Commodore Personally Directed Spanish Armada's Destruction.

Further Details of the Destruction of the Spanish Squadron—Castilian Crews Fought with Drunken Frenzy—Blanco Ordered the Admiral to Make the Dash—Thrilling Incidents of the First Great Battle, in Which the Spaniards Were Driven from Their Defenses.

Washington special:

The fighting by land and sea around Santiago sheds new lustre on American arms. It is a story of marvelous heroism, a fearlessness that overawed the foe and of unvarying success. On sea the victories were bloodless. On land hundreds of brave men sacrificed their lives and other hundreds will go through life maimed. The nation owes the dead and the living everlasting honor for upholding the American reputation for valor, for from the landing of the army at Baiquiri the advance to Santiago was one continuous success. The Spaniards were strongly intrenched and fought gallantly, but every stronghold was stormed. Fighting in a strange land, and in a fever-laden climate, wading through streams and piercing cactus jungles, charging up hills on whose crest the foe lay hidden behind intrenchments from which poured a storm of lead, the dauntless boys in blue earned for themselves fame as enduring as that of the glorified warriors of old.

But the laurels are not all for the men on shore. The fleet that had been kept in suspense for months awaiting an opportunity to attack the Spanish boats at last saw the signal to open fire. The despairing Spanish admiral had made bold to escape from the harbor and the Americans went after him and drove his ships against the rocks, strewing the Cuban shore for miles and miles with Spanish dead. It was a picturesque scene—that Sunday chase along the Santiago shore—and its result will give it a place in the world's history of great naval encounters. It is a more crushing disaster for Spain than the destruction of Montejo's fleet at Manila, for Cervera's ships were her pride and strength at sea.

From July 1, the American troops had been promising Santiago "A Hot Time in the Old Town To-night." They sang the rollicking ditty on the march and in camp, and they meant it, and though it was impossible owing to certain circumstances, to deliver the goods exactly on the minute, Shafter's army had a settled determination to keep its promise.

Truce was declared after Schley's destruction of Cervera's fleet, but the little rest did not do the city any good, for the American fights while he is resting and rests while he is fighting, and in this case Sampson and Shafter and "Fighting Joe" Wheeler and the rest of the old war horses got their heads together and concocted plans to take the whole Spanish army and what was left of the navy.

The trouble at Santiago began Friday, July 1, at 4 o'clock in the morning, with the American advance and a feint at Aguadores to the south by Gen. Duffield, and an attack on El Caney, to the northeast of Santiago, by Gen. Lawton's division.

The first shot was fired by Capt. Allyn Capron of the First artillery, whose son, Capt. Allyn K. Capron, was killed in the charge of the rough riders at La Quasina. It fell in the center of the town, and it was followed by a supply from Capron's battery, and from the Second artillery, under Capt. Grimes, who had taken a good position at El Paso, until the defenders of El Caney were completely overwhelmed by the generosity of their visitors and "vamoosed."

Grimes and Capron then began to shell the outer defenses of Santiago. Under cover of their fire, Col. Wood, with the rough riders, started toward the works. The advance was rapid and brilliant, and the rifle fire of the cowboys was something for Spaniards to wonder at for many a day. The batteries were silenced, the enemy retreated, and Wood's command occupied a bit of hillside where they could be comfortable and shoot Spaniards for the rest of the day.

During the fighting on the right Gen. Sumner had commanded the center, on account of Gen. Wheeler's illness, but by 11:30 o'clock Wheeler decided he couldn't stand it any longer and started for the front in an ambulance. On the way he met wounded soldiers being taken to the rear in litters, so he gave up the ambulance, mounted his horse amid the frantic cheers of his men, and soon had his headquarters established at the front.

By night the army had advanced two and a half miles all along the line. Lawton's division had driven the enemy beyond El Caney and down the main road to Santiago, and had occupied the suburb of Caboua. Gen. Chaffee had crossed the San Juan river. Shafter had sent 2,000 Cubans on transports to Aserraderos to the west of Santiago bay to cut off Pando's advance and prevent the retreat of the Santiago garrison. Sampson's fleet had pounded away at the Morro Castle and had pulverized the fort at Aguadores. Two thousand Spanish troops were prisoners, and about 400 Americans had been killed and wounded. The only semblance of a repulse was at Aguadores on the extreme left, at the mouth of the San Juan river, and it is not certain that Gen. Duffield intended more than a diversion at that point.

Before the second day's fight began the line was shortened so that 12,000 Americans were extended over a front of three miles. Intrenchments were constructed and re-enforcements and more ammunition brought up.

Saturday morning the Spaniards were awakened bright and early, routed out of Aguadores, and pushed along a little nearer town. Sampson began dropping shells into the San Juan barracks. Lawton began crowding the enemy's left, pouring in a fierce oblique fire. Cervera's fleet, now passed into history, got the range of the American line and bothered the troops considerably.

It was not Shafter's object to assail the town on the second day, as he lacked siege guns, so the army merely stood by and held its position, ready for an advance in case Lawton's fire developed exceptional opportunities for a rush. The purpose of the day was more than gained, as Lawton sent word to Shafter in the afternoon that he had taken several good positions for artillery.

It was on the third day that Cervera decided that Santiago was getting too warm for him, and, like a gallant sailor, he preferred sinking in the open sea to dying like a rat in a trap. So he started to cut his way out. That was to be the end of the wanderings of the Cape Verde fleet, for the shore from Santiago de Cuba, sixty miles west to Point Tarquino, is strewn to-day with its wrecked and burned and battered hulks. It was a gallant dash, but fatal.

The Colon, the Infanta Maria Teresa, the Vizcaya and the Oquendo, followed by the torpedo gunboats Furor and Pluton, issued from the harbor mouth, and it is probably due to one Hobson that they were compelled to come out one at a time. They started westward, and owing to that fact Sampson was cheated by a heartless fate out of the glory of battle, for which he had schemed and planned and watched and hoped and prayed for six weary weeks. The acting rear admiral's flagship, the New York, had gone on a cruise to the eastward and was so far away when the battle began she did not catch up until it was practically all over.

A Fight for Sixty Miles.

It was a running fight for sixty miles. The Iowa, Indiana and Oregon, the Massachusetts, Texas and Broklyn, and the little Gloucester allowed the Spaniards to get well out of range of Morro's guns and then turned loose a hurricane of shot and shell that never slackened its furious force until the last Spanish ship ran on the rocks.

The Infanta Maria Teresa, the Oquendo and the Vizcaya met their fate within twenty miles of Santiago.

The Furor and Pluton, after driving back and forth between the Gloucester and the battleships, decided to take their chances with the Gloucester, and hurled themselves at the little craft. But on the bridge was Wainwright of the Maine, and he didn't forget. The Gloucester was struck time and again, but with her little six-pounders she set both boats afire, and they ran on the beach, where one blew up with her own torpedoes.

The Colon, Admiral Cervera's flagship, hunted like a wounded wolf, ran along the shore for sixty miles, looking for some refuge from the merciless attacks of her pursuers. She found none, and at last hoisted the white flag and was scuttled. American boats took off most of her crew, and the Spanish admiral surrendered as soon as he reached the shore. The lives of 350 of his men were blown out by the terrible hail of American shot, 1,600 were taken prisoners of war, and all with but one American marine killed.

Gen. Shafter maintained his position and demanded the surrender of the city. The demand was refused, and foreign residents and non-combatants began moving out. After four days of fighting as glorious as any that ever graced the annals of a nation the invading army halted within 300 yards of the barbed wire fences of Santiago, and the city's doom was sealed. The total American loss is estimated at about 1,800 men. The Spanish loss can only be surmised.

THE KILLED AND WOUNDED.

Number in Several Divisions Who Fell at Santiago.

The following is a recapitulation of the casualties of the United States forces before Santiago in the following divisions: Gen. Lawton's division—Officers killed, 4; wounded, 14; men killed, 74; wounded, 317; missing, 1. Gen. Bates' independent brigade—Third infantry, men killed, 4; wounded, 14; missing, 2; Twentieth infantry, men killed, 20; officers wounded, 2; men wounded, 10; men missing, 3; signal corps, one man killed. An additional list of 18 killed and 25 wounded has been compiled.

FIRED 600 SHELLS.

Madrid Reports that Three Warships Destroyed Alfonso XII.

The Spanish version of the sinking of the warship Alfonso XII. is that she was chased by three American warships while attempting to enter the port of Mariel, and that her commander purposely ran her ashore in order to avoid capture. The official report adds that the Americans fired 600 shells at the vessel, and that she is a complete loss. It is said that the crew of the cruiser and part of the cargo were saved.

Will Not Seek Peace.

A Spanish cabinet minister is quoted in an interview as saying that the present Government of Spain will devote itself solely to the defense of the Spanish coasts, and that if negotiations for peace must be opened they will have to be conducted by another Government.

not call back Camara's fleet, now through the Suez canal. If he does not Commodore Watson will take the Canaries and threaten the coast of Spain. If Camara returns Watson will smash him. There is no hope for that fleet. It will be destroyed as was Montejo's fleet at Manila and Cervera's at Santiago. Admiral Dewey can whip Camara if he comes to the Philippines. If Camara neither goes to the Philippines nor returns to Europe, then Watson will run him down. It is in the determination to push the war to the Spanish coast that the administration hopes for peace. The President wants to end the war speedily and intends to make the fight so vigorous that Spain will be compelled to sue for peace or face utter annihilation.

INCIDENT OF THE BATTLE OF SANTIAGO.

Capt. Cavanaugh raising the stars and stripes, in the midst of a fierce conflict.

CERVERA REPORTS HIS DEFEAT.

Text of the Formal Document Sent to General Blanco.

The War Department has received the report of Admiral Cervera to Gen. Blanco on the disastrous naval fight off Santiago. It is as follows:

To the General-in-Chief, Havana: In compliance with your orders I went out yesterday from Santiago de Cuba with all the squadron, and after an unequaled combat against forces more than triple mine had all my squadron destroyed by fire, Teresa, Oquendo, and Vizcaya beached, and Colon fleeing.

I accordingly informed the Americans and went ashore and gave myself up.

The torpedo chasers foundered.

I do not know how many people were lost, but it will surely reach 600 dead and many wounded. Although not in such great numbers, the living are prisoners of the Americans.

The conduct of the crew rose to a height that won the most enthusiastic plaudits of the enemy.

The commander of the Vizcaya surrendered his vessel. His crew are very grateful for the noble generosity with which they are treated.

Among the dead are Villamil, and, I believe, Lazaga (spelling uncertain), and among the wounded Concas and Eulate. We have lost all and are necessarily depressed.

ALFONSO XII. SHOT TO PIECES.

Spanish Warship Destroyed While Trying to Escape from Havana.

While attempting to run the blockade out of Havana the Spanish warship Alfonso XII. was shot to pieces by an American cruiser. News to this effect came to Secretary Long in a report from Gen. Greely, chief signal officer. It was conveyed in a cipher message to Gen. Greely, briefly stating that the Alfonso XII. had been overhauled near Mariel while trying to escape through the cordon of American ships, and that she was a total loss as a result of the fierce fire poured upon her.

REINA MERCEDES SUNK.

Tries to Leave Santiago Harbor and Is Sent to the Bottom.

Admiral Sampson telegraphed the Navy Department the following dispatch:

About midnight Monday night the Reina Mercedes was seen by the Massachusetts, which vessel had a searchlight on the channel, coming out of the harbor of Santiago. The Massachusetts and Texas opened fire and the Spanish vessel was sunk opposite Estrella cove. I am inclined to think it was the intention to sink her in the channel and thus block the harbor entrance. If so, this plan was defeated by the fire of the ships, as she lies on the edge of the shore.

Wounded Doing Well.

The 325 wounded heroes of Santiago, who were taken to Key West for treatment, are doing well. They are distributed between the marine and convent hospitals and an unused cigar factory, which has been transformed into a temporary hospital.

SCHLEY GIVEN CREDIT.

It Was He and Not Sampson Who Directed the Santiago Fight.

There is a disposition among Washington officials to give credit for the battle to the man that won the battle. It was Schley's fight, not Sampson's. Sampson wasn't there. Schley was. Schley had been there for six weeks watching that hot hole in the coast of Cuba and waiting for a chance to get at the enemy. He is the man who did the bottling. Then he lay day after day and week after week, waiting and watching, with the patience of an old mastiff, caring nothing that his name seemed to be left out of every dispatch to Washington, caring nothing that his was not the chief command, and that others might reap the fruits of his vigilance at the last, and when Cervera dashed out of his hole Schley was there. It was not Sampson's fault that he was not in Schley's place. Sampson was attending to his duty, and deserves thanks for that, but not for crushing the Cape Verde fleet, because he didn't crush it. If Cervera had escaped, Schley, left on guard, would have incurred the disgrace. He did not escape, and Schley, left on guard, deserves the honor.

Secretary of the Navy Long said that the failure of Admiral Sampson to name Commodore Schley in his first bulletin announcing the result of the great naval victory over Cervera's fleet indicated nothing. He added that, when the official report arrived from Sampson it would be found that due credit had been given to Schley and to all who participated in the fight. Representative Berry of Kentucky, who introduced a resolution in the House extending the thanks of Congress to Commodore Schley for his action in the Santiago naval fight, received about 300 telegrams from different sections of the country indorsing his action.

BROOKLYN A MARK.

Spaniards Seem to Have Concentrated Their Fire on Schley's Flagship.

When the Spanish fleet left Santiago de Cuba it was with the intention to make for Cienfuegos, the nearest port, to secure coal and provisions. All the ships were very short of coal, the Cristobal Colon having only two days' supply, which she had secured at Santiago. The Spaniards concentrated their fire on the Brooklyn, hoping to disable that vessel, which they considered the fastest of the American warships, and thus give an opportunity at least for one or two of the Spanish boats to escape. The Brooklyn was hit forty-five times.

HOBSON IS EXCHANGED.

Hero and His Seven Companions Safe Within Our Lines.

The Spanish authorities consented to exchange Hobson and his men, and a truce was established for the purpose. The place selected for the exchange was under a tree between the American and Spanish lines, two-thirds of a mile beyond the intrenchments occupied by Col. Wood's rough riders, near Gen. Wheeler's headquarters, and in the center of the American line. Hobson and his men were escorted through the American lines by Capt. Chadwick of the New York, who was awaiting them.

VIZCAYA'S DECK BLOWN AWAY.

Frightful Destruction Visible on the Spanish Cruiser.

The correspondents who visited the wreck of the Spanish cruiser Vizcaya after the fight found the upper deck of the ship completely gone. Frightful destruction was visible everywhere. Dead gunners were found at their guns, and scores of dead sailors were found on the after deck amid the debris of small arms, broken guns and wreckage. A great quantity of the equipments of the Spanish officers was floating about the wreck.

Cubans Are Good Fighters.

In speaking of the conduct of the Cubans, an officer of the Abarenda says that they make good irregular soldiers. In a fight the Cubans usually throw away their guns and rush into the scrimmage with pistols and machetes, swearing in Spanish, and English when they can, and daring the Spaniards to stand up before the "Almighty Cuban-American." This makes them effective skirmishers, but they lack discipline for hard, stand-up fighting.

ROOSEVELT'S MEN CHARGE SAN JUAN.

Received Cervera's Sword.

George H. Norman, Jr., now on the Gloucester, had the honor and pleasure of receiving Cervera's sword when the admiral surrendered. Young Norman's brother Guy is with the rough riders. The Normans are the sons of George H. Norman of Boston.

Act Like Apaches.

A dispatch from the front says the Spaniards fired upon the members of the Red Cross Society and at the ambulances containing wounded men. A driver returning from the field was badly wounded.

Caused Great Rejoicing.

When Mr. and Mrs. James M. Hobson of Greensboro, Ala., were informed of the exchange of their son Richmond, the news soon spread through the town, and for a time all business was suspended.

MULLIGAN'S BRIGADE.

The Gallant Chicago Regiment Composed of Irishmen.

"Rally! All Irishmen in favor of forming a regiment of Irish volunteers to sustain the government of the United States in and through the war will rally at North Market Hall this evening, April 20, at 7:30 o'clock. For the honor of the old land, rally! Rally for the defense of the new!"

This notice appeared in all the Chicago newspapers on April 20, 1861. Five days before Gov. Yates had issued a call for troops, and the patriotic fervor of the people was at a white heat. Enlistment had already commenced, Capt. Joseph Kellogg having begun the work of recruiting a company on April 18.

Those whose knowledge of war and war times is limited to the present conflict with Spain have small conception of the excitement that swept over the land, rising nowhere to a higher pitch than at Chicago when Fort Sumter was fired upon and the President issued a call for 75,000 troops.

The call for a meeting of the loyal Irishmen of the city, which was signed by James A. Mulligan, M. C. McDonald and eleven other Irish citizens, was royally responded to, North Market Hall being thronged to the doors. James A. Mulligan, an eloquent young Irish-American lawyer, delivered a ringing speech, as did several others, and the work of recruiting—the real business of the evening—was begun. No urging was required, men presenting themselves faster than they could sign the roll. In an hour and a half 325 names had been enrolled.

This meeting was but the beginning of the patrotic enthusiasm which speedily seized upon the people, and applications for admission to the Irish brigade, as the prospective regiment had been already named, continued to pour in, not from Chicago only, but from all portions of northern Illinois, one body of Detroit Irishmen offering their services. Within a week 1,200 names were signed and the regiment was complete.

The Confederates were bent on taking Lexington, and Gen. Sterling Price soon appeared with 28,000 men. Outnumbered ten to one, poorly provisioned and suffering from lack of water, Col. Mulligan made determined defense. Called upon by Price to surrender and agree to fight no more on Missouri soil, brave Mulligan replied:

"The Irish brigade makes no compromise."

At length after a resistance that fairly electrified all Northern hearts and called forth expressions of praise from the Confederates, Col. Mulligan was forced to surrender, the devoted Irishmen destroying their green flag in preference to yielding it to the enemy. The total Union loss in killed and wounded was 107. Col. Mulligan was retained as a prisoner of war, but was soon exchanged. He was treated with great consideration by Gen. Price, who, in appreciation of his bravery, refused to accept his sword.

The heroic death of Col. Mulligan while fighting the main body of Gen. Jubal A. Early's army at Kernstown, Va., July 24, 1864, is known to all who are familiar with the stirring events of the war of the rebellion.

"Lay me down and save the flag," he said to those who were bearing him mortally wounded from the field.

The "Irish brigade fought nobly for their country; they did more—they raised an enthusiasm that recruited many thousands of troops and imparted boldness to timid hearts. Their glory has not yet faded—will never fade. To have been a follower of Mulligan is an honor which no American disputes.

COLONEL MULLIGAN AND STAFF.

A Seasick Hero.

No man is a hero while seasick. Lafayette was sent by Washington and Congress to France to ask further supplies of men and money for the American colonies. He sailed from Boston in the frigate Alliance, on Jan. 11, 1779. The harbor was frozen, and a passage had to be cut for the ship through the ice.

Off the Newfoundland banks the ship was assailed by a terrible tempest which threatened destruction, and Lafayette was very seasick. His aid-de-camp, the Chevalier de Pontgibaud, who relates the incident in his memoirs, heard him soliloquizing thus on the hopelessness of the situation and the emptiness of glory:

"Diable! I have done well certainly. At my time of life—barely twenty years of age—with my name, rank and fortune, and after having married Mademoiselle de Noailles, to leave everything and serve as a breakfast for codfish!"—Youth's Companion.

HOT TIMES IN THE STOKEHOLE.

Toilers at the Furnaces Twenty Feet Below the Surface of the Sea.

If a landsman wants an experience that he will not forget soon let him go down into the stokehole of a warship. Then he will realize, indeed, what it means to be in the bowels of a vessel and, to an extent, what it means to be buried alive. If he can face the roaring furnaces without shrinking and stand in the steel walled pit without feeling dread, he will be a man of rare nerve.

Sunk in a shaft twenty feet below the sea, men toil amid fierce fires whose flames in that confined space lick out at them with every movement of the long steel slice bars that are used to feed the gaping furnaces, as savage caged beasts are fed, and, like the beasts, the fires are raging to kill the men who master them only by desperate labor. There is no room to spare on a modern ship. Therefore the mighty furnaces are so crowded together that the men who serve them have barely space to move to and fro before them. So near them are the stokers and the firemen that until their skins are hardened to it they blister and crack with the heat. The chance visitor can bear it only a few minutes.

That is a stokehole when the ship is going at ordinary speed and there are no especial demands on the stokers and the firemen. When there comes the time that a ship must fight for her life, chase or run, the stokehole becomes a place of torment. When the warship goes into action she calls on every one of her hundred and more firemen to be in readiness, and the boilers must furnish every pound of steam that they can give her. The more they give her the louder are the demands of the engines for more, and the men must work at the fires till they fall. Forced draught is the order then, and the stokehole is practically sealed up that no air may escape from it except through the furnaces. The fires grow fiercer and fiercer, and soon there is no spot in the steel pit that is not unbearably hot. Men watch the indicators and shout for more steam. The limp heaps are dragged away to die or to go mad. Relief is called to the burning hole, and still the open throttles of the ship's engines take the steam faster than the furnaces can make it. What is going on above no man down there knows. Sometimes a dull echoing shock may tell them that the ship has been hit hard.

IN THE STOKEHOLE OF A WARSHIP.

The First Polar Explorer.

The hardy mariners who were the pioneers in polar discovery achieved wonders, considering that they had everything to learn about methods of arctic work, and their vessels and equipment were very inadequate. One of the greatest of all arctic voyagers was the man who commanded the first true polar expedition. William Barentz. He sailed from Holland in 1594 on the little fishing-smack Mercurius, and the object of his voyage shows how ignorant the merchants and seamen of those days were as to the navigability of arctic seas. Barentz pushed into the unknown for the purpose of sailing around the north end of Nova Zembla and finding a northeast passage to China; and so for a month he skirted the wall of ice that barred his way, seeking in every direction for a lane by which he might travel through the pack, putting his vessel about eighty-one times, and traveling back and forth along the ice edge for 1,700 miles. The highest ice edge was 614 statute miles south of the highest point reached by Nansen, or 874 miles from the pole.—Harper's Weekly.

Lobengula's Justice.

Only one old tree marks the spot where the King used to sit administering justice to his subjects. A large part of this justice consisted in decreeing death among his indunas or prominent men who had excited his suspicions, or whose cattle he desired to appropriate. Sometimes he had them denounced—"smelt out" they called it—by the witch doctors as guilty of practicing magic against him. Sometimes he dispensed with a pretext, and sent a messenger to the hut of the doomed man to tell him the King wanted him. The victim, often ignorant of his fate, walked in front, while the executioner, following close behind, suddenly dealt him with the knob-kerry, or heavy-ended stick, one tremendous blow, which crushed his skull and left him dead upon the ground. Women, on the other hand, were strangled.—From "Impressions of Africa."

A STARTLED MOTHER.

From the Freeport (Ill.) Bulletin.

While busy at work in her home, Mrs. William Shay, corner of Taylor and Hancock avenues, Freeport, Ill., was startled by hearing a noise just behind her.

Mrs. Shay Was Startled.

Turning quickly she saw creeping toward her her four-year-old daughter, Beatrice. The child moved over the floor with an effort, but seemed filled with joy at finding her mother. The rest of the happening is best told in the mother's own words. She said:

"On the 28th of Sept., 1896, while in the bloom of health, Beatrice was suddenly and severely afflicted with spinal meningitis. Strong and vigorous before, in five weeks she became feeble and suffered from a paralytic stroke which twisted her head back to the side and made it impossible for her to move a limb. Her speech, however, was not affected. We called in our family doctor, one of the most experienced and successful practitioners in the city. He considered the case a very grave one. Before long little Beatrice was compelled to wear a plaster paris jacket. Prominent physicians were consulted, electric batteries were applied, but no benefit was noticed until we tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

"Busy in my kitchen one afternoon I was startled by the cry of 'Mamma' from little Beatrice, who was creeping toward me. I had placed her on an improvised bed in the parlor comfortably close to the fireside and given her some books and playthings. She became tired of waiting for me to come back and made up her mind to go to me, so her story 'My Pink Pills made me walk,' which she tells everyone who comes to our house, was then for the first time verified. She has walked ever since. She has now taken about nine boxes of the pills and her pale and pinched face has been growing rosy, and her limbs gained strength each day."

INDIANA INCIDENTS TERSELY TOLD.

Think They Have a Gang of Horse Thieves—Injured While Firing a Cannon—Criminal Shot to Death—G. R. & I. Freight Train Wrecked.

Shelby County Horsethieves.

Hiram Colclazier, a wealthy farmer living north of Shelbyville, made complaint of the theft of a valuable mare and offered $25 reward. Jasper Hill, a paroled prisoner from Jeffersonville, was arrested on suspicion and while in jail informed the officers where Colclazier's mare was and that Colclazier knew where it was all the time. He made a confession implicating Colclazier and William Merrick in the theft of numerous horses, cattle and hogs as well as farming implements. Hill was sent to the penitentiary from Clinton County in 1895 for stealing horses. Merrick has served a term of two years for stealing clover seed. When Colclazier returned to the city he was arrested. The officers believe they have captured a gang of thieves which has given them much trouble.

Volunteers Hurt at Shelbyville.

While firing a cannon at Shelbyville to notify the farmer boys who are members of the Shelbyville company of volunteers that Gov. Mount had called them out, Warren Haehl, a member of the Strong battery, had his right arm blown off and Herbert Smith, another member, lost his left thumb and part of his hand. The battery had been firing rapidly and the cannon had become overheated. In pushing home a charge Smith, who covered the vent, raised his thumb when the explosion took place.

Worse than an Army Mule.

Frank Gray, a prominent young farmer of Jackson township, and a son of James Gray, accompanied by his wife, was driving home the other evening when his horse began kicking. The horse's hind feet repeatedly struck the occupants of the buggy, inflicting dangerous and very painful injuries. Mr. Gray had his left arm broken at the elbow, his nose mashed, face cut and body bruised in several places. Mrs. Gray sustained several severe bruises.

Shot to Death by a Posse.

Hiram Starr of Bartlettsville was shot to death by Constable Douglass and a posse, including Perry Covey, whose wife Starr was said to have assaulted six weeks ago. At the time the crime was kept secret to avoid a scandal, but Starr is said to have attempted to repeat his assault on Mrs. Covey. The officers ran him down in a barn, from where he opened fire on them and was killed. His shots were all wild.

Fifteen Cars Wrecked.

A south-bound freight on the Grand Rapids and Indiana Railroad was wrecked near Parry's Station. Fifteen cars loaded with lumber, stone, sand, broom handles, bicycles and a great variety of merchandise were a total wreck. The cars derailed were out of the middle of the train and neither the engine nor the caboose was damaged.

Within Our Borders.

Jacob Hartmann, an Evansville saloonkeeper, in a fit of despondency, jumped from a second-story window and killed himself.

Wm. F. Finter, a baker, in business many years at Jeffersonville, filed a deed of assignment. Assets, $5,000; liabilities larger.

The "bran" boys, sixty in number, went on strike at the Elwood tinplate factory, demanding an increase of wages from 75 cents to $1 per day.

Chief Engineer William Black at the Anderson water works, was scalded while cleaning an engine. One side was cooked and his injuries are serious.

Near Largo recently, John Hipp, a farmer, stepped on a hedge thorn, which penetrated his foot, resulting in blood poisoning, from which he died.

At Kokomo, Miss Sarah Logan was given a verdict for $4,100 against the estate of Isaac Crane, who had willed his property to a Chicago faith cure society.

While riding a running race at the Sullivan fair grounds the horse ridden by Jockey Armstrong fell to the ground. Armstrong sustained serious injuries.

The disease among horses which caused great loss of animals in Delaware County, has spread to adjoining counties, with fatal results. The disease resembles epizootic, but is more malignant.

Henry and Mark Worley, father and son, are in jail at Anderson. While coming from Middletown, it is alleged, they stole a pocketbook belonging to Miss Rettie Elliott of New Castle. The officers recovered pocketbook and money.

Brakeman W. F. Berry fell from a train west of English, striking his head against a rock in the cut. He was unconscious when reached and was taken to English Hotel, where he died. The remains were sent to Jeffersonville for interment.

John Ernst died suddenly at Marion under circumstances that attracted the attention of the officers. He was sitting on a chair, from which he fell and instantly expired. Recently he had difficulty with a glass worker named Wright, and this, taken in connection with the fact that there are several bruises about the head of the dead man, led to the detention of Wright as a witness.

Henry Stevenson, saloonkeeper at Lapel, has brought a novel action for damages against men who, in representing the temperance element of the town, have been opposed to his being granted a license for another year. He wants $250 damages from each one to cover loss to him. The fight has been very bitter, attracting the attention of all church organizations in the county, and great pressure has been brought to bear to drive him out of business. His action for damages establishes a new precedent in damage suits.

The Brinkley Furniture factory, a pioneer Columbus concern, was sold at public auction for $6,411 to Henry Maley, the lumber dealer, owning factories at Evansville and Edinburg.

Rev. Allen D. Carlile resigned from the pastorate of the Second Presbyterian Church of New Albany to accept the call to the Presbyterian Tabernacle of Pittsburg, Aug. 1, at a salary of $3,000.

The little daughter of M. J. Ulsh, a merchant at Laketon, fell from the second-story window of Mr. Ulsh's home and sustained painful injuries, the little one's jaw being fractured in two places.

A new shoe factory will soon be established in Columbus with $25,000 capital stock.

The farmers in the northern and eastern portions of Delaware County are considerably aroused over the alleged action of the Indiana and Ohio Pipe Line Company. It is said by those on whose farms this company has put down wells that the company has demanded that they consent to a reduction from $100 a year to sums ranging between $25 and $50 for each well or the casing will be pulled. The farmers assert that this is in violation of their contract with the company, and declare their intention not to submit to it.

TO HOIST THE FLAG.

Admiral Miller Goes to Hawaii in the Philadelphia.

The Hawaiian Islands were made a part of the United States when President McKinley signed the annexation resolutions. Admiral Miller started at once for Honolulu on the cruiser Philadelphia to hoist the American flag and take formal possession of the islands. It is said that the transition from the Hawaiian republic to a part of the United States can be accomplished without the slightest delay or friction. A complete internal organization already exists, civil and military, and it is pointed out that this does away with the delay of organizing a government, such as occurred when California was admitted. For the present the existing civil organization will continue, with President Dole as chief executive, and this will run along until the five commissioners appointed by the President prepare a system of organization and put it into effect.

The Hawaiian Islands are made up of the islands of Hawaii, Oahu, Maui, Kauai, Lanai, Kahulane, Molokai, Nihau, Kaula and a number of small islets. The area of the islands is 6,640 miles, or about three times that of Delaware. According to figures of two years ago something over 105,000 souls are added to the population of the United States and its territories by the annexation of the islands. Of the white and native population about one-third speak English. The Japanese number 25,000 and the Chinese 16,000. There are 15,000 Portuguese in the islands and 6,000 Americans, while the British and German residents number 2,000 each. Late figures on the native population give it as 30,000, but the natives are rapidly decreasing in number. Eight of the islands are fertile and susceptible to cultivation. The four largest—Hawaii, Maui, Oahu and Kauai—are particularly rich abounding in land fitted for sugar, coffee, rice and fruit raising. On Kauai there are coffee plantations of 200,000 acres, and, next to sugar, which has always been the chief product of the islands, the cultivation of coffee is looked upon as having rich possibilities. Rice is also destined to hold important position among the products. Practically all of the trade is with the United States. The exports are $8,000,000 annually and the imports half that.

The history of the islands begins with their discovery in 1778 by Captain Cook who named them after his patron, the Earl of Sandwich. Juan Gaetano, a Spanish navigator, is credited with having seen the island of Hawaii as early as 1555. Annexation of the islands to the United States was agitated in Hawaii as early as 1853, and the question has come up at various times ever since. The recent revolution and the overthrow of the monarchy are matters of to-day's history.

TO INVESTIGATE SEA TRAGEDY.

Murderous Course of Crew of La Bourgogne to Be Brought Out.

A searching investigation will be made by the officers of the French line of the murderous course pursued by the crew at the sinking of the steamer La Bourgogne. The harrowing tales first told by the surviving passengers are being corroborated by scores of persons, and in point of cowardice, brutality and crime this disaster has no counterpart in modern history.

Armed with weapons and maddened with terror, the sailors, waiters and others of the crew took example from the panic-stricken steerage passengers and fought like savages to save their lives by casting the helpless into the sea. So swiftly did the great steamer sink that the officers had no time to gain control of the men, and scores of lives were lost that might have been saved. The drowned number 549 men, women and children. The survivors number 164 men and one woman.

Stories of the disaster are unparalleled. Women and children were left to their fate. Men became raving maniacs through fear, and the number of cruel, deliberate murders cannot be estimated. Many lifeboats and rafts were loaded with human freight, only to go down because no one had the presence of mind to release them. The crew took the best boats and rafts and started from the ship. Passengers clung to the sides of the boat and life lines attached to them until knocked in the head by the sailors. Italian steerage passengers, maddened by their peril, fought for places on the boats, stabbing men, women or children. Only one of the crew of La Bourgogne, the second officer, endeavored to save the passengers. This man ran about the fated vessel, cutting ropes which held fast the rafts and life preservers, and worked until the steamer foundered, going down to his death, the only brave man out of hundreds.

Charles Liebra, a Frenchman, tells a story of the accident which is corroborated by a dozen others. The Frenchman saw his two motherless boys sink before his eyes. A boat floated past him, and he tried to climb in. He was repeatedly struck with oars and boathooks, and his arms and head are a mass of cuts and bruises. He was rescued after being in the water for eight hours.

ALL EXPECTED TO PERISH.

Spaniards Felt in Leaving Santiago Harbor They Were Going to Death.

The number of killed and wounded on the Cristobal Colon was very small. Officers of the American vessels which were in pursuit of her say that, as it was a question of only a short time when the Cristobal Colon should be compelled to surrender or run ashore, they ceased firing on her, and only three of her crew were killed (all sailors) and thirteen were wounded. Before running their ships ashore and hoisting the white flag the Spaniards opened the Kingston valves on board the Colon and threw overboard the breech blocks of every gun, including those of their Mauser rifles. The captured Spaniards were remarkably cheerful. The officers say they had nothing to eat for twenty-four hours before the destruction of the fleet, and in order to get the men to their posts large amounts of liquor were given out. Many of the captured sailors still showed the effects of drink when put on board the Resolute. The Spanish officers say the order to sail was given by the ministry of marine at Madrid, and they decided to make an attempt to escape on Saturday night, but it was postponed until Sunday morning for the reason that "quarters inspection" would be held at that time and the Americans would not be at their guns. None of the Spaniards expected to be alive at noon on Sunday, believing the destruction of the fleet to be certain. Most of their valuables were put on the Cristobal Colon, the fastest boat of the Spanish fleet, and everything was done to give her the best opportunity to escape. The Spanish officers profess great admiration for the American ships, especially the Brooklyn, New York and Oregon. The Spanish prisoners say that if the Americans had pressed the land forces much longer the Spaniards would have been compelled to surrender, as the troops were completely worn out.

THE MYSTERY OF SLEEP.

No One Can Exactly Explain the Phenomena of Slumber.

There is a remarkable fact connected with sleep which must not be overlooked. The sleep of a human being, if we are not too busy to attend to the matter, always evokes a certain feeling of awe. Go into a room where a person is sleeping and it is difficult to resist the sense that one is in the presence of a central mystery of existence. People who remember how constantly they see old Jones asleep in the club library will smile at this, but look quietly and alone at even old Jones and the sense of mystery will soon develop. It is no good to say that sleep is only "moving" because it looks like death. The person who is breathing so loudly as to take away all thought of death causes the sense of awe quite as easily as the silent sleeper, who hardly seems to breathe.

We see death seldom, but were it more familiar we doubt if a corpse would inspire so much awe as the unconscious and sleeping figure—a smiling, irresponsible doll flesh and blood, but a doll to whom in a second may be called a proud, active, controlling consciousness which will ride his bodily and his mental horse with a hand of iron, which will force that body to endure toil and misery and will make that mind now wandering in paths of fantastic folly grapple with some great problem, or throw all its force into the ruling, the saving or the destruction of mankind. The corpse is only so much bone, muscle and tissue. The sleeping body is the house which a quick and eager master has only left for an hour or so. Let anyone who thinks sleep is not mystery try to observe in himself the process by which sleep comes and to notice how and when and under what conditions he loses consciousness. He will, of course, utterly fail to put his finger on the moment of sleep coming, but in striving to get as close as he can to the phenomena of sleep he will realize how great is the mystery which he is trying to fathom.—London Spectator.

The Longest Way Around.

A sign-post at the forked road
Of Time stood grim and gray,
And to the post a traveler strode,
In doubt which was the way.

One road led up the stony hill,
The other road led down;
The downward road to Luckyville,
And up to Hardshiptown.

T'ward Luckyville he set his face,
Yet, even as he turned,
A traveler coming from that place
His hopeful eyes discerned.

He waited till the other came,
The steeper road to take.
"Is Luckyville," he said, "so tame,
That you its joys forsake?"

"Not so," the stranger quick replied,
As up the hill he went.
"That sign was wrong; I know, who've tried
The rash experiment.

"I'm going up this stony hill.
Already I've been down,
And find the way to Luckyville
Is 'round through Hardshiptown."

The Climate of Cuba.

Because of frequent rains in Cuba malarial fevers are a common ailment there, as in many sections of the United States. Ailments of this kind, no matter where they occur, are cured with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Besides being a specific for malarial troubles, it has no equal for dyspepsia and constipation.

Uncle Sam's Treasure Box.

Did you ever hear of the treasures of the United States? Stored away in one of the vaults of the United States treasury are precious stones, rare perfumes, jeweled swords and other articles of historic and intrinsic value that have been collecting for years. Among the most prized treasures of the collection are a bottle of gems and a vial filled with almost priceless attar of roses. Tradition has it that the jewels are also of very great value. They were presented to President Martin Van Buren by the imaum of Muscat in 1839. Many of the swords have gold hilts set with gems, and commemorate great military events.

Life and the Liver.

"Success in life depends upon the liver" is the way Chas. Lamb, the poet and punster, put it. Medical science has proven that nine-tenths of the ailments of living have their origin in the liver, and in constipation caused by its derangements. Keep the liver lively and all will be well. Modern science points out Cascarets as the only perfect, gentle, positive liver regulator fit to be used in the delicate human organism. All druggists sell Cascarets 10c, 25c, 50c, and we recommend them most heartily.

Orchids the World Over.

Orchids are found in almost all parts of the world, except in extremely dry climates and on the borders of the frozen regions. Over five thousand species are now known to botanists.

He Never Got Over It.

Janes was always under the impression that he was a born humorist, and his friends never succeeded in convincing him to the contrary. But he has given up trying to be funny now; he says his humor was the means of his losing a girl with a lot of money, and he has never got over the blow. He explains it in this way:

He was courting a broker's daughter. One day he called upon her, and she happened to be at home; he considered himself fortunate, as she had been out every time he had called for a week, and he determined to make the best of his opportunity and pop the question. He found her in a room busily engaged with small bundles of dried grasses which she had collected.

"What a quantity of dried grass you have collected, Miss Ritchie," he said. Then his humor burst forth. "Nice room for a donkey to get into——"

"Make yourself at home, Mr. Janes," she said, sweetly, before he could finish the joke.

He went home and all the humor was crushed out of him forever.

Remember that the Omaha Exposition, June 1st to November 1st, will be the greatest show since the World's Fair. If you are going, see the WABASH about rates and take that line.

Railroading in China.

Consul General Goodnow, at Shanghai, warns Americans who are desirous of going to China to work on railroads there to keep away. There are only two railroads in operation, with a total mileage of 293½ miles. They employ only twenty-seven foreigners, of whom four are engineers, managers and division superintendents. The operatives are practically all Chinese, and a foreigner cannot compete with them. The highest salaried natives are the telegraph operators, at $40 per month. Engineers get $20 to $30 and train hands and trackmen $6 to $10 per month.

OPEN LETTERS FROM

Jennie E. Green and Mrs. Harry Hardy.

JENNIE E. GREEN, Denmark, Iowa, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I had been sick at my monthly periods for seven years, and tried almost everything I ever heard of, but without any benefit. Was troubled with backache, headache, pains in the shoulders and dizziness. Through my mother I was induced to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has done me so much good. I am now sound and well."

MRS. HARRY HARDY, Riverside, Iowa, writes to Mrs. Pinkham the story of her struggle with serious ovarian trouble, and the benefit she received from the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This is her letter:

"How thankful I am that I took your medicine. I was troubled for two years with inflammation of the womb and ovaries, womb was also very low. I was in constant misery. I had heart trouble, was short of breath and could not walk five blocks to save my life. Suffered very much with my back, had headache all the time, was nervous, menstruations were irregular and painful, had a bad discharge and was troubled with bloating. I was a perfect wreck. Had doctored and taken local treatments, but still was no better. I was advised by one of my neighbors to write to you. I have now finished the second bottle of Mrs. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and am better in every way. I am able to do all my own work and can walk nearly a mile without fatigue; something I had not been able to do for over two years. Your medicine has done me more good than all the doctors."

Quiet and Repose at Last.

Dingley was contemplating the purchase of a country place and had driven his wife out to look at it.

"How do you like it?" he asked.

"Oh, I'm delighted! Its beauty fairly renders me speechless," she replied.

"That settles it," rejoined Dingley. "I'll buy it this afternoon and we'll move out to-morrow."

AN OLD ENGINEER,

Dr. WHEELER'S NERVE VITALIZER

GREENVILLE, MICH.—E. A. Smith, engineer for F. N. Wright & Co., this city, ran a locomotive on the N. Y. C. & H. R. Ry., 43 years ago. He can tell many amusing incidents of the rail in the early days; but prefers to speak of his recent experience with rheumatism, and relief secured from use of Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer. Mr. Smith is well advanced in years and his trouble had been so serious and of long standing that it became constitutional. He doctored and took all the different kinds of medicine suggested for the trouble, without any benefit. Recently he was advised to take Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer; a nerve preparation which has been received with much favor in Montcalm County, and which has performed many remarkable cures. The effect of its use was highly satisfactory, not only in relieving his rheumatic pains, but also in correcting symptoms of kidney trouble which existed. It certainly is to be hoped that a knowledge of Mr. Smith's experience may lead other sufferers to use this valuable preparation.

Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer has many virtues not possessed by any other form of treatment. It is entirely free from morphine, opium, cocaine, and the stimulating drug, kola, which is so persistently advertised. Such drugs are ruinous and should be avoided as pernicious.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite, gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters;' and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cts. per bottle at H. B. McCord's Drug Store. 6

A BIT OF HISTORY.

(Laporte Argus.)

C. G. Powell: Luther Benson is the reputed author of a book entitled "Fifteen Years in Hell." A man formerly lived in Laporte whose father-in-law was a Christian minister at Rolling Prairie, went from here to Indianapolis to reside, and claimed to be the author of that work. He sued Benson for his services in writing it but we do not know the outcome of it. Sometime afterwards the ex-Laporte man, while intoxicated, sitting in an upper-story window fell to the ground and was killed. His name, we think, was Sink.

Safe At Last

Detroit Free Press

To Sagasta, Madrid—Am no longer bottled up in Santiago harbor, but safe on board the New York. Address me care Sampson. (Signed) Cervera.—

Saturday's Daily.

—Mrs. I. N. Cool was at Fort Wayne today.

—Father Young came ever from Garrett on the noon train today.

—Indianapolis reports thirteen bad accidents caused by fire crackers, big and little on the Fourth.

—Mr. Abel south of town, seems to be doing the leading business in berries and garden vegetables this year.

—Of the 568 Rough Riders who landed in Cuba, only 359 are fit for service the rest having been killed or wounded

—Frank Scholes failed to win the fat man's foot race at St. Joe the Fourth The News says he was too fat and only came in third best.

—Miss Elsie Caruth started for a trip east, on Wednesday. She goes to Washington and also visits relatives in Pennsylvania and at New York.

—Supt. Coe and wife are off on a trip to Washington and other points in the east, to be gone two or three weeks we believe. We hope they may have an enjoyable trip.

—Mrs. John Baird received word yesterday, that her father, Mr. Bishop who resides a few miles east of town was not expected to live, and she at once started to go and see nim.

—It now seems that druggists will have to use stamps on the patent medicines, etc, etc, they already have on hand. The more you study this stamp business the more foolish it looks.

—Pearl and Mamie Rice, little daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Rice, came up from Wabash yesterday noon and will visit the friends here a while. The little misses have grown wonderfully.

—We have heard of many things for which people put cards of thanks in the paper, but St. Joe gets the prize one when some parties there put a card in News thanking Isaac Meese for the use of his cistern pole.

—A little child of Mr. and Mrs. Mort Hilkey, died yesterday of whooping cough. It was their youngest and was with its mother visiting Mr. Hilkey's relatives in the country. Mr. Hilkey is at Port Tampa City in Co. K.

—Mrs. Hugh Culbertson is having some trouble with her arm. It is considerably swollen, and she is unable to use it. The nature of the trouble does not seem to be well understood. Pro bably it is some impurity of the blood.

—J. C. Weeks has closod out all the machines he got on last year, including binders, mowers, etc. etc He did well for the first season. His machines were the Deering. Now he will soon start in with corn cutters and harvesters.

—Mrs. Swineford reached home Wednesday, from her trip to Denver and reports a nice trip and everything enjoyable, but after all, the long ride half across the continent proved rather tiresome. Mrs. Barns remained at Omaha, a few days to visit relatives there before returning.

—Mrs. Wm. Huffman, in speaking of the fire burning over a part of their wheatfield, says it was a peculiar affair. For a part of the way, the fire burned only the heads of the grain, leaving the bare stalk standing. The blaze seemed to fly from one head to another. They also lost a good deal of fence.

—S. Z. Dickinson was in town yesterday calling on friends and especially to see his little granddaughter, at McDougall's. He goes next week to Elkhart where he will pass two or three weeks with his son, Will who is in the jewelry business, being the vice-president of the stock company of Micks & Co.

—The new iron fence for the old part of Evergreen cemetery is being put up now. Mr. Bartels, who is attending to this work says it is all put up on one side and partly on another. People will hardly know the former brush field when they look over this neat fence and see the well kept grassy grounds within.

—The Picker boys have finished the main part of the brick work on the Morr building at the Junction. John Picker has also completed brickwork on Klopfenstein's dwellling over in Allen county. They will be ready to began the brick work on the waterworks building as soon as the stone masons get the stone work ready for them.

—A picture has been received here of five of the boys at Port Tampa City taken in a group. They are Frank, Joliff, W. E. Keller, F. E. Lane. Fred Kruger and G. W. Everett. They had been up town on leave, together with Milo Husselman, Capt. Lahnum, Lieut. Wolf, and had all indulged in the rare luxury of a hotel dinner. The picture is not a very clear one, but all can be easily recognized.

—Our own private opinion is, that Agent Zent of the Wabash, has to furnish his own flower seeds, for the little "landscape garden" located at the station is mostly of that old-time favorite the "Bachelor's Button." Train load after train load of gorgeously dressed people, each dav put their heads out of the cars and exclaim, "Aint that killing?" Zent is one of the and oldest agents on the line, but if he ever gets fired, it will be owing to his extravagant love of flowers.

—Kendallville Sun:—Every battleship in the United States must draw upon Missouri for part of its material. Down in Madison county is the famous mine, Lamotte, which furnishes nickel and cobalt necessary in the construction of the modern iron-clad vessel. There are no other nickel and cobalt mines is the country in operation. Mine Lamotte is said to be the oldest mine in the United States. For over a century it has been turning out about the same amount of mineral. When it was first opened, what is now the state of Missouri was a Spanish possession.

THE CARNIVAL

The directors of the Carnival have been considering the various matters connected with it. They will soon have posters here, and also Carnival souvenirs, which will be put on sale, or rather will be sold to such business men as can handle them. They also considered the matter of the business houses making an industrial display as was done at the Fourth of July parade two years ago. Last year some of the business men wanted to make such a display, and it is believed there will be many this year, enough to make a large and attractive procession. It is about decided that we will have this on one of the days. Quite a number of the parties have already asked for the privilege of making displays such as floats and decorations and inquiries as to privileges are beginning to come to the secretary. Now would be a good time to talk and think about the matter. Dealers who wish to handle the badges would would do well to place their orders with the secretary at an early date. Let us make this even better than the one we had last year.

As Spaniards See it.

The Spanish governments, for several days tried to conceal from their people, the fact that Cervera's fleet had been destroyed. Their talk about it looks very ridiculous in view of the facts. First, Blanco, at Havana sent this word to the government at Madrid.

"Cervera's squadron, at 11 o'clock on Sunday morning, broke the center of the line of the American fleet and proceeded at full steam in a westernly direction."

The Spanish minister of war, Senor Aunon, is quoted in an interview as saying:

"I am pleased with the feat of arms performed by Admiral Cervera's squadron, which left Santiago the moment Admiral Cervera judged it opportune to do so."

After eulogizing the Spanish admiral, the minister of marine added:

"The squadron could only leave the harbor at a given moment, and when the moment arrived Admiral Cervera seized it. I have never doubted he would do se. But, of course, it is difficult to foresee the result. The American squadron was taken by surprise. After attacking us, the American admiral detached five of his best ships which steamed for sometime abreast ours, but they were soon left astern.

"Only the Iowa and Brooklyn were able to follow our fleet, but it is certain they will not do so, for fear of reprisals on our part. Admiral Cervera deserves great praise."

They Fit and Fit

Monday was the Fourth of July at Wawassee as well as at Santiago, and there was a continous show there, also in the fighting line. A lot of Pierceton toughs have been in the hobit for years, of going about to such gatherings in the hope of meeting a crowd equally tough with whom to get up a battle. This time they ran up against a caowd of young men from Garrett, and after the usual preliminary skirmishing, the battle began. Both sides wete re-enforced till it resembled the fight that took place the day before at faraway Santiago. For a long time the scales of victory and defeat hung in even balance, but a few locomotive licks from the Garrett railroad boys coal heavers, finally turned the scale, and the Pierceton contingent retreated. They were not as pretty as they were earlier in the day, but they knew more.

Foundry Burned.

Special to the Daily Courier

ANGOLA, IND., July 7, 1898:—About 10 o'clock last night, fire broke out in the Angola Foundry and Machine Works, and before the flames were brought under control, $1,000 damage was done by the fire and water. The molding room, where the fire originated, was totally destroyed and the machinery room badly scorched. The plant was operated by Frank Monger, who was doing a good business. The plant was more familiary known as the Garvitt foundry, and stood just a little southwest of our passenger depot. The fire department did effective work. It was their first good chance to show their efficiency since the water works were established. It is not known yet whether the plant will be rebuilt or not.

ARE LOYAL

Germany American citizens do not like the way Germany is acting in this war and propose to show that those in America at least are loyal to the country of their adoption. So they have started out to raise a subscription big enough to build a warship which they will present to the government when it is completed. The government of the Fatherland will soon come to its senses, if things go on this way, for we believe every German in the United States is loyal to the land he has chosen for his home.

Hawaii Is Ours.

Friday's Daily.

The president signed the bill annexing the Hawaiian Islands to the United States at 7 p. m. yesterday. So that ends the long struggle. It is not likely we would have accepted the islands but for the war, but it is well enough now, for we see how we may sometime need them.

Are You Pale?

Are your cheeks hollow and your lips white?

Is your appetite poor and your digestion weak? Is your flesh soft and have you lost in weight?

These are symptoms of anemia or poor blood. They are just as frequent in the summer as in the winter. And you can be cured at one time just as well as another.

The ladies of the LaPorte and Michigan City W. C. T. U. Wednesday afternoon completed their annual work of presenting each prisoner at the state prison with a bouquet of flowers and a christian tract. The work of distributing them among the prisoners required two days. The distribution of flowers in this manner is an annual event and it is confidentially believed that it does much good in touching the hearts of many of the inmates and making at least one bright spot in the life of the prisoner whose senses of the beautiful are not dulled beyond redemption.

IT IS STRANGE

that some people who say they never read patent medicine advertisements will be found lugging home every now and then a bottle of some favorite remedy of theirs. We don't bother you with much reading but just ask you to try a 10c trial bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for constipation, indigestion and stomach troubles. 50c and $1.00 sizes. At F. E. Spain has several other groups of islands in the Pacific this side of the Phillippines. They are the Ladrones, which we have just taken, and the group known as the Caroline Islands, with another called the Pelew Islands. None of these groups are very large or important. All the land comprised in the two groups the Carolines and the Pelew Islands is but a fourth more than we have in DeKalb county.

Woman's Mission.

Successful competition in any field depends on physical health.

FAMILIAR questions about woman's future are constantly asked.

Shall women vote? Shall they practice law? Shall they compete with men in every field? Whatever woman's mission may finally be declared to be, it is certain that something must be done for her physical health.

Ignorance, superstition and mystery surround woman's delicate organism. Heroic efforts to endure pain is part of woman's creed. Many women's lives are a constant struggle with lassitude; many are violently ill without apparent cause, and few indeed are in normal health.

This is all wrong and might be different if women would follow Dr. Hartman's advice. Perhaps the most practical printed talk to women to be found anywhere is in Dr. Hartman's book called "Health and Beauty," which the Pe-ru-na Medicine Co., Columbus, O., will mail free to women only. It is certain that Dr. Hartman's Pe-ru-na has proved a perfect boon for women's diseases of the pelvic organs. It treats them scientifically and cures them permanently. All druggists sell it.

"I received your book and commenced the use of your medicine at once," writes Mrs. H. D. Amoss of Greensboro, Ga., to Dr. Hartman. "I took five bottles of Pe-ru-na and two of Man-a-lin. I feel like a new woman. When I commenced taking Pe-ru-na I could hardly walk across my room; now I am doing my own work and can walk to church. I shall never cease to thank you for prescribing for me. I had been under the treatment of two doctors but never received any benefit until I commenced taking your medicine. I wish every woman who was suffering as I was would send for one of your books. May God bless you and spare you many years to relieve women who are suffering as I was."

Fifty thousand women will be counselled and prescribed for this year free of charge by Dr. Hartman, president of the Surgical Hotel, Columbus, O. All women suffering from any disease of the mucous membrane, or any of the peculiar ills of women, may write to him and the letters will receive his personal attention. Write for special question blank for women.

—Kendallville Sun:—Private Harry Jackson of Company K. Second New Jersey Infantry, is probably the tallest soldier in the United States army. He is 6 feet, 6¾ inches in height, and of wonderfully perfect physical development

—E. C. Blanks, of Lewisville, Texas, writes that one box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve was worth $50.00 to him. It cured his piles of ten years standing. He advises others to try it. It also cures eczema, skin diseases and obstinate sores. H. B. McCord.

—Councilman Lewis, who is also superintendent of electric lights, tells us that many people think there should be a revenue stamp on each receipt he gives them when they pay their monthly dues. But he finds this is not necessary. Simple receipts need no stamps.

—Ft. Wayne boarding houses have been swindled by a slick fellow who claimed to have a lot of telegraph men working for him, who would be on hand that evening for supper. He would pay in advance by getting them to charge a bad $20 bill. He has been caught.

—The Kentucky editors are off on a trip to Mackinac, and when they reached there, they had a wedding. Editor Stewart of Elizabethtown Leader, and Mrs. Cora Hively, of Fort Wayne, met for the first time, on this trip, struck up a match and were married. News paper men generally have to go among strangers to get married.

—Among those who went down on the French Line steamer Bourgogue, were fourteen Arabian residents of Ft. Wayne. Seventeen of them had taken passage to return to Arabia, some to stay, some to settle up affairs or get heir sweethearts to whom they had been engaged. It is a sad ending to what had promised to be a grand holiday voyage and reunion. The rest of the colony at Fort Wayne are in mourning.

—In a conversation with C. C. Shaffer he informs us that Fred. may be expected here now any day. The deal by which the stock here was sold to Fred was made when Mr. and Mrs. Shaffer went over at Delphos last week. If Fred brings the Delphos stock here, as is now the intention it will add to the stock here, another much larger than the one already in, making it by all odds the largest in the county. We hope to see Fred flourish.

—The Elkhart Review says a Marion man was at Elkhart the other night looking for his son, who had unceremoniously left home. The most conspicuous feature about the boy's description was that he had no external ears, nature having neglected to so endow him. The inner ears were all right, however, and he received sound impressions through his nose. One had to get directly in front of him to make one's self heard, but he had little or no difficulty in hearing, when facing the speaker.

—At Seattle, Wash., there was a big celebration the Fourth, boat loads came over from Victoria on the British side, with bands and a whole regiment of Canadian militia fully armed and equipped came along. They numbered about 600 men and made a stirring sight. It was the first time since January 1815 that an armed British force had set foot on American soil. But we did not object for they came as brothers of the same blood, to help us celebrate a day of glorious memories. And after the thrilling events of this glorious Fourth and the two days preceding it, the day will be doubly hallowed to all who speak the English tongue.

—We had a right pleasant visit this forenoon with Willis Seeley, who called in company with D. M. Link, the two young men being early friends Mr. Seeley is a son of David Seeley of Garrett but resides at Huntington where he is employed as a machinist by the Erie railroad that has its shops at that place. As his relatives and our relatives "join," we had a nice visit in talking up the whereabouts of the different branches of our families. We also had known his father, David Seeley when he came out of the rebellion as a veteran, and his mother, then Miss Barry as a young lady of refinement and talent, she being then a writer for several New York papers, Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs Michael Curtain, Plainfield, Ill. makes the statement, that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse, He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefitted from first dose. She continued its use and after taking six bottles, found hers lf sound and well; now does her own housework, and is as well as she ever was. Free trial bottles of this Great Discovery at H. B. How They Catch Alligators.

(New Era)

Here is the way a 157th Regiment boy describes the alligator's home and mode of catching them: "Alligators are in every little pond and some have been caught that were sixteen feet long. They dig holes in the side of the pond, and just outside the hole they build a nest about four feet high and that wide and then they lay from 12 to 100 eggs in this nest and let the sun hatch them out. They go in a hole as soon as they are hatched out and the old ones take care of them until they are about two feet long and then they run around and hunt for themselves. To catch them we get an old one when they are in their holes and dig down a little ways and then they will stick their heads out and the men have a long pole with a hook, something like a fish hook. They bump them on the nose and that makes them mad and they will open their mouths and then the men run that hook down their throats and hook it into them. One 4 or 5 feet long takes 6 or 7 men to pull it out and when they get them out they make a terrible fight." This is similar to the way the boys pull woodchuck out of the dens.

We call attention to the Klondike letter we publish today. It is from Will Link son of G. W. Link, of this place, who will be remembered by most of our people.

OLD MAN OF THE MOUNTAIN.

Infallible Weather Prophet—Indians Say "He" Never Fails.

This is bound to be a clear year. Scarcely any rain is to fall during the next twelve-month. At least that is what the "old man of the mountain" says and the Indians say that he never fails as a weather prophet, says the San Francisco Chronicle. The old man of the mountain is a species of sagebrush, so called on account of the soft gray top that forms on it in the fall of the years. In some parts of the state it is simply called "old man" and in others "maidenhair sage." Its scientific name is Artemisia Californiana. For countless moons many of the Indian tribes of the state have looked upon this plant as the greatest weather prophet that ever existed. Will the season be wet or dry? Ask the old man. This is easy to do, but you must know a little of his language before you can tell what he says. The old man speaks with his roots. When there is to be plenty of rain his roots are short and when there is to be little rain his roots are long. The old man knows there will be no water from above, so he goes below for it. How does a senseless plant know there is to be no rain? By the same unknown force that causes seed pods to be thick before a long, cold winter, while they are thin when the winter is to be mild. All over the hillsides of Marin county can be found specimens of old man and its roots are longer now than they have ever been known to be before. At the beginning of a rainy season the roots of a plant twelve inches high are about six inches long. This year the same plant will be found to have roots as much as eighteen inches long.

Freight Rates.

In 1873 there were 70,268 miles of railway in the United States. The average freight rate was 2.21 cents for carrying one ton one mile. In 1896 the average freight rate on the same 70,268 miles of road was .893 cent, a reduction of about 60 per cent.

How a Man Wins a Woman.

"It is not a man's good looks, brains, position or wealth that wins a woman's love," said the woman of the world. "It is his capacity for lovemaking. His tenderness, ardor, tact, consideration, and, above all, perseverance, will make her his more surely than anything else in the world. And if he possess these qualities and wield them well he can triumph over the men who lack them, even though he be poor as a church mouse, ugly as Vulcan and stupid as an owl."—New York Advertiser.

Stone Telegraph Poles.

A veritable curiosity exists in Switzerland in the shape of a telegraph line with stone poles.

What Is a Cupful?

A cupful has generally meant a different quantity to each person. Some use a teacup, others a coffee cup, others a medium sized one, so that no rule was quite the same, or rather the results were quite different when the same rule was used, just from this very variation in measurement. It has been settled, however, that in cooking a cupful shall be just half a pint. There are now on the market measuring cups of this denomination, and the cups are divided into halves, fourths and thirds, so that accurate quantities may be obtained. A set of these cups are now considered a necessary part of kitchen furnishing.

Tempting Breakfast Dishes.

Let every housekeeper remember the zest given to appetite in the morning, when appetite is least keen, by a bit of salt meat or fish. Bacon is such a stand-by at all times that it now perhaps lacks the relish of novelty of good, broiled, sugar cured ham or the host of excellent relish-giving salt-fish dishes, as mackerel, smoked salmon, herring or cod, broiled; salt fish in cream (haddie or cod); dainty fish balls of cod or halibut, etc. Fruits also and the dainty fluffy things go to make up appetizing summer breakfasts.

A Curious Flower Wreath.

Miss Elizabeth Taylor, writing in Popular Science News of the plants and flowers of Iceland, describes a curious sight which she witnessed in the lava fields near Reykjavick. Noticing wreaths of steam issuing from the summit of a small volcano, she climbed up there, and found a band about two feet wide, of beautiful plants, bearing large flowers, encircling the interior line of the crater. The steam warmed the flowers and the rim of rocks protected them from the cold winds without.

The Difference in Methods.

"You have called me a liar," shouted the angry citizen to the offensive citizen, "and you will live to regret that speech, sir." "That jest shows the difference in fellers," remarked Cowboy Bill who happened to be present. "When a man calls me a liar he don't live to regret it. No, sir!"—Pick-Me-Up.

The Kaiser's Chaplains.

Court chaplains, when they preach before the German emperor, must condense the sermons so that they can be delivered in fifteen minutes. Long sermons, he says, make him weary.

Last of the Montawks.

Mrs. James Wright, who died in Brooklyn last week, was the last full-blooded member of the tribe of Montawk Indians. With her death the tribe became extinct.

WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY.

More Successful Experiments Over Land and Sea.

The experiments made with Signor Marconi's wireless system of telegraphy between Bournemouth and Alum Bay have, according to Mr. Jameson Davis, the managing director of the Wireless Telegraph Company, been of a perfectly satisfactory characters, and wireless telegraphy is now established as a commercial undertaking. Mr. Davis informed a representative of the Daily Mail that the distance between the points named is nearly fifteen miles, and that atmospheric conditions have no adverse effect on the accuracy with which communications are made. "Some time ago,' continued Mr. Davis, "we conducted experiments between Salisbury and Bath, a distance of thirty-four miles, and signals were successfully exchanged. We also tried the system at sea, chartering a steamer, which proceeded from Alum Bay to Swanage and back, and during the whole time was kept in communication with the operator at the former place." Mr. Davis then showed the Daily Mail representative the actual paper ribbons on which the Morse signals were received during the voyage referred to, and added that with Signor Marconi's apparatus ships at sea can readily communicate with each other. In order to establish communication btween two points it is necessary to have a vertical wire at some height in the air at each point. The wire may be either attached to a pole, or hung from a cliff or high building. The electrical apparatus is operated by a Morse key, which divides the electro-magnetic waves into long and short signals that constitute the dashes and dots of the Morse alphabet. "The greater the distance between the points,' said Mr. Davis, the greater the height to which the wires at each end must be raised. But it is not necessary to increase the height in ratio to the distance. Our experience is that if to establish communication between points sixteen miles apart it is necessary to have a height of say, 120 feet, by doubling the height you get communication between points sixty-four miles apart." Communication has been carried on between places several miles apart without using any vertical wire at all, and Mr. Davis asserts that by using a lance to elevate the wire a horse soldier could hold telegraphic conversation with the main body some considerable distance away. The necessary apparatus weighs less than fourteen pounds. Mr. Davis stated further that the system would shortly be in actual use in this country, though at present he was unable to make any statements as to the contracts arranged. It appears that it has already been adopted by the naval authorities of at least one of the European powers.—London Daily Mail.

LATEST WAR NEWS.

Thursday's Daily.

Fighting at Santiago has been again delayed, in order to refer the terms that would be accepted, to the president. It appears that both generals were willing to let the Spaniards give up, and go out with baggage train and arms, and colors flying and go where they pleased. The presidegt said this would not do. They must give up everything, arms and all, except side arms of officers surrender to us and we will send them to Spain if they promise not to serve against us again. To these terms they did not then ngree And it is expected that the fighting began again today noon.

It is believed the Spaniards cannot hold out as long as they claim they can, and that they may soon give up.

We he have captured an important island near Manila.

Friday's Daily.

As reported yesterday, the city and troops were surrendered and with it all the east end of Cuba, about 5,000 square miles. The Spaniards, as we understand it, retain their arms, flags, etc., and are to be taken to Spain by the United States. There are about 9,000 men at Santiago, and as many at differest points in the territory they give to us. All become prisioners.

We have landed a force of men and big cargoes of supplies on the south coast of Cuba.

It is believed we will go for Porto Rico next.

Saturday's Daily.

Martial law has been proclaimed in Spain. This is intended to give the government a chance to make peace, and at she same time be in shape to stop any uprising of dissatisfied people.

An Englishman writes an article for the Westminster Review in which he says that Dewey's success in sinking the Spanisu fleet was due to his having procured English gunners from the British Asiatic fleet. He says Dewey promised them $500 a month. Some English people believe this ridiculous statement.

Details are coming to light of a brisk fight on the south coast of Cuba, when we attempted to land the expedition carrying stores of all sorts to the Cubans. Our men were driven back into their boats with one killed and several wounded. Our gunboats however, shelled the Spaniards out of their positions, but we did not land there. The supplies were got to the Cuban army at a point some distance away.

Shafter still believes we will hold the Spaniards to our view of the surrender.

For several weeks it has been reported that a Spanish privateer vessel is lying in some obscure place on our northwest coast to capture returning treasure ships from the Klondyke. We are sending some spare gunboats up that way to protect some ships with ore, that are expected now in a few days.

Our next point is to take San Juan on the island of Porto Rico. It is believed we will be able to put an army on that island in a few days.

Our fleet that is to go to Spain is about ready and will start in a few days. They have a full quantity of coal, but coaling ships will go with them with big loads of coal to give the war ships when needed. It is not expected to need new supplies of coal till they reach the Canary Islands, 2,500 miles from Cuba, where our fleet starts. Several coast cities of Spain are frightened, as they don't know where we will land. If the fleet reaches Spain about August, and our men reach Porto Rico absut the same time, the Dons will have plenty of excitement to amuse them.

If all goes well and we get possession of Santiago, then will begin the work of charity on which we have started. Many thousands will be penniless and without food and as a humane people, we will feed them and shame their Spanish oppressors.

The leading European nations are sending warships to Spain to watch our style of naval fighting when our fleet reaches there.

Spain fears we may invade Porto Rico, and seems in a hurry to make peace if terms are not too hard.

New Bridge Started

The bridge near Geo. Swanders, that was washed out some months ago, is to rebuilt. Mr. Wheelock has the contract, and cleaned out the channel some days ago. This morning the pile driver was put in place and the work of driving the piles has begun. The stream is a small one putting into Cedar Creek from the east, but it is like many others, more troublesome than some bigger ones.

When Ague Shakes You

you can shake the Ague by using AYER'S AGUE CURE. It is the one certain and infallible cure for that depleting disease. It has been tried in many countries and under various conditions, and has never been known to fail. An old veteran writes:—

"You may be interested to know my experience many years ago with Ayer's Ague Cure. The year before the war I was in Kansas. Some twenty of us were engaged in farming, and suddenly all were taken with fever and ague. We tried almost everything without getting any help, till at last I sent to the city and procured a bottle of Ayer's Ague Cure. I recovered at once. The others followed my example, and they, too, recovered. Every one in camp took the remedy and was cured by it. I went all through the war, have lived in thirteen different states of the Union, and have never had the ague since."

O. B. SMITH, St. Augustine, Fla.

PENSION MATTERS.

Department of the Interior, Bureau of Pensions.

WASHINGTON D. C., 1898: Recent investigation had by this Bureau to ascertain the methods employed by public officials in executing pension vouchers, has demonstrated an almost total disregard of the laws and regulations governing the subject.

It is clearly evidenced that the illegal, lax, indifferent and perfunctory procedure now extant has become a menace to the proper and safe conduct of the affairs of this Bureau, so far as it relates to the payment of pensions, and special efforts are contemplated to correct the existing abuses.

While it is believed that many officials who assist in the execution of pension vouchers have no conception of their criminal liability in the premises, it is equally certain that many others to secure an advantage in the numerical number of their clientage, knowingly and wilfully resort to violations of the law.

To the end that the former class may profit by this notice, this circular is issued.

There can be no justification in the prevalent haste and laxity existing in many offices, by which post-dating, false claim and "stock" witnesses have become a factor in the administration and acknowlecgment of pension vouchers.

It is the intention of this Bureau, where the facts warrant such action, to institute criminal proceedings against the parties who indulge in these illegal and irregular practices and they are warned accordingly.

By following strictly the instructions printed on each voucher, the matters complained of may be entirely remedied.

Very respectfully,
H. CLAY EVANS,
Commissioner.

Patriotism Under Difficulties

Among the most patriotic people in the country may be counted our unfortunates in the penitentiary. We have on our table the "Reflector" a weekly paper published in the prison south at Jeffersonvills, edfted and set up and printed solely by prisoners This week its first page is adorned by a fine flag in two colors all done at their office. It takes lots of work to run two extra impressions in separate colors in a weekly paper, but of couse the boys have plenty of time on their hands and could tinker with it as long as they pleased. But it shows a good streak of patriotism that we admire, coming as it does from a class of men, whom the government is now punishing for their wrong doing. They evidently believe in the old Yankee maxim, "Our country, always right; our country, right or wrong." Give credit to the men who show their patriotism under such difficulties.

HALF SIZE—HALF PRICE.

THE COUNTY LEVY.

Several times our attention has been called to the fact that taxes are high. Now we are not going to deny this. But we are going to relieve the commissioners from blame. The commissioners can fix only one levy or rate. That is the county rate, and it has been kept up to where it is now, 50½ cents on each $100 for several years. The State levy has remained substantially the same for some time. But if there is an increase in taxes, it is done by the township trustees. This any one can see, by looking over the tax rates levied for the past few years. But as these rates have for a time been published only in papers of a limited circulation, they have apparently not been seen by many. Any matter like that, in which every taxpayer in the county is interested, should be put in to the COURIER, the only paper in the county that circulates in every part of it. The people are entitled to see these things whether democrats or republicans happen to hold the offices. But we will give the people some of the items so they can see where it occurs. Take any township and see. Here is one example. The levies in 1896 and 1897 were:

WILMINGTON

For towuship,	1896	1897
	10c	10c
Tuition	05	10&25
Special School	5&50	5&25
Road	20	20
Special Road	05	10
Poor	0	2
	45c	57c

This shows a total raise of 12 cents on the hundred dollars.

Or we might show this by the totals. Remembering that there has been no raise in state or county rates, we find totals like this:

WILMINGTON

1896	125
1897	137

CONCORD

1896	130
1897	146

And so it goes, some showing even greater difference. Only a few like Jackson and Butler show a decrease.

In the towns there is in some cases, an increase of a different sort caused by a special levy for waterworks, electric lights and other improvements.

So, we repeat, the commissioners have not raised the levy one penny. If taxes are higher it comes from the assessment having been put higher, or else it comes from the raising of the tax rate for one purpose or another, by the trustee.

STATE LEVY

We have said those have not been changed for some time. They are:

State	9c
" Poll	50c
Benevolent Inst	5c
State Sinking Fund	3c
" School	11c
" Poll	50c
Educational Inst	1½c

And as we said before, the county levy has been kept standing at 50½ It will likely be kept at that this year, so as to wipe out the debt, and then it can be put much lower next year.

The Indiana University.

We are in receipt of the catalogue of Indiana University for 1897-98. It contains one hundred and forty-six pages and is replete with information concerning the head of Indiana's great common school system. There are sixty-four members of the faculty, representing thirty-seven of the best educational institutions of Europe and America, and they offer work in nineteen departments comprising two hundred and fifty-six courses. The growth of the University during recent years has been rapid and for the first time in its history the attendance exceeds one thousand, the exact enrollment for the year just ended being one thousand and forty-nine. During the University year of 1897 and 1898 ninety of the ninety-two counties were represented and during the calender years of 1897 and 1898 every county in Indiana had students in attendance. While the applications for admission for next year are more numerous than ever before it is probable that the present equipment and the additional requirements for entrance will make it desirable to limit the number to a thousand in 1898-9.

Following are the names and addresses of the students from this county who were in attendance at the University during the last year:

From Butler—Miss Achsa Beechler and Messrs. Byron Jacob Pepper and Claude Belts.

From Auburn—Mr. Robert Coe.

From Spencerville—Mr. George G. Smith.

From Waterloo—Miss Clara Snyder.

From St. Joe Station—Mr. Otto Lin Widney.

COURT.

Thursday's Daily.

The Boyer case came up this morning and was finished before dinner. It was soon seen by all that Boyer's attempt to get his children away from their mother was unreasonable and amounted to persecution of the mother and nothing more.

Mrs. Boyer was put on the stand and testified that Boyer had annoyed her a good deal by unreasonable requests in regard to the children, and sometimes threatening her. She had always let the children go to see him whenever he wished. The last time he came, two or three weeks ago, he said to her that if he did not win this case he would have revenge, neither she nor the children should live. To prove this threat Miss May Shilling was put on the stand and told of the occurance, as she had been present.

Wm. Walsworth, Mrs. Boyer's father, testified as to the assistance he had given to the family, and produced a paper given him by Boyer at one time, and containing a threat.

Charles Eckhart testified as to the character of the work Carey Boyer had to do at the factory, as the father had claimed the mother was unfit to care for him if she allowed him to work. It appears the work was not hard.

Mr. Gill of Waterloo testified for Mrs. Boyer that Mr. Boyer had no good place to keep the children if they were given to him. He said he had a room on the second floor of the old Hale block in Waterloo, with one bed, one stove, very little other furniture. Paint brushes and paint pails all about and a human skeleton that he used to illustrate a lecture or something.

Boyer himself testified. He claimed that since their separation, years ago, she had tried to keep the children away from him and prejudice them against him. He said he had "two as nice babies as there were in Auburn" and he loved them and wanted them with him. He denied that he had used threats.

When testimony was done Judge Roby took the boy and girl, Carey and Nellie, with him into another room and talked with them awhile. He probably wished to see what their wishes and opinions were. On his return he listened to counsel. Mr. Hoffman for Boyer, made a very calm and sensible statement of his side, and it was evident that they had seen that Boyer had overstated his case to them.

J. E. Rose, for Mrs. Boyer, made a brief argument, but added that a man like Boyer should be held to a strict account, for a man who would persecute and threaten might prove troublesome.

Judge Roby, then read his decision, and afterwards gave a copy to Boyer's attorneys to let Boyer read, as he cannot hear. It right to the point in simple, direct but pointed and eloquent language, the substance of which was that the custody of the children must remain with the mother, and that Boyer should have the privilege of seeing them, which in fact he had always had. The Judge said the children were old enough to choose for themselves, and that any time when they wished to see their father, they might call on him. But their home was with their mother. And Boyer must stop annoying and persecuting her. If he persists in this, it will be considered a contempt of court and be punished accordingly. He complimented the boy and girl and their good sense and good breeding thus paying a deserved comment to them and their mother.

The room was full of the best citizens of Auburn and all were on the mother's side. They compliment Judge Roby heartily.

Friday's Daily.

Court was in session yesterday afternoon and at evening adjourned to meet Monday next. The only business done was a judgment for J. H. Weaver on merchant's lien on the Zeigler Block for work done by him in making the late extensive repairs shortly before Mr. Zeigler's death.

The Fort Wayne insurance case that took the first part of the week, the one brought by Patrick E. Cox against the three insurance companies. The Traders of Chicago; the Connecticut Fire Insurance Co. Hartford and the Westchester Ins. Co. of N. Y. was set over to the October term to be finished. The testimony is probably all in.

In DeKalb county the county officers appear to earn and collect more than enough fees to pay their salaries. In the last year the clerk reported $1,016.91 fees collected in excess of his salory, the recorder $855.25 and the sheriff $539.67. The county is on the whole $2,411.83 the better off on account with their officers. In LaGrange county the clerk and sheriff did not collect enough to pay their salaries, but the recorder whose salary is only $1 100, collected an excess of $311 30. Where the fees for these officers do not amount to enough to pay the salaries fixe d by law, the officers goes without the balance. The auditor and treasurer have but little fees to collect and are paid their salaries in full,

Will Fix The Elevator

The Lake Shore carpenters came here this forenoon to work on the grain elevator. The building is not exactly out of repair, but many little things are needed to put it in perfect shape to receive the large crop of wheat now ready to come in. A large amount will have to be cared for, so the bins and building need to be looked after. Wheat is only 60 cents now but the crop is large and many believe th price will be low any way, as the crop in foreign countries, is also reported arge.

OUR OLD FLAG

Is Now Proudly Floating Over Santiago.

The Spanish Colors are Pulled Down

And the Stars and Stripes Hoisted at Noon Sunday.

All the Regimental Bands of Our Line Played the Star Spangled Banner.

The Surrender of Santiago.

"Old Glory" floats over the fortifications of Santiago. At 9 o'clock Sunday morning the Spanish troops under Toral left their trenches and marched into the American lines, where the regiments laid down their arms. At the same time the Spanish flag was hauled down and the stars and stripes were hoisted.

When the Spanish troops laid down their arms between the lines of the Spanish and American forces Gen. Shafter and the American division brigade commanders and staffs were escorted by a troop of cavalry under Gen. Toral and staff of a hundred picked men. The trumpeters on both sides saluted with flourishes. Gen. Shafter returned to Gen. Toral the latter's sword after it had been handed to the American commander. Gen. Shafter and escort, accompanied by Gen. Toral, road through the city, taking formal possession. The city had been sacked before they arrived by Spaniards. At the palace elaborate ceremonies took place. When the American flag was raised over the palace it was saluted by twenty-one guns, all the regimental bands of our line played the "Star Spangled Bannor," after which President McKinley's congratulatory telegram was read to each regiment.

General Harrison President.

The United States Sanitary Commission, which has been organized to care for the sick and wounded in the present war, to furnish nurses and to provide all possible comfort to the soldiers, has elected the following officers:

President—Benjamin Harrison, Indiana.

First Vice President—Robert T. Lincoln, Illinois.

Second Vice President—Lew Wallace, Indiana.

Third Vice President—Henry Watterson, Kentucky.

Treasurer—Daniel E. Sickles, New York.

Secretary—M. D. Ellis, Indiana.

The headquarters of the commission will be in Indianapolis, and appeals for contributions will be made and money thus secured for carrying on the work. No salaries will be paid. Finance committees will be appointed in all large cities.

Shoots His Wife and Himself.

Edward McKendre, a farmer living six miles east of Owosso, Mich., shot and fatally wounded his wife, and in trying to escape swam to an island in the Shiewassee River, where he was pursued by a crowd of angry neighbors. When McKindre was satisfied that there was no chance for escape he fired three bullets into his breast and was carried to the County Jail on a stretcher. McKindre is 24 years of age and his wife 20. They were married a year ago, and for the past three months have lived unhappily. The physicians say there is no hope of saving either life.

Emperor William Curious About Our Dynamite Guns.

Berlin special: The Emperor has become greatly interested in the dynamite gun and has made inquiries concerning it. He has asked experts to furnish diagrams and particulars of the dynamite guns used in the American Navy, especially in regard to their action and results in the bombardment of the forts at Santiago. It is believed that the Emperor has instructed the Krupps to manufacture a trial gun.

British Schooner Held by Prize Crew.

The British schooner E. R. Nickerson, which was captured July 10 by the Hornet, Hist and Wampatuck, off Cape Cruz, while attempting to run the blockade into Manzanillo, was brought to Key West, Fla., by a prize crew under Lieut. Dougal. She had a cargo of provisions, hogs, goats, etc. She had a crew of negroes and two passengers were on board. She was bound for Jamaica.

Large Order for Shrapnel Shot.

The Falls Rivet and Machine Company of Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, has received a large order from the Government for shrapnel shot and for 3,000 7-inch howitzers of 105 pounds each. The works of the company will be enlarged to fill orders.

BRING RICHES FROM ALASKA.

Twenty Klondikers Reach San Francisco with About $3,000,000.

Twenty Klondikers, laden with gold and dressed in costumes befitting the weather of the northern gold fields, arrived in San Francisco on the Hattie I. Phillips. These men have with them over $50,000 in gold dust and drafts for nearly $3,000,000 more. Of the twenty in the party about half were from Dawson and the rest principally from Circle City, with a few from Manook. One of the men said: "Any man that goes in there and is a hustler and does not sit around in his cabin all winter can come out all right. As far as my judgment goes, that is the best country on earth for a workingman to make money." These men estimate that the Klondike output this season will far exceed $15,000,000. None of the Klondikers heard of the war with Spain until they arrived at St. Michael's. There was a great deal of sickness at Dawson when the miners left, typhoid fever being very prevalent. Prices were high, but food such as it was was fairly plentiful.

STARCH PLANT BURNED.

Fire at West Hammond, Ind., Causes a Loss of About $300,000.

Fire destroyed the immense West Hammond, Ind., plant of the Western Starch Association. It started in the gluten-room and in a short time seven of the nine buildings were in flames. A high wind spread the fire rapidly and light water pressure retarded the efforts of the department. The only buildings saved were the office building and one drying building. In the immense elevator were many thousand bushels of corn. The storerooms contained 40,000 cases of manufactured starch. The plant and business was owned and managed by the Stein-Hirsh Company, of which M. M. Hirsh is president. Insurance men estimate the loss at $275,000 to $300,000, with ample insurance. The company will rebuild on a more extensive scale. Mike Schuetz, overcome with heat, fell into the flames. He was rescued and may recover.

FIRE ENDANGERS LIVES.

Flames Sweep Away $150,000 Worth of Property at Cincinnati.

A fire involving heavy loss broke out in the manufacturing district at Harriet and Sloo streets, Cincinnati, Ohio. It was first discovered in the dismantled warehouse of the McGill Grate and Mantel Company, and spread rapidly to the yards of the E. D. Albro Lumber Company and other combustible manufactories in that district. Among the leading losers are the Albro company, $50,000 on lumber alone; Queen City Mantel and Grate Company, $30,000; F. J. Mackey, $20,000; Agger & Sanning Furniture Company, $25,000; Collier & Budd Coal Company, offices burned. A four-story tenement house was in the line of fire and was destroyed, the inmates making narrow escapes. Total loss will reach $150,000.

THREE MEN ARE KILLED.

Fire in a Factory Does Fatal Work at Racine.

Fire destroyed the main factory building of the Racine, Wis., Malleable and Wrought Iron Company, caused the loss of three lives and injured more or less seriously twenty more men and boys employed in the factory. The dead are: John Reefe, Gus Kennetzki, unidentified body, supposed to be Adelbert Hollister. The loss to the company is from $75,000 to $100,000, on which there is an insurance of $56,000. The fire started in the dipping room on the main floor and was not at first thought to be serious enough to call the department.

Aid for Red Cross Hospital.

If any power on earth can break the "endless chain" which Miss Nathalie Schenck started moving from Babylon, L. I., with the laudable purpose of raising $2,000 for the Red Cross hospital service, that young woman, all her relatives and friends, and most particularly the postmaster at Babylon, would be happy to invoke its aid. The first mail received at Babylon on a recent morning contained more than 7,000 letters addressed to Miss Schenck. The afternoon mail contained 2,000 more, making 9,000 in the day. Since each letter received represented a potentiality of them for the morrow, according to the "endless chain" system, Postmaster Dowden was confronted with the awful possibility of being obliged to handle 27,000 letters the next day, 81,000 the next and 243,000 the one following. Postmaster Dowden is a patriot, and is willing enough to handle a million letters a day in so good a cause, but the Babylon postoffice facilities will not let him. The 9,000 letters of yesterday "swamped" the little third-class postoffice, and gave its regular business a setback, from which it did not recover for a week. Miss Schenck is anxious to stop the endless chain, as she has received about $4,000.

A Runaway Trolley Car.

At Washington, D. C., an electric car on the Congress Heights road, filled with passengers, crashed into a horse car of the Anacostia line. An unknown man was killed and between twenty-five and thirty people injured, several of them fatally. Both cars were demolished and the horses of the Anacostia car killed. The accident occurred opposite St. Elizabeth's Government Asylum for the Insane. A steep hill runs from the asylum into Anacostia and the brake chain broke as the car started to make the descent. The motorman jumped without reversing his motor and when the car reached the bottom of the hill it had gained a speed of seventy miles an hour. The horse car was standing on the turn table at the end of the line, and the driver jumped just in time to save his life. Many of the passengers were injured by jumping from the car during its flight down the hill. Among those seriously hurt is George Rosenberger of Baltimore.

Case Decided Against Carnegie.

Judge Acheson of the United States Circuit Court at Pittsburg, Pa., handed down an opinion in the case of the United States Mitis Company against the Carnegie Steel Company, limited. The finding is that the defendant company has infringed on a process of the plaintiffs for manufacturing casts from wrought iron and steel by adding aluminum. The case is important and involves the manufacture of armor plate.

Accident Is Fatal to Two.

Two men were drowned near the draw of the new bridge between Charlestown and Boston, Mass. A dozen laborers, who were dumped with tons of gravel through the flooring of a wharf which collapsed into the river, were fished out, damp, but unharmed. Michael Flavin of South Boston and Michael Flavin of Charlestown, cousins, are the dead. All the workmen were pulled out, except the Flavins, who were buried beneath the huge mass of wreckage.

Big Fire in Allegheny, Pa.

Fire which originated mysteriously in a stable in the rear of the World's Theater in Federal street, Allegheny, Pa., destroyed the theater and the entire section fronting in the lower side of Federal street, from the 6th street bridge to the Boyle Block, and in the rear almost to Balkam street. While the area covered by the fire was large the loss will not exceed $175,000, as many of the buildings were small frame structures.

Boats Ran for Shelter.

A heavy wind and rainstorm did considerable damage along the Atlantic coast. A number of vessels put in to New York for shelter, and several small sailing craft were reported ashore near Tompkinsville, S. I. The big tug Scandinavian sprung aleak and sunk near Stapleton, S. I. Three men on board were asleep and had narrow escapes from being drowned. The boat was used to supply warships with water. She can be saved. The thirty-foot cutter Cathleen drifted to the Merritt-Chapman Wrecking Company's dock. Her stern was torn off and her bowsprit was carried away and the mast broken close to the deck. The monitor Nahant lay off Tompkinsville with full steam up. The sea washed completely over her decks. The 212 men, members of Companies C and K, Third New Jersey volunteers, at Fort Wadsworth, had a bad night of it. The storm leveled their tents and all the men received a severe ducking.

TERRIBLE WORK OF A BOILER.

Explodes in a Starch Plant—Four Workmen Killed.

An overtaxed boiler in one of the buildings of the Niagara branch of the National starch trust blew up at Buffalo, N. Y. Four workmen were killed. The explosion shook the brick building to pieces and "shelled" the neighborhood for an eighth of a mile with bricks and pieces of iron. Great damage was done to the houses near by. Every pane of glass within two blocks was broken. A piece of iron weighing fifty pounds crashed through the roof of a two-story house at 28 Oneida street. Mrs. John McFeeley, who lived on the second floor, was holding her infant daughter. The iron struck her, breaking her shoulder blade and crushing the infant's skull. Albert Brinker, aged 9, was playing in a yard a block away when he was struck by a piece of the boiler, which broke his leg. Nearly a hundred trifling injuries are reported. Mrs. Joseph W. Hoyt and baby are missing and are supposed to be buried in the ruins.

NEW TRADE RULES.

Dominion Cabinet Accepts Regulations Regarding Preferential Rates.

At a meeting of the cabinet at Ottawa, Ont., the new regulations regarding the preferential trade being made applicable to Britain and its possessions under certain circumstances were adopted. The act of last session provided that the 25 per cent reduction would apply to Britain, the British West Indies, and such other colonies as gave the same commercial benefits as Canada gave to them, and which were to be named by the minister of customs. These colonies are now selected as follows: New South Wales, British India, Straits Settlement and Ceylon. The important decision was also arrived at that an article which represented one-quarter of British Labrador would be entitled to the benefits of the lower tariff. Sugar from all these possessions will also get the benefit of the preferential rate.

Death on Alaskan Trail.

A thrilling tale of the hardships of Alaskan travel in winter is told in a letter from H. M. Morgan, newspaper correspondent, who undertook to make the trip from St. Michael to Manook creek, 600 miles, by overland trail. Morgan left St. Michael on Christmas day, accompanied by several guides and Mr. Maidhof of New York, who was appointed consul at Annaburg, Saxony, by Cleveland. For a month they toiled through deep snow and over ice. On Jan. 26 their sled broke down and the next morning their guides deserted. Then came a terrible snowstorm, the men lost their bearings and their food gave out. Maidhof fell exhausted on Feb. 12 and died the next day. His companion buried the remains in the snow and started back to St. Michaels. For days he traveled alone, with no food but dog meat, until on March 3 he became snow blind. He did not dare to leave his sled and for days he lay in his sleeping bag waiting for death. He was found when nearly dead by a party of Indians and taken to Unalakilt mission.

Negro Culprit Whipped.

The first case of punishment by stripes under the law passed by the last Legislature providing for corporal punishment in certain cases occurred in Fredericksburg, Va., when Justice of the Peace S. J. Quinn had a colored youth whipped at the hands of an officer with the consent of the mother. The boy was charged with entering a house to steal.

Adulterated Flour Used.

As a result of an investigation on the part of State Labor Commissioner Johnson it was found that fifty-three flouring mills, doing business in thirty-nine counties in Kansas, are turning out adulterated flour. The flour is adulterated by the use of corn. Commissioner Johnson advises drastic legislation for the protection of honest millers in the State.

Woman Sentenced to Death.

Mrs. Martha M. Place, convicted of the murder of her step-daughter, Ida Place, in New York, was sentenced to die in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison during the week beginning Aug. 29.

End of Yellow Fever.

The marine hospital service at Washington gave out a telegraphic report from the surgeon in charge at McHenry, Miss., announcing the discharge of the last case of yellow fever at that point.

SANTIAGO IS OURS.

General Toral Surrenders to Shafter and Sampson.

FELL WITHOUT FIGHT

Spaniards Saw the Utter Futility of Further Resistance.

Unconditional Capitulation Was the Demand from Washington, Naming of Terms to Be Left to the Discretion and Generosity of Victors—Spanish Commander Agrees to All the Terms Offered by the United States—The Prisoners to Be Sent Back to Spain.

Washington special:

Santiago is ours. The capitulation of the city came at noon Thursday. The United States land troops under Miles and Shafter had completely surrounded the beleaguered Spanish stronghold, and Sampson's fleet was lined up ready to throw its terribly destructive shells right into the heart of the doomed town. General Toral saw the utter futility of further resistance, and shortly before the truce extended to the Spaniards had expired he asked for the appointment of commissioners to arrange terms of surrender. Shafter wired Toral's request to Washington, where the Spanish proposition for commissioners was promptly declined and the order went out that nothing short of an unconditional surrender, and that immediately, would be considered.

The conference at the White House over General Shafter's message regarding commissioners lasted only about ten minutes before an answer to the dispatch was framed. In this dispatch General Shafter was instructed to carry out the orders last sent him—namely, to secure the surrender of Santiago by noon or to renew the attack upon the city. The dispatch to General Shafter bidding him notify Toral that he must fight or surrender unconditionally without further parley was sent from the White House within a few minutes of 12 o'clock noon. Then there was nearly two hours of anxious waiting before the news was received announcing Santiago's fall, and that the Spanish general had concluded to quit on condition that he and his men be allowed to return to Spain. These terms were such as the American commander could accept, and the end was therefore hailed as at hand. Indeed, it had been informally decided at the conference between the President and Secretary of War earlier in the day, in the event of the capture of the garrison, to send the prisoners to Spain. This will accordingly be done as the best possible way of disposing of the Spaniards, who would otherwise be an expensive charge upon us.

The ancient capital of Cuba is now in possession of the victorious American army under Gens. Miles and Shafter. The operations of the three weeks leading up to the surrender are full of stirring interest. Gen. Shafter's forces arrived off Santiago June 20, and June 23 they were safely landed at Baiquiri. The advance upon Santiago began promptly. June 24 Juragua was captured, and on the same day occurred the gallant repulse of the Spaniards at La Quasina by the regulars and rough riders. June 26 Shafter occupied Sevilla, and June 27 his advance was within three miles of Santiago. June 30 Caney was taken, and July 1 and 2 there was fighting all along the front, which resulted in the capture of San Juan and the driving back of the Spaniards from their outer line of defenses. July 3 Gen. Shafter demanded the surrender of the city, and the demand was emphasized by the destruction of Cervera's fleet in its desperate effort to escape from Santiago harbor. An armistice was arranged, which was successively extended to July 9 and 10. On the last named date Linares refused unconditional surrender, and the fleet bombarded the city. July 11 re-enforcements came up, the investment of the city was completed, and a second demand for surrender was sent. July 13 overtures were made by the Spanish general for the appointment of a commission to arrange terms of peace and the armistice was extended again to noon of July 14. On that date, convinced of the hopelessness of further resistance, Gen. Toral surrendered the city and his army.

UNCLE SAM: "Now run along home and keep out of mischief."

The southeastern end of Cuba, east of a line drawn from Aserradero on the south to Sagua on the north—an area of about 5,000 square miles, the capital of the province, the forts and their heavy guns, and Toral's army, about 15,000 strong, have passed into our possession. There still remain in the western part of the province the garrisons at Holguin and Manzanillo, about 6,000 strong, under Gen. Pando, which are outside the zone of capitulation, but there is no danger from this force. Toral's army will be shipped to Spain, where it will be harmless to us and an object lesson to Spanish fire-eaters on the peninsula. Meanwhile it is the intention to garrison Santiago with immune regiments, and every effort will be made to get the sick into safer and more comfortable quarters. It will be a matter for congratulation that this important result has been achieved without the necessity of a general engagement and the storming of the city. Our loss of life has been comparatively small, amounting to about 250 killed, while we have about 2,000 wounded and sick in hospital. The Spaniards have suffered much more severely, a thousand of their sailors having been killed or drowned, several hundred of their soldiers killed, while a great number have died in the trenches. It is also a matter for congratulation that the Government proposes to push the expedition forward to Porto Rico with all speed. Gens. Miles and Brooke will be in command.

For the success which has crowned our arms again all honor to Gen. Shafter and his men, both regulars and volunteers. They have struggled against almost overwhelming obstacles and have nobly overcome them, though exposed to fearful heat, drenching rains, deadly fever, and all the discomforts and dangers of a tropical country to which they are entirely unused. The navy has already provoked the admiration of the world by its phenomenal exploits. The military observers of foreign nations now testify with equal enthusiasm to the magnificent courage, skill and fighting qualities of the American soldiers.

TO SUCCOR BLANCO'S SOLDIERS.

Another Suspicious Vessel Arrives at Kingston, Jamaica.

The Norwegian steamer Gyller arrived at Kingston, Jamaica, after a voyage of eleven days from New York. Her consignees stated that she had a general cargo aboard, but it was learned that she was laden with provisions destined for Cuban ports. The voyage of the Gyller is simply another attempt on the part of Spanish agents to succor the impoverished troops in Cuba.

Interested in Dynamite Gun.

The Emperor William has become greatly interested in the dynamite gun and has made many inquiries concerning it. He has asked experts to furnish diagrams and particulars of the dynamite guns used in the American navy, especially in regard to their action and results in the bombardment of the forts at Santiago.

Will Court Martial Monet.

A dispatch from Captain General Augusti states that Gen. Monet will be court martialed for deserting his command and going to Manila.

COSTS MONEY TO SINK FLEETS.

Ammunition for United States Warships Is Expensive.

Lieut. Commander Speyers, commanding the United States collier Caesar, tells some interesting facts in connection with the recent naval battle off Santiago. Gunner Applegate of the Brooklyn told him that when the Vizcaya tried to ram the Brooklyn the latter fired in the few moments in which the engagement lasted ammunition costing $31,000. This consisted of 183 8-inch, 65 6-inch, 12 6-pound and 400 1-pound shells. The shot which did the most execution was one 8-inch shell fired by the Brooklyn, which raked the Vizcaya fore and aft, and killed in its passage eighty Spaniards. The 13-inch shells of the Oregon did frightful execution.

SCHLEY WAS DETERMINED.

Declared He Would Follow the Cristobal Colon to Spain.

Private McNeil, U. S. M. C., who was on the U. S. S. Brooklyn, was on one of the forward six-pounders in the fight with Cervera's ships, and was standing only a few feet away when a shot from the Cristobal Colon blew off the head of Chief Yeoman Ellis. McNeil says in a letter that when the fleet was discovered coming out of the harbor the crew was standing with open ranks for inspection. Commodore Schley was on the bridge during all the fighting, and an orderly heard him say: "I want that ship. I have 800 tons of coal and plenty of woodwork on this vessel, and I'll have her if I chase her to Spain."

SAYS HE BEGAN THE BATTLE.

Augustus Kellar of Newark, N. J., Claims He Fired First.

Augustus Kellar of Newark, N. J., one of the gunners aboard the battleship Indiana, in a letter to his brother, Charles, claims the distinction of having fired the first shot in the naval battle at Santiago. Toward the end of the battle, he writes, when it was seen that the Vizcaya was almost defeated, the sailors in his turret scratched on one of the shells, in big letters, "Remember the Maine." When the lanyard was pulled the shell was seen to strike the stern of the Vizcaya, tearing it to pieces and setting the vessel on fire.

To Seek Alleged Privateer.

The Navy Department sent telegraphic orders to Admiral Miller at San Francisco to send the gunboat Bennington to the coast of British Columbia to investigate the report that a Spanish privateer was in those waters, waiting for returning treasure ships from Alaska flying the American flag.

Spanish Batteries Smashed.

From off Carnedas comes report that batteries in the course of construction, as well as two others already completed, have been destroyed. The Spaniards made a brave resistance, and the American shells caused many fatalities. The American ships were not struck.

Make Ready for the Iowa.

Brooklyn's new dry dock at the navy yard is being made ready to receive the battleship Iowa. The Iowa is to have its bottom cleaned and will have removed from its armor a big Spanish shell which imbedded itself there during the recent naval fight off Santiago.

Suggests Cure for Fever.

A New York physician makes the suggestion that a building be fitted up near Santiago and cooled by liquid air to below the freezing point. This is said to be practical. As frost kills yellow jack, cures might be wrought this way.

ST. MICHAEL'S CATHEDRAL, SANTIAGO.
The Spaniards were using this church for storing ammunition, and when a shell from Sampson's fleet struck it the whole church was blown to pieces.

Can Save Cruiser Colon.

The wreckers have been inspecting the sunken Spanish cruiser Cristobal Colon and say they are able to save the ship.

GENERAL VIEW OF SANTIAGO FROM THE WATER FRONT.

WAR HISTORY OF A WEEK.

Friday.

Admiral Camara, with his fleet, which had passed through the Suez canal, ordered to return to Spain.

Col. Wood of the rough riders made a brigadier general, and Lieut. Col. Roosevelt promoted to the colonelcy of the regiment.

A Spanish privateer reported cruising in British Columbian waters, ready to prey on vessels returning from Alaska with treasure.

Officials at Washington expect that Spain will begin negotiations for peace in a few days. Important dispatches have been received with this end in view.

Military precautions taken in Spain to prevent expected outbreaks. Soldiers disgusted with condition of affairs, while republicans have issued a circular, headed "Prepare!" Reports that Spain would sue for peace caused an advance in Spanish bonds.

Saturday.

Thousands of refugees from Santiago have flocked to the American lines, and the problem of feeding them is a serious one for Gen. Shafter.

Damage sustained by the battle ship Iowa in the Santiago fight may prevent that vessel joining the eastern squadron that is to attack the Spanish coast.

The Associated Press correspondent at Berlin reiterates that, notwithstanding official denials, Germany, Russia and France are scheming to intervene in the Philippines when certain conditions arise.

President McKinley has refused the offer of Gen. Linares, Spanish commander at Santiago, to surrender conditionally. The truce which would have expired Saturday at noon was extended twenty-four hours, and all day the question of surrender was considered.

Sunday.

Austria is said to be contemplating proposals for immediate intervention by the European powers in behalf of Spain.

It is said at Madrid that peace negotiations are considered urgent, the hopelessness of the war situation being recognized.

Admiral Cervera, fifty-three of his officers and 638 of his men, arrived at Portsmouth, N. H., on the auxiliary cruiser St. Louis as prisoners of war.

Gen. Brooke has placed an embargo on passes for soldiers at Chickamauga because of frequent acts of lawlessness in Chattanooga since pay day. The arrests have averaged 200 daily.

From 4 o'clock in the afternoon until dark the American artillery poured a deadly fire into the Spanish lines at Santiago. The reply was weak, indicating, as believed, that the end of Spanish resistance is near.

Monday.

Gen. Miles arrived at Santiago de Cuba at noon.

Report is made that the Infanta Maria Teresa is the only ship of Cervera's fleet that can be saved.

Du Bosc and Carranza, Spanish representatives in Canada, told by the Canadian officials to quit the country.

Gen. Shafter reports that in the action of July 1-3 at Santiago twenty-three officers and 208 men were killed 80 officers and 1,203 men were wounded, and that 81 men are missing.

For two hours in the morning Admiral Sampson's ships threw shells toward Santiago. One of them blew up a church filled with ammunition. Just as Gen. Shafter began his land attack a flag of truce was seen coming from the city, which stopped the fighting.

Attack on Santiago resumed, the fleet joining the army in sending shells over the hills into the town. Great damage done. General Wheeler went into the city under a flag of truce and demanded the surrender of the town for the third and last time. During the fighting the Spaniards in the trenches suffered heavy losses.

Tuesday.

General Miles reached the front at Santiago and assumed command of our forces in the field.

General Duffield is in the isolation hospital and is in a very serious condition. The nature of his ailment is not stated.

It has been decided that submarine mines in American harbors are no longer needed, and they will all be exploded.

Wednesday.

Fierce rainstorms have drenched the troops at the front.

Sagasta said at Madrid that the moment for peace negotiations had come.

A few cases of yellow fever are being treated in a field hospital near Santiago. The victims are teamsters and refugees.

President McKinley and his cabinet have decided that the capture of Santiago must be effected with expedition in consequence of the terrible climatic conditions and the danger to our men owing to an outbreak of yellow fever.

Admiral Dewey reports that a German cruiser prevented the Philippine insurgents from capturing Isla de Grande, in Subig Bay. Whereupon he sent the Raleigh and Concord to capture the island and turn it over to the insurgents. Over 1,000 Spaniards were made prisoners and a quantity of ammunition was captured.

Thursday.

Gen. Toral, commander of the Spanish forces at Santiago de Cuba, surrendered to Gen. Shafter.

The United States Government will now turn its attention to the capture of San Juan, Porto Rico. An expedition is to be started at once under Gen. Brooke.

An inspired article in the Cologne Gazette declares that there is no truth in the report that a German cruiser interfered in any way with the operations of Admiral Dewey in the Philippines.

The Florida and the Panita, convoyed by the gunboat Peoria, have landed large expeditions at Palo Alto, on the south coast of Cuba. In the fighting which took place Captain Jose Manuel Nunez was killed and Winthrop Chanler of the rough riders and several soldiers wounded.

Sparks from the Wires.

Twenty business blocks in the little town of Rogers, Texas, were destroyed by fire.

Chili has sent an ultimatum to Argentina giving her until Aug. 15 to settle the boundary dispute.

The number of immigrants to the United States shows a marked decrease during the past few weeks.

An American flag, said to be the largest flag in the world, measuring 75 feet 6 inches by 57 feet, was flung to the breeze at Mauch Chunk, Pa.

In a difficulty over family affairs J. P. Woodard shot and killed Joseph Ragland, his brother-in-law, at Mansfield, Texas.

The Topeka (Kan.) City Council has passed an ordinance imposing a yearly tax of $3,000 upon premium stamp companies and upon business firms making use of the premium stamps. The stamp companies will contest the collection of the tax in the courts.

John Bowers, a section hand on the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe Railway, died in the company hospital. After arranging to give Bowers a pauper's burial the Sisters of Charity found Santa Fe pay checks in the sum of $500 sewed up in the lining of his vest.

THE WHISTLING BOY.

Is there a sound in the world so sweet,
on a dark and dreary morn,
When the gloom without meets the gloom within, till we wish we'd not been born,
As the sound of a little barefoot boy
gayly whistling in the rain,
As he drives the cows to pastures green, down the path in the muddy lane?

The joy of a boy is a funny thing, not dampened by autumn rain;
His clothes and his hands and his sturdy feet are not spoiled by grime or stain;
The world to him is a wonderful place that he means some day to explore;
If there's time to play and plenty to eat who cares if the heavens pour?

Oh, that cheery trill of a heart as fresh as the drops that clear the air,
Brings a smile to our lips, and clears the soul of the gloom that brooded
there;
And we bless the boy as he spats along through rivers of rain and mud,
For the hope and cheer in that whistled note would rainbow the sky in a flood.

The Ring and the Glove.

I felt like Cortez upon a memorable occasion when the jeweller's glass door swung behind me, and, marching up to the counter, I asked for a ring.

"A ring, sir?" said the attendant, a Cockney to his finger tips. "What sort of a ring?"

"An engagement ring," said I valorously.

"What size, sir?" demanded the man, docketing me mentally.

"Five and a half," I replied, thinking of the glove.

"That's rather an unusual size," he remarked, rubbing one eyebrow, "unless it's a bangle the lady wants."

"I'm not sure that she wants it at all," I murmured, producing the little sandalwood-scented bit of silk; "but that is the size, I think."

"Oh—it's the size of the lady's 'and," he observed with mild toleration, unrolling it. "Well, sir, ladies' fingers vary in girth, and it's more usual to fit them with a piece of cardboard; but we'll go our best."

"Could not the member be reconstituted?" I asked impressively.

That knocked the conceit out of him; he stared at me helplessly.

"Fill it with powder or something," I explained.

It took him five minutes' self-discipline to grasp the startling novelty, but he did, and, under my direction, filled the third finger sheath with plate powder, which I rammed home with my pencil-case. Then, producing a miniature calliper, he took measurements and began to search his scintilating stock, displaying a reverent familiarity most impressive to behold. Cleopatra, how they dazzled! Pearls, rubies, emeralds, diamonds, each challenging the admiration, but checking the desire by the narrow parchment slip attached setting forth the price. Two hundred dollars, $300, $500, it was a charmed place, where money lost its everyday significance, for what man of spirit would be content to offer the girl of his heart a thing costing a miserable tenner when close beside it twinkled a rose diamond worth a king's ransom? I felt almost pauperized, recollecting that I had only $400 available.

"Now, sir, what do you think of this?" asked the shopman patronizingly, as he displayed an opal changeful as the shifting sunlight on a misty sky. "It's exactly the lady's size, making allowances, for, of course, she won't want to wear it over 'er glove."

"Are not opals unlucky?" said I, endeavoring to decipher the price.

"Oh, we don't hold with such superstition," replied the jeweller, loftily, "but they do say one will keep you from being poisoned."

"Then I shall leave it for the next rich widow," I answered. "But what is the cost of this?"

I alluded to an emerald set amid pearls, which I already saw glittering on the loveliest hand in the world. He extracted it with a silent respect he borrowed from my eagerness, and made a measurement while I watched him, my heart beating madly. The size was exactly the same; the price—but that is a detail. I decided upon it. The shopman thanked me perfunctorily, and I leaned against the counter, feeling like one who had received a great favor. But when I fumbled in my pocket for the notes and heard their crisp crackle my confidence returned, and then as I watched the splendid thing flashing in its violet bed I believed I must after all be a rich man, unknown to myself, so great was the suggestion of unlimited wealth thus conveyed.

"I should like a piece of glass on the inside of the case lid," I observed carelessly. "Is it usual?"

"That's looking glass?" queried the lapidary, glancing up from a surreptitious examination of the notes.

I nodded. I knew I must be getting red.

"Well," he remarked, tolerantly, "it is not exactly usual, but it's a pretty idea—'ightens the attraction of the gem, makes the lady see the present from two points of view."

"Hardly an advantage sometimes," I observed, "but can you do it?"

"Well, yes, I should think," he replied condescendingly.

"Then get it done, and I shall stand the racket," I answered magnificently.

He hurried away to effect the alteration, his place being taken by a bald headed salesman who wore spectacles and talked to me over them soothingly, as one would to a person of weak intellect, while I formulated piratical schemes and asked him puerile questions with a gravity equalling his own.

When I left the shop I headed straight for Bloomsbury square, but remembering that she might be just then occupied by domestic duties, decided to call later in the day. Even the ring in my pocket gave me no additional courage, and presently I began to think it was not quite royal enough. Edging my way to Regent's Park I hunted out a quiet spot and sat down to examine it at leisure. It was glorious still, but somehow not so glorious as I would have wished, and I was actually questioning the wisdom of my choice when an approaching footfall made me close the case. It was light, though firm, and the everlasting flint would have worn well beneath it. Something, more of the intellect than of the sense, made me look up, and I saw her.

The sensation of being shot through the heart has not, I believe, received adequate literary expression, those who experience it being usually preoccupied at the exact moment with other matters; but I think I know what it means. She stopped and we gazed at each other. She was in deep black, but the pallor had gone from her oval cheeks. She made a half tentative bow. I sprang to my feet.

"I am so glad to see you," I cried, "because—I want to restore something you forgot in the restaurant yester—a few weeks ago."

"How kind of you," she said, coming near.

"Oh, not at all," I replied; "but I hope you were not inconvenienced. I should have sent it, but I—I didn't."

I put my hand in my breast pocket hurriedly and extracted my handkerchief, which in turn brought to light a sheaf of letters and memoranda I shook out at her feet like a skillful conjurer. Then I tried the other pocket, but vainly. "It's a glove," I said weakly, gathering up my belongings, "one of yours, don't you know."

"I recollect—I missed it," she said coldly.

"But the cab went so quickly," I pleaded; "ah, do sit down until I find it."

She did so. I was in a gentle perspiration.

"Pray do not take so much trouble," she murmured plaintively.

"Hurrah, I have it," I cried, and I extracted the wisp of silk from my watch pocket, where I had thrust it on leaving the shop.

"So kind of you," she observed, taking it. Then the powder ran out over her dress.

"How stupid," I gasped, completely demoralized now, and retaking the glove I shook it vigorously until I had created a miniature dust storm. She sneezed. I devoutly wished that the flying machine was an accomplished fact.

"It's ruined," I muttered wofully, for it certainly presented a piebald appearance.

She smiled. I sat down saying desperately:

"Would you allow me to keep it? The thing is of no use now."

"Why?" she answered quietly, but the voice was low.

"To remind me of that happy day," I replied, shying.

"Indeed? I am glad you think of it as a pleasant one," she said graciously. "Mr. Turnbull was declaiming all the way back in the cab. He seemed prejudiced against you."

"He may be described as a man who means well," I observed severely. "I hope he said something actionable."

"Oh hardly that!" she answered laughingly; "but he seems to have changed his opinion lately. Your name happened to come up in conversation to-day and he said—"

She paused! a sudden flame leaped into her cheeks.

"What did he say?" I demanded, trying to look away.

"He said you were an honorable man," she replied, the point of her parasol tracing a lop-sided isosceles triangle in the dust, "but—"

"Ah, there is much virtue in that 'but,'" I observed bitterly.

"That you ought to settle down," she continued, tossing her head and rising.

"So I shall," I cried, "but it depends upon my lady. I have her portrait here in this case. She is the only girl I shall ever care for in that way," I added, because a little qualification does no harm at even the most exalted moments. "By the way, she is an acquaintance of yours, too." And, pressing the spring, I handed the casket to her as the lid flew back. She glanced at me curiously, very pale now. I, weak about the knees, watched a child trundle a hoop past us.

She uttered a little cry that sank into a sobbing laugh. Then she sat down beside me and put one of the hands I hope to hold when death beckons me down the last dim turning of life's road, into mine.

"I trust she will make you a good wife," she said gravely. And— Well, surely man born of woman can guess the rest.—London Black and White.

Weyler as a Business Man.

Weyler may be a bad soldier, but he is a very talented business man. He, through his agents, in the past two years, bought 11,000 mules from the United States and Mexico at about $30 apiece, and then sold them through other agents to himself as representing the Spanish government at $128 apiece, making a clear profit of $98 a mule. With all allowance for transportation and feed, insurance and labor bills, all of which were probably paid by the poor government, the clear profit must have been $800,000. Equally shrewd was his cattle syndicate. The cattle concession was given to a concern in which he is said to have been the chief partner. They bought cattle, both live and refrigerated, at six cents per pound. The consumption in that city is over a hundred thousand pounds a day, the profit over $10,000 and in 600 days the total profit would be about $6,000,000. He is also said to have had a large interest in the tobacco monopoly, the flour trade, the potato business, the wholesale cabbage industry, the bottled beer commerce and the milk routes of Havana. It is no wonder, therefore, that the people of Manila say he sent home $6,000,000 and the people of Havana that he transmitted $8,000,000. Of course, this was not all for himself. He has many poor friends in the cortes.—New York Mail and Express.

Uses of Yawning.

A celebrated Belgian physician says that yawning is an exceedingly healthy function generally, besides having a very salutary effect in complaints of the pharynx and eustachian tubes. According to the results of late investigations, yawning is the most natural form of respiratory exercise, bringing into action all the respiratory muscles of the chest and neck. It is recommended that every person should have a good yawn, with stretching of the limbs, morning and evening, for the purpose of ventilating the lungs and tonifying the muscles of respiration. An eminent authority claims that this form of gymnastics has a remarkable effect in relieving throat and ear troubles, and says that patients suffering from disorders of the throat have derived great benefit from it. He makes his patients yawn either by suggestion, imitation or by a series of full breaths with the lips partly closed. The yawning is repeated six times, and should be followed by swallowing. By this means the air and muscles in the eustachian tubes are aspirated.

MONEY IN SQUAB RAISING.

How They Are Produced in Michigan for the Eastern Markets.

The only squab farm in Michigan is located about three miles south of Grand Haven. Squabs are young doves, or pigeons, and are esteemed great delicacies in epicurean and midnight luncheon circles. There are several large squab farms in the east, and one near Toledo, but the only one in Michigan, so far as known, is at Grand Haven, and it is conducted by F. J. Bernreuther. He was for several years floorwalker in a large dry-goods store. His health failed, and five years ago he took up squab raising. It was originally a side issue to his floorwalking, but he now devotes most of his attention to it. His farm comprises about ten acres of land, but only a small portion of this is given to the squab industry, the rest being planted to wheat and corn, which forms the staple diet for the old doves.

He has a big cage of woven wire. It is 80 x 120 feet, and 20 feet high, and the doves are kept confined by the wire netting on the sides and above. On the north side of the cage is a long, low building, in which the doves keep house. The roof has a southern exposure and a wind break, and here the doves sun themselves. The building is divided by partitions into rooms about ten feet square. These rooms are banked up on three sides, tier above tier, with small boxes, and these boxes are the nests, where the eggs are laid and the young are hatched and grow to be squabs. The partitions and boxes extend upward to the eaves of the building, and above the space is open from end to end, allowing free passageway for the doves and a roosting place for those not busy with domestic duties.

After the two pretty white eggs are laid, the male takes his regular trick of sitting on them during the twenty-one days of incubation, and when the young are hatched he does his full share toward feeding them. Four weeks after the young birds are hatched they become marketable as squabs. The birds are in full feather, but not yet able to fly. A fast of twenty-four hours is the prelude to the flight into the dove heaven. This fast is imposed not to make them meek in spirit, but to clear their crops of food. Then a sharp knife point opens a vein in their throat, and as the life blood oozes out the bird's brief career closes with a flutter.

While the flesh is still warm the feathers are plucked out, the crop is washed out, and the denuded body is thrown into a tub of water to cool. The next day it is packed in ice for shipment. The squabs, dressed for market, weigh about half a pound, and the great market for them is New York. This city consumes very few of them. There is only a small demand for them in Detroit, and Chicago, big and metropolitan as it is, is a poor market. Almost the entire product of Bernreuther goes to New York, and the shipments average three or four dozens a week the year round. The squabs command from $1.50 to $3.50 a dozen, and there is money in the business.

The best breed of doves for squab purposes is the homing pigeon. This is not due to any particular delicacy of the flesh, but to the fact that homers are the best breeders, are diligent in properly caring for the eggs during the incubating period, and keep their young well fed. But the squab farmer does not run much to fancy stock. Just plain, ordinary doves are good enough. They bring out six to ten broods a year, each of two doves, and often eggs are in the nest for a new hatching before the preceding brood has developed to the squab age. The doves usually rest two months in the year, but as there is no recognized season for resting, the market can be supplied the year round.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

The Poisonous Laurel.

Among the most poisonous of plants native to the United States are various laurels. One of these is the common broad-leafed laurel, which is a handsome shrub from ten to thirty feet high. Its leaves are thick and shining, and its flowers appear in showy pink clusters. This kind of laurel grows abundantly on rocky hillsides. Its poison is a peculiar crystalline substance, easily dissolved out of the plant by cold water, and more dangerous even than strychnine. Great numbers of cattle and sheep are destroyed annually by eating the shrub, and children sometimes mistake the young shoots for wintergreen. Occasionally the leaves are used criminally to increase the intoxicating effects of liquor. The symptoms are persistent nausea, frothing at the mouth, grating of the teeth, dizziness, loss of sight and feeling, and coma. Among other poisonous laurels may be mentioned the narrow-leafed laurels, otherwise known as "lambkill" or "lamb laurel." It is much like the broad-leafed plant, but smaller. The so-called "stagger bush" is a species of laurel. Its more common name is "kill lamb." It is a small shrub, with showy clusters of tubular white flowers, and is frequent in low, damp soils along the Atlantic coast.—New York Sun.

The German reichstag is said to be the cheapest of all the parliaments of Europe. Its total expenses for the current year have been only about $170,000.

THE NAVAL HEROES OF THE GREAT SANTIAGO BATTLE.

A GRANITE PILL.

Facetious Suggestion of an Old Bay State Odd Fellow.

The authorities of the Oddfellows of Worcester, Mass., are anxious that all local Oddfellows shall be buried together in the local cemetery, and, as an inducement, the tomb shown has been put up. The monument is made of slabs of solid granite, and has been polished. It looks like a stupendous ball of stone, and is the most conspicuous object in the cemetery. A large plot of land round about it has been purchased by the committee, and the Worcester Oddfellows will have their names engraved on this unique memorial.

THE MONUMENT.

It appears that some of the members do not approve of the idea, as many people prefer to be buried with their families. Some amusement was caused by one of the objecting members suggesting that the memorial should be placed over the grave of a doctor who died recently, as the ball of stone would represent a certain pill which it appears the physician had been fond of giving to his patients.

Climate of Iceland.

Iceland is not by any means so forbidding a country as its name implies; it is no more a land of ice than Greenland is a land of verdure. It is not nearly so cold as many places in the United States, not to mention the Canadian Dominion. The fifty and sixty degrees below zero registered every winter in the Northwest Territory and Assiniboia, and even the thirty-five and forty below experienced in Montana and Northern Dakota, are unheard of in Iceland. Neither is the other extreme of great heat felt, such as these very regions in North America endure. No Icelander knows what a temperature of a hundred in the shade is. There are no sudden fluctuations or great changes; the climate is remarkably equable. A variation of thirty degrees in a month is probably not on record in the island. This equableness is due, of course, to the same cause that produces a similar effect in the British Isles—the gulf stream. This great ocean current washes the southern and western shores of Iceland, insuring a mild winter and a balmy summer. There are glaciers, but they form no icebergs. The sea around the island is never frozen, nor indeed is any floating ice seen, save on rare occasions off the northern coast. Now and then, in summer, prolonged storms will carry floating ice across from the Greenland coast, and drive it upon the northern shore of Iceland, together with cold fog and rain. In this way polar bears are also sometimes landed on the island. On the other hand, the winters are so mild that thunderstorms often occur. In fact, most of the thunder storms in Iceland are in the winter months.

A Taste of Discipline.

The woman who insists on dragging her helpless child into the most crowded of shops is abroad in the land this year, as usual. I encountered her, or a certain variety of her, in the waiting room of a big store day before yesterday. She wasn't quite the common variety, for her child was not helpless. In fact, it was quite evident that the child had dragged the mother, and not the mother the child. She must have been 5 years old, and was so "spoiled"—well, as my old mammy used to put it, she was spoiled till her presence was really an offense to the olfactory sense. She wanted something her mother couldn't give her, and she proceeded to scream. The mother coaxed. The mother begged. The child screamed. The child danced with rage, and then she held her breath. The frightened mother tried to pacify her, and then when the child grew purple in the face and seemed on the point of choking, the poor woman began to cry.

"Oh, what shall I do? What shall I do?" she sobbed. "The doctor told me not to get her into a tantrum. She'll die, I know she will!"

Just at this juncture an elderly woman, with a square chin, stepped up. She did not say a word. She simply reached down, lifted that child, laid her across her knee, and gave her several resounding spanks. The astonished child caught her breath instantly. She was too surprised to go on screaming. She simply stared. The mother began to say things to the elderly woman with the square jaw, but the elderly woman walked calmly away. There was the look in her face as of a great desire gratified.—Washington Post.

Power Propelled Lighters.

A new idea, somewhat on the order of the trolley canal-boats used in France and Germany, has been suggested to relieve the traffic in large cities where a narrow river carrying a great amount of boat traffic enters the heart of the city. This, of course, necessitates numerous drawbridges and interruption and annoyance both to the land traffic and the boat traffic. The scheme proposed contemplates the use of trolley lighters, which could run up alongside the vessels for unloading at the docks on the outskirts of the town, and when loaded could convey the goods to the warehouses and docks desired, without necessitating the opening swing bridges. In loading the vessels the system would be just as applicable, and the coal and supplies in cars could be loaded directly on the lighters, carried to the boats and unloaded with a minimum of handling. Broad, shallow lighters, with screw propellers driven by electric motors, could be used, and the power supplied by trolley wires running along the banks and under the bridges, connection between the boats and the wire being made by means of flexible cables. If this method were adopted the swing bridges could be made permanent ones, and all the smoke, dirt and noise of the puffing steam tugs would be obviated.

Output of Cent Pieces.

The mint of Philadelphia is almost constantly engaged in turning out cents made of copper, with a slight alloy of zinc and tin. The State of Pennsylvania alone absorbed 11,000,000 last year, and New York 9,000,000. There is is as much curiosity about the final fate of these cents as there is about that of pins. Nobody is able to tell where the pins go to, and it is impossible to even surmise what has become of the hundreds of millions of cents issued by the mint since it began operations. It is rather a profitable business for the government, as it means the conversion of copper costing 10 cents a pound into a form in which it is worth $2 or more a pound.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Novel Antiburglar Device.

In a report from Leipsic, Germany, Consul Warner describes a novel German anti-burglar device. This consists of flexible safety curtains made of hardened tubes properly connected, which are invulnerable to the ordinary burglar's tools, for the reason that the tubes revolve freely and the centerbit or other tool can find no hold.

Highest Point for Health.

The highest point to which a man can ascend without health being seriously affected is 16,500 feet.

TOAD'S INGENIOUS PLAN.

Owes Its "Board and Keep" to the Electric Light Company.

A Kansas City toad owes its "board and keep" to the electric light company. An electric arc light hangs at the corner of Prospect avenue and Independence boulevard, and at night it attracts myriads of files and bugs. They flutter too near the flame, become blinded or singe their wings and fall to the toad, who sits below in delightful anticipation.

HOW THE ELECTRIC LIGHT FEEDS HIM.

He dines slowly, as becoms an epicure, taking about an hour for the performance.

WORLD'S BLACK DIAMONDS.

British Isles Supply Nearly 38 Per Cent of All the Coal Mined.

The British Isles congratulate themselves that, in spite of their limited area, they supply 38 per cent. of all the coal mined in the world at the present time. The United States is not far behind, however, annually digging from the earth 30 per cent. of the valuable black diamonds.

THE COMPARATIVE OUTPUT.

Their Hats Came Off.

"I had a bit of fun on Labor Day," said an English resident of New York. "I was on the big ferry steamer coming across the ten miles wide bay, when I said to the crowd on board, 'Take your hats of.' 'What for?' was the reply. I laughed, and said, 'See those ships over there? About three hundred, aren't there? They are British ships, every one. See that little red flag hanging at the stern of each? Take your hats off to that. Those three hundred or more flags are Britain honoring your Labor Day; take off your hats and return the compliment. Where are your manners, anyway? And the hats came off."

Cannot Work in High Altitude.

It has been found in Switzerland that in building a railway laborers could work only one-third as long at a height of 10,000 feet as a mile lower.

People are beginning to admit that many men are looking for work who do not want it.

CROP PROSPECTS.

Report Shows Decreased Acreage of Corn—Wheat Good.

The July grain crop report of the Department of Agriculture says:

Preliminary returns to the statisticians of the Department of Agriculture on the acreage of corn indicate a reduction of 8 per cent. from the area harvested last year. There is a decrease of 502,000 acres in Illinois, of 303,000 in Iowa, of 661,000 in Missouri, of 722,000 in Kansas, and of 482,000 in Nebraska.

The condition of winter wheat, 83.7, is 5.1 points lower than last month, but is still 4.5 points higher than at the corresponding date last year, and 4.3 points higher than the average for the last ten years. The principal State averages are as follows: Pennsylvania, 87; Maryland, 86; Tennessee, 90; Kentucky, 93; Ohio, 89; Michigan, 96; Indiana, 94; Illinois, 66; Missouri, 68; Kansas, 80, and California, 40. The average condition of spring wheat is 95. This is 3.8 points higher than at the corresponding date last year, is 6.2 above the average for the last ten years. The principal State averages are as follows: Minnesota, 91; South Dakota, 89; North Dakota, 92; Iowa, 97; Nebraska, 102; Washington, 102, and Oregon, 105.

The percentage of the wheat crop of 1897 reported as still on hand July 1, 1898, is 3.86.

The average condition of the oat crop, 92.8, is 5.2 points lower than last month, but is 5.3 points higher than at the corresponding date last year. The average condition of barley is 85.7, which is 2.8 points lower than last year. Winter rye is 93.8, as compared with 95 July 1, 1897. There is an increase of 1.3 per cent. in the acreage of Irish potatoes. There is a marked increase in the acreage of tobacco in nearly all the States of principal production. The outlook for the apple crop is very discouraging. The wool report indicates the average weight per fleece as being 5.8 pounds, the same as last year.

TO EXTEND WEATHER BUREAU.

Efficiency of Its Service Will Soon Be Greatly Increased.

President McKinley has on his desk the draft of an order for making the greatest extension of the weather bureau service ever made in its history. The general deficiency bill carried an appropriation of $75,000 to enable the President, in his discretion, to authorize the establishment of observing and reporting stations at various points on the Caribbean sea, but the promulgating of the order has been withheld pending the conclusion of negotiations with the Governments interested for the right to locate observers and stations. These have mostly responded favorably, and in a few days the order is expected.

The scheme contemplates the location of stations on the island of Trinidad, at St. Kipps, Barrasquila, the islands of Curacos, Martinique, Hayti, the Barbadoes and San Domingo. There are already in operation stations at St. Thomas, Kingston, Jamaica and Havana. The latter has not been interrupted a single day since the trouble began. When the proposed belt of stations shall have been located and are in operation the entire coast of the Gulf of Mexico, the Caribbean sea, the Windward and Leeward islands, and the passages adjoining will be covered by daily reports. The benefits resulting therefrom in the publication of storm notices will be to the commerce of all nations traversing those waters.

BAD OUTLOOK IN ALASKA.

Discouraging Reports Brought by Passengers from Klondike.

Nearly all the miners who arrived from the Klondike on the schooner Hattie I. Phillips say they left the country owing to ill health. W. F. Pinkham, a mining engineer of Boston, who was sent up to the Klondike on behalf of an Eastern syndicate, is confined to his room by a frost-bitten foot. The miners speak very bitterly of the way a few capitalists in Dawson attempted to corner the provision market and charge exorbitant prices for flour, beans, etc., but their scheme failed, as miners with more provisions than they needed sold their surplus stock to old residents at cost. The price of flour has now fallen from $75 to $8 a sack.

Gold dust is being sold in Dawson for $15 an ounce. T. D. Watson, formerly of Portland, Ore., predicts hard times in Dawson. There is no credit system there, and without cash a man may starve. All the men agree that it requires the hardest kind of work to get ahead on the Yukon. The schooner Altnir has arrived at San Francisco direct from Kodiak island with bags of low-grade ore from the famous Mountain of Gold which Capt. Moore of the schooner Free Trade so glowingly described to H. Talbot Watson of England. Watson says if properly worked the claims taken up there will pay.

DOLE TO BE ACTING GOVERNOR

Hawaiian Commission Sails for Honolulu Aug. 10.

It is stated that President Dole of Hawaii will be appointed acting governor of the islands when the United States assumes jurisdiction. Senator Cullom, chairman of the Hawaiian legislative commission, learned Wednesday that the first ship on which they could sail from San Francisco to Honolulu is the Alameda, booked for departure Aug. 10. Accommodations for the party were secured on her and the members were notified to be in readiness to leave on that date. Albert Berry, son of Representative Berry of Kentucky, one of the most enthusiastic advocates of annexation in the House, will be sergeant-at-arms of the commission.

CURRENT COMMENT

Morro Castle is no more.

Who said we did not have a first-class navy?

Spain's navy is mostly submarine, at present.

Two fleets gone and one going and the war barely started.

Add the Ladrone Islands to Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines.

There is a widespread feeling that Spain doesn't know when she has had enough.

In ten years to come Fourth of July celebrations will have an added significance.

However strict the blockade may be maintained before Havana, Blanco can't be shut up.

Whether it was Sampson or Schley, the fleet is destroyed, and that is what it came over here for.

It was a glorious Fourth, thanks to Shafter and Sampson, and the brave men in their commands.

If Spain doesn't treat for peace pretty soon, there will be nothing left of her with which to treat.

Among other things Spain is in need of is a good cabinetmaker who understands designing and finishing.

The Spanish board of strategy is now relieved of all further work in regard to plans for Cervera's fleet.

There is just at present a great issue before the people of the United States—the $200,000,000 bond issue.

Admiral Sampson seems to have made more breaches in his relations with Schley than in the ships of Cervera.

SANTIAGO OURS

At Last the Delays Are Over And Our Flag Floats on City And Forts.

We Have Our Own Original Terms. Get Their Arms and Equipments, Forts, Vessels And Cannon.

Sunday, July 17, at noon the American flag was raised in the city of Santiago. All the previous headlines about "Old Glory floating over Santiago" were incorrect. Sunday forenoon, about nine o'clock the disarming of the Spanish solders began. They marched to a given point, piled their rifles in a pile, putting bayonets and cartridge belts, etc., in another pile, then they marched away to a place assigned them, sat down and took a rest with Yankee soldiers as a guard. At an appointed signal, Gen. Toral who has commanded the Spaniards since Linares was wounded; the General second in command was killed, came out of the city with 100 picked men as a guard, met our generals in an open space between our lines of rifle pits and those of the Spaniards. He gave his sword to Gen. Shafter, who at once, politely returned it to him. Then, with a picked body of our regulars, all rode into the city, to the chief plaza or public square, where Gen. Toral made a formal surrender of the city, public buildings, forts, one gunboat and some small vessels, and all other government property. And at noon, the American flag was raised over the palace, and a cheer was raised that was heard outside the city, and all over the fortified hillsides for miles around. And Santiago was our.

As noted Saturday there was a hitch or two. The Spaniards tried every way to get to keep their arms. They even appealed to Shafter to spare them the humiliation of going back to Spain empty handed after making such a gallant drfense as he admitted they had. But it was useless to talk. Our government stuck to its first terms. We send them home empty handed.

Gen. Shafter believes it would have required a large sacrifice of life if we had been obliged to take the place by assault, as there was a regular net work of breastworks and rifle pits outside the regular defenses.

After the formalities of the surrender, were over, Gen Shafter returned to his lines, and left General McKibbon in charge of the city as military governor, but the city government itself is to go on as nearly as possible in the usual way.

Most of the inhabitants of the city have returned. but we shall be obliged to furnish a vast amount of provisions for some time to keep many from starving. We shall put our men who remain to hold the place, in a camp and have the long-neglected city cleaned up. The rest of our army will be taken away, either brought home or go to form another expedition to take another city.

The Spanish troops in the surrendered district, if near enough, will march to Santiago and lay down their arms, Those too far away will wait till we send a force there with an officer to receive their surrender.

The Spaniards will help us take up or destroy the submarine mines or torpedoes in the harbor, and we will remove the sunken Merrimac and other obstructions so our ships can get into the harbor.

We got 7,000 rifles yesterday turned over to us, and there will be more today and so on as outside armies come in. We expect over 20,000.

All over the Province of Santiago, the civil authorities remain in office and the other people will have substantially the same government as usual. All are encouraged to return to their homes and occupations whether in city or country.

Our government and the Red Cross people are going to care for the needy and destitute till they can care for themselves.

Capt. Concas, who commanded the Infanta Maria Theresa when she was destroyed, was badly wounded, and is now in Fortress Monroe, prisoner. He will be remembered by some of our people as the fine looking and gentlemanly officer who brought the "Columbus Caravels" over to the World's Fair at Chicago. We did not then think we should ever have to sink his ship and shoot him to pieces. He deserves some of his punishment, for as nicely as we treated, him at the Worlds Fair, all last winter and spring he has never omitted a chance to tell what a mean, cowardly people we are. Now he knows better.

The Spanish soldiers had looted a good many of the stores before the surrender. But that is their business. Thieving will now have to stop.

Camp Notes.

We glean a few notes from our exchanges, containing newsy items in the letters the soldiers write home to their friends. One says:

"Sometimes I wish you could look in on me in my "dog" tent for I know you could not be other than amused at the contrast between my present accommodations and those I have always been used too. The tent for two of us is closed at only one end and is made up of parts which button together at the top and down the middle of the closed end, each man carrying a half and one sectional pole and four pegs. When set for use the tent covers about 5x6 feet, but as the apex is only three feet from the ground you can imagine what a vast amount of room is at our disposal. Into this spacious abode, after spreading our two "ponchos" and a blanket on the grounds to keep out the moisture, we are expected to, and do, crowd in our knapsacks, haversacks, canteens and guns to say nothing of ourselves and pulling our second blanket over us, sleep better than I ever slept in my fine old mahogany bed at home.

To some of the recruits who have never seen a military camp before or who were not initiated to its hardships gradually as we were the change from home comforts is rather hard and the "old" men don't make it any easier for them for the recruits are sujected to all manner of practical jokes—only last night a fellow came in to the hospital and asked for tent pillows, said the fellows in his company had told him to come here for them. He actually believed that we carried pillows for all those who wanted them. At last accounts he was still in search of a mythical officer who had charge of the tent pillows, for we "caught on" at once and sent him to the aforementioned officer for six of them.

The Sabbath School.

Can you imagine a more beautiful sight than a Sabbath School class, numbering seventy-five or more, all beautifully clad in artistic raiment, with bright and happy faces, marching with perfect step to the tap of the organ. Such is a partial description of the infant class of the Lutheran Sabbath School under the care of Mrs. Bolender as teacher and Mrs. Will Thomas assistant.

Beautiful Easter Lillies, or Fairy Lillies.

Florida is the home of the famous Easter Lily. During the blooming season, in some places, the ground is almost white with their beautiful, lily white flowers, and thousands of them are picked by the colored children and carried to market. Before coming north I had a fine lot of the lily bulbs dug, and brought them with me; they make lovely house plants and are sure to bloom. Any one who would like two or three of these lily bulbs can have them by sending a stamp to pay postage. You are indeed very welcome to send, as I can get more when I return to Florida next fall.

Address Mrs. F. A. WARNER, Saginaw, East Side, Michigan.

BAD POLITICS

Or rather, no politics at all, for personal abuse and vituperation are on a grade too low. These thoughts are called out by the unusual and unexpected action of our old journalistic neighbor, Bro. Weamer of the Hudson Banner. The Banner is published in Steuben county, and we had supposed was a paper that was not to have a political bias. So we were surprised to see it rushing into party politics at an early date and the more so, to see it enter partisan politics in DeKalb county. But so it is. Bro. Weamer has an undoubted right to run a paper, an undoubted right to be a republican and run a republican paper, as strong a one as he pleases. But we submit that it is unexpected, that publishing a paper in Steuben, he should concern himself only with the politics of DeKalb. However, we shall not so much object to even that. But we do object, and seriously, to the style and matter used. In the last issue of the Banner, it needlessly and most unjustly assails the personal character of a DeKalb county candidate, trying to belittle and bemirch him. Were this course justified by the facts, it would be extremely unwise. But it is not justified by the facts. DeKalb county never had a ticket in the field that was cleaner personally than the one now in nomination. All are men of good morals and general good character. All have a reputation for honesty and ability. And none stand higher in this regard than Mr. Seiler, the person attacked. When the Steuben county republicans put a ticket in the field, it would be just as easy for the COURIER to say similiar things about them. But it is neither good morals nor good politics.

WAR NOTES

Tuesday's Daily.

Now, we are receiving bids from steamship companies to take the 25,000 Spaniards home.

The Spaniards have been telling us that the shelling by our fleet only hurt three buildings. It is found that 57 are destroyed and many others injured. The town is badly damaged all over.

Capt. Eulate of the Vizcaya, refused to take the parole oath because Cervera did not have to swear, his mere oral declaration being sufficient So Eulate had to be locked up, till the matter can be settled. He says his rank is as high as Cervera's.

Believed now that our fleet going to Spain may send one of its vessels to Fernando Po on the coast of Africa to release a lot of Caban prisoners there

Col. W. J. Bryan and his 3d Nebraska regiment are on their way to the front now, having been ordered south. They join Gen. Fitzhugh Lee's Corps at Jacksonville, Florida.

The army that goes to Porto Rico, it is now asserted will include the 157th Ind., so that our boys may see real service yet, if the war does not close too suddenly. The other Indiana regiments already mustered in may also go, as they have for some time been in some of the camps being fitted for the work.

A dispatch from Havana says, the American cruisers have bombarded Manzanillo again and destroyed a good deal of the merchant ships in the harbor.

General Miles has already started from Santiago to go to Porto Rico. Gen. Shafter will remain at the later city. Miles will have about 30,000 men, who will begin to follow up after him. This takes all the men at Tampa and a part of those at Chickamauga, as well as many from other camps.

Our warships do not go to Porto Rico at once, but will be there in time to help Miles. The first landing place has been selected, and when our men are on the island the force will be large enough to clean the Spaniards out in short order.

Shafter, after resting awhile, will leave Santiago and go for Havana.

The Justice Court

Squire Walter's court was in session last evening. Saturday night one of the south end young men was walking up town with his girl, when another south end young man, or probably several of them made some disagreeable remarks. Afterward he met one of these, and they had a quarrel, and he slapped his man, who then left. Later on the slappee with some friends, met the slapper and had some more trouble, the slapper this time getting in earnest. They had him arrested, but on the trial it appeared that the slapping was deserved. So there was no fine.

There had been a case up before Squire Walter, which was finally taken before Squire Walborn. A constable in Fairfield, it was claimed had excedeed his authority and become abusive to some parties up there. So he was arrested. The case is not yet finished.

Help The Carnival.

All the lodges of Auburn and similar organizations are requested to each prepare a float, to take part in the Carnival parade this year, the same as they did last year. The secretary will call on their officers soon, to consult about this, so all will be fully prepared and in time.

Housebreakers Abroad.

Last night some of these midnight prowlers got in their work pretty effectively as far as they tried. They entered the residence of Albert Robbins and as far as indications go, went pretty much all over and through it. The first intimation Mr. Robbins had was when he arose this morning he was surprised to see his pants lying close to his bed and on the floor. He always left them on the lounge, a few feet away. However it all came out when he picked up his coat and vest and saw some one had been going through them. That made him examine the pants, when he found every penny gone of the change he had left in his pockets over night. He thinks there might have been two or three dollars Some keys, his pocket knife and similar things were not taken. A further search showed the thieves had been all over the house, from cellar to second floor. Several matches had been lighted to enable them to go about. Two good light overcoats belonging to Mr. Robbins and his son, Ed., were taken. They had bought these both last spring. At least two hats were taken, possibly more. They had not forgotten the inner man, for a pie had disappeared. Many articles bore appearance of having been investigated, but we believe the above are all that are missing. He can't see how anyone could come into his bedroom, go through his pants and then drop them down right by him without disturbing him. But that is just what was done. And no one in the house was disturbed. A laughable incident of the burglary was, that within a few minutes after it was discovered, two able-bodied tramps applied for a breakfast. Mr. Robbins was in a mood just then to talk business to them, and they left in a hurry. As far as heard no other house in Auburn was entered.

BAD ACCIDENT

Saturday afternoon, while Paul Trout was at the home of his aunt, Mrs. A. B. Richards. and he and Edmond Richards were playing on the front porch, he had a very bad accident. He was hanging onto the ornamental part of the porch. trying to climb up, when it gave way, and he fell, striking his elbow on the hard ground, or else on the walk, and breaking it badly. It is really twice broken. Hearing him scream, Mrs. Richards ran to him, picked him up and as she did so, noticed the splintered bone of his arm protruding. Dr. Swarts was summoned by telephone and hurried to the house, and put the splintered arm into shape, as well as could be done, but he admits it is a bad break. The parts about the elbow are so broken, ligaments so torn, that it is possible the lad's arm may be stiff when it heals, but of course the Doctor will do all he can to keep it perfect. The boy has been resting well, but his severe hurts should be a lesson to hundreds of other Auburn boys who insist on climbing up into and over things, where they run great risk of Smith's injuries.

RELIABILITY

is a quality some newspapers have lost sight of in these days of "yellow" journalism. They care little for truth and a great deal for temporary sensation.

It is not so with THE CHICAGO RECORD.

The success of THE RECORD rests upon its reliability.

It prints the news—all the news—and tells the truth about it.

It is the only American newspaper outside New York city that has its own exclusive dispatch boat service and its own staff correspondents and artists at the front in both hemispheres.

It is the best illustrated daily newspaper in the world.

Its war news service is unapproachably the best.

Says the Urbana (Ill.) Daily Courier:

"We read the war news in the other papers, then we turn to THE CHICAGO RECORD to see how much of it is true."

Sold by newsdealers everywhere and subscriptions received by all postmasters. Address THE CHICAGO RECORD, 181 Madison street, Chicago.

Four Cardinal Points

WILL be found in the garments of every really well-dressed man.

The material must be of the best
Fitting must be perfect
Style must be Up-to-Date

And, finally, the

Workmanship and Trimmings Must be Neat and Durable.

It is by uniting these points in EVERY garment they make, and by "sticking at it" for more than 22 years, that

REMEMBER THE MAINE.

Col. Gowdy Puts it that Way, and is Ready to Declare War on France.

Our Uncle Jack Gowdy of Indiana, late chairman of the republican state committee, was on that account considered the properly fitted person to be our consul general at Paris. Being thus made prominent, he concluded to put off his Hoosier ways and put on style. He bought a frisky pair of horses among his Hoosier farmer friends, took them to Paris, where, with their long flowing manes and tails they just filled the measure of Uncle Jack's cup of happiness But this spring the war with Spain broke out, and the high-toned cab drivers of Paris took sides with the Dons. Uncle Jack had made frequent and feeling allusions to a certain idea embodied in the legend, "Remember the Maine." Now your Uncle Jack isn't such a bad scholar but he didn't often stand at the head in the spelling class in that log school house he used to attend down in Rush county. So when he got a French sign painter to paint the motto on his front gate on the Rue de la Boulevard, Paris, the Frenchman had to have the spelling explained to him. Uncle Jack Gowdy told him how it was to be There was to be no "Parlez vous Francais" about it. It was to be spelled in United States English just as she is spoke in Rush county, Indiana. And so, when that frog-eating painter took his ten francs and left for home that evening, all Paris from the Latin Quarter Bois de Boulongue, could have read the sentiment "Remember the Mane." But even a Frenchman can see a joke, and the friends of Spain being enemies of Uncle Sam, and therefore enemies of Col. Jack Gowdy, late of Rushville, Ind., caught our idea. They did remember the "mane" the beautiful, flowing mane sported by each of this haughty American, Hoosier horses. They got some horse barbers to go, while they amused Col. Jack's driver, and shear and even shave, the beautiful manes and tails of the team. Hence Col. Jack is mad. Indiana has been insulted in its horses, and the whole country has been insulted through the person of its representative, the consul-general of Paris. Gowdy felt like shouldering his gun once more and going to war, as he did in the sixties. He thinks Uncle Sam should take it up, and once more "Remember the Mane."

BUTLER.

Ben Stiefel has moved his store into the Tyson meat market building.

John Tyson and wife were called from town hastily last week on account of the death of the latter's sister who lost her life through the explosion of a gasolene stove.

The marshal muddle has finally been settled by the marshal paying over to the town about $370 which he had collected and had failed to account for in his annual settlement.

Mrs. J. A. Campbell was confined to her room about two days last week from severe illness. She has about recovered at this writing.

William W. Tomlinson one of our old and well known citizens is critically ill all at Ann Arbor, Hi, wife and daughter reached him last Sunday.

Isaac Stiefel's sister, Rebecca, residing in Texas, is visiting home and friends.

Jeff Boyle has his office building nearly completed. It will materially improve the inman corner.

A. J. Price has been confined to his home the past week by another attack of severe illness.

The Sunday Schools of Butler and vicinity will hold a union picnic on the 27th of July at a point a mile or so from town. Site not determined at this writing.

Dr. Madden and daughter, Ida, contemplate an early visit to the Pacific Coast and points in California. They will prolong their stay until next summer.

The refreshing rain of last Sunday came when greatly needed, and broke a drouth of nearly a month's duration.

Wheat threshing is progressing rapidly and the yield in many places is good—some however is poor.

William W. Tomlinson died at Ann Arbor last Sunday night. He has been complaining for some time, and about one week ago he went there for treatment At first he seemed to improve, but commenced failing on Saturday. His wife and daughter hastened to him and reached him a short time before his death. His remains were brought to Butler Monday evening and funeral services took place from the M. E church on Wednesday Rev. Freeh officiating. His age was about 58 years. He leaves a wife and a married daughter Lightning killed two head of cattle and one sheep for Mrs. Dr. Milligan on her farm east town.

On the same day two head of cattle were killed for Mr. Hunt living six miles north of Butler.

Sam. Noragon's barn was struck by lightning and partly unroofed by wind last Sunday.

LEADING MERCHANTS.

Geography of the Philippines.

We know that the islands composing the archipelago of the Philippines are almost innumerable; from eighteen to twenty are large or rather large, and about 200 of them are small, some are mere points on the surface of the Pacific. The principal ones are Luzon, Mindora, Panay, Samar, Leyte, Mindanao. They are divided into three groups: Luzon in the north, Visayas in the center, and Mindanao, with the archipelago of Jolo, in the south. From the northern extremity of the isle of Luzon to the southeast extremity of Jolo, the Philippines have an approximate length of 260 leagues and cover a surface of 295,000 kilometers square. About 460 leagues from their capital, Manila, lie the Marianne group, of which it is a dependency. A distance of 2,600 leagues separates them from Spain by the Suez canal. The population, as far as it can be learned, is somewhat in the neighborhood of 8,000,000, of whom 5,000,000 are Indians, 1,000,000 Igorrotes, Remontados, Aetas and Moros (Arabs of Yolo and Mindanao); 500,000 half-breeds, 100,000 Philippine Spaniards and 12,000 peninsular Spaniards. In addition to these there are, in spite of restrictive laws, about 40,000 Chinese.—Boston Transcript.

How a Man Wins a Woman.

"It is not a man's good looks, brains, position or wealth that wins a woman's love," said the woman of the world. "It is his capacity for lovemaking. His tenderness, ardor, tact, consideration, and, above all, perseverance, will make her his more surely than anything else in the world. And if he possess these qualities and wield them well he can triumph over the men who lack them, even though he be poor as a church mouse, ugly as Vulcan and stupid as an owl."—New York Advertiser.

LATEST WAR NEWS.

The big beef packing concerns are being given a chance to make contracts to deliver fresh beef at such points in Cuba as we may need. This is to insure the health of the men as well as their comfort. As soon as our forces are landed on Porto Rico, we will extend the same contracts to them. This is perhaps the first time, a definite arrangement was ever made to furnish a distant army in the field, with a regular supply of fresh meat.

DEWEY'S QUICK WORK

BOMBARDS SPANISH FORTIFICATIONS AT SUBIG BAY.

Makes Captive 500 Dons and Teaches a German Commander to Mind His Own Business—Had Protected Spaniards from Attack by Insurgents.

Victory Was Complete.

Admiral Dewey has gained another victory in the Philippines. The Spanish garrison on Grand Island, Subig bay, is now in the possession of the Americans. Col. Rio, commander of the Spanish forces, and 500 men were taken prisoners. Six hundred Mauser rifles, 40,000 rounds of ammunition and one Hotchkiss gun were also captured. So suddenly was the attack made by Dewey's ships that not a shot was fired by the Spaniards, and the most important harbor in the Philippines, next to Manila, was secured without the sacrifice of a single life.

July 6 Gen. Aguinaldo, the insurgent chief, reported to the admiral that his soldiers controlled all the Subig bay ports except Grand Island, which was held by a strong Spanish garrison. He also reported that the German boat Irene refused to permit them to attack the Spaniards on Grand Island. Admiral Dewey early on July 7 dispatched the Raleigh and Concord to take Grand Island and capture the garrison. Almost before daylight the ships steamed close to Grand Island, and before the Spanish sentries knew what was going on American shells were pouring into the torpedo station and the earthworks. Both the station and earthworks were soon a mass of ruins, but still the enemy showed no indications of surrendering.

"Throw a shell into the commander's house," ordered Captain Coghlan of the Raleigh. "Those fellows don't seem to be in a hurry to show the white colors." A six-inch shell from the Raleigh was sent toward the enemy, and the aim was true. It went tearing through the Spanish commander's house, and the white flag was instantly shown. Lieut. Rodman of the Raleigh and Ensign Napier of the Concord were placed in command of a landing party, and Col. Rio surrendered with his entire force and arms. The seizure was accomplished with such dash that it astounded the Germans and other foreigners at Manila. The place was captured almost before the foreigners knew that such a step was contemplated. The German warship Irene quickly withdrew when the engagement began.

Admiral Dewey's possession of Subig bay defeats Germany's supposed plans to interfere in the Philippines. The insurgents captured the valuable merchant steamer named Philippinas, and it was their intention to land rebel troops on Grand Island and attack the Spanish garrison. Insurgent officers on the Philippinas say the Germans on the Irene ordered them away from Subig bay, and they were afraid to attack for fear of being fired upon from the emperor's warship. When this situation was reported to Admiral Dewey he at once decided to attack the Spaniards on Grand Island.

SPAIN STILL HAS SHIPS.

Her Naval Arm in Cuban Waters Has Not Disappeared.

Notwithstanding the total annihilation of the fleet of Admiral Cervera, danger to the United States fleet from the Spanish navy has not altogether disappeared from Cuban waters. Admiral Cervera's squadron was sent to the West Indies for a specific purpose, which it failed to accomplish because the Spanish commander, not realizing the trap into which his ships were entering, ventured into the harbor of Santiago and discovered, when it was too late, that it was impossible for him either to do the beleaguered city any good or to make his own escape. But the defeat of Cervera has only diminished the naval power of Spain in Cuban waters, and if that Government was disposed to mobilize the extensive fleet of cruisers, gunboats and mosquito vessels which now abound in the numerous keys and small bays on the Cuban coast possibly it could make a good showing in a sea fight. Spain has now twelve cruisers, thirty gunboats of various sizes, and a number of small yachts and tugs of various sizes and armaments, which were converted into war vessels at the beginning of the Cuban insurrection in 1895.

MOVE ON PORTO RICO.

Advance on Second Spanish Island Has Actually Begun.

The movement of the American army on Porto Rico may be said to have begun. No troops have left our shores openly consigned to the island, but the continued forwarding of additional regiments to Santiago when it is recognized that Gen. Shafter has as large an army as he needs is in reality the laying of the foundation of the Porto Rican expeditionary force, and the hurry orders that have been sent to the southern concentration camps for the making ready of large bodies of troops for early movement mark the preparation for the superstructure. The determination of the War Department to send a formidable force for the capture of Porto Rico has been strengthened by the resistance made by the Spaniards in Santiago. The expedition to go against Porto Rico will consist of between 25,000 and 30,000 men. It is not doubted that this American force, with the help of the fleet, will be ample to take the island.

GRANDE ISLAND AND SUBIG BAY, TAKEN BY DEWEY.

SAGASTA GIVES UP.

Prime Minister of Spain Resigns His Position.

The ministerial crisis in Spain which has been imminent and inevitable for some time appears to have occurred at last. It is reported that Sagasta called upon the Queen Regent and tendered his own resignation and that of the entire cabinet. While nothing definite is said in the dispatches about the significance of the action, there seems to be little doubt that it is directly due to the general conviction that the time is at hand for the initiation of peace overtures. There are apparently irreconcilable differences of opinion in the present ministry on this vital question, and at least a partial reconstruction has become necessary.

SIBONEY IS BURNED.

Health Authorities of the Army Take Radical Measures.

The miserable little town of Siboney now lies in ashes. It was burned under the orders of the army health authorities. Almost every building of the fifty which straggled along the irregular bluff was set afire and the Cuban inhabitants fled to the caves in the overhanging hillside for shelter. The action was taken at the urgent request of Maj. Legaro of the hospital corps and served the joint purpose of ridding the hospital camp of the unhealthy and dirty buildings and driving away scores of Cuban followers whose presence was a serious inconvenience to the hospital workers.

PRISONERS ARE QUARTERED.

Spaniards Transferred from the St. Louis to Seavey's Island.

All the Spanish prisoners from the auxiliary cruiser St. Louis, with the exception of Cervera and his officers, are now quartered in the hospital and half finished stockade on Seavey's Island. Two Gatling guns manned by marines frown down upon the prisoners from the high knolls. The Spaniards are as docile as lambs, and seem entirely broken in spirit and half starved.

BLANCO ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

Became Desperate Over the Loss of Cervera's Fleet.

A dispatch from Key West says that, according to advices received there, Governor General Blanco attempted to commit suicide when he learned of the destruction of Cervera's fleet. The dispatch does not state the manner of Blanco's alleged attempt to kill himself, but says his staff officers disarmed him before he could inflict injury upon himself.

Death of Lieutenant Ord.

The incidents attending the death of Lieut. Ord, son of the late Gen. E. O. C. Ord, in the fight near Santiago, were dramatic. He was an aid on the staff of Gen. Hawkins and was one of the first officers to reach the summit of San Juan Hill. Just as he passed the brow of the hill he saw a Spaniard lying on the ground and, pointing to him, he said: "Take care of that man." The Spaniard, thinking Lieut. Ord was ordering him killed, raised his rifle and shot the lieutenant dead. The soldiers were wild with rage and literally tore the body of the Spaniard to pieces with bullets. Then they kicked it into a trench.

Rush at Tampa Continues.

The work of loading the transports at Port Tampa with men, horses, artillery and supplies for Santiago continues with great rush. Every available workman who can be secured has been pressed into service on the docks in order to facilitate the sailing of the vessels.

Arrival of Sick and Wounded.

The City of Washington arrived at Old Point from Santiago Wednesday morning with twenty officers and 200 sick and wounded, who were transferred to the Fort Monroe hospital. Thousands welcomed and cheered the wounded heroes as they passed by on litters.

All Congratulate Hobson.

While a prisoner at Santiago, Lieut. Hobson received many letters from persons who never saw him. They wrote letters of congratulation and commendation, all of which have been forwarded to Key West, where the naval mail for the fleet is sent.

Du Bosc and Carranza Depart.

Senor du Bosc and Lieut. Carranza sailed from Montreal Wednesday on the Dominion line steamer Ottoman. With them went a petty officer and two sailors of the Panama, captured at the beginning of the war.

"YELLOW JACK" IN THE FIELD.

Advices Say the Scourge Has Made Its Appearance Before Santiago.

Under the white flag of truce the most formidable ally of the Spanish army, yellow fever, has crept out of Santiago and fallen with appalling force upon the American forces. Gradually the details were whispered about Washington. It was said the scourge had actually reached the army and that over a hundred cases were reported. The situation is pictured as distressingly bad, the terrible rains and floods doing their share to add to the army's misery. Gen. Miles reports that he has taken steps to isolate the yellow fever patients and to remove the refugees far enough away to prevent the disease from being communicated any further.

SURGEON-GENERAL STERNBERG.

Every precaution is being taken to prevent the spread of the fever. The army has the benefit of the most experienced yellow fever experts in the medical profession. The War Department is relying principally upon prompt action to stay the disease. The condition of the army at Santiago has been favorable to the spread of yellow fever. Soldiers lying in the trenches under tropical suns, or in drenching rains, are particularly susceptible to the disease.

Surgeon General Sternberg, one of the greatest experts on the subject, has strongly urged that no prolonged sieges be conducted. He represents that if the troops are long subjected to the conditions which are reported to have prevailed at Santiago a general epidemic of yellow fever is almost certain to break out. Gen. Sternberg believes a long siege of any Cuban city at this season would result in greater disaster to the men than the bullets of the enemy. He thinks it preferable to sustain some losses through gun fire than to subject the entire army to a general outbreak of fever.

BRAVERY OF OFFICERS.

Unprecedented Loss of Men Who Wear Shoulder Straps.

A remarkable feature of the fighting in Cuba, and one much commented upon in military circles, is the heavy loss in killed and wounded of commissioned and noncommissioned officers. In spite of the distress which the loss of so many officers has occasioned, the army officials point to the list as a splendid evidence of the dash and personal bravery of the men who wear shoulder straps. Among the killed and wounded since the first fight at Juragua have been officers of every grade from colonel down, and in numbers said to be almost unprecedented in proportion to the forces engaged. The loss of officers in the two days' fighting around Santiago demonstrates to military men that the American officers lead their men wherever they are called upon to go and are setting an example which cannot but elevate the esprit de corps of the army.

MAIL FOR SOLDIER BOYS.

Through Defects in Addresses Many Letters Go Astray.

The Postoffice Department is experiencing considerable trouble in forwarding mail to the army and navy because of letters being improperly addressed. All mail matter, as far as possible, is made up in separate pouches for regiments and companies, but many letters are found in the mails without indicating the company or regiment in which the addressee is serving. If the public would be particular to let the company and regiment appear on the envelope, it would insure the prompt delivery of the letter. Otherwise it may be necessary to send some of this mail to the dead letter office, in which case it would eventually be returned to the writer.

Gave Thanks to God.

Immediately after the destruction of the Spanish fleet at Santiago, Capt. Philip of the battleship Texas called all hands to quarters, and with bared head, thanked God for the almost bloodless victory. "I want to make public acknowledgment here," he said, "that I believe in God the Father Almighty. I want all you officers and men to lift your hats and from your hearts offer silent thanks to the Almighty."

CAPT. PHILIP OF THE TEXAS.

SANTIAGO IS SHELLED

SLAUGHTER AND DESTRUCTION ARE APPALLING.

Spaniards Are Driven Back at Every Sortie and Many of the Finest Buildings Are Reduced to Dust—Ships Fire 106 Shots.

Sight Was Sickening.

A general bombardment began on Santiago Monday at 9:35 in the morning. Many of the finest buildings in the city were reduced to dust. The slaughter and devastation became so great and so sickening to the sight that Gen. Shafter again sent word begging a surrender of the city before it was entirely destroyed. The Spaniards fought like demons, but were driven back at every attempt that savored of a sortie. The battleships Indiana and New York and the cruiser Brooklyn, from their position outside the harbor, shelled the city. These terrible missiles of destruction, mostly eight and ten-inch shells, were hurled into the city from a distance of over six miles. Simultaneously with the havoc caused by the shells from the battleships the army batteries and rifle pits poured in their deadly fire. There were 106 discharges from the ships, 101 of the shells counting.

When the morning mist which enveloped the Spanish line lifted Gen. Shafter ordered that each shot be aimed at some particular object and the firing at intervals of ten minutes. No Gattling guns were used. The infantry did little firing, and only for the purpose of picking off individual Spaniards. The marksmanship was excellent, as evinced by an occasional headlong plunge of a hostile sharpshooter from a tree. The Spanish batteries fired four rounds harmlessly. Simultaneouely with the land attack, the New York and Brooklyn moved close to the shore at Aguadores. The New York wig-wagged to the beach. Signalers went to the crest of the ridge to observe the effect of the shells. The first shell was an eight-inch from the New York, fired at a high elevation. The men on the ridge telephoned Shafter, and an hour later signaled to the New York. The gunners changed the range and fired a second shot. Again a wait, more signaling and fine calculation by the gunners. The third shell finally sped over the hill. The signal men were soon wig-wagging excitedly, the officers reported, and the jackies on the New York cheered; they had the right range at last. Then the firing began in earnest. The range was 6,500 yards and the direction was north by 27 degrees west. The New York fired at five-minute intervals. At its eighteenth shot the Brooklyn moved in and at the twenty-sixth began firing. Her fire, like that of the New York, was slow. The Indiana joined in and swung her turrets to starboard, listing the ship. She then opened with a broadside from her 8-inch guns, firing much faster than the New York and Brooklyn. The shore telephone line was ever active, and the wig-wag men on the hill were busy telling of the effectiveness of the fire.

At 12:45, the ships having fired 106 explosive shells, the shore signaled that Shafter had sent a flag of truce to the enemy and the firing ceased. At 1 o'clock Shafter sent Major Noble into the Spanish lines, demanding surrender. Just as the ships ceased action the Yale arrived with Gen. Miles on board. The Yale sailed around the flagship and was liberally cheered. Gen. Miles landed at Siboney and made an inspection.

"HEAD MONEY" FOR JACKIES.

$200,000 for the Brave Men Who Destroyed Cervera's Fleet.

Something like $200,000 will be paid by this Government as "head money" to the brave officers and sailors who destroyed Cervera's fleet. This is according to the law, which provides payment of $100 a head for every man on the ships of an enemy when these ships are destroyed. Admiral Sampson will receive over $10,000 as his share and Commodore Schley will receive only about $4,000 of the "head money." It is estimated that Captains Taylor, Evans, Phillip, Chadwick, Higginson, Clark and Cook will receive about $2,500 each. After the other officers of the warships receive their share the remainder will be divided among the sailors, who may receive something like $20 each.

NO PRISONERS WERE KILLED.

Shafter Officially Denies the Alleged Atrocities by Cubans.

The War Department posted the following dispatch, which effectually disposes of the charges made by a sensational New York paper that the Cuban contingent at Santiago had been murdering Spanish prisoners. The message reads:

Secretary War, Washington: Dispatch as to killing prisoners by Cubans absolutely false. No prisoners have been turned over to them, and they have shown no disposition to treat badly any Spaniards who have fallen into their hands. Shafter.

Spaniards in Texas.

Judge T. S. Parks, a prominent attorney of Brownsville, Texas, states that many of the wealthy business men of that city and some of the officials of the county are Spaniards, and open in their sympathetic expressions, and have contributed a large amount of money to the cause of Spain.

Wreckers Reach Santiago.

The Navy Department received information Wednesday that the wrecking vessels sent to southern Cuba for the purpose of attempting to raise the four Spanish cruisers sunk in the battle with Sampson's ships had reached their destination.

Only Ten Amputations.

Shafter reports that those wounded in the first Santiago fight are in good spirits. Their wounds are much less dangerous than those made with 45-caliber bulets. Among the large number of wounded there are few amputations—perhaps ten.

Vultures Devour the Bodies.

The wrecked Spanish cruisers at Santiago are still filled with charred bodies, and vultures are devouring the remains. The Cubans, by Admiral Sampson's orders, have buried over 100 Spaniards who were washed ashore.

Blanco's Supply Ship Is Wrecked.

Capt. Sawyer, signal officer at Key West, reported to the War Department that the ship San Domingo was wrecked off the Isle of Pines, Cuba, while trying to run the blockade.

POLITICS OF THE DAY

OBJECT LESSON FOR 1898.

The extraordinary shortage of food supplies in Europe, due to the failure of crops during the season of 1898, and the failure of crops during the season of 1898 in countries which compete with the United States, such as India, Argentine Republic and Australia, accounts for the enormous increase of our exports of wheat, flour, corn, and other food products during the eleven months of the fiscal year ending June 1. These exports have been large beyond all precedent and were looked for by those familiar with the situation. The following table shows the value of exports of wheat flour and corn since 1893, from which the volume of this year's business may be understood:

Year.	Wheat.	Flour.	Corn.
1893.	$93,534,970	$75,494,347	$24,587,511
1894.	59,407,041	69,271,770	30,211,154
1895.	43,805,663	51,651,928	14,650,767
1896.	39,709,868	52,025,217	37,836,862
1897.	59,910,178	55,914,347	54,087,150
1898.	120,721,512	63,506,233	67,000,270

It must be remembered that while this table gives the exports for the entire twelve months of each preceding year, it gives them for only eleven months of the present fiscal year, which shows that we exported about $100,000,000 more breadstuffs in eleven months of 1898 than we did the entire year of 1897, which was itself a year of phenomenally large exports. The wheat crop in India and Argentine Republic ripens in the winter. As the crop of 1896-7 was an almost entire failure in those countries, resulting in the great famine in India the latter part of the fiscal year of 1897 was naturally affected, resulting in a larger demand from this country. It is fortunate for us and the world at large that the Almighty blessed us with an abundant harvest and thus filled our granaries so that we could feed the world, otherwise the distress would have been great. It was also fortunate for the farmers of this country, however unfortunate it may have been to the poor of foreign countries, and the underpaid workingmen of our own, that this interposition of Divine Providence came in time to alleviate, for the time being, the disastrous effects of the gold standard. Otherwise, with the low and continually depreciating prices, which prevailed during 1896 and the early months of 1897, the mind fails to conceive the condition which would have resulted. It is noticeable, however, that the advance in prices has been almost wholly confined to food products, and the increase in our exports have been confined to this class of the products of the farm. Thus it happens, as previously shown, that while our exports of cotton were in bulk somewhat larger, the amount of money received therefor was less than for the crop of the previous year. Of all products perhaps pig iron comes nearest being the barometer of the price of labor. It is almost wholly a product of labor. A fall, therefore, in the price of pig iron indicates to an almost dead certainty a lowering of the wages of those who produce it. Although the use of steel and other products of pig iron have been enormously extended the price of this, aside from food products the most important of human productions, has steadily declined. James M. Swank, editor of the Bulletin of Philadelphia, the organ of the American Iron and Steel Association, recognized as the best authority on everything pertaining to this product in the United States, says in the June 15 issue:

"By correspondence and by consulting quotations in the pig iron centers we have ascertained that an average price for our pig iron production was $10.46 per ton in 1896, and $9.85 in 1897."

This shows a loss of 61 cents per ton in the price. As there have been no improvements of value cheapening the process of producing pig iron during the year, this 61 cents a ton may be said to be taken from the price of labor. Thus while staple food products have advanced under the influence of the extraordinary foreign demand, the price of the other great staples have declined as a result of a still appreciating measure of values. We have always said that prosperity must begin at the farm, and when the farmer gets good prices for his products all classes share his good fortune with him. The small measure of prosperity the country has been enjoying during 1898 is due wholly to the advanced price of the products of the farm used as food. The farmer gets more money for his products this year, consequently he had money to spend after paying his fixed charges, with which to buy the products of other people's labor this industrial activity is stimulated. The gold standard advocates, ever ready to magnify the importance of the money lender, contended that national prosperity was dependent upon ability to borrow, and that while foreign and domestic money lenders were frightened by silver agitation prosperity would not come. All that was needed was to restore confidence to Shylock and all would be well. The object lesson in the experience of 1898 should, therefore, be a good one.

The Chicago Platform.

If the Democrats do not control the next Congress by an overwhelming majority it will be because of the inefficiency and timidity in leadership. The reaction certain to be forced by the radicalism of extreme plutocracy has already begun, and it is making itself felt in an unmistakable way. What it means is illustrated in these comments on the proposed "Anglo-American" imperialism and on the bond deal adopted the other day by the Free Coinage Republicans of Kansas in their platform:

We believe this Government is capable of attending to its own affairs without the aid of any other nation on the earth.

We believe entangling alliances with foreign nations to be inimical to the best interests of this nation, and that the teachings of Washington, having proven so wise in the past, should be strictly observed in the future, and for this reason we are opposed to the suggested Anglo-American alliance. The Republican party having obtained an unnecessary bond issue in place of the bimetallism it promised to secure, we demand that the administration proceed to prosecute the present war which it has so reluctantly undertaken. The pace set by Admiral Dewey suits us.

We believe that manhood, not money, should be the controlling factor of this nation, and that all corporate interest should be under strict Government control, and to this end we extend our cooperation to any party that honestly and fearlessly attempts to restore the affairs of the Government to the people.

In Kansas, in Nebraska, in South Dakota, and throughout the West generally plutocratic radicalism in the conduct of the war has broken down "Middle-of-the-Road" Populism on one hand and on the other has destroyed all possibility that the Democratic party can be controlled by the Palmer-Buckner bolters. Instead of changing the issues of the Chicago platform the bond dealers and imperialists at Washington are forcing the fullest co-operation among all the elements which united in full support of Bryan in the last campaign. Hanna, Morgan, Whitney, Gage, McKinley, and Rothschild are co-operating to force a more complete and effective union of all forces of opposition to plutocracy than seemed possible six months ago. The Chicago platform stands for the constitution and the laws, for justice, for liberty, for Americanism, for civilization. Its principles are about to receive an overwhelming vindication.

Annexation of Hawaii.

The Republic of Hawaii has been annexed to the United States by joint resolution, which passed the House of Representatives by a vote of 209 yeas to 91 nays, and the Senate by a vote of 42 yeas to 21 nays. Whatever objections (and there were grave ones) induced a large number of both Senators and Representatives to oppose this annexation must now be laid aside. We recollect that when Texas was admitted by joint resolution—Massachusetts was in the negative then—the whole of New England rang with threats to repeal it some day, and send the Texans adrift again. The Democrats who annexed Texas laughed at the descendants of the Puritans in those days, and told them that, where the American flag had been unfurled, it never should be hauled down; and Democrats are going to acquiesce and not give the Hawaiian annexationists a chance to laugh at them now. We shall accept Hawaii, but we accept it, as the understanding is, that it shall have a territorial government, directed and controlled from Washington, and shall not, while the mass of its population is of the character it has to-day, be admitted as a State of the Union, with the right to vote given to all the riffraff of Kanakas, Japanese and Chinese there residing.—New York News.

Can't Ignore Cubans.

If what is called President McKinley's plan were put into operation, it would nullify the purpose of war. The insurgents demand that the government to be set up at the end of the war shall be their government. In this they are right. There are but two governments in Cuba. One is the Spanish, the other is that of the Cuban republic. And unless we are fighting for one or the other, we are intruders. The United States will have no right to ignore the present Cuban republic when the Spanish troops are driven out of Cuba. By the almost unanimous vote of both houses of Congress two years ago, the Cuban republic was recognized. Both political parties in their platforms of 1896 expressed their sympathy for it in its struggle for independence.—Chicago Public.

Current Notes.

The mortality reports of the Spanish army show that in 1897 32,534 died of yellow fever and other diseases, which shows that a slow war is the most destructive to foreign troops in that climate.

Why, in a republic, should an officer in the army receive any higher pay or any different food than that of the private soldier. There is a very decided difference at present, and it is an idea borrowed from the old monarchies.

Oregon went Republican by a big majority. They vote for the party that brings the high price for wheat. And wheat went down right after election. What a terrific lot of trouble the voting king has in fixing himself out with the good times.

Col. John Jacob Astor and the other Fifth avenue young men in the commissary department, have made a terrible failure in the apparently simple matter of getting decent food to the soldiers with unlimited money to do it with. But the officers are feeding on the fat of the land.

Oregon is a great wheat producing State, and Oregon recently gave the gold bugs a vote of confidence; but that was before the price of wheat dropped 50 per cent. How do the Oregon wheat raisers like the situation now? Perhaps no better than Oregon silver miners and the Southern cotton growers.

This is the first war attempted under the single standard and it is the first time war taxes have ever been levied, while at the same time the supply of money in circulation was reduced. The result, of course, is a lower price for farm products than would prevail if silver were coined and greenbacks issued to pay war expenses, thus expanding the volume of currency, instead of contracting it by a huge bond issue.

Every time one of these 13-inch guns sends its half-ton shell at the enemy it shoots away the value of a small farm. Some people are beginning to wonder if what we shall gain is worth the powder. We are willing to spend money in the cause of humanity and to extend and establish the principles of civil and religious liberty to an oppressed land, but if this war is prosecuted to acquire territory, to make jobs for prospective captain generals and to give bonds to the bond hungry, we hesitate.

Did you ever See a Snow Storm in Summer?

We never did; but we have seen the clothing at this time of the year so covered with dandruff that it looked as if it had been out in a regular snowstorm.

No need of this snowstorm.

As the summer sun would melt the falling snow so will melt these flakes of dandruff in the scalp. It goes further than this: it prevents their formation.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

It has still other properties: it will restore color to gray hair in just ten times out of every ten cases.

And it does even more: it feeds and nourishes the roots of the hair. Thin hair becomes thick hair; and short hair becomes long hair.

We have a book on the Hair and Scalp. It is yours, for the asking.

If you do not obtain all the benefits you expected from the use of the Vigor, write the doctor about it. Probably there is some difficulty with your general system which may be easily removed. Address, Beautiful Structure of Eggshells.

An eggshell consists of concretions of carbonate of lime (chalk), deposited in and upon the fibrous surface of the egg-pod, and smoothed and soldered together into polygonal plates of greater or less thickness, so that under the microscope the surface looks like a tessellated pavement. The microscope further discloses the interesting information that eggs of the different group of birds possess recognizable characteristics, so that a trained eye can tell, by examining a fragment of shell, the general character of the bird that laid it, if not its specific identity; and this ability has done service in enlarging our knowledge of fossil birds, some of whose eggs have been recovered unbroken. The shell is always permeated by minute canals that admit air to the growing embryo, for without the presence and aid of oxygen the processes of organic development could not go on. Close these pores by varnishing, and the embryo would quickly die; on the other hand, such an exclusion of the air is one of the methods in use for prolonging the edibility of fresh eggs by excluding air and microbes. As the embryo grows, the air pores enlarge, the shell becomes brittle, and its lining membrane splits at the large end, forming there a considerable cavity filled with air. When the chick has approached nearly to the time of bursting the shell, it ruptures the membrane—perhaps accidentally—and begins to breathe this air, and thus to get its lungs into working order. The beauty of this arrangement is that the tender youngling is thus provided with air warmed to the temperature of its blood, avoiding the chill of the outside atmosphere before its respiratory organs have grown strong enough to bear the shock. In order to enable it to break its way out of the shell when its time comes, the tip of its soft little beak is armed with a temporary hard knob or excrescence, called an "egg-tooth," which falls off soon after the chick's emergence.—Harper's Magazine.

STONE IN HER STOMACH.

From the Gazette, Blandinsville, Ill.

The wife of the Rev. A. R. Adams, pastor of the Bedford Christian Church at Blandinsville, Ill., was for years compelled to live a life of torture from disease. Her case baffled the physicians, but to-day she is alive and well, and tells the story of her recovery as follows:

"About six years ago," said Mrs. Adams, "I weighed about 140 pounds, but my health began to fail and I lost flesh. My food did not agree with me and felt like a stone in my stomach. I began to bloat all over until I thought I had dropsy.

"I had pains and soreness in my left side which extended clear across my back and also into the region of my heart. During these spells a hard ridge would appear in the left side of my stomach and around the left side.

"These attacks left me sore and exhausted. All last summer I was so nervous that the children laughing and playing nearly drove me wild. I suffered also from female troubles and doctored with ten different physicians without receiving any help.

"My Husband Read."

"My husband having read in the newspaper of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, induced me to try them. I began taking them last November but experienced no relief until I had taken six boxes. I am now taking the eleventh box and have been greatly benefited.

"I was also troubled with nervous prostration and numbness of my right arm and hand so that at times I could hardly endure the pain, but that has all passed away. I now have a good appetite and am able to do my own work. Have done more this summer than in the past four years put together. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People cured me and I think it my duty to let other sufferers know it."

Substantiating Immersion.

The famed Bishop Wilmer, of Louisiana, was renowned for his witty rejoinders. On one occasion a Baptist minister insisted that there were several places in the Bible where immersion was unquestionably referred to. "Yes," replied the Bishop, "I recall two such instances where there can be no doubt as to the mode: one is where Pharaoh and his host were immersed in the sea, and the other where the Gadarene pigs were drowned in the deep."—Saturday Evening Post.

While McKinley expects that Spain will now ask terms of peace, he believes the best way to realize that expectation is to keep pounding. It is the purpose to call home all the boys at Santiago except the artillery as rapidly as possible, and give them a chance to rest and feed up and tell the folk about their fighting, while several regiments of immunes will be sent down to garrison that city during the summer and assist a military governor, who will probably be Gen. Shafter, to restore order and rebuild the town and revive business and agriculture in that province. Every possible encouragement will be offered the residents of eastern Cuba to recover their prosperity. Steamship communication with New York will be resumed at once, public improvements will be introduced and the owners of plantations will be afforded protection while they clear their fields and plant their crops. The iron mines will be in operation very shortly, because the ore is needed in Baltimore, Pittsburg and Chicago, and before the summer is ended eastern Cuba will be in a condition to illustrate what may be expected of the rest of the island when it is relieved from Spanish despotism.

The startling charges made by Mr. Hearst of the New York Journal about the murder of Spanish prisoners by the Cuban soldiers in front of Santiago are confirmed by officers who have reached Washington. They are reluctant to discuss the subject, and justify the barbarous act on the ground that the victims were not members of the regular Spanish force, but independent guerrillas, who had themselves violated the laws of war and were guilty of the most infamous crime among soldiers, the slaughter of the wounded. Officers say the Cuban allies treat ordinary Spanish soldiers who have deserted or have been captured with great consideration, but for guerrillas and Spanish volunteers they have no mercy. The officers smile when Gen. Shafter's denial is referred to, and explain that he knows nothing whatever about the matter; that the capture of Spanish guerrillas is never reported, and that when one is found he is hustled into the Cuban lines as rapidly as possible.

Everybody you meet on the streets of Washington these days is either a school teacher or a soldier. The national association, which has been in session for ten days, brought 12,000 or 15,000 interesting young women who are professionally engaged in molding the minds of the coming generation, and they are indefatigable sightseers. The capitol, congressional library, the White House, the national museum, the Washington monument and other places of interest have swarmed with them. They monopolize the street cars, throng the sidewalks and have made their visit here the source of both pleasure and profit. These young women do not hesitate to ask questions when they desire information, and their inquiries have been addressed to anybody they met upon the streets. The soldiers from Camp Alger have almost equaled the school teachers in number and come over by hundreds every day.

The officials of the internal revenue bureau believe the country will absorb more internal revenue stamps than postage stamps. The Postoffice Department prints about 3,000,000,000 of postage stamps a year, or an average of 10,000,000 a day. The requisitions for internal revenue stamps from the sixty-three collectors already filled amount to 500,000,000, which seem to have been instantly absorbed by the public, and they are now calling for more. The department is sending out about 15,000,000 a day.

It is proposed upon the arrival of the commissioners to hoist at Honolulu the identical flag that was hauled down April 1, 1893, by Paramount Blount. This flag belonged to the cruiser Boston, then lying in port, and was taken possession of by Lieut. Lucian Young, one of her officers, who presented it to Minister Thurston. Mr. Thurston treasured it as a sacred thing and will deliver it to Admiral Miller to be restored to its former place at the top of the flagstaff on the Government palace.

There is not the slightest apprehension in administration circles concerning the attitude of Germany in the Philippines or elsewhere. On the contrary, there is a perfect understanding between the two Governments and the two admirals at Manila. While some of the German officers may show independence and perhaps impertinence, the Emperor and his ministers concede the position of the United States in the Philippine Islands and will not interfere in any measure with our plans.

It is said that no attempt will be made to attack Havana. Gen. Blanco will be allowed to contemplate his fortifications and study the art of war within his own lines without disturbance from our ships or soldiers. He is entirely cut off from communication with Madrid. One can imagine the unhappy and hopeless situation in which he is placed, with his supplies of food rapidly growing less and no prospects of rescue or re-enforcements.

The Comptroller of the Currency has received applications from several persons for authority to organize national banks in Honolulu, Havana, Manila and Porto Rico, which of course must be held up until those places become subject to the laws of the United States. The first Honolulu application was made by some Indiana people.

The officials of the Treasury Department have assumed it was the intention of Congress that the corporations of the country instead of the public should pay the petty taxes imposed upon business transactions by the war revenue bill, and so far as they can control the matter this intention will be carried out.

Commodore Watson's missionary expedition will be hastened in order to furnish the Spaniards a practical example of war and emphasize the determination of Uncle Sam to have his own way. It is expected also that he will seize Ceuta, the Spanish outpost on the African side of the Straits of Gibraltar, and hold it as a base of supplies.

Spain has already lost twenty-one ships of war, with an aggregate of 44,040 tons, and twenty-one merchant vessels of 32,400 tons. The United States has lost no ships of war, has had only one, the torpedo boat Winslow, disabled, and none of its merchantmen has been captured.

INDIANA INCIDENTS.

RECORD OF EVENTS OF THE PAST WEEK.

Tipton Young Man Meets a Peculiar Death — Madison County Farmers Hold Their Wheat for Better Prices —Marion Strike Settled.

Died in a Singular Manner.

William Claude Mayne, an estimable young man of Tipton, came to a very singular and appalling death. He was taken with hemorrhage from the nose, and in less than twelve hours the blood began flowing from his mouth, ears and eyes. The physicians succeeded in checking this at times, but only temporarily, for the blood burst out afresh until it finally oozed through the pores of his flesh. A prominent physician of Indianapolis was summoned, but all efforts to stanch the blood proved futile, and the young man, perfectly conscious, passed quietly away. Mr. Mayne was a favorite tenor.

Farmers Holding Wheat.

Farmers in Madison and other eastern Indiana counties are not rushing their new wheat into market. A majority of them are holding on to their product and storing it for higher prices. Almost all farmers have this year for the first time in many enough money to meet all bills and are able to store their grain. The yield all through that section of Indiana is splendid and the grain is fully matured, well rounded and solid—the very best grades. The blighting frosts which affected sections of Indiana have had no effect thereabouts. Many fields yielded over thirty bushels an acre and in that county it is thought the average will be considerably over twenty bushels. White top, which in the last two years starved out the wheat, is missing this year.

No Right to Strike.

It required just twenty-four hours to end the strike at the Marion flint glass works. The proprietors immediately communicated with President Smith at Pittsburg and he at once instructed John Hope of Muncie, a member of the executive committee, to go there and direct the men to return to work. This he did, and at a meeting of the workers he informed them that the strike was without warrant, contrary to the by-laws of the organization and in violation of the contract with the Flint Glass Company. The next morning work was resumed as if there had been no trouble of any kind.

Fired On from Ambush.

Arthur Wilfred of Kokomo called on a lady friend in the suburbs the other evening and while there the house was bombarded with rocks and fireworks. Wilfred dispersed the crowd with a shotgun but later in the evening when en route home a gunshot from an unknown quarter carried away the greater portion of his lower jaw. He may recover.

Within Our Borders.

Roscoe Moore, an alleged professional burglar, was captured at Sullivan by Sheriff Mayfield.

James Groves and J. J. Haynes of Davies County have been arrested for passing counterfeit silver dollars.

At Pierceton, white caps administered fifty lashes with a blacksnake whip to William Keller, for beating his wife.

William Mitchell, a carpenter, was stricken with paralysis while standing on the street in Anderson. He fell and died in a few minutes.

After making an attempt to take the life of his tenant, John Kline, with an ax, John Seusenbangh of Logansport sent a 38-caliber bullet through his brain.

Mrs. Schill, an old German woman residing near Crothersville, was found dead in bed. She was very eccentric, and had lived by herself ever since the death of her husband several years ago.

Elwood, Indianapolis and Ohio capitalists have organized a brewing company with a capital stock of $100,000 and will build a large brewery in Elwood. The site has been purchased and side tracks arranged for.

The Terre Haute Iron and Steel Company and the Wabash Iron Company have signed the wage scale of the ironworkers for the ensuing year. The companies are not members of the Iron Manufacturers' Association, but they usually abide by the agreement, and the men receive the regular scale of wages.

Mrs. William Yocom and daughter, Mrs. E. Leachman, residing in Dick Johnson township, met with probably a fatal accident in a runaway. Mrs. Yocom jumped and escaped serious injuries, but Mrs. Leachman remained in the vehicle until it overturned, fracturing her skull and injuring her internally.

The jury in the case of Montgomery County against John C. Hutton, ex-treasurer, to recover taxes alleged to have been collected during his two terms in office and not properly accounted for, returned a verdict deciding that $3,659.57 was due the county from Hutton and his bondsmen, there being $788.10 due from his first term's business, and $2,871.27 from the second term. The suit was for about $9,000.

A young man, frightfully cut and battered, was found lying beside the Chicago and Erie Railroad track near Rochester. He was taken to a dwelling and a surgeon pronounced his injuries serious. For hours he was unconscious, and when at last he partially regained his senses he said that his name was James Stonaker, son of Israel Stonaker of Monterey, and had been pushed off a rapidly moving freight train.

A murder was committed at New Washington. A dispute arose between Henry Rhetts and William McCoy over some trifling matter, when McCoy attacked Rhetts and beat him to death. It is alleged by friends of Rhetts that the father and brother of McCoy stood by and saw the murder committed without making an attempt to interfere. Much bitter feeling has been aroused.

Three huge Standard Oil kerosene tanks, together with an office building at the company's yards in Columbus, were destroyed by fire. The oil destroyed was worth $2,000 and the building $1,000. No insurance.

Engineer J. D. Fields and Fireman Frank McBee of Frankfort were killed at Silverwood. The men were switching on the side track and the rails spread, precipitating the engine down a 35-foot embankment. Both were pinioned by the engine, and it was three hours before the wrecking crew succeeded in recovering their bodies.

Charles Von Haaren, an artist, fell from a frescoing scaffold at the Catholic church at Greensburg and died in a few minutes. He was from Louisville. He was 32 years old.

At Fort Wayne, Judge O'Rourke rendered his decision in the Fort Wayne street railway case. He finds that John J. Shipherd wrongfully used more than $500,000 worth of bonds. The decision says that the Cleveland capitalists were aware of Shipherd's peculations when they purchased bonds of him, and orders these capitalists to turn back as assets to the company $990,000 worth of bonds, thus protecting small creditors and bondholders.

Intelligent People

Are always looking for an opportunity of increasing their store of knowledge. Chautauqua, N. Y., is without a peer as a place to brush away the cobwebs. A Low Rate Excursion via the Nickel Plate Road offers another opportunity of attending this justly famous summer school. The agents of that line are glad to furnish detailed information.

Famous Old Riddles.

Here are a few riddles which amused our ancestors:

Who was Adam's mother?

How many calves' tails would it take to reach from the earth to the sky?

When Antichrist appears in the world what will be the hardest thing for him to understand?

Why do men make an oven in a town?

How many straws go to a goose's nest?

What man getteth his living backwards?

Who killed the fourth part of all the people in the world?

What is the worst-bestowed charity that one could give?

How many persons can furnish answers to all of the above?

Notice of withdrawal before the appointment of a receiver of a building and saving association is held, in Rabbitt vs. Wilcoxen (Iowa), 38 L. R. A. 183, to give no right of priority under by-laws for payment "according to the priority of notice," but also providing that only 30 per cent of the cash receipts of the loan fund for any month should be paid that month. These by-laws are said to contemplate going concerns.

Did you know that the WABASH operates the Fastest Mail Train in the world? This is an indication of its superior roadbed and track.

Shucking Corn on "All Fours."

A gentleman from Keene told a reporter of a certain novel method of stealing corn, which is now in vogue in that neighborhood. Acting upon the supposition that the cornfield is being guarded, the thief enters upon "all fours." Reaching the shock he carefully works his way into the center, where there is commonly a cavity, and there begins to fill his sack. Having shucked all he can carry he crawls out, and until the farmer goes to shuck and haul his corn and finds only fodder, he is none the wiser.—Lexington (Ky.) Herald.

There is a Class of People

Who are injured by the use of coffee. Recently there has been placed in all the grocery stores a new preparation called GRAIN-O, made of pure grains, that takes the place of coffee. The most delicate stomach receives it without distress, and but few can tell it from coffee. It does not cost over one-fourth as much. Children may drink it with great benefit. 15c. and 25c. per package. Try it. Ask for GRAIN-O.

Did Not Lose His Head.

Bill Yale—That man Williams never lost his head in a foot-ball game yet, did he?

Jim Cornell—No, I think not. He lost an ear, part of his nose, eight teeth—but I do not remember ever hearing of him losing his head.—Yonkers Statesman.

The Chautauqua Assembly is now in session. Realizing the popularity of this delightful summer resort and the benefits to be acquired at such an educational center, the Nickel Plate Road has authorized an excursion to that point on July 29th. The low rate for this occasion is one of the prominent features, while a splendid road bed, fast time, courteous employes, elegant sleeping cars, and an unexcelled dining service, combine to render a trip over that popular line most enjoyable.

A Good Thing

Bears repitition. The Nickel Plate road will run another of its popular excursions to Chautauqua, N. Y., on July 29th. Low rates, thirty day limits, and first-class service make a great drawing card. Ask agents for time of trains and rates.

A Philippine Hero.

One of the Philippine insurgent leaders is a beautiful woman whose life seems to be charmed. Frequently we see people in this country whose lives seem charmed also, but the only charm about it is that they keep up their strength and vitalize their blood with that celebrated remedy, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.

Whiskers for Plows.

That history repeats itself has just received another proof. Some years ago the men of a Bavarian regiment, of which Prince Maximilian was chief, in order that they might show their devotion to him, cut off their mustaches and sent them to the Princess, who had just become a mother, that she might use them as a pillow. Something very like a repetition of this has just taken place at Rappolstweller, in Alsatia. The chief of the fire brigade was a few days ago presented with his first child, a boy. The firemen thereupon called a meeting at which it was decided to make the baby boy an honorary member of the corps, and the men subsequently cut off their mustaches and beards to form the stuffing of a red velvet pillow for the baby's use.—Chicago Chronicle.

Only a Fowl.

An Englishman was once persuaded to see a game of base-ball, and during the play, when he happened to look away for a moment, a foul tip caught him on the ear and knocked him senseless. On coming to himself, he asked faintly, "What was it?" "A foul—only a foul." "Good heavens!" he exclaimed. "I thought it was a mule."—Argonaut.

Is Health Worth Ten Cents?

Man suffers many mysterious ailments from unknown causes, and nine-tenths of them have their origin in the digestive canal somewhere. It does any person good to clean out this canal occasionally in a rational way, provided it is not done in a violent manner. The proper cleansing and disinfecting preparation is Cascarets Candy Cathartic, which are very gentle, but at the same time thoroughly effective. A 10c box will purify the whole system and in most cases remove the cause of ill health. When "feeling bad" take Cascarets. They will do you good, and can do you no harm.

Reason Enough.

PERIODS OF PAIN.

Menstruation, the balance wheel of woman's life, is also the bane of existence to many because it means a time of great suffering.

While no woman is entirely free from periodical pain, it does not seem to have been nature's plan that women otherwise healthy should suffer so severely. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the most thorough female regulator known to medical science. It relieves the condition that produces so much discomfort and robs menstruation of its terrors. Here is proof:

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—How can I thank you enough for what you have done for me? When I wrote to you I was suffering untold pain at time of menstruation; was nervous, had headache all the time, no appetite, that tired feeling, and did not care for anything. I have taken three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, one of Blood Purifier, two boxes of Liver Pills, and to-day I am a well person. I would like to have those who suffer know that I am one of the many who have been cured of female complaints by your wonderful medicine and advice.—MISS JENNIE R. MILES, Leon, Wis.

If you are suffering in this way, write as Miss Miles did to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for the advice which she offers free of charge to all women.

TRAMPS JAILED

He Had A Mania For Smashing Patriotic Emblems and General Tinware

But The Women of West Seventh Street Road Captured Him With Guns—Same As Dewey.

There was quite an exciting time out west of town yesterday afternoon. A wild-eyed-half crazy old tramp, had got into the neighborhood, and the first account of him is that he appeared at the residence of Eli Myers, the T. C. Elson place, about two miles west of town, and began to make thing lively. He found the tinware and went to banging it about and making himself a nuisance in a general way. As he would not stop they ordered him away and finally got him to leave. He was next heard of at John Olinger's, where he again pounded and banged everything in sight and was finally driven off. He then went to the home of Wm. Ruple, on the D Z. Hoffman place, the man who builds the stone work of our bridges, and at once, began to make things lively. The sight of the flags on the porch, and similar patriotic emblems seems to have set him agoing. He tore up two little flags that were fixed on the porch and then went for the little boy's gunboat and demolished that. Just then Mrs. Ruple appeared, her husband being absent, working on the Goodwin bridge northwest of Waterloo. She ordered him to stop and get away from there. Seeing she meant business the fellow stopped and left the porch, but only to go around to the back of the house, where he found some of his favorite tinware, and began to smash it. Just as he had picked up a strainer and begun to hammer it, Mrs. Ruple was on him again. This time she had a revolver, and ordered him to stop or she would shoot him. He told her to go ahead, and held ther strainer up to protect himself. She was as good as her word and fired, but had the self-control and coolness not to fire into him, but close enough to scare him. She gave him three shots that way, and he again discovered she meant business and started on a run. But she had alarmed the neighbors, and one of them, Henry Eckert seized a gun and started for the scene of action. Unfortunately, or perhaps fortunately, the gun was not loaded, and when he met the tramp and ordered him to stop the tramp grappled him and a struggle followed. Eckert is an old man, and was likely to get the worst of it when he managed to get the gun around so he could hit the tramp with it, which he did so vigorously that the fellow gave up and began to blubber and cry like a baby. Just then some ladies in a buggy came along, going towards Auburn, and were told to send the sheriff out there. When they got to town and gave word. Deputy Platter went out and brought the fellow in and lodged him in jail.

From all accounts, the man is evidently the same half crazy fellow who acted so queer and so violent here in Auburn. He went through town the evening the W. R. C. gave the bean social at Mr. Gordon's last week, and frightened a good many of the people, especially the children by his violent way, and strange mutterings. Though he speaks English, he appears to have a sort of foreign accent, as when he says he is an "Americaine," and some think he may be a half crazy Spaniard. And now a tramp wouldn't be given a drink of water on the road west of Auburn. He has evidently escaped from some asylum. He could easily be located as he has lost one ear.

The Goodwin Bridge

Wm. Rupe reports the stone work of the abutments of the Goodwin bridge as nearing completion. Surveyor Krontz has been appointed to superintend the work and the commissioners Shoemaker and Gunsenhouser, are often on the ground. He says he has put in the stone abutments for seven bridges on Cedar Creek, but this one is the worst as far as the quicksand is concerned. It bothers them a good deal.

Dr. WHEELER'S NERVE VITALIZER

We are apt to condemn all articles because similar ones prove worthless. Persons often reason; I have nervous prostration, St. Vitus' dance, spasms, rheumatism, can't sleep and am in a debilitating condition; have tried best physicians and most widely advertised remedies, but there is no cure for my case. No matter what your past experience may have been Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer will positively cure every case of nervous trouble—no failures. Here is expert evidence of that fact, Mr. J. H. Hutchings, Bancroft, Mich., for 20 years a successful druggist, tried every preparation he could hear of without benefit. Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer cured him. The following are his words, read them:

"I had a spinal trouble for years causing serious nervousness, sleeplessness and headache. Our night watchman can tell you how, many and many a night I have walked the streets for hours, hoping to tire myself to a condition of sleep. During these years I have tried nearly every remedy coming to my notice, with only a stupefying effect like morphine. The use of Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer was an exception, its beneficial effects were prompt and lasting; I secured refreshing sleep, my nerves were strengthened and through them my health was restored. From observation and experience I believe Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer to be the best remedy for all nerve troubles, including general debility." Mr. Hutchings is certainly a competent judge and his testimony is significant.

Santiago Taken!

The latest report that come is that Santiago has surrendered. One account says there was a bloody battle. Another says there was no fight, but they had concluded to surrender, giving us 9,000 prisoners.

DEWEY'S DOINGS

As noted yesterday. we have been steadily getting ahead at Manila. We now have more complete explanations as to how the rumor got out that Dewey had fired on the German cruisers. This had not been done, but the rumor grew out of our occupying Subig Bay. It appears that the Spaniards were putting mines in that bay, so that the fleet they were expecting, would have a place of safety to take shelter in rather than try to drive our fleet from Manila Bay. But the insurgent natives made it so hard for them, that they were forced to take refuge on Graude Island, in the bay. Then the insurgents captured a good sized Spanish vessel ying near the mainland, and started in her for the island to attack the Spaniadds. But the German cruiser, Irene. had been in the bay for some time, evidently to protect the Spaniards. The Irene interfered, and ordered the insurgent ship to leave. Then Dewey sent two cruisers and they took the island, and 500 Spaniards while the Irene went away.

WILLING TO HELP

Securing freedom from the grip of catarrh makes loyal friends for the liberator.

Pe-ru-na has been making friends of this kind for many years. It cures catarrh wherever located.

Mrs. R. Eades, of 35 Twenty-eighth St., Detroit, Mich., is one of the many thousand of Pe-ru-na's friends. This is what she says to Dr. Hartman:

"We have used your Pe-ru-na with the most remarkable results and would not be without it. We have always recommended it to our friends. A few years ago I purchased a bottle of your Pe-ru-na and after seeing its results, recommended it to my grocer who was troubled with dyspepsia, the curing of which induced her to sell it in her store. She has sold large amounts of it. My daughter has just been cured of jaundice with Pe-ru-na. My pen would grow weary were I to begin to tell you of the numerous cures Pe-ru-na has effected in our immediate vicinity within the last couple of years."

Dr. Hartman, President of the Surgical Hotel, Columbus, Ohio, will counsel and prescribe for fifty thousand women this year free of charge. Every suffering woman should write for special question blank for women, and have Dr. Hartman's book, "Health and Beauty." All druggists sell Pe-ru-na.

Was Someone Else

—L. H. Fretz was here yesterday. He is just in from Goshen where he has been employed "in the field" in the subscription of the Goshen Times Co. for awhile. He had quite an experience the other day. A man in the south part of the county had been run down and hurt by a bicycle rider, and he believed it was Mr. Fretz. But as soon as Mr. F. heard of it he drove down there and let the injured man have a square look at him. It was at once decided it must have been some one else. In fact Mr. Fretz was able to prove that he was at that time in a distant part of the county. We have not heard whether the right man was found or not.

Dr. W. H. McClure, the eminent Specialist of Fort Wayne, who has made a special study of chronic diseases for the past twenty years, and has just returned from a tour through Scotland, France, Germany and England, and visited all the leading Medical institutions in order to gain more knowledge of chronic diseases. Dr. Virchow, one of the most celebrated doctors of the world said he believed that there was fully one half of the human family whose eyes were diseased by having them improperly fitted with glasses. He further says it has been demonstrated beyond a doubt that it causes a great many of the chronic diseases. I treat all chronic diseases successfully and fit the eyes to perfection. If our eyes are diseased, I will treat them successfully, fit them properly. All private diseases treated successfully. All examinations free. Office hours 8 to 12 a. m., 1 to 6 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m. I have two suits of rooms at the Hollister House, where I would be glad to see all.

SOME persons say it is natural for them to lose flesh during summer. But losing flesh is losing ground. Can you afford to approach another winter in this weakened condition?

Coughs and colds, weak throats and lungs, come quickest to those who are thin in flesh, to those easily chilled, to those who have poor circulation and feeble digestion.

Scott's Emulsion

of cod liver oil with hypophosphites does just as much good in summer as in winter. It makes flesh in August as well as April. You certainly need as strong nerves in July as in January. And your weak throat and lungs should be healed and strengthened without delay.

FOR ALL WOMEN

Nine-tenths of all the pain and sickness from which women suffer is caused by weakness or derangement in the organs of menstruation. Nearly always when a woman is not well these organs are affected. But when they are strong and healthy a woman is very seldom sick.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

Is nature's provision for the regulation of the menstrual function. It cures all "female troubles." It is equally effective for the girl in her teens, the young wife with domestic and maternal cares, and the woman approaching the period known as the "Change of Life." They all need it. They are all benefitted by it.

For advice in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, the "Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

THOS. J. COOPER, Tupelo, Miss., says: "My sister suffered from very irregular and painful menstruation and doctors could not relieve her. Wine of Cardui entirely cured her and also helped my mother through the Change of Life."

—LOST:—Thursday, July 7, a fur collarette, somewhere on the road between Kendallville and Avilla. Finder will be suitably rewarded by leaving at this office.

—Dr. Buchtel says that Durward DeLong is improving decidedly, which we are glad to hear. Mrs. DeLong is here with him now, attending him. Her home is in Chicago.

—"Shorty" the Kendallville egg man was in town bright and early today. He says he has entered the thirtieth year he has driven into Auburn to gether up our eggs. This is a record hard to beat.

—Mr. Daniel Houk of Spencerville was in town Thursday evening and called at the COURIER office. They had failed to receive their COURIER but we have fixed the list now so it will go all right hereafter.

—Win your battles against disease by acting promptly. One Minute Cough Cure produces immediate results When taken early it prevents consumption. And in later stages it furnishes prompt relief. H. B. McCord.

—Mrs. Swineford and Mrs. Forkner, accompanied by George Swineford and wife, drove over to St. Joe Tuesday to visit their brother, Mr. Nichols, who lives near there. They found him recovering from his recent hurts.

—Les. Sebring and wife are happy over the arrival of a boy baby. If many more boys are reported, we shall believe the war will continue. A year or two ago, the boys were arriving by every stark train and we all predicted war.

—John Crimmins, of Garrett, was over here to day. He had the good fortune to be elected city clerk, over there last May, there being but one other democratic candidate who was left visible after the "landscape" had passed by. He has been a head clerk in the railroad office there since he went over to that place.

—Charles A. Miner who has been for several years past civil engineer in charge of all the government works below New Orleans and about the Gulf, called yesterday on his aunt, Mrs. C. C. Shaffer and together they drove over to Garrett to visit his uncle, E. W. Miner of the Garrett Herald. He is expecting the appointment of a captaincy in the U. S. civil engineers and will then go to the front. Mr. Miner is a Steuben county man, having been born in that county. He graduated at the Tri-State College at Angola. He has made a wonderful success of life for one so young, his present salary being now $2,000 a year.

A Narrow Escape

Thankful words written by Mrs. Ada E. Hart, of Groton, S. D. "Was taken with a bad cold which settled on my lungs; cough set in and finally terminated in consumption. Four Doctors gave me up, saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Savior, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I gave it a trial, took in all eight bottles. It has cured me, and thank God I am saved and now a well and healthy woman." Trial bottles free at H. B McCord's Drug Store. Regular size 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed or price refunded.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

Spain's Style.

Major Bitters writes in the Rochester Republican: "History says that when Columbus landed upon the island of Cuba it contained about 1,500,000 of docile Indians, who were inoffensive and defenseless, and there were 1,000,000 or more of the same kind of human beings on each of the islands of Porto Rico and St. Domingo, making 3,500,000 people. In a little less than 45 years 4,000,000 Indians were murdered—shot down, drowned starved and slaughtered in great droves. After the Indians were disposed of the Spaniards went to Africa and captured 8,000 Negroes, who were put in bondage a hundred fold worse than American slavery, and the horrible barbarities have not ceased to this day. But this is simply a mere mention of what the Spaniards have done in the way of murdering inoffensive people. No wonder the God of wrath and justice has appointed the Americans to swipe them from the face of the earth."

—The family of the late William Bishop, of Wilmington, desire through these columns to thank all their neighbors and friends for many acts of kindness and sympathy received during his sickness and in their bereavement.

THE USE OF SALT.

It Is Said That Vegetable Condiments Might Well Be Substituted for It.

Contrary to the general belief that salt is an essential part of our daily diet, Capt. Poindexter, assistant surgeon in the United States army, maintains that it would be better to substitute for its use certain vegetable condiments, such as sugar, pepper, horseradish, spices, cranberry sauce, pickles, vinegar, olive oil, etc. He says that personally he has not been so situated that he could stop the use of salt absolutely, but he has reduced it to a minimum, and finds himself generally better physically and mentally, says the Atlanta Constitution. He finds in his own case that the senses of taste and hearing are apparently more active than when he used salt more freely. His hair, which had begun to fall off, has ceased doing so. His skin seems softer and clearer than before, and there are many other favorable changes. The broad hypothesis he adopts is that mineral matter as derived directly from the earth is, if not poisonous, unassimilable and unnecessary for our bodies. He holds, however, that salt is an irritable poison, causing an irritation or sensitiveness of the tissues, as it circulates through the body and consequently induces tendency to disease. In the laboratories it is found that salt has no germ-killing properties, but when placed in bouillion for the cultivation of germs the latter thrive in the mixture. He makes no allusion to the belief entertained as to the virtues of salt as a solvent when taken into the system.

A MODEST MAN.

Who Many Years Ago Received a Famous Letter from Abraham Lincoln.

There passed away in Massachusetts one day recently a man who was at one time the firm friend of such men as Webster, Douglas, Lincoln, who presided at the famous convention of 1860 which nominated the martyred president; who was called to Washington in the time of the country's greatest need; whose opinions were sought by men of influence in whatever crisis faced them, says the Philadelphia Press.

George Ashmun was one of the most modest of men. When he was chosen to preside over the convention of 1860 he consented only on condition that Gov. Trask would accompany him. He and Mr. Trask both went to Springfield with the committee to notify Mr. Lincoln and it was shortly after that that he received from the president a letter that became famous and which said: "It seems as if the question whether my first name is Abraham or Abram will never be settled; it is Abraham, and if the letter of acceptance is not yet in print, if you think fit, have my signature thereto printed 'Abraham Lincoln.'" Daniel Webster once wrote to him: "Whenever anything good comes into this house we always think of Mr. Ashmun. A fish came up the Potomac last evening higher than is usual for his species to venture. Will you be so kind as to join Mr. —— and myself at five o'clock to-day to taste him?"

ONE OF THE KAISER'S JOKES.

The German Emperor Once Made a Humorous Retort to a Toast by Telegraph.

There are many good anecdotes about the German emperor, and it must be owned that they all prove the kaiser to have no small amount of humor, says the Toronto Chronicle. The following, which comes from Mr. Ehlers, the traveler, is smarter than most. The emperor and Ehlers were college chums from Bonn, and the emperor never forgot his old college student. At Bonn on special occasions the different corps used to drink to one another, and the following set form was always used: The president of the Palatio corps raises his glass, saying: "I have the great honor and pleasure to empty my glass in drinking to the corps of Borussia." The president of the latter corps replies: "The corps thanks and drinks."

On the birth of one of the sons of the emperor Ehlers telegraphed him: "I have the great honor and pleasure to empty my glass in drinking to the youngest Hohenzollern." The emperor promptly wired back: "The youngest Hohenzollern thanks and drinks."

In the Nick of Time.

She leaned from the window, agonizedly; above and below her the angry flames belched forth.

"Jump!" yelled the crowd.

Her eyes were fastened upon a figure that crept slowly up a ladder toward her.

A minute! It seemed a year!

"It's a wonder you couldn't have come before!" she exclaimed, snatching the box which the courier's delivery boy brought her.

An instant later, and she had arrayed herself in her new lace nightgown, and leaped into the life net.—Puck.

She Had a Character.

Here is a "character" given to a servant on leaving her last situation: "The bearer has been in my house a year, less 11 months. During this time she has shown herself diligent at the house door, frugal in work, mindful of herself, prompt in excuses, friendly towards men, faithful to her lovers, and honest when everything was out of the way."—Tit-Bits.

An Unusual Circumstance.

'Twas the first time that Dorothy had been allowed to enter the sick-room where her mother was recovering from a severe attack of fever. After looking at her mother for a moment in silence she exclaimed, greatly troubled: "Oh, mamma, somebody's emptied your head and—and hasn't put back the hair."—Judge.

A Course in Expletives.

"How did Bluebreeze get into the way of using such violent language?"

"I believe he was once engaged in some mining operations."

"Ah, I see! Camp life and that sort of thing."

"No. He speculated in stocks."—Washington Star.

Very Clever.

"Bunce is a good shot, isn't he?"

"Very good. We were practising with our guns at a country place the other day, and he hit the bull's-eye the first time."

"Very clever."

"Yes, but he had to pay for the bull."—Tit-Bits.

LATEST WAR NEWS.

Thursday's Daily.

The troop at Charleston embarked on board their ships yesterday, for Porto Rico.

There seems still to be a good deal of uncertainty as to which regiments will be sent from Tampa.

The authorities are hurrying up the ships with provisions, coat etc, and ship to carry troops, as rapidly as possible.

The award for carrying the prisoners back to Spain has been awarded to a line of steamers owned by a Spanish company. The price given is $20 for each private and $55 for each officer, the owners of the steamer are to furnish food, deliver them in Spain and then get their pay.

At latest accounts Gen. Miles had not left Cuba, but remains on the ship he is to sail in. He has several thousand soldiers who had come to re-enforce Shafter, but not being needed have never been landed. They will be ready any minute, but Miles must wait for the navy, and also for the troops now starting from our camps in the United States to get a start enough to join him soon after he lands, as it would be unwise to be there long with a small force. He will land at some weak point and then march against the various cities. The fleet will look after San Juan, the largest.

Stores in Santiago are opening up, and getting in stocks of goods as fast as they can They had allowed stock to run low before the surrender, as the Spanish soldiers could not be trusted to protect the goods, and in fact would steal it. And they had been told that American soldiers would steal all they found, Now they find the American soldiers their best customers and they are glad to get the Yankee money. In fact they seem glad to think the Yankees whipped their army.

American and Spanish soldiers mingle freely in Santiago in the most friendly way. If they cannot understand each other, they make signs and both sides evidently consider the other good soldiers and are glad to have the fighting over.

Cervera and his officers at Annapolis have been interviewed as to why they came over here at all. They say the Spanish ministers ordered them over here, to allay the clamor of newspapers and politicians at home. They say the sailors all know it was a foolish business. After they got to this side. they lacked coal, but were told that two coal ships had been sent on to wait for them. But as these were taken by us all the Spanish ships could do was to get what international law would permit, which was just enough to take them to the nearest Spanish port, which happened to be Santiago. So they got that much coal of the French and ran for Santiago. After getting these, they found no provisions waiting for them, and even had to give up part of their own to feed the starving soldiers. And in the fights of July 1 and 2, they sent sailors ashore to help. Then on the third, they were ordered to go out of the harbor. They sent a cable to Madrid that such a step was certain destruction. But a second order came to go, and they did. They had thought that our heavy ships were slow, and were greatly surprised that the Oregon could outsail them.

Friday's Daily.

It is probable that Manila has been bombarded before this. A part of our troops were near the city at last reports.

We have taken possession of another small island in the Pacific belonging to Spain. It is one of the Marshall Islands, and not very important.

The Spaniards at Manila have heard of the destruction of Cervera's fleet at Santiago and realize that it is a serious blow. They had not, at last reports heard of the surrender of the city and army of Santiago.

The people at the Canary Islands are fleeing from the seaport towns, as they expect Watson's fleet will call on them on its way to Spain.

There is much sickness among the Spanish prisoners from Cervera's fleet now confined at Portsmouth, N. H. caused mainly by exposure and hard ships before they were captured, as well as by wounds.

There were a dozen or more bids to take the Spanish prisoners home. One queer one, was from a large Spanish merchant vessel that has for some months been lying idle in the British harbor of Kingston Jamacia. She does dot dare to come out for fear of capture, but will take a full load of men home free, if allowed to go in safety.

The total actual expenses of the war to date foot up about 130 millions but a much larger sum has been appropriated.

It is probable that Watson's fleet may not sail for Spain. It will be of more consequence to us to push matters in Cuba and Porto Rico.

It turns out the reason that Spanish steamship company made such a low bid to carry prisoners to Spain, was that they had half a dozen ships tied up empty at South American and Mexican ports, and this would enable them to get back to Spain in safety.

Saturday's Daily.

Weyler is likely to cause trouble in Spain. It is believed he has left Madrid to join Don Carlos, who has so long been trying to become king of Spain. He belongs the younger branch of the royal family.

It is decided that Watson is to take his fleet over to Spain, but not to bombard their cities. He is to hunt up the rest of the Spanish warships and send them to join the rest of the Spanish navy, at the bottom of the sea. This is more sensible than shelling cities.

It looks pretty certain that the people of Porto Rico will be glad to become a part of the United State. It is possible that Cuba will take the same view, when she finds how well we treat her.

Gen. Miles is far along on his journey and tonight will be near the east end of Santo Domingo. If nothing happens, he should reach Porto Rico Sunday afternoon.

The factory at Hammond, Ind., has large orders for smokeless powder for the army.

Manzanillo on the north coast of Cuba has been shelled again, and the Spanish shipping and several gunboats destroyed. We intend to use that point as a stopping place, from which to continue operations on the north coast.

The Cubans at Santiago are becoming more dissatisfied with us. They think we don't give them a good show, and are likely to desert us. Well, we don't need them.

Several of the smaller garrisons of Santiago Provtnce have surrendered, and others refuse, claiming that Gen. Toral had no right to surrender them when he did his own army.

Cure Constipation

and you cure its consequences. These are some of the consequences of constipation: Biliousness, loss of appetite, pimples, sour stomach, depression, coated tongue, nightmare, palpitation, cold feet, debility, dizziness, weakness, backache, vomiting, jaundice, piles, pallor, stitch, irritability, nervousness, headache, torpid liver, heartburn, foul breath, sleeplessness, drowsiness, hot skin, cramps, throbbing head.

Ayer's Pills Are a Sure Cure for Constipation

Dr. J. C. Ayer's Pills are a specific for all diseases of the liver, stomach, and bowels.

"I suffered from constipation which assumed such an obstinate form that I feared it would cause a stoppage of the bowels. After vainly trying various remedies, I began to take Ayer's Pills. Two boxes effected a complete cure."
D. BURKE, Saco, Me.

"For eight years I was afflicted with constipation, which became so bad that the doctors could do no more for me. Then I began to take Ayer's Pills, and soon the bowels recovered their natural action."
WM. H. DELAUCETT, Dorset, Ont.

THE PILL THAT WILL.

A GREAT DEAL

of unnecessary expenditure of time and money may be saved if you will only keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in the house. Nine-tenths of all ordinary sickness is from the stomach; keep that organ in proper condition and all will be well. Syrup Pepsin is a specific. Turpie Set Right.

(Laporte Argus)

Senator Turpie was one of the seven democratic senators who voted for the war revenue measure. He was opposed to the bond issue provided for in the measure and believed other ways of raising the needed money to carry on the war would be better. Indeed several such amendments to the bill received his vote but a majority of the senators were opposed to the income tax and other measures he favored, and the issue of bonds was supported by a decided majority. After doing all he could to amend the bill he finally gave it his vote rather than to longer stand in the way of an early supply of war funds. We believe Senator Turpie's position will be indorsed by his party and by the mass of people of all parties. The entire opposition to the bill was on account of its methods and not its object.

COUNTERFEIT MONEY.

An Angola Man Gets Into Trouble with Uncle Sam

(Angola Magnet)

Last Friday morning Wm. R. Irvan rented a bicycle from Lorenzo Taylor for a couple of days, saying that he was going out to sell a patent clevis, for which he was to have one dollar and expenses. At evening of the same day, a telephone message from Kendallville announced that he had been arrested in that town for passing counterfeit money Next day the the Sheriff of Allen county telephoned that Irvan was in jail at Fort Wayne, awaiting a preliminary hearing on the charge named.

Irvan's story, as related to the writer of this last Sunday, is as follows: That he was out of work and decided to seek employment in a laundry in Waterloo and then in Kendallville; and, in case he failed in both places, to try the machine shop in Auburn: that he wheeled to Pleasant Lake, and, halting in the Park for a rest, fell in with a talkative stranger who "treated" from a whisky bottle a couple of times during their visit: that they finally got to showing their money, he (Irvan) having a $5 bill; that the stranger said he had more silver than he liked to carry, and wanted to swap some of it for paper, and they traded, he (Irvan) receiving ten half-dollars for his $2 bill; that later he proceeded on his journey, and, after passing Corunna, thought he would "go to a farm house and see if he could pass a piece of it." At this juncture we inquired if he knew it was counterfeit, and he answered that he did. We asked how he had found it out, he having claimed to be a little "boozy" when the swap was made. He replied that he had his hand in his pocket, and that when he "jingled the money, it didn't ring right."

Proceeding with his narrative, he said that he got got a glass of milk of a farmers wife, giving her one of the 50-cent pieces, and receiving 46 cents in change; that he rode on toward Kendallville, and shortly afterward some men in buggies overtook him, and charged him with having passed a bogus half-dollar upon Mrs. John Witt; that they took him over to the city Marshal, Jos W. Berhalter, who on searching his pockets, found eight more bogus 50-cent coins, all exactly like the one passed upon Mrs. Witt, and all very poorly executed. Later the same night Marshal Berhalter took Irvan to Fort Wayne and turned him over to the Chief of Police.

When Mrs. Witt was subpœnaed to attend the preliminary examination in Fort Wayne, she informed the writer that she didn't want to take pay for the milk, but that Irvan insisted upon paying for it; and, said she: "He drank less than half the glassful. It wasn't milk he wanted he; wanted my 46 cents."

RIGHT IN IT.

That's where Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is. The greatest remedy for the stomach that was ever put together. Absolutely vegtable with the exception of the Pepsin. Are you constipated? Then try Syrup Pepsin. Have you indigestion or sick headache? Then use Syrup Pepsin. Spend 10c for a trial bottle and you will be convinced. Large sizes 50c and $1.00. A true family remedy. At F. E. Davenports.

NO RINGS

Several papers of DeKalb county seem to have a burning desire to make their readers believe there are "rings" and "corruption" in DeKalb county, and in the court house. And it makes no difference with this unnatural taste whether the paper believes itself democratic or republican. When once a paper has acquired a taste for "rings" it is like a taste for whisky or tobacco, hard to get rid of. And we know an editor or two who has a taste for all three. But to come back to the subject just now, there is but one perty in the field, the democratic, and it has no "rings." We challenge these newspapers to name the men who compose these "rings" or the object they are trying to bring about. And until they do this, they might as well stop their perennial howl of "rings and ring rule." Chewing the string don't prove the bag is full of wheat. If the republicans have a ring later on these gentlemen can have a chance to tackle it.

Beats the Klondike.

Mr. A. C. Thomas, of Marysville, Texas, has found a more valuable discovery than has yet been made in the Klondike. For years he suffered untold agony from consumption, accompanied by hemorrhages; and was absolutely cured by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. He declares that gold is of little value in comparison with this marvelous cure; would have it even if it cost a hundred dollars a bottle. Asthma, Bronchitis and all all throat and lung affections are positively cured by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. Trial bottles free at H. B. McCord's Drug Store. Regular size 50 cts. and $1 00. Guaranteed to cure or price refunded. 2

Camp Notes.

The Angola Magnet has these in a recent issue:

Color Sergeant Howard Long has been devoting all his spare time in Spanish, and whenever a Cuban who cannot speak English visits camp he is called upon to interpret. Sergeant Long's fine coat of tan and his command of the Spanish language might lead an unsuspecting person to fancy him a native of Cuba.

The men of Co. A are taking full advantage of two or three long spindly pines in their company street by placing one hammock above another until they are about eight deep, and the man in the "upper berth" sleeps in the tree tops. Of course, it is a little inconvenient to climb to the top of a tree every time a man wishes to lie in his hammock; but space must be economized, and no doubt the boys enjoy the hammock's comfort much more after working so hard to get there.

And in another we find these:

Lieut. Wilson H. Denniston has received his commission as first lieutenant of Company I, Waterloo, Ind., to succeed Lieut. Charles V. Barr, resigned. Lieut. Charles A. McCague received his commission as second lieutenont, succeeding Lieut. Dennison. Private "Bill" Stradley, tuba player in the regimental band, killed a large rattle snake yesterday. While fishing in Tampa bay yesterday afternoon Private Enos Hannen, of Company B, Ft. Wayne, caught a red snapper weighing seven pounds.

Last evening shortly after supper Privates Forest B. Robbins and James O'Connor, of Company L, Ligonier, had quite a tilt in their company quarters. Trouble had been brewing between the two for several days. One word brought on another until blows were exchanged. Private Robbins drew a small dagger and struck O'Connor in the left shoulder, inflicting a severe gash. Several men rushed up and stopped the fight. Charges have been preferred against Private Robbins for assault with intent to kill, and the case will be tried by the general court-martial.

One soldier writes home:

Saturday night about 11 o'clock I was awakened and told to crawl out and see the rainbow. Of course, I got mad at being awakened, but was glad afterwards, for it was a very fine sight and one I had never seen before.

Saturday I took a trip over to the docks to see if I could find anything of interest to write about. I found three large transports, the Wanderer, Neuces and Lampasas, of New York, at the docks, being fitted out to accommodate the regiments which they will next carry to Cuba. They are putting rows of hooks all over the boats from top to bottom on which to hang hammocks. They are placed about 2½ feet apart with just enough room between to carry a man nicely. There are nine hammocks in a tier and the top one is about 20 feet above the lower one. If we should be lucky enough to get off in one of these boats I expect to see some fine aerial feats and leaps for life from those lofty heights.

Probable Terms.

When peace is restored between the United States and Spain it is believed it will be something like this:

Cuba must be delivered to the United States in trust until a stable government can be established there by its indabitants, or some other disposition can be accepted which will insure its perfect independence.

Porto Rico must be ceded absolutely to the United States.

The United States must retain a naval base and a port in the Philippines.

The United States must have a naval base in the Ladrone islands, and one in the Caroline islands.

These conditions are the least which the administration will accept, and they are the least which the senate will consent to have embodied in a treaty which must come to the senate for ratification.

The items enumerated are suggested primarily by the president in person.

HER PAPA.

(Boston Globe)

My papa's all dressed up today;
He never looked so fine;
I thought when I first looked at him.
My papa wasn't mine.
He's got a beautiful new suit—
The old one was so old—
It's blue, with buttons, oh, so bright
I guess they must be gold.
And my papa's sort o' glad and sort
O' sad—I wonder why;
And ev'ry time she looks at him
It makes my mamma cry.
Who's Uncle Sam? My papa says
That he belongs to him;
But papa's joking, 'cause he knows
My uncle's name is Jim.
My papa just belongs to me
And mamma. And I guess
The folks are blind who can not see
His buttons marked U. S.
U. S. spells us. He's ours—and yet
My mamma can't help cry,
And papa tries to smile at me
And can't—I wonder why?

Dangers of Luxury.

The home of the Editor of the St. Joe News caught fire the other evening from brimstone, that flew off a match. It caught in the fringe of the sofa, injuring that article as well as carpets and curtains. How in the world did an editor get a get a sofa with fringe on it, and carpets and curtains. And why didn't he start his fire by rubbing two sticks together as other newspaper men have to do. We hope this case will be a warning to Bro. Olds, to beware of the weakening and dangerous influences of modern luxury.

ARMY OF INVASION.

Gen. Miles Is Probably Now at Porto Rico.

Has Force Enough to Land When and Where He Chooses.

Madrid Authorities Are Notified of the Impending Attack on Manila.

A Batch of Miscellaneous Telegraph News from All Parts of the World.

Miles at Porto Rico.

At the War Department late Sunday it was calculated that Gen. Miles had arrived at a point in Porto Rico selected as the rendezvous for all expeditions. The General has with him sufficient artillery to hold any position he may choose to occupy, supplemented as this artillery will be by the guns of his naval convoy. Some of the troops now on the way from Tampa and Charleston should reach Porto Rico by the middle of the week. Miles may be delayed several days in landing for lack of lighters. It will be well along towards the end of this week before an active land campaign can be begun at Porto Rico.

Insurgents Still Fighting.

A telegram from Havana reports that the insurgents attacked Gibara, on the north coast of the Province of Santiago de Cuba, and that the garrison, after a fierce fight, evacuated the place. Many insurgents were killed.

Manila Must Fall.

A special from Madrid says Gen. Augusti, Captain General of the Philippines, has telegraphed his Government as follows: "The Americans are about to attack Manila. Grave events are impending."

Crazed by Religion.

Crazed by Christian science teachings Mrs. William Jones, a young married woman living on a farm a few miles south of Chillicothe, Ohio, killed her 6-months-old babe and cut her own throat. Mrs. Jones was found wandering around in the rainstorm with her babe in her arms. Friends took her to a place of shelter and a board of lunacy declared her insane, and ordered her confined at the Poor House until she could be transferred to the State Asylum. Her mania was that she and her babe could live without food. The other night, though closely watched, she procured a case-knife, and with it she cut and slashed her babe in a frightful manner. Before the attendants could reach and disarm her, the maniac drew the knife across her own throat.

Killed by Exploding Locomotive.

In an accident on the Central Pacific Railroad, opposite Towles Station, in Placer County, Cal., three persons were killed and four others injured. A fruit train bound for the East was toiling up the steep grade past the station of Dutch Flat, when the engine exploded. Engineer Kelly, Fireman Perry and a coal passer, whose name is unknown, were instantly killed. The explosion occurred near the boarding house of J. R. Faller. Mrs. Faller was painfully hurt about the head and hands by flying iron; Raymond Faller, aged 10, was severely cut and bruised; Lawrence Faller, aged 6, had his head badly cut, and Henry Disque of Colfax, was hurt in the back and several of his ribs were broken.

Congressman Grosvenor's Mission Abroad.

Congressman Charles H. Grosvenor and daughter Grace will sail from New York on the North German Lloyd steamer Trave. Mr. Grosvenor will spend one week in London, returning home August 20. On account of his relations with President McKinley it has been freely said his visit was in connection with an Anglo-American alliance, but he claims the trip is only for rest and recreation.

Struck by Lightning.

Lightning struck the house of William King in Pulaski, Mich., in which an ice-cream social was being held. Of nineteen persons in the same room only one escaped injury, and several members of the company were marked with a burned streak from head to foot and severely shocked.

Harvest Hands Are Scarce.

Farmers throughout the Dakotas and Nebraska have found themselves short of help for the harvest fields through the loss of men who have joined the army. The crop of grain is heavy and in some instances it is feared considerable loss will be sustained.

In Broad Daylight.

At Toledo, Ohio, two robbers entered a notion store at noon Saturday, knocked down Mrs. Madge, the proprietor, robbed the store of a large amount of money and made good their escape.

A South Dakota Murder.

The body of William Graham, a settler, who had been murdered, has been found at the bottom of a well in Gregory County, S. D. His wagon and harness were burned. Graham's team and dog returning home alone caused search to be instituted for him, with the above result.

Wayfarers Attack Trainmen.

Railroad men in the West claim to be in constant peril from harvest hands bound northward. The men travel in large parties and in several cases have seized freight trains to help them on their way. Several railroad men have been badly hurt in fights with them.

MINERS STARVE TO DEATH.

Japanese Owner of Sulphur Mines Leaves His Men to Die.

A case of wholesale murder, which seems hardly possible in this enlightened age, has just come to light in Japan. The victims were twenty-six sulphur miners and their murderer is no less a person than a wealthy owner of the mine, K. Makuza, who left them on an island to starve to death. The men were supplied with a few months' rations and no more notice was taken of them until a short time ago, when the owner of the mine received an order for a ship load of sulphur. He then sent a steamer to the island. The crew of the steamer, being unable to see any signs of life, paid a visit to the mine and in the rude cabins found the bodies of the twenty-six miners, who had starved to death. As there was no food of any kind on the island and as vessels seldom pass in sight of it the men were entirely helpless.

BIG MALTING PLANT BURNS.

David Stephenson Brewing Company of Oswego Lose by Lightning.

The magnificent malting plant of the David Stephenson Brewing Company at Oswego, N. Y., was totally destroyed by fire. The loss will be over $300,000, which is mostly covered by insurance. Fierce lightning, which visited the city at an early hour, was the cause of the fire. A small tower was the only part of the building constructed of wood, and this was struck twice. The watchman and firemen could do nothing when the flames reached the malt, over 200,000 bushels of which was stored in the bins. The Stephenson malthouse was built in 1884, at a cost of over $100,000, and nearly this sum has since been spent in repairs and improvements. The malt stored in the house was valued at nearly $200,000. The plant will probably not be rebuilt.

INDIANS WILL GO TO MEXICO.

Object to the Curtis Law and Will Seek a New Home.

Responsible persons from the Creek and Cherokee Indian nations bring news that both of these tribes are making hasty preparations to leave for Mexico, where they expect to make their future homes. It is said that most of the Indians of the five civilized tribes will follow their red brethren. They intend to abandon all their United States possessions. They do this because of their objection to the Curtis Indian bill passed by Congress, which they say takes from the Indians their ancient customs, prohibits them from enforcing their own laws and breaks up their tribal relations. When the terms of the new law were made known to the old "full-bloods" many of them wept and would not be comforted.

ACCIDENT TO WALES.

Prince Slips on a Stair and Sprains His Knee.

The London newspapers are creating a great deal of talk over the mishaps, more amusing than serious, which have befallen the Prince of Wales. While visiting at Wadesdon manor, Aylesbury, the prince slipped on a stair and sprained his knee. While being conveyed to the railroad station in a chair the latter broke and his highness received a shaking, but no injury.

Successful Submarine Test.

The Holland torpedo boat cavorted around New York bay in a mystifying and wonderful manner the other afternoon. The test was arranged for Lieut. Geelmuyden of the Swedish-Norwegian navy, a brilliant young officer whom King Oscar detailed to watch the work of American ships. Chief Engineer Lowe of the United States navy had been instructed by the Secretary of the Navy to examine and report the merits of the submarine craft. The Holland ran down the bay at ten-knot speed till she came nearly opposite the Crescent Athletic Club's boat house on the Bay Ridge shore. Then the turret cap was closed, the boat elevated her ugly nose a moment, and with an easy, gliding movement dived at an angle of fifteen degrees till the flags on her ten-foot jackstaff were dipping in the waves, and then slowly she circled, entirely submerged, about the tug which had accompanied her. The first descent lasted fifteen minutes. She came to the surface just in time to escape being run down by a big lumber schooner. The Holland discharged a dummy projectile from her forward gun. "It is a wonderful invention," said Lieut. Geelmuyden, after the trip. "Wonderful, indeed! The problem of submarine warfare appears to be solved. The boat handles marvelously well, afloat, awash or submerged. The range of her bow gun is much greater than I had expected. This boat may revolutionize naval warfare." "I had a most enjoyable trip," said Engineer Lowe, "and I'm the only naval officer in our service who has ever had the experience of a submarine cruise. Further, I may not say until I have made my report to the Secretary of the Navy."

Boats and Cargoes Sunk.

It was reported at St. Michaels when the St. Paul sailed for San Francisco that the Conemaugh from Seattle was overtaken in the Behring Sea by a hurricane and her tow, a river steamer laden with stores, was lost. Steamer and cargo were valued at $40,000. Two barges towed by the Alaska Commercial Company's Portland were lost in the same storm. They were valued at about $20,000. A similar fate overtook a new river boat, towed by the National City. The loss in the last case was $50,000. Only four river steamers had come down the Yukon at the date of the St. Paul departure. The May West, from Dawson, arrived at St. Michaels with 225 passengers. The North American Trading and Transportation Company's steamer Hamilton and the P. B. Weare arrived at St. Michaels, the Hamilton being in tow of the Weare, having broken her hog chains coming down the river. The Hamilton had 109 passengers and the Weare about fifteen. The Yukon river is unusually low this season and boats that are already at St. Michaels have slight chance of reaching Dawson. When the Bella came down she passed three river steamers stuck in the mud at Fort Yukon. The water in the river is not deeper than three feet in many places.

President Names Commissioners.

The President has appointed the following commissioners, to meet a similar commission on the part of Great Britain and Canada, for the purpose of adjusting the relations between the United States and Canada: Senator Charles W. Fairbanks of Indiana, Senator George Gray of Delaware, Representative Nelson Dingley of Maine, John A. Kasson of Iowa and John W. Foster of the District of Columbia.

Ohio Soldier Shot.

In the camp of battery G, 1st Ohio artillery, at Chickamauga, Arthur Millinger of Marengo accidentally shot Harry Guckert of Granville in the neck, inflicting probably a fatal injury. Guckert is paralyzed and Millinger prostrated.

Twenty-four Killed.

A dispatch from Gleiwitz, Prussian Silesia, says that twenty-four persons have been killed by a cage accident at the Paulus colliery, near Morgenrot.

Bloodshed Is Looked For.

Advices from Guatemala say that Prosper Morales, one of the leaders in the recent revolt against Barrios, who lately left San Francisco for Central America, has issued a proclamation directed against President Cabrera. This is evidently published to feel public opinion and to stir up sentiment against Cabrera. Morales is planning a grand coup, his intentions being to carry the forthcoming elections and assume the reins of government. He has not announced himself as a candidate for the presidency, but he makes no secret of his desire to defeat Cabrera, who would like to succeed himself. Blood seems likely to flow in Guatemala, as Morales is gathering an army and collecting arms and ammunition. He is now at Margues del Suchiate, not having dared to enter Quesaltenango. Some time ago Cabrera, who succeeded Barrios, issued a decree of amnesty to all political refugees, but Morales fears for his life should he take advantage of the decree, and he declares Cabrera is a worse tyrant than Barrios. Morales also declares his followers should not be disheartened over the failure of the recent revolt, as he is prepared to carry out the original program. His supporters are stirring up sedition in various cities. Many Government officials are discontented because of a failure to pay salaries for months.

TRAIN HELD UP IN TEXAS.

Lively Fight Between Bandits and Officers Near Fort Worth.

A south-bound Santa Fe passenger train was held up near Saginaw, Texas, by masked men. The robbers ordered the engine to run to North Fort Worth. The sheriff's posse, city officials and armed citizens went to the scene on a yard engine. Two men brought in the engine of the held-up train. The cab was literally perforated with bullets and covered with blood. The express car was shot full of holes. The robbers failed to get into the safe, the officers pouring such a hot fire into them. Six men did the work. Two boarded the engine at Saginaw and covered the engineer. They made him stop in a deep cut. Superintendent Pendell, who was on the train, and the crew went forward to see what was the matter. As they advanced toward the engine they were greeted with a fusillade from the west bank. The bullets went over their heads, but perforated the engine and express car. Engineer Joe Williams is probably fatally wounded. Nothing was obtained and nobody on the train was injured except those on the engine.

KILLS CHILD'S ABDUCTOR.

S. H. Taylor Shoots B. J. Sandys Without Warning in St. Louis.

Samuel H. Taylor, a traveling salesman for L. Loewenthal & Son, clothiers, met B. J. Sandys, the abductor of his little 9-year-old girl, in St. Louis, Mo., and shot him dead. Taylor had separated from his wife and had placed their child in the Episcopal Orphans' Home. Recently the mother and Sandys met the child in the street, coming from Sunday school, and after overpowering the matron in charge succeeded in boarding a street car and getting away with the little girl. The news reached Taylor, who was at that time in Oswego, Kan. He at once went to St. Louis and instituted an unsuccessful search for his child and her captors. While passing along Olive street he met Sandys, and without a word killed him.

Strike Is Compromised.

The strike of the packing house employes at Omaha, which for three days promised serious results, is ended. The result is a compromise, in that the men are to be paid for their work according to the hours they put in, but there will be no increase in wages. The point at the time of the strike was that the men should be paid for the time they actually put in at the plant. They claimed that sometimes they were called and were not given work for several hours after their arrival. For this lost time they wanted pay, and the companies were not inclined to dispute the claims. Cudahy's managers met the strikers and the terms of the agreement were arranged. Most of the men who have gone out promised to return to work. This also gave Armour a chance to start his big house. This meant employment for 2,000 men. The plant will kill 10,000 hogs, 2,000 cattle and 5,000 sheep daily, and its opening produced a heavy demand on the labor market of the West. Armour started in with a full force.

New Japanese Codes in Effect.

The Japanese Government has notified the powers that the new commercial codes went into operation on July 1, and that the civil code became operative on July 16. It is reported that the United States minister to Corea, H. N. Allen, has concluded an agreement at Seoul with the Corean minister for the engagement of American experts to survey the country with a view of building roads, bridges and other public works.

Disastrous Fire on the Wear.

A great fire that broke out in Sunderland, at the mouth of the Wear, in England, destroyed thirty business buildings in three of the principal streets.

Fancher Is Nominated.

Fred Fancher, who has been insurance commissioner for two years, has been nominated for Governor by the Republicans of North Dakota.

Killed by a Train.

Richard Turpin, a wealthy resident of Brookfield, Mo., was run over and instantly killed by a Santa Fe passenger train near Marceline.

WILL CARRY THE WAR INTO SPAIN.

COMMODORE J. C. WATSON.

The commander of the new eastern squadron and his captains.

OUR SPANISH PRISONERS.

They Presented a Pitiable Spectacle on Landing at Portsmouth.

The Spanish prisoners captured by the American navy at Santiago arrived at Portsmouth, N. H., Sunday and the following day were taken ashore, where they are confined in huge barracks on Seavey's Island. A correspondent gives this description of the landing from the St. Louis:

The first prisoner to land was slender and about medium height, with a black beard. He wore two articles of clothing, a soiled canvas jumper and a pair of dirty canvas trousers. He was without hat or shoes, and looked with a curious, shifty glance at the old farm house and apple trees which monopolized the land view. Behind him came the procession of prisoners. They were nearly all dressed in duck trousers and jumpers, although some had duck caps and a few blue shirts or ragged flannel coats. Nearly all were barefoot. As they formed in irregular groups on the side of the steep incline they looked like castaways. They were a thin, hungry looking lot, without baggage and generally with dark, unkempt beards. They did not seem dissatisfied with their lot. The spectacle which the captured Spaniards presented when they came ashore was so pitiful on the whole, that the Yankee crowd expressed good will and pity rather than hatred.

TORAL WILL BE TRIED.

Madrid Government Gave the Spanish General No Instructions.

Madrid advices say that the conditions of surrender agreed to by Gen. Toral are opposed to the military code, and have created a painful impression in the army. Captain General Blanco repudiates responsibility for the capitulation. The ministers do not believe that the troops outside of Santiago were included in the surrender, and they anticipate that some of them will refuse to lay down their arms. Gen. Toral will be court martialed for surrendering Santiago to the Americans, but it is not probable that he will be punished. The Government did not authorize the surrender, but instructed Captain General Blanco to leave the initiative to Gen. Toral. The military code prescribes imprisonment for life for any officer who surrenders the forces of fortified posts which, although dependent upon his command, are not included in the action causing capitulation. Toral's surrender will be submitted to the supreme military council. All the ministers repudiate responsibility for the surrender of Santiago and other places in eastern Cuba.

GENERAL PANDO.

TREATMENT OF WOUNDS.

It Has Been Such that Not a Single Case of Blood Poisoning Is Reported.

As soon as a surgeon reaches a wounded man his first act is to bathe the wound with bichloride of mercury and dress it with antiseptic gauze, and Dr. Van Reypen, the surgeon general of the navy, says that thus far in the war not a single case of blood poisoning had been reported. Among the 450 wounded men at Fortress Monroe there is not one who is suffering from inflammation nor one whose wounds are discharging pus. The mercury kills all germs, keeps the lacerated flesh sweet and clean and causes it to heal rapidly. No lint is used in dressing; sterilized gauze is found much better in all respects.

MANZANILLO BOMBARDED.

Seven American Warships Attack the Headquarters of Pando.

Manzanillo, which is on the western coast of Santiago province, about ninety miles from Santiago, was bombarded Monday by seven American warships. Two Spanish gunboats—the Delgado and the Paraja—resisted the attack and were set on fire by shells from the American vessels. The gunboats were burned to the water's edge. Many of the Spanish sailors were killed by the explosion of the shells.

PREDICTS WAR WITH CUBANS.

Army Officer Says Fighting Will Begin Within Two Weeks.

At Norfolk, Va., an army officer of wide experience and intimate knowledge of the Cubans made the startling prediction that "within two weeks we shall be fighting the Cubans." He said further: "The Cubans are already dissatisfied with American methods. They want to kill their prisoners, and cannot understand why we do not allow them to do so. They do not want to be annexed to the United States, and the end of it is going to be a fight with a people whose cause we have espoused."

WAR NEWS IN BRIEF.

In the Philippines the insurgents and Americans are acting independently.

Heavy sentences are imposed at Chickamauga on sentries who sleep while on duty.

The auxiliary cruiser Eagle recently destroyed the large Spanish steamer Santo Domingo at Cape Francis.

Gen. Aguinaldo, the leader of the Philippine insurgents, is fighting for annexation to the United States.

The dynamite cruiser Nictheroy purchased from the Brazilian Government will be turned into a collier.

Admiral Dewey is managing the Germans with great diplomacy and does not expect serious trouble with them.

Over 500 men are at work on the cruiser Yorktown at Mare Island navy yard, San Francisco, rushing her to completion.

Orders have been received at the navy yard, Charlestown, Mass., to expend $10,000 in repairs upon the old frigate Minnesota.

Advices from Havana state that conditions are constantly growing worse and that shark meat is regarded as a dainty there.

Nearly all the people of South American countries are in sympathy with Spain and refuse to believe stories of American victories.

The repairs to dry dock No. 3 at the Brooklyn navy yard have been completed. It can accommodate the largest vessels in our navy.

The Red Cross Society is feeding the people of Santiago, where thousands are destitute, the supply of food in the city being exhausted.

Yellow fever is decreasing in the army at Santiago, though the sanitary conditions in the captured city are such as to invite an epidemic.

Gen. Toral may lay claim to a high pinnacle of fame as being the only Spaniard up to date who had sense enough to know when he was trounced.

The Spanish steamer Panama, one of the first of the enemy's vessels captured after war was declared, has been refitted for use as a transport.

Gov. Lowndes of Maryland has announced that the State will present a sword of honor to Commodore Schley, who is a native of Frederick County.

Ex-Senator Don Cameron of Pennsylvania has offered to the Government for a military hospital the free use of his fine estate on the South Carolina coast.

The United States Government will establish an extensive weather bureau in the Caribbean sea for the use of all nations whose interests lie in that region.

Pythians who would engage in active war service have been notified that their certificates of endowment and all claims thereunder will be considered null and void.

During the naval battle at Santiago, in which Cervera's fleet was destroyed, the Oregon alone fired 1,776 shells. The destruction caused by some of the shots was fearful.

Captain McKettrick.

Captain William McKettrick, the man who raised the Stars and Stripes over the palace of the conquered Santiago de Cuba, is a son-in-law of Gen. Shafter and a member of the general's staff.

Manila Ready to Give Up.

Advices brought by the Empress of India indicate that Manila is ready to surrender. Intimations come from many sources that the military officials are willing to haul down the flag, but that the civil and church authorities are opposed to capitulating.

Output of Smokeless Powder.

The output of smokeless powder for the Navy Department is steadily increasing, and the ordnance bureau is receiving more than 8,000 pounds daily for the big guns.

Have Little Use for Cruisers.

The guns are being taken off the ruined Spanish ships by Government lighters. The examiners conclude from the damage done to the armored cruisers that they are not a greatly serviceable type of warships, as their engine rooms are easily incapacitated. The battleship is the vessel best adapted for heavy fighting.

Volunteer Signal Corps Recruited.

The seventeen companies of the volunteer signal corps have now been recruited to their full strength. Each company consists of sixty-three persons, including officers and men, and a company is to be assigned to each division of the army.

PICTURE OF DEJECTION.

How Cervera Looked When He Arrived at Portsmouth.

Of all the prisoners, writes a correspondent in detailing the events at Portsmouth, N. H., Sunday, when the Spanish prisoners arrived there on board the St. Louis, chief interest centered in Admiral Cervera. He is not Spanish in type, being short and thick and wearing a full gray beard. He was the picture of a brave, resolute man enduring a misery that is unbearable. He spoke slowly, and in referring to the events at Santiago gave the impression that he would have wished to be with the gallant but dead Villamil. He speaks English to some extent. Admiral Cervera was dressed in a blue serge undress uniform, the coat of which was much too long for him. It was loaned by Lieut. Commander Wainwright of the Gloucester, who found him swimming in his undershirt and took him into a boat. He appeared to feel his humiliation terribly. During the trip north he was accustomed to stand for hours leaning against the rail and gazing very far seaward—beyond the vanishing point, as it appeared. Every officer and man on the ship lost no opportunity to show their kindly feelings. From the youngest sailor to Capt. Goodrich, every American, by look, act or word, did what lay in his power to lighten the sorrows of this old man's heart.

SLAPPED SHAFTER.

Newspaper Correspondent Gains an Unenviable Distinction.

Sylvester Scovel, who has won for himself the unenviable distinction of being the only civilian in history who slapped the face of a major general in that officer's hour of supreme triumph, is a newspaper reporter who is possessed of undoubted daring and recklessness. Mr.

SYLVESTER SCOVEL.

Scovel tried to push his way, against orders, to the roof of the palace in Santiago when the Stars and Stripes was being hoisted, and was forced back. After the ceremony he made his way to Gen. Shafter and struck that hero in the face with his palm. He was arrested at once, and the rules of war allow that he may be drumheaded and shot.

POISONED WITH HASH.

Fifteen Soldiers at Camp Alger Expected to Die.

Fifty-five men of Company A, 22d Kansas infantry, at Camp Alger, were poisoned by eating hash. The meat used in making the hash was cooked in a tin-lined kettle. The corroding kettle spoiled the meat, and is ascribed as the cause of the violent sickness experienced by the men. Surgeon Duncan diagnosed their affection as a severe case of ptomaine poisoning. Fifteen of the men are seriously ill and are not expected to live.

SAD HAVOC IN HAVANA.

Disease and Starvation Decimating Spanish Soldiers.

Starvation and disease are working dire havoc with Blanco's soldiers in Havana. Refugees from Havana reiterate and confirm the tale of suffering. Food for the poorer people is scarcely obtainable, deaths from starvation occur daily, while the Spannish soldiers stalk famished through the streets, going from house to house of the wealthier class begging for food.

EXPEDITION REACHES GOMEZ.

Spaniards Resisted Landing at Tunas and Were Whipped.

Reports from the south coast of Cuba say that the first attempt of the Florida and Fanita to land troops and supplies for Gomez resulted in a sanguinary battle, and Captain Nunez, brother of Col. Nunez, and several others were killed. The Fanita returned the fire and forced the Spanish artillerists to retreat to the woods, but it was decided not safe to land there, and the boats went to Las Tunas, where a landing was effected.

CONTRACT GOES TO SPAIN.

Spanish Company Will Take Santiago Prisoners to Their Homes.

Arrangements have been concluded by the Government for the transportation of the Spanish prisoners at Santiago from Cuba to Spain. The contract was awarded to the Spanish Transatlantique Company. The company agrees to carry the prisoners from Cuban ports to Spain at the rate of $20 for each enlisted man and $55 for each commissioned officer, subsistence to be furnished by the company on the army ration basis, as provided for in the Government's advertisement for bids.

WAR HISTORY OF A WEEK.

Saturday.

Gen. Toral surrendered on the terms proposed by President McKinley, and Spanish power in eastern Cuba is at an end.

Since Ambassador White's Fourth of July speech the tone of the German press has materially changed in favor of America.

Gen. Azcarraga, the former Spanish premier, is said to be on a mission sounding the European cabinets touching peace negotiations.

Admiral Cervera and other Spanish naval officers captured at Santiago arrived at Annapolis and are confined at the naval academy.

Toral's request that his soldiers be allowed to retain their arms was denied, and the guns will become the property of the United States.

Sunday.

Two sharp skirmishes preceded Toral's final surrender. At Baracoa the Annapolis destroyed a Spanish blockhouse which opened fire upon her, and at Guantanamo Spaniards who tried to lure a launch from the Marblehead to destruction were vigorously shelled.

The Spanish troops under command of Gen. Toral left their trenches at Santiago and marched into the American lines, where, one by one, the regiments laid down their arms. At the same time the Spanish flag was hauled down and the Stars and Stripes hoisted in its place. Gen. McKibbin has been appointed temporary military governor. The Spanish troops had partly looted the town.

Monday.

The schooner Three Bells and the sloop Pilgrim, captured by the gunboat Dixie near Manzanillo, July 6, have arrived at Key West in charge of a prize crew.

President McKinley issued a proclamation declaring United States military power supreme in eastern Cuba, and declaring that the people and their property would be protected.

Seven of our little gunboats entered the harbor at Manzanillo and destroyed three Spanish transports, a pontoon used as an ammunition ship, and five gunboats. Not one of our vessels was injured.

One of Admiral Dewey's ships overhauled the German cruiser Irene near Manila, halting her by a shell fired across her bows. The German admiral protested, but is said to have been informed that Dewey insisted on the right of search.

Tuesday.

Sylvester Scovel, the correspondent who slapped Gen. Shafter's face, has been sent to Siboney as a prisoner.

Gen. Miles' departure from Guantanamo for Porto Rico delayed owing to failure of orders from Washington to reach him.

The Red Cross Society is feeding the people of Santiago, where thousands are destitute, the supply of food in the city being exhausted.

Reports from Santiago are that strained relations exist between the Cubans and our troops owing to the refusal of our Government to turn over the city to them.

There are indications that the Spanish Government will court-martial Gen. Toral for surrendering Santiago, the claim being set up that he was not expected to surrender any other garrison than his own.

Wednesday.

Two transports sailed from Charleston, S. C., loaded with troops comprising the first expedition for the invasion of Porto Rico.

Contract for transporting Spanish prisoners from Santiago to Spain has been awarded to the Spanish Transatlantique Company.

Reports from Santiago are that the Spanish and American soldiers are fraternizing, and that the people are glad to be freed from Spanish misgovernment.

Sentiment in Madrid is said to be pronounced in favor of an American protectorate in Cuba in preference to independence, on the theory that property rights would thereby be more secure.

Thursday.

Gen. Miles left Guantanamo for Porto Rico.

The converted yacht Mayflower captured the British steamer Newfoundland, from Halifax, which attempted to run the blockade at Havana.

Spanish troops at Manila defeated the insurgents with considerable loss on being attacked. The second expedition from San Francisco has arrived.

Madrid advices say there is no indication of peace proposals. The Government continues inactive, while the people are demanding peace at any price.

Announced by Secretary Long that the expedition to Spain has not been abandoned, but has been deferred until the Porto Rico campaign permits the withdrawal of the ships.

As the result of the ill feeling between our troops at Santiago and the Cubans, Gens. Garcia and Castillo have determined to cease co-operation with our troops, and will conduct an independent campaign against the Spaniards, first attacking Holguin.

Friday.

The first detachment of troops from Chickamauga left for Newport News to embark for Porto Rico.

Aguinaldo has proclaimed dictatorship over the Philippines and refuses to subordinate himself to American authority. Debarkation of American troops rapidly continues near Manila.

Reported that 5,000 Spaniards included in Toral's capitulation, while marching to Santiago to surrender to Shafter, were ambushed by 4,000 Cubans under Garcia, but put the latter to rout after hot fighting.

Lieut. Hobson, hero of the Merrimac episode, arrived in New York on the cruiser St. Paul and proceeded to Washington. He was sent to confer with the Government regarding raising Cervera's ships.

News of Minor Note.

At Irvine, Ky., Pleas Hill was acquitted of the murder of Ambrose Christopher.

The negroes in the United States represent about 12 per cent of the entire population.

A man was killed in a fight at Salisaw, I. T., and a bystander and the mother of the victim fell dead from fright.

A mountain fire is raging in the vicinity of Arrowhead, near Waterman Canon, Cal. Many orange and pear trees have been ruined.

Dick Humphreys dropped dead in his yard near Bryan, Texas. He had lived in Brazos County forty years.

T. N. Gardner of Atchison, Kan., fell from the top of a wheat bin at the Kansas Central elevator, in Leavenworth, and was crushed to death forty-five feet below. Mr. Gardner was one of a gang of bridge carpenters for the Missouri Pacific.

Pink Hodges, ex-City Marshal of Kyle, Texas, was shot and fatally wounded by Frank Martin, a well-known business man of the place. They had renewed an old quarrel. Hodges was wearing a steel breastplate, but a number of the shots penetrated his body.

THE MAKING OF A SOLDIER.

Joe Jerry hoed in a stony field,
Under a sweltering sun.
The boy and the rock and the native weed
Fought for the life in a battered seed,
And the struggle was just begun.

"Get out of the mud and follow me,"
Said the man with the better clothes.
"Against you are vermin and drought and frost;
You will anger nature with labor lost—
Come where a fair wind blows."

But the boy digged on in the stony field,
With the struggle barely begun.
"I put the seed in this ground," said he,
"I think I had better stay and see Whatever may be done."

* * * * * * *

Joe Jerry quarried and placed the stones,
And fitted the timbers true.
Then his neighbors came, with fevered eyes;
"Gold!—pans of gold—just where it lies!
Shall we wait a day for you?"

A soft voice rifted the evening calm,
Singing the death of day.
A tired child came and went with a kiss,
"I have a wife and a home—and this;
I think I had better stay."

"War! On to war!"—and the cry came near—
"There is honor, or fame, for all!"
"I have a dying wife and these;
I shall stay with them if God so please."
But he went at the second call.

"Come on!" they cried. "It's death to wait!"
His face was bleeding and grim;
He picked a rifle out of the dirt
And answered simply: "The Captain's hurt;
I think I'll stay with him."

The Gold of Silence.

An Army Tragedy.

More harm has been wrought in this world by the gold of silence than by the silver of speech. Especially is this true of matters of the heart.

Farland came to realize it in the end; but as he left the commanding officer and walked in his deliberate way across the hop-room to where Miss Cameron stood, he was priding himself upon his ability to hold his tongue, and, with a wretched sort of vainglory, nerving himself to hold it for seven hours longer.

Miss Cameron was talking to the regimental quartermaster, and when she caught sight of Farland, she grew radiant. The regimental quartermaster observed this, and was, of course, annoyed. He went away and left her with the lieutenant.

It is the fate of a woman to be forever smiling. Few men have learned to distinguish that eternal smile. Those who have, have observed the subtlest tragedies of life.

Farland was not one of them. He was too distinctly manly to understand women. He was, therefore, strengthened in his resolve to keep silence when Miss Cameron's expression in nowise changed as he told her that she must excuse him from the next dance.

"I have just seen the colonel, and he has been pleased to inform me that I must leave at reveille."

"For what portion of the globe?"

She gazed over his shoulder in apparent absorption in something at the other side of the room. If Farland had been a student of the sex he would have known that this was overacting. It was one of the many of Miss Cameron's charms that she usually fixed her entire attention upon the person at hand.

"Where are you going?" she repeated.

"To join Blake's command. After that, wherever the will of heaven and the craft of the Apache may lead me."

For just one instant her expression changed. But Farland was not acute.

"Upon a scout, then?" she asked.

"Upon a scout, yes. And as I have to leave before reveille, and, as it is now eleven o'clock, there is no time to be lost."

Miss Cameron was smiling again.

"You will not sleep much to-night. Things must be serious."

"They are," he told her.

There was a pause—one of those intervals when the gods benumb our mental powers that instinct may have fair play. But we defeat their ends. We have trained instinct to lie quiet.

The lieutenant moved uneasily. Miss Cameron, with the delicate much-sung discernment of woman, thought him restless to be gone. She drew herself up to her full height, determined that she was indifferent and hard, and his resolution was enforced.

"You must not let me keep you," she said.

Farland was too well trained to allow his anger and unhappiness to appear in more than an exaggerated unconcern. He took her extended hand.

"Shall you be here when I return?" he asked. His resolution was near to breaking. If her tawny eyes had grown ever so little soft, he would have flung his golden wealth of silence to the winds. But her pride was mighty, and it was aroused.

"My visit comes to an end this week," she said.

"We shall probably meet again," he ventured.

She shrugged her shoulders negligently.

"Probably. One can never be sure that one has seen the last of anybody, in the army." And then she added: "Good-by."

She would have been glad to bow her head upon her arms and to have kept her heartache in silence. Instead, she gave the dance which was to have been Farlands to a married captain, and succeeded perfectly in her effort to appear to enjoy it.

And Farland went out, morally and bodily, into the night. His was the code of honor—which considers not the woman—that holds that if a man may not ask a woman to marry him then and there, neither may he tell her of his love. He thought he was doing right, and he was not one to rail at Fate. A little tempest of temptation had ruffled the deep waters of his conscience for a time. But they were calm again. He remembered with resentment the haughtily poised head, and the placid smile, and the last glimpse he had caught of her through the hop-room window—a yellow-gowned figure, swaying to the music in full enjoyment of life.

Well, she would have gone back to Bayard by the time of his return, and one could never be sure one would not forget—after years. He went into the barracks and gave his orders.

When the brass mouths of the bugles pealed their reveille welcome to the sun, as it shown above the mountains, far across the prairie, Farland and his command were trotting toward Mount Graham, and Miss Cameron, still in the yellow gown, stood at her window with her hands clasped before her, and watched the line of the receding column.

Farland stopped at Bayard two months later. The scout was over, and he was taking his command back to Fort Grant. They were to strike the railroad at Silver City, nine miles away, upon the following day.

He meant to see Miss Cameron. There was no longer a reason for silence. He waited with impatience while the commandant arranged for the disposition of the men. Then he walked with him across the parade. The primroses of the evening were opening, a great, pale flower bursting out here and there in the grass, until, even as he went, all the ground was starred with them, and the children from the officers' line and the laundresses' row were running, laughing, and screaming, and calling out, to gather the handfuls of fragile bloom that would be wilted before tattoo.

Upon occasions of necessity the commandant's long, lank body could bestir itself; but there was no such occasion now, and Major Cameron resented Farland's haste.

"I say, Farland," he protested, "slow up. What is your hurry? You will not get dinner before retreat, anyway."

Little the lieutenant recked of dinner. But he obliged himself to walk more reasonably. Major Cameron talked of the scout and its outcome. Farland tried to listen and to answer. In his joyful anticipation he forgot that he was a sorry-looking sight to go a-wooing, that his face was burned, his nose peeling, and his hair half-cut, and his clothes ragged and dusty Self-consciousness was not one of his faults. The major broke off suddenly in the midst of a tirade against Indian agents, those pet aversions of the line.

"I suppose you are about worn out," he said.

"No," said Farland; "not in the least. Why?"

"You appear not to be able to keep your mind upon anything. You have no notion of what I said last."

"You said 'Mescaleros' last."

"But you have no idea whatever what I said about the Mescaleros."

"I am afraid that's so," Farland admitted.

"And over there at the coral you answered three questions that I hadn't asked."

Farland apologized civilly. But he had seen, through the window, Miss Cameron standing with clasped hands and head thrown back, before the open fire. It was a favorite pose with her, and it recalled so much. The major might as well have addressed his concluding remarks to the flagstaff.

They went into the hall, and the commandant opened the door. "There is Clare," he said; "I believe you know each other. I will go and get Mrs. Cameron." He went away and closed the door again.

Farland was not demonstrative. But neither was he one to delay in carrying out a resolve. He took the hand that the girl held out to him, and then went to the fire-place, and rested his arm upon the mantel and looked at her speculatively.

"I am going to be very rash," he said, "and very precipitate."

She smiled incredulously. "How unlike you!" she said.

"Perhaps; but it is not unlike me to go straight to the point, I think."

She vouchsafed no encouragement. "It is not," was all she answered. She had long since determined that he was an unscrupulous flirt—worse than that, indeed, because he made more pretensions than most men. Now, when she looked into his keen gray eyes, that consoling fiction vanished. She wondered why he did not speak at once of the one thing that might reasonably be expected to be of interest—to herself, at least. But she folded her hands in front of her again, and stood very erect.

When I saw you last in the hop-room at Grant," he said, "I was to all intents and purposes upon half-pay. My mother was alive then, and I was supporting her."

She looked at him, puzzled. Why should he tell her this now? While there had yet been time he had been chary enough of his confidences. While there had yet been time——. She looked at him as he stood there before the fire, young and strong, with his pistol-belt showing beneath his faded blouse, the kerchief knotted around his neck, the dusty boots with their spurred heels, his face so absurdly sun and wind burned, glowing with blonde redness in the fire-light. While there had yet been time——. She checked an inclination to throw out her arms and cry aloud.

"That is why," he went on, "I did not feel justified in telling you—though you might, I should think, have seen—that I loved you."

She went up to him and put her hand upon his shoulder, and tried to speak.

"Well, what?" he asked. He was submitting dully to some blow which he saw, in her hardening eyes, was going to fall.

"I"—she was forcing the words from her throat with a harsh, dry sound—"I married Captain Whitcomb three weeks ago, because—I did not know."

Farland turned away and drew a chair near to the fire. The movement was quite natural, quite free from any gesture of tragedy. He was too stunned to feel the pain at once. That would come afterward, and stay through many years. He sat down in the chair and watched the flaming mesquite-root. It was a little hard for him to draw his breath, and the pain was beginning now, too.

Clare stood upon the other side of the hearth, and looked dully ahead of her. Then she draw her hand, slowly, across her eyes.

"I must go home," she said.

Farland did not answer her, and she went out and closed the door.—Gwendolen Overton, in the Argonant.

THE VETERAN'S STORY.

The Absolutely True Tale of How the Sergeant Sent the News to the General.

The veteran, in the dingy uniform that might have been gray or blue, was perhaps a shade indefinite as to where he had experienced the stories he was telling, but he was an interesting old fellow, and his listeners had been reading too many war tales sent by special messengers to newspapers to worry about the details so long as the results were good. So they filled up the narrator's beer mug and set him going again.

"One of the oddest things," he said, with the calm confidence of truth, "that I can remember happened to my brother and me, both of us being members of a battery. On one occasion we had been watching the enemy for a week, trying to keep him from crossing a river until our reinforcements had got up, but the rains had set in and the men couldn't move, and we were pretty sure that the enemy was up to some dodge or other that was going to wipe us off the face of the earth, for he had ten times as many men and guns as we had to meet him with. Of course, that made the commanding officers dead blue, and they offered all sorts of inducements for some of our fellows to go over and find out what was up. I suppose a dozen or more went, to ten times that many who volunteered to go, but none came back, and we wasn't any better off than we were before.

"One morning I told the General that my brother and me had a scheme to get the information he wanted, and if he would agree to promote us both if we got it, we'd try for it. He mighty near agreed to make Brigadiers of us, but we compromised on sergeants, and my brother left for the other side, after telling me good-bye. For two days we did not hear from him, and on the third the enemy got a 12-pound gun into a position the battery I was with had been fighting him away from for a week, and I got a blast from the Major, but I never said a word. Neither did the General; and my poor brother—nobody knew where he was.

"Strange to say, our battery didn't open up on the enemy, either, in his new position, and the officers began to look worried, waiting to hear from the General in command. About 10 o'clock in the morning the enemy's gun let loose with a roar that tore the ground up, and a shell that looked to me as big as a barrel come flying across the river and hit in a sand pile in the rear of our battery. In a minute I had broke for that sand pile and was scratching like a dog at a rabbit hole, and pretty soon I come out with the shell in my arms and was cutting across lots for the General's tent.

"I never stopped to ask any questions of the folks at our battery, but got to the General as soon as I could, and rushing right into his tent, I dropped that hot shell into a bucket of water and out again, and let into the vent of it with a hatchet. Well, to make a long story short, on the inside of the shell where the blow-up stuff usually it was a communication from my brother signed Sergeant John Smith, giving the General the very kind of information he was crazy to git hold of, and it fixed him so that he knocked the enemy galley west in no time. My brother had got onto it easy enough, for it wasn't such a great secret over there what they was going to do. They only trouble was we hadn't been able to git back with it when our men went over after it. My brother got onto a plan, though, by loading it into the shell and firing it from the gun in the position he had got for it, when the enemy couldn't have done it in a month. That was the scheme we worked, and my brother, being a fine gunner, had no trouble getting in with the artillery company, especially when he went to the officers with a story about how he could get the gun in the position that they had been trying so long to get and couldn't, owing to our battery on the other bank of the river. He was a great strategist, was my brother.

"No," sighed the veteran, "he never got his promotion, though I did mine, as the General said I should. My brother was killed at the battery he fired the shell from, and by the guns of his own friends. Just as like as not I done it myself, but that is war."—

The Origin of X-Ray.

Professor Rontgen came upon his marvellous X-rays—which have opened out new fields of research in physical science, besides being of far-reaching practical utility in surgery and other departments—quite by chance. He was experimenting in the dark with a Crookes vacuum tube, which was covered with some sort of cloth. A strong electric current was passed through it, while close by was some prepared photographic paper, but no camera. Next day he noticed several lines on this paper for which he could not account. By restoring everything to exactly the same condition as on the preceding day, he was able to ascertain the real origin of these mysterious marks.—Chambers' Journal.

A New Device for Raising Ships.

In a new French apparatus for raising sunken vessels a number of cells of calcium carbide are maintained on board in such a position that gas is generated as soon as the vessel sinks and stored in collapsible bags under the decks, thus raising the ship immediately, which might be the means of saving many lives.

It costs about $1,000 to build an electric cab of the kind now in use in Paris.

FAME FOR SHAFTER.

HOW THE CONQUEROR OF SANTIAGO HAS RISEN.

His Career an Example of America's Possibilities—Yearned for Military Life While Working Upon a Farm—Rapid Promotion in the Civil War.

His Glory Self-Won.

Major General William Rufus Shafter, conqueror of Santiago, military hero in the war with Spain, was born and grew to manhood near Galesburg, Mich., and many are the stories that are being told of his boyhood by men who knew him when he was a lanky, barefooted lad, working on his father's farm. General Shafter's career is an object lesson upon the glorious possibilities of this land of the free. He was like Abraham Lincoln. He was a commoner. He grew right up out of the soil. If the civil war had not come along it is possible that General Shafter would still be a Michigan farmer.

He never had a taste for the husbandman's life. As a boy he groaned over his work—not that he did not like work,

GEN. WM. R. SHAFTER.

but that he detested what work he had to do. His father was the plainest of plain farmers. His mother was a farmer's wife, whose life's horizon was bounded by her kitchen, her poultry-yard, her "front room" and the meeting-house. The elder Shafter was a Michigan pioneer who hewed wood and drew water and built the traditional log house with its one and a half stories, and brought up his two sons, John and William, in the fear of God and to hard work.

LOG HOUSE IN WHICH GEN. SHAFTER WAS BORN.

The military soul of William—and of John, for that matter—revolted against the field and harvest and the sowing and the reaping. William had an ambition to go to West Point, but the military academy was as far beyond his reach as was the lost Pleiad. He might as well have pined for the crown of Russia. He knew he wished to be one thing—a soldier—and he knew there was not the remotest chance to gratify his ambition.

One thing, however, he could do. He could read books. Higher education does not particularly help a man to make hay and guide a plow, and young Shafter got no schooling. But he read history, chiefly about battles and armies and arms. He saw mistakes that were made by the world's generals. He read up on mathematics, and carried his intellect high among the refinements of ratios and equations. He studied the growth of the modern regiment from the battle line of the Greeks through the Macedonian phalanx and the Roman legion down to the modern soldier with his cartridges and his gun.

So was spent his youth and his manhood. Working on the farm, reading his books, longing and thirsting for opportunity with the military academy on another planet! He was born in the log house his father built and lived within its narrow walls until he was 25 years old. The old house still stands. Hugh Shafter, the father, and Mrs. Shafter died long since, and their graves are within a five minutes' walk of the house. Hugh Shafter was a model father, and John and William were model sons. They were obedient and filial. The life of that family was as dull and uneventful as that of any agricultural household. William's ambition for militarism was apparently hopeless, and he had just begun to reconcile himself to a life of drudgery when the bugle blast from the lips of "the great commoner" in the White House roused the nation to arms and thrilled the very nerves of the whole people. Young Shafter was at last to have his way.

The two brothers went to the war and the patriotic father bade them a sturdy good-by. William enlisted as a lieutenant in the Seventh Michigan infantry. His commission bore date of Aug. 22, 1861. He was exceptionally gallant. War to him was pabulum. He burned with it. He fought so well that he was a major within a month. Two years later he was made a lieutenant colonel, and toward the end of the war he was brevetted brigadier general.

Career in the Civil War.

William Shafter's exploits in the war cover the siege of Yorktown, West Point, Fair Oaks, Savage Station Glendale and Malvern Hill. His brother John had meanwhile won the rank of captain. When peace came they returned to the farm and went to plowing, sowing and reaping once more. But both entered applications for commissions in the regular army. After two years of woodchopping the brothers were ordered to St. Louis to pass the examination. Both came out of it with flying colors, and were about to be commissioned when the father objected. One of his boys must stay at home, and John, owing to his inferior rank, agreed to let his brother have the prize. William Shafter was given a lieutenant colonelcy and was ordered to the Forty-first infantry.

For thirty years he lived beyond the mountains or in them, and the people of the East did not know his name. For nearly twenty years he was the colonel of the First infantry, and saw men rise from posts subordinate to his to be brigadier generals. He did what he thought was best for his regiment, and not always what his officers would have liked him to do. He bore up bravely under the stress of this opposition until a year ago, when President McKinley made him a brigadier general.

When the general got his brigadier's straps he was placed in command at San Francisco. His life in the West and on the coast had the usual effect. It made him a heavy weight. He is a tremendously big man. Almost six feet tall—rare stature for a commander—he weighs 300 pounds, and his avoirdupois has been the occasion of many a jest, which he has taken pretty well. He has a will that is in keeping with his physique. What he wills to do he does. He has the heroic stuff of a Grant in his make-up.

BRAVED BULLETS.

The Adventure of a Cuban Patriot Among a Band of Spaniards.

During the early part of the Cuban rebellion an officer in the patriot army wanted a few packages of cigarettes, and to obtain them went openly into a town held by the Spanish soldiers, purchased what he desired and safely retreated, holding at bay, single-handed, 200 Spanish soldiers who attempted to capture him.

This officer is Maj. Henry E. Brooks, who recently came to New York from Jamaica, where he went to recover from wounds received in battle.

Maj. Brooks, who was born in the province of Santiago de Cuba of English parents, was among the first to engage in the insurrection aaginst Spain. When in command of the Cuban forces around Guantanamo he ran out of cigarettes, so he left his command in charge of the next officer in rank and started for Guantanamo to get them. He crossed the long bridge leading into the city and proceeded to a cigar store. He had with him his repeating rifle, his revolver and the always present machete. In telling of his adventure in Guantanamo Maj. Brooks said:

"Yes, I did have a little fun there. You see I wanted some cigarettes and decided to go after them. I got into the town all right and entered the cigar store. I placed my rifle on the counter where it was handy and bought what I wanted. Just after I had placed the cigarettes in my pocket I happened to look toward the door, and there I saw a party of Spanish soldiers drawn up in line. They had their guns pointed at me and their officer said in Spanish the words which in English mean 'hands up.' Instead of doing that I grabbed my rifle and let go a shot at the crowd. One of the soldiers dropped and I rushed out of the door during the excitement and got into the street. The soldiers ran after me, shooting all the time.

"I ran up the long street toward the bridge that leads across the river into the country. The soldiers followed me, shooting as they ran. Their bullets flew wild and did not strike me, but one poor old woman was killed by a shot which was intended for me. The soldiers who had first attempted to capture me were joined by reinforcements until there were at least 200 after me. When I got to the bridge I turned and sent a couple of shots at the crowd, and then started across the bridge, which is long and narrow. Several times I turned around and fired at the soldiers, who had attempted to follow me across the bridge, and I rather think I killed a few of them, for I saw some drop. I finally got up into the hills, where I hid behind rocks and took a few more shots at the Spaniards. Then they gave up the chase and I went back to my men."

Figurative Speech.

As an example of the error of talking figuratively to those who do not appreciate, and who are apt to take everything literally, this story is worth reading. The respected superintendent of a Sunday school had told his boys that they should endeavor to bring their neighbors to the school, saying that they should be like a train, the scholar being the engine and his converts the cars.

Judge of his surprise when, next Sunday, the door opened during lessons, and a little boy, making a noise like an engine, ran in, followed by half a dozen others in single file at his back. He came to a halt before the superintendent, who asked the meaning of it all. The naive reply was:

"Please, sir, I'm the engine, and them's the cars."

Brains and Climate.

The weight of a man's brain has nothing to do with his mental power. It is a question of climate, not of intellect. The colder the climate the greater the size of the brain.

Poisons in One Cigar.

A cigar contains acetic, formic, butyric, valeric and proprionic acids, prussic acid, creosote, carbolic acid, ammonia, sulphuretted hydrogen, virodine pivoline.

First Theosophist—This settles it; I resign from the society. Second Theosophist—What's the matter? First Theosophist—Why, one of my tenants has gone off without paying his rent, and left a note saying he would try to square up with me in some future existence!—Puck.

THE "TERRIBLE TURK."

Ismail Yousouf, Giant Wrestler, Miser and Glutton, Who Died in the Sea.

Somewhere on the bottom of the Atlantic, sixty miles or more south of Sable Island, there is lying in the tangled wreckage of La Bourgogne the massively muscular body of a man; and in a leathern belt around that man's waist are gold coins to the amount of $8,500, a goodly weight.

The man was Ismail Yousouf, Turk, wrestler, protege of the Sultan, miser, glutton. The weight about his waist was what did him to death. When the French liner went down it was a hand-to-hand fight among the passengers and crew for possession of the boats. Ismail Yousouf was a giant, a wild beast for strength, and he might have thrust scores aside when he made for a boat. But the belt was about him and he thought more of that than he did of the boat or himself. So he went down with it and the world has lost a unique figure from among her men of might.

THE TURK AND HIS MONEY-BELT.

Incidentally Scutari, which smiles complacently opposite Stamboul, has lost its demi-god; for Yousouf was revered and feared in Scutari, whence he came. Yousouf was on his way home to open a coffee or bazar or some such place of indolent business where he might put more gold into his belt and stuff more food under his belt. For Yousouf was a gormand of the most insatiable sort. The "Terrible Turk" had never really been beaten until the belt gripped him this last time. Men won from him on fouls, but not by strength. It was his invariable rule, until William A. Brady began to manage him, to go into a bout with the belt around him. But Brady at once changed this order of things by compelling the Turk to divest himself of the "cinch," for Yousouf wore it tight—before entering the ring. There was $2,800 in gold in the belt at that time, which made the Turk overweight. And from the moment the belt was off until the bout was over Yousouf was in agony. He was like a Samson shorn of his strength.

ALTAR MADE OF ICE.

Remarkable Outdoor Religious Service Held in Russia.

Accompanying illustration shows an outdoor Russian church service, the altar being made of ice. These services are common all over the dominions ruled by the Czar, and particularly so at this time of the year. They begin at the season of Whitsuntide, and are held at intervals during the months that follow.

The altar of ice is supposed to be typical of Whit (or White) Sunday, and the services are held by the priests of the Russian church, to induce people to give up their evil habits and live a pure and holy life. The sight of one of these gatherings, with the priests and choir arrayed in spotless white garments, is inded an impressive one, and the singing and chanting which accompany the kneeling of the congregation before the altar are never forgotten by those who have been present.

Some of the altars look very beautiful, for some men are masters of the art of ice-cutting, and artistically model the block of ice. In the villages it generally consists of a rude block of ice surmounted by a cross.

HIS NERVE

Got This Drummer a Job that Belonged to Another.

"That was a strange experience," admitted the traveling man when some one had recalled the incident to him. "I'll tell you on the level that it converted me to the theory that there is a destiny that shapes our end, and that the fellow who is willing to drift is not such a chump after all.

"As the boys say, I was on my uppers. No one questioned my ability on the road. I could sell goods to men who had no real use for them, and you'll admit that to be the supreme test of a drummer. If I had one forte above another, it was that of selling stoves. I could get rid of a hard-coal burner in a soft-coal district, and I could place a consignment of wood stoves in the middle of a prairie district.

"One morning I waked up in the modern Troy of New York, without a cent and without a job. To most men the situation would have been as cold as a polar expedition, but, as intimated, I'm a fatalist. After jollying the bartender for a patriotic cocktail and the barber for a shave, I went to the nearest stove factory. The clock struck 12 just as I entered the place. Before the handsome young man at the desk could say a word I had told him that I was on time. I think the remark was the inspiration of an extremity.

"'We'll not stop to discuss terms at this time,' he said. 'You have an hour in which to catch a train. Here's your expense money. It is a new route, but it will serve to try you out.' I was knocked daffy, but I took the money, caught the train and sold stoves right and left. In a week I had a letter from the house asking who in the world I was and where I came from. The other fellow, for whom I was mistaken, had shown up and claimed the job. But they told me to fire away, and they raised my salary. I'm with 'em yet."—Detroit Free Press.

NEW FIGURE FOR WOMEN.

Athletics Have Revolutionized the Ideal Feminine Form.

Athletics have revolutionized woman's figure. They have increased the measurements of the ideal feminine figure several inches. The absence of corsets has had something to do with the matter also, but not to the extent of athletics. The accompanying figure of the present type of athletic American woman was drawn by a New York woman artist. It shows an increase of girth all around. The measurements, in fact, are almost heroic and do not greatly differ from those of the Venus of Milo, which heretofore has had no modern prototypes. If the Venus of Milo were reduced to life size she would measure:

Height, 5 feet 8¾ inches.
Weight, if a living woman, 170 pounds.
Neck, 13½ inches.
Bust, 38 inches.
Waist, 31 inches.

The artist's model is not a professional. She is a young woman of the leisure class who is devoted to athletics, swimming and bicycling being the two branches of sport in which she is most interested. Her measurements are:

Height, 5 feet 7 inches.
Weight, 160 pounds.
Neck, 14 inches.
Bust, 38 inches.
Waist, 27 inches.
Arm, 13 inches.

See how these measurements compare to the Milo and differ from the fashionable wasp-waisted figure of five years ago. Then the average woman prided herself on wearing a 12½-inch collar and a 20-inch corset.

The modern woman must be a creature of iron nerves. She must even be able to stand without flinching the supreme test of seeing a mouse run across the floor. And as for fainting, that piece de resistance of the heroine of twenty-five years ago would be absolutely fatal to the modern tactics of feminine warfare. With the advent of the new figure a more healthy tone is creeping into the feminine mind. Jolly girls who go in for all sorts of exercise are not afraid to acknowledge good healthy appetites and normal sentiments. Who could be otherwise than healthy-minded who proudly owns to a good appetite and a 27-inch waist.

NEW MEASUREMENTS.

Pertinent Question.

It was the first year that Farmer Andrews had taken boarders, and though he conscientiously tried to serve them, he found the task almost beyond his powers. They were fastidious and even "fussy." They seemed determined to be more than comfortable, and had no hesitation in complaining when they were not so. But evidently the Andrews farm did not altogether displease them, for they not only finished the summer, but stayed on into the fall.

Then their crying grievance became, not the thickness of cream or the saltness of butter, but the difficulty of keeping every corner of the old-fashioned rooms as warm as a tropical summer.

One day Farmer Andrews was called in from the woodpile, where he was vainly trying to do a forenoon's work. This was the third time he had relinquished ax and patience together.

"Mr. Andrews," said his boarder, somewhat fractiously, "something must really be done about the temperature of my chamber. This fireplace is not sufficient for so large a room."

The farmer stroked his grizzled beard, and tried to speak serenely.

"Put ye up a stove, ma'am!" said he.

"But I don't want a stove! I want this open fire, just as I have it now, only I expect it to heat the room. Just look at the thermometer! It has been hanging over here by the window, and I can't get it above 69."

She swept forward, with the telltale glass in her hand, and at that moment Farmer Andrews felt his patience snap and fly.

"Over by the winder!" he repeated, almost weeping with the vexation of one who has been unjustly used. "Over by the winder! Why under heavens don't ye set it here in a warm place?"

Royal Yearly Incomes.

The total annual income of the imperial family of Russia cannot be less than three and a half million pounds sterling. Probably the nearest approach to this revenue is to be found in the combined incomes of the brothers Rockefeller, the oil kings of America, which amount to two and a half million pounds. The Austrian imperial family posseses an estimated annual income of £1,500,000, the German family one of £1,000,000, and the Italian house of Savoy a revenue of £600,000 a year.

HE SHOULD KNOW.

The Waterloo Press seems to want to hit some one for failing in duty. In speaking of the matter of those school mortgages, it says:

The only paper having any knowledge of the facts, is made the official organ for publication, at a price, of all allowances made by the commissioners, and the official repoorts of the auditor's office. If there is anything wrong, let this paper which is furnished ammunition at public expense, "fire the guns."

It then adds that the reports published show the county in good shape, etc. etc.

The Press is inclined to sneer in an envious way at many things that would be all right if done by him. We suppose the above allusion is to the COURIER, which has always published the commissioners' allowances, though not always so wicked as to get "a price" For example for September and December, '97, and for March '98. Someone else got "the price," but the people read the allowances in the COURIER as usual. An enterprising paper, can always get these allowances to puplish. In fact the auditor is in the habit of sending copies to all the papers of the county. So they can publish it if they choose. And even if they don't publish it, they can read it in such papers as do. Later on in its article the Press insists the county owes over $50,000, though the auditor has just published a sworn statement that the debt is less than $24,000. How easy it would be to ascertain the truth and admit it. The Press says a good thing at the close, in effect, that it is the sworn duty of the county officers to care for public money. We agree in this, and would also add, that every officer in the court house except auditor and surveyor is a republican. If they don't take care of the public money, then the Press ought to desert them. The auditor is the man who has found out the bad condition of some of the mortgages given for school funds. He has put them, and is putting them in proper shape. Suppose we give him a credit for the disagreeable duty he is undertaking rather than to seem to be finding fault with him.

How a Yankee Does.

Yankees can spring into war quicker than any other people, and if they are a little behind in material and appliances they soon make it up. Recently, we concluded to fix up a few of our old iron clad monitors and rams some of which had not been used since the rebellion. They are still capable of great destruction. But we found their boilers were rusted. If we put in new boilers whole, we would have to rip up the thick iron decks at great expense. So we made the new boilers and engines in pieces small enough so we could put them down through the smoke stack, and in that way get them below decks. Then we put them together and soon had boilers and engines of the latest patterns. These old warships are slow sailors, but are dangerous to an enemy, when it comes to defending a harbor.

LATEST WAR NEWS.

Monday's Daily.

Nearly all the different bodies of Spanish troops included in the surrender of Santiago, have now given up their arms, and are being fed by us. By the time all are in, the number will foot up to about 24,000. The world has seen but few surrenders that included more men.

Miles has landed on Porto Rico as noted in these columns yesterday. It is supposed he made his landing on the south coast of the island with a view to marching across it northward to the chief city, San Juan.

Two regiments of "immunes" are starting for Cuba now, in order to take the place of other soldiers now holding Santiago. It is understood, they are mostly southern negroes who are used to the climate of Cuba, or at least will be liable to enjoy an "immunity" from the diseases so common to Cuba and the states bordering on the Gulf.

It is believed that Don Carlos, the pretender to the Spanish throne has left Brussels where he has been living for some time, and is quietly working his way to Spain to be ready for any uprising.

Every day comes rumors that the 157th are to be sent by the next ships that sail to join General Miles at Porto Rico.

Lieut. Hobson, who sank the Merrimac is busy with plans to raise and save the Spanish cruisers, "Infanta Marie Therese" and the "Christobal Colon," that we sunk off Santiago. It will be a nice thing, if we can use these two ships against the Spaniards.

GLOBE TROTTERS.

A few days ago three English tourists passed through Goshen, making a trip around the world. The go on bicycles of the clumsy English pattern and are evidently in no great hurry. They started from London, July 17, 1896, so that they have already been on the road more tham two years. They say they propose to see all the country they pass over and enjoy the details of the scenery which they could not do if they traveled on a wager or to make it in a certain time or if they went as passengers day and night on cars and steamers. Their view is a sensible one.

SPAIN WANTS PFACE

There have been rumors for some time that the Spaniards want peace but were ashamed to ask for it themselves. It turns out to be about that way. They have got the French Ambassador at Washington to ask President McKinley about it. Yesterday came a formal request from Spain, written by their minister of foreign affairs. It was written to the French Ambassador, and he at once sent his chief clerk to ask when President McKinley and the secretary of state, Judge Day, could grant him a full interview. So it was arranged there should be a meeting of one hour, beginning at 3 p. m. yesterday. At this meeting there were present Ambassador Cambon and his chief secretary, Mr. Thibaut on the one side, and on our side, President McKinley and Secretary of State Day. The only thing asked was that hostilities cease, and negotiations looking to a settlement of the trouble, he opened. Nothing was said as to what terms Spain desired. It is likely there will be another meeting of the same officials, when if anyting is done, it will be left with our embassador, Gen. Horace Porter, at Paris, and the Spanish ambassador, to France, Senor Castilio. But for the present, the war will go right on, as if nothing had happened, at least till Spain is ready to say just what she will do.

HOCH, DER KAISER.

(From the Montreal Sun.)

Der Kaiser of der Vaterland
Und Gott on high, all dings gommand,
Ve two, Ach, dond you understand,
Meinself—und Gott.

While some men sing der power divine,
Mein soldiers sing "Die Wacht am Rhein,"
Und trink dere healt in Rheinish wine,
Auf Me—und Gott.

Dere's France dot svaggers all around,
She's ausgespielt—she's no account,
To much Ve dinks she dond amount,
Meinself—und Gott.

She vill not dare to fight again,
But if she should, I'll show her blain,
Dot Elsass, und, in French, Lorraine,
Are Mein, By Gott.

Dere's Grand Ma dinks she's nicht small bier
Mit Boers und dings she interfere,
She'll learn none owns dis hemisphere,
But Me—und Gott.

She dinks, good Frau, some ships she's got,
Und soldiers mit der scarlet coats,
Ach, Ve could knock dem, "pouf,"—like dot,
Meinself—und Gott.

In short, I humor every whim,
Mit aspect dark und visage grim,
Gott pulls mit me und I mit Him,
Meinself—und Gott.

JUDICIAL CONVENTION

The Democrats, of the 35th Judicial Circuit, composed of the counties of DeKalb and Steuben, and all others who will co-operate with them in the election of candidates for Judge and prosecuting Attorney, are requested to meet in delegate convention, in Waterloo, on the 16th day of August, 1898, at one o'clock in the afternoon, for the purpose of nominating such candidates.

It is expected that the candidates nominated will stand pledged, when elected, each to perform the duties of his office in an honest, economical and business like manner, for the benefit of the whole people of the district, rather than that of any particular party or faction.

The basis of representation in such conventions will be one delegate for every 100 votes cost for John B. Stoll, candidate for Presidential Elector, on the Democratic ticket in 1896, and under this apportionment said counties will be entitled to the following number of delegates, to-wit:

DeKalb 37, Steuben 17

HUDSON'S JUBILEE.

Grand Harvest Home Celebre- at Hudson Aug. 3.

Hudson is going to do herself proud in the way of a harvest jubilee which is to be held next Wednesday, August 3rd. They will have bands, a show, speech by Judge Powers, balloon ascension, sack race, and several prizes in all contests. There is also a fantastic and industrial parade and big game of base ball. Moving pictures of the war shown on canvas. The jubilee lasts from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.

A. H. Shaffstall the hustling secretary of the jubilee association was advertising in this vicinity Tuesday. He got some costumes of our Carnival association and expects a grand time and a large crowd. Hudson people are coming to our Carnival and the attendance at their jubilee from this district should be large.

A Real Person.

When we alluded to Helen Hunt a few weeks ago some of our readers thought we were using profane language, a thing that is never allowed in the columns of this family newspaper. They even hinted that there was no such person as Helen Hunt, But here is an allusion to the real person, clipped from the Hicksville News of July 14:

"Miss Helen Hunt, of Hecla, Ind., who has been visiting her sisters at this place, returned home yesterday. Her sister, Frances, accompanied her.

LATEST WAR NEWS.

Gen. Miles reported late last evening as to his landidg Monday morning at the harbor of Guanica, fifteen miles west of Ponce, where they had intended to land. It appears he came on this place, and saw it was not much defended, and would be as good a landing place, as Ponce. And at the latter place, he would have to fight. So he ran his fleet into the harbor with only slight resistance and landed his men, some on the piers and some by boats. He was on land before the Spaniards hardly knew it. When the rest of his force reaches him, they will attack Ponce, from which place a good road runs clear across the island to San Juan on the north coast. Along this road, Miles will march and if the Spaniards get in his way there will be fighting. If he whips them they may not resist much when he gets to San Juan.

There is considerable sickness in Gen. Shafter's army at Santiago, but it is hoped wn can keep it from getting worse. After all Spanish prisoners have gone home, we may leave a small force to hold the place, and then send the bulk of the army to some healthy place in our own country till the hot spell is over.

BUTLER.

E. A. Campbell of Toledo, O., spent Sunday with his brother J. A. Campbell. Among their calls, was one upon Father Burns and Robert Chambers. He is an employe of the Lake Shore in the motive power department.

William Bubb, a former resident two miles south of Butler, died in the Toledo hospital last week. His remains were brough to Butler for burial last Monday.

Mrs. Christ Keller is suffering from slight attck of paralysis. She is better at this writing.

C. J. Coats, suffered a sort of collapse last week supposed to have been from the excessive heat. For a time, grave fears were felt for his safety. He is better at this writing.

The republican township caucus selected, D. D. Diehl, L. H. Highley and J. A. Campbell delegates to the state convention to be held at Indianapolis next week.

The large barn on the Frandenberger farm six miles southwest of Butler, was burned by lightning last Monday morning together with its contents. The place was occupied by Charley Schrader. The barn was insured in the County Mutual, but Mr. Schaader had no insurance and the loss falls heavy upon him.

Lighting killed three head of stock on the Milligan farm four miles east of Butler, last week. J. A. Campbell paid for those owned by Mrs, Milligan, who had them insured with him, and those belonging to the tenant Geo. Scott were not insured.

Jinisey H. Boon aged 77, with his young wife and little son are still the guest of his daughter Dellie Tomlinson Mr. Boon, who for so many years was a resident of Butler, now resides at Marion Ind.

Still The Fight Goes On.

Dr. W. H. McClure, the eminent Specialist of Fort Wayne, who has made a special study of chronic diseases for the past twenty years, and has just returned from a tour through Scotland, France, Germany and England, and visited all the leading Medical institutions in order to gain more knowledge of chronic diseases. Dr. Virchow, one of the most celebrated doctors of the world said he believed that there was fully one half of the human family whose eyes were diseased by having them improperly fitted with glasses. He further says it has been demonstrated beyond a doubt that it causes a great many of the chronic diseases. I treat all chronic diseases successfully and fit the eyes to perfection. If our eyes are diseased, I will treat them successfully, fit them properly. All private diseases treated successfully. All examinations free. Office hours 8 to 12 a. m., 1 to 6 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m. I have two suits of rooms at the Hollister House, where I would be glad to see all.

Accidentally Shot.

It is not often the COURIER is called on to note the accidental shooting of a woman. Yet this is the case now. Last evening, Mrs. Bert Beidler was going to shoot some sparrows that were up in the trees near their house. The gun which was one of the little target guns, was cocked so as to be ready to fire when she saw a chance, and she was holding it pointing down towards the ground, when the wind blew her sash around in such a way that it caught on the trigger of the gun and discharged it. The gun at that moment happened to be pointing towards her feet and the ball went into the thick part of her foot and went nearly through to the bottom. Dr. Swarts was called, and the ball was extracted, but it is a very painful wound and she has so far not been able to rest much or get much sleep.

The Romany Folks.

Gypsies, we call them, although the orthoeox gypsies call themselves "Romany Folks." This morning saw the greatest procession or train of them ever known in Auburn. There were in all, about twenty rigs, some good, some passable and some bad. And then there were two or three boys who brought up the rear, riding a barebacked horse. But even that hard way of traveling was nothing compared with that adopted by a girl apparently about ten years old. She sat perched up back of the box of one horse wagon, her only seat being the projecting tent poles while her feet hung free in the morning air Some half dozen or more rigs were fine ones, drawn by two horses, and seemed to have a whole family. They were elaborately trimmed and ornamented and several had windows of stained glass. They had camped up north of town town, then leisurely got under way to continue their journey. They say they started from Butler and are headed for St. Louis. It is believed there is to be some big meeting out there or some important social function like a wedding. We believe their queen lives in that section. To an outsider it looks like a hard life to lead, but they seem to enjoy it. They are of a race different from our own, and it is supposed originated it Egypt hundreds of years ago. But looking at their personal appearance, as they passed through town, one could easily suppose them to be Cubans or the poorer classes of Spaniards.

FOR ALL WOMEN

Nine-tenths of all the pain and sickness from which women suffer is caused by weakness or derangement in the organs of menstruation. Nearly always when a woman is not well these organs are affected. But when they are strong and healthy a woman is very seldom sick.

McELREE'S
Wine of Cardui

Is nature's provision for the regulation of the menstrual function. It cures all "female troubles." It is equally effective for the girl in her teens, the young wife with domestic and maternal cares, and the woman approaching the period known as the "Change of Life." They all need it. They are all benefitted by it.

For advice in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, the "Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

THOS. J. COOPER, Tupelo, Miss., says: "My sister suffered from very irregular and painful menstruation and doctors could not relieve her. Wine of Cardui entirely cured her and also helped my mother through the Change of Life."

Spring Wheat

Geo. Osbun brought in a bunch of spring wheat heads last evening as samples of what might be done in DeKalb county. He had sent off and got half bushel each of two kinds. One did not grow well, as it was ruined by rust. But this sample did well, showing fine, large ears with a good berry. He has not thrashed it yet but thinks it will be a fair yield.

STRIKERS ENJOY LIFE.

Dissatisfied Printers of San Francisco Are Camping Out.

Printers (compositors and pressmen), who are on strike in San Francisco, resolved not to waste their substance in the city, and are getting a pleasant vacation and saving money by camping in a nook in Paper Mill Creek Canyon, two miles west of Camp Taylor, on the San Francisco & Northern Pacific Coast railway. There are now about fifty men enjoying life in the wildwood and waiting for their employers to "come to time." A reporter of the San Francisco Call visited the camp recently. He found the weather anything but agreeable, but says the printers did not seem to notice it. Some were running around in their shirt sleeves, and a few were wading in the waters of the creek. A big log fire burned near the base of a redwood tree and filled the air in its immediate vicinity with a most wholesome warmth, but nobody appeared to take advantage of it. Lying on a log a few feet away, one of the campers was reading, apparently as comfortable as if he were in a parlor in San Francisco. We don't care whether the strike lasts all summer," said Lieut. Tilly, the spokesman of the crowd, as he led the way to the "kitchen," where a big pan of freshly caught trout were being browned in sizzling butter. A coffee pot, boiling noisily, filled the air with aroma, and some toasting indicated that there was somebody about to eat. And the indication proved to be correct. There was enough and plenty to eat, and drink, too, for that matter. Nailed to the trunks of trees were big cupboards filled with all sorts of edibles. In a big Dutch oven a roast of beef was cooking, and a pan of bread was "raising" near by. There was no sign of want in this camp. At night the men gather around the camp fire and tell stories and sing songs as campers will until it is time to retire, and then they go to sleep and dream that the strike is going to last forever, because the camp is such a great success.

WAR RELICS IN DEMAND.

Conflict with Spain Causes Old Military Souvenirs to Be Sought.

From the Chicago Chronicle: The war, which has had a depressing effect upon the sale of most luxuries, has greatly stimulated the demand for old guns, swords, pistols and other relics and souvenirs of bygone wars, to the delight of the curio dealer of the city, who are disposing of a considerable portion of their military stocks. An old flint-lock musket or rusty saber that my grandfather carried in the revolutionary war looks well over the fireplace, and such relics find quite a ready sale since the breaking out of the war. "The old curiosity shop" at 584 North Clark street, of which J. J. G. Gurghoffer is proprietor, contains quite a large assortment of this kind of goods and is much visited by curious people. Mr. Burghoffer exhibits a Spanish rapier with "1441," the year of its manufacture, stamped upon the blade. The long steel blade is very flexible and the hilt fashioned with great art. He also has a Spanish court sword of great antiquity. It carries an inscription in Spanish upon its blade. The hilt and scabbard are genuine works of art, being beaten and cut from solid silver and gold. Such work is no longer done in the world. Revolutionary muskets, old blunderbusses, dueling pistols and the like are displayed in considerable numbers and attract great attention. If the war continues long relics of this class are likely to come into general demand and command fancy prices. Great-grandfathers who never wielded anything more warlike than a hoe handle are now given, together with a long pedigree, a sword or rapier to illustrate a daring episode in their adventurous lives. An object lesson is the greatest of teachers, and the sword of one's ancestor furnishes tangible proof of his existence and prowess.

DIFFICULT TO INFLICT PAIN.

A Physician Relates an Experience of His Student Days.

From the New York Sun: The doctor smoked slowly on his cigar. It was plain that he had something to say. "I was thinking of my early college days," he said, "and of a peculiar incident that happened very soon after I began my studies. The professor was instructing the class one day on the corpuscles of the blood. In order to get some fresh blood for microscopical examination each student was ordered to tie a rag around his forefinger and strike the top of the finger suddenly with a needle, with sufficient force to draw blood. Seems easy, doesn't it? Do you know there wasn't a man in the class that did it at the first attempt. It was funny to watch some of those embryo surgeons poise the needle with a determined air and launch it to within a hair space of the flesh and there stop dead, others tried to force the needle in slowly, but paused very shortly, with an expression of pain commensurate to that of an amputation. I myself gave it up as a bad job, and hacked a cavity in my thumb with a penknife and found it easier. The fact that we were very young and inexperienced is no explanation for this peculiarity, as I have since found by personal test. Almost everybody exhibited the same repugnance to inflicting pain in that manner. Try it yourself." The other man tried and succeeded on the fourth trial.

Second Army of Invasion.

Washington special:

After three days of consultation between the President, Secretary Alger and Gen. Brooke, during which there was frequent communication with Gen. Miles at Siboney, the details of the Porto Rican expedition were perfected and the expedition itself was gotten under way, Gen. Miles with some artillery and troops sailing for Porto Rico on the converted cruiser Yale, to be followed quickly by an army of about 30,000 men. Miles led the way. He had been promised by the President that he should go to Porto Rico and the promise was redeemed when the Yale headed from Siboney for Porto Rico, 800 miles distant. Gen. Brooke will be the senior officer in Miles' command and upon him will fall the responsibility for the execution of the details of his superior's plans.

The part which the navy is to take in the assault against Porto Rico has been fully matured. The several transport fleets will have with them one or two auxiliary craft carrying strong secondary batteries of six or eight six-pounders. Secretary Long said that the warships would co-operate in every way with the movements of the army.

The Porto Rican army of invasion which follows Gen. Miles to San Juan consists of 30,000 troops, 4,000 of which will be taken direct from Santiago, the balance to be made up from brigades at Chickamauga, Camp Alger, Tampa and other places. The complete roster of this army, which is to be commanded by Maj. Gen. Brooke, is:

First Army Corps, Two Divisions—Third Illinois volunteer infantry, 5th Illinois volunteer infantry, 4th Pennsylvania volunteer infantry, 2d Ohio volunteer infantry, 4th Ohio volunteer infantry, 6th Ohio volunteer infantry, 1st Kentucky volunteer infantry, 3d Kentucky volunteer infantry, 158th Indiana volunteer infantry, 31st Michigan volunteer infantry, 1st Georgia volunteer infantry, 1st West Virginia volunteer infantry, 1st Virginia volunteer infantry, 14th Minnesota volunteer infantry.

Gen. Garretson's Brigade—Sixth Illinois volunteer infantry, 8th Ohio volunteer infantry, 6th Massachusetts volunteer infantry.

Fourth Army Corps, Maj. Gen. Coppinger, commanding—Fifth United States cavalry, 5th United States infantry, 11th United States infantry, 19th United States infantry, 2d United States artillery, 4th United States artillery, 6th United States artillery, 7th United States artillery, four troops 1st United States volunteer cavalry, two regiments volunteer infantry—not selected.

Gen. Ernst's Brigade—Second Wisconsin volunteer infantry, 3d Wisconsin volunteer infantry, 1st Rhode Island volunteer infantry, 16th Pennsylvania volunteer infantry.

LAYS DOWN THE LAW.

Dewey Informs Germans They Must Obey Blockade Regulations.

Dewey is master of Manila harbor, and has found it necessary to inform the German admiral, Von Diedrichs, of that fact on several occasions. Several days ago the German cruiser Irene, following out Diedrichs' utter disregard of international blockade laws, attempted to sail past the Americans and refused to answer the McCulloch's signal to stop. A shell across the bow of the Irene brought it to a stop. Dewey demanded that Diedrichs observe the international laws in their strictest interpretation, and took occasion to point out several flagrant violations. The German replied in a most courteous fashion, and declared that the acts specified by Dewey were committed without his knowledge, and were the result of ignorance on the part of his men. When the German learned of the Irene incident, however, his mild manner disappeared, and he complained that unnecessary severity was used in bringing to the cruisers. Admiral Dewey planked down the law in reply in the firmest and most vigorous terms, giving the German to understand that he fully approved the action of the McCulloch and would repeat it if circumstances demanded it.

HISTORICAL PROCLAMATION.

President Issues Instructions for Military Government of Santiago.

President McKinley's proclamation issued Tuesday, declaring a military government in Santiago de Cuba, will be historical. It provides in general terms for the government of the province, and is the first document of the kind ever issued by a President of the United States. Adjutant General Corbin cabled the document to Gen. Shafter, in command of the military forces at Santiago.

The paper is an authorization and instruction to Gen. Shafter for the government of the captured territory and a proclamation to the people of the intentions of the United States regarding them and their interests. Protection is offered to all, but if the civil authorities mal-administer their offices the military governor has the power to expel them and instal new officials, even to the extent of reorganizing the courts. Revenue which belonged to the old government now goes to the conqueror, as also all government property, and the customary taxes will be used by the military government to meet the expenses of the civic authorities and the army. Former laws and former civil officials will be continued in force as far as possible.

OPEN FOR COMMERCE.

Neutral Vessels Laden with Supplies May Clear for Santiago.

The collectors of customs along the Atlantic coast have been notified that they may clear neutral vessels laden with supplies for Santiago. The port is again open for business. It is in control of the United States army, and has a military governor, but business is not to be delayed longer, and all neutral ships may now enter with cargoes on more liberal terms than ever before. The War Department will collect the duties and use them for war expenses. Gen. Shafter will appoint a collector and the port will be open for business. The President wants as little delay as possible in putting Santiago on a business basis again and allowing the people there to resume business. He was compelled to make it the first city of occupation because Cervera's fleet took refuge from Sampson's squadron in that harbor. Santiago had not been blockaded until that time, and now that it has surrendered to Gen. Shafter it will be allowed to resume its everyday business affairs with military authorities supervising whatever is done by the municipal authorities.

and to give them four hours to haul down the flag. After some parleying the Spanish ensign came down and the commanding officer formally surrendered.

Shafter Has 22,789 Prisoners.

The War Department received a dispatch from Gen. Shafter, saying that the roster of prisoners was handed in by Gen. Toral and that the total is 22,789 men.

TELLS OF THE BATTLE

SANTIAGO NAVAL ENGAGEMENT IS VIVIDLY DESCRIBED.

Associated Press Correspondent Probably the Only Non-Combatant Who Witnessed the Fight from an Advantageous Position.

How Schley Smashed 'Em.

The following description of the battle between the American and Spanish warships off Santiago was written by the only non-combatant who witnessed the entire fight. That non-combatant was the correspondent of the Associated Press, who saw the engagement from a position almost at the elbow of Commodore Schley on the cruiser Brooklyn:

Daybreak of Sunday, July 3, the fifth Sunday for the American squadrons before Santiago, brought no particularly different situation from what had marked the preceding Sundays. The monotony, the lack of picturesqueness at daybreak, the heat of the tropical sun—all were there.

Over the tops of the supposedly destroyed earthworks appeared the muzzles of the same old guns, quite ready, despite the Saturday bombardment, to speak their piece if called upon. On the slightly rolling sea the great gray battleships of the American fleet swung lazily at a distance of from four to five miles from the harbor entrance. The line, which at all times was supposed to be a half-circle inclosing the harbor entrance as a central point, was more than ordinarily broken up this hot morning.

The big battleships had drifted to the east considerably, and the Massachusetts, the New York, the New Orleans and the Newark were not in sight. The New York had taken Admiral Sampson down to Altares, eight miles east from the blockade, to make a visit to the camp of the American army, while the other missing vessels were at Guantanamo, forty miles to the east.

The vessels on the blockade were the Iowa, Indiana and Oregon, battleships, the flagship of Commodore Schley, the Brooklyn, and the small yachts Gloucester and Vixen. The Iowa swinging a mile further out than the rest of the squadron, trying to fix her forward 12-inch turret, which was out of repair, while the Indiana was doing the same thing to her forward 13-inch turret. The absolutely available entire ships in the squadron, therefore, were only the Oregon, Texas and Brooklyn, although later Capt. Evans and Capt. Taylor fought their ships.

It is a custom on ships, regulated by the rules, that there shall be a general muster at least once each three months and that the articles of war shall be read. First call had been sounded at 9:15 a. m. and the men were assembling on the decks. The lookout in the masthead of the Brooklyn had some time before reported smoke in the harbor; but as the same thing had been noticed several times, no special attention was paid to it. The Brooklyn and the Vixen were the only ships to the west of the entrance, the other ships having drifted well to the east.

Reported Smoke Moving.

On the bridge Navigator Hodgson of the Brooklyn said sharply to the lookout: "Isn't that smoke moving?" and the lookout, after a minute's inspection with the long glass, dropped it excitedly and fairly yelled: "There's a big ship coming out of the harbor, sir!" Hodgson, who is a particularly cool man, looked once himself and then, grasping the megaphone, shouted: "After bridge, there! Tell the commodore the enemy's fleet is coming out!"

Commodore Schley was sitting under the awning on the quarter deck. Going to the bridge he said: "Raise the signal to the fleet," and turning to Capt. Cook, who stood near, he said: "Clear ship for action." Then he went forward and took his place on a little platform of wood running on the outside of the conning tower, which had been built for him. He was dressed in blue trousers, a black alpaca jacket and the regulation cap, without the broad band of gold braid. The men with a yell went to their guns and the rapid preliminary orders were given.

Schley, glasses in hand, watched the first ship turn out, and saw her start for the west. Still he gave no signal to fire or move. The Oregon opened with her 13-inch shells, and the Indiana and Texas followed suit. But the range was a long one. Still the Brooklyn waited. But down below the coal was being forced into the furnace, every boiler was being worked and every gun made ready to fire. Schley wanted to know which way they were all going, or whether they would scatter. In the meantime the Oregon began to turn to the west and the Texas had moved in closer and was damaging the leading ship, the Infanta Maria Teresa.

Commodore's Order to Fire.

"They are all coming west, sir," shouted Lieut. Sears. And just then the western batteries opened up. "Full speed ahead. Open fire!" shouted the commodore. "Fire deliberately and don't waste a shot," he added; and the orderlies carried the word to the turrets. In an instant the Brooklyn's eight and five-inch batteries on her port side opened, and the cruiser headed for a point in front of the first escaping ship, firing at and receiving the fire from two of them.

Then Commodore Schley saw the first ship was coming out from the shore, headed directly for the Brooklyn, with the evident intention of ramming her. A clever manoeuver was here accomplished. "Hard-a-port with your helm!" shouted Schley; and the cruiser began to go around, the smoke coming from her funnels in huge volumes. Quickly she turned and quickly her big steel ram was pointing at the first ship. The Infanta Maria Teresa had to work in shore to avoid being rammed. The shells of the Texas and Oregon, with the terrible storm of shells from the Brooklyn, had done their work and the smoke began to appear pouring from her decks.

In the meantime the converted yacht Gloucester could be seen, with the help of the Iowa, destroying the two torpedo boat destroyers that had followed the last ship out. At 10 o'clock the entire Cape Verde squadron was outside the harbor and going rapidly westward. The Iowa and the Indiana could not keep up the pace; but the Oregon was coming across to the assistance of the Brooklyn, which at 10:06 was engaging the first three ships, the Infanta Maria Teresa, the Cristobal Colon and the Vizcaya. At 10:11 the Spanish ships had all concentrated their shots on the Brooklyn and she was in a perfect rain of shells, most of which went over her.

Standing in this hail of shells, Commodore Schley asked a young man named Ellis, who stood near with a stadimeter: "What is the distance to the Vizcaya?" The man took the observation. "Twenty-two hundred yards, sir," he said, and there was a whistle followed by a splash as his head was literally torn from his shoulders by an eight-inch shell.

"Too bad," said Commodore Schley as the body fell at his feet, and then, with his glasses to his eyes, he said: "The first ship is done for. She is running ashore."

The Maria Teresa was running her nose on the beach and in an instant was a mass of flames. The Brooklyn was ordered to concentrate her fire on the Almirante Oquendo, and with the Oregon's assistance, in ten minutes more the Oquendo was sent ashore a burning wreck, but a short distance from Santiago. The Iowa in the meantime had sunk one torpedo boat destroyer, and the other one had been driven ashore by the Gloucester's terrific rapid fire.

At 10:49 the Brooklyn turned her attention to the Vizcaya, the Cristobal Colon having passed the latter and now being in the lead well up the coast. At the time the only vessels in sight from the Brooklyn were the Oregon, about a mile and a half astern. At 10:54 the Vizcaya was raked fore and aft clean along her gun deck, by an eight-inch shell from the Brooklyn. Another one, a minute after, exploded in her superstructure with terrific force, killing eighty people. She was afire and at 10:55 she headed for the beach at Asseradores, where she went ashore. The Brooklyn did not stop, but went on the chase after the Cristobal Colon, the Oregon closing rapidly up and following her.

OUR FLAG IN SANTIAGO.

The Stars and Stripes Raised and the Americans Take Possession.

Sunday was an American gala day in the ancient capital of Cuba. The first item on the program was the surrender of the plaza and all stores by Gen. Toral at 9 o'clock a. m. Promptly at noon Gen. Shafter and staff and Gen. Toral and staff, with picked escort, entered the city, and the red and yellow emblem of Spanish authority was pulled down from the staff on the house of the civil government, and in its place the red, white and blue emblem of American authority was flung to the breeze in the presence of a vast concourse of people, with military honors, a salute fired, no doubt with a will, by Capt. Capron's battery, and to the strains of the "Star-Spangled Banner" by the bands. The President's congratulatory telegram was then read to the regiments, who were witnesses of the enthusiastic scene from their positions around the city. Among other items turned over by the Spanish were a gunboat and 200 seamen left behind by Cervera.

GOVERNOR'S PALACE AT SANTIAGO.

Notwithstanding the siege and the natural discomforts arising from it, Gen. Shafter reports the city in good condition. There is much distress, but little sickness, and it is particularly gratifying to learn that there is scarcely any yellow fever, notwithstanding the rainy weather and the unsanitary conditions of the city. The civil government is helping to keep order, and probably is overjoyed at the opportunity and at the freedom from looting which it had suffered at the hands of the Spanish troops. The troops deposited their arms in an armory over which Gen. Shafter has placed a guard, and the obstructions are rapidly being removed from the mouth of the harbor. The Ninth and Thirteenth regulars will remain in the city for the present as a guard.

The most significant feature of Gen. Shafter's report is his statement that the city was surrounded by a perfect entanglement of defenses, and that if the Spaniards had resisted our army as they did the first day of the assault it would have cost us 5,000 lives to have taken Santiago. Nothing succeeds like success, and in that glorious success every sailor in Sampson's fleet and every soldier in Shafter's army had his part and performed it in a manner which entitles them to the gratitude of the whole country, which is proud of them.

TERMS OF SURRENDER.

The Conditions Under Which the City of Santiago Became Ours.

The terms of surrender under which Gen. Shafter took formal possession of the city of Santiago are as follows:

1. All hostilities shall cease pending the agreement of final capitulation.
2. That the capitulation includes all the Spanish forces and the surrender of all war material within the prescribed limits.
3. The transportation of the troops to Spain at the earliest possible moment, each force to be embarked at the nearest port.
4. That the Spanish officers shall retain their side arms and the enlisted men their personal property.
5. That after the final capitulation the Spanish forces shall assist in the removal of all obstructions to navigation in Santiago harbor.
6. That after the final capitulation the commanding officers shall furnish a complete inventory of all arms and munitions of war and a roster of all the soldiers in the district.
7. That the Spanish general shall be permitted to take the military archieves and records with him.
8. That all guerrillas and Spanish irregulars shall be permitted to remain in Cuba if they so elect, giving a parole that they will not again take up arms against the United States unless properly released from parole.
9. That the Spanish forces shall be permitted to march out with all the honors of war, depositing their arms, to be disposed of by the United States in the future, the American commissioners to recommend to their government that the arms of the soldiers be returned to those "who so bravely defended them."

Germany Meant No Offense.

A Hong Kong correspondent says the German admiral in the Philippines has protested that he meant no offense by his action in Subig bay.

A St. Petersburg newspaper characterizes the destruction of Cervera's fleet as "brutal slaughter," and accuses the Americans of employing some kind of new explosive machine or bomb contrary to international law.

THE DREAM OF DON MONTIJO.

In the harbor of Manilla
Lay the Admiral's flotilla
Rocking gently at its anchors in a sort of tropic swoon;
All those shapes of war and slaughter
Slept upon the peaceful water,
That was mixed with molten silver from the overflowing moon.

Swung to oscillating lanyards
In their hammocks lay the Spaniards,
Dreaming of the Guadalquiver and the country of the Cid;
Longing for the lovely ladies
Of Seville, Toledo, Cadiz,
And the balls and Seporitas of Granada or Madrid.

In his cabin, Don Montijo
Being drowsy, muttered "Oho!
This is unexciting business for a noble of Castile;
I am weary of the Malay,
I will sally forth and waylay
The pigpens of the Yankee and my vengeance he shall feel."

Then he said goodnight "Ave"
And in dreams he ranked the navy
For a great and brilliant victry o'er the ships of Uncle Sam;
Oh he led them a Fandango
From Hongkong to Pango Pango
And he chased them from New Zealand to the borders of Siam.

While he lay there softly sleeping,
Up the harbor, creeping, creeping,
Came the lean and trusty greyhounds of the little Commodore—
You may say that he was plucky,
You may call him only lucky,
But torpedoes couldn't turn him nor big guns along the shore.

Don Montijo woke to wonder
At a sudden burst of thunder,
He had found the yankee gunners and they hit him every time;
In the harbor of Manilla
Lay the Admiral's flotilla
Fifty fathoms under water, mid the oysters and the slime.

FROM DUDE TO SOLDIER.

Checkered Career of Hallett Alsop Borrowe, the Famous Rough Rider.

Hallett Alsop Borrowe, who went with the rough riders in Cuba and who was given charge of a dynamite gun capable of deadly execution, has led a life replete with incident.

When he was a young man he thought he would become a great artist, and studied art at the Columbia Art School. Then he thought that law, and not art, was his peculiar calling and entered the Columbia Law School. After a while he decided that neither law nor art was just what he was cut out for, and went across the water to see the world. He had already seen something of it in on this side. His father was Samuel Borrowe, Vice President of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, and young Borrowe had the entree into New York society.

In England and France Hallett Alsop was put up at the most exclusive clubs and was distinctly "in the swim." When he returned to this country he had become a crack billiard player, a crack shot and a man about town generally. He was fond of dog fights and all sorts of "sporty" things. In short, the mild art student was thoroughly transformed into the gilded and giddy young man of the clubs and the inconsequential world. He stayed abroad a good deal and was attracting no particular attention in this country, being regarded by his acquaintances as neither better nor worse than the average man of his type, when suddenly came the Coleman Drayton scandal. The social prominence of all the parties concerned (Mrs. Drayton was a daughter of Mrs. William Astor) and the challenge to a duel (which did not take place) between Mr. Drayton and Mr. Borrowe kept society gossiping for a long time.

HALLETT ALSOP BORROWE.

Finally that passed away and Hallett Alsop Borrowe was for a time forgotten. It was said that he was living quietly abroad. Suddenly it was discovered that Borrowe had returned to this country, forsaken the ways of his former life, and was employed as a car starter on the trolley road in Newark. He had started in to work for a living and had begun at the bottom of the ladder.

He worked hard, and finally was made a division superintendent at a salary of $75 a month. For a time his doings in his new sphere of action were written about and talked about, and then the young man was forgotten again. He was not destined to remain forgotten long, however, for in November, 1896, it was anounced that Borrowe had married Miss Anna Wheeler Corbin, Austin Corbin's youngest daughter.

It seems that the Borrowe and Corbin families had been intimate when Hallett Alsop was a schoolboy, and his especial friend had been the youngest daughter. The schoolboy love had remained through all the intervening years, and Borrowe had gone to work on the trolley line to prove that he had reformed and was living a life which made him worthy to marry his boyhood's love.

ON DRIVING HORSES.

Hints on the Care of Man's Noblest Animal Friends.

A driver should study and know the horse he is to drive. Being familiar with the spirit of the horse is one of the very important things. A driver must also know how the horse should be fed, if he has no one upon whom he can implicitly rely to do the feeding. Reviewing these general matters of both driving and feeding, a writer on the horse says that some can drive thirty or even forty miles at a good rate of speed and have the animal in better condition at the end than another after driving the same horse five miles. It is not by any means driving fast that injures a horse so much as improper driving. Often more strength and vitality is taken out of a horse in two miles of fretting, through the mismanagement of the driver, than in going several times this distance with proper care. Some men cannot drive without a whip in their hands, whether it is needed or not, and, while there is no doubt that in some cases the whip is necessary, yet it is often the cause of more fretting on the part of a lively horse than any one thing. The driver who thinks that because his horse is fresh he can stand it to be driven fast at the start for several miles, and then given a chance to rest by going slow, or who drives fast for a while and then slows down to a walk in order to rest up for another spurt, will not get the best speed out of a horse with the least waste of vitality, especially in going long distances. It is a steady gait that counts most and wears the horse least. Give him a chance to get warmed up first, and then let the gait be a steady one. Another item is not to feed too heavily before driving. A light feed of oats will be far better than a heavier feed of a more bulky grain. Exercise or action too soon after eating retards digestion, and the animal that must travel at a good gait with a loaded stomach cannot but show the effects, and if driven rapidly for even a short distance after eating a hearty meal there is considerable risk of the colic. Watering properly is fully as important as feeding. When a horse is being driven on the road he should not at any time be allowed to overcharge his stomach with a large quantity of water. So far as is possible the rule should be to give water frequently, and, while he should have all he will drink, it should be given in small doses. A horse in good health can stand more work and more driving without injury than one that is in any way out of condition. The feed and care should be such as are best calculated to maintain health and condition, and then when on the road care must be taken to use his strength and vigor to the best advantage.

Shakspeare Does Ball.

Shakspeare, so far as is known, never witnessed a ball game, yet his works are replete with phrases often used by fans. Here are a few:

"Hit it, hit it, hit it!"—Love's Labor Lost, Act IV.

"Not one hit."—Merchant of Venice, Act III.

"Base second mean," et cetera.—Henry IV., Act I.

"Our valor is to chase flies."—Cymbeline, Act III.

"On the bat's back I do fly."—Titus Andronicus, Act III.

"We can kill a fly."—Titus Andronicus, Act III.

"Where go you with bats?"—Coriolanus, Act. I.

"Then thou wast not out."—Tempest, Act I.

"Play out the game."—Henry IV., Act II.

"Who's out?"—Lear, Act V.

"To field with him."—Coriolanus, Act II.

"With two pitch balls."—Love's Labor Lost, Act III.

"They pitched in the ground."—Henry VI., Act I.

"I'll bring him home."—Pericles, Act IV.

"I'm right glad to catch."—Henry VIII., Act V.

"So easy a stop."—Henry IV.

"He stopped the fliers."—Coriolanus, Act II.

"If he should even double."—All's Well, Act II.

"I will run no base."—Merry Wives, Act I.

"I'll run for thee."—Midsummer Night's Dream, Act II.

"Thou mayst slide."—Taming of the Shrew, Act IV.

The Frenchman's Fault.

While one of the American frigates was once at Malta some of the crew got into a terrible fight with the crew of a French man-of-war. At the investigation that followed the captain of the maintop said:

"You see, sir, it was all the Frenchman's fault. We was a walking down the street jist as quiet as lambs, sir, when along come some Frenchmen from the Etwoil. I wanted to be civil, so I says to 'em:

"'Will you come in and take a drink?' says I.

"'Kay?' says he.

"'Kay?' says Jimmy Legs, who was with me; 'what kind of an answer is that to give a gentleman?' and he up and hit him; and that's the way the row began, sir. You see it was all the Frenchman's fault, sir.."

Roman Villa Discovered.

Another Roman villa has been dug up at Boscoreale, on the slopes of Vesuvius, near Pompeii, where the great find of silver ornaments was made two years ago. The walls are covered with beautiful frescoes, chiefly landscapes and marines. One represents a bridge over a river, with an angler fishing with a line. Four wine jars were in the cellar and seven skeletons have been found in the excavation.

YOUNG AT SIXTY.

Serene comfort and happiness in advanced years are realized by comparatively few women.

Their hard lives, their liability to serious troubles on account of their peculiar organism and their profound ignorance concerning themselves, all combine to shorten the period of usefulness and fill their later years with suffering.

Mrs. Pinkham has done much to make women strong. She has given advice to many that has shown them how to guard against disease and retain vigorous health in old age. From every corner of the earth there is constantly coming the most convincing statements from women, showing the efficacy of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in overcoming female ills. Here is a letter from Mrs. J. C. Orms, of 220 Horner St., Johnstown, Pa., which is earnest and straight to the point:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I feel it my duty to tell all suffering women that I think your remedies are wonderful. I had trouble with my head, dizzy spells and hot flashes. Feet and hands were cold, was very nervous, could not sleep well, had kidney trouble, pain in ovaries and congestion of the womb. Since taking your remedies I am better every way My head trouble is all gone, have no pain in ovaries, and am cured of womb trouble. I can eat and sleep well and am gaining in flesh. I consider your medicine the best to be had for female troubles."

The present Mrs. Pinkham's experience in treating female ills is unparalelled, for years she worked side by side with Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, and for sometime past has had sole charge of the correspondence department of her great business, treating by letter as many as a hundred thousand ailing women during a single year.

A Wonderful Mineral.

There is a wonderful mineral found in Iceland that possesses the strange property of producing two images of a single object. On looking through it at a pencil, for instance, you will see two pencils, both of which will be clearly defined. The mineral is translucent and crystal-like and goes by the name of Iceland spar. The mine in which it is found is located on the eastern coast of Iceland and is controlled by the Danish Government. The spar is exceedingly valuable, owing to its many uses in the sciences, particularly for the manufacture of optical instruments and for experiments in polarization.

Recounts the Santiago Fight.

"'Twas this way," says Dooley. "Th' Spanish fleet was bottled up in Sandago harbor an' they dhrew th' cork. That's a joke. I see it in th' pa-apers. Th' gallant boys iv th' navy was settin' out on th' deck defindin' their counthry an' dhrawin' three ca-ards apiece whin th' Spanish admiral concluded 'twud be better f'r him to be dhesthroyed on th' ragin' sea, him bein' a sailor, thin to have his fleet captured by cav'lry. Anyhow he was willin' to take a chance, an' he said to his sailors: 'Spanyards,' he says, 'Castiles,' he says, 'we have et th' las' bedtick,' he says, 'I'll have to have a steak off th' armor plate fried f'r ye,' he says. 'Lave us go out where we can have a r-run f'r our money,' he says. An' away they wint. I'll say this much f'r him, he's a brave man, a dam brave man. I don't like a Spanyard no more than ye do, Hinnessy. I niver see wan. But if this here man was a—was a Boohgaryan, I'd say he was a brave man. If I was aboord wan iv thim yachts that was convarted I'd go to this here Cervera an' I'd say: 'Manuel,' I'd say, 'ye're all right, me boy. Ye ought to go to a doctor an' have ye're eyes reset, but ye're a good fellow. Go down stairs,' I'd say, 'into th' basemint iv th' ship,' I'd say, 'an' open th' cupboard jus' nex' to th' head iv th' bed an' find the bottle marked "Floridy water" an' thrate ye'rself kindly.' That's what I'd say to Cervera. He's all right.

"Well, whin our boys see th' Spanish fleet comin' out iv th' harbor they gathered on th' deck an' sang th' naytional anthem: 'They'll be a hot time in th' ol' town to-night.' A lift-nant came up to where Admiral Sampson was sittin' playin' siven up with Admiral Schley. 'Bill,' he says, 'th' Spanish fleet is comin' out,' he says. 'What talk have ye?' says Sampson. 'Sind out some row boats an' a yacht an' desthroy thim. Clubs is thrumps,' he says, an' he wint on playin'. Th' Spanish fleet was attacted on all sides be our br-ave la-ads, nobly assisted be th' dispatch boats iv th' newspapers. Wan be wan they were desthroyed. Three battleships attacted th' convarted yacht Gloucester. Th' Gloucester used to be owned be Pierpont Morgan, but 'twas convarted, an' is now ladin' a dacint life. Th' Gloucester sunk thim all, th' Christobell Comma, the Viscera an' th' Admiral O'Quinn. It thin wint up to two Spanish torpedo boats an' give them wan punch an' away they wint. Be this time th' sojers had heerd of the viethry, an' they gathered on the shore, singin' th' naytional anthem: 'They'll be a hot time in th' ol' town to-night, me babby.' Th' glorious ol' chune to which Washin'ton an' Grant an' Lincoln marched was took up be th' sailors on th' ships an' Admiral Cervera r-run wan iv his boats ashore an' jumped into th' sea."

A Letter from the Front.

Mr. Dooley looked important, but affected indifference. "Hm-m!" he said; "I have news fr'm th' fr-ront. Me nevvew, Terry Donahue, has sint me a letter tellin' me all about it."

"How shud he know?" Mr. Hennessy asked.

"How shud he know, is it?" Mr. Dooley demanded warmly. "How shuddent he know? Isn't he a sojer iv th' ar-rmy? Isn't it him that's down there in Sandago fightin' f'r th' honor iv th' flag while th' likes iv you is up here livin' like a prince an' doin' nawthin' all th' live-long day but shovel slag at th' rollin' mills? Who are ye f'r to criticize th' dayfinders iv our counthry who ar're lyin' in th' thrinches an' havin' th' clothes stole off their backs be th' pathriotic Cubians, I'd like to know? F'r two pins, Hinnessy, you an' I'd quarrel."

"I didn't mean nawthin'," Mr. Hennessy apologized. "I didn't know he was down there."

"Nayether did I," said Mr. Dooley. "But I informed mesilf. I'll have no wan in this place speak again th' ar-rmy. Whin ye come to castin' aspersions on th' arrmy, be hivens, ye'll find that I can put me thumb on this showcase an' go over at wan lep."

"I didn't say annything," said Mr. Hennessy. "I didn't know about Terry."

"Iv coorse ye didn't," said Mr. Dooley. "An' that's what I'm sayin'. Ye'er here wallowin' in luxury, wheelin' pig in'n fr'm morn till night an' ye have no thought iv what's goin' on beyant. You an' Jawn D. Rockefeller, an' Phil Ar-rmour, an' Jay Pierpont Morgan, an' Yerkuss, an' th' r-rest iv ye is settin' back at home figurin' how ye can make some wan else pay ye'er taxes f'r ye. What is to ye that me nevvew Terry is sleepin' in ditch wather an' atin' hard tacks an' coffee an' bein' r-robbed be leeber Cubans, catchin' yallow fever without a chanst iv givin' it to e'er a Spanyard. Ye think more iv a stamp thin ye do iv ye'er counthry. Ye'er like th' Sugar thrust. F'r two cints ye'd rayfuse to support th' gover'mint. I know ye, ye bloated monno-polist."

"I'm no such thing," said Mr. Hennessy hotly.

"Well, annyhow," said Mr. Dooley, "don't speak disrayspictful iv th' ar-rmy. Lave me r-read you Terry's letter fr'm th' fr-ront. 'M—m: In th' thrinches, two miles fr'm Sandago, with a land crab as big as a lobster crawlin' up me back be way iv Kingston, June 6, Dear Uncle Martin.' That's th' way it begins. 'Dear Uncle Martin: We are all well here, excipt thim that is not, an' hope ye'er injyin' th' same gr-reat blessin'. It's hotter down here than Billy-be-dam'd. They'se a rollin' mill near here jus' th' same as at home, but all th' hands is laid off on account iv bad times. They used ol'-fashioned wooden wheelbarrows an' fired with wood. I don't think they cud handle th' pig th' way we done, bein' small la-ads. Th' coke has to be hauled up in sacks be th' gang. Th' derrick hands got six a week, but hadn't anny union. Helpers got four twinty. Puddlers was well paid. I wint through th' plant befure we come up here an' r-run a barrow up th' plank just to keep me hand in. Tell me frinds that wan gang iv good la-ads fr'm th' r-road cud wurruk anny three iv th' gangs down here. Th' mills is owned be Rockefeller, so no more at prisint fr'm ye'er affeeshunate nevvew, Peter Casey, who's writin' this f'r me.'"

"'Tis a good letter," said Mr. Hennessy. "I don't see how they cud get derrick hands f'r six a week."

"Me frind Jawn D. knows how," said Mr. Dooley.—Chicago Journal.

RECORD OF THE WEEK

INDIANA INCIDENTS TERSELY TOLD.

Girl Rejected Him and He Burned Her Father's Barn—Heiress Elopes with an Elderly Coachman—Railway Collision—Wages to Be Reduced.

A Barn Burner Caught.

Dan Rollins' barn, near the west end of Lawrence County, was burned and his house stoned by parties unknown to him. He had no reason to believe that he had an enemy. A neighbor who went over to the fire on horseback hitched his horse some distance from the burning barn, and on going to his horse after the fire, was surprised to find that his saddle had been cut almost to pieces. The bloodhounds at Orleans were sent for and taken to the place of the outrage, and, after being placed on the track, followed it to the house of a young man named Inman, and singled him out from the rest of the family. Inman had been a suitor for the hand of Miss Mary Rollins, a handsome young daughter of Mr. Rollins, but she failed to respond to his attentions and was keeping company with another young man when he called, but did not go in. His jealousy prompted him to move on and fire the barn and stone the house. He was arrested and at a preliminary trial confessed the deed, giving the reason as stated above.

Heiress Weds a Coachman.

Greendale is stirred up by the elopement of Hiram B. Skidmore, a widower of 44, and the father of four children, with Inez M. Garst, the 17-year-old granddaughter of Col. Ezra G. Hayes, one of the most prominent citizens of the county. Skidmore was coachman for Jacob Bauer, the wealthy manufacturer, and Miss Garst, who is an heiress, was a visitor at his palatial home and almost daily rode about the city, while the expert coachman handled the horses. The license was procured and Rev. Mr. Watkins of Guilford performed the marriage ceremony. The girl bride will inherit considerable property through her deceased mother when she becomes of lawful age.

Trust Will Cut Wages.

C. H. Garvey, auditor of the trust, and L. H. Gedge, manager of the big trust plants at Anderson, which employ 900 men, retired from the wire nail trust. It is reliably understood others have been bought out by the principal trust capitalists and that Secretary Buffington may also retire. The trust will adopt a tight system. They will work for every dollar possible, and to that end the present fair wages of the thousand workmen in their many plants over the country will be cut deep at once. A few capitalists now control the American production absolutely.

Collision on the Wabash.

There was a bad wreck at Williamsport, when a gravel train and the west-bound local freight, each drawn by a mogul engine and running at a high rate of speed, collided head on. Both locomotives were almost entirely destroyed and the cars were piled up, blockading the track for many hours. The trouble resulted from a misunderstanding of a time order. The engine crews escaped by jumping. The company loss will be $5,000.

Within Our Borders.

At Indianapolis, the Hay & Willets Bicycle Company, manufacturers of the Outing, filed mortgages aggregating $25,000.

At Columbus, Stephen Cooper, a notorious character, was shot and instantly killed by Sheriff Thomas Cox while resisting arrest.

The twenty-fourth annual reunion of old settlers at Owen and adjoining counties will be held at Quincy on Thursday, Aug. 11.

James Cole, colored, shot and killed his divorced wife and shortly afterward killed himself. The tragedy took place four miles northwest of Washington.

The Noblesville coil hoop factory, owned by John W. Durflinger, was destroyed by fire. The flames were of incendiary origin. Loss, $5,000; insured for $1,000.

Ten young women of Hartford City have formed a man-haters' club. Each member of the organization has foresworn the society of the detested male sex.

Three masked men overpowered the watchman at Buescher Manufacturing Company's plant at Elkhart, bound him hand and foot, blew the safe with three charges of nitroglycerin and secured $175 in money and stamps.

Mrs. Frances Anderson, aged 78, a widow, living at Independence, committed suicide by walking out into the Wabash near that place and drowning herself in shallow water. It is supposed her mind had become unbalanced.

Mrs. Hannah Clark, a wealthy widow of Elkhart County, has given to the city of Elkhart the Clark Homeopathic Hospital and Training School for Surgeons and Nurses. The building is modernly equipped and valued at $15,000.

The west-bound Air Line passenger was wrecked at Georgetown and Engineer William Cravans of New Albany, John Elwood of Corydon Junction, a passenger, and an unknown tramp were killed. A switch engine standing on the track without a signal caused the wreck.

All union painters employed by members of the Contractors' Association at Indianapolis quit work. The contractors have been paying 30 cents an hour, but at a recent meeting resolved to pay "what men are worth," it being understood that no more than 25 cents an hour would be paid.

George W. Hall of the State Board of Health and State Veterinarian F. Balser of New Castle have examined the dairy cows in New Albany which were affected with anthrax. They were found to be improving, and as they are effectually quarantined a spread of the disease is not feared.

Fire destroyed four ricks of cornstalks at Linden. These stalks cost $3 per ton and are used in the cellulose factory. The total loss will be near $2,000. Origin of fire unknown.

Morrison Goens, head foreman of the Romona oolitic stone quarry, near Spencer, was instantly killed by the breaking of a derrick. The channeler which it was lifting fell on him.

George Oler, 50 years old, a prominent Hagerstown farmer, committed suicide. He was found in a barn by his wife with his head nearly severed and a razor in his hand. The motive is unknown.

The Anderson iron and bolt plants in Anderson were closed by the workmen walking out because of the headers being cut 10 per cent. The company, without argument, locked the gates and posted a notice that the plant was closed indefinitely.

While threshing on the farm of L. C. Merritt, south of Russiaville, a large stick of dynamite was found in the separator by the workmen. A stone had run through the cylinder, knocking out several teeth, and it was while making the repairs the dynamite was found. The machine had run nearly all day with the explosive lying within a few inches of the cylinder.

Commodore Watson's expedition will disturb the plans of the nobility and aristocracy of Spain who are in the habit of spending the summer at San Sebastian, a very attractive resort upon the northern coast of Spain, in the province of Quipuzcoa. It is the country of the Basques, who are the proudest people on the peninsula. They claim to be descended directly from Cain, without the intervention of Noah, and that their dialect is the language spoken by Adam and Eve in paradise. San Sebastian has been for many years the summer capital of Spain. The Queen goes there the beginning of every June and usually remains until October. It has a most delightful climate; the scenery is picturesque and all the surroundings are much more attractive and comfortable than those at Madrid. But the city is so exposed to the sea that it could be easily destroyed by a single gunboat, and although it is not probable that Commodore Watson will attack an unfortified pleasure resort the Spaniards are very timid and will undoubtedly remain in the interior.

While Capt. Eulate of the Vizcaya is at Annapolis he will have plenty of time to reflect upon the rashness of a promise he made in the presence of several American officers and newspaper correspondents at the Hotel Ingleterre while he was in Havana in command of the Vizcaya, shortly after the destruction of the Maine. The fighting capacity of Capt. Robley Evans and the battleship Iowa being the subject of discussion, Capt. Eulate was imprudent enough to predict that if there was a war he would capture the Iowa and tow her [illegible] notified of it till 3 p. m. of the [illegible] day. Besides how could Gen. Mi[illegible] know what was going on thousands miles away while he was on the sea his way to the island.

In the landing of Miles on Porto R[illegible] co, the chief fighting was done by th[illegible] Gloucester, the same little unarmore[illegible] Mr. Quesada, [illegible] Washington of the Cuban junta, sought an interview with Secretary Alger to protest against the retention of Spanish officials at Santiago, and to demand the appointment of insurgents in their places, but he obtained no satisfaction. He was informed that the President and the officers of the army were thoroughly displeased with the conduct of the Cubans at Santiago, and that unless they behaved themselves better their rations and supplies of ammunition would be cut off.

One of the rough riders from the far West came into the War Department on crutches and was warmly received everywhere. When somebody asked him, in a contemptuous way, how he got along with the dudes in his regiment he replied: "I used to despise dudes before I went to war, but now I like them. You never can tell what a man amounts to by the way he wears his clothes. In our regiment the worse the dude the better the fighter."

* * *

The steamers Resolute, Olivette, Breakwater, City of Washington, Seneca, Solace and other ships which brought up the wounded will return full of everything needed by the soldiers in the way of food and clothing, and the Glacier started with 4,000 tons of dressed beef. Fifty thousand light canvas uniforms will be sent. They are very much needed, as most of the troops are still wearing the regulation woolen uniform.

* * *

Assistant Surgeon General Greenleaf, who is in charge of medical affairs of the army in front of Santiago, sends most encouraging reports concerning the yellow fever and the sanitary condition of the troops. Very few of them have been exposed, and Dr. Greenleaf sees no reason why nearly all the regiments may not participate in the Porto Rican expedition. Most of the cases of fever are of a very mild type.

* * *

Mendez Capote, vice-president of the Cuban republic, having failed to secure official recognition from the Government of the United States, has gone to Mexico to solicit the good offices of President Diaz, who has shown much sympathy with the insurgents. Mr. Capote hopes to persuade President Diaz to use his influence with President McKinley to recognize the Gomez Government.

* * *

There is no doubt a great opportunity to make money at Santiago in legitimate enterprises, particularly trading in the necessaries of life. The Spanish army has eaten up everything in the way of food and the provision stores are empty. The entire population must be supplied from this country for several months. There is said to be plenty of money in the place.

* * *

The Government is sending large cargoes of supplies of every kind to the quartermaster and commissary department. The contractors are beginning to turn in enormous quantities of clothing and food, which will be issued to the eastern armies, for the Manila troops have been very thoroughly equipped and do not need any more.

* * *

It is the intention of the President to recognize the insurgent element when appointments of natives are made to local offices. But he wants to avoid anything that looks like factional representation. In selecting officials he proposes to take the best men he can find, regardless of their attitude toward the insurrection.

* * *

The prediction made by Horatio Rubens, counsel of the junta at New York, that unless we recognized the insurgents we would have to fight them, is likely to come true sooner than any one expected, for the dispatches from Santiago already report very ugly feeling between the Cubans under Garcia and the American soldiers. The former have conducted themselves in such a way as to forfeit the confidence and respect of our army, although they continue to eat rations and carry arms and ammunition issued to them by our Government.

Small Death Rate.

Of the 1,584 men wounded before Santiago only sixty-eight have died. The surgeons are amazed at this small percentage of mortality. Nearly all the wounded men are getting well, and it is claimed that never in the history of war have gunshot wounds proved less fatal or healed so rapidly.

Strengthen Their Defenses.

Spaniards are working night and day on the defenses of Manila. They have placed many mines in the highways and have dug pits and filled them with upturned lancehends.

WILD GAME

Becoming a Nuisance in West Virginia—Destroying Farm Products.

Farmers and sportsmen in West Virginia find themselves in an unenviable position at present. They have a game law now which is anything but satisfactory. Wild turkeys are eating everything left outside the sheds, while deer are stalking into the barnyards without any one to molest or make them afraid, all this because of a misunderstanding on the part of those who wanted to protect the game. C. M. Hostetter, who has been in close communication with many of the mountain people, spoke yesterday of the amusing predicament in which they find themselves at present. Said he:

"Last year the West Virginia people decided that their game preserves were being too freely used by outsiders, and they took immediate steps to have the laws tightened up. As a result it was made an offense punishable by fine to shoot a deer within the borders of West Virginia until 1901. The killing of turkey, grouse and quail was also cut off for some years.

"The result of this law has been most alarming. Until it was made an offense against the law to kill game the people did not know how much there was down there. If the people who had those laws passed had their say now they would send out special invitations to hunters to come in and kill all the game they could see. I have it from some of the best people in the State that the turkeys have become alarmingly bold and had a great time eating up the corn last fall. In some parts of the State the deer have come up into the yards and herded with the cattle, so fearless and contented are they. Game seems to have really overrun the State. I have it on the best authority that at the meeting of the next Legislature at Charleston there will be a movement on foot to repeal the game laws now in force."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Nut Trees.

The age at which any nut trees come into bearing depends on the care given to the trees. Some authorities state that fifteen or twenty years are necessary to bring them into full bearing from the time the nut is planted. This is a mistake, as trees that have been well cared for should bear a bushel of nuts in ten years, and the amount will increase rapidly each year after that time. Some may enjoy raising these trees from seed; to be sure, it is rather a slow process, but it is interesting work. When planting the nuts, if they have thin shells, be perfectly sure that they have not dried out at all. The best plan is to get them as soon as they ripen and plant them at once. When this is not possible, keep them in moist sand or sawdust until they can be started. Butternuts, walnuts, hickory nuts and filberts, being hard-shelled, will keep in growing condition much longer, but should be planted in the fall, as they germinate better when allowed to freeze, as that cracks the shell. The fall planting is nature's own plan, and the nearer we follow her ways the better results we may expect. Another thing, do not plant the nuts deep; nature drops them on the surface and gives them a thick covering of leaves in which the dirt catches as it blows about, then the snow covers all and helps the leaves to decay and form a covering of leaf mould for the tree to grow in. It is not practicable for any of us to try to raise all these kind of nuts, but select the ones most likely to succeed in our climate and by proper care and attention make a success of it. We may not reap the benefit of our labors, but our children will, and theirs after them.—Vick's Magazine.

What Will Become of China?

None can foresee the outcome of the quarrel between foreign powers over the division of China. It is interesting to watch the going to pieces of this race. Many people are also going to pieces because of dyspepsia, constipation and stomach diseases. Good health can be retained if we use Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.

Legal Methods in Chili.

In Chili there are no monopolies, individuals or societies accorded special trade privileges; patents last ten years. Trade-marks are not always protected, however, and law-suits are so protracted and expensive that established houses engage their lawyers at stated annual salary, and make no transactions beyond the ordinary without consulting them.

Nerves Out of Tune.

Just as the strings of a musical instrument get out of tune through lack of care and break out into ear-torturing discords when touched, so the human nerves get out of tune, and make everybody miserable that comes in contact with them. Every tobacco user's nerves are out of tune more or less, and the real tobacco slave's nerves are relaxed to the utmost. No-To-Bac is the tuning key which tightens the nerves, makes them respond quickly to the emotions, resulting in the happiness of all. No-To-Bac guaranteed tobacco habit cure, makes weak men strong. We advise all tobacco users to take No-To-Bac.

Harnessing Niagara.

The engineering works for connecting and distributing the energy of Niagara are partly finished on the American side of the falls. One of the features is the gigantic wheel pit, cut out of the solid rock, for housing the 5,000-horse power turbines. The enormous dynamos are marvels of construction. When similar works are completed on the Canadian side, it is anticipated that 350,000-horse power will be available for motive force, yet this is only about one-twentieth of the energy latent in the falls. Its distribution, however, will have a marked effect on the industry of the territory through which it will spread.—Inverness Courier.

A Romance of the Hospital.

At Nachod, near Prague, there is a hospital at which the nurses are nuns. A young man named Horina was taken there suffering from several sabre wounds he had received in a quarrel. He was given over to the charge of a young and pretty nun, Sister Huberta. In a few days he was discharged cured, but by this time severe symptoms of love had developed. He proceeded to the nun's parents with the intention of gaining her hand in marriage, but his offer was rejected, and he returned to the hospital, where the authorities refused him all admission, in spite of his threats to shoot himself if thwarted. The police took a revolver away from the love-sick Romeo, and ordered him to quit Nachod. He obeyed their instructions implicity, but not before he had succeeded in abducting the object of his passion, the young worldly inclined nun taking advantage of the evening meal to climb over the fence, and thence into a carriage in which sat her lover.—Glasgow Weekly Mail.

THE AUBURN CARNIVAL

A Vision of Loveliness, of Parades and Pageant, of Music and Flowers

The Plans Are All Matured, and The Officers Know just What We Are Going To Have.

Upon enquiry by our reporter we learned of the perfected arrangements the Carnival officers have made for the greatest entertainment ever presented to our people.

Our business men and citizens generally are heartily supporting the movement and its success is assured. Arrangements are now complete for a program even more attractive and expensive than last year's.

The advertising matter, including cuts, is all made to order and will be new and elaborate.

THE GREAT PAGEANT

A royal pageant of highly decorated floats to be one afternoon and one evening, will be among the principal features.

ELECTRICAL DISPLAY

The electrical display at night will surpass anything ever seen in this section. Costly apparatus will be rented and something new in this line presented. There will also be a large electric fountain and search lights. A Vaudeville entertainment will be given by the best artists every morning and after noon.

THE FLOWE PARADE

A new feature of this year's Carnival will be a flower festival or parade, in which a large number of vehicles will appear each decorated with a different flower. These flower parades have been given with great success in many of our cities.

THE CHILDREN'S PARADE

Another part of the program never before seen in the state will be the the masked festivity of children one afternoon of the Carnival. Anyone 15 years of age or under will be asked to represent a character and mask, enjoying the privilege of the streets. It is expected 500 to 1000 young people will take part.

LIVING STATUARY

A living statuary show will be given, bands of music engaged for the week and the entire city profusely decorated

FLAGS AND LIGHTS.

Thousands of yellow and blue flags and candles will be sold by the association at manufacture's prices. The flags will be made by the women.

EXCURSION TRAINS

Excursion trains and half rates on all railroads are assured. We will have a large crowd and if possible a greater show than last year.

CARNIVAL BADGES.

A beautiful design in a badge and souvenir is being made and will be on sale at several business houses for 5c, a trifle above actual cost. The association will furnish them in quantities of 100 or more at cost.

LODGES AND CLUBS

Every lodge and organization is asked to furnish a float in the pageant. So far as the secretary has been able to solicit them personally not one has refused to take part. All will be called on as soon as possible. Let everyone assist in making this year's Carnival a pronounced success.

She has been stauck by cars twice before, and had several times fallen into the cellar and been caught in burning buildings. Mr. Bliss is publishing a paper in Pensacola, Florida.

WILLING TO HELP

Securing freedom from the grip of catarrh makes loyal friends for the liberator.

Pe-ru-na has been making friends of this kind for many years. It cures catarrh wherever located.

Mrs. R. Eades, of 35 Twenty-eighth St., Detroit, Mich., is one of the many thousand of Pe-ru-na's friends. This is what she says to Dr. Hartman:

"We have used your Pe-ru-na with the most remarkable results and would not be without it. We have always recommended it to our friends. A few years ago I purchased a bottle of your Pe-ru-na and after seeing its results, recommended it to my grocer who was troubled with dyspepsia, the curing of which induced her to sell it in her store. She has sold large amounts of it. My daughter has just been cured of jaundice with Pe-ru-na. My pen would grow weary were I to begin to tell you of the numerous cures Pe-ru-na has effected in our immediate vicinity within the last couple of years."

Dr. Hartman, President of the Surgical Hotel, Columbus, Ohio, will counsel and prescribe for fifty thousand women this year free of charge. Every suffering woman should write for special question blank for women, and have Dr. Hartman's book, "Health and Beauty." All druggists sell Pe-ru-na.

SAGINAW'S TURN.

Bert. Ellis, the Best Known Traveling Man in the Valley, Talks on a SUBJECT OF PUBLIC INTEREST.

SAGINAW MICH.—Mr. A. G. Ellis, of this city, is probably the best known traveling man in Michigan. Nearly every one in Saginaw Valley knows "Bert" Ellis. For twenty years he has carried his samples and good nature to his many merchant friends, who are always glad to see him. But Mr. Ellis had trouble the same as other people. Twenty years of traveling, hardly two meals in the same place, or twice in the same bed, called at all hours of the night to make the next town, smoking probably to excess, are conditions which injured Mr. Ellis's health. He became nervous, his sleep broken, and restless; his stomach troublesome; his heart's action irregular, and his entire system debilitated. In speaking recently with your correspondent, Mr. Ellis said: "As the troubles I mentioned became more aggravating I decided to use Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer. The improvement in my condition was remarkable. I was able to secure restful sleep, my nervousness was overcome, stomach trouble corrected; heart's action became regular; in fact I became as well as ever, even in the face of the fact that I still smoke and continued to travel."

Mr. Ellis's experience is similar to thousands of traveling men and others who smoke to excess and are irregular and indiscreet in diet and sleep. There can only be one result—debilitated nerves. It is equally true that there is only one successful method of correcting such conditions.—Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer.

THAT SCHOOL FUND

Let Wild Talk Stop And Plain Truth Be Known

Several county papers of the kind that live by making believe they are "down on corruption" are just now engaged in discussing some fancied abuse of the school funds. They simply make themselves ridiculous. They evidently believe or want their readers to think, that the school money collected of the taxpayers is taken by officials at the court house, to use in some improper way. But they know better if they only stop to think. The facts are reported in a sworn statement recently published, showing that every dollar of school money collected of the taxpayers was paid out by the treasurer to proper trustees. Gentlemen look it up and learn the facts.

Now, what are the facts on which this wild talk is based? Let us explain.

There is a certain fund that came originally from the sale of the school lands in each township. This money is loaned out on farm lands and if the officer is careful, the security is good, the interest is always paid in advance, and when the note and mortgage is due, the principal is paid back into the county treasury, to be again loaned out on similar security. The principal is never used, but is guaranteed to be kept whole, and if by reason of bad security it is lost or any portion lost, it is replaced by the county out of the county funds. In this way, are told, the county lost some money several years ago. But whether it did or not, the money was not used by the officer. It was lost because the farmer to whom it was loaned, failed to pay it back and could not be made to do so, because the security was not good. This is all there is of this abundance of talk about the school money being used by county officers. They have not used a penny of it. The interest on these loans is used to pay teachers, and is an available tuition school fund the same as the school money raised by taxation. Let us suggest to the republican part of these newspapers, that at present the only county officers who can get at this money are the auditor, a democrat and the treasurer a republican. The auditor is doing his duty thorougly in seeing that the school fund is properly used and accounted for. It never was more carefully and honestly managed, or in better shape than now. We would be glad to have our readers of all classes of politics keep the articles we have on this subject for the exact faces are given as shown on the records. Their truth is, easily proved.

LATEST WAR NEWS.

—Russell Hoisington, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Hoisington, has been visiting the family of Geo. Lanning a few days, as well as the other relatives. His mother will be remembered as Belle Lanning and their home is at Adrian, Mich.

—Many south end people are going to the new wells with jugs and taking home the fine, cold water to drink, The workmen on the building are enjoying it. It is almost ice cold, yet they say they drink great quantities of it, without feeling any bad effects.

—The house and barn belonging to Jacob Sommers was struck by lightning about 4 a. m. The house was but slightly damaged, but the barn and its contents were burned. Contents consisted of 50 tons of hay and 270 bushel of wheat. No insurance.

DIED.

Mrs. Susan Shaffer died at her home in Sedan, on Thursday at the age of 62 years. The funeral was at 3 p. m. today. Mrs. Shaffer had been a sufferer for about six years. We believe the is a relative to E. M. Bishop and was a well known and respected citizen.

RELIABILITY

is a quality some newspapers have lost sight of in these days of "yellow" journalism. They care little for truth and a great deal for temporary sensation.

It is not so with THE CHICAGO RECORD.

The success of THE RECORD rests upon its reliability.

It prints the news—all the news—and tells the truth about it.

It is the only American newspaper outside New York city that has its own exclusive dispatch boat service and its own staff correspondents and artists at the front in both hemispheres.

It is the best illustrated daily newspaper in the world.

Its war news service is unapproachably the best.

Says the Urbana (Ill.) Daily Courier:

"We read the war news in the other papers, then we turn to THE CHICAGO RECORD to see how much of it is true."

Sold by newsdealers everywhere and subscriptions received by all postmasters. Address THE CHICAGO RECORD, 181 Madison street, Chicago.

Advice to Consumptives

There are three great remedies that every person with weak lungs, or with consumption itself, should understand. These remedies will cure about every case in its first stages; and many of those more advanced. It is only the most advanced that are hopeless. Even these are wonderfully relieved and life itself greatly prolonged.

What are these remedies? Fresh air, proper food and of Cod-Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. Be afraid of draughts but not of fresh air. Eat nutritious food and drink plenty of milk. Do not forget that Scott's Emulsion is the oldest, the most thoroughly tested and the highest endorsed of all remedies for weak throats, weak lungs and consumption in all its stages.

Scott's Emulsion

50c. and $1.00; all druggists.

STRUCK THE GENERAL

The reports that a newspaper correspondent struck Gen. Shafter at Santiago turns out to be true. It was at the ceremony of surrendering the city. They were in the public square, the U. S. regulars drawn up in line, the Spanish generals present, and then Gen. Shafter ordered two officers to go up onto the palace roof and raise the American flag, Sylvester Scovel, correspondent of the New York World, crowded up against the guard and was determined to go up with officers. He was ordered back, but resisted, and finally was driven back by force. This made him so hungry that he turned to Gen. Shafter and slapped him on the face. Shafter had him arrested and put in prison. It is an unusual offense, and there seems to be no law provided for it. Shafter is a corps cemmander, and is at the head of the army in Cuba.

The insult was the most public possible, done in presence of the soldiers and on the moment of an important ceremony of surrender, and even in presence of Spanish officers. It is not known what the punishment will be. But at the very least Scovel will be sent at home as a prisoner and not allowed to return. Or, it may be there is some Spanish law that may reach him, as those laws are still in force there.

Free Pills.

Send your address to H. E. Bucklen & Co., Chicago, and get a free sample of Dr. King's New Life pills. A trial will convince you of their merits. These pills are easy in action and are particularly effective in the cure of consumption and sick headache. For Malaria and liver troubles they have been proved invaluable. They are guaranted to be perfectly free from every deleterious substance and to be purely vegetable. They do not weaken by their action, but by giving tone to stomach and bowels greatly invigorate the system. Regular size 25c per box. Sold at Robbins & McCord's drug store.

OUR NAVAL BATTLES

The most noted of our naval battle with foreign nations, were, that of Paul Jones in the Revolutionary war, when, on the coast of Scotland he captured the British ship Serapis, 70 guns Sept. 23, 1789.

In the trouble with France, our ship, Constellation, 26 guns captured and sunk the L' Insurgent, 40 guns.

WAR OF 1812.

Coast of United States—Constitution, 44 guns, sinks the Guerriere, 38 guns, in 30 minutes, August 19, 1812.

Madeira—United States, 44 guns, captures the Macedonian, 40 guns. October 25, 1812.

Brazil—Constitution captures the Java, December 29, 1812.

Demerara River—Hornet captures the Peacock, February 24, 1813.

Lake Erie—Perry, with 54 guns, defeats the English fleet, with 63 guns, September 10, 1813.

Lake Champlain—McDonough, with 86 guns, defeats the English fleet, with 96 guns, September 11, 1814.

In all of her naval conflicts with England, France, Spain and the Tripoli pirates, the United States has never sustained what would be considered a crushing defeat. She has lost individual vessels, but only after the most desperate resistance.

—Miss Bessie Case and her friend of Fairfield, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. John Zimmer. Miss Case expects to stay a week or two with relatives here in Auburn.

Friday's Daily.

—Simon Pokagon, the Indian chief is reported near death at his home at Lee, Mich.

—Earl Best, of Minneapolis, is in the city, a guest in the family of his uncle, J. E. Rose.

—Mrs. Wm. Buss and daughter, Florence, spent today very pleasantly with the family of Ben. Crew.

—Joseph Blazek, of Napoleon, Ohio, is in the city the guest of his wife. She is better known as Miss Leota Crew.

—Miss VanDoren has gone to Angola where she will be the guest a week or two of Mrs. H. K. Scott and other friends.

—Mr. and Mrs. Garwood, of Akron, Ohio, are in the city, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Brown, who are old friends.

—Mrs. H. Cramer, of Elkhart, sister of Mrs. I M. Johnson came this afternoon and will be here for some time as her guest.

—LOST:—Thursday, July 7, a fur collarette, somewhere on the road between Kendallville and Avilla. Finder will be suitably rewarded by leaving at this office.

—Mrs. Trover was suddenly called to Monroeville this morning by the death of her daughter's little girl at that place. She left on the forenoon south bound train.

—Work has begun on addition that is to be made at the Presbyterian church. The size of the addition is to be such as to accommodate the new organ, and no more.

—Sylvester Johnson son of N. Johnson is moving his household goods from Garrett teday and will occupy the house in Gas Addition lately vacated by Charley Reesh.

Thousands of persons have been cured of piles by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It heals promptly and cures eczema and all skin diseases. It gives immediate relief. H. B. McCord.

—Mrs. J. W. Smith and daughter, Mrs. Henry Funk and two children, and Mrs. Elmer Hull drove up near Fairfield today where they will be engaged in picking huckleberries on the Andrew Smith farm for a few days.

—Win your battles against disease by acting promptly. One Minute Cough Cure produces immediate results When taken early it prevents consumption. And in later stages it furnishes prompt relief. H. B. McCord.

—Mrs. W. B. Brown entertained last evening a number of lady friends to tea, in honor of Mrs. C. W. Kaley, of Red Cloud, Neb. Mrs. Kaley has been here for a time visiting her brother, Morris Widney, and sisters, Mrs. A. Lewis and Mrs. Lodewick.

—E. C. Blanks, of Lewisville, Texas writes that one box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve was worth $50.00 to him. It cured his piles of ten years standing. He advises others to try it. It also cures eczema, skin diseases and obstinate sores. H. B. McCord.

—Dr. Vesta M. Swarts went today to Williamsport, Ind, where she will remain with the family of her son, Dr. Willard Swarts a few days for a much needed rest. There has been a good deal of sickness this season, and constant calls for services of this kind have made a season of rest imperative.

—Mr. S. Duck met with quite an accident this morning. He had been at work only about five minues when his foot slipped throwing his right hand on a small saw which cut a bad gash in the ball of the thumb which had to be stitched together. The back of the two front fingers were slghtly cut. Dr. Swarts dressed the wound.

C. C. Shaffer was pleasantly surprised this morning, by a visit from a nephew he had not seen for some time. It was Ithomar Shaffer, of Butler, Ohio who used to sell goods to our hardware men some years ago, but who had not been here for eighteen years. The visit was mutually pleasant. He went to Albion at noon and will make a visit with Elza Shaffer.

—Mrs. F. E. Lane has a letter from her husband dated Monday in which he says, they did not then know when they would start for the seat of war. Of course there are plenty of rumors, and troops are leaving other camps and some even from Tampa, but the 157th will have to wait till called on. But it will be ready to go at a moment's notice and glad of the chance.

—The editor yesterday received a nice gift from Geo. Everett in Co. K. It was an ink-stand, the inkwell of which is incased in what has the look of a section cut off of a growing orange tree, while around the outside is coiled a little alligator. It looks so natural, that G. S. McCord's real 'gator would acknowledge relationship at sight. Mr. Everett has thanks for it.

—Eugene E. Davis, the singer found three of his old pupils at the Opera House the evening he was here. Two reside in Auburn, and one at Waterloo The wife of Rev. Geo. Englman is one of them, but we did not learn the names of the other two. Mr. Davis was formerly a teacher in the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, and finds pupils of that school in almost every community. He and his company were at Kendallville last evening. Tonight they are billed for Coldwater.

IT IS STRANGE

JUST LIKE A HOG.

H. C. Shull, had his usually pleasant temper nearly wreckek yesterday. He discovered a big half wild male hog making himself at home in Shull's oat field near the Morningstar bridge. Of course he proceeded to get the fellow out. But his hogship was well suited with things as he found them, and proposed to stay. And like all hogs under such circumstances, he proceeded to fortify his position and establish a skirmish line. Shull called up re-enforcements, and when these proved too few, he called in his reserves and so on, till no less than eight persons, young and old, were after that hog, besides being ably seconded by Mr. Shull's dog. But the dog got the worst of it. The hog had long tusks and whenever the dog got, what he considered too gay and familiar, he just made a rush, and the air for six feet above would be filled with a mixture of dog and oxygen. But at the end of nearly half a day, the animal was caught and brought to town, where after showing his prowess at several points as he passed through the city, he was landed at Mr. Shull's and cooped up. And now Mr. Shull is anxious to find the owner, and get rid of the troublesome boarder.

FROM COMPANY K 157TH IND.

PORT TAMPA CITY, FLA.
Co. K 157th Ind., Vol. July, 25, '98.

EDITOR COURIER:—No doubt the people of Auburn are under the impression that our regiment is included in the Porto Rico expedition, but they are away off—about as far as we are from Porto Rico. We are now under the impression that our regiment has never been booked for anything, unless, it was to grub palmetto sprouts all along the west coast of Florida. From present indication we are more liable to be heroes of the pick and shovel than the gun. The fact of the situation is, we all feel very blue over the matter, and there is a general sentiment expressed by the regiment that if we had known that our enlistment had proven so insignificent in the sight of the goverment, some one else would have composed the 157th. It is a mystery why we have not been included in some of the expeditions which have left this port, when we were among the very first to move here, and regiments have been sent from Chickamauga Park and other points and embarked here and we have been slighted. We have received orders to move to Fernandina, Fla., but as to when we go is hard to tell, probably not at all. The order may be like the ones for Santiago, "No Good." The boys did not enlist for a "wild goose chase" over the southern extremity of the U. S. domain. Our patriotic desires are as hard to appease as any other regiment in the army, and will be sadly disappointed and ashamed to return home if we are not properly recognized. So much for these thoughts: Nevertheles, in every other way we are progressing nicely. We have plenty of drills, fatigue duty, plenty to eat, very hot weather and enough rain. We have had some elegant downpours during the past month. Still our southern friends here inform us that we have not yet seen a "real rain." Well, they can have all the "real rains" they want, but for our part we will remain content with only a drizzle. At this season of the year here there is nothing raised but rainbows, sometimes they are failure as it rains so much at times that there is no room for rainbows. The boys are anxious to know how many acres of sprouts there are to grub at Fernandina. Judging from the number of picks, spades and axes issued recently to each company, there'll be enough to make us realize that we are living and to pay for the "routes" we have taken.

The boys in Co. K are all enjoying reasonably good health, in fact, there is no sickness reported in the regiment except a few minor ailments, which are due mostly to intemperance of some nature. While it is a fact that a great many reports have gone out from the regiment to various homes that sanitary conditions were were very bad and that there was a great deal of sickness prevalent, they are only exaggerated reports, and strongly drawn from the imagination of those who do not like the country and who have been more deeply impressed by occasional reports reports of yellow fever epidemic along the most southern extremities of the state. There has been only one death in the regiment, the death of Lieut. Shade of, Co. C, which occurred last week. While the regiment was greatly saddened by the occurence, yet we are very thankful that our regiment has been so fortunate in not losing more of her men. If we should compare the per cent of sickness and deaths which occur in an equal number of men at home, conditioned about the same, I think the result would be in our favor. So much for an efficient medical corps and sanitary rigidness.

Several thousand men have embarked here during the past week for Porto Rico. You can guess how blue the boys feel when they see big ship loads of comrades leave the dock, with bands playing some national air, amid great cheering and singing. Even if we should not enjoy any of these honors, we will never regret having offered ourselves, and the life we have experienced. There is some talk of our regiment being placed under Fitzhugh Lee's command. If that should be the case we will in all probability participate in the Cuban expedition.

It is very doubtful whether any army on earth has been any better equipped than our government is now equipping her soldiers. We have everything that could possibly be produced for camp comfort. Our regiment will be issued tan colored summer uniforms this week. The design of the uniform is very neat and dressy. A private's uniform will be trimmed with blue collars and cuffs. In fact, the men have most too much to carry and care for. A soldier equipped in heavy marching order will have to carry a change of underwear, an extra pair of shoes, half of a tent, a woolen and rubber blanket, hammock, knapsack, haversack, canteen, gun and a belt holding forty-five rounds of ammunition. Anyone not knowing just how to carry same would find it quite heavy and inconvenient to carry.

Mosquitoes are indeed very bad at nights. They are of a very large species and do not hesitate a moment to bite through your clothes, and a good night's rest is indeed a novelty. The boys build big smudge fires every night and keep their tents full of smoke from 7 o'clock in the evening until morning. Even then a few of the pests make bold to enter and torment. Job's trial and afflictions are not a circumstance compared to their persecutions.

Capt. Lahnum is growing more popular every day in our military circles, and his militar efficiency gains higher recognition the older our regiment grows. And Co. K. too may justly feel proud of him, as he has proven to be all that may be desired both as a commander and a gentleman.

Mrs. Maj. Kuhlman, Mrs. Capt. Lahnum, and Mrs. Serg't. Picker made their husbands happy last week by their appearance. The boys were also gladdened by messages from relatives at home delivered by them. A familiar face is indeed a feast for all of us.

There is quite a business air prevalent in the regiment. The boys have devised several little commercial schemes by which they have made quite a good thing without conflict with their military duties. Co. K has over $200 in her treasury, which she owes to the Yankee thriff of some of her most wide-a-wake boys, among whom are Sergeant Brown and Jolliff During last week the boys cleared over $100 by running a lemonade stand for company. The money will be used for little extras while traveling, etc.

Chaplain Medbury entertains the regiment each Sunday with an excellent discourse. The Chaplain may count every man his friend in the regiment, as he has gained the confidence of everyone by his efficency and interest he takes in all. He has been the instrument of much good here, and it is to be hoped that the good work may continue. There have already been several conversions caused by his influence.

Your correspondent has been made to feel very bad over the report made by some of the recruits who recently enlisted at Auburn. They reported that proper courtesy and respect had not been paid to the people while recruiting there. I think it is needless to say that the good people of Auburn could not raise the least complaint, and that no one could say they did not receive proper courtesy, considering the circumstace under which the recruiting officer was thrown.

The boys of Co. K feel very grateful for the daily papers sent them, and feel disappointed if they fail to arrive regular. We will try and furnish a more newsy letter next time.

Yours truly,
PRIVATE.

LATEST WAR NEWS.

Thursday's Daily.

Spanish troops on the island of Porto Rico, are being concentrated at the chief city, San Juan, in the hope that they may be able to keep the Americans at bay, and perhaps save the city. They are strengthening the defenses.

The talk of peace will not prevent our going right on with all our military and naval movements. Some of our people think the talk of peace by Spain is but a trick to gain time, but it will not do them much good as we propose to keep right on walking over Cuba, Porto Rico and the Phillippines. Spain must give up her property in the new world. Her conduct has been such that no other course should be considered.

It is believed that re-enforcements are reaching Gen. Miles on Porto Rico every day.

Spain complains that we landed on Porto Rico after they had asked for a peace conference. This is not true. Miles landed on that island Monday, July 25, and Spain's dispatch did not reach the French Ambassador at Washington till the morning of the 26th, and President McKinley was not notified of it till 3 p. m. of the same day. Besides how could Gen. Miles know what was going on thousands of miles away while he was on the sea on his way to the island.

In the landing of Miles on Porto Rico, the chief fighting was done by the Gloucester, the same little unarmored yacht that did a good deal of the hottest fighting when Cervera's fleet was destroyed. He is getting even for the loss of his personal property on the Maine, where he was an officer.

Louis Kemper, an officer in an Illinois regiment has been appointed postmaster at Santiago, and is now handling mails for the Dons and Yankees.

Friday's Daily.

France has sent to our state department a protest against the seizure of a French merchant vessel, the Roderiguez. It was taken by one of our gunboats because she appeared to be trying to enter a Cuban port with, as we believed, supplies for the Spaniards. If our people can prove this, we had a right to catch her. If the French can show that she was not trying to take supplies to the Spaniards then we will have to give her up.

Sickness in the army at Santiago continues, but is not considered as serious as the numbers would indicate. As soon as enough "immunes" can be had to hold and care for the city it is intended to bring the great body of Shafter's men to a camp being prepared on the highlands of Long Island.

Talk of peace still continues. It is claimed the President has made up his mind as to what he will give Spain. It is thought he will not try to keep the Phillippines, but will insist on Cuba and Porto Rico. The Spanish people, it is now claimed, are beginning to learn how badly they are whipped, and are willing to come to McKinley's terms. If a treaty of perce is to be made there are so many points involved that we may have to call the senate together. In fact they are necessary when making a treaty.

It appears that Gen. Miles has plunged into Porto Rico, and is out of reach of much news, probably going north across the Island to attack San Juan.

Dewey is still looking for Spaniards. He has sent out several gunboats to hunt up and capture or destroy several small Spanish gunboats and a number of Spanish merchant vessels that are said to be hiding in various bays and inlets among the Philippine Islands.

The sick report from Shafter's army for Wednesday showed a total of 4,122. Only three deaths.

Gen. Fred Grant's brigade has been started for Porto Rico. Our own favorite, the 157th Indiana, should have had Gen. Fred or Roosevelt or W. J. Bryan to ask permission to go to the front. They would by this time have been famous, too. We fear Indiana's crack regiment has been unfortunate. During the rebellion Indiana was everywhere at the front, and in the history of that tremendous struggle she is everywhere honored and famous. But now it looks as if we were to be left out in the cold from Porto Rico to the Philippines

Saturday's Daily.

Gen. Miles army had advanced on Ponce, and captured such small posts as the Spaniards had on the route. There were slight engagements. This was Tuesday and Wednesday. On Thursday our fleet appeared before the city of Ponce and demanded a surrender. This was complied with and our flag raised over the city. The Spanish troops left in a hurry, but the people welcomed us with cheers. Miles will now be free to march across the country to San Juan. Miles himself went from Guanica to Ponce on the ships. The terms of surrender of of Ponce, are that soldiers could leave, local government including fire department to continue as before, only subject to our control. Miles issued a proclamation telling the people they were to become citizens of the United States and their island made free and prosperous. The people are wild with joy, and will help us all they can.

Our cabinet have been considering the terms of peace. They agree on all except as to the Philippines. This brings in questions of great difficulty, and Spain herself will cause trouble there. But our goverment has decided one thing, that no other nation has anything, to say in settling the terms of peace. It is for ourselves and Spain only. Spain is learning that we will not ask anything unreasonable.

We will very probably not ask a cash indemnity of Spain. She is too poor to pay it, and feels grateful that we do not ask it. We will get territory enough to pay for the war.

All our cabinet meetings for three days have been to prepare our answer to Spain and let her know on just what terms she may expect peace. We want to outline it fully, so there will be a perfect understanding.

In the meantime, while these negotiations are going on, our army and navy will keep at work, both in the Pacific and the West Indies.

We captured about sixty small boats or lighters in the harbor at Ponce, and twenty larger sailing vessels. All were used in landing the troops that came up with Gen. Miles. When Miles had landed, he moved west to meet the army he had first landed at Guanica. Then all will move north across the island to San Juan, the chief town. Ponce, the town captured Thursday is a city of 50,000.

So much sickness is still in Shafter's army, that they have been ordered north as soon as ships can be had to carry them. One regiment of "immunes" will be at Santiago today or tomorrow, and soon there will be enough of them to enable the army to come home.

VERY FRIENDLY

There is not over 150 miles from Auburn, a very enterprising town, the people whereof are of a most friendly and neighborly disposition, traits that are very desirable if not carried too far. At this same town, they have a "School of Telegraphy" which is well and favorable known. And thereby hangs this tale:

A month or so ago, there arrived in the aforesaid town, a young man from the far east, who wa, possessed of the too common opinion that everything "out west" was imperfect, and everything "down east" was up-to-date. The younger people of the town and especially the students at the lightning thumpers' school soon saw the state of the young man's mind, and their plans were rapidly developed. They arranged to have him made the special object of the friendly attentions of every one in town. So as a starter, each one was to invite him to take soda water, for there are no places where anything stronger is sold. The result was, when he sauntered down town last Sunday, the first acquaintance he met, osked him to step into the "soda lick" and take a friendly glass. He did so, and on stepping out met another acquaintance, who after talking a minute, suggested a "soda," and the young man flattered by such kindness, went back and was soon outside of another "fizzer." He had fairly got out and along another block, when another newly made acquaintance accosted him and after a few words of greeting, a friendly "soda" was proposed, and the the stranger being a well-bred man, still accepted. So the greetings of friends accumulated, the invitations to "soda', began to "climb up" in point of numbers, and also to "climb up" in point of fizzibility under the young man's vest. After soda No. 10 had been stowed away, he began to have fears of an explosion and to pray inwardly to be "saved from his friends." Then No. 11 stepped up. When the talk about a "friendly soda" was reached the young man said soda did not agree with him, but he didn't care if they had a lemonade. So lemonade it was. No. 12 was soon on hand, and at the proper time, talked "soda." But another excuse, sidetracked the soda water, which was replaced by some of the other, numerous "soft drinks", the names of which are not supposed to be familiar to a democratic newspaper man. And those who saw the young man laid out on the grass, under the shade of the trees on that summer day, say he appeared considerable "puffed up" by the friendly attentions he had received. But at last accounts he was alive though he had not yet "caught on."

Misjudging Willie.

The little boy had come in with his clothes torn, his hair full of dust, and his face bearing unmistakable marks of a severe conflict. "Oh, Willie! Willie!" exclaimed his mother, "you have disobeyed me again. How often have I told you not to play with that wicked Stapleford boy?" "Mamma," said Willie, wiping the blood from his nose, "do I look as if I had been playing with anybody?"

The Consumption of Sugar.

The United States consumed last year 2,096,263 tons of sugar. Of domestic product were 289,000 tons cane, 41,347 beet, 5,000 maple and 300 sorghum; of foreign, 1,066,680 tons cane, 616,635 raw beet and 77,288 refined. The consumption of foreign sugars represents the production of 15,790,000 tons (2,000 pounds) beets, requiring 158 factories of 100,000 capacity (1,000 tons per day), or 316 factories of 50,000 tons capacity.

LATEST WAR NEWS.

Terms of Peace Submitted to Spain.

This Week May See the End of the War.

Insurgent Chief Aguinaldo Defying Authority of America at Manila.

Death of Prince Bismarck, the Man of Iron, Who Handled Kings as Puppets.

Peace Terms.

Our Government has submitted terms of peace to Ambassador Cambon of France, who has been appointed Envoy Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary for Spain to conduct negotiations for peace. Spain is expected to reply in a few days. The terms are such that Spain will undoubtedly comply.

Will Await Reinforcements.

Ponce special: No forward movement of the army is expected for several days. The transports with Gen. Brooke's army corps and the remainder of the First corps are arriving slowly. Our troops will probably remain here quietly until the bulk of the army has disembarked.

Aguinaldo Defiant.

A dispatch received from Admiral Dewey announces that Aguinaldo, the insurgent chief, has assumed a bold attitude of defiance, and that it would take a large force from this country to subdue the insurgents.

Tramps Try to Capture Trains.

Sioux City (Iowa) special: Reports were received here of the capture by tramps of freight trains at Tekamah and Blair, Neb. At the former point about 100 of the tramps held the train several hours, but were finally routed by the United States Marshal. At Blair their number was still larger. The train crew tried to drive them off, but was routed by sticks, stones and revolvers, and not until a large posse of citizens was raised were the men overpowered. Several trainmen and some tramps were more or less injured.

Canadian Concession.

Ottawa (Ont.) special: The Department of Customs has issued an order to all of its Collectors of Customs notifying them that club visitors' shooting and fishing outfits will in the future be admitted free of duty and without any deposit, as was customary in the past. The club will give instead a guarantee to the department, and all members of such clubs living outside of Canada will be admitted with their guns and tackle at Canadian ports on presenting their card of membership.

Prince Bismarck Dead.

A special from Friedrichsruhe says: Prince Bismarck is dead. He passed away peacefully shortly before 11 o'clock Saturday night. It appears that the ex-Chancellor's death was not precipitated by sudden complications, but was rather the culmination of chronic diseases, neuralgia of the face and inflammation of the veins, which kept him in constant pain that was borne with the iron fortitude which might have been expected.

Visited by a Cyclone.

A cyclone passed over the northeastern part of Mt. Vernon, Ohio, recently. Chimneys, porches, shutters and outbuildings were blown away. East Hamtramic street is impassable, owing to the trees blown down across it. A barn was blown away, carrying a horse with it several hundred feet. No injury to persons is reported.

A Grave Charge.

Dr. W. M. Gray, of the hospital ship Relief, says the Red Cross Society is responsible for the yellow fever epidemic among the troops at Santiago. He says the Red Cross, contrary to orders, opened hospitals in the huts of Cubans, thus becoming centers for the spread of the disease.

Killed by Falling Building.

By the collapse of a building being erected in South Boston for the Boston Elevated Railway Company two men were killed and five injured, two fatally. The recent rains had softened the masonry and the great weight upon it caused the structure to fall without warning.

To Patrol the Bering Sea.

Great Britain has notified the State Department that she has selected the ships Amphion and Icarns for patrol service in Bering Sea during the present season.

Double Drowning.

William Selden and Miss Minnie Dewitt were drowned while attempting to cross Clear Creek at Harris Ford, two miles west of Cobden, Ill. The recent heavy rains had made a rushing river of the creek, and the buggy was capsized.

The Reports False.

Tangier special: The reports that American agents in Morocco are bribing the Kabyles on the frontier to raid the Spanish territory are absolutely false. The British warship Illustrious has arrived here.

Officer Shoots the Court.

While Judge Parry of the County Court at Manchester, England, was delivering judgments cancelling the commission of Court Bailiff Taylor for misconduct, the latter drew a revolver and fired three shots at the judge. It is feared Judge Parry's injuries will prove fatal.

Stabbed by a Rival.

In a saloon fight at Wichita, Kan., Fred Schernboldt stabbed Dave Rhodes, a man about town. The weapon used was a stiletto. The fight grew out of trouble about a woman, the sweetheart of Rhodes, to whom Schernboldt had been offering attentions. Rhodes cannot live.

TRAGEDY IN ST. LOUIS.

Mob Tries to Lynch a Negro Who Had Shot a White Man.

A murder that almost added a lynching with it occurred at St. Louis the other night. Edward Kennedy, a railroad man, was passing a saloon and stopped on the sidewalk a moment. The negro porter ordered him to move on. Kennedy started slowly, which enraged the negro, who pulled a revolver and shot Kennedy through the forehead. As he fell the negro ran. A number of pedestrians witnessed the murder and at once gave chase with cries of "Lynch him." A police officer outdistanced the mob and caught the negro, holding the crowd at bay with his revolver until a patrol wagon was summoned. Kennedy was not dead when picked up. He was placed in an ambulance and hurried to the hospital. The ambulance broke down on the way, throwing the dying man into the street. He was quickly placed on a dray and the journey continued, but he died before the hospital was reached.

CHARLES A. BRANT IS KILLED.

Bullet Ends His Life in St. Louis as He Is Mailing a Letter.

Charles A. Brant, stenographer for an electrical supply company in St. Louis, Mo., stopped to mail a letter at the corner of Twenty-first and Locust streets, and was shot and almost instantly killed. Three shots were fired, and three men were seen to run. Brant staggered across the street, and fell dead. In his pocket was an affectionate letter, evidently to his wife, but addressed to Postoffice Box 693, Asbury Park, N. J., also a will headed: "To Miss Mary Harding, Davenport Inn, Asbury Park, N. J., whom I desire to be notified in case of my sudden death, and who, in the sight of God, is my lawful wife." Miss Harding is the daughter of Roger E. Harding, a wealthy citizen of St. Louis, to whom Brant was married in October, 1896, against the wishes of her father. They were divorced in April, 1897. Brant was formerly a hotel clerk at Los Angeles, Cal.

SEEKS WIFE AND CHILDREN.

Mysterious Disappearance of Pittsburgh Physician's Family.

Dr. Oscar Brunn of Pittsburg has written to a friend in St. Louis, Mo., to look for his wife and children, who he believes are in that city, where she formerly lived. She left Pittsburg several days ago, drawing from the bank $2,000, and taking her six children with her. Her disappearance revived a former sensational story. Last year she was visiting her brother, Charles S. Bange, in St. Louis, and among her acquaintances was a swarthy man who passed himself off as a Cuban patriot and went by the name of Gen. Jantzscha. She one day ran to her brother and begged his protection, saying that the Cuban exerted a hypnotic influence over her. He disappeared and has since not been heard from. Her husband believes that when she left Pittsburg she started for St. Louis, but she has not yet been located.

Deal by the Sugar Trust.

In connection with the annexation of Hawaii there have been persistent rumors to the effect that the sugar trust had concluded important arrangements with the Hawaiian Commercial and Sugar Company, which owns a monopoly in making raw sugar on the Island of Maui, one of the most important of the group. The president of the company is Rudolph Spreckels, and Charles S. Wheeler is vice-president. These two are also on the board of five directors, the other members being C. A. Spreckels, manager; M. S. Wilson, a well-known San Francisco lawyer, and M. H. Hacht. The company's New York office is in the Commercial Cable Company's new building in Broad street. P. J. Hoffacker is the local representative. On a recent afternoon Mr. Hoffacker said that C. A. Spreckels had left New York more than a week before for San Francisco. Mr. Spreckels had said nothing to him before leaving the city regarding any deal with the sugar trust, nor had he received any word on the subject since his departure. There was positively nothing of a definite character which he might say regarding it. Mr. Hoffacker gave much information regarding the Hawaiian Company. The Hawaiian company owns about 40,000 acres on the island, together with an enormous plant erected at a cost of over $1,000,000. There are over seventy miles of railroad track on the island constructed by the company, on which are operated four locomotives and 540 cars, fitted up for drawing sugar cane. In connection with the sugar trust rumor it is interesting to note that there has been a cleaning up of the Hawaiian company's stock in the local market.

Disaster on Lake St. Clair.

The steamer Edward Smith No. 2 was sunk in Lake St. Clair, near the flats, north of Detroit, Mich., by the schooner Aurania in tow of the propellor Aurora. The Smith was bound up loaded and without a consort, while the Aurora and Aurania were bound down. Another large propeller was also bound down close to the tow, and it is supposed the man in charge of the Smith got the single propeller and the tow mixed in his mind, and, in dodging the propeller, crashed into the Aurania, which was making about seventeen miles an hour. The force of the blow sent the Smith over to the west side of the channel and sunk her. The Aurania was badly damaged about the bow. The crew and a pleasure party on board the Smith were rescued without accident and sent to the Old Club. The Smith was owned by John Mitchell of Cleveland and valued at $65,000. The Aurania is the property of Corrigan of Cleveland and valued at $150,000.

Pugwash Wiped Out by Fire.

The town of Pugwash, 1,200 inhabitants, a shipping port of considerable importance on the straits of Northumberland, N. S., was wiped out by fire, 200 dwellings, five churches, twenty stores, three hotels and several mills being destroyed. The foreign shipping in port was slightly damaged. The town was little insured, owing to the absence of fire protection. The inhabitants encamped in the fields and woods. Several people are reported missing.

Austrian Sailors Held.

Nineteen Austrian sailors, who arrived at Havre by La Bretagne, were taken before a magistrate and confronted by four second-class passengers, survivors of La Bourgogne, on charges of cruelty and brutality at the time of the collision between La Bourgogne and the British ship Cromartyshire off Sable Island on July 4. Although the evidence offered against them was very slight, six of the accused were held on remand. The others were discharged.

Big Blaze in Minneapolis.

Frazer & Shepherd's sash and door factory at Minneapolis was totally destroyed by fire. The loss was $40,000. The fire started in H. H. Bennett & Co.'s hard wood mill adjacent. This was also destroyed at a loss of $5,000, with no insurance.

Shot and Killed a Negro.

Ed L. McBride of Louisiana, Mo., shot and instantly killed Richard Wilson, a negro from Quincy, Ill., who formerly lived in Louisiana. It is said that the negro had insulted McBride's wife.

Panic Among Steerage Passengers.

The steamship Ardandhu of the Tweedle line, trading between West Indian ports and New York, came up the bay the other day with a heavy list to starboard and the cargo stored in her lower hold on fire. The fire first made its appearance when, if the vessel had made an uninterrupted voyage, she should have been off the New Jersey shore and close to Sandy Hook. But leaky boilers and the breaking down of her engines delayed the Ardandhu at least thirty hours, and at the time of the discovery of the flames in hold No. 3 the steamship was off Fenwick's island on the coast of Maryland. The wildest excitement followed the outbreak of the fire and several of the eleven steerage passengers, all Jamaicans, endeavored to seize the lifeboats. The third mate, Percy Sanders, was forced to draw his revolver to prevent the men from the steerage leaving the burning steamer in the boats. The forty-five passengers were all ordered forward and the women and children were first put into the lifeboats. It was nearly midnight when Captain Walker considered that he had the fire in control and decided to continue on his way to New York. The women and children were then taken back to the steamer. On the trip up the coast, although it was apparent that the flames were being held in check, it was also clear that the fire in hold No. 3 was an extensive one. On account of the water which had been let into holds 3 and 4 the vessel had a heavy list to starboard, preventing much speed.

STORY OF A DOUBLE LIFE.

Disclosures Made in a Suit Over New York Man's Estates.

For more than thirty years former Judge George W. Green, president of the New York and New Jersey Bridge Construction Company, led a double life, and the story is now coming out in a suit brought at Middletown, N. Y., by Miss Margaret Sly of New York against his widow and daughter. Judge Green died in 1895 in a house he had furnished for Miss Sly, and now she sues to recover 1,600 shares of stock in the company of which he was the president. She says he gave the stock to her. Mr. Green was a prominent politician and lawyer in the Middletown district, served five terms in the Assembly, was declared elected to the Forty-first Congress, but was afterward unseated.

WHEAT DESTROYED BY HAIL.

Storm Cuts Down Dakota Crop Half a Million Bushels.

Thirty thousand acres of crops were destroyed or greatly damaged by a hailstorm in Codington County, S. D. The scope of the storm was six miles wide and about twenty-five long. Many farmers lost every acre of grain. The list of farmers will reach at least 150 in that county. The same storm reached Clark and Grant Counties. The storm is the worst in the history of the county, passing through or touching eight townships in the northern part of Codington County. Ten days more and the farmers would have been cutting the finest crop ever harvested in that section. Now the yield will be nearly 500,000 bushels less.

Bourgogne's Crew Exonerated.

The Compagnie Generale Transatlantique at Paris has given to the press the report of Captain Aubert, who was charged by Edouard Lockey, minister of marine, with the inquiry into the disaster to La Bourgogne. It goes very fully into details and is accompanied by proofs, completely vindicating the crew of La Bourgogne of the charge of having attempted to assure their own safety regardless of that of the passengers.

Soldier Fatally Slugged.

At Fort Snelling, St. Paul, Minn., the dead body of Andrew McGann, a private in Company A of the Third regular infantry, was found back of the men's quarters. The surgeons report that he had been struck back of the right ear, fell forward with his face in his felt hat, which filled with blood, suffocating him, the blow having rendered him unconscious. There is no clew to his assailant.

Hawaii Is Jubilant.

The arrival of the Coptic at Honolulu bringing news that the Hawaiian Islands had been annexed to the United States was the signal for great rejoicing. Many United States flags were hoisted in honor of the event.

Four Children Cremated.

Near Beatrice, Neb., four children of Elmer Wallman, a farmer, were burned to death during the absence of their parents. Their ages range from 9 years to an infant. How the fire caught is not known.

North Dakota Crops Ruined.

A. E. Grant, the railroad contractor, has arrived in Duluth after having been all over North Dakota. He says the crops in the northern half of that State are ruined by drought and hail.

Riot at Ledford, Ill.

Striking miners and non-union men at Ledford, Ill., engaged in a bloody riot, in the course of which several on both sides were injured with knives and missiles.

Alleged Witch Is Killed.

Men from Sugar Loaf County, Choctaw Nation, report that a full-blooded Indian woman named Pennington was killed, charged with witchcraft.

California Fruit Shortage.

MILES HAS LANDED.

PORTO RICAN EXPEDITION DISEMBARKS AT GUANICA.

Town on the South Coast of the Island Selected for the Landing—More Troops to Be Ordered to the Front Without Delay.

Flag in Porto Rico.

Washington special:

The advance brigades of the army of invasion under Gen. Miles landed on the island of Porto Rico and immediately began establishing bases of supplies for the re-enforcements that are speedily to follow. The War Department received information direct from Major Gen. Miles of the landing.

Circumstances were such that the American commander deemed it advisable to take the harbor of Guanica first, fifteen miles west of Ponce, which was successfully accomplished. The Gloucester, Commander Wainwright, first entered the harbor, met with slight resistance; fired a few shots. This is a well protected harbor; water sufficiently deep for all transports; the heavy vessels can anchor within a few hundred yards of shore. The Spanish flag was lowered and the American flag raised.

The little village of Guanica, where our troops landed, is on the southwest coast of Porto Rico not far from Ponce. There were twelve vessels in the expedition, including five warships. Among the latter were the battleship Massachusetts, the cruiser Columbia, and the auxiliary gunboat Gloucester. These vessels and transports, conveying 4,000 troops, artillery, horses and ammunition from Guantanamo, arrived off Porto Rico, and, in accordance with a plan agreed upon at the council of war held at sea on board the Yale, Gen. Miles' headquarters, proceeded to Guanica, at which place there is an excellent approach. At the council it was decided that Guanica afforded a much better landing place than Ponce, which was the real objective point, and that the troops could be put ashore without meeting with any serious resistance.

GENERAL JULIAN PARREDA.
Spanish Commander at Guantanamo Who Refused to "Capitulate."

The Massachusetts and Columbia steamer inshore as far as was considered safe and dropped a few of their big missiles among the enemy. At the same time the Gloucester, whose lighter draught enabled her to approach the shore much closer than the heavier warships, opened fire with her three and six pounders. The Spaniards replied without effect with their Mauser rifles, and then retired. The Gloucester then sent a party ashore to haul down the Spanish flag from the blockhouse near the beach, which had been abandoned by the enemy at the opening of the fire. As the flag was being lowered a number of Spanish troops fired on the landing party, who replied spiritedly with their rifles and a machine gun, which they had taken ashore with them. The Spanish fire was finally silenced. It is known that at least four of the Spaniards were killed. Not an American was hurt.

Ponce, toward which place Miles' army immediately began an advance, is the second city in population and commercial importance in Porto Rico. It is about three miles from the coast and has a population of 22,000, with a jurisdiction over 47,000 inhabitants. It is located on a high plain, is the chief town in the judicial district of the same name, and is said to be the healthiest place on the island.

There is a railroad to Yauco and a stage road to San Juan, on the north coast; Mayagilez, on the west coast, and Guayama, on the east. There was also a telegraph and cable station until recently, when the British Cable Company cut out the Porto Rico loop to prevent it being tied up by the war. There are no fortifications at Ponce, but about thirty old mountain howitzers. There are reported to be about 2,000 Spanish soldiers garrisoned there, but from the harbor the warships could command the whole place and land the troops of Gen. Miles with perfect safety.

About 22,000 troops are already under orders to take part in the Porto Rico campaign. Some have reached the island, some are steaming thither, others are boarding ship, and many have not yet left their camps in the United States. It is asserted in official quarters that from 10,000 to 15,000 more men will be ordered to Porto Rico as soon as the transports are available to carry them.

SHAFTER'S LOSSES AT SANTIAGO.

Fifteen Hundred and Ninety-five Men Killed and Wounded.

Gen. Shafter's detailed report of the American casualties in the battle of Santiago has been received at the War Department. The total number of casualties was 1,595. Recapitulated, the American losses were: Killed, 23 officers and 208 enlisted men; wounded, 80 officers and 1,203 men; missing, 81 men. The missing are supposed to be dead, as, so far as known, the Spanish forces took no prisoners.

SPAIN SEES THE HANDWRITING ON THE WALL.

CARE FOR SICK AND WOUNDED.

Arrangements at Hospital Stations on the Coast Completed.

The medical department of the army has completed arrangements for the care of the sick and wounded soldiers at hospital stations on the Atlantic coast. About 1,000 beds have been provided at Fort Monroe and the accommodations at other points are ample for the present. The surgeon general has received many proffers for the use of private estates on the Eastern coast for the care of the sick and wounded, but there has been no occasion to accept these. Reports received by the surgeon general indicate that the wounds of soldiers injured in the Santiago campaign are healing rapidly. Blood poisoning has occurred only in the rarest cases. The wounds from Mauser rifle bullets have in most cases not been dangerous, and they have yielded promptly to the antiseptic treatment.

BODIES STILL IN THE WRECKS.

Spaniards Killed at Manila Have Not Been Removed from the Water.

Divers have examined the hulls and interiors of the Spanish warships sunk by Dewey's squadron in Manila bay. The cruiser Reina Cristina has all its woodwork burned out and charred human remains were seen in several places. The course of an eight-inch shell is clearly traced by a line of ruin, extending from the stern to the waist. The cruiser Castilla was less burned, but was terribly wrecked. There are plain traces where six big shells tore its hull to pieces. The warship is now a mass of twisted iron and charred beams, a complete wreck, much like the Maine in Havana harbor. Many of the bodies aboard are badly burned.

TO OVERHAUL THE WARSHIPS.

Some Were Slightly Damaged in Battle and Others Need Cleaning.

Nearly all the big ships of the navy, which have been constantly in service since long before the war began, are to be brought to the United States for overhauling. Only one or two of the battleships and armored cruisers will be taken from the West Indian waters at the same time, but the Navy Department has decided that the work must be performed as rapidly as possible, and available docks will be utilized. The Texas has been ordered to New York from Santiago. Like nearly all the other ships, she is suffering from splintered decks and bulged bulkheads caused by the concussion of the big guns. Few of the ships require repairs on account of damage done by the enemy's shells. The Indiana needs some renovating; the Brooklyn received a few rounds from the rapid-fire guns of the Cristobal Colon, and the Iowa has an unexploded shell sticking in her side.

GARCIA IS DISGUSTED.

He Feels that He Has Been Slighted by Major General Shafter.

Gen. Garcia has written a letter to Gen. Shafter, in which he declares that he is disgusted at his treatment at the hands of the Americans, and will consequently withdraw his own forces to the hills, being no longer willing to submit to the indignities to which he has been subjected. Among the things of which Gen. Garcia complains is the failure of the American commander to officially notify him of the surrender of the Spanish forces under Gen. Toral, and he is also incensed at the fact that he was not invited to be present at the ceremony attending the formal capitulation of Santiago. Another of his grievances is the action of Gen. Shafter in retaining the Spanish civil authorities in the administration of their functions in Santago. For these reasons he declares that he will no longer co-operate with the forces under Gen. Shafter's command, but will act independently, as he did before the American troops landed in Cuba.

THE ISLAND OF PORTO RICO.

Don Antonio de Ulloa did not burn. It sank quickly, riddled to pieces by shells of all sizes. A number of bodies all huddled together near the ladder leading to the superstructure shows that the men were killed by a shell as they were attempting to lift the treasure chest to the superstructure and save it. The description of these ships shows the state of the remaining vessels of the sunken Spanish squadron. Heaps of bodies near the ladders leading to the engine rooms of the ships shows that the engineers' forces made a rush to escape, but failed.

COURT-MARTIAL FOR SOLDIERS.

Riot in Camp at Jacksonville to Be Rigidly Investigated.

At Jacksonville, Fla., several members of the First North Carolina and First Wisconsin regiments are in the guard house, under arrest, and will probably be court martialed for participating in a riot which nearly caused bloodshed in the camp. The trouble began when a North Carolina soldier broke through the Wisconsin ranks and started a fight. Comrades of the Southern soldier came up with rifles and were met with loaded arms by the Wisconsin men. The free fight, in which heads were cracked and many blows struck, was brought to an end by the Second Virginia regiment interfering.

SPAIN PUSHES BLINDLY AHEAD.

Notwithstanding Defeats She Would Assemble a Third Fleet.

Notwithstanding two crushing defeats at sea and the destruction of two fleets, Spain is said to be using her utmost endeavors to gather another at Ceuta for the purpose of giving battle to Commodore Watson. The only two formidable warships left to Spain—the Pelayo and the Carlos V.—are at Cartagena, where repairs are being made on them, and after they are completed they will rejoin the remainder of Admiral Camara's squadron at Ceuta. It is conceded that if another naval engagement takes place it will be in the vicinity of that place, but no one in Washington has any doubt of the outcome of such a conflict.

WILL REORGANIZE THE FLEET.

Auxilary Vessels to Be Kept Available for Service.

When the naval auxiliary fleet goes out of commission it will be in such shape that if at any time in the future it should be needed again it can be placed in service at forty-eight hours' notice. Captain J. R. Bartlett, its chief, is anxious to thoroughly reorganize the service, and this is about the only reason the fleet is being kept up.

TEN THOUSAND MEN LACKING

States Slow to Respond to President's Last Call for Troops.

Ten thousand men are lacking under President McKinley's last call for troops. About 65,000 of the 75,000 asked for are ready for Government orders. North Carolina is the furthest behind. Only 55 soldiers of its quota of 783 have come to the front. Colorado, Louisiana, Nebraska, Tennessee and Virginia have furnished less than one-third of the soldiers asked of them under the call.

SPANISH DESERTERS GIVE UP.

Say a General Feeling of Despair Prevails Among the Enemy.

The United States gunboat Castine brought to Key West three deserters from the Spanish gunboat Aguila. These men are Spaniards and their desertion and voluntary surrender to the American forces is perhaps the best indication of the existing state of affairs in Cuba. Bad treatment, poor food and the general despair prevailing in the Spanish naval force caused their desertion.

PLEADS FOR PEACE.

OVERTURES MADE BY AMBASSADOR CAMBON.

Sagasta Realizes that War Is Hopeless for His Country—Terms Not Suggested—Hostilities Are to Be Continued Until Spain Gives Up.

Spain on Her Knees.

Washington special:

Poor old Spain is on her knees at last, begging for peace. She has had enough of war and cries quits. She has laid aside her Castilian pride and approached the White House as a suppliant. She has lost her haughtiness and assumed a proper spirit of humility. She has not had the presumption to suggest terms. She has humbly asked whether the President will deign to discuss terms of peace and end a war disastrous to Spain and full of glory for the United States. The Madrid authorities have finally realized that it is useless to keep the Spanish people longer in ignorance of the actual results of the war. The fulminations of bombastic Blanco have come to be regarded at their true worth in the capital of the peninsula. They have ceased to delude even a small portion of the Spanish people.

Premier Sagasta, appreciating the utter hopelessness of the situation from his standpoint, comes now holding out in one hand the olive branch, while with the other he presents a petition for clemency to President McKinley.

There was an important conference at the White House Tuesday afternoon. The participants in that meeting, which is likely to become famous in history, were President McKinley, Secretary Day, M. Cambon, the French ambassador, and M. Thiebault, the first secretary of the French legation. The conference lasted for more than an hour, and when it adjourned the American Secretary of State

LIEUT. COMMANDER WAINWRIGHT.
Who with the yacht Gloucester destroyed two Spanish torpedo boats in the naval fight at Santiago.

made the following official announcement:

"The French ambassador, on behalf of the Government of Spain and by direction of the Spanish minister of foreign affairs, presented to the President this afternoon at the White House a message from the Spanish Government looking to the termination of the war and settlement of terms of peace."

When it became known throughout the city that Spain had formally sued for peace there was more excitement in diplomatic and administration circles in Washington than there has been at any time since the news came that Santiago had surrendered to the American forces.

The indications from Madrid are that Spain will try to negotiate peace on the basis of the independence of Cuba. That proposition will be met with the demand that Spain shall withdraw from the Western hemisphere, where her government of colonies has been so ruinous and cruel as to engender strife and anarchy. She must withdraw from both Cuba and Porto Rico. As to the Philippines, the administration is not ready to declare its policy or formulate its demand. That will depend largely upon the situation at Manila after the surrender, and on public opinion in this country.

There will be no armistice pending any negotiations that may be entered upon. The campaign in Porto Rico will be pushed with the same vigor. Gen. Miles is in Porto Rico, and the American flag has been unfurled there. That campaign will continue. The war there will be waged until Spain surrenders the island and withdraws her army.

KAISER IS FRIENDLY.

Sends Message to the President About the Philippines.

President McKinley received a message from Emperor William of Germany which is understood to be of a highly gratifying character, in view of the disquieting rumors of German action at Manila. The message was communicated to the President by the German ambassador. It was read to the cabinet, and was considered to be of such importance that its tenor has been guarded with unusual care. All that is known of it is that it was satisfactory, and leaves the impression that the situation at Manila, as far as the Germans are concerned, may be left to Admiral Von Diedrichs and Admiral Dewey, without the necessity of the German or the United States Governments taking up the case in mutual representations.

Junta Disapproves.

The Cuban junta has sent a dispatch to Gen. Garcia and other Cuban officers, telling them that their course at Santiago is not approved by the junta, and if persisted in will result in serious injury to the Cubans. It is believed that their representations will bring about a better understanding between the Cuban officers and the Americans.

THE SAILOR'S FAREWELL.

We'll sail away by morning,
At the day's first dawn of light,
When the guns are loudly booming
And we're stripp'd to win the fight.
So cheer up, my own sweet dove,
Let not grief thy beauty stain;
As a proof of faithful love.
Wear this gem and golden chain.
Then farewell to home and wife,
I go where my duty guides;
'Tis a proud and gallant life,
The mate of a sailor's bride.

If I should fall, my darling,
'Neath the foeman's deadly hand,
Remember I died fighting
For freedom's glorious land,
So chase away all sorrow
While the merry bugles play.
Though darkness veils to-morrow,
The light will come next day.
Then farewell to home and wife.
I go where duty guides;
'Tis a proud and gallant life,
The mate of a sailor's bride.

Running the Gauntlet.

I found myself, a few years ago, in a port on the west coast of South America during one of those revolutions which seem so characteristic of the South American republics. I was then an assistant engineer on the United States cruiser San Francisco. The port was still in the hands of the forces of the recognized government; but the revolutionists had been making recent gains in places not far away, and our admiral, in order to protect American interests, had brought his little fleet, consisting of the San Francisco, the Baltimore and the Pensacola, into the harbor. English, French and German men-of-war were also present.

The city lies on the shore of a broad, deep bay. Across the harbor lies a summer resort, once very popular, but at the time of which I write little frequented.

The distance from the city to the summer resort is only four or five miles in a direct line, but twice as far around the coast of the bay. A railroad connected the two places and it is of a remarkable ride that I took on a locomotive over this road that I wish to tell.

I had a considerable leisure while we were in port, and as I wished to acquire a knowledge of the Spanish language, I spent as much time as possible ashore, mingling with the inhabitants and soldiers, noting their accent and idioms. Among the men whose acquaintance I made in this way was William McDougal, better known as "Scotty," a grizzled, hard-headed, muscular and well preserved Scotchman, who, although he had been in the country twenty years, still spoke Spanish badly. He was engineer in charge of one of the locomotives running between the harbor and the old summer resort.

I had frequently ridden with him on his engine, and had derived considerable amusement from his gruff talk and the picturesque vituperation he showered upon his native fireman, who, however, understood not a word of it all.

For several weeks there had been a daily fright on shore over the expected attack by the revolutionary fleet, which was known to be only sixty miles away. The troops were drilling, and a gun had been mounted on a point commanding the harbor. To restore public confidence, the government officials decided upon a grand review of the troops, to be held at the old summer resort, and on the appointed day I rode over there from the port with Scotty, his engine slowly pulling a long train of flat cars crowded with soldiers.

The men were good looking fellows, well uniformed, the very flower of the government army, many of them being veterans of an earlier war. I remarked to Scotty that they should make a good fight.

'A gude fight, d'ye say?" replied Scotty, "Ye dinna ken the cattle. If tha' Donna Maria shows her nose aroun' yon point." Indicating the northern entrance of the bay, "there'll be a great scattering."

The Donna Maria as well as nearly all the other vessels of the republic, was in the possession of the revolutionary party.

After the review in the afternoon was over I hurried back to the station, and caught Scotty's engine just as it was starting back to the port with the first train-load of returning troops.

On the engine was a government colonel and some of the field officers of his regiment. I was in civilian clothing, and as I swung up into the gangway, the colonel, in a pompous and bombastic manner, inquired of Scotty why I was there.

"Amigo de mio,"—friend of mine,—said the laconic Scotty, and further explained in very poor Spanish that I was an "Official abordo el buque de guerra San Francisco."

At this the colonel relaxed. He and I were soon engaged in conversation—an opportunity of which he availed himself to impress on me the absolute absurdity of any naval force attacking with any hope of success a place garrisoned by soldiers so brave as his own, especially when commanded by an officer so valiant as himself. All his fierce gesticulations and grandiloquent expressions were closely followed and tacitly applauded by his fellow officers; but while these terrible warriors were boasting of their valor, Scotty sat silently on his cab seat.

The pull was up-grade for the first two miles, and the train moved slowly. The track was but a few feet above the water of the bay, which it skirted all the way to the port station. Looking seaward, I noticed the smoke of a steamer rising from behind the north point of the bay, and I called the attention of my companions to it.

"Es of vapor del norte," said the colonel, and the conjecture was plausible, for the mail steamer was expected; but just then a ball of smoke swelled into a cloud from the gun on the south point of the bay, where the steamer could be seen. Then, even as a moment later we heard the report, a low, ugly, lead-colored, two-masted war-vessel appeared from the north.

A flash from her bow, and instantly we saw the dust rise from the redoubt on the south point where the gun was located.

The fireman with a yell of terror, "La Donna Maria!" took a flying leap from the engine on the land side.

"La Donna Maria!" echoed the colonel, turning pale. "La Donna Maria!" yelled the other officers in chorus.

"It's sure La Donna Maria," said Scotty, coolly, adding, with reference mair the day."

It was indeed the dreaded Donna Maria, built by popular subscription in the republic, and believed by the lower classes there to be the most formidable vessel afloat.

She paid no further attention to the gun on the point, but steamed straight into the bay. Her commander had seen our train of soldiers. We were in a critical position. It would require fully twenty minutes to take the train the rest of the way to the port station, and, nearly all the way we should be under fire. The Donna Maria dared not shell the town, for if she had attempted it, the foreign war vessels present would immediately have opposed her. A train load of troops was a different matter. She could shoot at them so long as the shells did not endanger anything else.

Boom! went her bow gun again. The shell striking the water a few hundred yards off shore without exploding, skipped up a few feet above the car next behind the engine. That settled the colonel. The business-like shriek of the missle set him wild. Drawing his sword he approached Scotty, and in a volley of commands, threats and entreaties, ordered him to back the train to the summer resort.

Scotty paid no attention to him, but glanced at the steam gauge, which already showed a considerable reduction in pressure, owing to the desertion of the fireman. We had reached the top of the grade, and the remainder of the run would be on level track. Shorty kept the train moving ahead.

Again came a shot from the Donna Maria, and this time the shell exploded over the train, wounding some of the men on the fourth car from the engine.

Once more the colonel stepped up to Scotty, with his sword drawn back for a lunge. He seemed crazy either with fear or with nervousness, and liable to do anything. Quick as a flash the engineer drew a big Colt's revolver, covered the colonel, and said coolly, "Stand awa' ye cowardly cur! Dinna ye ken that anither train is following us, and that if we stop, we're lost? My orders are to go ahead, and I'm gaun to obey orders. Gie a hand, laddie, and stoke the fire a bit," he said to me.

I pulled open the fire-box door, threw in some coal, took the big poker and stirred up the fire.

The colonel seemed impressed either by Scotty's manner or by his pistol, which was still ready cocked in the engineer's hand. Certainly the colonel had some reason to be excited. His men were perfectly helpless on the cars; behind us was a train, on the seaward side the Dona Maria. Our engine, a poor affair at best, was fast losing her steam. The soldiers on the train were wildly excited, furiously angry at Scotty for not stopping and backing, and only prevented from firing in the cab by the fact that their officers were there and in the tender.

Scotty looked back at the yelling troops with calm contempt; many of them were uselessly firing their rifles in the direction of the enemy, more than two and a half miles away. I was doing my best with the fire, and soon saw a gain in the steam gauge.

'Stick to it lad," said Scotty, never taking his eyes off the others. "How's her steam?"

"It reads one hundred and five. It's going up?"

Scotty pulled out the throttle another notch, and our speed began to increase. We had about five miles to go. If the Donna Maria's shells did us no serious damage, we should make it.

Another puff and a roar from her broadside battery! She was now about two and a half miles away, and could use her smaller guns.

Bang! a shell exploded not fifty yards ahead of the engine. Smash! a piece of it struck the copper feed-pipe of the left injector! Instantly the whole side of the engine was in a cloud of steam.

"She's all right, Scotty, it's only the pipe!" I yelled; and Scotty never turned his head. The heroic officers were cowering in the coal space.

Thud! went a shot into the bank on the land side; it had passed but a few feet over the engine. The steam-gauge showed one hundred and twenty pounds. The old engine was teetering up and down like a yawlboat in a short sea.

Then from the bluffs right over our heads came the roar of a field battery. The government artillery was taking a hand. I looked toward the Donna Maria. Water was splashing high between her and the shore. The range was too long for the light battery.

We had yet a mile to safety. The Donna Maria redoubled her efforts; her sides blazed; but the aim of her gunners was poor. Scotty grinned as he pointed toward them. "They're rattled, lad," he said. "They canna hit tha side o' South America tha noo!"

And so it was; the faster they fired, the wider from the mark went their shells.

When we drew into the port station and safety, Scotty, still protected by his pistol, said to me, "Tell them hombres to go, and go quick!"

I translated, and the officers went—and went quickly, too!

Then, as they left, Scotty stepped over to me, and grasping my hand in a vice-like clasp, said, "Aye, lad, but it's a pity ye're in the navy. Ye'd mak' a gran' engine-driver—in time. An,' lad, next time ye're prayin" on yer knees, dinna ye forget to thank God that ye come from a race of men that can keep their wits aboot them in the time o' danger."—Frea S. Bowley, in Youth's Companion.

The Incomes of Monarchs.

The income of the emperor of Russia for one day is about $25,000; that of the sultan of Turkey, $18,000; emperor of Austria, $5,000; emperor of Germany, $8,000; king of Italy, $6,500; queen of England, $6,500; and the king of Belgium, $6,500. The president of the United States receives about $130 per day.

TO MOVE ON HAVANA.

CUBAN CAPITAL WILL BE ATTACKED IN THE FALL.

Great Army of 150,000 Men to Storm Blanco's Stronghold—Shafter's Men Will Come Home for Rest Before the Decisive Fights of the War.

Miles Will Lead the Army.

Washington special:

Gen. Miles as commander-in-chief, aided by Gens. Shafter, Brooke, Lee and Graham, with a combined force of 150,000 men, are to take the field against Havana in the fall. Meanwhile Shafter's men will be recalled to the United States for recuperation, three regiments from Tampa going to Santiago to take their place, in company with the immunes now there.

"Gen. Shafter and his Fifth corps will take the field against Havana in the fall. Until then they will rest in the United States. As soon as the Spanish prisoners are well out of the way Gen. Shafter, with the whole Fifth corps, will be ordered back to the United States, perhaps to Montauk Point, L. I., or some such suitable place, where they will rest and recuperate, so as to be ready for the campaign in the fall against Havana." This statement was made by one of the trusted counselors of the President. The statement was further made that not one of the regiments now in Santiago would be sent to Porto Rico; that it was thought by the administration that in all of them there was some danger of fever infection. But Gen. Shafter will remain until the Spanish prisoners are disposed of, according to the plans of the Government.

GEN. NELSON A. MILES.

Many northerly camp sites are being now considered by the Government, Sea Girt, N. J., among them. It may be necessary to bring more of the Southern troops north, but they will not be brought unless it is necessary. The Fifth corps of hardened veterans is also to be put into shape for the Havana campaign. The Porto Rican army also will be by fall hardened to field and fire, and, together with the Fifth corps, which will then join it, about 50,000 seasoned men will move upon Havana.

This is now the plan of the administration. These 50,000 men will form the nucleus about which 100,000 more volunteers now in this country will be formed. By the fall these volunteers, it is expected, will be in prime condition, both as to equipment, arms and uniforms. If the Porto Rican campaign is to be a deliberate one, the campaign against Havana is to be a more deliberate one.

In order to relieve the regiments of the Fifth corps as soon as possible after the Spanish prisoners have been placed on the transports, Gen. Coppinger has been ordered to send three regiments from the Fourth corps, at Tampa, to Santiago at once. The regiments designated are the Fifth Maryland, First Florida and Second Georgia. These regiments, with the immune regiments already ordered thither, will be sufficient to hold Santiago and the surrendered territory, and they may operate against Holguin and Manzanillo. It is likely that an attempt will be made to occupy both of these towns if health conditions favor, and Senor Quesada says the insurgents will be active during the summer blazing the way for the great coming campaign.

Gen. Miles will be commander-in-chief of the Havana campaign, and will start in with two trained major generals in Gens. Shafter and Brooke. Lee will follow with another division, and Graham with the Camp Alger troops and the 2,000 men left in Chickamauga will help make up a grand total of 150,000 men.

DESTRUCTIVE WORK OF DEWEY'S SHELLS IN MANILA BAY.

The sketch from which this picture was redrawn was made by T. T. Jeans of the British navy for the London Illustrated News. It gives a clear idea of the tremendous execution of the American gunners on the Reina Cristina, Admiral Montejo's flagship. It will be remembered that this ship was crippled by the Olympia's heavy guns and was on fire before she reached the shore, where she sank in the shallow waters of Cavite bay.

KILLS FEW MEN.

Yellow Fever About Santiago Is of a Mild Type.

A dispatch received by Adjutant General Corbin says that 396 new cases of fever of all classes were reported in his camp before Santiago Sunday. As the same dispatch reports only four deaths—and none of them from yellow fever—from among hundreds of cases of fever known to exist in the camp, the war authorities are more than ever inclined to the belief that the cases of yellow fever are of mild type.

CROWDS CHEER BRYAN.

Royal Reception Given the Colonel and His Regiment.

Col. William J. Bryan and his regiment were given a royal reception upon their arrival at Nashville. There were several sections of the troop trains, and each one was cheered, both coming and going. The women served sumptuous lunches to the Nebraska boys. Col. Bryan made a speech, thanking the people of the South for such a demonstration, and declared that one of the greatest successes of the war was the practical disappearance of the Dixie line.

IT WAS AWFUL.

A Spanish Officer's Verson of the Fight at Santiago.

In describing the naval battle of Santiago after his arrival at Portsmouth the other day, Capt. Mashrohon, second officer of the Maria Teresa, said:

"As we came out of the channel, we opened fire on the Brooklyn, and the Texas answered it, but her shot fell short. Otherwise she would have struck us, for it was a straight line shot. The Brooklyn and the Iowa then fired, but neither shot hit. Again the Brooklyn and the Texas fired. The Brooklyn's shell went into the admiral's cabin and, exploding, set fire to the after part of the ship. The shell from the Texas pierced our side armor and exploded in the engine room, bursting the main steam pipe. We signalled to the engineer to start the pumps, but got no reply, and then found that all below in that part of the ship had been killed. At that time shells were bursting all around us, and the ship's hull was being riddled below. Then, for the sake of humanity and to save life, we beached the ship. Just as our captain gave the order to haul down the colors he was struck by a shell and killed. Meanwhile the Vizcaya had run between us and the Texas and was then engaging three ships—the Brooklyn, Oregon and Texas. She made a desperate, but hopeless, fight. Now that we have learned that we lost between 800 and 1,000 men and the Americans lost only one man, it amazes us. It is incredible. We cannot comprehend it. It does not seem possible. And yet we must believe it. Have we not seen with our own eyes the utter wrecks of our ships and how yours were not hurt, even the smallest injury, that we could see?"

DESTROYED HIS EAR DRUMS.

Detonations from an Eight-Inch Gun Make a Lieutenant Stone Deaf.

Among the patients on board the naval relief steamer Solace is Lieut. Harrison of the Oregon, the drums of whose ears were destroyed by detonation caused by the firing of an eight-inch rifle upon that ship. He was in command of a thirteen-inch gun, and put his head out of a hatchway to get a breath of air, so that it was within a few feet of the mouth of a rifle upon the upper deck when it was fired. The concussion was so severe that he fell insensible, and it was several hours before he recovered consciousness. He is stone deaf, the membranes of both ears having been lacerated.

EUROPE TO BE IMPRESSED.

Watson's Fleet Is Intended to Serve as an Object Lesson.

A Washington correspondent declares that the administration has a greater purpose in view in dispatching the eastern squadron to Spain than to make an attack upon the ports of that country. The real object is to impress Europe with the ability of the United States to form a squadron whose strength will be such as to compel respect and prevent interference with its plans in regard to the demands to be made upon Spain as to the price of peace. The squadron will be the strongest that can be gathered and will include all of the battleships, a large number of protected and auxiliary cruisers and perhaps the armored cruiser Brooklyn, although this is not definitely stated. It will be under orders to first proceed to the coast of Spain and destroy Camara's fleet, after which it will bombard Spanish ports and harass Spanish commerce and, if need be, part of it will proceed to the far east should there be any question by a third Government of the disposition the United States will make of the Philippine Islands.

DYNAMITE SHELLS IN CANNON.

Process Invented to Throw Them by Means of Gunpowder.

William S. Isham of the City of Mexico laid before the ordnance bureaus of the War and Navy Departments an astonishing proposition. He has invented a process by which shells charged with dynamite may be safely discharged from a piece of artillery by force of gunpowder, the shell bursting by impact. The ordnance officials were somewhat skeptical at first. They said that if Mr. Isham could successfully fire dynamite with gunpowder he could do something that nobody else had ever done. Mr. Isham insisted that he not only could do it, but had done it. He produced letters from the Mexican Secretary of War, Gen. Berriozabal, and the United States minister, Gen. Powell Clayton, both testifying that they had witnessed the experiments with the new process.

Spanish Arms to Be Used.

The ordnance bureau is busy with preparations for using the Mauser rifles captured from the Spaniards. It is probable that the Mausers will be used to replace the Springfield rifles, with which many of our volunteer regiments are at present equipped.

Expelled "Yellow" Correspondents.

Gen. Shafter has reported to the War Department that he directed the expulsion of the correspondents of a New York paper for placarding Santiago city with advertising posters, which bore the inscription, "Remember the Maine."

Santiago Becoming Tranquil.

Under the civil government the city of Santiago has almost resumed its normal condition. Many of the Spanish authorities have refused to take the oath of office recognizing the supremacy of the United States. In every case those who have resigned have been replaced by native Cubans.

Shafter's Explanation.

Gen. Shafter has told Gen. Garcia that the reason why the Cubans were not invited to participate in the ceremonies was that he thought it would not be good policy. His action, he stated, was not due to any lack of regard for his Cuban allies.

PORTO RICO SEIZED.

General Miles Takes Possession of the Island.

NOT A LIFE WAS LOST.

Residents of Ponce Welcome the Invaders Enthusiastically.

Port and City of Ponce Surrender to United States Forces Without a Shot Being Fired on Either Side—Miles Issues a Proclamation Taking Possession in the Name of the American Government and Promising to Protect the People—Enthusiasm of the Inhabitants.

Washington special:

The American forces won as bloodless a victory in Porto Rico as they did at Manila. The port of Ponce surrendered at once when a few American vessels presented themselves. The following day the city, three miles inland, with a population of 50,000, capitulated immediately. Gen. Miles did not find it as hard a nut to crack as Gen. Shafter did Santiago. In all the Porto Rican operations thus far not a life was lost.

Gen. Miles reports that Illinois and Indiana troops under Gen. Ernst occupied the port and city of Ponce after a short skirmish with Spanish troops. Americans had four men wounded, none seriously, while the Spaniards lost three killed and thirteen wounded. Gen. Miles issued a proclamation declaring the purpose of the invasion, releasing the Porto Ricans from their relations to Spain, and expressing the hope that they will readily accept the government instituted for them by the United States. Americans pushed on toward the mountains, and Gen. Miles said he expected to encounter no insurmountable obstacles in his march upon San Juan. Spaniards fled precipitately before the approach of the American army.

The inhabitants of Ponce gave the American troops an enthusiastic welcome. Gen. Miles issued a proclamation in which he told the Porto Ricans that his soldiers came to bring them "the fostering arms of a great people," and an order to give them "the largest measure of liberty consistent with this military occupation" and "the advantages and blessings of an enlightened civilization." The inhabitants were assured that their property is to be protected and their prosperity promoted, while their existing laws and customs are not to be interfered with. The hearty reception given to Gen. Miles' troops at Ponce was not due to his proclamation. The inhabitants are heart-sick of Spanish misrule. They know how much American rule is to be preferred to it, and they stand in no need of assurances that they will be well treated.

Gen. Miles' and Capt. Higginson's dispatches reporting the capitulation of Ponce and describing the strange scenes incidental to the surrender created a genuine sensation in official circles. For the moment the first great victory of the campaign in Porto Rico overshadowed interest in the deliberations of the cabinet anent the terms of peace. Washingtonians were scarcely less enthusiastic over the victory than the Porto Ricans who secured freedom from Spanish tyranny forever by the descent of the Americans upon Ponce. Indeed, the capture of the second city of Spain's most easterly West Indian colony is looked upon as a greater victory than the capture of Santiago, in view of the fact not an American life was lost, and the natives celebrated the event with as much ardor as the soldiers who ran the gauntlet of the Spanish fire to achieve it. It came so unexpectedly and the victory seemed to be so complete as to appear incomprehensible. It was expected Miles would have to fight his way through the Spanish lines before gaining the portal of Ponce, and hence the grace with which the Spaniards laid down their arms and allowed the Americans to enter the provincial capital passed all understanding of Spanish character.

The capture of Porto Rico eliminates one of many disputed points which might arise in considering terms of peace with Spain. It is no longer problematical as to whether the cession of Porto Rico to the United States should be a condition of peace. It is ours now by right of conquest. Its value may be considered in adjusting the war indemnity. But the fact of conquest is already complete.

CUBANS MAY CAUSE TROUBLE.

English Press Discusses the Situation at Santiago.

The London newspapers comment on the relations between the Cubans and Americans in Santiago, and are sarcastic at the expense of the former for unanimously effacing themselves in the presence of hard work and Mauser bullets, and then haughtily consuming American rations with patriotic zeal. The Standard foresees the possibility of a serious quarrel, the American being compelled to forcibly suppress the patriots whom they went to protect. It says that enthusiasts in the United States might have been less sympathetic with the chivalrous Cuban if they had seen him amid his native scrub in his native repugnance to soap and the law of decent living. Cubans are like the Cretans, one of the oppressed nationalities that it is easier to love at a distance. The Daily News anticipates that the Americans will be compelled for a considerable time to keep a substantial army in Cuba.

Santiago's Tariff Regulations.

The President has signed the war tariff regulations for Santiago, and they have gone into effect. The order adopts the general privileged rates now given Spain there, and makes that tariff uniform for all countries, including the United States.

Battle Story Was Untrue.

The report telegraphed from Santiago of a battle between the Cubans, under Garcia, and Spaniards at Songo proves to have been false. There was no fight, nor was there a collision of any kind that could be called even a skirmish.

Weyler May Be Premier.

It is reported that Gen. Weyler will be made premier of Spain after Sagasta steps down and that Gen. Polavieja, who is one of the particular favorites of the Queen Regent, will be minister of war. This combination will continue the war to the utmost limit.

Leader of Insurgents Killed.

Advices received in Madrid from Havana say that the Spanish troops have had an encounter with the insurgents at Jicotea, in the Porto Principe province, in which the Spanish lost three killed and thirteen wounded. The leader of the insurgents was killed.

HAVOC DONE BY HAIL.

Chicago Visited by One of the Worst Storms in Its History.

One of the most severe hailstorms ever experienced by Chicago came upon the city early Thursday evening. The sweep of the storm was through the center of the city from west to east. Tens of thousands of windows were broken. Horses, made frantic by huge hailstones striking them, ran away, and pedestrians on their way home from work fled terror-stricken to the nearest place of shelter. The day had been hot and sultry. In the west a formation of clouds gave promise of a shower, but no severe storm was anticipated even by the weather man. At 6 o'clock the sky was clear except in the southwest, where there were a few scattering clouds. In the short space of thirteen minutes the storm came up and broke upon the city. At 6:15 o'clock hail commenced to fall. The hailstones averaged an inch in diameter, and many were picked up that were as large as lemons. During the height of the storm the wind blew at the rate of forty-eight miles an hour. In the business district many of the sky-scrapers suffered.

Reports from various points show that storms did much damage elsewhere on the same day. Mrs. Wesley Thornton and infant child were killed in a cyclone near Hawthorne, Iowa. Three farm houses were demolished. W. R. Henry was killed by lightning. The Swedish Lutheran Church at Wallin was struck by lightning and burned. Serious damage to crops was done by the wind, and many horses and cattle were killed. At Lyons, Iowa, the factory of the Warner Lock Company was damaged to the extent of $10,000. A cyclone passed through the Indian reserve, five miles north of Marion, Ind., doing a great deal of damage to timber and crops. Reports from various points throughout the Michigan fruit belt show that ripe peaches and blackberries suffered severely from the heavy rain and hail. It is feared that the loss will run into thousands of dollars. In many cases peach trees were stripped of their limbs, while thousands of cases of berries were strewn upon the ground.

MUST PAY WAR TAX.

Express Companies Are Defeated in a Test Suit.

A decision of great importance to shippers was rendered in Chicago by Judge Tuley in the test suit brought by the Illinois Manufacturers' Association to determine whether the war tax imposed upon bills of lading must be paid by the shipper or by the express company. Judge Tuley's ruling is to the effect that the express companies must bear the burden of the tax and that they are required by law to issue to the shipper a stamped bill of lading without extra charge. While admitting the right of common carriers to fix prices for the transportation of merchandise, the decision declares that such companies have no right to arbitrarily make a horizontal increase in rates with the plain intent to force the public to pay a tax which the law-making power aimed to place on them. The suit in question was brought against the United States Express Company. The case will be carried to the United States Supreme Court.

CABLE TO THE PHILIPPINES.

Contract Is Made and Line Will Soon Be Working.

The contract for a cable between the United States, Hawaii, the Ladrones and the Philippines has been let, and communication will be established within a few months. Most of the surveys have been made except some soundings between Hawaii and the Ladrones. It is understood that the contract was made with the Pacific Cable Company after the Government had sounded enough members of Congress to make sure of the annexation of Hawaii and the passage of the Pacific cable bill. On July 2 the executive council of the Hawaiian Government signed a contract granting the right of the company to lay a cable between the United States, Japan, China and "the Pacific islands." The contract is for a period of twenty years. Cables to the United States and the Philippines will be first laid.

OPPOSES WOOD IN WARSHIPS.

Secretary Long Gives Directions to Constructors of New Vessels.

The lesson taught by the engagement between the United States and Spanish armor clads off Santiago on July 3, that the use of inflammable material on warships is one of the greatest dangers in modern marine warfare, has not been lost sight of in the Navy Department, and Secretary Long has directed the board of construction to give consideration to the matter in arranging the details of the three battleships and four coast-defense monitors authorized at the last session of Congress. The board is discussing the advisability of using fireproof wood in these ships and a report will shortly be made to Secretary Long.

The Comic Side of The News

The business man is now stamping and kicking.

The Texas is nobly living down her old reputation.

The latest definition of a "coming out party" is Cervera.

Uncle Sam's demand for revenue stamps caused a stampede.

Spain is rapidly realizing how it feels to be a reconcentrado herself.

Meanwhile do not forget that the Omaha exposition goes marching on.

Camara's naval motto evidently is "small profits and quick returns."

If there are any blowholes in American armor plate Spain can't prove it.

Now that Santiago has fallen, isn't it time for Blanco to take a tumble?

The temptation of a free vacation trip to Europe proved too much for Toral.

Still Camara can't claim that he was given a cooled reception at Port Said.

Spanish honor may not yet be preserved, but it is assuredly in a pickle just now.

Sagasta seems to have studied statesmanship under the man who blew out the gas.

"Peace is in the air," remarks a Philadelphia paper. It is probably a piece of Spain.

The next annual convention of the peace-at-any-price party will be held in Madrid.

Gen. Blanco ought to read the signs of the times and surrender early to avoid the rush.

Gen. Blanco is doubtless waiting to capitulate after the fashion of the man who is called out on strikes.

"Keep cool and wait," may be pretty good advice, but will the weather clerk kindly explain how to do it?

Our troops were far more successful in going over the barb-wire fences in Cuba than the farmers at home have been in overcoming the barb-wire trust.

INDIANA INCIDENTS.

RECORD OF EVENTS OF THE PAST WEEK.

Progress of Labor Troubles at Anderson—Women as Street Car Conductors—Race War at Monroe—Run Down by a Train at Brazil.

Concessions to the Strikers.

The wire nail trust has made concessions granting men in the rod mills their old wages, and the mills at Anderson were started, the strikers returning. The trust officers announce, however, that absolutely no concession will be made in the wire and nail departments, where the reductions range as high as 40 per cent. The men held a conference and unanimously decided to stay out until the old wage scale was restored. The trust then began carrying out its threat to nail up the Anderson plants if the men did not accept the reductions. The men were not alarmed. Many say they will enter the regular army in preference to returning at the new wage. The trust also threatens to nail up its Cleveland plant, where a similar state of affairs exists. It has already closed its plants at Findlay and Salem, Ohio; Beaver Falls, Pa., and other places. The men refuse to accept the cuts. Seven hundred men are employed in the plant at Anderson. The strike at the Anderson iron and bolt works, which had been on for a week, was settled by the manufacturers agreeing to pay the scale paid by the Muncie mills. This is simply an equalization, and on an average is not a reduction. It is satisfactory to all, and the plants resumed at once.

Women in a New Field.

As a matter of economy the management of the Vincennes Street Railway Company advertised recently for women to act as conductors. More than fifty applications were made and five young ladies were selected out of the lot. The salary will be only about $5 a week or $20 per month. The uniform consists of a black suit of much the same pattern as that worn by girls in bicycling, and with similar waists. All will wear caps inscribed "Conductor." The girls have gone regularly into service. No trouble has resulted ,but there is considerable talk and some indignation on the part of old employes.

Race War Results in Death.

The second battle in the race war at Monroe City was fought between twenty negroes and thirty whites. One negro was killed, and Constable Joe Barnett, who led the posse of whites, was shot in the hip. A score of shots was fired and stones and clubs were freely used. Many on both sides were badly beaten. During the battle the house was fired and burned.

Run Down by a Train.

A carriage containing Patrick Mooney, a civil engineer for the Brazil Block Coal Company, his wife and five children, and Miss Tena McDonald, was struck by a train on the Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railroad north of Brazil. Miss McDonald and Miss Hester Mooney were fatally injured. Mr. Mooney, his wife and two of the children received serious wounds.

Within Our Borders.

James Martin, son of Orlando Martin of Elkhart, was drowned while bathing.

At Washington, Calvin Stewart, 14 years old, was drowned while swimming in White river.

The pumping station of the Wabash road at Crocker was totally destroyed by fire. Loss, $2,500.

Rev. Father Herman Mayrose, on a visit at Shelbyville from Columbus, Ohio, was found dead in bed.

John Smith of Highland township, aged 65, committed suicide. He had been in poor health for some time.

The holyites, a new religious sect, will build a tabernacle at Hudson lake with a seating capacity of 2,000.

John Spiece, engineer at the Indiana Pipe Line Company's pumping station at Kellers, was killed by being caught in the engine.

The 2-year-old son of James Logan, near South Whitley, was struck by the Continental limited on the Wabash road and instantly killed.

Of 140 saloonkeepers in Terre Haute twenty or more will go out of business because the Council has refused to reduce the license from $250 to $100.

The Indiana labor commissioners, under direction of Gov. Mount, have taken up the wire nail trust strike in Anderson and will attempt to arbitrate it.

J. W. Hackard, aged 22, of Jefferson, was shot by Nelson Smith, aged 70. Smith had forbidden Hackard calling upon his granddaughter, and his order was ignored.

At LaPorte, Thomas Hauck, aged 16, was placed in jail on his confession that he threw a switch which wrecked a Michigan Central train east of Michigan City.

The executive committee of the State Federation of Labor has decided to hold the annual convention in Terre Haute, and the dates selected are Sept. 27, 28 and 29.

Leonidas Hinton started a new traction engine from Arlington for a point near Rushville. The engine weighed five or six tons. In crossing the wooden bridge over Mud creek the timbers of the west end of the bridge broke and bridge and engine went to the bottom of the stream.

The general store of Bremer Brothers, including the postoffice and telephone exchange, at Plato, was totally destroyed by fire. Spontaneous combustion in the warerooms is thought to have been the cause. There were several partial losses by smoke and water. Loss, $5,000, partially insured.

Burglars entered the residence of W. B. Vanderlip, in an Elkhart suburb, and beat him seriously about the head and broke his wrist. The intruders cut off one diamond earring and wrenched off another from Mrs. Vanderlip's ears. They secured four diamond rings in addition, the total value being about $500.

At Indianapolis, the State Labor Commissioners have secured a settlement between the striking painters and employers and the former returned to work at a minimum wage of 25 cents an hour.

Three men died of alcoholism in Elkhart. Their names were William Roth, William Rhode and Daniel Donovan, all of Chicago. Donovan had written but not mailed a letter to his mother, who lives in Cranston, Mich. The men had been drinking alcohol and wandering about the city for two days. They were found lying by the roadside. Two were dead and Donovan expired soon after.

At Dunkirk, R. B. Maitten and Frank Everhart got into an altercation over some rent due Maitten. During the melee Everhart pulled his knife and inflicted three long and deep gashes in Maitten's face and neck, two under his left arm and two in his back. Maitten's condition is serious.

Dan Skinner of Hartford City, while in a state of intoxication, made a wager which will cost his life. He bet a bulldog against a dollar that he could board a west-bound Panhandle fast freight. In endeavoring to win the bet he was thrown under the wheels and twenty-two cars passed over both limbs, crushing one off below the knee and the other above.

JUDICIAL CONVENTION

The Democrats, of the 35th Judicial Circuit, composed of the counties of DeKalb and Steuben, and all others who will co-operate with them in the election of candidates for Judge and prosecuting Attorney, are requested to meet in delegate convention, in Waterloo, on the 16th day of August, 1898, at one o'clock in the afternoon, for the purpose of nominating such candidates.

It is expected that the candidates nominated will stand pledged, when elected, each to perform the duties of his office in an honest, economical and business like manner, for the benefit of the whole people of the district, rather than that of any particular party or faction.

The basis of representation in such conventions will be one delegate for every 100 votes cast for John B. Stoll, candidate for Presidential Elector, on the Democratic ticket in 1896, and under this apportionment said counties will be entitled to the following number of delegates, to-wit:

DeKalb 37, Steuben17

CYRUS C. WALTER,
Chairman DeKalb Co., Dem., Com.
GEO. E. YOUNG,
Chairman Steuben., Co Dem., Com.

SAD STORY

Our people will remember the unfortunate marriage of Miss Dona Richard to a Mr. Theida and his desertion of her soon after. It appears he went from here to Springfield, Ohio, and there passed as a single man. He began paying attention to a young lady named Huling, but her mother did not like Theida's appearance and forbade him the house. He however insisted on coming. Then the young lady's brother undertook to force him out of the house, and in the struggle that followed, Theida was killed. Huling was arrested and tried for murder. An Auburn citizen has just received a letter from him, in which he says he has just been acquitted. He expresses sorrow that such a thing should happen, and says he had no intetion of hurting the man, till the fight was on, and his opponent, a much bigger man, was getting the advantage of him. They had not then learned, what they now know, that Theida had a wife and child living. He was buried in the Potter's field, but his brother came and took him elsewhere.

LATEST WAR NEWS.

Monday's Daily.

Gen. Grant's brigade, including the 160th Ind., is at Newport Nenes, and will sail for Porto Rico Wednesday.

The 157th have gone north to the new camp at Fernandina, in the same state. The camp at Tampa is not considered healthy or convenient.

It turns out that yellow fever was brought into Gen. Shafter's camp by refugees who came in to get feed.

Gen Miles is occupying towns in Porto Rico, the Sganiards marching out. They all retreat to San Juan, where a big fight may be had later.

Tuesday's Daily.

In Havana, several hundred of the poorer people are fed daily by the Spanish authorities.

One ship load of the sick soldiers from Santiago have reached New York. Another was to reach there yesterday. A camp is being prepared for them in a healthy place. But there are some so sick or so badly wounded they cannot be brought home yet.

Business is booming at the city of Ponce, Porto Rico. Gen. Miles and a part of his forces are there for a few days and that helps make business good. Three-fourths of the people welcome the Americans.

Gen. Miles has sent home for a lot of flags. He will give to some of the towns for their public buildings, and many citizens want to buy flags. One businessman dates his letters "Ponce, Porto Rico, United States of America."

The Mayor of Ponce, Porto Rico, issued a proclamation Saturday, congratulating his people on their deliverance, by the "Great General Miles," and that they were at last, where they had always belonged, a part of the great republic of America. It was a regular spread eagle, fourth of July speech.

Additional troops are reaching Gen. Miles every day. He is sending bodies of troops ahead, on the road to San Juan, and they occupy towns without trouble.

The Spanish ministry is working at the terms for peace. So are our own cabinet. We demand of them, Porto Rico, without condition; Cuba must be cleared of Spanish troops and governors, and Spain give up all authority over it, but nothing is said as to what is to be done with it. All small islands are to be ours, so that Spain has no more right in the West India Islands.

And we, on our part, will not ask for any money damages to pay expense of the war. We are to have one of the Ladrone islands in the Pacific, and will probably hold the city and Bay of Manila till the matter of the Philippines can be settled. And all questions as to the Philippines will likely be left to a commission appointed, a part by the United States and a part by Spain. Such a commission can settle all the details of a treaty of peace, that will be satisfactory to both parties.

OBITUARY

Levi H. Hovarter was born in Fairfield township, DeKalb Co., Ind., Aug. 18, 1855, and died at his home near Fairfield Center July 26, 1898, aged 43 year, 11 month and 8 days.

He was the son of John and Nancy (Weirich) Hovarter who reared a large family of children, ten sons and three daughters.

In the autumn of 1874 he was united in marriage to Amelie C. Kiefer. To this union was born three children two sons and one daughter.

His wife, father, mother, two brothers and one sister preceded him to the spirit world. Seven brothers, two sisters and his three children survive him. The funeral was held Thursday at the Lutheran church conducted by by Rev. J. H. Elson assisted by Rev. George Frederick. The sermon was based upon Heb. 9-27, and was very impressive. Remarks of profound sympathy were made in regard to the little boy, age only 6 years, who is left an orphan in a cold and sinful world. The remains were interred in the Fairfield cemetery beside those of his wife who died Aug. 25, 1896.

The Body Factory

This prosperous and popular factory had its annual meeting yesterday and elected a new board of directors. They are:

John W. Baxter, G. A. Bishop, sr; H. C. Shull, F. T. Zimmerman, J. E. Ensley, C. M. Brown and Frank Eckhart.

These directors then elected the following officers:

G. A. Bishop, sr, president and treasurer; G. A. Bishop, jr, secretary. As there was no vice-president chosen, F. T. Zimmerman will hold over till his successor is chosen, which may be at a future meeting.

GOT LEFT

It has become quite a fad for people to get married on the boats that run Sunday excursions out of Chicago. The other Sunday a couple was married and when the boat was at Milwaukee, just as they were ready to start back, the bride, asked her husband to step off onto the dock and buy a sack of popcorn. He did so, when he suddenly saw the boat had left the pier. The boat refused to come back, even for the tears of the bride. But the husband took a train and met her at the wharf in Chicago.

CASTORIA.

Not Generally Known

Valparaiso Messenger

There are few people who appear to understand that a pedestrian is always entitled to the right of way when crossing a street. Peopele driving are supposed to do the dodging and not the pedestrian. In Chicago this is a law which is atrictly enforced. In Valparaiso it is just the other way. People who are crossing the street do so often at the risk of life and limb and no attention is paid to them oy those who are driving. This is matter deserving of consideration. People should realize that it is a law—a law which should be observed.

A Mysterious Suicide

FAIRFIELD CENTER, IND. Aug. 1 '98

Levi Hovarter, a farmer living west committed suicide on Tuesday evening July 26th, about 8:30 o'clock by hanging himself, with a strap to a rafter in the hay loft of his barn. It is supposed that he had been dead only a short time before he was found, his knees were bent to keep his feet from touching the hay thus showing how determined he was to end his life. It is surmised that he had taken opiates thus deadening his sensibility and aiding him to pursue the desperate course which he had likely planned. His suicide was not due to financial embarassement as was first reported, but rather due to domestic troubles, He has been melancholy for some time but everyone was surprised to hear of his suicide. Mr. Van Fleet held an inquest over the body Wednesday forenoon.

Carnival R. R. Rates.

All railroads give us rates for the Carnival this year. The Lake Shore will run special trains from Bryan, Goshen, Hillsdale and Fort Wayne in such a way as to connect with all cross lines. Their traveling passenger agent was here today. The B. & O. regular trains and the Wabash, run all right without any special trains. All give rates of one fare for round trip.

Auburn Light Artillery.

Soon after Decoration Day, a movement was set on foot by Charles DuWann and a number of others to organize a first-class artillery company. We are pleased to say they have succeeded. The company now numbers 72 men the most of whom have already seen service in the militia here or elsewhere. Charles DuWann is captain and a part of the other officers have been chosen. They will have six guns and Quartermaster General Richardson says he will send them up from Indianapolis this week. They will also send for rifles enough to take part in the sham battle at the Carnival.

THE FORT WAYNE RACES.

The Finest Field of Horses Ever Seen in Indiana. Records Smashing Anticipated.

Go!! Will be the word from the Judge's stand at Fort Wayne next week, the occasion being the eighth annual race meeting of the Fort Wayne Driving Club. About 250 horses are entered for the sixteen races. $32,500 will be divided among the winners. The list of entries just published is a superb one.

As indicating the quality of the racing which may be expected at Fort Wayne we give a list of the probable starters in the 2:10 trot which occurs on Wednesday, August 10th. The Abbott 2:09¼, or Tommy Brittom 2:09¼, Pilot Boy 2:09¼, Elloree 2:09¼, Dan Cupid 2:09¼, Bessie Wilton 2:09¼, Rilma 2:10, Franklin 2:10¼, Little Edgar 2:10¼, Cresceus 2:11¼, Eagle Flanagan 2:12¼, Pat Watson 2:12¼, and Oratorio 2:12¼. No such list of star preformers has ever before been entered in one race, and it is certain that no other association will be able to get all the great 2:10 performers together again this year.

Another notable event for Wednesday will be the Great Horse Review Stake for two-year-olds for a purse of $10,000, the largest stake ever raced for over an Indiana track.

There will be first-class racing on all other days, with three races each day and four on Thursday.

Thursday's program includes races for 2:05 pacers, 2:14 trotters, 2:11 pacers and 2:20 trotters, $6,500 being distributed to the winners of the four races.

All railroads make excursion rates and on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, a one-fare rate for the round trip will prevail.

EXTRA SESSION

An effort is being made to call an extra session of the legislature to pass a law enabling soldiers in the field to vote at the coming election. Just now it has taken the form of a request to the various members to sigh a blank that is being sent to them. Senator Nusbaum and representatives C. M. Brown have received these blanks. They contain a request to the governor to call the special session and also contain a promise on the part of the member who signs them, to serve the extra session without pay of any sort. All this looks like poor business to us. If any law of importance is to be passed, the state can afford to pay the members for passing it. If it is not important, then why ask the members to assume this heavy burden. In either case, the state is able to pay its lawmakers, and most of the lawmakers are not able to go to Indianapolis and stay several weeks, lose their time and pay their own bills.

L. L. C. ELECTION.

The Ladies' Literary Club held an extra session last Saturday at the home of Mrs. Barns, to finish up some business, and other matters that had been postponed. After the business session had been closed the club listened to two very excellent papers, "The Women of Shakespheare," by Mrs. T. M. Guild, and "The American Newspaper," by Mrs. A. J. Ralston. These were followed by the reports from the Biennial Meeting of Woman's Clubs at Denver by the delegates, Mrs. Swineford and Mrs. Barns. The club decided to take some part in the Carnival and a committee was appointed to take charge of the affair, composed of the following: Miss Nellie Buckley, Miss Stella Hague, Mrs. W. C. Hartman, Miss Margaret Buckley and Mrs. C. E. Emanuel. The officers for the new year, elected at the last meeting in June, are Pres, Mrs. Elizabeth Willis, Vice Pres. Mrs. Mollie Rose, Secy. Mrs. G. W. Lackey, Treas. Mrs. S. C. Swineford, Critic, Miss Nellie Buckley.

The club adjourned to meet with the new President, Mrs. Willis on the first Saturday of October.

New Business

John Kruger is clearin g out the Leasure building on West Seventh st so long used as a bakery, and will shortly occupy it as a confectionery and fruit store. It is an excellent location, and is just the size needed for the purpose They are taking out the oven and other fixtures used in the bakery and will in that way have the full use of the rooms, giving abundance of space. Mr. Kruger will bring to the business ample experience from his long management of the Auburn Fruit House, and will we predict, make the new establishment a success.

Notes From Santiago.

A member of one of the regiments at Santiago wrote soon after the surrender:

"The hardships of this campaign, let alone the fighting that scattered the graves of comrades side by side with the tents of the living, have been splendidly sustained by our men. Now that the heavy rains of the first of this week have ceased, conditions are better, but rain clouds cover the sky every day and any hour may see knee-deep rivers sweeping through clumps of tents, and it may be next to impossible to start fires to cook food.

Then, food has been scarce; the roads from here to Siboney have been almost impassable during the rains, and at all times they have been rough, and teaming has been heavy.

When men put up with three pieces of hardtack and half a cup of coffee a day, the question of nutriment is serious and when unseasoned soldiers go seventy hours without sleep, it can be truly said they endure hardships. But they have borne it all with fine courage and a good nature that was never long absent.

With the courage and determination of our men one notes and excellent physical condition of mules and horses after three weeks of the heaviest kind of labor.

All day long and far into the night pack trains and provisions wagons toil up to the front, and the Red Cross ambulances bring back the sick and wounded.

Poor Cuban women, foot-sore, starving and weak, drag themselves along the muddy roads from Caney in a search for food, and our men and ambulances pick them up and succor them,

At El Caney the food is insufficient Weak women and children get none, and starvation there is growing rapidly.

A Cuban woman from El Caney staggered into camp this morning. She was pale and pinched, and the ragged silk dress that half covered her attenuated body spoke of past luxury and refinement more than did her features and her despair and utter exhaustion.

She did not ask for food, but for work She washed clothes from the hospital tent for a day in return for food and sat down to the welcome army fare with hands bleeding from the unaccustomed labor,

At dusk she turned wearyily back toward El Caney, six miles away, richer by one meal.

Republican Candidates.

Republican aspirants for county offices are very active now, as the time is drawning near for their convention.

We find in the various county papers, the names of some, and quiet rumor gives the names of others.

For representative we call to mind the fact that J. C. Vernier, of Butler, and Dr. Darby, of Waterloo are mentioned.

For clerk, the Butler Record favors the present officer, Mike Long.

For auditor, we have heard mentioned the names of Dr. Broughton, of Waterloo and M. E. Reynolds of Corunna.

For sheriff, the candidates are deputy sheriff Neal Platter, of Auburn and J. E. Decker, of Wilmington.

For treasurer they will no doubt give the present officer the nomination as that is customary. Both parties agree that a man serving by appointment is entitled to the regular nomination. So we hear of no opposition to him.

For recorder, there are Wm. Watson, of Garrett and Frank Greist of Newville.

A. D. Moore, of Wilmington is the only man so far asking for the honorable, but important and difficult office of commissioners. As new names come up, we will try and keep our readers posted.

Our Six-Year-Old Daughter.

Our little six-year-old daughter had a very sore throat, badly ulceratad, and coughed almost incessantly. Gave the White Wine of Tar Syrup according to directions and she began to improve immediately and soon got well. Friday's Daily.

—J. A. Campbell the insurance man of Butler was transacting business in Auburn today.

—C. C. Neidig of Fairfield was a caller at this office today, being here on business matters.

—Don't fail to read our clipped "Telephone article." It is natural enough to have really happened.

—Dr. Baxter is paying special attention to Diseases of Children also Diseases of the Liver, Stomach and Nervous system. tf —FOUND:—Saturday in the First National Bank, a sum of money. Owner can have it by proving property and paying for this notice.

—Mr. Merica has sold his fine home on South Maint-st to Mrs. Irven Lockwood, who will probably occupy it soon as a home. It is one of the most desirable pieces of property in Auburn.

—D.N. Myers will keep his fine imported Cleveland Bay Stallion at his feed barn in Auburn every day in the week this season. All interested in good horses, are invited to call. tf —Uncle James Gilliland was up town on his crutches to-day. The extremely hot weather has caused his artificial limb to become chafed and tender, so he had to go back to crutches.

—The boy "covered with scales" drew quite a good crowd last evening, and must have netted his managers quite a lot of nickels. He was apparently about as popular as "George" was at last fall's Carnival.

—The editor of the Evans City, Pa., Globe, writes, "One Minute Cough Cure is rightly named. It cured my children after all other remedies failed" It cures coughs, colds and all throat and lung troubles. H. B. McCord.

—B. A. Woodcox and wife came in from the north this afternoon, and stopped over for a rest with the family of H. K. Culbertson. Mr. W. has been taking treatment at St. Louis, Mich., but does not seem to improve much.

—Our friend S. B, Amstutz at Omaha, sends us this week a good remittance on the old Reliable for which he has thanks. During the summer season, our weekly subscribers get too busy to think of the printer and it makes these stray sums all the more welcome.

A special to the COURIER from Fairfield reached us after the paper was off yesterday. Still we are no less grateful for the effort made. We had obtained the account of Mr. Hovarter's unfortunate taking off, from another source. Our correspondents are pretty wideawake chaps, as we are pleased to note.

—Rev. Geo. Wade Healy reached Auburn yesterday, being on a visit to this part of the country. His wife had stopped to visit relatives at Jackson. Their home is now at Anaconda, Montana, where he is pastor of the Presbyterian church. Mrs. Healy's health has not been very good since they have been in the mountains, as their present home is about 7,000 feet above sea level.

—MARRIED:—Last evening July 27, at the home of Sam Fretz on South Jackson-st by Rev. J. D. Brosy Mr. Frank D. McCrum and Miss Ella Fretz, both are of Auburn, and will make their future home here. We wish this newly married couple a happy future and a prosperous life. The ceremony was performed in the presence of the groom's and bride's parents.

—Agent DeLapp of the Lake Shore read has purchased the residence of A. J. Burke on West Seventh street and will at once fit it up for a home. It is a good building and will need but little changes. He will repaint it and make such changes as will be desirable paint and fix up the barn and slick things in generally. It will be a desirable place for him, being convenient to his work both at the passenger station and the freight depot. It also corners wit his present property, which will make it still more convenient, as the barn will be of service to a tenant, on his present home as well as to himself. The price he paid Mr. Burke was $1,125 which was reasonable.

Saturday's Daily.

—Purdy is putting down a deep well at the residenee of John W. Baxter They expect to go down a hundred feet or more.

—WANTED:—Black Walnut logs for timber. Highest cash prices paid for same. Address, Lesh, Sanders & Egbert Co., Goshen, Ind. 8

—Supt. Coe and family are moving from the Thrush residence they have occupied a year or so, to the Henry Lesh residence at the west end of the same street.

—Mrs. M. B. Woodworth, of Canton, Ohio, begins a tabernacle meeting at Helmer on Thursday, August 4. She will be remembered by our people as the evangelist who had a series of meetings at Butler a few years ago. She became quite famous by healing the sick.

—The Columbia City Evening Post is authority for the statement that a four-year-old daughter of a Rochester clergyman after listening to her father preach one Sunday morning quite awhile, finally became restless and climbing upon the seat exclaimed: "Come on, papa; you've said enough; let's go home!"

—Dr. Swarts is very much pleased at the marked success in the use of anti-toxine, the great diphtheria remedy. He has just now been treating a son of Sol. Shearer, out at the old Shearer homestead in east Jackson, who showed a bad condition of diphtheria, so bad that he was discharging matter from the ears. The remedy was administered four times and the boy is recovering. In all the four cases in which the Doctor has used anti-toxine he effected cures.

—The neat new wire fence shown on the south side of public square should attract every farmer. The patterns are new, and a fence made on that plan will last. Go and take a look at these styles of wire fence. The agent here sells the machines for making this fence. He has just received a shipment of 500 machines.

—Miss Olive Elson fell yesterday, and injured the bones of her hip. It was at first it might result in lameness, but it now believed such will not be the case, though it may bother her for a time. Today she is resting fairly well, though in considerable pain. Being an internal injury but little can be done for her but to assist her to rest as quietly as possible.

—It will be remembered that when George Everett was here recruiting that after Adjutant Scott, had finished mustering in the men here and at Angola, he went to Ft. Wayne to muster the recruits there, but an order came to stop recruiting and come on with what they had. So all hustled off that were ready for at that time it was believed the 157th would be sent at once to Porto Rico. Now, the Fort Wayne Journal says, a recruiting officer will soon be sent there to fill up companies B. and G. to the full number, 26 men being needed.

—The Tri-State Normal College at Angola, has its commoncement this week. We are in receipt of a handsome invitation, the progran on which indicates an interesting entertainment in the way of orations etc. There is but one thing we feel like criticising, and that is the Greek motto. It is bad enough to have a motto in Latin, which very many more people can read, especially as the alphabet is the same as ours. But we object to a motto in any other than the English, the leading language of the world, the language used more universally than any other, and its use constantly increasing. A motto in such a form as to be understood by no one but the class and its teachers, is of not much use.

OBITUARY.

Franklin Carlton Francis was born Aug. 13, 1822; died July 28, 1898, aged 75 years, 11 months and 15 days.

Deceased was the son of Peter and Nancy Hubbard Francis, who resided at the time of his birth at Metz, Germany—then France. He was the third child of a family of four sons and three daughters, none of whom are now living except a brother, Peter Francis, who resides at Sparta, Wis. The father emigrated with the four younger children and reached Lyons ville, N. Y., about the year 1836, where they resided for three years, then moved to Milwaukee and later to Watertown, Wis. In the spring of 1849, deceased journeyed by water to California. Arriving at San Francisco, he made his way to Downieville, just north of Sacramento, where he began the life of a miner; and soon became a contractor and builder, having rapidly acquired several mines of his own; and was engaged in all the whirl and hurry of a new western town. He was very successful and accumulated what, at that time and place, was considered a fortune. One Sabbath in church, for he had been an active factor in the building of a church in the new town, he was attracted by a new face in a sun-bonnet—the young woman of a party who had made the journey overland, helping her father and brother. He soon became enamored, and on September 4, 1853, he married her. She was Catherine M. Shoemaker, sister of E. R. Shoemaker. After about two years, he, with his wife and their young child, embarked upon the ill-fated "Yankee Blade," a vessel bound for the States. They had set out upon a visit home. They met with shipwreck and were landed upon an uninhabited headland, destitute, having barely escaped with their lives. A fortune swallowed up by the sea. They were rescued at length and returned to the city os San Francisco, where Mr. Francis left his wife and child and returned to Downieville, where, drawing upon his resources, they were soon re-embarked and reached DeKalb county and friends in the month of November, 1855. Within the year they decided to settle down and remain; becoming possessed of the tract of land where he has for all these forty-two years been found an honorable and prosperous citizen. He was the father of five children—Orcelia, Wm. F., Cyrus V., Mary J. and Jennie B. The faithful wife, Wm. F., Jennie B. and two grandchildren survive to mourn their great loss, cherishing the memory of a tender husband, a kind father and a companionable grandfather. His life in Waterloo has been one of sterling manhood, tireless industry, strict probity and generous hospitality. For years he was an active, consistent and reliable member of the church of the United Brethren in Christ. For reasons satisfactory to himself he severed his relations with the church, but was firm in his faith in the reality of the Christian Religion to the end. Cottage services were held at 10 a. m. Saturday, at which a large per centage of the many people present were silvered over with the marks of time. They had "neighbored" with Frank Francis for over forty years. They came to join in the last funeral rites, which were conducted by Revs. Yager and Butler, aided by Elder Tedrow. The body rests in the Waterloo cemetery.

POLITICS OF THE DAY

SMOOTH AS HIS OIL.

Certain of the pious youth of New York, says the Journal, must surely still remember the instructive moment when Mr. John D. Rockefeller appeared before them with a well-thumbed memorandum book in his hands and told them of the little earnings and modest beneficence of his youth. They listened spellbound while he told of his earnings of $6 a week, a gift of 25 cents to foreign missions, 10 cents to Bible societies, and various sums to divers beneficiaries. And when the multi-millionaire, trying to look as if he yearned for the days of penury again, closed by saying that he held it the duty of every man to get all the money he could honestly, and then give it all away, his auditors felt that there indeed was a true guide for youth through life's thorny path. When the Ohio Legislature is not electing corruptionists and bribers to the United States Senate it is usually engaged in investigating the methods by which Mr. Rockefeller gets his money "honestly." It was so employed recently when John Teagle, an oil refiner, testified before it. Mr. Teagle swore that the agents of John D. Rockefeller tried to bribe his bookkeeper with an offer of $50 a week, to give the Standard Oil Company information regarding his shipments, prices, cost of manufacture, etc. This bookkeeper pretended to be complaisant, and actually received one payment for helping Mr. Rockefeller to undermine his employer's business. It seems that the Bibles are not the only books which interest Mr. Rockefeller; the books of his competitors also engage his attention. And perhaps in the memorandum of charitable disbursements new he puts down the sums benevolently paid to indigent employes of his business rivals in consideration of their treachery to their employers. At any rate, Mr. Rockefeller is living up to the first part of his counsel to aspiring youth. He is getting all the money he can. We note that the dividends paid to this eminent churchman and philanthropist from the Standard Oil holdings in 1897 are estimated at $7,500,000, and still the man who wants to make a living refining oil must be fought with weapons ranging all the way from corruption to explosives.

An Insult to Germans.

In the name of the Democratic party and the 6,500,000 voters who cast their ballot for Bryan in 1896, we protest against this vicious attempt on the part of the combined Republican press of the United States to throw discredit on the German race and character by repeatedly charging that Germany is against us in the war with Spain. It is an insult to a nation that has always been our friend, an insult to a class of our adopted countrymen who have always been loyal to our flag. This base slander is uttered in the interest of the proposed Anglo-American alliance, the one great object of the Republican party. The fact that the victims of the insult on this side of the Atlantic have in the past supported the Republican party seems to have little weight with the Republican press. The only gratitude it knows is slander. The day of reckoning is approaching. The German Americans are having their eyes opened. Once they believed that the Republican party was the best for this country. Now they see it is narrow, bigoted and anti-American in its politics. That will not suit the Germans. They are coming to understand the Democratic party. Events of the past few years have taught them a lesson. We welcome the German Americans to the ranks of Democracy. And this is not merely because they will make victory for us certain, but because we love the sturdy and unflinching characteristics of the race. It was this same low, contemptible bigotry that drove Irish Americans into our ranks, where they have ever found the hand of true brotherhood as well as a chance to labor earnestly for a cause that is God's. When the Republican party finds its true level it will be mainly composed of a few Anglomaniacs (those what-is-its that look so uncomfortable in male attire) and their progenitors, the trusts and newspapers established and supported here by British capital.—National Democrat.

Down with the Trusts.

With nearly two thousand millions of dollars invested in pools and trusts, the United States is certainly menaced by a great and growing evil. Recognizing this fact, the Democratic State Convention of Illinois adopted the following as one plank of the party platform: "We demand the adoption of national and State laws that will abolish pools and trusts which unite in unlawful combinations, corporations engaged in the same line of business for the increase of prices and the decrease of wages, thereby largely augmenting profits at the expense of both consumer and laborer." Consumers are placed almost entirely at the mercy of the trusts. Prices are advanced without fear of these combines, for they have killed competition. Hardly an article of common use can be mentioned that is not absolutely controlled by a syndicate of manufacturers. Among the boldest of these organizations are the Sugar Trust and the Standard Oil Trust. The Steel Trust, the Leather Trust, the Cordage Trust, will occur to the mind of the most casual thinker. Aside from their power to increase prices and to lower wages, these combines threaten the liberties of the people. They corrupt courts and legislatures; they coerce employes to vote for the candidate who will make laws favoring the combines, and thus they perpetuate their power. It is wise and patriotic on the part of the Democracy to oppose these institutions, and the plank of the Illinois State platform expressing this opposition ought to commend itself to every honest and to every patriotic man.

Income Tax.

That the Democratic platform adopted at the State convention of Illinois is worthy of hearty approval on the part of the people needs no argument. Following the silver plank comes a declaration that will appeal to the sense of justice in every heart not hardened by selfish interest. This plank reads as follows: "We demand the adoption of a fair and equitable tax on incomes and an amendment to the constitution of the United States if necessary, to accomplish this purpose." This is just and reasonable on its face. As the law now stands the burden of taxation is placed on the shoulders of those least able to pay it. The man who has an income of $10,000 a year may be able to avoid taxation entirely, but the man who earns a dollar a day must pay heavy taxation and has no chance to evade such payment. By the vote of one man on the supreme bench it has been decided that an income tax is unconstitutional. Although this is simply the opinion of one man, it is binding so long as it is not reversed, and perhaps the simplest way to reverse it is to secure a constitutional amendment. In the long run justice will be secured, and the Democratic party of Illinois is pledged by its platform to aid in its securement, not only in this one case, but in other cases which will be referred to later on.

The Reward of the Farmers.

"As if to reward the farmers for supporting the gold standard," says the Times-Herald, "Nature has forced the purchase of $800,000,000 of our products by foreign lands." It is certainly discouraging to find that both God and Nature are in cahoots with the Republican party. It will be news to you to learn that Nature (probably acting under God's direction) caused a failure of the wheat crop throughout the world, and starved millions of people in India, Italy, Spain and other gold standard countries in order to reward the American farmers for voting for McKinley. Really, are these plutocrats lunatics? or is it possible that their dupes are such asses as to swallow such rot of that kind—rot that appears as an editorial in the paper mentioned? Nature does not support a money standard or any other scheme of man. She dispenses an even-handed justice to all, and will wipe the Republican party off the earth, even though it be a great exponent of sound money, for disregarding her laws, just as quickly as she will gather into the kingdom come the meekest, most chumpish voting king that ever sold his ballot for a drink. But while the plutes can't monkey with Nature very much, they have had their own sweet way with the working classes so long that perhaps they have conceived the idea that they are in league with God and Nature.—Coming Nation.

Where Is Fitzhugh Lee?

What has the War Department done with Gen. Fitzhugh Lee? Miles went to Porto Rico, Merritt has gone to Manila, Shafter has captured Santiago and Wheeler was with the big general and helped to bring about the big event. But where is Lee? Sampson was an unknown quantity forced upon the navy by political influence, and from being an unknown quantity has developed into a palpable and too well-known cipher. Schley won the naval victory over Cervera, and Sampson turned up just in time to claim what Schley had won. Thus it seems that politics has had something to do with securing positions of advantage, and perhaps there may be more or less of politics in the suppression of Lee. By right of a full knowledge of the country, Gen. Fitzhugh Lee should have been given an opportunity at the front in Cuba, but up to date that position has been denied him. Is it possible that Gen. Lee is too popular with the people of the United States to please the politicians at Washington?—Chicago Dispatch.

Several Nations Should Note It.

Labouchere sees in the Italian riots this lesson for England: "From the terrible condition of Italy we should learn a lesson, or what has befallen her will ultimately befall us. We should give home rule to Ireland, and thus put an end to the discontent there; we should reduce and not increase taxation; what we do levy in taxes should be spent for the welfare of the community, instead of being squandered in buccaneering and in the armaments that are rendered necessary for our predatory habits. Peace, economy and reform are scouted nowadays as not fitted for this enlightened age. We should revert to them." Public taxation in Italy has reached a point where of every dollar a laborer earns the state takes half to spend on the army, the navy, the officials and the aristocracy. Meanwhile the unofficial taxation levied by monopoly, by landlords, takes a good share of the remaining half, or denies opportunity to earn any dollar at all. England is not the only nation that may learn this.

Folly of the Dingley Tariff.

One of the minor barbarities of the Dingley tariff, as interpreted by the customs officials, is illustrated in the duties imposed upon a collection of eighteenth century miniatures imported by a resident of New York. These were portraits of various celebrities painted upon ivory, some in metal frames and some set in covers of snuff boxes and other articles of ivory and metal. The appraisers have decided that the articles must pay duty ranging from 35 and 45 to 60 per cent., as manufactures of ivory, metal or jewelry. This is doubtless necessary to protect the native manufacturers of antiques.—Philadelphia Times.

Direct Legislation Not a Panacea.

No, direct legislation is not a panacea for all national ills. In fact, it is not a panacea at all. It is merely a spoon with which the panacea could be administered. Specific legislation is the panacea for political ills, and direct legislation the method that can be secured. A sick man may need a different number of medicines, but they can all be administered with one spoon. If the nurse went to get a spoon with which to administer the medicine, you would not say that she considered the spoon the panacea for all the sick man's ills.—New Era.

SKIRMISH IN CUBA—DRAWN FROM A SKETCH ON THE SPOT.

—Chicago Times-Herald.

ENLISTED AS A PRIVATE.

Louis H. Carpenter Has Now Risen to Brigadier General.

One of the most striking examples of the democracy of the United States army is presented by the career of Louis H. Carpenter, who entered the army as a private and has risen to be a brigadier general. Carpenter was at the University of Pensylvania in 1861, when he was seized with the war fever and enlisted in the regular cavalry. Within six months his soldierly qualities won him a commission as second lieutenant in the regular cavalry. Before the civil war closed he was repeatedly brevetted for bravery displayed in campaign and on the field of battle—to first lieutenant 1863 for "gallant and meritorious services at Gettysburg," captain 1864 for "gallant and meritorious services in the battle of Winchester," then lieutenant colonel United States army and colonel of volunteers for "gallant and meritorious services during the war."

He was in nearly all the cavalry fights of the Army of the Potomac. In the battle of Fairfield, near Gettysburg, he rescued and brought off the field the colors of his regiment when the regiment was surrounded by an overwhelming force of the enemy. His bravery was so conspicuous that General Sheridan, one of the greatest cavalry commanders in history, called him to his side as one of the most trusted officers of his staff. After the war of the rebellion he returned to his regiment and again became conspicuous as an Indian fighter. At the beginning of the present war he was made a brigadier general and put in command of the brigade made by the famous Fifth Maryland Regiment, the crack First Regiment of the District of Columbia and the celebrated Second New York Regiment of volunteers.

How Slate Pencils Are Made.

Slate pencils undergo a number of processes before they are ready for use, and in making them nearly all of the manual labor is done by boys. First broken pieces of slate are put into a mortar run by steam and are crushed to a powder, which is then bolted in a machine such as is used in flouring mills. A fine slate flour results, which is thoroughly mixed in a large tub with steatite flour and other materials, the whole making a stiff dough. The dough is kneaded by being passed between iron rollers a number of times, and it is then taken to a table, where it is made into short cylinders four or five inches in thickness and containing from eight to ten pounds of material each.

Four of these cylinders are placed in a strong iron retort which has a changeable nozzle so that the size of the pencils may be regulated. In the retort the material is subjected to great hydraulic pressure and is thus pushed through the nozzle in the shape of a long cord. As the cord comes through the nozzle is passes over a knife and is cut into the desired lengths. The lengths are laid on boards to dry and are then placed on sheets of corrugated zinc, the corrugation preventing the pencils from warping during the baking process. The baking is done in a kiln which superheated steam is passed through pipes.

The pencils go from the kiln to the finishing and packing room, where the ends are held for an instant under a rapidly revolving emery wheel, which neatly points them.

Finally they are packed in pasteboard boxes, 100 pencils in each box, then 100 of the pasteboard boxes are packed in a wooden box, and they are ready for shipment. — Philadelphia Times.

BEAUTY AND THE BEAU.

The Show of Gallantry Rebuked by Genuine Courtesy.

The car was crowded. It happened that only men were standing, with the exception of a colored woman in the middle of the car. But at a corner a woman dressed in the top of the mode got on. She stood next the door, and plainly here was a chance for some masculine person to be gallant. An old beau, who was seated near the center, was obviously fascinated by the appearance of this beauteous female, and bobbed his head to catch her eye. Finally succeeding he arose, beckoned to her, and murmured:

"Won't you take my seat, madam?"

The colored woman, standing directly in front of him, heard this, and, turning, thanked him gratefully as she made a movement toward the vacant space. With indignation wrinkling his tinted nose, and spoiling for a moment the gracious air which he had assumed, he pushed her back, with both hands at her elbows, as he exclaimed:

"Oh, no; not for you, ma'am!"

His adjustment of expression was rapid as he turned once more to her of the handsome face and fashionable clothes and made way. Then, with a smile at his neighbors which plainly said, "Didn't I manage that well?" he leaned comfortably on his stick.

The favored one had not noticed the little play which had been enacted for her benefit, but a young girl who sat in the next seat was an observer, and saw the warm red deeply flush under the black skin of the other woman and the tears come in the dark eyes. She saw the mouth quivering, and her own eyes snapped. With a glance at "His Complacency," unmistakably expressive of her scorn and indignation, she quickly rose, touched the woman on the arm, and gently said:

"Take my seat; I'm getting out at the next corner."

Then flashing a look at the man, under which his expression of self-congratulation rapidly changed to something near to sheepishness, she passed out of the car; and more than one man there would have bet that she had not intended to get off at that corner.—New York Sun.

THEY WALK ON THE CEILING.

Two Heiresses with Inherited Love for Gymnastics.

Perhaps the most daring performance to be seen in all the many places of entertainment at Coney Island, New York, is that given by two girls, who seem to be altogether out of harmony with their surroundings. These are the Austin sisters, each of them refined, well educated and of charming personality in every way. Their home is a beautiful place at Bath Beach, L. I., where their parents live. The latter are persons of good manners and easy deportment, many years of travel in all parts of the world having given them the indefinable polish which your stay-at-home can never hope to attain. Mr. and Mrs. Austin were trapeze performers since early childhood. In the course of their professional journeyings they met and married, traveling and performing together for years. Unlike many others in the same business, they took care of their earnings, increasing the same handsomely by several judicious investments. When their two daughters were still little girls they retired and purchased their present home at Bath Beach.

WALKING ON THE CEILING.

The two children were sent to a first-class school in Brooklyn, from which they recently graduated with marked credit. From their earliest childhood they were carefully trained by Mr. Austin, his object being to develop their frames so as to make them healthy and hearty young women. In this he has been entirely successful, but the training the girls received in the spacious gymnasium at Bath Beach also developed the love for such exercise, which they inherited from their parents, and last fall they obtained permission to prepare themselves for public appearance. Now they show daily in a daring trapeze act and also as ceiling walkers. The latter performance is especially thrilling.

The girls make a charming modest picture when seen together dressed for their act. Aimee, the elder girl, has a great mass of chestnut hair, beautiful blue-gray eyes, and an exceedingly dainty appearance. Marie, the younger, a real beauty, was born in Vienna. Her eyes are dark and she wears her hair pompadoured over her face. The girls are attended by their father at all performances and are at present attracting much attention by their topsy-turvy feats.

Not a Temperance Country.

A story was told relating to Scotch hospitality, as explaining Scotland's reputation as a drinking nation. Some years ago a Scotchman residing in the interior, who had accumulated a fortune in America, paid a visit to his old home. Before leaving a fellow countryman asked him to take in his pocket a notebook, and to make a note of every visit he made with an observation as to whether or not he was offered liquor. During a two months' absence he paid ninety-two visits in Scotland and was asked to take liquor at eighty-seven of the houses he visited.

Plea for Beer on Sundays.

An extraordinary argument for Sunday opening was quoted by one of the speakers recently at a temperance convention. He related that at a public meeting once held in Coventry, England, an orator urged that public houses should be opened at noon on Sunday, in order that workingmen should have an opportunity of discussing together the sermons they had heard in the morning.

HAWAII VERY HAPPY.

OVERJOYED AT THE NEWS OF ANNEXATION.

Coptic's Arrival Greeted with Salutes and Music—People Stop Business—Bands Play Patriotic American Airs and a Procession Is Formed.

Honolulu Jubilant.

Hawaii is in the Union and feels it. The roar of cannon, the cheers of enthusiasm, the unfurling of the Stars and Stripes from every house top and vantage point, which greeted the news the Coptic brought to Honolulu, has been repeated to the other islands of the group as fast as the message of annexation reached them. And the echo of their enthusiasm came back to Honolulu to redouble and re-enforce the swelling flood of exultation and demonstrative satisfaction.

Never was vessel more truly a gospel ship, bringing good news to those who heard it gladly, than the Coptic when she came in last Wednesday afternoon, July 13, with flags floating from every mast and streamers and pennants from every shroud and stay. While she was still far out at sea the message she bore was read in her signal pennants, and to every village and plantation and house on the island of Oahu the news was sent, by telephone and messenger, and by that subtle mode of swift communication which every primitive people has, and which the native Hawaiians have not forgotten.

With the spread of the news there began a display of American flags from housetops and doorways and from tall cocoanut palms and hilltops and mountain peaks, as though the spirit of freedom had just turned loose upon a whole people until, to an aeronaut, the whole island would have looked like a garden of red and blue flowers against the background of tropical green.

The whole population was awake, alert, each to assure himself that the news so long hoped for, so often deferred, had come at last; to grasp its full meaning and to exchange with his neighbors mutual congratulations. Business ceased. Buyers deserted the stores and merchants their counting rooms to join in the streets and at the wharf their fellow citizens in celebrating their great event. Factories closed. Work everywhere came to a standstill. "We are Americans," was the only theme upon which men would talk.

The steamship Coptic arrived from San Francisco on the evening of the 13th inst., with the important news that the United States Senate had ratified the Newlands resolution, making Hawaii a part of the United States. Long before the vessel had reached the harbor it was known that the steamer brought annexation news, the information being signalled to the Mohican.

After the Coptic was docked the official message of Minister Hatch announcing annexation was read from the balcony of the Government building and was greeted with intense enthusiasm. The Government band played American national airs and the people went wild. Then there was an informal procession and cheering thousands marched through the streets. It was far in the night before the patriotic jubilee ended.

EFFECT OF WAR ON HARVEST.

Help Scarce in Dakota Because the Boys Joined the Army.

The farmers of the Northwest are confronted by a hard proposition as one of the results of the war. With so small a percentage of soldiers from the West it would seem that their absence could make no difference in the affairs of the States. But the situation is serious for the farmer who is ready to harvest his grain. Heretofore the help has not been large, but with the assistance of tramps during the harvesting season the farmers have been able to care for their crops. Now not only are their own sons away in the army, but there are no tramps in the Northwest.

"I have never known anything like it," said one of the largest farmers in South Dakota. "I went into a town near my farm last week to get harvest hands. I could easily have secured 200 men there last year, but now I could not get one. The town has a population of 500, but it sent 210 men to fight against Spain. If there are any idle men in the East looking for plenty of work they should come out here. We must have help or some of us will lose our crops."

KLONDIKERS IN DIRE STRAITS.

Thousands Kept on Boats at St. Michael's, Unable to Land.

The steamer Humboldt, which arrived in Seattle from St. Michael's, brings the news that many river boats and thousands of Klondikers are in dire straits at St. Michaels, on account of lack of docking facilities. Many river boats and other vessels towed to Alaskan ports have been unable to land their passengers, some of them having been in port many weeks. The result is that provisions are very low on the boats. Thousands who have landed have been unable to get up the river, owing to the lowness of the water in the Yukon, and provisions in the town are getting short. Many of the vessels and passengers would return south at once if they had food sufficient to make the voyage to Seattle or San Francisco.

CANNOT EXPEND THE MONEY.

Cincinnati City Restrained from Expending $10,000 on G. A. R.

Judge R. B. Smith of the Ohio Supreme Court in the suit of A. M. Stem, a taxpayer, to restrain the city of Cincinnati from expending $10,000 for the entertainment of the Grand Army of the Republic during the encampment next September, found that the objections to the appropriation which had already been passed by the board of city affairs were valid, and granted an injunction. The court ruled that "the purpose of the expenditure is beyond the scope of the power of a municipal corporation."

Hooley Wrote His Own Puffs.

Ernest T. Hooley, the London speculator and company promoter, against whom a receiving order was issued upon his own petition several weeks ago, was examined in the bankruptcy court Wednesday. Mr. Hooley said that he had paid Earl Delawarr £25,000 to act as chairman of the Dunlop Tire Company and had paid the board of directors of the company altogether £50,000. Lord Albemarle, he said, received £12,500, and two solicitors received £20,000 each in addition to their fees.

Besides these payments he had paid Mr. Kirby £1,000 for the privilege of writing his own article in the Financial Post, and Sheridan and Kirby, the proprietors of that paper, further received £2,500. He also paid Mr. Marks of the Financial News £10,000, but said that this was not for the insertion of articles in the paper.

Population Now 1,883,000.

Chicago has a population of 1,883,000 souls, according to reliable figures deduced from the new city directory. The '98 address book is the largest in the country. It contains 539,200 names, or 150,000 more than in the directory of any other city.

HUMAN NATURE LIKES PETS.

This Is Especially True of Human Nature that Goes Into Camp.

They call them mascots in the language of the camp. The word is the cover for the expression of the soldier's affections. The brawny Missourian, carrying about in the hollow of his arm a half-grown rabbit and occasionally touching it with a caress so delicate that the shy creature forgets to shrink, hasn't any thought of luck to come from the possession. He has found something which affords a vent for the sympathetic and emotional of his nature. You can't take a young American volunteer away from home and social surroundings and make of him in a week a machine to fight and kill. It is human nature for the regiments to have pets, and the fresher from home the command the more in number and extravagant in character the pets, by misnomer called mascots. The Missourians who received from the hands of a little girl at Athens, O., her rabbit as they came through to Camp Alger have preserved it and tamed it until the bunny hops among the tents and refuses all opportunities to escape. The self-appointed guardians take it out in the woods to pasture on the tenderest grass, and it hops back to camp with a loyalty to its possessors which is wonderful.

As interesting as the lavish expression of the soldiers' sentiments toward their pets is the appreciative response of the brute creation to the enforced adoption. There doesn't seem to be any representative of animal creation which will not take kindly to camp life and to men in uniform after the first strangeness wears off. Of course, the mascot dog is the head of the list. There is in canine disposition a liking for vagabondage which answers quickly to the invitation. When the volunteers visit Washington for a day off the dogs follow them back to camp. The higher the strain of blood, the more luxurious the home kennel of the dog, the more willing he seems to be to quit his comforts and enlist with the soldiers at a snap of the fingers or an encouraging look. You may see on the curbstone in Washington a group of soldiers gathering strength for the long tramp to Georgetown and over the aqueduct bridge to the Falls Church electric cars. Beside them will squat the foxhound of costly pedigree looking up in their faces with admiration and confidence. And when the soldiers slowly get upon their feet and move off the dog follows with an air of "Whither thou goest I will go."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Blindness in Russia.

Russia and Egypt are the two countries in which blind persons constitute the largest proportionate number of the total population. There were, according to the last census, nearly 200,000 blind persons in European Russia. The prevalence of blindness is ascribed to the flatness of the country and the imperfect ventilation of the huts used by the peasantry. Though more than half the blind population of Europe is to be found in Russia, there are only twenty-five asylums for the blind in that empire—one-tenth of the total number of Europe.

YOU CAN ALWAYS TELL HIM.

The Unlucky Boy Whose Mother Cuts His Hair.

You can always tell a boy whose mother cuts his hair by the way he stops in the street and wriggles his shoulders. When a fond mother has to cut her boy's hair she is careful to guard against any annoyance and mess by laying a sheet on the carpet. It has never yet occurred to her to set him over a bare floor and put the sheet around his neck.

Then she draws the front hair over his eyes and leaves it there, while she cuts that which is at the back. The hair which lies over his eyes appears to be surcharged with electric needles, and that which is silently dropping down under his collar band appears to be on fire. She has unconsciously continued to push his head forward until his nose presses his breast, and is too busily engaged to notice the sniffling sound that is becoming alarmingly frequent.

In the meantime he is seized with an irresistible desire to blow his nose, but recollects that his handkerchief is in the other room. Then a fly lights on his nose, and does it so unexpectedly that he involuntarily dodges and catches the point of the shears in his left ear. At this he commences to cry and wish he was a man. But his mother doesn't notice him. She merely hits him on the other ear to inspire him with confidence, and goes on with the work.

When she is through she holds his jacket collar back from his neck, and with her mouth blows the short bits of hair down his back. He calls her attention to this fact, but she looks for a new place on his head and hits him there, and asks why he didn't use his handkerchief. Then he takes his awfully disfigured head to the mirror and looks at it, and, young as he is, he shudders as he thinks of what the boys in the street will say.—Tit-Bits.

The Oldest Volunteer.

A New York State doctor, aged 109, volunteered his services to the President recently as an army surgeon. At his advanced years he can read without glasses, and walk ten miles a day. The oldest standard medicine is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which has no equal for indigestion, dyspepsia and constipation. One bottle does much good.

"Weary Waggles" Was Washed.

A man of the genus "Weary Waggles" walked along the streets of Atlanta, Ga., in the neighborhood of Pryor and Alabama streets; the other day. The man walked as if he was tired of his legs and his legs were tired of him. Presently he caught sight of a water plug, and he and his legs decided to suspend animosity and make for the water plug. His sigh of relief as he settled on the plug gave place to a yell of distress. Weary Waggles shot into the air like a catapult. The huge pressure of water against the plug had caused it to break so suddenly that a stream as large as a barrel shot out. The man sat astride the top of the plug as he shot into space. There was water everywhere that man tried to fall, and for a time it looked as if he would drown on the city street. Finally he scrambled up, and his run down South Pryor street broke Atlanta records.

The Meanest Thieves Yet.

The meanest piece of downright, dirty thieving we ever heard of, happened in Auburn last night. All the summer the family of J. L. Davis have been caring for and watching a fine plum tree in their garden, Their care was about to be rewarded, for it hung full of luscious, tempting fruit, and yesterday was so near ripe that they had a mind to gather them for fear something might happen They thought they would wait a few days till they were more perfectly ripe. This morning they found the tree stripped, the fruit gone and the limbs torn and twisted. Evidently some boys had been keeping an eye on the tempting display, and had climbed the fence and stripped and tore everything off. We hope evervone of them is doubled up today with a pain that will remind him of his hereafter, and trust that any doctor who is called in may give them a dose they will not soon forget. It is many times worse than ordinary stealing, and if they can be found out, they should receive the utmost severity of an outraged law.

TOOK A LIFE TIME.

But Was Amply Rewarded—The Knowledge Acquired Graciously

DEDICATED TO HUMANITY.

Many years ago Dr. Wheeler, then a young man with keen perception of physical needs, noted the lack of knowledge in the treatment of nerves, and through them the entire system. He determined to devote his life and direct his efforts to the study and treatment of that mysterious and subtle structure. He followed his determination well and successfully, and as a result the world is endowed with a remedy, Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer, which is a specific for all nervous troubles. It remained for Dr. Wheeler to present and develop the fact that disease is a result of a debilitated nerve system; that strong nerves make health. Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer is, beyond all doubt, the true remedy for sick nerves. W. A. Emmons, Pettysville, Ohio, endorses this statement. He says:

"Last summer I was stricken with sleeplessness and nervous prostration. I could get no relief, and was growing worse when Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer was recommended. The first bottle helped me and the third one restored me to perfect health. During my sickness I lost 20 pounds, which I soon regained after the use of this valuable medicine."

Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer is not an experimental compound, neither is its virtue confined to the treatment of special sets of nerves, but through the entire nervous system, restoring strength to all the vital organs.

Davy Jones Threatens to Resign if the Yankees Overwork Him So

[From The New York Sun]

(Davy Jones is the chap in the lower world that sailors believe receives and takes charge of all ships and sailors who go to the bottom in storms or are sunk in battle. "Davy Jones' locker" is the strong chest in which he is supposed to keep the things that come to him by sinking.)

Telepnone Call 14746, July 3, 9 a. m.—

"B-z z z-zt!"

"Hello! What's wanted?"

"Is this Davy Jones' locker?"

"Yes. Who's talking?"

"This is Admiral Sampson's fleet. Please call Mr. Jones to the phone. * * * Hello! That you, Mr. Jones?"

"Yes; this is Davy Jones."

"Admiral Sampson sends his respects and begs to inform you that the Spanish fleet is coming out of the Santiago harbor Kindly prepare for its reception."

"Pretty crowded; but I'll do my best. Good-by,"

"Good-by." B-z-z-z-z-t.

Telephone Call 14747, July 3, 10 30 a m.—

B-z z-z zt! "Hello! Is this Admiral Sampson's fleet?"

"Yes. Who's this talking?"

"Davy Jones. Present respects to Admiral Sampson, and inform him that Pluton, first of consignment, has been recived. Good-by,"

Telephone Call 14748, July 3 10:45 a. m.—

B-z-z!-z-zt "Hello! Sampson's fleet? This is Davy Jones. Furor received Good-by."

Telephone Call 147449, July 3, 12m.—

B-z-z-z-z-zt! "Hello! Sampson's fleet? Yes: this is Jones. Almirante Oquendo received. Coming pretty fast. Any more coming? What's that? Gosh! Good by."

Telepnone Call 14750, July 3,12 15 p. m.—

B-z-z-z-zt! "Hello, Samson! Say, slow down there, can't you? Infanta Maria Teresa just arrived. Don't hustle a man so. This is no summer hotel. Good-by."

Telephone Call 14751, July 2, 12 30 p. m.—

B-z-z-z-zt! "Hello! Vizcaya arrived. Have put out "Standing Room Only" sign. This is getting beyond a joke. Two of my assistant mermen have struck. What are you trying to do; bottle me up, too? No! Apologies don't go. Good-by."

Telephone Call 14752, July 3, 2 p. m.—

B z-z-z-z-zt! "Hello! That you, Sampson? No I want the Admiral himself. * * * Hello! Look here, Sampson, I'm boss here, and I want you to understand that I've closed shop. See? The Cristobal Colon's here, and she's the last. Uuderstand that? I've shut and locked the locker, and I'm going back now to sit on the cover That goes, too, Good-by"

Telephone Call 14753, July 4, 10 a, m,—

B-z-z-z-zt! "Hello! This is the White House, U. S. A.?"

"Yes; what's wanted?"

"Davy Jones' respects to President McKinley, and he'd like to talk with him over the 'phone for a minute.* * * Hello!

"This President McKinley? Congratulations, Mr. President, on your glorious Fourth."

"Many thanks, Mr. Jones. Can I be of any service to you?"

"Yes, Mr. President; Iwant you to call off your navy."

"Beg pardon, Mr. Jones. I don't think I quite understand you."

"Mr. President, I've got too much business. I want a respite."

"But what have I"—

„I'll tell you. On May 1 I got a consignment of Spanish ships from Admiral Dewey."

"Yes."

"I've just got them nicely stowed away, and now comes Admiral Sampson with a rush order that's just swamped my accomodations, and am hiring extra help as fast as I can"

"I'm sorry we discommoded you, Mr. Jones."

"Now, Mr. President, as between potentate and potentate. I want to ask you if you've any more Spanish ships in sight?"

"Well, there's another fleet around at Suez that"——

"Great green-eared sea serpents! Another? Do you think I want a Spanish colony down here? I wont stand it!"

"But, Mr. Jonds——"

"No but' about it, Mr. President, I won't stand it! You send 'em here and I'll turn 'em back. There's a limit to my endurance. No, sir, I'll turn the locker over to the mermen and go out of business, and that settles it."

"Very well, Mr; Jones. In that case we'll have to keep that Spanish fleet ourselves."

"That's the idea, Mr. President. Congratulations on your victory and good—wait a minute. Mr. President, will you do me a favor?"

"With pleasure, Mr. Jones. What is it?"

"If your nation gets into trouble with Germany let me know in time so that I can resign and go and climb a tree."

"Certainly. Good-by, Mr. Jones."

"Thanks. Good-by, Mr. President."

Killed By Lightning.

J. A. Campbell of Butler was here this afternoon and brings word that Mrs. David Blaker of Stafford township was killed by a stroke of lightning in the thunderstorm this morning. The house was struck and damaged some, but not extensively. Mrs. Blaker lived only about fifteen minutes.

A HUMANE WAR

We have often spoken of the humane features of this war. In the first place, we went into it largely because the Spaniards treated the Cubans so cruelly, Then we had been for some time sending provisions to these suffering people. Then as soon as the war began, we continued to send them food, clothes and medical help. As soon as a city or patch of country was occupied by us, we at once assumed the job of caring for the destitude, no matter whether enemies or friends. As soon as Santiago surrendered we agreed to send their cadtured soldiers home to Spain and pay their passage and feed them, in fact we have had to feed them from the hour they surrendered, and have given them a great deal of clothing.

On the day Santiago surrendered, orders were sent along our fighting line, not to cheer, as it would hurt the feelings of the Spanish soldiers in their rifle pits not far away. The same humane course had been taken with the sailors captured with the fleet of Cervera. They have been given good quarters, medical aid and clothing, and they feel so pleased, that the other day when a vessel flying the American flag, came sailing by them into the harbor of Portsmonth, that they jumped up, swung their hats and cheered. It was a cheer for the flag of their victorious but humane enemy. And we might go on with a great many other instances.

We do not give these to find fault, but to express our great pleasure that exactly this course has been taken. The world has always known the United States as a humane nation, one with whom it has been difficult to get a quarrel. But the world has also learned that we are a nation of the best fighters on land and sea, of which history has given an account. We have reason to be proud of our record for fighting, because if we must fight, we ought to do it so thoroughly that it will not soon again be necessary.

But it is for our record in the interests of humanity that we should have the greatest pride. And at the close of this war, it will be this very thing that will make us stronger in the eyes of the nations of the earth, than even our spiendid record on the field of battle.

From Soldier Letters.

A boy in the 160th at Chickamauga, writes in regard to going to Porto Rico

Upon leaving the United States our wages will be raised to $1.00 per day, and it is said we will be paid mileage on the distance traveled.

On last night the second death occured in the 160th. The deceased while swimming in Chickamauga Creek, dove and struck his head against a log causing an injury which later resulted in death.

On last Thuasday our old canteens and haversacks, which were relics o the civil war, were replaced by new and better ones. In the evensng the commissioned and non-commissioned officers, and as many privates as could get near enough listened to a lecture on the art of digging trenches, and the physicial featurer of Porto Rico, by an officer detailed from headquarters for that purpose.

Rifle practice has been the main feature of the week and the boys are doing some good shooting.

A GREAT DEAL

of unnecessary expenditure of time and money may be saved if you will only keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in the house. Nine-tenths of all ordinary sickness is from the stomach; keep that organ in proper condition and all will be well. Syrup Pepsin is a specific. Trial size bottles 10c, large sizes 50c and $1.00, of F. E. Davenport.

WAR JOKES

The more the European nations study the gunnery of our sailors the less inclination they have for a scrap with our navy.

The war will last forever if Spain follows Sagasta's idea of waiting for the Spanish army to win a victory before asking for peace.

The Cuban soldier can be depended upon when a charge is to be made upon the commissary department.

At any rate it is pleasant to know that the Cubans have no quarrel with Uncle Sam's victuals.

It is now suspected that Sagasta is waiting to hear what Chauncey Depew has to suggest.

Apparently Spain has nobody left in her corner to throw up the sponge for her.

We give no credence to the story that the first case of yellow fever at Santiago was developed in a Kentucky officer who fell asleep with his mouth open and was rained full of water.

Those who have contended that in brutality and barbarism it was a toss-up between the Sppanish soldiers and the Cuban insurgents appear to have been about right.

PAIN'S FIRE WORKS.

An Extraordinary Attraction For the Carnival.

The officers of the Carnival have secured an attraction which of itself should bring the largest crowd to Auburn that was ever assembled in any town of the state. Henry J. Pain's Pyrotechnic Display will be given one evening of the Carnival in Madden's field. In combination with this grand spectacle the battle of Santiago will be reproduced by companies of militia and the Vaudeville entertainment will be given at the same place.

Pain's program of display will be the same as is now being given at the Coliseum Gardens at 62d-st and Stony Island Ave., in Chicago. This is guaranteed to be genuine and will probably attract people from all over the country within a radius of 100 miles, as the entertainment is not one being given from city to city. In the monster display there will be included the salute of aerial cannons from iron mortars, flight of monster ballons carrying tri-colored fires and magnesium lights, discharging when at a great height; batteries of large candles, showers of golden rain and superb jewels; flights of large shells forming jeweled clouds, studded with gems; flight of 23-pound Congreve rockets; salvos of gigantic bombs; revolving suns; grand display of 1898 mammoth shells, 24 inches in circumference; several devices, including Aladdin's jeweled trees, comical set piece, portrait of Admiral Dewey, etc.: battle of Manilla, aerial bouquet of two thousand asteroid rockets; flight of electric shells, sending a simultaneous flood of light over surrounding scenery; the forest of fire; discharges of 16-inch 1898 bombs; salvos of 30-inch World's Fair bombs; prismatic torrents and silver clouds, and a grand flight of 1200 large colored rockets fired simultaneously, producing a grand and magnificent aerial bouquet

The production of this world renowned display is a great undertaking on the part of the Carnival Association, at a large expense. It insures a Carnival entertainment even superior to that of last year.

Fall In Plaster.

As a COURIER reporter came along west Seventh-st this forenoon he was startled by a tremendous crash and bang across the street, and there was a flash vision of a frightened lad flying out from the Gibson porch like a stone flung by a catapult. The lad looked back in a wild, dazed sort of way, stopped, hesitated and ,hen gave a yell of laughter. A big portion of the plaster in the porch ceiling had got loose, and in his play on the porch, he had caused it to fall. A big section of it had barely missed him and that chunk he picked up and smashed into fragments, evidently in anger at the attempt it had made on his life. He was Frank Fluke's little boy, and had that lot of plaster hit him he would now be in his little coffin, though he don't seem to realize it.

A Guerilla Eden.

Now that war is actually upon us and it is definitely known that that the brunt of the great conflict will be fought in and about Cuba, the interest of the American reading public naturally centers in acounts of the country to which our men are marching, and from which many will never return. The dangers of guerilla warfare in the Cuban jungles where the stealthy bushwhackers are trained to fight out of sight, are most interestingly set forth in the August DEMOREST'S in the leading article, called "A Guerilla Eden." It is an article that will interest every soldier in the United States Army and the friends of every soldier. There are some excellent photographs of this guerilla country, showing our men in action in the palm jungles.

ONE LADY

Has more influence than fifty men, but she must know that she is in the right. We want the address of a few ladies who would take orders amoung their friends and neighbors for one of the largest business houses in the country for which they are giving 113 piece Dinner Sets, Gold Watches and chains, high grade Bicycles, and lovely Toilet Sets. JESSE PATTERSON.

Thursday's Daily.

—Read our excellent letter from "Private" of the 157th.

—Mrs. W. E. Rush seems no worse, but is still in poor health.

—Mrs. Zorah Colvin came home on the evening train from Ft. Wayne yesterday.

—T. S. Murray, the Spencerville miller was in town today and made us a brief call.

—It is reported that the wheat yield of South Dakota is at least double what it was last year.

—Harvey Moss is going to Angola to become a partner in a new cigar factory in that town.

—Morris Boren and his son Obadiah Boren are building a dwelling for Mr. Witt, at the north part of town.

Our band is now at Rome City playing to delighted audiences. What is Auburn's loss is Rome City's gain.

—Mrs. Sarah Emerick of Fairfield township and her son A. J. Emerick and his wife were callers at this office Wednesday.

—John Lochner returned this morning to his home at Argus. He reports his family all well and everything flourishing there.

—Jacob Stamets walked up town yesterday for the first time in some months, but he is pretty well used up we are sorry to see.

—Pearl and Mamie Rice returned this morning to their home at Wabash after an extended visit with their relatives here. Jacob Walborn and wife are their grandparents.

Thousands of persons have been cured of piles by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It heals promptly and cures eczema and all skin diseases. It gives immediate relief. H. B. McCord.

Miss Maud Link went to Ligonier this forenoon where she will visit a few days and then go to Elkhart where she has friends, and will remain there for a time, making her absence from home several weeks.

—Win your battles against disease by acting promptly. One Minute Cough Cure produces immediate results When taken early it prevents consumption. And in later stages it furnishes prompt relief. H. B. McCord.

—The boys who get into the steeple of the M. E church to shoot sparrows from that dizzy height should remember the scripture, "Ye are of more value than many sparrows." A trip of the foot might send them flying far down to the pavement and put a family into mourning.

—Our readers will remember the death, not long ago, of a Mr. Galloway, who was at the head of the Garrett A. O. U. W. lodge. This week his widow received her insurance money from the order, $2,000. This benevolent order has had but few losses so far, but they have been promptly adjusted.

—John Lochner came up from Fort Wayne on the evening train yesterday, having some business here. He has sold a half interest in his paper to a young man of that place, Ora McClure, a practical printer and good man. He gets $600 for a half, the whole plant having cost him originally $800. But of course since buying it he had built the office and business up a good deal.

—The Northern Indiana Normal School and Business College, Valparaiso, Indiana, will celebrate its 25th nnniversary August 10 and 11. This school has had a remarkable growth, and has the reputation of doing the most thorough work. Its fall term will open August 30. Many students from this county have attended the school and many more will attend the coming year.

—New Era:—The first dollar excursion of the season to Chicago on Sunday over the B. & O. took large numbers from each station to the western metropolis and return. The largest personally conducted excursion, however, is soon to be given by your venerable Uncle Sam from Santiago de Cuba to the Coast of Spain. The sudden exodus will simply be enormours, the fare free, and no return tickets. The date is yet to be announced.

WORN-OUT WOMEN

Most women are drudges. Some are willing, some are unwilling. Some women drudge for themselves, some for their family. Their routine is endless; no matter how ill they feel they work.

Women never half take care of themselves. Early decay and wrecked lives abound, mainly through neglect. Every woman should have the book called "Health and Beauty," which the Pe-ru-na Medicine Co., Columbus, O., will mail on request. It tells women some easy things to do to protect health, and all about the virtues of Pe-ru-na for women's peculiar ills. Miss Lizzie Peters, Mascoutah, Ill., writes:

"I am perfectly cured of female weakness by taking Pe-ru-na and Man-a-lin. I have gained thirty-seven pounds since I began taking Pe-ru-na. My friends are wondering what makes me look so bright and healthy. I would like to let the world know what a wonderful medicine Pe-ru-na is."

Woman's diseases are mainly catarrh of the pelvic organs. Pe-ru-na drives out every phase of catarrh.

Mrs. Eliza Wike, No. 120 Iron Street, Akron, O., writes:

"I would be in my grave now if it had not been for your God-sent remedy, Pe-ru-na. I was a broken-down woman, now I am well."

—The Tri-State Normal College at Angola is closing the best year in its history. Next year will open Aug. 23, with an addition of a first-class physical laboratory for advanced work in physics. This year there were over 200 in Latin and near 100 in Greek. About 400 students were fitting themselves for teaching. All grades of students are admitted, and all grades of work done every term. Address L. M. Snilf, A. M., Pres., Angola, Ind.

—Our clipping from the Press in regard to the baby of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Pepple, it appears was premature. It is all right now. Gen. Blair was here this forenoon and informed us that he got a telegram Monday, from Fairmont, Minn., where Mrs. Pepple has been since April 8, that a girl baby was born to her that morning, July 25, and since then a letter has come from her sister, Mrs. Ida Daniels, that all are well, Mrs. Pepple was therefore, not at Smithville as we had it. Just how the Press got hold of an item like that, at so early a date, we cannot say. However, all is well that ends well, and Sam and Rose have our congratulations.

—Hicksville, also, is made disgusted by a drunken newspaper man, though only a news gatherer. He terrorized a number of stores there the other day, having found only the lady clerks in. In Auburn, the editor of the Garrett Clipper has been reeling over town for a week, in a state of maudlin drunkenness, using profane language, even in the hearing of ladies. Yet no one seems to think of trying to stop him or to punish him. It is a disgrace to our town and to the officers, whether town or county, whose sworn duty it is to protect decent people from such shameful exhibitions. If he had been a country boy he would have been run in a week ago, and at this time would have been running up a board bill against the county, in the jail. Our columns are open for any explanation any officer can give for this state of things.

—E. C. Blanke, of Lewisville, Texas writes that one box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve was worth $50.00 to him. It cured his piles of ten years standing. He advises others to try it. It also cures eczema, skin diseases and obstinate sores. H. B. McCord.

Arm Broken.

Esther, the little daughter of Ernest Sheets, fell off the porch yesterday and broke her left arm between the elbow and wrist, and perhaps injured the elbow joint. As the little one was not able to state just how bad she was hurt, it was feared a bone was broken, and Mr. Sheets brought her up town and found Dr. Hines who set the injured arm for her. She is getting along all right.

Back in the Old Business.

J. P. Prickett, so long the publisher of the Albion New Era, has again gone into the newspaper business, this time at Milford, up the B. & O. road in Kosciusko county, twelve miles north of Warsaw. He has purchased the "Mail" that has for some years been published there. Mr. Prickett is a man of considerable literary ability and a good newspaper man. After selling the New Era he engaged in the hardware business in Missouri, but it seems did not like it.

WEDDED

(Lafayette Daily Call, July 28)

Today at high noon, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Watkins, on North Tenth street, occured the marriage of Ira M. Thrush of Auburn Ind., and their third daughter, Miss Sarah Belle Watkins. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. H. Landis of the First Baptist church, in the presence of the family and other relatives. Although it was a quiet wedding, it was very pretty, the rooms being profusely adorned with ferns, smilax and carnations. After a wedding breakfast Mr. and Mrs. Thrush left by the 2:20 Wabash train for Auburn, where they will be at home after August 15. The bride was married in a going away gown of tan colored cloth. She is a young lady of many personal charms and accomplishments, commanding high esteem in a wide circle of friends. The groom is a very bright and energetic young business man, a Purdue graduate, of the class of '97, and is now manager of the telephone service in the Auburn district. He and his bride begin matrimonial existence under most auspicious circumstances, and many friends wish them a long and happy life.

[The groom is well known and very popular in Auburn, and is now in a permanent job with the Central Telephone company. Our people will welcome the bride to her new home.]

The Endless Chain

This queer and puzzling correspondence, it appears has not yet died out or been abandoned. Yesterday Miss Maud Link of this place received a letter from Mrs. Schenk, of Babylon, Long Island, the lady who is at present engaged in an endless chain correspondence. In her letter, she asked Miss Link to be sure and send off the required three letters and so keep the chain agoing on and spreading its wings over the country. If Miss Link sends the three letters, and each of the ones she writes to send three letters and so on, and so forth "und so weiter," any one can see how rapidly the correspondence will grow and spread. And if a single penny is put into all these letters it will be seen how soon a handsome fortune will be gotten together.

LATEST WAR NEWS.

Wednesday's Daily.

Indications are that peace will soon be concluded. Reports come from Spain that they are satisfied with the main points we offer. There are some details not settled yet, such as the Cuban debt and the status of the Philippines.

It is plain we will still have a big job on our hands to care for and provide a government for our new possessions. Spaniards and Cubans cannot agree.

Gen. Miles' army is pushing forward on the road to San Juan, and the Spaniards retreat. We look to see them gather at a mountain pass about half way, and give us battle.

Thursday's Daily.

The situation is substantially unchanged, though many rumors are afloat. It is the same old story, Spain is willing to give us Porto Rico and give up Cuba. But the grumbling begins when it comes to the Philippines and the Cuban debt. Still it believed all will be settled in a few days.

It is now believed we will need at least 40,000 men at Manila to make us safe against the native insurgents who are becoming hostile and very impudent. The poor Spaniards, cooped up in the city, may have to surrender to us without a fight, in order to save themselves from the natives who are besieging them. It is not often that an army is besieged by two different enemies at the same time, and enemies, too, who are not very friendly to each other.

All negotiations are carried on at Washington between McKinley and and his cabinet on the one side, and the French ambassador on the other.

Gen. Shafter's last health report shows over 4000 sick, and nearly 700 new cases of fever. But about 700 were discharged cured. Much of the fever is typhoid, and the deaths are about 15 each day, which after all is not so very large for an army of 20,000 men in a strange country, and exposed to all sorts of hardships in a season of almost constant rains. They are being removed to Long Island as fast as vessels can be had.

As soon as it is plain that Spain will agree to the most of our terms, each nation will appoint two or three men for a commission to meet in some neutral city and settle the details. When it reaches this point, it is likely the fighting will cease.

Our camp before Manila is close by the rebel camp, and both are close by the Spanish lines. There are short fights between the Spaniards and the rebel daily, right under our nose. The rebels come into our camp freely, but they do not seem to recognize our authority. Manila would like to surrender to us, but fear that when the lines of defense were left without soldiers, the rebels would rush into the city and burn it, and massacre the people. Some plan will have to be adopted, by which we will take the places of the Spanish soldiers on the defenses, before the rebels know it. But that will be difficult to do as the lines are now very close together.

The Spanish government says it is willing to assume the debt created in their defense of Cuba, if we let their soldiers keep their guns and other war material, They say this is only fair, because the Cuban debt was created mainly to buy those arms, and if they pay the debt, they ought to have the material bought with the debt. This is certainly fair. The President will be justified in giving the Spaniards a liberal chance, where, as in this case, it is a mere matter of money. The nations of the earth should be made to see that we are not in this war for money, but for justice and the rights of humanity. All should be made to see, that we can be moderate in our demands against a weak foe.

The Carlists, who threaten to get up a rebellion against the Queen in Spain, are warned not to attempt it now, when their country is in trouble. But it is probable they will cause some trouble, though few believe they witl succeed.

Friday's Daily.

Gen. Miles' army keeps moving from Ponce, northeast across the island to strike the Spaniards at San Juan on the north coast. A strong Spanish force, has occupied a pass through the mountain to stop our advance. It will be a difficult place to take. So we have landed a large force sixty miles east and they are to march across and get in behind the Spaniards. But it looks as if there would be some fighting yet unless peace comes soon.

The navy department evidently believes the worst is over, as they have begun to reduce expenses by discharging many transport ships, and letting some of the lighter warships go home.

At a meeting of Gen. Shafter's officers it was decided that his army should at once be taken out of the country and brought back to the United States, otherwise a half of them would soon be sick and many thousand would die. The sickness once started seems hard to stop. Of course we must keep at Santiago men enough to hold the place. But the "immunes" already there, or on the way can do this. They are already acclimated and are not liable to get sick. It should be noted that but a small part of the sickness is yellow fever. But there is typhoid, dysentery, lung complaints and many other diseases that appear to have started largely from the hardships and exposures of the first part of the Santiago campaign.

A trusted agent has been ordered to study over the conditions in the Phillippine Islands, so as to help our government to arrive at some conclusion as to what is the best thing to be done there. It is known that many of their best citizens desire annexation to the United States. They write to our government to this effect.

An order has been sent to Honolulu to organize a battalion of Sandwich Islanders for service in the U. S. forces to be stationed there. This is a good plan and should be followed as far as possible. But it does not appear safe in the Phillippines or in Cuba, for the people in those countries do not appear safe to put in charge of anything.

In spite rumors to the contrary, it appears that the insurgents in the Phillipines treat their Spanish prisoners kindly.

Gen. Gomez, with his Cubans has captured Gibora, a town in the western part of Cuba, where no fighting has been done for a year or two, that part being held by the Spaniards.

Saturday's Daily.

It is understand when the President appoints a commission to help arrange the details of a peace, that the men chosen, will be ex-president Harrison, Senator C. K. Davis, of Minnesota and Mr. Olney, who was secretary of State under Cleveland's last term. They will meet the Spanish commissioners in some city in a neutral country possibly at Berne, in Switzerland.

It begins to appear plain that even Cuba will have to be guarded for some time with a strong force, which will likely be made up mostly of Volunteers It is also believed that Gen. Lee will be put in commnad, and so hold the island with a strong hand till law and order can be secured and the safety of the people be certain. Just how long this will take no one can tell. The country may finally choose to be annexed to the United States.

The Pension Department at Washington has made arrangements for a special division to act on claims growing out of the Spanish war. Over 3000 such claims have already been put on file.

We learn that the President is at present in favor of taking the whole of the island of Luzon, the one on which Manila is, and keeping it. It is the largest island in the group, and Manila is the largest city.

There is a report that Spain has accepted our terms. It is believed we will get formal notice in a day or two.

In the meantime we go right on, landing soldiers at nearly every port on the east and south sides of Porto Rico. Americans are welcomed, but there may be a battle further north if peace is delayed. They have 10,000 men at San Juan and the cammander says he can beat off the Americans,

AYER'S PILLS Cure Dyspepsia

The W. C. T. U. Meeting.

The meeting at the M. E. church last evening was very enjoyable and if people had realized how enjoyable it would be there would not have been standing room. The greater part of the program was by Miss Philley, as already announced, and was made up of a choice list of recitations and readings, all given in a wonderfully natural manner that captivated her audience. We wish right here to compliment this young lady on her selections. They were mostly new, a thing not often heard of, and her older pieces were among the sweetest and most popular gems of English literature. If there is anything sweeter in the Scotch-English dialect than "Bairnies cuddle doon," we have not heard it. Her list is varied and all are good. The singing was fine, and we are sure all enjoyed the solos by Miss Trover and Miss Mayme Buckley, and by Mr. Widney, and the singing by the Hoosier quartet, which always is popular in Auburn, where Messrs Widney, Quince, Bottenberg and Warrick have resided for years. A sweet little song and most sweetly given was that given by little Lorene Mader, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Mader. She surprised and delighted everybody, for one could hardly believe a child of her age could do so well. Miss Hoffman at the organ was the same gratifying success that she always is, she is half an orchestra herself. Mrs. Ehlers was an excellent presiding officer and the newspaper men thank her for a neatly turned little compliment which is all the more appreciated for being so rare.

DISCOVERED BY A WOMAN.

Another great discovery has been made, and that too, by a lady in this country. "Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undertermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly, and could not sleep. She finally discovered a way to recovery, by purchasing of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and was so much relieved on taking first dose, that she slept all night; and with two bottles, has been absolutely cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz." Thus writes W. C. Hamnick & Co., of Shelby, N. C. Trial bottles free at H. B. McCord's drugstore. Regular size 0c and $1. Every bottle guaranteed. 4

They Adopt Rules.

Horse shoe pitching is assuming a position among the games that are governed by rules. The other day, some lovers of the game, got together in Goshen and adopted the following:

RULES

1—The distance between stakes 40 feet.

2—The stakes not more than 4 inches above the ground.

3—The player must stand back of the stakes.

4—The player winning the point or games has the choice for play first or last.

5—In measuring for points measure from nearest point of stake to the shoe without removing dirt from level with the shoe.

6—Points that count, a single 1, a stander 2, a ringer 3.

7—In case of two ringers or two standers made by different players the player pitching the last shoe has the right to count.

8—In case of a tie or draw on two or more shoes the player having the next nearest shoe of the players having the tie or draw has the right to count.

EIGHT J'S.

Three were J. A's but None of Them were "Jays."

The funniest thing of the season was the meeting of the "Jims" last evening. It happened in front of J. L. Davis' store, when four men whose first name was James, happened to stop there. Soon another came, and he was halted, then another, and another, and last of all, the editor hereof, came by, was waylaid and made to sit in the row with the rest. And there they were, and a mighty good looking lot too. The names are: James McClellan, James Y. W. McClellan, James Lawhead, James E. Pearce, James A. Clifton, James H. Rowland, James A. Potter and James A. Barns. Such a conjunction of bright, particular stars, may not happen again in a hundred years.

The Finest Fruit.

The finest fruit we have seen this year was that raised by E. T. Cochran, at his residence on the Avenue. We refer especially to his fine crop of plums. Though his trees are several years old, he has not given them much attention until this year, when he concluded he could raise fruit as well here as in California or Michigan, so he cared for his plums and sprayed them and the result is the best possible crop and of fine quality. His plums that we saw are of the variety named "Abundance" and they are rightly named. A majority of them are two inches in diameter and perfect in every way, besides they are very pleasant in taste. Mr. Cochran has demonstrated that all we need to secure plenty of fruit here, is to give it the same care and attention they do in California. And home grown fruit is better because we get it fresh from the trees.

The Woodworth Meeting

HELMER, August 5, 1898.

Special to the Courier.

Mrs. M. B. Woodworth of Canton, Ohio, evangelist, accompanied by Miss Emma Isenberg, of Huntington, singer, began a tabernacle meeting at this place last night. A large tent with a capacity of six hundred people had been staked on grounds contiguous to church of God, which together with auditorium of church will give ample accommodation to all who may wish to attend. A fair sized audience witnessed the opening session, which proved to be plain, direct and interesting. The lady announced that she had come among the people to preach salvation to both soul and body, and healing to the sick. Some excitement is being stirred up in the community.

A Bad Eagle

While playing near the prison woods at Michigan City last week, the five year-old child of Andrew Lauetski, was attacked by a large eagle which issued from the timber. The bird tore the girl's bonnet from her head and inflicting some slight wounds. Her screams brought the mother to the scene who succeeded in chasing the bird away only with great difficulty. Had not help arrived it is probable that the child would have been carried off or mutilated.

Broke His Arm.

Calvin Groscop, the little son of Wm. Groscop, fell in the barn this afternoon and broke both bones in his forearm. He was playing on the mow with some other lads, and when he fell he did not at first know he was hurt, and he was sent home, and then it was found the arm was broken. He was brought down town and Dr. Nusbaum and Dr. Vesta Swarts set it, and he is as comfortable now as could be expected.

Disease in Fishes.

That fishes are liable to disease of various kinds is well known. There is the "salmon disease," caused by the growth of a fungus on the fish, and many parasites that are "unbidden guests" find a home on the bodies of the finny tribe—lodgers or boarders that pay no rent, and cause disease in addition. But it is something new to learn that fishes can be infected with tuberculosis—that general disease of which consumption is a manifestation in the lungs. Into a pond in France tuberculous matter from the lungs and digestive organs of a patient was thrown. The fishes—carpe—were afterwards noticed to die, and the germs of bacilli of consumption were found in plenty of their bodies; while when these bacilli of the fishes were given to other fishes, they proved fatal in the same way. There is one comfort given to us, however, by the French experimenters. It seems that in the fish, a cold blooded animal, the germs fall off in their vitality, so that it is unlikely they would affect man or other warm blooded animals.

A New Diving Bell.

An improved diving bell of great capacity, moving along the sea bottom by means of screws moved by electricity, is on exhibition in Paris. It can be worked at very great depths, and holds air enough to supply the screw for forty-eight hours without renewal. It is lighted by electricity, which also furnishes motive power for any tools that may be used. On tipping over the cases of ballast, the bell rises to the surface itself.

LATEST WAR NEWS.

Wednesday's Daily.

Indications are that peace will soon be concluded. Reports come from Spain that they are satisfied with the main points we offer. There are some details not settled yet, such as the Cuban debt and the status of the Philippines.

It is plain we will still have a big job on our hands to care for and provide a government for our new possessions. Spaniards and Cubans cannot agree.

Gen. Miles' army is pushing forward on the road to San Juan, and the Spaniards retreat. We look to see them gather at a mountain pass about half way, and give us battle.

Thursday's Daily.

The situation is substantially unchanged, though many rumors are afloat. It is the same old story, Spain is willing to give us Porto Rico and give up Cuba. But the grumbling begins when it comes to the Philippines and the Cuban debt. Still it believed all will be settled in a few days.

It is now believed we will need at least 40,000 men at Manila to make us safe against the native insurgents who are becoming hostile and very impudent. The poor Spaniards, cooped up in the city, may have to surrender to us without a fight, in order to save themselves from the natives who are besieging them. It is not often that an army is besieged by two different enemies at the same time, and enemies, too, who are not very friendly to each other.

All negotiations are carried on at Washington between McKinley and and his cabinet on the one side, and the French ambassador on the other.

Gen. Shafter's last health report shows over 4000 sick, and nearly 700 new cases of fever. But about 700 were discharged cured. Much of the fever is typhoid, and the deaths are about 15 each day, which after all is not so very large for an army of 20,000 men in a strange country, and exposed to all sorts of hardships in a season of almost constant rains. They are being removed to Long Island as fast as vessels can be had.

As soon as it is plain that Spain will agree to the most of our terms, each nation will appoint two or three men for a commission to meet in some neutral city and settle the details. When it reaches this point, it is likely the fighting will cease.

Our camp before Manila is close by the rebel camp, and both are close by the Spanish lines. There are short fights between the Spaniards and the rebel daily, right under our nose. The rebels come into our camp freely, but they do not seem to recognize our authority. Manila would like to surrender to us, but fear that when the lines of defense were left without soldiers, the rebels would rush into the city and burn it, and massacre the people. Some plan will have to be adopted, by which we will take the places of the Spanish soldiers on the defenses, before the rebels know it. But that will be difficult to do as the lines are now very close together.

The Spanish government says it is willing to assume the debt created in their defense of Cuba, if we let their soldiers keep their guns and other war material, They say this is only fair, because the Cuban debt was created mainly to buy those arms, and if they pay the debt, they ought to have the material bought with the debt. This is certainly fair. The President will be justified in giving the Spaniards a liberal chance, where, as in this case, it is a mere matter of money. The nations of the earth should be made to see that we are not in this war for money, but for justice and the rights of humanity. All should be made to see, that we can be moderate in our demands against a weak foe.

The Carlists, who threaten to get up a rebellion against the Queen in Spain, are warned not to attempt it now, when their country is in trouble. But it is probable they will cause some trouble, though few believe they will succeed.

Friday's Daily.

Gen. Miles' army keeps moving from Ponce, northeast across the island to strike the Spaniards at San Juan on the north coast. A strong Spanish force, has occupied a pass through the mountain to stop our advance. It will be a difficult place to take. So we have landed a large force sixty miles east and they are to march across and get in behind the Spaniards. But it looks as if there would be some fighting yet unless peace comes soon.

The navy department evidently believes the worst is over, as they have begun to reduce expenses by discharging many transport ships, and letting some of the lighter warships go home.

At a meeting of Gen. Shafter's officers it was decided that his army should at once be taken out of the country and brought back to the United States, otherwise a half of them would soon be sick and many thousand would die. The sickness once started seems hard to stop. Of course we must keep at Santiago men enough to hold the place. But the "immunes" already there, or on the way can do this. They are already acclimated and are not liable to get sick. It should be noted that but a small part of the sickness is yellow fever. But there is typhoid, dysentery, lung complaints and many other diseases that appear to have started largely from the hardships and exposures of the first part of the Santiago campaign.

A trusted agent has been ordered to study over the conditions in the Phillippine Islands, so as to help our government to arrive at some conclusion as to what is the best thing to be done there. It is known that many of their best citizens desire annexation to the United States. They write to our government to this effect.

An order has been sent to Honolulu to organize a battalion of Sandwich Islanders for service in the U. S. forces to be stationed there. This is a good plan and should be followed as far as possible. But it does not appear safe in the Phillippines or in Cuba, for the people in those countries do not appear safe to put in charge of anything.

In spite rumors to the contrary, it appears that the insurgents in the Phillipines treat their Spanish prisoners kindly.

Gen. Gomez, with his Cubans has captured Gibora, a town in the western part of Cuba, where no fighting has been done for a year or two, that part being held by the Spaniards.

Saturday's Daily.

It is understand when the President appoints a commission to help arrange the details of a peace, that the men chosen, will be ex-president Harrison, Senator C. K. Davis, of Minnesota and Mr. Olney, who was secretary of State under Cleveland's last term. They will meet the Spanish commissioners in some city in a neutral country possibly at Berne, in Switzerland.

It begins to appear plain that even Cuba will have to be guarded for some time with a strong force, which will likely be made up mostly of Volunteers It is also believed that Gen. Lee will be put in command, and so hold the island with a strong hand till law and order can be secured and the safety of the people be certain. Just how long this will take no one can tell. The country may finally choose to be annexed to the United States.

The Pension Department at Washington has made arrangements for a special division to act on claims growing out of the Spanish war. Over 3000 such claims have already been put on file.

We learn that the President is at present in favor of taking the whole of the island of Luzon, the one on which Manila is, and keeping it. It is the largest island in the group, and Manila is the largest city.

There is a report that Spain has accepted our terms. It is believed we will get formal notice in a day or two.

In the meantime we go right on, landing soldiers at nearly every port on the east and south sides of Porto Rico. Americans are welcomed, but there may be a battle further north if peace is delayed. They have 10,000 men at San Juan and the cammander says he can beat off the Americans,

The W. C. T. U. Meeting.

The meeting at the M. E. church last evening was very enjoyable and if people had realized how enjoyable it would be there would not have been standing room. The greater part of the program was by Miss Philley, as already announced, and was made up of a choice list of recitations and readings, all given in a wonderfully natural manner that captivated her audience. We wish right here to compliment this young lady on her selections. They were mostly new, a thing not often heard of, and her older pieces were among the sweetest and most popular gems of English literature. If there is anything sweeter in the Scotch-English dialect than "Bairnies cuddle doon," we have not heard it. Her list is varied and all are good. The singing was fine, and we are sure all enjoyed the solos by Miss Trover and Miss Mayme Buckley, and by Mr. Widney, and the singing by the Hoosier quartet, which always is pepular in Auburn, where Messrs Widney, Quince, Bottenberg and Warrick have resided for years. A sweet little song and most sweetly given was that given by little Lorene Mader, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Mader. She surprised and delighted everybody, for one could hardly believe a child of her age could do so well. Miss Hoffman at the organ was the same gratifying success that she always is, she is half an orchestra herself. Mrs. Ehlers was an excellent presiding officer and the newspaper men thank her for a neatly turned little compliment which is all the more appreciated for being so rare.

DISCOVERED BY A WOMAN.

Another great discovery has been made, and that too, by a lady in this country. "Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undertermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly, and could not sleep. She finally discovered a way to recovery, by purchasing of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and was so much relieved on taking first dose, that she slept all night; and with two bottles, has been absolutely cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz." Thus writes W. C. Hamnick & Co., of Shelby, N. C. Trial bottles free at H. B. McCord's drugstore. Regular size 0c and $1. Every bottle guaranteed. 4

They Adopt Rules.

Horse shoe pitching is assuming a position among the games that are governed by rules. The other day, some lovers of the game, got together in Goshen and adopted the following:

RULES

1—The distance between stakes 40 feet.

2—The stakes not more than 4 inches above the ground.

3—The player must stand back of the stakes.

4—The player winning the point or games has the choice for play first or last.

5—In measuring for points measure from nearest point of stake to the shoe without removing dirt from level with the shoe.

6—Points that count, a single 1, a stander 2, a ringer 3.

7—In case of two ringers or two standers made by different players the player pitching the last shoe has the right to count.

8—In case of a tie or draw on two or more shoes the player having the next nearest shoe of the players having the tie or draw has the right to count.

EIGHT J'S.

Three were J. A's but None of Them were "Jays."

The funniest thing of the season was the meeting of the "Jims" last evening. It happened in front of J. L. Davis' store, when four men whose first name was James, happened to stop there. Soon another came, and he was halted, then another, and another, and last of all, the editor hereof, came by, was waylaid and made to sit in the row with the rest. And there they were, and a mighty good looking lot too. The names are: James McClellan, James Y. W. McClellan, James Lawhead, James E. Pearce, James A. Clifton, James H. Rowland, James A. Potter and James A. Barns. Such a conjunction of bright, particular stars, may not happen again in a hundred years.

SPAIN'S ANSWER.

The Madrid Cabinet Agrees to the American Demands.

Acquiescence Must Be Complete or Rejection Follows.

The Army in Porto Rico Is Advancing in the Direction of San Juan.

A Batch of Miscellaneous Telegraph News from All Parts of the World.

Spain's Answer.

Madrid special: The Cabinet Council terminated after having completely approved the reply to the United States, which, it is said, accepts the American conditions. The Government is fully convinced that the note will be satisfactory to the Washington Government, and that suspension of hostilities will be its immediate consequence.

Washington special: If the Spanish answer embodies an effort to secure a material change in the conditions, it will be met with a prompt rejection.

Advancing on San Juan.

The general advance of the American forces has begun. The remainder of General Ernst's brigade, constituting the advance center, supported by two batteries, moved out at 6 o'clock Monday. A part of the Eleventh Infantry of General Henry's division started to the left toward Adjuntas. Troop A, of New York, and the Philadelphia city, Troop H, of the Sixth regulars, are convoying General Brook's transportation column along the coast road through Salinas to Arroyo. Wire communication with General Brooke on the right has not yet been established.

Peculiar Wreck.

The fast mail train on the Santa Fe Railroad was partially wrecked about three and one-half miles west of Emporia, Kan., when the driving rod on the right side of the engine broke, and the sudden jerk snapped off the driving rod on the other side. In a moment the flying rods had made kindling wood of the cab. Fireman Charles Foley of Topeka was crushed to a pulp, hardly an unbroken bone remaining in his body. Engineer James Rolo remained at his post and succeeded in turning off the steam, and thus saving the train.

Russia and Great Britain May Clash

London special: There is great uneasiness on all sides here, in view of the Chinese situation, which is regarded as bringing an open conflict between Great Britain and Russia, within measurable distance, and it is universally felt that the Marquis of Salisbury's inadvertency in yielding to Russian aggressiveness is responsible for the dangerous complications, which can only be overcome by the prompt and most firm intimation that Russia's opposition to British commercial concessions must cease.

Wanted Discipline.

William McClain of Mechanicsburg, Ohio, requested Warden Coffin of the State Prison at Columbus admittance as a prisoner for six months for its discipline value, offering to sign any paper that might be necessary. He said that he had done nothing to send him to prison, but found he was unable to make a man of himself. The Warden refused his request.

Four Boys Drowned.

Four small boys were drowned in the Wild Cat Creek, two miles from Lafayette, Ind. Six lads, each about 9 years of age, went into the creek to bathe. None could swim, and Sadgwick Arnold, Frank Luce and two brothers named Leisch were drowned. The bodies, with the exception of that of Arnold, were recovered.

Niagara University Burned.

A fire broke out in the chapel of the Niagara University, a Catholic institution at Niagara Falls, N. Y. The chapel was almost entirely destroyed. The loss is estimated at $70,000. The fire is attributed to an incendiary.

Maria Teresa Floated.

The Merritt Wrecking Company has received advices from Santiago that make it certain the Infanta Maria Teresa is now floated and found to be in fairly good condition.

Ex-Empress Eugenie Ill.

Paris special: Ex-Empress Eugenie is reported seriously ill.

Western Trip for the Prince.

London special: It is reported, in connection with the Anglo-American movement, that strong endeavors are being made to get the Prince of Wales to visit the United States and Canada next summer, and it is added that encouragement has been given the idea in responsible quarters.

Car Lines Tied Up.

The employes of the Syracuse Rapid Transit Company, Syracuse, N. Y., numbering 400, went on strike. No cars are running.

Fatal Train Wreck.

A train was wrecked near Holbrook, Ariz. Ray Gooding, a son of the agent of the Santa Fe at Kingman, was killed, and fifteen others were injured. The disaster was caused by a broken rail. Four cars went over—two Pullmans, one chair car and a coach. One man was so seriously hurt that he will probably die.

Fire Destroys a Whole Town.

The town of Centre Ridge, a place of about 500 population, in Conway County, Ark., has been entirely destroyed by fire. Only two dwellings were saved. The fire is thought to have been the work of incendiaries.

GOLD-SEEKER KILLED.

F. C. Fleming Falls 200 Feet to Death in a Glacier Crevasse.

Frank C. Fleming of Chicago is the last Easterner to lose his life on the treacherous Valdez glacier in Alaska. While working his way back to Valdez across the ice mountain he fell into a crevasse and dropped to the bottom, a distance of over 200 feet. The body was recovered and taken to Valdez, where it was buried. Young Fleming and his father had worked their way across the glacier in the hope of finding gold in the Copper river country. They got discouraged with the trip upon reaching Copper river and turned back. They came to one of the numerous crevasses and were looking for a place to cross. The father advised the young man to be careful, but he insisted on going up to the edge of the crevasse. His feet slipped and he disappeared. With a great deal of difficulty and danger a volunteer was lowered with ropes and found the body, crushed and mangled.

THE NICARAGUA CANAL.

President Will Urge Congress to Complete the Work.

Ex-Senator Warner Miller of New York, the president of the Nicaraguan Canal Commission, and Senator Morgan of Alabama, the leading advocate of that project in Congress, had a conference on the Nicaraguan canal question with President McKinley at Washington. The President, it is said, expressed his acquiescence in the belief that the Government possession of the Nicaraguan canal is now necessary, and that the war and its results make the canal indispensable to the United States. The President, his callers say, intends to make strong recommendations to Congress for legislation making immediate provision for the completion of the canal and for making it the direct property of the Government.

KILLS WIFE, BABES AND SELF.

Jealous Andrew Wasgo Shoots to Death His Whole Family.

A volley of bullets from two revolvers in the hands of a jealous husband wiped out an entire family in the little mining town of Cleelum, Wash. Andrew Wasgo quarreled with is wife early the other morning over a young man she had flirted with at a dance. He succeeded in killing his wife after a desperate struggle, in which three shots from his revolver passed through her body. He then directed his weapon at his two little girls, who lay screaming in their bed. He shot each of them twice and both are dead. As an end to the tragedy he turned the revolvers to his own head and two heavy bullets crashed through his brain.

Talk of Hostile Demonstration.

On the Panama liner Advance, which has reached New York, was Commodore Carlos Ferryros of the Peruvian navy, who is en route to Paris for the purpose, it is said, of purchasing warships for the Peruvian navy. Rumors had been current in Panama prior to July 21, those on the Advance said, when Commodore Ferryos arrived there on the steamer Santiago from Callao, concerning a strong agitation throughout Peru against the United States, owing to differences between the two countries existing since 1885. There was therefore some significance in the utterances of President Pierola at the opening of the Peruvian congress at Lima. During his address President Pierola said that the national life of Peru was calm and prosperous, and that the foreign erlations of the Government were friendly, with the solitary exception of an issue raised between Peru and the United States, dating from 1885. During the height of the anti-United States feeling in Peru there was considerable talk about North America being unable to protect its Pacific coast line on account of the Spanish war, and that a Peruvian demonstration thereabouts might compel the United States to modify her demands. It was also hinted that secret agents had been sent to Europe for the purchase of war vessels and that an important move might be made at an early day. These rumors were partially confirmed by Commodore Ferryros' admission that he was on his way to Paris and that the object of his mission was to purchase warships for the Peruvian Government. No little excitement was caused in Central America when the information that Peru was taking steps to strengthen her navy became known.

Private Shot by Guard.

Charles Smith, a private in the immune regiment of Col. Riche, who was shot by Private Minge at New Orleans, La., while trying to sneak into camp, is dead. Smith had spent the night in drinking and had overstayed his leave. He refused to halt when entering the camp, but on the contrary started to run. Minge fired and the bullet passed through Smith's bowels and also broke his arm. Smith was 25 years of age and a native of New Orleans.

New Steel Plant in Alabama.

At Ensley City, Ala., ground has been broken for the construction of the $1,000,000 steel plant of the Alabama Steel and Shipbuilding Company, an offshoot of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company. It will be the first steel plant of any proportions in the South, and marks the beginning of a new era in Southern iron, so experts think. The plant will employ 3,000 men.

Execution of Martin Thorn.

Martin Thorn was electrocuted in the prison at Sing Sing, N. Y., for the murder of William Guldensuppe. When summoned to the execution chair Thorn showed no emotion, walked to it quickly, repeating prayers after the attending priest. There was no untoward incident in connection with the execution, and after the current had been turned on fifty-five seconds Thorn was dead.

Fatal Train Collision.

A freight wreck, in which two men were killed and four or five injured, occurred on the Central Railroad at Fort McPherson, Ga. A train bearing soldiers bound for the camp at Lithia Springs was run into by a freight train. Both engines and trains were badly wrecked, cars being piled one upon another. Bodies were torn in pieces and hands, arms and legs were found lying about.

Killed by a Cave-In.

While a party of hunters was attempting to dig a fox out of a hole on a hillside in Kilder township, ten miles west of Hamilton, Mo., a part of the embankment as large as an ordinary dwelling caved in, killing John and Will Parker instantly. James Keys was crushed and died later. Clarence Baker is badly bruised about the back. The two sons of W. S. Martin are badly injured.

Hawaii to Settle with Japan.

It is reported at Yokohama that Hawaii has agreed to pay Japan £40,000 in settlement of the dispute which arose out of the exclusion of Japanese immigrants from the Hawaiian Islands.

Spanish Village Wrecked.

The village of Mediana, Spain, has been wrecked by a cyclone which killed many persons. Several houses at Hornillos have been ingulfed by the floods and a number of people have perished.

Broker Marston's Suicide.

William H. Marston, 65 years old, a New York broker, committed suicide by cutting his throat at his home in that city.

Mayor Rescues Three Women.

Greater New York's Mayor, Robert A. Van Wyck, forgot his dignified position as executive of that municipality the other day and became a simple, energetic hero. Three young girls were drowning in the canal in front of the Woodcliff inn at Freeport, L. I., where the Mayor was spending his vacation. They would certainly have lost their lives had not his honor, who was lounging easily on the piazza of the inn, vaulted over the rails, sprinted to the canal and jumped in with all his clothes on, except his hat, which he discarded while on the run. The young women who owe their lives to the courage and presence of mind of Mr. Van Wyck are Miss Jennie Lownes, daughter of Rev. Arthur Lowdnes, assistant rector of St. Thomas' Episcopal Church of Fifth avenue and Fifty-third street; Miss Clara Prits of Cincinnati and Miss Elsie Heinsheimer of the same place.

ODD FELLOWS IN TRAIN WRECK.

Several Badly Hurt, but No Fatalities Are Reported.

A serious accident happened to the big Odd Fellows' picnic train composed of twelve sections on its return trip from Idlewild to Pittsburg. No one was killed, and while quite a number were badly shaken up and bruised only seven needed medical attention. One woman, Mrs. McClelland of New Florence, Pa., is seriously hurt and may die. Miss Ladair of Apollo was badly injured, but will recover. The accident occurred at Blairsville intersection, where the West Penn section, consisting of sixteen coaches, was backed into a blind switch, knocking away the bumper and throwing the last car, which was crowded with excursionists, over an embankment. The passengers were thrown violently from their seats into a confused heap and pandemonium prevailed. The cries for help were quickly responded to by hundreds of willing rescuers, and all were soon taken from the wreck and cared for.

DISTILLERS' TRUST FORMED.

Organization of One of the Strongest Combines Ever Effected.

The United States Spirits Association was permanently organized at Cincinnati, Ohio, by the election of the following seven members of the executive committee: Chairman, W. N. Hobart, Cincinnati, secretary, J. Walter Freyberg, Cincinnati; treasurer, F. T. Corning, Peoria, Ill.; P. J. Hennessy, Chicago; Samuel Woolner, New York; Frank Curtiss, New York; Charles A. Webb, New York. The plan comprehends control of the entire output of all distilleries in the country. These will not deal directly with the trade, and only with such distributors as are in the combine. The distributors are to buy from none other than those in the combine. These regulations were made strong in anticipation of new concerns. All existing ones are included in this, the strongest combine yet organized.

CONSCIENCE FUND $297,452.

Amount Received by the United States Treasury Since 1811.

A balance has just been struck of the "conscience fund" in the treasury of the United States on the 30th of June last, showing that the total amount received and credited to it since it was opened, in 1811, was $297,452. These moneys are covered into the general treasury as a miscellaneous receipt and may be used like other assets of the treasury for any purpose that Congress may designate. Remittances are received almost weekly. Occasionally there are two or three cases a week, and, as a rule, the letters are not signed. Frequently they are forwarded by clergymen at the request of penitents.

Shot by Alabama Negroes.

At the village of Cusseta, Ala., two prominent white men and four negroes were shot and several others narrowly escaped a similar fate. It was understood that the Populists would have a negro rally meeting near Cusseta, and H. R. Mitchell, the overseer of the plantation, with a score of negroes of his following, went to attend the meeting. When he and his party arrived at the place they were met and fired upon by a negro named Gus Avery and his associates. Charlie Morgan, Tom Combs and John Hill were shot. Mitchell returned to Cusseta and procured warrants for the arrest of the negroes, and later, as the party surrounded the house in which the offenders were concealed, the negroes opened fire from ambush without warning, seriously wounding W. W. Meadors and W. J. Busby, both white men, and Will Floyd, a negro. Armed forces were telegraphed for to Opelika, West Point and Lafayette, and 200 men armed with Winchester rifles, shotguns and pistols responded to the call. Election excitement was at fever heat.

Electrical Workers on Strike.

About 400 linemen belonging to the Electrical Workers' Union went on a strike at St. Louis for an advance in wages from $2.50 for ten hours' work to $3 for the same time. Their demands had been presented and refused. The men were employed by the Missouri-Edison and Laclede Light and Power companies and the Bell and Kinloch Telephone companies.

Two Men Drowned.

While Henry Auhl of Put-in-Bay and Joseph Martin of Sandusky, Ohio, were out on the lake in a small boat the craft capsized and both men were drowned.

Ephraim W. Sells Is Dead.

Ephraim W. Sells, the elder of the Sells brothers, well-known circus men, died at Columbus, Ohio, of Bright's disease after an illness of several months.

TROOPS IN DANGER

Total Obliteration of Shafter's Men Threatened.

WHOLE ARMY IS SICK.

Not a Perfectly Well Man Among American Troops at Santiago.

War Department Finally Awakens to Necessity of Action—Suffering Soldiers to Be Sent North as Rapidly as Possible—Are to Be Transported to Montauk Point, L. I.—Sensational Petition Signed by All the Leading Officers at Santiago.

Washington special:

Gen. Shafter's army will be brought home to the United States as rapidly as possible. Information that the division commanders at Santiago, led by Col. Theodore Roosevelt, had addressed a letter to Gen. Shafter urging the immediate withdrawal of the Fifth corps from Cuba, was cantained in a dispatch which was carried to the White House after 1 o'clock Thursday morning, and a council of war was held at once when the full purport of the letter became known.

In the statement presented to Shafter by Roosevelt, and which is indorsed by all the general officers at Santiago, it is the declared belief that half the army will die if kept in Cuba, and that the men must be sent north to save their lives.

For some days back Gen. Shafter's reports of the sickness in his army have been alarming. Nearly one-fifth of his men are in the hospitals. Most of them are disabled by malarial fever. Fortunately there are not many cases of yellow fever as yet, but Col. Roosevelt alleges that these figures, distressing as they are, do not give an adequate idea of the condition of the army. He states that not 10 per cent are fit for active work, and that the men are so weakened by malarial fevers that if a genuine yellow fever epidemic were to break out it would sweep through them like fire through stubble. The opinion has been generally held that if the army were moved to higher and healthier camps in the interior its sanitary condition would improve at once. Col. Roosevelt is of a contrary opinion. He asserts that "every shifting of camp doubles the sick rate in our present weakened condition." That is, the men are so run down that the labor involved in moving camp is too much for many of them. He states also that "the interior is rather worse than the coast," and that "our present camps are as healthy as any camps at this end of the island can be." The sick lists show that those camps are most unhealthy.

Col. Roosevelt declares that if the Santiago troops, with the exception of the immunes, are sent north, in six weeks the malaria will be out of their systems and they will be ready for a fall campaign. From present appearances there will not be one, but in either event the army should be moved.

It had been intended for some time that the Santiago troops should be withdrawn as soon as the yellow fever should be stamped out, the War Department believing that the disease could be overcome without too great cost of life. Steps had been taken for the immediate movement of a part of the troops, an order having been prepared directing that all of the cavalry forces at Santiago, and all of those at Tampa, except the Fifth regulars and the First Ohio volunteers, be moved to Montauk Point without delay.

The council of leading officers of the War and Navy Departments held at the White House was called to consider the withdrawal of all the military forces in Santiago as promptly as possible, in the light of the revelations made by Col. Roosevelt and the other officers. It was decided after some discussion that the Santiago troops should be transported to Montauk Point with as little delay as possible.

In accordance with Secretary Alger's order Gen. Shafter's corps, numbering 21,000 men, exclusive of the 4,000 suffering from fever, who will have to remain in Cuba until they are convalescent, will be moved to Montauk Point as soon as transportation can be secured, and until the evacuation by the Spanish will permit of a reduction in the garrison of Santiago. The camps at Montauk Point are in readiness for occupation.

When Shafter's army has evacuated the province Santiago will be turned over to the First and Second United States volunteer infantry regiments (immunes), commanded by Cols. Roche and Hood. The Third and Fifth immune regiments, Col. P. H. Ray and Col. Herbert Sargeant, have also been ordered to Santiago, and will soon depart. Two other immune regiments yet to be selected will be ordered to embark in a few days. Four more immune regiments are in process of organization, and will be sent to Santiago if those now under orders prove inadequate in maintaining a garrison at the provincial capital now under control of Americans.

In Secretary Alger's order the fact is mentioned that Shafter's army will remain at Montauk Point until fall, and will then be used in the campaign against Havana. This confuses persons not familiar with army affairs, but military officials explain that this phase of the order was compiled in accordance with the original plans of campaign, in which no change will be made until peace is declared.

BECAUSE HE DIDN'T FIGHT,

Spanish Commander at Ponce Has Been Court-Martialed.

Gen. Macias has telegraphed from San Juan, Porto Rico, to Gen. Correa, minister of war at Madrid, that Col. San Martin, who commanded the Spanish troops at Ponce, has been court-martialed for evacuating the place without a fight. The penalty imposed upon him is not announced, but one report says that he has been dismissed from the army, while another says he has been shot. It is also said that Col. Puig, who was second in command at Ponce, committed suicide upon hearing of the sentence imposed upon his superior.

MEETING OF GENERALS SHAFTER AND TORAL AT THE CAPITULATION OF SANTIAGO.

—New York Herald.

TO INCREASE DEWEY'S FLEET.

Oregon, Massachusetts and Newark Are Likely to Be Sent.

On account of their protracted stay in equatorial waters, some of the ships of Admiral Dewey's command need overhauling, and before long they must be cleaned and otherwise put in order. The Navy Department is considering the question of withdrawing some of Dewey's vessels to Mare Island and Port Orchard for dry docking and assigning other vessels to take their places. The probabili-ties are that the Asiatic squadron will be greatly increased in the number and character of ships. When the Spanish Government has complied with the terms of the United States concerning the evacuation of Cuba and Porto Rico, there will be no necessity of keeping so large a fleet in West Indian waters. The sending of re-enforcements to Dewey will begin as soon as vessels have been cleaned and overhauled at New York, Norfolk and Port Royal. The cruiser Newark and the battleships Massachusetts and Oregon are likely to be the selections for service on the Asiatic station, forming, with the vessels now at Manila, a powerful fleet of four armorclads and seven other fighting ships, not including supply and dispatch boats and the Spanish gunboats picked up by Dewey in the Philippines.

WADE MUST WAIT.

Proposed Expedition to Porto Rico Has Been Postponed.

"According to the present understanding there will be a suspension for the present of the proposed expedition to Porto Rico under the command of Maj. Gen. Wade." This statement was made by an official at the War Department. Gen. Corbin denied that any such order had been issued in writing, but it was said by others that a verbal order thus understood had been repeated to officials in charge of some of the departments. One reason given was that the removal of the sick from Santiago was the first object now. Another reason stated was that the peace negotiations might render unnecessary a second Porto Rican expedition.

SHAFTER FREED FROM BLAME.

Alger's Statement Defends His Connection with Transport Concho.

Gen. Shafter is released from all blame in sending convalescent soldiers from Santiago in the filthy transport Concho. In a statement signed by Secretary Alger it is said that the commander of the Concho did not report to Shafter that he needed water. The transports were given no shelter from the storms while at anchor off the Cuban coast, and this accounts in a measure for their bad condition. Secretary Alger's statement is based on the report of Col. Charles Heyl of the inspector general's office. Col. Heyl made a personal investigation of the matter.

TROOPS FOR WADE'S DIVISION.

Regiments Selected, but List Is Subject to Change.

The list of volunteer regiments to be included in the provisional division to be sent to Porto Rico has been made by the President, Secretary Alger and Adjutant General Corbin. It is subject to change, and until it is definitely determined on the administration will not allow it to be published. Great difficulty is being experienced in selecting regiments in such a way as to satisfy the strong pressure which is being exerted from a large number of commonwealths to have organizations sent to the front.

ROOSEVELT IS REBUKED.

Secretary Alger Thinks the Colonel Unjustly Criticised Volunteers.

Secretary Alger has made public correspondence between himself and Col. Roosevelt, in which the latter asks to have his regiment of rough riders sent to Porto Rico. Roosevelt makes reflections upon the merit of the State troops as a whole. Alger's reply is curt and cautions Roosevelt against making invidious comparisons. He says the State volunteers are as brave and capable as the rough riders or any other troops.

FOR BIG EUROPEAN SQUADRON.

Uncle Sam Will Soon Be Well Represented in Foreign Waters.

The naval officials are considering the formation of a big squadron to be stationed in European waters after the war is over. The intention is to reform the European squadron, but to make it much stronger than ever before. Just before the war began all the American warships were withdrawn from foreign stations except the Asiatic for service in the West Indies, and since then the officials have not had time to bother about arranging for a resumption of naval representation in alien waters. In late years the European station has dwindled in importance to the United States, until only three ships, none armored, were kept there. With the end of the war believed to be near, however, the navy officials have begun to talk over the character of the new European squadron and have practically reached the conclusion that a strong and formidable force should be sent there, not because of any likelihood of trouble with European nations, but to show the people over there the ships that whipped Spain's navy.

FALLING SICK BY HUNDREDS.

Delay in Transporting Prisoners Causes Embarrassment.

The delay in transporting the Spanish prisoners from Santiago to Spain is embarrassing the War Department in many ways, as it interferes with the carrying out of plans in regard to our own troops and involves the Government in increasing daily expense. The contract for transporting the Spanish prisoners was awarded to the Compania Trans-Atlantique Espanola, but at the end of two weeks not a prisoner had been embarked for the voyage to Spain. The contract provided that several of the ships be delivered at Santiago within five days. Meanwhile, the prisoners have to be fed at great expense to the Government. They are falling sick by hundreds.

WATER POISONERS EXECUTED.

Treacherous Spanish Sympathizers Caught in Gomez's Camp.

News has been received in Washington that four Spaniards have been executed in the camp of Gen. Maximo Gomez, after a court-martial, for poisoning the water in several cisterns in the village of La Reforma, and that several others supposed to be in the conspiracy have been turned over to the Cuban civil authorities in that part of the island, to be given a civil trial. Several families were made seriously ill from drinking the water, and a number of deaths are reported. The men executed were "presentados," who had deserted from the Spanish camp and entered the Cuban lines, ostensibly to join their army.

FEVER DEATHS FORTY A DAY.

Frightful Sanitary Condition of the City of Santiago.

The reports regarding the healthfulness of Santiago are not borne out by facts. There is little yellow fever among the residents, they being acclimated, but other diseases are causing a high death rate. The sanitary inspector has made a report to Gov. Wood, which says that dysentery and malarial fever are epidemic in the city. The deaths from these causes average forty a day. Under Spanish rule no attention whatever was paid to sanitation.

MEN ON YALE FARE POORLY.

Officer of the Ship Tells of the Voyage to Cuba.

An officer attached to the auxiliary cruiser Yale, which recently sailed for Cuba with a regiment of troops aboard, stated that the troops were detained aboard the crowded decks for three weeks, two weeks of which time was spent after the ship had reached Cuban waters. He said the men got soaking wet every time it rained and were herded like sheep on board; that there was but a ton of ice aboard, which was kept for the sick and the captain's table; that water was scarce and its use restricted, and that there were sixty cases of typhoid fever aboard, resulting in several deaths.

PROMOTIONS FOR BRAVERY.

Schley, Hobson and Others Will Be Substantially Remembered.

President McKinley has decided to fully recognize the meritorious and gallant conduct displayed in the war by American officers and men. They will be rewarded by promotions. Those known to be slated for advancement are Schley, Sampson, Hobson, Wainwright, Clark, Evans, Philip and many other brave officers and men.

EIGHTEEN CUBANS KILLED.

Put to Death Because They Fought for Spain.

Cubans bring reports to Santiago of the revolting slaughter of eighteen of their countrymen who bore arms for Spain. The guerrillas were captured at Gibaara, and were put to death by machetes for bearing arms against the patriots.

MONTAUK POINT, WHERE SHAFTER'S ARMY WILL CAMP.

THIS IS A BURNING SHAME!

Horrible Treatment of Sick Soldiers on Their Voyage to New York.

New York special:

There are many bright pictures in the present war, and some, unfortunately, that can create no other feeling than that of stern condemnation. Of the latter class is the incident of the transport Concho, which reached New York with 172 invalids from Siboney, Cuba. The misery which these unfortunate men endured during the voyage is almost incredible.

Before the vessel sailed from Siboney 177 sick and wounded had been shipped aboard and it never occurred to any one to find out what accommodations there were for that number. Hardly had the vessel got to sea before the men began to suffer with sensickness and fevers of various kinds. Dysentery, diarrhoea and other diseases also broke out and the vessel was a pest ship from the first day. Within twenty-four hours all the ice had been used up. There was no fresh water, the water in the storage tanks being nearly putrid, and there was not sufficient distilling apparatus. There was not even food for the sick to eat, the vessel having been supplied with army rations, something which even well men do not greatly relish. There was also a lack of surgeons and nurses to care for the sick and almost no medicine to administer.

From the first the men suffered horribly. They lay in bunks between the decks, in a heavy atmosphere that was almost intolerable. Some had no blankets and none had mattresses. Their compartments after the first day's sickness were reeking with filth and the odor was enough to sicken a healthy man. Members of the Red Cross Society endeavored to clean the bunks, but the former were so few and the latter so many that on the second round the condition was as bad as on the first, and while the nurses were thus engaged there was no one to minister to the sick and suffering. There was not even a disinfectant on board except a few ounces of creolin and in this foul atmosphere the men who had risked their lives for their country were forced to live or die.

Before reaching Fort Monroe three had died and this fact was reported to the quarantine doctor early Thursday morning. That official could do nothing without hearing from Washington, and he went ashore after examining the ship to telegraph the authorities. No answer was received. The dead lay on the second deck, with the living lying around them, until Friday afternoon, when the captain went to sea and buried them in the waves. That evening another death occurred and another sea burial. Meanwhile some supplies had been ordered and when the Concho started for New York she carried a few necessary supplies for the sick. Even then the vessel left under Government orders before opportunity had been given for the purchase of many necessaries.

CAMP ALGER WILL BE MOVED.

First Step Is Taken Toward Changing the Location.

Orders have been issued for the movement of the second division of Camp Alger to Manassas, Va., twenty-five miles south of the old camp. This makes the first step toward the abandonment of Camp Alger, made necessary by an increasing epidemic of typhoid fever.

Good Reasons for Absence.

Private Cornell of the First Alabama volunteers was recently tried by court martial for overstaying a leave of absence. It developed during the proceedings that the young man, within the period of twenty-four hours, had collected $17.70 from debtors, got married and joined the church. Cornell was excused.

Hawaiians Given a Chance.

Hawaii is to have the honor of furnishing some of the garrison of United States troops for those islands. Maj. Gen. Merriam received word from Washington authorizing him to muster in a battalion of infantry in Hawaii and to nominate officers for the same.

New Destroyer.

The new torpedo boat destroyer Farragut, built according to designs of and by the Union Iron Works of San Francisco, promises to be the fastest craft ever constructed in America or plying American waters, and will eclipse any naval vessel in the world.

Military Opinion.

Judge Advocate General Lieber rendered a decision at Washington in which he holds that volunteer officers commissioned by Governors of States vacate their commissions in the State organizations upon being mustered into the United States army.

Treats His Prisoners Well.

Consul Wildman at Hong Kong has sent a dispatch to the State Department that Aguinaldo is treating all prisoners, including monks, humanely, and branding as false all contrary statements.

AT EVENTIDE.

The tired breezes are tucked to rest
  In the cloud-beds far away,
The waves are pressed to the placid breast
  Of the gleaming, dreaming bay;
The shore line swims in a hazy heat,
  Asleep in the sea and sky,
And the muffled beat where the breakers meet
  Is a soft, sweet lullaby.

The pine-clad hill has a crimson crown
  Of glittering sunset glows,
The roofs of brown in the distant town
  Are bathed in a blush of rose;
The radiant ripples shine and shift
  In shimmering shreds of gold,
The seaweeds lift and drowse and drift,
  And the jellies fill and fold.

The great sun sinks, and the gray fog heaps
  His cloak on the silent sea,
The night-wind creeps where the ocean sleeps,
  And the wavelets wake in glee;
Across the bay like a silver star
  There twinkles the harbor light,
And faint and far from the outer bar
  The sea-birds call "Good night."

The Saraband's Skipper.

The last half-hour of the steamship Saraband had come. All day she had lain in the pitiless bay, crouching under the fierce blast of the northeast gale, the seas sweeping her decks, and now all on board knew that she had but a short time to live.

She had had her day. Built to carry one hundred and twenty passengers, she had once been one of the popular boats going through the newly opened canal to the east, and her long, flush deck had been the scene of many a gay gathering when her passengers had assembled under the awnings to laugh, flirt and talk after dinner. But larger and faster boats had come and her glory had departed, so that after many vicissitudes here she lay, her passenger accommodations taken out and the space filled with grain from the Black Sea ports, sinking.

Her decks were slanting at an angle of forty-five degrees, for the wheat had shifted, and she lay nearly on her beam ends; every movable thing had long been washed away, and one structure which should have been immovable--the engine hatch--had also been smashed in.

That was the immediate reason why she was going to founder; the engine-room plates were awash and the fires in the stokehole were out, and for the last two hours she had only been kept head to sea by means of a sea anchor made of the derricks and spars. A portion of every sea that came on board found its way through the makeshift contrivance of spars and tarpaulins nailed over the gaping chasm in her deck that marked the former position of the engine-hatch, and each found her a little lower in the water.

In the shelter of the bridge-deck--the only structure which had been strong enough to resist the remorseless violence of the seas--clustered her crew some thirty hands, hard faced sailors and grimy firemen; the former quiet, apathetic, almost careless; the others, save for a few, dead white with fear, spending their last moments in cursing with foolish, meaningless repetitions of the same words, the ship, their luck in coming in her, and the skipper, for not making use of the two remaining boats which hung from their davits at the lee side of the bridge deck, and which, from their elevated position, had not gone when the other boats had been swept away. On the bridge stood the skipper and the mate, bearded, elderly men both, straining their despairing eyes into the wall of mist and spray which relentlessly rushed down upon them, in the faint hope that some passing vessel might appear through the gloom of the gale.

At length the skipper turned and scrambled down the sloping bridge to where the mate crouched on the lee rail. "We shall have to try the boats, Mr. Smith; she'll not last much longer!" he shouted, the wind picking up each word as he uttered it and sweeping them away to leeward, as if jealous of the mate hearing them.

"It's a very poor chance," said the mate; "but I suppose it's our only one. How long do you give her?"

"Half an hour at the outside. Are the boats all ready?"

"They've been ready since morning," said the mate; "but can we get them in the water unsmashed, and won't the firemen rush them?"

"I don't think so," replied the skipper; "there's time enough and room enough for all to get away."

But his face took a grimmer look as he led the way down the bridge to the charthouse, the mate following him. Inside they could hear each other with greater ease, and the skipper, while taking his revolver from a drawer, gave the mate his final instructions.

"We'll lower the forward lifeboat first, as she's the biggest; you will take charge of her, get your crew aboard, and have every one in his place before we start to lower, so that you can shove off as soon as she touches the water. If those patents act you ought to be all right." (The boats were fitted with a patent contrivance, by which the tackles holding them are automatically released the moment the boat is water-borne, so that there is no unhooking of blocks to be done while the boat is getting dashed to pieces against the ship's side.)

"I shall be all right," said the mate, "but what about you? Who's going to lower the falls of the after boat? You can't manage it from the boat itself, with all the crowd you will have on board."

"I'll lower her from the deck," said the skipper. "If they have a long painter made fast to the ship they can easily pull up again under the counter, and I'll make a jump for it."

"Mind you don't jump short; you'd have a poor chance with those boots and oilskins on," said the mate.

"Oh, I'll manage," replied the skipper. "Call the men up."

The men came up in a body, and the skipper came out on deck, revolver in hand.

"The ship's sinking," he said, "and I have decided to take to the boats. There's plenty of time and room for all to get away in safety, if you obey my orders. You will remain standing where you are till I call your names, then the man whose name is called will take his place in the boat. Any man that starts for the boat before I tell him, I shoot; understand all?"

There was a low murmur from the men, and the skipper continued.

"Mr. Smith will take charge of the boat."

The mate, with a look at the skipper, climbed into the boat as she hung in the davits. The skipper then called the names of the crew he proposed to send in her, sending first the sailors, so that the mate might place each in his proper station in the boat, before the firemen, etc., who would be of no use in the critical manoeuvres of getting her away from the ship's side, crowded her up. But these same firemen did not understand his reason, and thought he was showing undue preference to his own men, and, a heavier sea than usual striking the steamer, there was a cry of "She's going down, and he's sending the sailors first!" and a rush for the boat.

Stand back!" cried the skipper.

"Crack! and the leading fireman spread out his hands and pitched on his face, rolling in a limp bundle down on the lee rail. The rest of the men stopped. They might as well be drowned as shot, they thought, and they huddled together, looking with horrified glances at their dead comrade. The skipper paused, lowered his revolver, and then called the next name; they had learned their lesson, and went quietly to the boat, which got safely away, and drifted out of sight in the midst of the gale.

The other boat was filled without any mishap, and the skipper, the only man left on the deck, lowered her; she also got clear away and drifted out to the full length of her painter. The skipper walked aft to wait for them to haul up again. He had to pass the body of the dead man, and he did not look at it. The boat was hauling up on the painter, and was getting close; the skipper got on the rail ready to jump. At that moment a fireman, the brother of the man he had shot, reached over the boat's bow, and, with a cry of "Blast you, stop and drown with Bill!" cut the painter.

The distance between the ship and the boat began to widen instantly, and in spite of the frantic efforts of the sailors at the oars, the deeply laden boat was swept away and blotted down from the rails and made his way back to the bridge deck. He had just ten minutes to live. Ten minutes to prepare for the next world, after forty years at sea!

He climbed up on the bridge again, and sat on the canvas windscreen to think. His wife and children, who would look after them now? His wages were $80 per month; on that he had had but small chance to save. Well, he supposed the Shipmasters' Society would do something for her, but she would have to give up her little house at Forest Gate, and drop from the position of a captain's wife to letting lodgings; perhaps one of the children could be got into an orphanage; if not, well, it meant starvation or the workhouse. He thought of his own life, of his hard, ill-used boyhood, cabin boy in Quebec on a timber ship; of his manhood spent in unremitting toil in all parts of the world; of the various ships he had commanded, in each of which he had been expected to use less coal, less paint, fewer provisions, and to go with smaller crews than in the last. He thought of the blackguards he had had to command as crews, and the trouble he had had with them, and the old sailor proverb rose to his lips: "To live hard, work hard, die hard, and go to Davy Jones's locker after all, would be too hard." Well, he'd not had much fun out of life, and now he was going to find out what it all meant. Anyway, he had always done his best for his ship.

His eye fell on the dead body of the fireman. That too! If the man should indict him at the bar of the last judgment he would answer there, as he would have answered to an earthly court: "In my judgment it was necessary for the safety of the men in my charge." A sudden quiver warned him she was nearly gone, and he rose to his feet for one last look to windward. As he looked into the blinding spray, he saw a large wave come out of the mist, and knew it would swamp her. He gripped the rail with both hands, and his lips moved in a half forgotten prayer. "Our Father, which art"——and the wave swept on. But the Saraband had gone. The skipper had gone to meet his fireman where "there shall be no more sea."—Temple Bar.

The Trusting Crab.

What do you think of a crab which trusts to the birds to feed him? Sounds like a fairy tale, doesn't it? But it is a fact, for all that. This son of Cancer, which is large and quite blue in color, lives among the heron rookeries in the lower part of Florida, where he digs a house in the sand under drift logs or large stones. It is not often that he ventures abroad by day, but at night he steals forth in search of something to eat. Something to eat with him means the bits of flesh left in the birds' nests by the young gaplings, or, if there is not enough of it to appease his ravenous appetite and the mother of a brood is absent, he will help himself to a nestling. But woe betide that crab detected by a bird mother in the act of robbing her nest. Her sharp bill soon beats through the marauder's brittle shell and his flesh is distributed among those very gaplings he had fondly hoped to feast upon. When the plume hunters make their annual predatory incursions into the regions of breeding herons and the parent birds are driven from the nests, the blue crab comes forth in swarms and makes the slaughter complete by devouring all the young.—New York Sun.

The Legacy of Bread.

Crowds of people from all parts of Kent—many even traveling from London by train or 'cycle—visited the quiet, remote and sleepy village of Biddington, not far from Tenterdon, for the purpose of celebrating the memory of the Twin Maids of that ancient hamlet, who were the original precursors of the Siamese twins. In life they were joined together by a mysterious cord of flesh, and they died on the same day, leaving their property to be distributed among the poor of the parish, and among all who care to apply for a dole of bread and cheese on Easter day.

This benefaction has been in existence for six or seven centuries, and at present its value is about $210 a year. Formerly the doles consisted of bread and cheese and ale, but the latter produced so much hilarity in the village that it was abolished, and the charity is now limited to the two first mentioned nutritive articles. The bread is made up in the form of cakes, bearing a rude representation of the Twin Maids of Biddinden, which are generally preserved as curiosities by the recipients. They are baked very hard, and are admirably adapted to give work to dentists by breaking the molars of those who attempt to penetrate their mysteries. The poor of the parish, as distinguished from necessitous strangers, are supplied with ordinary quartern loaves and cheese—

Unexplored Bolivia.

The richest parts of Bolivia have not been surveyed, and there are great provinces here which are practically unexplored. There are some sections which are as unknown as Central Africa, and their inhabitants have as curious customs as the savages along the edges of the Sahara. There is a strip of Bolivia several hundred miles wide and about five hundred miles long, lying between this plateau and the boundary of Brazil, which has resources of great wealth. I have met men here who have traveled overland to Paraguay, and the Argentine. They tell me of vast plains upon which cattle feed in herds of thousands. They can be bought for from $2 to $3 a head, for there is no means of getting them to the markets. At present Senor Ballivian tells me there is a syndicate formed in London to connect these rich grazing lands with the head of navigation of some of the Amazon branches by means of a railway which will run along the boundary between Brazil and Bolivia, but on Brazilian soil. The road will be on the line of a concession granted to Colonel Church some years ago, and its purpose will be to carry these cheap cattle to the rubber camps of the Amazon. There are several other important projects to build railroads in Bolivia. One is to construct a line from La Paz to the Desuaguadero river. This line would be sixty-five miles long, and Senor Ballivian says it will probably be begun this summer. Another scheme is to extend the Central North Argentine railway to Sucre. This road is now near the Bolivian border, and it would pass through a rich cattle-grazing, agricultural and mining territory, and would furnish an outlet to the Atlantic for Bolivian products. There are several other plans for railroads from the Argentine into Bolivia, and the day will probably come when all of eastern Bolivia will be opened to settlement.—Frank G. Carpenter in Atlanta Constitution.

The American Sailor.

Jacky, who used to be more sailor than gunner, is now more gunner than sailor. Just in proportion as he has ceased to be a part of the great engine on which he lives, so he has come more and more into the control of it. And as the cardinal purpose of a warship is to hit things with her projectiles, Jacky has become a specialist in getting that work out of her. He does it in two places—at the guns and at the engines. Correctly pointed guns are of no use, unless the platform on which they rest is put in proper relation to the thing to be hit, and kept there; equally it is useless to get the ship into proper place unless the guns are correctly pointed. Men who can do either of these things must have natural capacities and be susceptible to education, and only men of this sort are eligible for our navy.

Accordingly the "beach-comber," or the "rock-scorpion," or any other variety of that ruck of marine refuse which drifts around the great maritime ports and ships in any craft where "grub" is plenty and work is light, no longer slings his hammock on Uncle Sam's berth-deck, as he used to do to the shame of the service in years gone by. Nor can the tramp, nor the jail-bird, nor even the incorrigible black sheep of the family thus be provided for to the relief of constables and long-suffering relatives. No man or boy can now pass a United States naval recruiting officer unless he is clean, healthy, honest, young, strong and intelligent; nor can he afterward get that advancement which is certainly open to him without fear or favor, unless he continues to show aptitude and ability.—New York Independent.

Earthquakes in the Philippines.

The earthquakes in the Philippines, especially on Luzon and Negros Islands, deserve a special story by themselves. The whole group of islands is of volcanic origin. There are seventy volcanoes in constant eruption on the islands. Several of them are the most violent in the world and are always being studied by scientists from Europe and America. The famous volcano Mayara is within sight of Manila. An earthquake occurs on an average of once every ten days. I have known small quakes to come at the rate of a dozen a day for a week atatime. About a dozen times a year there are shocks so severe that people will run about in fright and damage will be done to the buildings. The big bridge over the Passig River at Manila has been so swerved by earthquakes twice in my residence in the city that it has been made unsafe for travel. In 1884 an earthquake nearly ruined the great stone cathedral in Manila, razed many buildings to the ground, rocked hundreds more, and 2,000 people on Luzon Island were killed by falling timbers and walls. In 1860 the great earthquake occurred on Negros Island. It has never been known how many people were killed then, but the number is estimated at 7,000. Almost every structure on the island was shaken down, and great gaps, yards wide and miles long, were cracked across the island. The quake opened seams in the earth from the seacoast and made passages from the interior lakes to the ocean.

OUR NEW POSSESSION.

Facts About the Hawaiian Islands, Over Which Our Flag Now Floats.

Hawaii is of small area, being less than that of a single Congressional district. But nineteen nations keep representatives at Honolulu to watch their interests in the islands. The only reason for this is that the islands hold the key of the Pacific Ocean, the largest body of water on the globe, and control the defenses of the western coast of the United States.

For several years the people of Hawaii have been living under the influence of American civilization, speaking and studying our language, recognizing the stars and stripes as familiarly as their own flag, copying the laws of the United States and calling to the assistance of their rulers men of American birth or ancestry. Even among their holidays there are those of the Fourth of July, Memorial Day and Washington's birthday. The group has been under the virtual protectorate of the United States for two generations. The influences which have developed its commerce and made it a civilized region have all emanated from this country.

The essential public interest attaching to Hawaii grows out of its central position in the commerce of the Pacific Ocean. Honolulu is in the track of all steamers sailing to Australasia from San Francisco or Puget Sound. Even more precisely is Honolulu in the direct route of one part of that enormous traffic from Atlantic to Pacific ports which awaits the cutting of the Nicaragua ship canal to flow in a steady tide through the isthmus. All the trade with China and Japan from American ports on the Atlantic must take the Nicaragua route. It is this large movement of ocean commerce impending in the immediate future which lends the most serious importance to the political relations of the Hawaiian islands. Every ship from the Atlantic crossing the Pacific to Asia will naturally sight the Hawaiian islands, and every steamer will be likely to replenish her coal bunkers at Honolulu. This fact will render the political condition and international relations of Hawaii of importance.

Honolulu is a convenient port of call for steamers on the route between California and China. This tendency will increase with the coming growth of Honolulu as a general calling and coaling station. It is also a natural port of call and supply for ships to China from Callao and Valparaiso. Honolulu is thus the great crossroads of the Pacific commerce.

More than this, Honolulu is the only crossroads of the north Pacific. This port is wholly alone in its commanding position. It has absolutely no competitor. From the Marquesas to the Aleutians Hawaii is the only land in that tremendous ocean expanse west of America where a ship can call within a space of 4,500 miles from San Francisco, and 6,200 miles from Nicaragua. By the geographical necessity of the case everything centers at Honolulu not merely as the most convenient port of call, but as the only one.

Honolulu will have to provide for the accommodation of from twenty to thirty large steamers per month, together with that of the colliers supplying them. This will be a formidable increase of business and must materially affect the commercial, and with them the political, relations of Hawaii.

The favorable position of Hopolulu will be materially enhanced by the absolute necessity of using those islands as the intersecting point for telegraphic cables across the Pacific. It is obvious that all cables between Australia and the North American Pacific coast must make Honolulu their first station.

Eight of the islands in the group are inhabited occupying a line of about 350 miles, beginning at Hawaii and running west northwest to Kauai and Nihau. They receive a cool ocean current from the northeast, with trade winds from east northeast, that temper the climate with a cool breeze but lightly charged with moisture. The population is composed of pure Hawaiian, mixed, foreigners of Hawaiian birth, Americans, British, Germans, Scandinavians, French, Portuguese, Chinese, Japanese and others.

The total commerce between Hawaii and the United States in 1891 amounted to $19,002,809. Of this sum the imports into the United States were valued at $13,895,597, while the exports to Hawaii amounted to only $5,107,212.

The census of 1890 shows that the exports of Hawaii "are now and have been for some years past larger in proportion of its population than those of any other country in the world, Australia standing next on the list. In the last ten years we have, with an average population of not more than 8,000, exported produce worth, in round numbers, $90,000,000, or an average of nearly $125 per annum for every man, woman and child in the country."—Detroit Free Press.

The Mother Was Not Deceived.

He was a tired looking young man as he leaned up against a shade tree on Miami avenue, and the patrolman who came along and halted to look him over finally queried:

"Well, what are you doing here?"

"More or less t-tight," was the answer.

"What's that paper you have in your hand?"

"You can have it."

"Bank check, eh?" said the officer as he scanned it under the light. "Have you been trying to work a confidence game?"

"Oh, no," replied the young man as he yawned sleepily. "That was a little racket on my own account."

"How do you mean?"

"Why, I'm going with a girl who loves me for myself alone, but her mother looks at the cash side of the question."

"And you filled out this check to deceive her?"

"That's what I did. I showed her that I had $3,000 in the bank, but what did she do but post right down there and find out that I didn't have a hair pin on deposit."

"And what?"

"Why, that's how I came to get tight. She showed me the door and I knew from the way she closed it behind me that the syndicate was busted, and so I went to ruin at the nearest saloon!"—Detroit Free Press.

Theater-Going in Japan.

It will interest many to hear that the Japanese laws now prohibit a theatrical performance lasting more than eight hours. The plays in the first-class theaters begin at 10 or 11, and are not ended until after sunset. There are intervals, of course, for refreshment, and a recent innovation is a theater-yard for exercise, lined with eating booths and fancy stalls. Boxes are secured three or four days beforehand from a neighboring tea house, where arrangements are made for attendance and refreshments during the day. Full dress is never worn.

The following articles, unless otherwise ordered, are brought to each patron: A program, a cushion, a tobacco fire box, a pot of tea, cakes, fruit and sushi, a sort of rice dumpling flavored with vinegar and topped with a piece of fish. Valuables may be left at the tea house, and the inclusive charge (excepting the waiter's tip) is not more than 1.80 yen a head. The gallery is the most aristocratic place, but the space unreserved, occupied by the Japanese "gods," is quaintly called "the deaf gallery."—Westminster Gazette.

A FATAL SPOT.

Place Where Mary Queen of Scots Lost Her Crown.

Three hundred and fifty years ago on the 18th of May Mary Queen of Scots stood on a grassy knoll near the village of Cathcart watching with feverish interest the movements of three bodies of troops about a mile off in the fields round Langside. Eleven days before she escaped from the castle of Lochleven and now the day had dawned which was to decide whether she would ever rule Scotland again. What the fates had decreed is written at large in the pages of history and that story throws a glamour of pathetic romance round the spot on which Mary learned her doom. For many years "Court Knowe," as the knoll is called, was marked by a throne tree and when that decayed Gen. Sir George Cathcart, who fell at Inkerman, replaced it with a rough field-gate stone, on which he carved with his own hands a crown, the queen's initials and the date of the battle. Later still, the General's nephew, Earl Cathcart, built this memorial, which is of red granite and repeats the inscription of its predecessor. It may be that Mary's life was a failure, but she has her recompense now. Her story still greatly stirs the hearts of men and draws the sympathetic pilgrim to such shrines as this; Elizabeth, successful in life, is regarded afar off with emotionless respect.

Indianapolis special:

The Republican State convention met in Tomlinson Hall Wednesday afternoon. The preliminary session lasted but two hours, and after listening to a long address by Senator Fairbanks the convention adjourned until Thursday.

The convention was probably the largest Republican convention that ever assembled in this State. The body was called to order by Charles S. Hernly, chairman of the State committee, who, with a few brief remarks, opened the meeting by calling upon the committees of the convention for their reports. The first of these was the committee on permanent organization, which had selected Senator Charles W. Fairbanks for permanent chairman. His address was looked forward to as expressing in a large measure the views of the administration. Senator Fairbanks' speech, which took an hour to deliver, was pregnant with commendation of President McKinley and his war and foreign policy. He touched on nearly all the important subjects and renewed the promise that Congress will very soon enforce the money plank of the St. Louis platform in a much stronger manner than was contemplated at the time of its passage.

It had been arranged to receive the report of the platform committee at the close of the Senator's speech, but the delegates were anxious to get back to the hotel and learn how their friends, the candidates, were faring, and so it was decided to postpone the reading and adoption of the platform until Thursday.

The convention reassembled at 10 o'clock Thursday morning and was called to order by Senator Fairbanks. Before proceeding to make nominations a resolution authorizing the chairman of the convention to send to President McKinley a telegram of greeting and congratulations for his "wise administration of affairs, both in war and in peace," was adopted.

Republican Platform.

The platform indorses the State and national administrations, the Mull law and the arbitration commission, and promises reform in primary election laws and township and county business. It praises the soldiers and sailors of the present war, and upon the war question says:

While we sincerely deplore the necessity of war, we believe the President and Congress acted wisely in demanding the complete withdrawal of Spanish sovereignty from the Island of Cuba and in proceeding to enforce the demand with the military and naval power of the Government.

The subject of territorial extension is not directly treated, but referred to as follows:

Having achieved its manhood, the republic under God is entering upon its greatest period of power, happiness and responsibility. Realizing the mighty future of wealth, prosperity and duty which is even now upon us, we favor the extension of American trade; the reformation of the consular service accordingly; the encouragement by all legitimate means of the American merchant marine; the creation of a navy as powerful as our commerce shall be extensive, and for public defense and security and the establishment of coaling stations and naval rendezvous wherever necessary.

We most heartily approve the wisdom of the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands as a wise measure, and recommend the early construction of the Nicaraguan Canal under the immediate direction and exclusive control of the United States Government, the importance and necessity of the canal having been emphasized by recent events connected with the present war with Spain.

Following is the financial plank:

The Republicans of Indiana are unreservedly for sound money and are therefore opposed to the heresy to which the Democratic party is wedded—of the free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1—which we regard as absolutely certain to debase our money and destroy our private and public credit and cause general business disaster.

We recognize the necessity of comprehensive and enlightened monetary legislation, and we believe that the declaration in the St. Louis national Republican platform for the maintenance of the gold standard and the parity of all our forms of money should be given the vitality of public law and the money of the American people should be made, like all its institutions—the best in the world.

We felicitate the country on the fact that when in the exigencies of war it became necessary to issue $200,000,000 of Government bonds to meet the extraordinary expenditures, a Republican administration had the good sense and wisdom to put the loan within the easy reach of the people, where it has been wholly absorbed, furnishing a splendid security for their savings, awakening a new interest in the permanency of our government and the soundness of its financial system.

The tariff plank is as follows:

We reaffirm our belief in the doctrine of reciprocity and protection to American labor and home industries, and condemn the Democratic doctrine of tariff for revenue only as unsound and unsuited to the best interests of the country; a doctrine whose falsity has been demonstrated by our experience under the Wilson revenue bill that plunged the country into commercial and financial distress, from which it is fast recovering since the change from the Democratic policy.

Nominations Made.

The following were presented for Secretary of State: Joseph C. Chaney, Sullivan County, the Seventh district, Charles F. Coffin of Marion, and the Eighth district, Union B. Hunt of Randolph. Hunt was nominated on the first ballot, receiving 809 votes.

For Auditor, the Ninth district presented the name of William H. Hart of Clinton, and the same district named David E. Sheerick of Hamilton.

State Items of Interest.

At Shelbyville, John Palmerton dropped dead in his hotel office. Paralysis of the heart was the cause.

At Valparaiso, Henry A. Stoner was swindled out of $4,000 by two men who claimed they wanted to buy a farm. The three-card-monte game was used. Stoner recovered $2,200.

Lee Evans, a performer with Pawnee Bill's Wild West show, which played at Anderson, was killed while the train was nearing the city. He was sleeping on a flat car and, being a somnambulist, walked off the train.

Albert Turner, 10-year-old son of Walter Turner, near Galveston, was killed by the cars. The boy was a deaf mute and was walking along the track.

By the explosion of a boiler at the power house of the Citizens' Electric Light Company in Kokomo, the plant was badly wrecked, leaving the town in darkness. George Dunning, the engineer, was instantly killed.

"Commodore" Hufford, a prominent farmer of Hendricks County, was drowned in Eel river. Hufford and family were camping at Eel river and while attempting to swim across the river he was taken with cramps in midstream and sank before aid could reach him.

JUDICIAL CONVENTION

The Democrats, of the 35th Judicial Circuit, composed of the counties of DeKalb and Steuben, and all others who will co-operate with them in the election of candidates for Judge and prosecuting Attorney, are requested to meet in delegate convention, in Waterloo, on the 16th day of August, 1898, at one o'clock in the afternoon, for the purpose of nominating such candidates.

It is expected that the candidates nominated will stand pledged, when elected, each to perform the duties of his office in an honest, economical and business like manner, for the benefit of the whole people of the district, rather than that of any particular party or faction.

The basis of representation in such conventions will be one delegate for every 100 votes cast for John B. Stoll, candidate for Presidential Elector, on the Democratic ticket in 1896, and under this apportionment said counties will be entitled to the following number of delegates, to-wit:

DeKalb 37, Steuben17

CYRUS C. WALTER,
Chairman DeKalb Co., Dem., Com.
GEO. E. YOUNG,
Chairman Steuben., Co Dem., Com.

PUGET SOUND

The Emigrant's Eden, The Courier Correpondent Believes.

EDITOR COURIER:—

In this article I shall try to give to your readers some reliable information in regard to the northwest corner of Uncle Sam's domain, more particularly of that region of county lying to the west of Puget Sound, bounded on the north by the straits of Fuca and on the west by the Pacific Ocean. It is the wildest and least known spot in the United States proper. The Olympia Mountains occupies much of the surface and the rest is covered with an impenetrable forest of the red fir, cedar spruce and hemlock. The red fir is the king of them all towering 200 to 300 feet straight as an arrow, frequently 200 feet to the first limb, and in seemingly inexhaustible quanities. Last Sunday with my wife and family we embarked in a carriage and drove for many miles up this beautiful but wild leland valley. It winds through the pine clad mountain, the road runs through many rippling brooks that dash along over shining, pebbly beds overhung with dark green spruce or flowering vines, then up some lofty hill and down in the glen again, besides several beautiful mountain lakes on whose bosom float wild fowl and in whose Matters the speckled mountain trout makes his home. One lake in particular was such a eden of beauty that we love to linger by verdant shores and bathe in its chrystal tide. We could look up from the sunny cove and see deep snow lying on the side of mount Olympia, and this is the last week in July. The white snow is a great contrast to the dark green forests all about us, but the sun was setting behind the great green hills and we must hurry to our home. As we drive along we are entertained, yes charmed by the sweetest songster birds I ever heard, and the perfume of myrads of wild flower, lent enchantment to our evening ride. We love these wild woods and delighted in this health giving atmophere. Here the arms of the sea penetrate far into the land, the head of Port Discovery Bay is not more than one mile from my home, so that we get the air either fresh from the mountains or sea. And now a few words as to the productions of this wanderful region, Apples, pears, plums, and cherries are are a perfect crop, there are no insect pests, no wormy fruit, but every fruit is perfect and luscious, it is here the various berries find their nacural home, every kind of berry reaches perfection as it does no where else. And then the garden and vegetable patch! I can not do it justice with my pen, so will only say that no one need go hungry who has a garden here, he can with little labor get best of everything. Oats yielded 138 bushels per acre and wheat 109 bushels have been raised on a measured acre. Do you believe this my DeKalb county friend? I do, I have helped to cut some of this grain and consequently can believe it If there is among your people, any young men strong of limb and full of courage they would do well to come here, if they would not shrink from hard work, for this land is hard to clear. Land is cheap, $9 to $29 per acre according to location, quality, etc. This is a good dairy country, the grass growing green all the year which makes the cost of raising stock quite small. But I would advise no one to come here who does not like hard work as it is very hard to remove the great forests to make room for the plain. But to all industrious young men and women I will say you will find here a welcome home, The Emigrant's Eden,

Yours truly,
JOSEPH A. SHADE.

Sylvester Kutzner Dead.

Sylvester Kutzner died at his home here last evening, Aug. 5, at about 7 o'clock. He had been taken with hemorrhage of the brain, a little after noon, and never rallied. He remained unconscious till he died at the hour named.

It will be remembered that last fall he had an attack somewhat of the same character as this one, but gradually rallied, and at times has been able to be about. Only a day or two ago, we saw him driving on the streets. He has been a prominent citizen for many years. He was several years trustee of Union township, but on leaving his farm a few years ago, he came to Auburn and has since been connected with the Richey Carriage shops here.

LATEST WAR NEWS.

Monday's Daily.

At Manila, the Spanish commander is trying to keep up the spirits of his men by telling them, that the Americans are driven back in all the skirmishes near that city, and that all the dead Yankees are found shot in the back, being too great cowards to face the Spaniards. He says also, he is expecting a fleet and re-enforcements each day.

German warships at Manila are more friendly. One of them sent Dewey a live beef the other day. It looks as if they are beginning to have a wholesome respect for Dewey's big guns.

The Maria Theresa, one of the ships sunk in running out of Santiago, has been raised. We found in her cash box $10,000 and she can be easily saved. Her decks were burned, and the iron joists twisted, and about 25 shot holes in her side. But she will be fixed up.

Spain is trying to get out of paying the Cuban debt. She says other wars have not ended that way. She might have added that no other wars have been begun or carried on like this one. Spain has much to learn and when she has learned it she will know better than to go to war with Yankees.

Our forces on Porto Rico are moving steadily forward from different points where they have landed and will unite on the north road. It is expected a few days will take them across the island, and then they will lay siege to San Juan.

Besides raising the Spanish cruiser Maria Theresa, we will save the big Christobal Colon and perhaps one or two others. It will cost something to repair them, but not as much as to build new ones. Besides we want to save them, even if they cost more than new ones. It will be an object lesson to several nations to see these ships sail over the world in the years of peace that are to come. It will make them see how unwise it is, for any nation to call us "cowardly Yankee pigs." Spain will not do it again, away.

It appears that peace is near. The terms offered by us were fully considered by Spain Saturday and Sunday, and that they have concluded to accept, and sent word to that effect to Cambon, the French Ambassador at Washington, who has had charge of the matter for Spain. They agree to the appointment of a commission to settle the final details and suggest a suspension of hostilities in the meantime. They take pains to assert that Spain did not bring on the war or want war but was driven into it by us. The terms are as heretofore stated in the COURIER, Spanish troops are to be withdrawn from Cuba and the island left with us to care for till we see our way clear either to leave it in Cuban hands or annex to us. We are to have Porto Rico and all other Spanish islands near by. In the Pacific, we get one of the Ladrone Islands. But the Philippines will be settled by the commission.

When hostilities cease, the first thing we do, will be to raise the blockade of all the towns on all the Spanish islands, so food and other much needed supplies can be got to the suffering people.

Troops from Gen. Shafter's army are embarking for the return home. Only a few regiments will be left at Santiago, and even these may soon be relieved by the three regiments of "immunes" now on the way.

It is now feared that the Carlists will rise in rebellion as soon as the people of Spain learn that their government has signed away all their island Colonies.

The 157th will likely be sent to Cuba to take the place of some of Shaffter's men who are being sent north.

Tuesday's Daily.

The reply of Spain reached Washington last night, but too late to be considered. It looks like a lengthy affair, intended to confuse and waste time. They will fail in this. The war is going right on; we are pushing the campaign in Porto Rico right along.

Gen. Brooke, now leading one division of the army in Porto Pico, will probably be made governor of the island.

Our first general battle on Porto Rico was Monday when we captured Guiyamo a good sized city on the southeast coast, where we want to start one division of our army to march inland and across. The Spaniards had about 500 men and they met us in the woods and hills not far from the town. We slowly ran them into town and then out, making a skirmish of five or six hours, in which both sides fired wildly, and only a man or two killed It was just the kind of a battle to please Spaniards and Cubans, but our men were disgusted. They could not see their foes. When the city was fairly ours, the people came out on the streets and cheered our men and flag. That evening their city band played "Yankee Doodle," "Star Spangled Banner," etc.

The Queen of Spain has been advised by her relatives, the royal family of Austria, to flee from Spain and come back to her old home at Vienna. But very sensibly tells them she is not afraid of the Carlists, and that if she were, she would still stand by her young son and his rights to the Kingdom. She deserves a better lot than to rule such a country as Spain.

Sickness in Shafter's army is a little less, but his men are being shipped north as fast as possible.

The first load of Spanish prisoners has been started off.

Lieut. Will Kerr, Co. B 157th Ind., from Fort Wayne, died of typhoid fever, Sunday, at Petersburg, Florida. He will be brought home for burial.

Wednesday's Daily.

The reply of Spain as to our terms of peace was considered by the cabinet a long time yesterday. In the main points Spain agrees to what we ask, but, is not very clear on some minor points. She still seems to think we ought to pay the Cuban debt. But this we will not consider at all. Then they object to our turning Cuba with its great number of Spanish citizens, over the rebel Cubans. They think the United States should hold the island. But of course, the president does not feel like telling them his views on this point. They also dislike the idea of giving Porto Rico as they wish to keep one island on this side of the continent. But there are many other points that will need to be left with the expected commission to settle Spain suggests that this commission meet in Paris. There are other points that have not yet been given to the public.

Great scarcity of food is reported in Manila and it is believed they will surrender soon.

July 31, there was a heavy battle at Manila. The Spaniards noticed the third body of our men had come into the bay, and concluded to attack those on shore before the new men could help. They tried to surprise our men in the darkness of a terrible night storm, drove in our pickets and reached our breastworks, and there was an awful hand to hand fight in the darkness. Only the flashes of lightning gave any light. The Spaniards were finally driven off. During the next night the fight was renewed but the enemy did not come close. In the first night battle we lost 14 men killed 44 wounded. The Spanish loss was much greater.

If peace comes, still a great part of the soldiers will be kept in the field, as it will be wise to have a good force there, so the Spaniards will have no chance to play a trick on us. But all the sick and wounded of our army will be sent north at once, and probably discharged.

Men from Shafter's army are being taken away as fast as transports can be got, and new troops are going forward to take their place. Spanish prisoners are being sent home.

From Angola

Special to the Courier,

ANGOLA, IND., Aug. 8, 1898. The democrats of Steuben county were in convention at the court house Saturday, Aug. 6th, and put in nomination the following excellent ticket. Auditor, Charles Walls, of Angola; treasurer, Edwin F. Smith, of Steubee township; clerk, Warren Arnold, of Millgrove; recorder, L. G. Walberry, of Otsego; sheriff, Fred. Emerson, of Angola; 2commissioner, middle district, J. N. Ousterhout; commissioner south district, Geo Stove, Salem; surveyor, Clem Whysong, Salem; coroner, J. E Ott, of Ashley. The convention was one of the most enthusiastic held by the democrats here for years.

Big thunderstorm here yesterday afternoon.

We expect 25,000 people here Thursday at the old settlers meeting.

Many of our citizens are already getting ready to attend the Auburn Carnival. That's all the talk up here.

Mrs. Woodworth's Meeting.

Special to the Courier:

HELMER, IND., Aug. 9, 1898:—The tabernacle meetings begun by Mrs. M. B. Woodworth, assisted by Miss Emma Isenberg, singer, have attracted the people from various parts of the United States, who came and are still coming to hear and see the effects of this woman's work on the people. Among the first to arrive from abroad were Dr. and Mrs. King of St. Louis, Mo., and Mrs. Mengersen, and daughter, of Holgate, Ohio; Wm. Kline of Hand, Ind., the latter, together with Mrs. King and Mr. Mengersen having been cured from chronic diseases. The congratulations are increasing and the result of the meeting are awaited by many with some anxiety.

JUNCTION HOTEL BURNED

And The Inmates Escaped Not a Minute Too Soon.

Last night about midnight Frank Boyle, night man at the Junction saw smoke coming out of the hotel at that place, which stood on the corner near the Monitor factory. He spoke to Mr. Bogert about it, and they at once ran to the hotel, and after some effort, awakened the landlord, Phil. Waters, and then ran through the house waking the other inmates, some of whom were on the second floor. On going upstairs it was seen that the second parlor was full of smoke he could not enter, and it was evidenly burning in the northwest corner. He also noticed abundant smoke coming from a near-by stairway that led up to the attic. So it is not certain whether the fire originated in the attic or in the parlor. When the people were all safe out of the building the goods were hustled out, though Mr. Boyle thinks if there had been even a small means to fight fire, the building could have been saved. All the goods below and a part of those above were saved, but the building was burned to the ground. The contents, were owned by Mr. Walters and insured for $2000. The building was owned jointly by Henry McIntyre and the estate of his father, Wm. McIntyre and was insured for only $1000, which of course will not cover the loss. Now let the Junction people again consider the wisdom of being incorporated with Auburn. True our ladder truck and boys hurried to the scene and helped what they could, but the village should have better protection.

The Sparling Reception

There was a large attendance at the Keeran Sisters' last evening when they gathered to bid farewell to Dr. and Mrs. Sparling. The spacious rooms were filled, as well as the verandas. Old and young were present, Catholics and protestants of all creeds, and non-church going people. The rooms were decorated with boquets of flowers and the lawn with colored lanterns.

Rev. T. M. Guild was master of ceremonies and called on Mrs. Mary Ehlers, Hon. E. D. Hartman and Geo. McCord for short addresses.

All spoke in terms of highest appreciation of the value and benefits to the community on account of the christian influence exerted by Mr. and Mrs. Sparling, and of the deep regret, that they are now about to leave us.

Mr. Guild in behalf of a very few friends presented a little token of love something that might give a slight emphasis to the words that had been spoken. The gift was a purse of twenty five dollars. This was a complete surprise, not only to the recipients, but to a large number of those present, several, several of whom added to the amount later. Dr. and Mrs. Sparling responded in most fitting and tender words, expressing their appreciation of the manifold kidness they had received during their residence in Auburn. All who could, united in singing: "We'll Never Sav Good by in Heaven." Many were too much affected by the grief of parting, to join in the song.

Refreshments served by the social committee of the Epworth League, and these followed by a social hour during which there was music, including solos by several, and songs by the Hoosier Quartet.

Then there was a closing prayer and benediction by Mr. Guild, followed by a personal "Good by" and "God bless you," from the assembled company.

Fire at Garrett.

Garrett had another blaze last night, resulting in the loss of C. B. Jones' planing mill. The lumber in the yard was saved, but the total loss will be about $3,000. It was burning at the same time our people were fighting the fire at the Junction.

JUBILEE NOTES.

In speaking of their harvest jubilee, the Hudson Banner notices two prominent citizens in this way:

The addresses of Judge Stephen A. Powers and Congressman Robinson, were patriotic and happy, and those who heard them are sorry that the time was limited for speech making.

About the happiest man on our streets was Congressman Robinson of this district. Mr. Robinson is a man of the people and it does not take him long to gather friends around him. He is a democrat and truth compels us to say that he is a very conscientious one and politics do not prevent him from doing his duty to his constituents.

QUICK RUNAWAY.

Riley Madden had a quick-over runaway last evening. He drove his horse up to the barn door, got out, went into the barn to move a buggy to one side so he could drive in, and as he came out, the horse jumped, when he caught it but was thrown or pushed against the barn in such a way he had to let the horse go. The horse finding himself loose, ran north through the alley to the street, and the around the block, back to his home, where Charley Bartels caught him. But by this time the buggy was wrecked and looked like a Spanish cruiser after a battle with Yankees. The top was knocked of, one shaft disabled, an axle sprung, and other damage done. All this took but a few minutes.

SURPRISED HER.

Today was the birthday of Mrs. Will Buss, out in the country, and Mrs. C. C. Buss planned and carried out a surprise on her. She came to town and gave a sly hint to the ladies of the Degree of Honor, of which she was a member, and they chartered rigs enough to take them out. She was the recipient of a beautiful China cracker bowl. It is not doubted but they had a good time.

The Philippine Islands.

Harpers Weekly which is always accurate, furnishes some interesting items of information, as to these now much discussed Spanish Colonies. We make some brief extracts from its article written by Hon. John Barrett, late minister to Siam. He says:

The population of the entire group is over 7,000,000. Manila has not less than 300,000 inhabitants, of which the total of pure-blood Spaniards, aside from soldiers, does not exceed 5000; but the mestizos (half-bloods) number about 50,000, of whom 4000 are Spanish mestizos and 46,000 Chinese. There also some 20,000 regular Chinese, and, approximately, 300 Europeans and Americans. The large remainder is made up chiefly of pure natives, and natives mixed with Chinese, Malays, and other neighboring races. Nothwithstanding the population is considerable in figures, the interior does not appear in the least crowded.

There has been a wide difference of opinion among authorities as to the exact area of the Philippines. Some experts have claimed as high as 160,000 square miles, others state as low as 52,000, but a truer estimate is probably the mean figure of 100,000. Certain it is that they have never been all accurately surveyed. Only approximate coast-lines have been obtained for assistance in navigation.

A richer isolated land or group of islands, viewed comparatively as to area and population, variety of agricultural, mineral, and forest resources undeveloped, in addition to those already improved, cannot be pointed out on the map of the world.

Of wood there are cedar, sapan wood iron wood, bamboo, ebony, logwood, palma-brava, gum, and a wonderful variet hard and soft woods.

Cultivated or growing wild are to be found hemp, sugar cane, tobacco, coffee, rice, bananas, ginger, vanilla, cassia, pepper, indigo, pineapples, cocoa, cacao, wheat, maize, ramie, and cotton, as well as tamarind, mangoes, durions, oranges, guavas, limes, jack-fruit, custard apples, and all sorts of garden products. Of mineral, aside from gold and silver, iron and coal, already noted, there are copper, quicksilver, tin, antimony, saltpetre, and sulphur. From the sea come coral, tortoise-shells, amber, and pearl. Beds of marble and deposits of gypsum are being worked to a small degree. Among the more useful animals are the hardy ponies—not native, but an adapted cross between the Chinese and Adalusian—indispensable water-buffaloes, swine, goats, cattle, and a few sheep, with a long list of wild fauna as varied as the flora, which is indeed marvelous in both beauty and utility. Deer, wild-boar, wild-duck, pheasant, snipe, pigeons, woodcock, afford sport all the year round.

The Montpelier Fair.

The attractions at the Montpelier fair will be greater and better than ever before this season. Ronald's Royal English Circus and Pantomime Co. will be on of the chief features daily. Wednesday will be ladies' and baby show day.

The races will be spirited and hotly contested. The 2:20 pace and 2:22 trot for a purse of $250 each will be exciting. The best horses in the country are booked to go in these races. Besides, $200 is hung up for other harness races.

The secretary and directors are bound to make the fair for '98 the best, and in every way the most attractive ever held in the countr. Every department will be carefully looked after, and the exhibition is bound to be a winner.

Don't forget the date—September 6, 7, 8 and 9. C. C. Lattanner, Sec'y.

The Meese Reunion.

Remember the Meese Matrimonial Reunion at Auburn on Thursday, Aug 18. It will be in the woods at Mrs Saxton's near the Eckhart factory There will be good music, a speech by Judge Powers, a fine lecture by Rev. T. F. Frech, and the children of the members will have their pictures tak en free. All get ready and come.

Changed Hands.

The Foundry at Auburn Junction has again changed hands. O. W. Werntz & Co., last week sold the plant to Hovey Hanna, who we understand, will push business in good shape. It is a good location and no doubt will prove to be good property. We believe Jacob Shull, who has been managing the plant for a time, will go on the road for some big steel firm.

Our Six-Year-Old Daughter.

Our little six-year-old daughter had a very sore throat, badly ulcerated, and coughed almost incessantly. Gave the White Wine of Tar Syrup according to directions and she began to improve immediately and soon got well. Mrs Groves and I recommended it to others and we consider it the very best medicine in use. REV. D. H. GROVES, Pastor M. E. Church, Clarksville, Mo.

THE NEW WAY.

WOMEN used to think "female diseases" could only be treated after "local examinations" by physicians. Dread of such treatment kept thousands of modest women silent about their suffering. The introduction of Wine of Cardui has now demonstrated that nine-tenths of all the cases of menstrual disorders do not require a physician's attention at all. The simple, pure taken in the privacy of a woman's own home insures quick relief and speedy cure. Women need not hesitate now. Wine of Cardui requires no humiliating examinations for its adoption. It cures any disease that comes under the head of "female troubles"—disordered menses, falling of the womb, "whites," change of life. It makes women beautiful by making them well. It keeps them young by keeping them healthy. $1.00 at the drug store.

For advice in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, the "Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

W. I. ADDISON, M.D., Gary, Miss., says: "I use Wine of Cardui extensively in my practice and find it a most excellent preparation for female troubles."

MRS. E. E. MITCHELL.

—Mrs. Hoagland of Michigan City, left this morning for Bluffton to visit a friend there. She went away pleased with Auburn and its people having received and given pleasure among new acquaintances.

—Today L. J. Miller received a letter from an old uncle of his, an attorner, J. V. Jones, at Fostoria, Ohio. He says he will be here to visit him Aug. 25, the same time that Rev. J. Wesley Hill is here to deliver his lecture at the teachers' institute. Mr. Hill is also a Fostoria man and Mr. Jones says he is a lecturer of the highest order, and no one can afford to miss hearing him.

Mrs Norway is moving her goods back to Defiance, Ohio, where her husband has employment. It is Mrs. Morrison's house, corner of Fifth and Cedar sts. Mr. M. E. Garrett will move in and occupy it as a residence next Monday. He will use the second story of the building he is now in for a storage and the manufacture of the Quick Work Washing Powders he is making so extensively.

—Dr. Chas. E. Miller, the Optician, who has been coming to Yesbera's Jewelry Store for the past seven years, will be here again Tuesday Aug. 16. Parties in need of spectacles should not fail to call on Dr. Miller as we consider him without doubt the best posted optician who has ever visited Auburn. No charge for testing the eyes. Remember the date.
Respectfully,
FRED J. YESBERA.

—Dr. and Mrs. Sparling left today, for Mallorytown in Ontario, though we are not certain that is to be their home. That they leave many warm friends here is evidenced by the report we published yesterday of the reception given them at the Keeran Sisters'. After that item was in type, we received a second one equally friendly, but of course we could publish but one. It shows, however, their high standing with our people. We join heartily with the sentiment expressed, that their future may be bright and successful.

—Goshen Democrat:—The appointment of a referee in bankruptcy, under the law passed at the recent session of congress, develops in this state, upon Judge John H. Baker, of the federal court at Indianapolis. The candidates for this position are quite numerous, and disappointment is in store for a goodly numbes of individuals who had erected their lightning rods. Wednesdap's Fort Wayne News states that "Judge Baker has written a letter to W. E. Chapham, chairman of the Allen Republican county central committee, informing him that whee the time comes he will appoint Judge John Morris, of that city, to the place. The appointment is a further tribute to the distinguished legal ability and the high reputation of Judge Morris.

Excursion to Sandusky, Ohio, via B. & O. R. R.

On Sunday August 14 train will leave Auburn Junct., at 4:30 a m. Fare for round trip $1.00. Returning, train will leave Sandusky at 5:30 p. m.

BUTLER.

Mrs. Sarah Fink has sold her dwelling just east of the M. E. church to the trustees of that church for a parsonage and has moved the dwelling on the same lot to the opposite side of the street and will repair and enlarge it for her own home. The M. E. people have sold their old parsonage to John Madden who will move it east to the lots upon which Clyde Oberlin's house was destroyed by fire.

Our people are very much alarmed about the serious condition of C. J. Coats, who has suffered another relapse and at this writing is threatened with almost a total collapse of his mental powers. The cause is attributed to the rupture of a blood vessel in the brain, and fatal consequences are feared.

Kinneys have bought the Singer saw mill near Alvarado and will move it to Butler to be utilized in his mill here.

Mrs. Warner continues very poorly with but little hopes of recovery. Her daughter, Mrs. A. E. Gaff, of LaGrange is at her bedside. Mr. Gaff came down last Saturday and remained over Sunday with them and his aged mother who also has been quite poorly for some time.

T. J. Kinsely, wife and Liston Harding and wife are outing in the Rockies, and will visit Salt Lake City and other notable western points ere they return

W. H. Fulton state agent for the Firemens Fund Insurance Co called on J. A. Campbell last Friday.

Luther Knisely living four miles northeast of Butler had some sheep killed by lighting last week.

Daniel Knisely, after living on his farm in Troy township about forty five years, has sold it to David Riser, and has bought the Ash residence on West Railroad street and will make Butler his home for the remainder of his long and busy life.

Rev Hutson, of Elkhart, Presiding Elder of this district held quarterly service at the M. E. church last Sabbath. These gatherings, that used to be red letter days in the church now come and go, without a riffle in the church going community. The attendance on this occasion was hardly up to the average of every Sunday occasion.

ANECDOTE AND INCIDENT

Canon Knox-Little told at a church congress once of a lych-gate in front of a beautiful church, which had been restored and made very nice. There was painted over the door, "This is the Gate of Heaven," and underneath was the large notice, "Go round the other way."

An English hostess was entertaining about 300 people at a reception and had provided only about seventy-five seats. In despair, she said to a compatriot: "Oh, I am so distressed! Not three-fourths of these people can sit down!" "Bless my soul, madam!" he exclaimed, "what's the matter with them?"

It is related of a certain clergyman in Edinburgh that he was so careful of his quotations and so fearful of the charge of plagiarism that once, in addressing the Deity, he surprised the congregation by saying: "And Thou knowest, dear Lord, that, to quote a writer in a late number of the Quarterly Review," etc.

Mr. Lowry is a man with a moderate income and one child, a boy of 11 or 12 years, whom he is already sending to a French master, who is accustomed to be paid every Monday. Recently Mr. Lowry sent Henry to his lesson without the usual bank note. That evening the father did as he always does—looked over the boy's exercise, and this is what he found Henry doing his best to put into Parisian French: "I have no money. The week is up. Have you no money? Has your father no money? I need money. What is the day of the week? The day of the week is Monday. Does your father know the day of the week?"

To a waiter belongs the proud distinction of uttering what is probably the most ungrammatical sentence ever evolved from the brain of illiterate man. One afternoon an old man took his seat at the table and gave his usual order to a new and rather case-hardened knight of the napkin. "Waiter," he piped, as the dishes were slammed down before him, "this beef isn't sufficiently underdone." With a smile of contempt the waiter bore the viands back to the kitchen window, and returned a moment later without having changed them, and the contemptuous smile was more noticeable. "I'm sorry, sir," he said, "we ain't got no beef what's no underdoner!"

The Pendletonians were justly proud of Mr. Calhoun, and sensitive as to the impression which he made upon strangers. When Judge Prioleau became a resident, they were anxious to know his impressions of their Ajax. When they first met, as soon as Calhoun left the table, the question was eagerly asked, "How do you like him?" "Not at all," was the new-comer's reply; "I desire never to meet him again." This was a sad rebuff, and an explanation was demanded. "I hate a man who makes me think so much," the Judge replied; "for the last three hours I have been on the stretch, trying to follow him through heaven and earth. I feel wearied with the effort; and I hate a man who makes me feel my own inferiority." Pendleton was appeased.

A recent bride in Washington, who received many handsome pieces of glassware and china among her wedding gifts, is exceedingly proud of her treasures, and has a perfect jewel of a maid, who hasn't broken a single piece. One afternoon, not long ago, the mistress came home and found the maid out. An hour or so later the domestic returned. Her arms were full of bundles, and she carried a basket. Her face was radiant. "Oh," she said, "the table was perfectly lovely! It was just exactly the way you fix yours when you have company—candles and everything. It was just too sweet! Everybody thought so." "What are you talking about?" asked the mistress. "Why," answered the maid, "the luncheon my sister gave to-day. I didn't have time to ask you, but I knew you wouldn't mind. Nothing's broken." And unwraping her bundles, she disclosed to her mistress' astonished eyes the very pick of all the cherished wedding china and glass, not to mention sundry pieces of silver. They had adorned the luncheon, and the table was "perfectly lovely."

A prominent German actor (relates Albert L. Vandam, in the Illustrated London News) had fulfilled half of his "starring" engagement in the capital of a grand duchy, and as yet no recognition of his talents had been forthcoming in the shape of a decoration. Disgusted, the player announced his intention of departing the following morning. Early on that day the theater-intendant acquainted his grand-ducal master with what had happened. The conversation took place in the garden of the Schloss, situated on the road to the station, and suddenly an open carriage with the actor in it hove in sight. "Be quick!" said the Prince; "get me that box on my writing-table. If go he must, we'll at any rate try to satisfy him in his ambition." The intendant ran, and returned just as the vehicle passed the gates. "One moment, Herr B——," shouted the Prince; "here is something to remember me by." The actor bowed low, and went his way. In another moment, however, his conveyance reappeared at the gates. "There are two crosses, your Highness," he exclaimed. "Never mind," replied the Prince; "give the other to the coachman."

Tennyson's Devoted Wife.

In 1830, on a path in a wood at Somersby, Tennyson came unexpectedly upon a slender, beautiful girl of 17 and impulsively said to her: "Are you a dryad or an oread wandering here?" Six years later he met Emily Sellwood again, on the occasion of the marriage of his brother Charles to her younger sister. The friendship ripened into love, and in summer their marriage took place.

Of his wife Tennyson said, many years later, "The peace of God came into my life before the altar when I wedded her." Of this marriage the son writes: "It was she who became my father's adviser in literary matters. 'I am proud of her intellect,' he wrote. With her he always discussed what he was working at; she transcribed his poems; to her, and to no one else, he referred for a final criticism before publishing. She, with her 'tender, spiritual nature,' and instinctive nobility of thought, was always by his side, a ready, cheerful, courageous, wise and sympathetic counselor. It was she who shielded his sensitive spirit from the annoyances and trials of life, answering (for example) the innumerable letters addressed to him from all parts of the world."—Atlantic Monthly.

WHAT THE LAW DECIDES.

The right of one who has given a check to prevent the application of future deposits thereto is denied in Gage Hotel Company vs. Union National Bank (Ill.), 39 L. R. A. 479, on the ground that in that State the check when presented to the banker is an absolute appropriation of money on deposit against which it is drawn.

An officer of a foreign corporation which has no place of business in the State and has never done any business there, is held in Carstens vs. Leidigh and H. L. Company (Wash.), 39 L. R. A. 548, when he was only casually and temporarily in the State, not subject to service of process so as to give jurisdiction to render judgment in personam against the corporation.

A bank which takes a check instead of cash, without authority, on selling stock, and notifies its principal of the deposit of the check to his credit and afterward pays his check for the proceeds thereof, is held, in Pepperday vs. Citizens' National Bank (Pa.), 39 L. R. A. 529, to have made a voluntary payment, which cannot be recalled.

An ordinance precluding competition for a street paving contract by requiring the use of asphaltum, which can be obtained only from premises owned and controlled by one private corporation, is held, in Fishburn vs. Chicago (Ill.), 39 L. R. A. 482, to be void, as against public policy in creating a monopoly, although there is a provision for letting the contract to the lowest bidder.

An ordinance declaring the emission of dense black or thick gray smoke to be a nuisance, without any limitation as to the time of emission, or as to its being in fact a nuisance, or providing any inquiry as to these matters, is held, in St. Louis vs. Edward Heitzberg P. and P. Company (Mo.), 39 L. R. A. 551, to be invalid, as it is not sufficiently certain. With this case is a note on municipal control over smoke as a public nuisance.

The Man that Bumps the Drum.

I would not be an angel with a harp within my hand,
I want a better instrument the time I join the band;
I would not from my violin give song melodious flight,
Though I might wear exclusive hair and be the girls' delight.
Nor yet for name or wealth or fame would I pianos strum,
But oh! I want to be the man that bumps the big bass drum.

With its "plango, plango, plum!"
As down the street they come
The clarionets full shrilly call
The trombones sing "pom, pum!"
The big brass horns guffaw in glee
The cornets make you numb,
But oh, the man, the happy man,
That bumps the big bass drum!

You hear him in the city street above the traffic's roar,
His pulse doth beat full clear and sweet like billows on the shore;
Though far away the band may play and distance blot the sound
His music clear will reach your ear with lilting, jocund pound;
There is no shout will drown him out though all the brass be dumb,
And oh! I want to be the man that bumps the big bass drum.

With its "umptum, bumptom, bump!"
He makes the marchers hump,
He marks the time with steady chime
Nor lets the music slump;
I would not strike a golden harp
In angel choirs to come,
But oh! I want to be the man
That bumps the big bass drum.

Reduction of Railway Travel.

Many railroad companies are recognizing that a large and constantly increasing reduction of travel over their lines is being caused by the use of the long-distance telephone. Merchants have found out that it is possible to carry on business directly, almost as though face to face, by conversation over the wire, so that a majority of commercial transactions which do not require personal action, the signing of contracts, or personal inspection, may be now carried on almost as well over the telephone as by personal interviews. This, naturally, tends more and more to lessen purely business travel. When interviewed on this subject recently, the head of a large commercial house in the West said that formerly he was in the habit of going to New York from his distant home two or three times a month in the interest of his firm. He no longer does so. He found he was able to conduct his business in New York by means of the telephone, which he uses an hour or two a day, and which answers every purpose of face-to-face conversation. He pays for his instrument several hundred dollars a year—probably not more than his railway fares would cost him; but he saves four or five days every month.

Animal Worship.

Swine were adored in Crete, weasels at Thebes, rats and mice in Troas, porcupines in Persia, the lapwing in New Mexico, bulls in Benares, serpents in Greece and many of the African countries. The Hindoos never molest snakes; they call them fathers, brothers, friends and other endearing names. On the coast of Guinea a hog happening to kill a snake, the King gave orders that all the swine should be destroyed.

A Veritable Freak.

A wonderful freak of nature in the vegetable kingdom may be observed a short distance east of Ashburnham, Mass. A tree, about the size of a large apple tree, has a limb about eighteen or twenty inches in diameter. Persons have dug down and found but one root underneath, but it has two kinds of foliage—that of a pine and that of an oak. In the fall of the year burrs fall on one side and acorns on the other.

When a girl tells a young man that she dreamed of him the night before he should begin to save up money for the furniture.

BANK ROBBED OF ABOUT $9,000.

Richland, Mich., Institution Looted by Six Men.

Six robbers secured $5,000 in money and about $4,000 in notes from the Union Bank at Richland, Mich., the other night. Some of the robbers came from the East on a handcar, and evidently had confederates with a horse and carriage. The rig was taken into Augusta and left there. There were three explosions, which awakened many people. Alvin Barnes, who lives near the bank, was ordered into the house with a threat that they would shoot him. George Robson and Ed Barrett saw the robbers, but did not molest them. The safe is a complete wreck, nitroglycerin having been used to open it. The inside doors were blown out and pieces went through the plate-glass front twenty feet distant. The chisels and other tools were left behind. The handcar was disabled so it could not be used to pursue the robbers. Officers have been informed that a man was seen between Augusta and Battle Creek walking on the railroad track, carrying a large satchel and a rifle. No one who saw him dared to make a move to arrest him. According to witnesses, four of the robbers were on guard outside the bank, which is a small wooden building. Three charges of dynamite were exploded before the money was reached. The bank is owned by N. S. Whitney and P. H. Gilkey.

STAMPS PUT ON RELEASE DEEDS

Official Ruling on the Tax Law as Applied to Real Estate Transfers.

Commissioner of Internal Revenue Scott has notified Collector Daugherty of Peoria that a life insurance policy does not require a stamp until it is issued or offered as an insurance policy, and insurance companies can stamp policies as well through local as through general agents. Whether the company or the insured party pays the tax is held to be "not a matter with which the internal revenue laws can deal."

He has also promulgated for the information of collectors throughout the country a letter to Secretary Hedenberg of the Chicago real estate board. This letter decides that release deeds require revenue stamps; that when a note or bond is given for the payment of money, and separate notes or bonds are given for accruing interest, not only is the note or bond for the principal sum required to be stamped, but the separate bonds or notes given for the interest must also be stamped.

GOLD FROM SEA WATER.

Scheme by Which Easterners Were "Done" for $2,400,000.

The Electrolytic Marine Salts Company, organized for the purpose of extracting gold from sea water, which has been brought into great prominence on account of the alleged course of its vice-president and general manager, Rev. P. F. Jernagan, in buying thousands of dollars' worth of Government securities just previous to his departure for Europe, has suspended operations. Its force of 600 men has been discharged, and no one about the place can tell anything as to the future. The company was organized last year, and it is claimed that 2,400,000 shares of the stock had been disposed of at $1 a share. Jernagan, the originator of the scheme, is a Baptist minister, and he sailed with several hundred thousand dollars' worth of United States bonds, purchased with the funds of the duped stockholders.

BIG PEACE CARNIVAL.

Great Festival to Be Held in Chicago in October.

Chicago will have a carnival in October. There will be twelve long days of pleasure crowded with events of importance. The festival will begin Oct. 3. The celebration will be made a regular institution, being repeated each year. To Chicago it will be what the Mardi Gras is to New Orleans. Citizens in mass meeting assembled at the Great Northern Hotel and formally decided upon the above. The call was issued by the Chicago Commercial Association. Foremost of the great events of the carnival will be a peace celebration, provided the war shall have closed by that time.

NO RUPTURE WITH GERMANY.

Von Diederichs Will Think Twice Before Provoking Dewey.

In spite of the fears entertained in some quarters that Germany may interfere in the Philippine pie, there seems to be little actual foundation for such belief. The German Government has time and again, according to Washington advices, disclaimed any such intention and despite alarming reports, now and again received in this country from Manila, the Washington authorities are inclined to believe in the German protestations of neutrality.

Even should Vice-Admiral von Diederichs, commanding the German fleet at

VICE-ADMIRAL VON DIEDERICHS.

Manila, be rash enough to endeavor to thwart the plans of Admiral Dewey, this country need have no fears of the result. Dewey is strong enough, with the latest naval re-enforcements, to carry out any policy he may elect in the teeth of German interference, and should the two nations go to war it is satisfactory to think that we are much stronger on the sea than Germany. A London paper thus summed up the situation recently:

"As for German and American navies, there can, of course, be no comparison. The Germans are fine sailors and brave men, but a naval struggle between the United States and Germany would be short and complete."

There is no danger of any rupture, however, between the countries. The German Government knows better and Vice-Admiral von Diederichs may be depended on not to commit his country in the matter.

INCREASE IN PENSION LIST.

Many Applications on Account of Present War Being Filed.

Applications for pensions as a result of the Spanish-American war are already coming into the office of Commissioner Evans in Washington. Lida M. Hook, widow of William H. Hook, Company F, Second Wisconsin infantry, asks for $12 per month. She is the first applicant. Seventy-one others have also filed their applications. Mrs. Hook was bereaved early in the conflict. Her husband enlisted May 12, 1898. Two days later he was taken sick, and on May 15 died at the military hospital of Camp Harvey, near Milwaukee. Three days later Mrs. Hook executed her application for a pension. There are probably already 3,000 cases with such a basis for a pension claim.

The second name on the list at the pension bureau is that of Eliza J. Tunnell, who executes a claim for pension as the widow of Elijah J. Tunnell, killed on board the Winslow in Cardenas harbor. Chief Clerk Bayley said there were 635,000 applications ahead of those who want pensions on account of service in the Spanish war. If all those were adjudicated in the order filed, soldiers, widows and dependent relatives of this war would have a long time to wait. That is not probable, as Commissioner Evans will soon create a special division for the consideration of pension claims growing out of this war.

Cordial relations exist between the officers and soldiers of both armies at Santiago. Many Spanish and American officers have changed swords as remembrances of the campaign.

MAIN STREET OF DAWSON CITY AS IT LOOKS TO-DAY.

PREPARED FOR EMERGENCY.

Residents of St. Louis Not to Be Again Caught Napping.

St. Louis, Mo., is full of cyclone cellars. Nearly all of them have been built since that terrible May 27. One of them has existed longer than that. It is in the home of Mr. D. L. Parrish in Cabanne place. Mr. Parrish was caught in the collapse of the old Belvidere Hotel on Washington avenue. It was a never-to-be-forgotten experience, and when he began to build his home in Cabanne he made up his mind to provide against all emergencies. This is how he comes to have a cyclone cellar older than the cyclone.

While not a thing of beauty, Mr. Parrish's "hole in the ground" is one of comfort. It is as deep as the foundation of the house, and reared in the southwest corner of the cellar. Its walls are of stone, three and one-half feet thick. Heavy crossbeams form the roof of this safety house. Two windows open outwardly, one to the south, the other to the north. They were protected by iron gratings at first, but Mr. Parrish very wisely has taken these out, in order to facilitate egress, should such a necessity occur. A heavy oaken door that can be barred and locked makes the place burglar proof.

MR. PARRISH'S CYCLONE CELLAR.

The floor of this novel cyclone house is cemented and covered with a soft, warm carpet. A comfortable couch is fitted into one corner. In another are several massive shelves filled with provisions. These provisions are renewed every time the sky clouds up suspiciously. Mr. Parrish feels perfectly safe with his cyclone cellar.

"It is very comfortable, and I am sure if the entire house blew away my cellar room would be intact," says he. "You can lie on the couch and read about the war, if you like, while the storm is blowing outside. It is a protection for my wife and children while I am away, and I can bear the thought of another cyclone calamity better down town by knowing that they have a place of shelter. During the season following the cyclone an architect friend of mine had at one time eight plans of houses on his boards, every one of which called for a cyclone cellar to match mine."

VALUED AT A DOLLAR.

Jersey Jurist Who Holds That to Be All a Child Is Worth.

Justice Gummere, of the New Jersey Supreme Court, says that a child is worth only $1 to its parents. That is to say, the eminent justice holds in case of a damage suit brought for the loss of a child from any cause whatever the only just verdict would be one for nominal damages of $1. While this judgment may be revolting to certain sympathetic and sentimental natures, yet, says Justice Gummere, it is the law which the pudge must interpret justly. Justice Gummere explains the position he takes in a simple and interesting manner. A child, he says, is of no valghest salary ever paid to a clergyman in this country was $50,000, given by Henry Ward Beecher for one year to help him to defray the expenses of his famous Tilton-Beecher trial.

child the parents are not only not injured financially, but even benefited. The law cannot presume that the child will in the future become financially valuable to its parents. The law requires compensation for damages that are actual rather than potential. Thus, in the case of the loss of a non-producing child a merely nominal verdict of $1 would be all that Justice Gummere would hold. He illustrates the point with a simple example. A horse that can trot in 2:10 would, if lost, require a compensation equal to the price which the horse would bring in the market. On the other hand, a horse 25 years old loses very much of its value, and its owner would not secure damages above, perhaps $50. Sentiment has nothing whatever to do with the case. Justice Gummere has four children, boys and girls, and yet he does not value them, according to law, as being worth more than $4 for the lot. The justice is a tall, slender, imposing man with serious dark eyes and dark beard. He is accounted one of the finest jurists in New Jersey, and although disclaiming sentiment in his capacity as judge, his home life is that of a man of the highest civilization and of the most tender sympathies. A picture is given here of little Melville Graham, a child who was killed by the trolley cars, and who, Judge Gummere, of New Jersey says, was not worth the $5,000 a jury awarded.

EFFECT OF ALTITUDE.

Explanation of the Restorative Effect of Mountain Air.

The mountain air has the following effect: Suppose a weakly, or even a consumptive, patient goes up into the mountains. His badly nourished condition renders his tissues an easy prey to the microbes which have contrived to effect a lodgment under the insanitary conditions of his present life. But when he breathes an air less richly supplied with oxygen his blood is not able to absorb enough for its requirements; a "reaction" is set up; new corpuscles are formed, which gradually acquire the normal amount of haemoglobin, and thus a host of recruits is added to the pigmy carriers, the work of transference of oxygen is much more effectively performed and the result is the better nutrition of the body. It resists the assaults of the destructive microbes; they no longer increase and multiply, but dwindle—perhaps are slaughtered (for such things do occur) by the army of defense. When the patient descends to a lower altitude the red corpuscles decrease in number, but the good effects remain and the quality of the blood is now much more satisfactory than it was before the visit to the health resort.

Mountain sickness also is connected with the quantity of oxygen. This is due to asphyxia of the tissues, which are unable to obtain a sufficient supply (at a time, owing to muscular exertion it is most needed), in consequence of the diminution in amount of that element at considerable altitudes. This malady, no doubt, often comes from want of proper training, but even the most experienced climbers have felt it at great elevations. At the top of Mont Blanc almost half the atmosphere by weight lies below our feet, which, of course, implies a greatly diminished supply of oxygen. Mr. Whymper and his guides suffered severely when encamped at about 16,600 feet in the Andes, and Sir Martin Conway found in the Karakoram Himalayas the effect was always perceptible at this height, while at about 20,000 feet the lassitude and difficulty of breathing became painful. Thus, of oxygen, like of many other good things, one may have too much, as was already well known, but one may also have too little.—London Standard.

Not Flattering.

Some people have a faculty for taking off the edge of a neighbor's pleasure. A writer in the Temple Magazine lately gave a case in point. It happened to a doctor of divinity who was preaching some special sermons. He had scarcely got into the vestry after one of them, when in rushed a well-dressed man, who greeted him most effusively.

"Delighted to see you, doctor," he said. "You have given us a grand sermon. It has been a treat—a real inspiration to us all."

The doctor smiled and expressed his gratification, and the man left the vestry. No sooner was the door closed, however, than one of the deacons looked up and remarked:

"You must not take any notice of him, doctor; he's got softening of the brain."

The feelings of the doctor must have been akin to those of another minister who was preaching in Rochdale. The morning was fine, and the congregation large. At the foot of the pulpit stairs one of the officials met him.

"We've had a very large congregation this morning, Mr. Brown," remarked the preacher.

"Yes, sir," replied the guileless and outspoken brother, "a very fine congregation. You see, sir, we wasn't expecting you this morning."

He Was There.

Some visitors in Virginia hired an old negro on a plantation to drive them to see the Natural Bridge. So says the Toronto Saturday Night.

On nearing the bridge they asked the colored man its height and width, and if he really thought it such a wonder, after all. His replies were so vague that one of them said:

"Now, Sam, confess; you have never been so near the bridge before."

"Lord, suh!" he replied, "I 'member coming here to help de day dey lay de corner-ston'; but I ain't teck notice 'bout how high de bridge was built, nor how far 'cross 'twuz. Of co'se, I ain' come heah much sence; but dis nigger never goin' to forgit dat day."

Monster Sunfish.

A sunfish weighing 488 pounds was recently captured off the south side of Nantucket by a party of fishermen and brought into town, where it was placed on exhibition.

"It is a pretty name," the impressionable traveler murmured. "But, tell me, why do they call you Manita?" There was an arch smile on the savage maiden's face. "Evidently," she said, as she signaled to her brothers, who were concealed in the brush with clubs, "you did not know our favorite food."—Harlem Life.

BEAUTIFUL HOUSES.

The Tendency of the Age Is Toward Mural Decorations.

Probably at no time in the world's history has as much attention been paid to the interior decoration of homes as at present. No home, no matter how humble, is without its handiwork that helps to beautify the apartments and make the surroundings more cheerful. The taste of the American people has kept pace with the age, and almost every day brings forth something new in the way of a picture, a draping, a piece of furniture or other form of mural decoration. One of the latest of these has been given to the world by the celebrated artist, Muville, in a series of four handsome porcelain game plaques. Not for years has anything as handsome in this line been seen. The subjects represented by these plaques are American wild ducks, American pheasant, American quail and English snipe. They are handsome paintings and are especially designed for hanging on dining room walls, though their richness and beauty entitles them to a place in the parlor of any home. These original plaques have been purchased at a cost of $50,000 by J. C. Hubinger Bros. Co., manufacturers of the celebrated Elastic Starch, and in order to enable their numerous customers to become possessors of these handsome works of art they have had them reproduced by a special process, in all the rich colors and beauty of the original. They are finished on heavy cardboard, pressed and embossed in the shape of a plaque and trimmed with a heavy band of gold. They measure forty inches in circumference and contain no reading matter or advertisement whatever.

Until Sept. 1 Messrs. J. C. Hubinger Bros. Co., propose to distribute these plaques free to their customers. Every purchaser of three ten-cent packages of Elastic Starch, flatiron brand, manufactured by J. C. Hubinger Bros. Co., is entitled to receive one of these handsome plaques free from their grocer. Old and new customers alike are entitled to the benefits of this offer. These plaques will not be sent through the mail, the only way to obtain them being from your grocer. Every grocery store in the country has Elastic Starch for sale. It is the oldest and best laundry starch on the market and is the most perfect cold process starch ever invented. It is the only starch made by men who thoroughly understand the laundry business, and the only starch that will not injure the finest fabric. It has been the standard for a quarter of a century and as an evidence of how good it is twenty-two million packages were sold last year. Ask your dealer to show you the plaques and tell you about Elastic Starch. Accept no substitute. Bear in mind that this offer holds good a short time only and should be taken advantage of without delay.

A-Wheeling.

Have you never felt the fever of the twirling, whirling wheel,
Of the guiding and resisting of the shining cranks of steel?
Never felt your senses reel
In the glamour and the gladness of the misty morning sky,
As the white road rushes toward you, as the dew-bathed banks slip by,
And the larks are soaring high?

Never known the boundless buoyance of the billowy, breezy hills,
Or the pine scents all around you, and running, rippling rills,
Chasing memory of life's ills—
Dashing, flashing through the sunshine, by the windy wold and plain,
The distant blue heights luring, onward, upward to the strain
Of the whirring wheels' refrain.

Fled from prison, like a prisoner, sped the turning, spurning wheel,
Changed the city's stir and struggling, jar and vexing, none can heal.
For the peace the fields reveal.
And with spirit separate, straining above the town's low reach,
Found a tender satisfaction, which the steadfast summits teach?
In their silence—fullest speech.

Never known the wistful wand'ring back in pleasurable pain?
Met the kine, from milking sauntering to pastures sweet again,
Straggling up the wide-marged lane?
You have never felt the gladness nor the glory of the dream
That exalts, and tired eyes linger still on sunset, mead and stream?
Haste, then! Taste that bliss supreme.

Handshake of the Wheel.

The bicycle is responsible for a new salutation. From the wheel to ride has been evolved the wheel to shake. The new handshake is rotary, muscular and amusing; it is also growing popular. The bicycle handshake is here to stay.

The bicycle handshake is the natural offspring of a rotary mind busied twelve hours in the day with its own and other people's wheels. If men and women ride wheels and talk little else but wheels it is only natural that they should soon begin to think wheels, and thinking wheels makes the thinker look at life as a thing circular, speedy and puncturable. The bicycle face, the high and low-gear laugh, the puncture-proof self-assurance and the chainless conversational ability are part and parcel of the bicycle era. And now the bicycle handshake adds the final touch of refinement.

To ride on the saddle of conventionality you must grasp the right grip of a friend when you meet him or her, elevate your digital handlebar above your chin and push off into space with your hand and the hand of your friend in tandem, describing a 100-inch sprocket wheel in the air, while you indulge in verbal scorching about the weather--and wheels. In other words, you grasp the hand of your friend and attempt to wrest his arm out of its socket by making a human windmill of him. If you don't indulge in the bicycle handshake—well, you're not a wheelman, and that means social and business ostracism.—New York Journal.

Boys Built This Wheel.

Two boys of a small Ohio town have built a bicycle with saw and hammer. Willie Burchfield is 13 years old and Harry Wible 16. They secured two store boxes, took them apart and made the bicycle frame of wood. They found an old buggy wheel and used a part of it for handlebars. They fastened heavy rope around the wheels, which serves for tires. Instead of a bicycle chain, the lads found an old piece of leather and made a belt. They attached a brake to the machine and in lieu of a modern bell, screwed to the frame an old cowbell which they found. Old bolts and nuts served as axles and bearings. The bicycle doesn't look as handsome as a '98 model, but it runs all right. The frame is equipped with oil can and tools to keep it in repair.

Power Exerted on a Bicycle.

Some recent results of tests made by Prof. Carpenter of Cornell to determine the power required to drive bicycles may be of more interest to electrical engineers if reduced to their familiar unit of power, the watt, says the Electrical Engineer. These tests show that for a speed of five miles an hour on a good level road the rider works at the rate of about 19 watts, which is about one-third the power used in an ordinary 16-candle-power incandescent lamp. At ten miles an hour the power applied by the rider is about 30 watts, and for hard, continuous riding, 100; for a short period a good rider can work at the rate of about 250 watts. Every lighted incandescent lamp therefore consumes about the same amount of power as that developed by three bicycle riders under the ordinary conditions, while it is possible for a rider to expend about as much power as is required for about five of these lamps.—Philadelphia Record.

Woman Minister in Maine.

Mechanic Falls, Me., calls on those who do not believe a woman can preach and manage a parish to visit that town and attend the Universalist Church. At least, a correspondent extends such an invitation.

The regular army is made up of 25 per cent. of foreigners, while in the navy 52 per cent. of the petty officers and 42 per cent. of the seamen are foreign born. Forty per cent. of those who went down with the Maine were of this class.

A CHARGE AND A RETREAT.

One Experience of a Surgeon in the Turkish Army.

Old Mustapha Bey waved his sword and sang out to me to come along with them; so I forgot that I was a simple medical officer. I drove the spurs into my horse, and in half a minute I was riding alongside Czetwertinski in a wild charge against the flying Russians. * * * There was a large field of ripe maize on our right as we went down the hill, and I could see the Russians running through it as hard as their legs could carry them, believing, of course, that a strong body of cavalry was swooping down to cut off their retreat. * * * In a moment more the Russians suddenly faced around, and, recognizing that they were attacked by a mere handful of men, took up a formation and poured their fire into us in earnest. Hassan Labri Pasha, who was watching the whole thing, foresaw that our retreat was likely to be cut off, and he sounded the retreat. We wheeled our horses just in time, drove the spurs in and galloped back for our lives.

Probably no man except one who has been in a similar position can even faintly guess at the rapid change of feeling which comes over one at such a crisis. A few moments before, while we were galloping forward against the fugitives, I felt as brave as a lion; but when once I had turned my back to them and heard their bullets whistling round me, a mortal dread came over me, and if I had had a hundred millions in the bank I would have given it all to be a furlong further from the muzzles of those Russian rifles. It was every man for himself, of course, and we did not attempt to preserve any sort of formation. The instinct of a hunted animal flying for cover made me turn toward the maize field, and I galloped into the friendly shelter of the tall stems, bending my head low over my horse's neck and urging him forward with voice and spur. The maize was tall enough to conceal a horse and man completely, so that the Russians could not take aim at any individual mark, but they poured incessant volleys into the field, and many a bullet fired at random found its billet. As these hundreds of bullets cut off the maize stalks in all directions around me, I must confess that my previous recklessness had given place to a ghastly, overmastering terror. Wherever I turned danger was lying by my side, and I could only press blindly forward and hope for the best. A trooper close by me suddenly threw up his arms and seemed to spring several feet up from the saddle before he fell with a thud among the blood-soaked maize stalks. It occurred to me then that he must have been shot through the heart.—"Under the Red Crescent," by Dr. Charles S. Ryan.

NEW YORK'S STEADY GROWTH.

The City Has Never Halted Since It Was First Fairly Started.

The people of New York, Brooklyn, Staten Island and certain near-by northern towns resolved to join themselves together into one city, which is now the Greater New York. It embraces three hundred and forty-one square miles of territory, and includes a population of nearly three million four hundred thousand.

Besides these, at least another million people dwell on the New Jersey side of the Hudson river, quite as near and as closely identified with the great city on Manhattan Island as are those of the northern and eastern suburbs. This makes a population of nearly four and a half millions which may be said to belong to New York, making it not only by far the largest center of human life and interests in America, but, excepting only London, the most populous spot on the globe.

How has it happened that this vast city has grown up where it stands? Why did not the American metropolis arise somewhere else? Is its position all an accident, or does history show sound reasons for its situation? The earliest settlement here was merely a trading station that gradually became a small seaport, like a dozen others along the coast. Before the year 1700 these were so nearly alike that he would have been a wise prophet who truly foretold which would thrive. Indeed, many men of that day firmly believed that Newport and Annapolis were to be the two great American seaports.

Great cities arise at the points where the greatest number of people find it convenient to meet at first for business, and later for pleasure. You cannot force a city to grow in an unnatural or unsuitable situation; and it is no easier to prevent a city from growing in its proper place. But the conditions that change a village into a big town, and expand the town into a city or metropolis, are not the same in different parts of the globe, and vary with the march of the centuries; so that now many an ancient world-market, like Nineveh or Memphis, has totally disappeared; while towns like Berlin have lately increased with amazing rapidity, after a long history as small and insignificant places. As for New York, it has never halted nor gone backward for a moment since it was fairly started on its career in 1623.—St. Nicholas.

Lost His Life Saving Others.

A country boy visiting New York stopped a runaway team that was about to dash on the sidewalk where there were hundreds of women and children. He saved their lives, but lost his own. Hundreds of lives are saved every year by Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. People with disordered stomach, liver and bowels are brought back to good health by it.

Insect Horses and Their Riders.

At a recent meeting of the Entomological Society of Washington some specimens of chrysopa, a species of golden-eyed fly, which had been collected in the White Mountains, were exhibited as curiosities, because each carried on its back one or more minute cecidomylid flies. The opinion was expressed that this was a true case of a smaller species of insect using a larger species for the purposes of locomotion from place to place.

AIDED BY MRS. PINKHAM.

Mrs. W. E. Paxton, Youngtown, North Dakota, writes about her struggle to regain health after the birth of her little girl:

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—It is with pleasure that I add my testimony to your list, hoping that it may induce others to avail themselves of your valuable medicine.

"After the birth of my little girl, three years ago, my health was very poor. I had leucorrhœa badly, and a terrible bearing-down pain which gradually grew worse, until I could do no work. Also had headache nearly all the time, and dizzy feelings. Menstruations were very profuse, appearing every two weeks.

"I took medicine from a good doctor, but it seemed to do no good. I was becoming alarmed over my condition, when I read your advertisement in a paper. I sent at once for a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and after taking two-thirds of the bottle I felt so much better that I send for two more. After using three bottles I felt as strong and well as any one.

"I think it is the best medicine for female weakness ever advertised, and recommend it to every lady I meet suffering from this trouble."
